"Father, I do not ask
 That thou wouldst choose some other task,
 And make it mine. I pray
 But this; let every day
 Be moulded still
 By thine own hand; my will
 Be only thine, however deep
 I have to bend, my hand to keep.
 Let me not simply do, but be content,
 Sure that the little crosses each are sent,
 And no mistake can ever be
 With thine own hand to choose for me."

ADDRESS TO DELEGATES OF THE NORTH PACIFIC UNION CONFERENCE

Through the good providence of God, we are permitted to meet at this time in the first biennial session of the North Pacific Union Conference. Two years ago, in the spring of 1906, in the biennial session of the Pacific Union Conference held at Portland, Ore., February 15-25, it was decided that, considering the vast territory which that conference was occupying and the many interests which were springing up in all parts of the field which were demanding careful and thoughtful attention, it would be the part of wisdom to organize the northern part of the Pacific Union Conference, consisting of the States of Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana, the Canadian province of British Columbia, and the territories of Alaska and Hawaii, into a union conference. After considerable discussion, a resolution passed the conference to this effect, and subsequently this union conference was organized, taking the name of North Pacific Union Conference. It adopted a constitution, elected a full quota of officers, organized its several departments of work, and started out on its career as a union.

Possibly it would not be out of place to give here a list of the present officers of the Union, with its executive board, and also a list of departmental boards and institutional boards of such institutions as are controlled and operated by the Union Conference. The Union Conference officers are as follows:

President, W. B. White;
 Vice-president, Elder A. J. Breed;
 Secretary, A. G. Adams;
 Treasurer, C. H. Castle;
 Auditor and Home Missionary Secretary, A. G. Adams;
 General Canvassing Agent, Carl E. Weaks;
 Educational Secretary, Prof. M. E. Cady;
 Medical Secretary, Dr. J. E. Froom;
 Religious Liberty Secretary, Elder A. J. Breed.

The Union Conference Executive Committee is composed of the following named persons:

W. B. White, A. J. Breed, F. M. Burg, G. E. Langdon, F. S. Bunch, W. F. Martin, W. W. Steward, A. G. Adams, M. E. Cady, Dr. J. E. Froom, and Carl E. Weaks, making eleven members in all.

The Union Conference Educational

Board is composed of the following named persons:

M. E. Cady, J. M. Willoughby, Prof. R. W. Airey, W. F. Martin, and Miss Katherine Hale.

The Medical Board: J. E. Froom, W. B. Holden, W. R. Simmons, I. A. Dunlap, H. B. Farnsworth.

TERRITORIAL CHANGES

Since the organization of the Union two years ago there have been a few territorial changes in our Union Conference which I will mention. By the advice of the General Conference Committee at their spring council in Gland, Switzerland, it was recommended that a union conference be organized in Western Canada, embracing the British provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Assinaboine, Alberta, and British Columbia. At the General Conference Committee meeting above referred to, the North Pacific Union and the Northern Union were asked to release the territory held by our unions in Canada, that this field might be organized into a union conference. Subsequently at a meeting of our Union Conference Committee held at College Place, July 22, British Columbia was released from our Union, and is now no longer a part of the North Pacific Union Conference. We understand that in October a union conference was organized in Western Canada which took the name of the Western Canadian Union, of which British Columbia is now a part.

During the year 1906 the North Pacific Union appropriated to the British Columbia Conference the sum of $1,500 to assist in the work in that field, and during the year 1907, $1,200, or $100 per month. Our Union Conference regretted to lose this rapidly developing and enterprising province from our territory, but we wish them much success and prosperity in their new relation, and assure them that our best wishes and hearty co-operation will follow them in their work.

At the General Conference Committee meeting in Gland above referred to it was also voted that inasmuch as the Hawaiian Islands are not naturally connected with this field, after December 31, 1907, they become General Conference territory. At the close of 1907 this change became operative; so these islands of the Pacific are no longer territory of this Union. Elder C. D. M. Williams and wife for the past two years have been doing faithful work in the territory of Hawaii, and many new converts have been added to the faith, and a house of worship built in the city of Honolulu, which the believers in that city are now occupying. To the erection of this building our Union Conference donated $500. In relinquishing these islands and their work to the General Conference, we feel that we do so with a good steady work in progress and with the interest on the increase. The work in this field, which is of a very difficult character, certainly has our best wishes and our prayers for its success, and we shall ever feel much interest in the work of these islands. But though we have lost one conference and one mission field in these changes, we are glad to report that one new conference has been organized. During the summer of 1907 a new conference was organized in Southern Idaho, embracing that part of Idaho lying south of the forty-fifth parallel of latitude; also including four counties of Eastern Oregon, namely, Union, Wallowa, Baker, and Malheur. This conference at its annual camp-meeting, at Weiser, Idaho, in the fall of 1907, elected a full quota of officers, and has already been admitted to this Union. Its president in due time will make a full report of their work in that field, its present standing, and future prospects. We might add here that the North Pacific Union will still retain Alaska as a mission field, and its superintendent, Elder A. M. Dart, will make full report of the progress of the cause in that northern country.

CENTRAL OFFICE

During the year 1906 and winter of 1907 our Union Conference was temporarily located in the city of Spokane, but this location, while possibly quite central, territorially, was quite to one side considering our Sabbath-keeping population. The city is also one of the strongest union centers in the United States, and consequently labor is quite expensive. Considering also that frequent counsel could be had with less expense with leading men at College Place, that already being a center of our work, the Union Conference Committee, after carefully counseling with all the State conferences, decided to locate the central office permanently in Walla Walla City, which was done about the 15th of last May. Our office will be found on Main Street in the city, in Rooms 15 and 16 of the Die Brucke Building, and we hope all the delegates and visitors will call during the session. Our present location, while fair, is not all that could be desired. We speak now of our surroundings; and what arrangements can be made for the future of our office work, which now employs two regular workers and is occupied by four a part of the time, may be a matter for future consideration. Although this is the first biennial term of the North Pacific Union, the volume of business that has been transacted in our Union Conference office since its organization a year and ten months ago amounts to $87,690.77.

Since our organization some changes have also been made in our institutional work, especially in the Portland Sanitarium. At the biennial session of the Pacific Union Conference in the spring of 1906 at Portland, and just before the territory of the Pacific Union was divided and this Union, organized, it was recommended that a legal association be formed in this Union which would take over the stock of the Portland Sanitarium and Benevolent Association, which up to this time had been held by private stockholders. Subsequently a legal corporation was formed under the laws of the State of Oregon and a board of managers elected, the names of which are as follows:

W. B. White, H. W. Decker, A. J. Breed, W. R. Simmons, F. M. Burg, C. M. Christiansen, T. H. Starbuck.

This organization, after fully organizing its work, took over this stock of the Portland Sanitarium, about nine hundred shares of which it now holds; about one hundred shares being distributed among brethren and sisters of the Union. This institution is now owned and controlled by the Union Conference. Its present board of managers are as follows:

W. B. White, president; H. W. Decker; A. G. Adams; D. R. Nichols, secretary; and F. S. Bunch. Of its financial standing, patronage, and future prospects the superintendent and business manager will report at this session.

During the last two years quite a number of laborers have left our Union Conference to labor in fields outside our borders.

Elder F. D. Starr from the Upper Columbia Conference has taken the position of Bible instructor in Mount Vernon College, Ohio; Elder C. E. Ford, also from the Upper Columbia Conference, accepted a call to labor in the Southern California Conference; Elder W. A. Alway of the Southern Idaho Conference accepted the position as Bible instructor in the Minnesota Academy; Elder C. F. Knott, a German laborer of the Upper Columbia Conference, is now laboring with his people in New York City; Elder G. A. Snyder, formerly Bible instructor at Walla Walla College, is now laboring in the Northern California Conference; Elder H. C. J. Wollekar, a Danish worker from the Western Washington Conference, accepted a call from the Foreign Mission Board to labor in the Danish West Indies, and is now located at St. Thomas. Our prayers go with these workers as they have gone out to these several fields.

Our central training-school, Walla Walla College, has had a decided increase in patronage since the organization of the Union, and is at present crowded with students. The building up of seven intermediate schools in this territory, which are now in active operation, has only seemed to increase, rather than diminish, our attendance. We are very grateful for the splendid interest that is being taken in Christian education throughout the Union Conference, but of this and all other general educational matter the educational secretary will make full report.

In the spring of 1906, at the annual board meeting of Walla Walla College, a resolution was passed asking the Union Conference to devise and execute a plan to remove the heavy burden of debt of nearly $25,000 which for many years has been resting upon the school. In a later meeting of the Union Conference Committee this responsibility was accepted and a plan laid to free the college. It was decided that a quiet canvass be made throughout the Union for subscriptions to what would be known as the Walla Walla College Relief Fund, and that January 15 of this present year would be the date when we would endeavor to culminate the plan and cancel the financial obligations. About a year and a half this work has been going forward in a quiet way, and our brethren and sisters have nobly responded, and the results at present are as follows:

The whole amount of cash received up to date at the Union Conference office is $16,467.30. This has been applied on notes and the interest stopped. The crisis in the financial world in the early part of the winter has worked some harm to this plan, and some property which has been on the market for sale has not yet been sold, and many of our people have found it quite difficult to get hold of ready money. We were greatly disappointed in not being able to sing the song of jubilee January 15, but we do thank God for what has been done, and we shall greatly mistake the spirit of the brethren and sisters of this Union Conference if they do not now carry this work forward to complete success and finish the work so nobly begun and now so nearly completed. At this conference plans should be laid to finish this work as quickly as possible. God has helped us much in carrying forward this work. He has put it in the hearts of many of our people to give liberally, and we have abundant evidence that it is his desire that we move forward and roll back this cloud of debt which for so long has been pressing heavily upon this college, and we should never falter now till the work has been carried to a successful finish.

In connection with the raising of this large fund for the relief of the school, we are also glad to report that we are making good progress on the $150,000 fund. The apportionment for this Union Conference, not including British Columbia and Hawaii, was $12,179.42, apportioned between the conferences as follows:

*Upper Columbia -	$2876 51
Southern Idaho -	1308 01

Western Oregon -	3797 53
Western Washington -	3111 90
Montana -	1085 37

According to the last Review, there has been received at the General Conference treasury (January 23) on this fund from our Union $9786.19. Upper Columbia has a star opposite its name in the Review and Herald, and possibly other conferences are also clear that we do not know of at this time. We trust that the whole amount from this Union may soon be made up, also the remainder on Walla Walla College Relief, that we may turn our attention to other things. The raising of both of these funds along with our local enterprises has been somewhat of a lift for our Union Conference the last year and a half; but no complaint should be made, as giving is one of the blessed privileges of the gospel.

In this connection we wish to mention the North Pacific Union Gleaner, our Union Conference paper. It seems quite desirable that our Union should issue a paper that may be a channel of communication between the Union and the State conferences; but we are very sorry that it does not have a greater circulation, as its influence for good would be greatly increased if it could be more widely circulated. December 31, 1906, the Gleaner had 582 paying subscriptions; December 31, 1907, one year later, we had 431 subscriptions, a decrease in one year of 151 subscriptions. On account of this limited circulation the Gleaner met a loss during the last biennial period of $896.51. We are confident that if more attention could be given the paper by our State conference officers and laborers that the circulation could be greatly extended and its power for good increased. Should not plans to this end be set in operation for the next biennial term? Surely something will have to be done along this line if the Gleaner is to live and do the work that it should in the Union Conference.

It is not necessary for me in this report to speak for our State conferences, institutions, or departments of the Union, as their presidents, secretaries, superintendents, and managers will do this fully, so will only report in a general way that we believe the work throughout the Union is in a healthy condition. Faith and courage seem to be in the hearts of our people, and love and unity are in our border.

We could speak of many encouraging features which to us seem to speak well for the future, such as the rise in our educational work, the progress that is being made in our book work, and the growing interest in our periodical work; but we will leave these for others to report who have been more intimately connected with these several lines.

Some things are demanding the attention of this session of the Union Conference, and briefly we will outline them as we see them.

First, we would mention the fact that there should be a better understanding between the several conferences, the college, and the Union with reference to the support of the general educational work that is carried forward each year within our borders. During the past biennial term there has been some little friction on this question; not serious, we trust, but just enough to show us that a fault is existing somewhere. Possibly this can be attributed more to a lack of right system than from any desire on the part of any to evade responsibility or duty. Careful attention, we believe, should be given to this matter and some plan devised that will work more smoothly.

Again we might ask the question, What duty have we toward the aged and orphans who are dependent and who can not look to relatives for support, many of whom are to-day needing more comfortable care, and, on the part of the young, Christian education? What can be done to make the closing years of our entirely dependent and aged brethren and sisters more comfortable, whose sun of life is setting and whose race is nearly finished? and what can be done to instruct and lead fatherless and motherless boys and girls who are children of Sabbath-keeping parents to a life of usefulness? This is a live question and must have attention at our hands.

Again, the intermediate school question in our Union Conference is an important one and should have careful consideration. Already we have seven in operation in the several conferences. One more will be built next summer, and more are being called for. Is it best to increase the number of these schools at the present time? and if so, what grade of work shall this Union Conference recommend these schools to perform?

As a result of putting trained men at the head of the Union and State conferences in the canvassing work, we notice the last two years a remarkable rise in the sale of our subscription books, whose sale we trust will now rapidly increase each year. Why are these results seen? Evidently because we have trained men, who are leading out in the work and who are able to train others to enter the field.

But another line of missionary effort is being largely connected in our several conferences, namely, the regular circulation of our periodicals and the sale of our forty-per cent books, trade books, tracts, pamphlets, etc. Something is being done, but what might not be done had we trained men among our churches who would lead out in the sale and circulation of these smaller books, periodicals, and tracts, and interest others in the work? Should not the time soon come when our large and strong State conferences should employ trained labor who can go among our people in this work? Possibly it would be well to consider this question at this conference.

Another matter which it seems as though should have careful attention at this time is a plan on which possibly all the conferences could unite in the support of our church-schools throughout the Union. At present we have no Union Conference system on which all can unite and which all can advocate and promote. Each conference is carrying forward a plan of its own with some measure of success; but may not the time soon come when we can unite on some general plan and lift together? It seems as though if this result could be reached it would be much better than the plan now in operation.

These are a few of the matters that should come before this Union Conference at this session. Other issues, of course, will have to be considered which it is not necessary to speak of at this time.

The past two years have been encouraging ones to this field, and personally we can say that we have greatly enjoyed the work and much of the blessing and good Spirit of God. We trust that the Lord will greatly bless this present session, leading the mind of each delegate by his Holy Spirit and putting his seal to every action that may be taken.

W. B. White,
President.

MISSIONARY ADVANCES

With a most stirring missionary address Elder A. G. Daniells held the undivided attention of a very large congregation on Tuesday evening. Though the address covered almost an hour and a half, he had in that time traced our missionary effort through only the Western Hemisphere, leaving the story of the Eastern to be told on Wednesday evening.

He asserted that one can not now sail into any of the principal ports of the Western Hemisphere without finding at least a small company of Seventh-day Adventists. Many thrilling experiences from the mission fields were related.

One statement particularly worthy of notice was that while we expend about six hundred dollars for every convert made in the United States, in the various mission fields the sum is only ninety-nine dollars.

Elder Daniells said in part: "Seventh-day Adventists ought to be the most earnest missionary people on the face of the earth. The Seventh-day Adventist is made by the Third Angel's Message, and this message is the greatest missionary message in the world. Its extent is to be to every continent, to every land, to every nation, and to every tongue in the world." In speaking of the present extent of our work, and the open doors before us, he said: "We can not stop. There is no use thinking about it. I appeal to my brethren in the ministry and to the men connected with our institutions. We are not giving five cents a week yet for missions. This is not enough. I have an inexpressible desire to fire every heart here to-night in behalf of foreign missions. I do not try to cover it up; I am here to get recruits—men and money—for these needy fields."

In a twenty-minute talk to the students at chapel exercises Tuesday morning, February 4, Elder A. G. Daniells made some very interesting comparisons.

He began by saying that we all like to be connected with enterprises that are sure of success. What progress is the message making? Is it accomplishing that for which it was organized? Yes, indeed it is, and its progress is so rapid that we have to be on the alert constantly to keep up with it.

The speaker then gave some figures showing the work since he entered Battle Creek College in 1876.

MEMBERSHIP

1876	10,000
1907	100,000

TITHES

1876	$44,000
1907	$998,000

MISSION OFFERINGS

1876	$8,000
1907	$333,000

In 1876 we had two foreign missions, one in Switzerland, the other in Scandinavia; in 1907 we have missions established in nearly every country in the world. It now takes almost $1,000 a day to keep our missions going.

BOOK SALES

1877	$20,000
1906	$824,000
1907	more than $1,000,000

Elder Daniells then held in one hand a facsimile of the Review printed in 1849 and in the other our good Review of the present. In 1849 that infinitesimal paper was sent to 300 readers in a corner of the United States. The Review of 1908 goes to every country on the globe. Just recently there came to Elder Daniells' office in Washington, D. C. the 100th paper printed by this denomination, and all sprang from that little Review of 1849. In 1849 there were but fifty or sixty Seventh-day Adventists in all the world. In 1849 that little paper represented our printed literature, now we have 700 different tracts, pamphlets, and books printed in fifty-one languages.

We were then shown the first hymn book used by this people. It had for its title, Hymns for God's Peculiar People Who Keep the Commandments of God and Faith of Jesus. It was not difficult to imagine the sound of those soul-stirring Advent songs of the early days.

Truly we are identified with a movement that is "not a dead work, not standing still," but it "has vitality and victory and life in it."

WESTERN WASHINGTON
CANVASSERS' INSTITUTES

We are glad to announce definite plans for missionary canvassers' institute work the coming season: Meadow Glade, February 24 to March 14; Forest Home, March 16 to April 4. Past experience proves to us the value of studying plans together and havin a thorough drill on our truth-filled books.

We are glad to note the deep interest our young people take in the work, which is an omen of good.

The Lord's command is to go forward, and with Joshua and Caleb, can say we are well able to go up and possess the goodly land. We hope that many of our people will take advantage of the instruction given. Brother C. E. Weaks has promised to assist at least part of the time. Brethren, pray for the work.

C. L. Davis.

Professor E. A. Sutherland, president of Walla Walla College for the first five years of its existence, is attending the conference and visiting old friends.

We know that our readers will be pleased to know that Elder Burg is now in the wheel-chair stage and was able to be brought into the chapel meeting on Sabbath and to the entertainment in the evening.

Brother H. H. Hall, Missionary Agent for Pacific Press, is giving some good suggestions on "Revival of Missionary Work and How to Organize for It." It is hoped that plans may be laid to interest and enlist more of the rank and file of our people to take an active part in the spread of the message both in home and foreign fields.

The studies on church organization by Elder Daniells have been much appreciated by our brethren and sisters in attendance at the conference. The first two meetings were devoted to the consideration of God's plan of organization in the Old Testament, the third, the plan as set forth in the New Testament, and the fourth, a comparison of our own system of organization with that outlined in the Bible.

Elder R. A. Underwood gave a practical talk to the assembled students Wednesday morning. He told the young people that it is not wrong to have an ambition to be great if the desire is not coupled with a selfish motive. The desire to be God-like was implanted by the Creator in the hearts of our first parents, and Satan took advantage of this to lead them to do wrong that this might be realized. It is God's purpose to bring every child of his to this standard of Christ-likeness in spite of all past failure. To this end God wants us to develop every capacity. He will have the truest, greatest, cleanest set of men that the world has ever seen. Our young people must be trained by God. They must have in their very beings the culture of the Spirit.

Sunday morning at ten o'clock Elder Starbuck read a paper to a full chapel on the subject Marriage and Divorce. The subject was treated in a very able manner, and we hope steps will be taken to give it a wide circulation in published form.

A musical entertainment was given by the music department of the college Saturday evening, February 8, for the delegates, visitors and others.

Following is a list of the officers duly elected for the second biennial term of the North Pacific Union Conference:

President, W. B. White;

In a meeting of the Foreign Mission Band of Walla Walla College held in the gentlemen's parlor Monday evening, Elder A. G. Daniells addressed the assembled members and visitors substantially as follows:

We have reached a time when we are forced to look to our young people for recruits in our foreign fields. From the beginning our work has been for the Christian world as well as for the heathen world, and naturally as English-speaking people we began with those who spoke the English language even in other lands. But long since we have come to the point where all Christian countries have not only been entered by our message, but the work in these countries has now become self-supporting; and not only that, but those countries most of them have themselves become recruiting stations for the "regions beyond." For years we have been urging our way into the very heart of heathenism, and this brings us into contact with divers and strange tongues. These languages must be learned by our workers among these foreign people, and this fact makes the co-operation of our young people imperative. For a man fifty years of age to master an oriental language is a physical impossibility. A man of forty can never become fluent. The vocal organs have become too set to yield themselves to the subtle inflections of such languages as the Japanese, Chinese, Arabic, etc. And so our young men and women must come to the front and face this proposition.

But now as our great need of young workers is being pressed upon us, we find that the Lord is working upon the hearts of the young people to make themselves ready to respond to the call of the hour. The foreign mission work is the predominant idea. In all our training-schools Foreign Mission Bands are being organized for the study of the various fields to which they pledge themselves to go as the Lord shall open the way.

At this writing (Sunday afternoon) the North Pacific Union Conference is drawing to a close. The ten days have been packed full of interesting and instructive matter. No discouraging feature has come into the conference. A most harmonious spirit has prevailed, and the outlook for the coming biennial term holds much of promise.

Entered as second class matter, at the post office at Walla Walla, Washington, May 22, 1907, under act of Congress March 3, 1879.

A pleasant little incident occurred in the conference meeting Friday morning. The president of the Union announced that as the result of a little deliberation of the Executive Committee, the Union Conference was ready to turn over $4,000 of its surplus tithe to the General Conference for work in Regions Beyond. As Elder Daniells, as representative of the General Conference, began rising to express appreciation of the gift, he was asked to wait a moment, and the president of the Upper Columbia Conference stepped forward and stated that his conference had by action of the committee $4,000 to add to the contribution of the Union. Representatives from the Western Oregon and Western Washington Conferences stated that while because of circumstances they had as yet taken no action in the matter of their accumulated tithe, they expected to do so at the earliest opportunity. Elder Daniells then in a few feeling words thanked the brethren in behalf of those who are standing at the front in this battle for the Lord. This was truly a heart-warming occasion for all present.

At the afternoon session the Western Washington and Western Oregon Conferences came in with the offer of $2,000 and $1,000 respectively, making a total of $11,000 cash to cast into the furrow of the worlds great need of the closing gospel.
