Allegheny West Lay Preachers' Congress

By car, by bus, by train, by plane they came by the hundreds to Cleveland, Ohio, for the epoch-making Lay Preachers' Congress held May 9-11. From the opening night to the close the superb preparation and planning for this congress by Samuel Thomas, lay activities secretary of the Allegheny West Conference, was very much in evidence. There was not a dull moment. The workshops, the personal experiences given by laymen, the powerful spiritual messages delivered, the unusual interest shown by the 2,000 laymen present in grasping new ideas in soul winning, the hundreds who solemnly pledged, under God, to witness in soul winning in 1969 made crystal clear that our laymen are ready to join the ministry in one gigantic effort by God's grace to finish the work.

The theme of the congress was "The Clarion Call to a Finished Work," and those in attendance were directed to the program for the conference Operation 1,009 in 1969, referring to the baptismal objective of 1,009 for this year.

About 3,000 were in attendance for the Sabbath morning services, which were moved to the auditorium of the Cory Methodist church just a few blocks from the Glenville church. Speaker for the Sabbath morning service was E. E. Cleveland, associate secretary of the Ministerial Association of the General Conference. Other guest speakers throughout the congress included Mrs. E. E. Cleveland; C. D. Brooks, ministerial secretary of South Atlantic Conference; and Richard Henderson, a lay preacher from Atlanta, Georgia. D. B. Simons, president of the Allegheny West Conference, the office staff, and workers gave unstinting support to the congress.

Following are interesting excerpts from some of the talks and sermons given at the convention:

"Sometimes the idea has prevailed that we need big-time preachers and that the members can sit. This is not God's plan. We believe every person born into the kingdom of God is born to be a missionary."—D. B. Simons, president of Allegheny West Conference.

"The world has tried communism. The world has tried socialism. The world has tried capitalism. The world now needs to try Adventism."

"We dare not continue business as usual. Time is not on our side."—W. W. Fordham, associate secretary, Regional Department, General Conference.

"If you live to be a thousand, it will never be right to tell a lie. It will never be right to commit adultery. God's law does not change."

"Christ didn't make us brothers. He made us of one blood. We don't become brothers until we are born into Christ's family."—C. D. Brooks, ministerial secretary, Columbia Union Conference.

"I believe every member of every church ought to do something every day for God."—Harold Wright, lay preacher, Germantown, Ohio.

"This meeting is dedicated to the proposition that you are the men and women to give the message."

J. C. Smith, Philadelphia North church pastor at that time, joined other men of his congregation in wearing the official welfare uniform.

The Philadelphia North Church Provides Inner-City Services

BELOW is a story in pictures concerning the activities of the Philadelphia North church in the community in recent months under the leadership of J. C. Smith, the pastor at that time. Elder Smith has since been transferred by the Allegheny East Conference to Baltimore, Maryland, where he is pastor at the Berea Temple.

A four-story building adjacent to the Philadelphia North church was purchased and the first floor and basement were remodeled to provide space for a health and welfare center.

Commissioner Kavanzo Hyde cuts the ribbon marking the opening of the welfare center.

Commissioner Kavanzo Hyde inspects welfare facilities. Others present include C. E. Guenther, associate secretary, General Conference Lay Activities Department; D. L. Davis, lay activities secretary, Allegheny East Conference; and W. A. Thompson, president, Allegheny East Conference.

"It is easy to do everything in the world, except to tell others what we know. A man will pay and pray, but when you send him out, he has nothing to say. This is our collective sin."

"The tarrying time' ended 1,900 years ago. Yesterday's orders were to 'Tarry', today's orders are to 'Go.'"

"You don't have to be fluent in English, French, or Swahili to be a lay worker. Go with what you have. God will speak through you."

"There is no future. You are in the future now."—E. E. Cleveland, associate ministerial secretary, General Conference.

The results of this great congress will indeed make an impact upon the Allegheny West Conference in hundreds being brought to the knowledge and acceptance of the third angel's message. The prospects of accomplishing the goal of 1,009 members in 1969 seems very bright.

News Notes

► A. C. HUMPHREY of Kansas City, Kansas, has been named Employee of the Year at the Shawnee Mission Hospital and Health Center. He was selected from the more than 550 hospital and health-center employees by the employees themselves. He is active in church affairs and is a member of the Bethel Seventh-day Adventist church in Kansas City, Kansas. Mr. Humphrey was recently honored as their Ingathering leader.

► J. L. BUTLER, former MV and educational leader of the Central States Conference, was granted an honorary high school diploma from Technical High School, Omaha, Nebraska. He had dropped out of high school after the tenth grade, but later took a high school equivalency test and subsequently earned his college degree. He received his Master's degree in educational psychology from Nebraska University on July 15. Brother Butler has been called to be chaplain at the Riverside Hospital in Nashville, Tennessee.

Black Culture-History Library Presented

At a special chapel service the Afro-American Club of Union College presented the school library with a $400 collection of books. The selections included up-to-date, hard-back volumes on African origins, the complex roots of American Negro culture, Negro art, music, poetry, sociology, education, biography, and carefully chosen commentaries on the present racial scene. The book project was planned and financed by students on the Lincoln campus with the support of interested black alumni. It was conceived of a desire of the black student to know more about himself, to end the quest of an identity lost or long undiscovered in a history of personal suppression. It is intended to make available to staff and fellow students material that, it is hoped, will lessen the distressing degree of naiveté concerning causes and implications of existing racial problems.

Floda Smith, college librarian, states that this is the largest single contribution of books to be received from a student or alumni group in the history of the college.

This presentation has been seen as significant by the college and the Lincoln community because on campuses throughout the country black students are demanding—here they are giving.

Testimony Countdown

WHAT is it about? Testimony Countdown was first introduced in the Takoma Park church in Takoma Park, Maryland, on Wednesday night,

D. A. Delafield speaking to the group gathered at the Takoma Park church during the Testimony Countdown series. The church was filled to capacity for ten consecutive Wednesday nights.

January 8, 1969. It is a study of the nine volumes of the Testimonies in a mass setting.

The program was directed by the staff of the White Estate for a period of ten consecutive Wednesday nights.

How was the interest? The church was packed each night with an average attendance of 1,500 people. Nothing like it had ever happened in the Washington area. It was a great revival, a new concept of a Spirit-filled church packed for prayer meeting.

The results were so overwhelming in spiritual enlightenment and edification that the General Conference has recommended that this new program, Testimony Countdown, be introduced in all of our churches in North America.

The conference will supply your pastor with the material when the time comes. We would urge you to plan to participate in this spiritually unique and interesting study by the Spirit of Prophecy Testimony Countdown. You will never regret it.

News Notes

► G. N. BANKS, regional secretary for the Pacific Union, was invited by the Hawaiian Mission administration to visit the islands and be the guest speaker for the Spring Emphasis Week for the young people at the Hawaiian Mission Academy in Honolulu. The second week in Hawaii was spent visiting the churches and schools of the outer islands of Hawaii. The islands of Kauai, Molokai, Maui, and the large island of Hawaii were visited in turn.

► HERMAN L. KIBBLE recently returned to his home church in Altadena, California, after completing his assignment at Andrews University. Elder Kibble received a Bachelor of Divinity degree on June 8. He is to be commended for completing this phase of training in his ministerial career. On June 15 the officers, members, and friends of the Altadena church engaged in a welcoming reception for Elder Kibble's return to his pastorate and a farewell and Thank you to Richard Simons for the services he rendered as interim pastor during Elder Kibble's absence.

► FRIENDS and well-wishers of R. Hope Robertson, pastor of the large Tamarind Avenue church in Compton, California, near Los Angeles, will be interested in the good news of his continued recovery. Elder Robertson was stricken with illness while visiting in the Caribbean area and is now recovering his health. He states that the doctor is well pleased with his progress, and that under medical assignment he engages in a walk of about a mile each day as a part of his activity build-up. He says that he feels fine and that from all indications his recovery will be satisfactory. His hope for the future is bright, but he would advise all of his ministerial brethren to find time to take good exercise as they carry out their ministerial responsibilities.

► NEW worker assignment—Lorenzo Paytee, former associate pastor of the University church, was recently called as an associate MV secretary in the Southern California Conference. However, a recent change has taken place, and Elder Paytee has now been asked to serve as minister to the inner city and health services secretary for the Southern California Conference. This post was first assigned to the late Jonathan W. Allison who, along with his wife, died in a tragic accident on May 9.

► DAVID TAYLOR, former pastor of the Vallejo Berea church, has been called to serve as an associate MV secretary for the Southeastern California Conference. Elder Taylor and family, at this writing, are in the process of moving to their new post of duty.

► CALVIN ROBINSON, associate pastor with Eric Ward in San Diego, will be moving in September to pastor the Fontana Juniper Avenue church.

► MILTON E. NEBBLETT, present pastor of the Fontana Juniper Avenue church, has been asked to direct a human relief program in Vietnam by the U.S. State Department for two years. Elder Nebblett feels that this is an opportunity to serve an urgent cause in the interest of the church's human uplift, and in the church's name render a service to the Government. He has requested a leave of absence for a two-year period to make this contribution in service.

South Atlantic Conference Ordinations

JUNE 14, 1969, was a joyous day for K. S. Smallwood and D. M. Jones and their families. These two successful young pastors were ordained to the gospel ministry. Elder Jones has been a fruitful soul winner. In his first tent effort last summer he baptized over 100 new members in Ocala, Florida. In his brief ministry God has given him over 500 baptisms.

K. S. Smallwood and D. M. Jones were ordained to the gospel ministry during camp meeting. Both have been fruitful soul winners.

The future is bright for these two alert and hard-working soul winners.

South Atlantic Reaches $30,000 Evangelism Offering Goal

SABBATH, June 21, 1969, was a God-blessed day at the South Atlantic Conference campgrounds at Hawthorne, Florida. This was the day of the $30,000 evangelism offering report. H. D. Singleton and W. W. Fordham of the General Conference Regional Department were present to witness this historic occasion. When the roll of churches was called and the figures tallied, we had gone past the $30,000 goal.

C. D. Henri and H. M. Mouzon, Sr., reported $3,350 for Atlanta Berean to lead the way in total raised. O. H. Paul, pastor of the West Palm Beach, Florida, district gave a report that thrilled the audience. His district with 337 members reported $2,336.50, a per capita of $7. This was the report that electrified all. R. L. Woodfork reported $2,090 for the Miami Bethany district. This was the third highest sum reported. Many districts were in the $1,000 to $1,500 range. This was total conference victory. All 100 churches took part in a remarkable way.

The conference workers decided in January, 1969, that this would be the year for an all-out effort to baptize 1,500 new members. Each worker signed a pledge card to make a personal, financial sacrifice before the plans were taken to the loyal laymen of the conference. The workers gave nearly $5,000 of this great offering. They led the way to total victory in this campaign.

Mrs. Ozell Bell, a layman from the Clearwater, Florida, district, gave $200 for the special offering. God inspired many other laymen to sacrifice $100 or more.

Already we have had one very successful lay evangelistic effort. Joseph Jackson and his crew of workers went to Griffin, Georgia, and in two months a new church was raised with 5 new members baptized on June 21, 1969, at the campground. A former dark county is now aflame for God. This group of workers are members of the Atlanta Berean church.

Our plans for the summer are to conduct 18 major efforts across the conference. In faith we move forward to the goal of 1,500 baptisms for 1969.

F. L. JONES

News Notes

► THE South Atlantic Conference has the distinction of being the first Regional conference to elect a director for the inner-city program. R. J. McKinney was called from the South Central Conference to head up this important program. Brother McKinney has had a real background in directing community services for the inner city. We congratulate the South Atlantic Conference for recognizing this great need and for the selection they have made.

Work for the Inner-City Need in the Seattle Center

N. A. LINDSAY, pastor of the Spruce Street church in Seattle, telling of their inner-city center, reports that 18 doctors and dentists in that area have offered voluntary service in the church's medical clinic. Two dental-supply houses are donating good used equipment. On the staff are six nurses, five medical corpsmen, five students from Walla Walla College, and one from Andrews University.

Fifty children are enrolled in a daily program consisting of field trips, crafts, films, swimming, and recreation. They are registered with the Red Cross and Disaster Committee to aid with mass feeding, first aid, and sleeping accommodations.

During the first three days of their operation they distributed 438 pieces of clothing and some groceries.

In the first week they helped a young man charged with three cases of armed robbery with the Black Panthers to be given a three-year deferred sentence in order that he might start a new life. He subsequently visited the church and has been assisting with the children and visiting camp meetings.

Elder Lindsay reports that the church membership is cooperating excellently in the entire program for the inner city.

Baptism at City Temple Church

SABBATH, April 26, marked a day of great rejoicing in the City Temple church of Detroit, Michigan, as 28 earnest candidates, including Harry Arthur Lindsey, 81-year-old father of the pastor, were baptized by Harold Lindsey.

Elder Lindsey, then pastor of the 1,200-member church, said he had prayed for 34 years to see his father follow Christ's call to membership in the Seventh-day Adventist Church. He described the occasion as the high point in his 28 years in the ministry. Relatives of the pastor visiting City Temple to witness the baptism included a brother, Harry Lindsey, and his wife, Tab, of Cassopolis, Michigan; a sister, Gladys, and her husband, Ira Everett, and their two children, Ira and Julius.

Bible Instructor Mrs. Nina Addison introduced the baptismal candidates by families and related the personal evangelism that led to each person's decision.

In September, 1967, Elder Lindsey arrived from California to assume his duties as pastor of the City Temple church. Seventy-three people were baptized during 1968, and Elder Lindsey seeks to baptize over 100 with God's blessing during 1969.

News Notes

C. E. BRADFORD, president of the Lake Region Conference, announces the following major changes and appointments: H. A. Lindsey, formerly of the City Temple church in De-

A group of workers who were invited to spend five days in a human relations workshop under the direction of the behavioral sciences department at Andrews University. The workshop was an experiment to discover whether or not a multiracial community could be built utilizing the techniques of the behavioral sciences department under the supervision of Dr. Charles C. Crider, chairman of the department, and his associates, with strong emphasis being placed on the role of Christian principles as outlined in the Bible and by E. G. White in the Spirit of Prophecy.

troit, succeeds Samuel Meyers as pastor at Shiloh in Chicago. Elder Meyers has accepted a call to the University Boulevard church in Los Angeles. To succeed Elder Lindsey in Detroit, J. R. Wagner of Denver, Colorado, has accepted the invitation of Lake Region Conference as pastor of City Temple. Richard Brown of the Independence Boulevard church in Chicago has been appointed the stewardship secretary of the conference.

Conference Session News

ON SUNDAY, April 20, the 362 delegates to the twelfth biennial session of the Lake Region Conference gathered at the new Shiloh church in Chicago to elect officers and departmental secretaries for the next biennium.

Following the devotional message by D. W. Hunter, associate secretary of the General Conference, F. W. Wernick, president of the Lake Union Conference, directed the election of the various committees.

C. E. Bradford and M. C. Van Putten were re-elected as president and secretary-treasurer respectively. All departmental secretaries were also re-elected.

During the past biennium the membership of the conference has grown to 8,000. The tithe for 1968 was nearly one million dollars.

Two new companies and two new church buildings were established during the past two years. All departments reported progress.

Home Study Institute Offers New Course in Science and the Bible

DR. HAROLD COFFIN of the Geoscience Institute is the author of Home Study Institute's newest course—Science and the Bible. The 18-lesson, three-hour college course is an up-to-the-minute, thorough study of creationism and evolution. More than a year of work has gone into the preparation of the course, and it promises to be one of the most useful and popular series of studies by correspondence offered through Home Study Institute.

Dr. Coffin, a leading expert in the Seventh-day Adventist Church in the field of creationism, has based the course on his latest book entitled, Creation—Accident or Design?, recently published by the Review and Herald Publishing Association. The new study includes Creation and the Flood, problems involving fossils, marine geology, glaciers, radioactive dating, a careful analysis of evolution as it is currently being taught, and a variety of other fascinating items. The course is designed not only for the college student who needs to fulfill science requirements, but it is also aimed at the minister, teacher, or alert church layman who wants a solid background in creationism.

It is evident that problems of creationism and evolution will be increasingly raised during the coming years. The administration of Home Study Institute strongly recommends the study of this course to anyone concerned about this area of Bible study. For more details and enrollment information write: Home Study Institute, Takoma Park, Washington, D.C. 20012.

Camp Meeting Ordinations

ONE of the high lights of the recent Southwest Region camp meeting was the ordination of three young men, Onnie Jackson, Carey McNorton, and R. E. Brown, to the gospel ministry. At this solemn ceremony C. H. Lauda of the General Conference delivered the sermon. The prayer of ordination was offered by V. W. Schoen of the General Conference. Cyril Miller of the Southwestern Union presented the charge and V. L. Roberts, Southwest Region conference president, extended a cordial welcome to the sacred office and responsibility of the ministry.

Onnie Jackson was born in Kansas City, Kansas. He served in the Marine Corps for three years and received his B.A. degree in the field of religion from Oakwood College in 1963. In 1967 Pastor Jackson received his M.A. degree from the University of Tulsa. He has served in the Fort Worth and Tulsa districts and is presently pastoring the Oklahon. City district. He is married to the former Grace DeLeCIA of New Orleans, Louisiana. She is a graduate of Oakwood College in the field of home economics. Mrs. Jackson is presently employed at the Star Spencer High School in Oklahoma City. The Jacksons have a son, Onnie III, and two daughters, Michelle and Renee.

Carey McNorton was born in Little Rock, Arkansas, and during World War II answered the call to colors by serving in the Navy. He heard the call of God through the third angel's message while living in Los Angeles, California, and journeyed to Oakwood College. In 1952 he received his B.A. degree in theology with a minor in elementary education. After graduation he returned to the Southwest and has subsequently labored in most of the major cities of the conference for the past 17 years. Like Peter of old, he has helped to mold the characters of numerous young people in the classroom and has fed the sheep of God as district pastor, pastor-teacher, Bible instructor, and associate evangelist. Elder McNorton is married to the former Charleste Johnson of Dayton, Ohio, who is an alumna of Oakwood College. God has blessed this couple with three lovely children: Carey Jonathan, Calvin, and Charita.

Rawdon Everette Brown is a native of New Haven, Connecticut. He attended Howard University in Washington, D.C., from 1955-1957 studying toward a degree in mechanical engineering. In the summer of 1958 in New Haven, Connecticut, he joined the Seventh-day Adventist Church. Heeding the call to the ministry he enrolled in Oakwood College and obtained his B.A. degree in religion and theology. In July of 1963 he was married to the former Mildred Williams of Austin, Texas, an Oakwood alumna. He received his M.A. degree in New Testament from Andrews University in 1964. Elder Brown has labored in Austin and Houston, Texas; Tulsa and Muskogee, Oklahoma; and Fort Worth, Texas. One of the joys of his ministry occurred during his first tent effort; not only were 32 souls baptized, but his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Brown, became members of the remnant church. Elder Brown presently pastors in the El Paso district. He and his wife are the proud parents of one son, Rawdon, Jr.

On the second Sabbath of the Southwest Region camp meeting, Hawkins, Texas, three young men were ordained to the gospel ministry. They were Onnie A. Jackson, Carey McNorton, and Rawdon E. Brown. It was a very impressive service. C. H. Lauda of the General Conference Association of Self-Supporting Institutions, delivered the sermon, V. W. Schoen, of the General Conference Lay Activities Department, offered the prayer of ordination, the charge was presented by C. Miller of the Southwestern Union. V. L. Roberts, conference president, extended a cordial welcome to the duties and responsibilities of the ministry. Pictured from left to right: V. L. Roberts, L. D. Henderson, conference treasurer; Pastor and Mrs. R. E. Brown, C. Miller, Pastor and Mrs. Onnie Jackson, Pastor and Mrs. Carey McNorton, V. W. Schoen, and C. H. Lauda.

Health and Welfare Van Dedicated

SUNDAY, JUNE 1, was an eventful day at the Southwest Region camp meeting in Hawkins, Texas. At the two o'clock hour the health and welfare van was dedicated. C. C. Weiss and V. W. Schoen represented the General Conference, G. M. Schram the union, and G. R. Earle was present from the Northeastern Conference. The forty-foot van is self-contained with several outstanding features: 7,500-kilowatt portable generator, hot and cold running water, air conditioning, Butane table-top stove (avocado green), refrigerator (avocado green), wall-to-wall carpet (in matching colors), storage space to clothe 400 average families.

The brethren of the conference and the health and welfare department are justifiably proud of this mobile unit, coupled with the acquisition of the health and welfare depot at the conference headquarters in Dallas. The van of the Southwest Region Conference joins the fleet of four others in the Southwestern Union that stand ready for action in times of distress and disaster to assist humanity.

W. C. JONES

Recently purchased health and welfare van of the Southwest Region Conference. Seated in front are health and welfare workers of the conference. The forty-foot van is self-contained.

Carlyle Skinner and wife are congratulated at his ordination by W. W. Fordham at the Bermuda Mission camp meeting. The ordination prayer was given by Robert Frame, associate secretary of the General Conference, left; and the sermon by W. W. Fordham, associate secretary of North American Regional Department. Elder Skinner was welcomed into the ministry by H. C. Currie, president of the Bermuda Mission (behind Mrs. Skinner); and the ministerial charge was given by F. R. Millard, president of Atlantic Union Conference.

Bermuda's 1,000 church members had their first joint camp meeting June 4-7. Principal speakers for the services were W. W. Fordham and R. R. Frame from the General Conference. Other enlightening messages were delivered by F. R. Millard, K. W. Tilghman, L. H. Davis, from Atlantic Union Conference, and H. C. Currie, president of the Bermuda Mission. Tremendous blessings were received during this spiritual feast. We thank God for the way He is blessing the work in Bermuda.

Hundreds gathered along the seashore and atop huge coral reefs to watch the fruition of six weeks of nightly meetings conducted by G. N. Wells receive the rite of baptism (below). One man who was in the valley of decision regarding baptism, was taking pictures of the beautiful setting and decided to be baptized as the pastors were leaving the water. From atop a coral reef, he dived into the water fully clothed and was baptized. The power of God was seen and felt.

Adventist King for Otun-Ekiti

RECENTLY a new Ore ["king"] was crowned in the Otun-Ekiti kingdom in the state of western Nigeria. The young man, elected from among the heirs to the throne and by the traditional kingmakers, representing approximately fifty subchiefs and 40,000 citizens in this kingdom, was a Seventh-day Adventist.

Oba (His Highness) M. A. Adopujo Aroyinkoyo, king of Otun-Ekiti (Habe-Ekiti), was educated in our Seventh-day Adventist schools. He was born into an Adventist home. He is a baptized member of the church; and when he was to be crowned as head of his people he made it very clear that he intended to remain a loyal member of the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

State officials wanted the coronation to be held on a Saturday, but the king-elect could not agree to this. It would violate the Lord's day, and so the coronation was held on a Friday.

The following Sabbath a thanksgiving service was conducted by Pastor D. K. Omoleye, mission president, and prayers were offered for the new ruler. The former king's many wives should according to tradition have been married to the new king, but he did not want this. He wanted to be faithful to the principles of the Bible and he is still loyal to his own wife.
