Education for Service

VARIOUS motives are observable in youth's quest for education. Some of these are materialistic and directed perhaps toward immediate goals. Others may be more idealistic and lead toward more distant achievements. Still others speak of education for the sake of education. It is possible even that individuals find themselves in the way of education without any purpose appearing in their own minds. The Christian objective is service. He who has this before him embarks on a course of training not primarily with the thought in mind of a profession or a trade or any form of employment—even in the ministry—but he rather seeks by every opportunity to learn and equip himself in that way in which he can live most freely in service for others. He enriches his life so that, like his Master, he may be a source of the abundant life to others.

Outside of our Lord's ministry there is no more inspiring example of the life of service than that of the Apostle Paul. Providentially also, his education in childhood and youth prepared him for this boundless, tireless and versatile ministry. In his education and in his evangelism we find many valuable lessons. His education gave him an outstanding intellectual training, but also—and not least important—a manual trade. Of both he made free use in his Apostolate. His writings are replete with the profound teachings which God brought to his mind and through it to us. But while he preached, taught and wrote he fashioned the external aspects of his work to fit into the economic conditions of the rising church as well as into the social conditions of the world in which he labored. While he gives us definite instruction to the effect that the minister is entitled to support, he nevertheless found that he himself could labor more effectively by preserving his economic independence through the labor of his hands. Thus he was a self-supporting evangelist, and that was true self-supporting work.

In the book, "Acts of the Apostles," chapter 33, on "Laboring Under Difficulties," Sister E. G. White speaks at some length on the pattern of Paul's work. This entire chapter should be read by those young people who are weighing the question as to what purpose they should pursue in their schooling and especially by those who are looking definitely to the ministerial course of training. A few outstanding sentences may be quoted here. "Not all who feel that they have been called to preach, should be encouraged to throw themselves and their families at once upon the church for continuous financial support. There is danger that some of limited experience may be spoiled by flattery, and by unwise encouragement to expect full support independent of any serious effort on their part. The means dedicated to the extension of the work of God should not be consumed by men who desire to preach only that they may receive support, and thus gratify a selfish ambition for an easy life."

"Young men who desire to exercise their gifts in the work of the ministry, will find a helpful lesson in the example of Paul at Thessalonica, Corinth, Ephesus, and other places. Although an eloquent speaker, and chosen by God to do a special work, he was never above labor, nor did he ever weary of sacrificing for the cause he loved. . . . One of the greatest of human teachers, Paul cheerfully performed the lowliest as well as the highest duties. When in his service for the Master circumstances seemed to require it, he willingly labored at his trade. . . . Paul set an example against the sentiment, then gaining influence in the church, that the gospel could be proclaimed successfully only by those who were wholly freed from the necessity of physical toil. He illustrated in a practical way what might be done by consecrated laymen in many places where the people were unacquainted with the truths of the gospel."

"The Lord employs various instrumentalities for the accomplishment of His purpose; and while some with special talents are chosen to devote all their energies to the work of teaching and preaching the gospel, many others, upon whom human hands have never been laid in ordination, are called to act an important part in soul-saving."

From these lessons a few pointed conclusions may now be drawn. Genuine evangelism, of a public kind even, can be carried on outside of the scope

September 28 . . .

THE opening exercises of Walla Walla College, school year 1936-37, will be held Monday, September 28, 9:00 a. m.

After the customary brief exercises in the college chapel the work of registration will begin. Since all entrance examinations such as the English Placement Test, The College Aptitude Test, and examinations for advanced standing begin Monday, September 28, at 10:00 a. m., it is necessary especially for freshmen to be present on that date. I trust that every new student will be able to reach the College not later than Sunday evening, September 27.

New students should not fail to make the necessary application for admission to the College immediately. All transcripts should be on file in the registrar's office before the opening of school. This will simplify the registration of new students and will obviate many inconveniences and delays. It is in the best interest of every student to have all his records at the College before he arrives.

We can count on a large school so far as numbers are concerned. If every student will come with the avowed intention of improving himself intellectually, physically, and spiritually, we can count also on the best school year ever. A hearty welcome is extended to both old and new students.

of denominational employment. But the quality of such work as well as its results are quite as definitely related to the layworker's education and special training as it is in the case of the employed minister. It is obvious, furthermore, that an educated layman will be more able to preach than one who is not, for he will have materials at his disposal so that he will not need to consume an inordinate amount of time to make suitable preparation for public service. He will, in other words, be able to find the way of supporting himself by his trade without neglecting the preaching of the word to which he feels called. A lay preacher needs a solid theological course of training quite as much—if not more so—as an employed minister. On the other hand, those who seek training for the ministry should not think exclusively or even primarily of conference employment, but should rather look toward the service itself. While so doing they would be led to prepare themselves in such a way that their preaching would not be conditioned upon employment, but that they could earn their livelihood by their hands if need be, and thus create for themselves the free opportunity to preach the Gospel as Paul did. Such a one would not feel degraded if in the role of a lay preacher. He would on the contrary, rightly feel kinship with the Apostle Paul.

Such service, of course, requires the knowledge of some trade or profession, which cannot be learned in a haphazard way. Usually it demands more than just manual labor. Today definite courses in vocational training are found to be the most effective means of acquiring this knowledge. But such training must not be left to college years. Then it is almost too late. Parents (and it is their responsibility) should supply their children with opportunities to learn a trade while yet in the elementary school age. Then such work could be continued through the secondary school years, and when the youth—boy or girl—comes to college the vocational training has either been completed or has attained an advanced stage, as it should be at that time. If this is not the case, the college will do what it can to make up a deficiency. But parents should regard this aspect of their children's life as one of their very own provinces of direction.

Finally, I would emphasize the ideal of education for ministerial service as the highest motive of study, for then there can be no disappointment over lack of opportunity to preach. For such, as for Paul, there is opportunity everywhere, and always when the preparation has been made.

News Notes

ELDER J. W. TURNER and Professor H. S. Hanson went to Twin Falls the early part of the week on conference business.

Brother Lindquist and wife spent last week at Emmett, Idaho, assisting Brother Wagner in his meeting while Professor Berntson was at the Senior camp.

All our people who live near Baker should plan to attend the district meeting that will be held there September

4 to 6. The first meeting will be at eight o'clock Friday evening, and the meeting will close with the evening service Sunday.

We are very anxious that all our people take part in the Harvest Ingathering drive that will be put on in Idaho during the month of September. The various organizations will have many drives this fall. Our people should plan to finish their Harvest Ingathering work at an early date.

Brother Letcher Huntington writes from Richland that the effort is getting along nicely. He states that they expect a number to take their stand for the third angel's message.

Because of the heavy payroll, the Idaho Conference has a large financial program. We hope our people will be faithful in their tithe.

The executive committee of the conference was in session the early part of the week. Brother R. T. Emery and Professor Belleau were present from the Union to give counsel. The future work of the Gem State Academy came in for study.

Canvass for Children's Christmas Books Now

OTHER commercial firms are recruiting salesmen and saleswomen to take orders for Christmas cards, announcements, and other gifts, already. If the children of light are to be wiser than the children of this world, we better get into line. There are only three months left before December first. Now is the right time to begin to take orders for children's Christmas gift books. We have two kinds of books that we recommend to sell along this line. They are "Bible Pictures and Stories," a set of four books that retells Bible Stories from creation to and including the life of Christ. This set sells for $7.00. It is very easy to sell. It is so reasonably priced. Most people expect you to say the price is $15.00 and when they learn what it costs, they become over enthusiastic.

The second proposition is "Uncle Arthur's Bedtime Stories." There are now twelve volumes in paper that sell for $3.00. Bound in cloth $4.50. These books sell themselves. As you canvass them and unfold the prospectus showing the 12 beautiful covers, you will not fail to attract the admiration and enthusiasm of the mother and her children. You do not need to canvass hard and apply high pressure to sell these books. Even an unexperienced person can sell them. Just show the children (if they are about) the pictures and they will pester the mother until she has to buy them.

Now if any church member would like to canvass for one of the above propositions from now till Christmas, either full time, or part time, just write or contact me. There is only one colporteur in the Southern Idaho Conference at the present time so I will have ample time to start out any one who wants to canvass. I have had some special experiences in selling, particularly, "Bedtime Stories," both in this country and India and can say that I know of nothing easier to sell. Write for a canvass and a prospectus for one of the above propositions.

Idaho Senior Camp

WE are glad to report the results of the Senior Camp held at Cove, Oregon, August 18-24. The attendance was small, but all who attended feel that the profit and results are great. Our only regret is that many more of our young people were not privileged to come.

The Cove members supported the camp in a wonderful way. We trust that they feel well repaid for their efforts.

The Senior Camp idea is quite a new venture in the Northwest. We feel confident that it is a move in the right direction. Plans are now being discussed to hold a camp next summer, with all the M. V. officers present, and as many others as can arrange to attend.

On the last day of the camp, we witnessed a solemn baptismal service, when Professor Belleau baptized six young people and one adult in a beautiful fresh water pool.

ANOTHER year has rolled around, and again we are privileged to arise as one man in behalf of our ever-expanding mission program. Soon the Message will have been heralded in all the world. Let us work and give while the day lasts.

Will you be a Minute Man this year? Eleven dollars and eleven cents will support the world-wide work for one minute. All who hand in $11.11 will receive the beautiful minute-man pin. The pin has the picture of a sickle and a sheaf of grain, with the sentence, "Thrust in the sickle and reap."

ABOUT UBURN ACADEMY

THE kitchen has finished canning 120 No. 10 tins of lovely tomatoes, and 150 boxes of peaches fresh from Yakima are still to be canned.

The shop too is very busy with large orders that have recently come in. Such work as this has enabled more girls and boys to come to the Academy and work this summer.

The wood boys declare they have made approximately 100 cords in the past three weeks.

The chapel floor has been nicely sanded after long hours of hard work, but it certainly has improved its appearance.

Although we work, we have had some delightful times. Mr. and Mrs. Nichols took the girls to Green River Gorge recently, where we spent a delightful afternoon and evening. On Wednesday, August 26, the girls went to Lake Wilderness and spent the day, and of course the woodwork boys are anxiously waiting their turn.

We invite every boy and girl of academy age, in the Washington Conference, to come to Auburn. We can have a rich experience and pleasant associations in this school that trains for life.

Holcomb-Catlet

THE wedding of Lee R. Catlet and Violet Holcomb was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents in Granite Falls, Wash. Both these young people are attending the meetings here and have taken their stand for the third angel's message. We wish them Godspeed. They will make their home in Granite Falls.

Grandview Church School

THE good people in Grandview have realized the necessity of a church school building. Up to the present time their school has been conducted in the basement of the church, in close quarters and improperly lighted. There was very little room for play ground.

The church has secured an ideal location and gone out in faith to build a very neat, attractive, modern, two room stucco school. It has a four room basement apartment for the teacher. The apartment has built in features and is modern. The building is heated by furnace.

The school has been built entirely by donated labor from the church. These loyal men have left their work in the busiest season or hired some one to take their place to work on the building—at first one day a week, and later two days each week. At times special drives were made, such as shingling, when sixteen men and ten women were out. The women lathed the basement apartment and part of the school rooms. They also furnished lunches. Some of the good brethren from nearby churches have given their time also.

Besides giving their time they have given of their means, so the building will be paid for. The Lord opened the way as they made the purchases. The lumber yards were liberal in giving special prices. Surely the Lord leads out in His work and is good to us.

Mount Ellis Academy

ALREADY responses are coming in answer to the needs of the young people. One brother has offered to put a student in school this year. One sister, reading the last call for means said at once, "I'd like to give $10 to help pay on some student." I am hoping that the next few weeks will bring many such investments. Scarcely are the new announcements out and I am receiving letters from students. I like these letters.

Mrs. Robert White, our good matron, assisted by a real cook, Claudia Woods, senior, is canning 1500 quarts of vegetables, and I cannot say yet how much fruit for hungry young vegetarians this winter. Professor White is back and this week the new smoke stack goes up. In another week, cleaning, repairs, and beauty touches will begin to appear in lieu of the home-coming of Mt. Ellis boys and girls. We have 150 pounds of calamine and about 30 gallons of interior paint and varnish, 14 new mattress covers, 10 new window shades. Doesn't this all sound inviting?

Did you get the new announcements, young people? If you have been slighted, let me know at once. You see, I don't know all your names yet.

Parents, did you read the article in the August 13 Review and Herald by W. H. Teasdale entitled "Dangers in Education"? If not, please read it. I am not going to call attention to any statement in this article because I want you to read it entire. And brethren, have you read these statements lately?—

"Who can determine which one of a family will prove efficient in the work of God? There should be general education of all its members, and all our youth should be permitted to have the blessings and privileges of an education at our schools, that they may be inspired to become laborers together with God."

"Some would be content with the thorough education of a few of the most promising of our youth; but they all need an education that they may be fitted for usefulness in this life, qualified for places of responsibility in both private and public life."—"Testimonies," Vol. VI, pp. 206, 207.

Miss Isabel Zumwalt, of Walla Walla College, is connecting with our academy as preceptress and French teacher. German will also be offered this year. Typing and biology, music and public speaking will be taught. We shall have an orchestra. Bring your instruments. Miss Evelyn Isaac a very successful teacher, will have charge of the church school.

Needs

Besides the need of student funds, and repair expenses, our school needs industries so that all these young people who want to work will have plenty of work to do! But it takes money to install industries. Brother, are you prepared to offer funds or equipment? And furthermore, do you know that Mt. Ellis Academy has only three cows and not one chicken! We must buy milk, butter, eggs. We want some good milk cows and some good laying hens. This is where some prosperous farmer can help us out! And how grateful we shall be!

Best of all, we want fine young people who will justify the investment. Montana has them. Let us bring them to our school!

Camp Meeting

"THIS is the best camp meeting we ever attended" was the testimony heard on every side as the ten days of spiritual feasting drew to a close. It was also the largest gathering of any encampment held in the Oregon Conference. There were 700 tents and cabins on the grounds. The week-end attendance was over 6,000. It took much planning and hard work to get ready for such a gathering. The labors of Elder Neff and the men associated with him in preparing the camp were deeply appreciated. Everything possible was done to make all comfortable.

The large numbers at the early morning meetings and the earnest testimonies given revealed the true desire of our people as they sought the Lord together. Higher ground experiences were sought and attained, victories were gained. A deep conviction settled upon the encampment that we are nearing the end of this world of sin—nearing the heavenly home.

The ministry of the visiting foreign missionaries, Elders Mershon, Abel, and Hayden were deeply appreciated. As they pictured to us the fruitage of the missionaries' labors, we knew our giving had not been in vain. An offering of nearly $3,000 was given through the Sabbath schools and the special call for missions.

The sermons by Elder L. H. Christian who has spent so many years in the leadership of our work in Europe, deeply stirred the thousands who heard him. As he recounted the loyalty of our people under such dire persecution, and the great advancement the message is making, we could but "thank God and take courage."

The ministry of Elder A. W. Peterson of Washington, D. C., was especially helpful to the youth and the juniors. Elder and Mrs. E. E. Andross of the General Conference spent a couple of days with us and their stories of victory for the threefold message in Central America were thrilling. The German speaking believers were favored in having Elder Grauer with them. His labors of love were a benediction.

On the last Sabbath there were fifty-six who covenanted with God by baptism to live their lives for Jesus and His truth. May their courage and faith never falter.

The daily papers gave considerable space to the publicity of the camp meeting. About 200 inches of news of our local and world-wide work was printed.

That Annual Junior Sing was a delight. To see and hear 750 enthusiastic Juniors you could not help but think, "What possibilities for God's cause."

As we meditate upon the great meeting which is now history, we visualize the labors of love, the victories gained, the determinations made, the earnest prayers offered. As the closing song was sung, "God be with you till we meet again," we thought of next year, and then we sang, "Till we meet at Jesus feet." May God keep us ready to meet Him when He appears.

Laurelwood Academy

SEPTEMBER 21 is the opening day of school at Laurelwood Academy. It would be well for those coming from a distance to arrive here Sunday evening, September 20. All indications point forward to a very large enrollment.

Our new boiler has been installed in the power house, and the steam lines have been reinsulated. The dormitory rooms are being renovated, repaired, and calcimined where needed; new supplies are being ordered for the kitchen and dining room; and new library tables will be in.

A number of students who have been faithful in their work during the summer are leaving for a few days vacation at home before school starts and they have to take up the school duties of another year. Other students are coming in and taking their places, so our work program is progressing nicely and we hope September the 21st will find the earnest, ambitious young people of the Oregon Conference nicely located at Laurelwood Academy for a year of hard work, study, and enjoyment.

We solicit the cooperation and interest of the patrons of the school to see that all the old accounts which they may have are cared for and to see that your boy or girl starts out the new school year with every advantage.

In order to fulfill the mission of Christian education, Laurelwood Academy endeavors to surround the students with an atmosphere that will inspire them to earnest work and arouse them to the possibilities of Christian service. The object sought is the development of a symmetrical Christian character. We desire to cultivate in the minds of the students a reverence for the Word of God, confidence in its teachings, and a desire to practice its principles.

We solicit the support and prayers of our earnest fathers and mothers of the Oregon conference that this year may prove a successful one in the development of Christian characters in the young people who attend Laurelwood Academy this coming school year.

H. R. MILLER, Principal.

Portland Junior Academy

SCHOOL at Portland Junior Academy will begin Tuesday, September 8. We have an efficient corps of Christian teachers, a fine commodious building, ample playgrounds, and very reasonable tuition rates. We are planning for the best year in the history of the school. Now as never before we need to make use of the means God has established among us to preserve the greatest heritage we have,—our children.

As parents we need to think of the meaningful words of the editor of the World's Work Magazine. He said, "Education without religion is like a high powered automobile minus steering wheel and brakes running wildly down a crowded thoroughfare."

We have room at Portland Junior Academy for many more. Grades from one to ten inclusive are taught. We want to help you train your boys and girls for God. If you live in or near Portland and are interested, won't you get in touch with one of the pastors or the writer.

The Opening of Schools

WITHIN a few days there will be many of our youth finding their place either in the church school, academy, or college. These days before the opening of school are important ones in laying the final plans for this another school year.

Just recently I sent out word to the chairmen of the church school boards, asking that real definite promotion be made before the opening of school. No doubt this work has been carried on during the summer, but it will bear reemphasizing at this time. Not only will our church leaders present this but I trust that every father and mother who has children who should be in a church school this fall will make definite plans to that end. Especially should this be true where we have established schools.

This year should be the best year we have ever enjoyed in our educational work. The very times in which we live demand this, and so, as fathers and mothers and every one interested in the youth, let us resolve to make this coming school year the very best possible.

H. C. KLEMENT,
Educational Superintendent.

A Divine Plan

FOUR years before the Harvest Ingathering work was started, God sent messages to His people, encouraging them to solicit funds from the world. In the Southern Watchman, of March 15, 1904, Mrs. E. G. White wrote: "Some may question the propriety of receiving gifts from unbelievers. Let such ask themselves: 'Who is the real owner of our world? To whom belong its houses and lands, and its treasures of gold and silver?' God has an abundance in our world, and He has placed His goods in the hands of all, both the obedient and the disobedient. He is ready to move upon the hearts of worldly men, even idolaters, to give of their abundance for the support of His work; and He will do this as soon as His people learn to approach these men wisely and to call their attention to that which it is their privilege to do. If the needs of the Lord's work were set forth in a proper light before those who have means and influence, these men might do much to advance the cause of present truth. God's people have lost many privileges of which they could have taken advantage, had they not chosen to stand independent of the world."

"The Lord has placed His goods in the hands of unbelievers as well as believers; all may return to Him His own for the doing of the work that must be done for a fallen world. As long as we are in this world, as long as the Spirit of God strives with the children of men, so long are we to receive favors as well as to impart them. We are to give to the world the light of truth, as revealed in the Scriptures; and we are to receive from the world that which God moves upon them to give in behalf of His cause."

"The Lord's work might receive far greater favors than it is now receiving, if we would approach men in wisdom, acquainting them with the work, and giving them an opportunity of doing that which it is our privilege to induce them to do for its advancement. If we, as God's servants, would take a wise and prudent course, His good hand would prosper us in our efforts."

"Men of prayer should be men of action. Those who are ready and willing, will find ways and means of working. Nehemiah did depend upon uncertainties. The means which he lacked he solicited from those who were able to bestow."

"There is need of Nehemiahs in the church today,—not men who can pray and preach only, but men whose prayers and sermons are braced with firm and eager purpose."—Southern Watchman, March 29, 1904.

Through the effort of a layman in the fall of 1908, this enterprise was launched, and has been carried forward since with increasing success. In 1914, the "Harvest Ingathering Campaign for Missions" was definitely named by the same author, and encouragement and instruction were given regarding it as follows, "One of the new plans for reaching unbelievers is the Harvest Ingathering campaign for missions. In many places during the past few years, this has proved a success, bringing blessing to many, and increasing the flow of means into the mission treasury. As those not of our faith have been made acquainted with the progress of the third angel's message in heathen lands, their sympathies have been aroused, and some have sought to learn more of the truth that has such power to transform hearts and lives. Men and women of all classes have been reached, and the name of God has been glorified."

"To all who are about to take up special missionary work with the paper prepared for use in the Harvest Ingathering campaign, I would say: Be diligent in your efforts; live under the guidance of the Holy Spirit. Add daily to your Christian experience. Let those who have special aptitude, work for unbelievers in the high places as well as in the low places of life. Search diligently for perishing souls. Oh, think of the yearning desire Christ has to bring to His fold again those who have gone astray! Watch for souls as they that must give an account. In your church and neighborhood missionary work, let your light shine forth in such clear, steady rays that no man can stand up in the judgment, and say, 'Why did you not tell me about this truth? Why did you not care for my soul?' Then let us be diligent in the distribution of literature that has been carefully prepared for use among those not of our faith. Let us make the most of every opportunity to arrest the attention of unbelievers. Let us put literature into every hand that will receive it."

"In following any plan that may be set in operation for carrying to others a knowledge of present truth, and of the marvelous providences connected with the advancing cause, let us first consecrate ourselves fully to Him whose cause we wish to exalt. Let us also pray earnestly in behalf of those whom we expect to visit, by living faith bringing them, one by one, into the presence of God."

These quotations and others may be found in "Christian Service," page 167 to 177, and should be studied anew as we begin this campaign for 1936.

Obituaries

Christensen.—Axel Christian Immanuel Christensen was born in Horsens, Denmark, Nov. 18, 1859, and died in Portland, Ore., July 6, 1936. He came to America about 1883. Some years later in Council Bluffs, Iowa, he met and married Hansine Holm, who, greatly afflicted, survives him. They came soon after to Portland, Ore. Both Brother and Sister Christensen accepted the truth about thirty years ago, holding their membership in the Portland Central church. Brother Christensen was treasurer of the Board of Deacons for over twenty-six years. He was a godly man. He loved his church. He was loyal and faithful in all his church relationships. After four years his pastor, and many years a close personal friend, the writer can testify that he was a prince among men. The writer was assisted in the funeral service by Elder Tucker, his pastor. We laid him away to await the call of the Life-giver. A. R. Bell.

Coiner.—Ruth Faudree-Coiner was born Sept. 8, 1883 in Illinois, and died at Yakima, Wash., Aug. 6 1936. She is survived by her husband, Mart Coiner; eight children; six grandchildren; three brothers; and her mother, Mrs. George Faudree of Ellensburg, Wash. Funeral services were conducted by the writer at Cle Elum, Wash., and interment was made in the cemetery there. A. G. Emmer.

Gregg.—Robert Sidney Gregg was born July 18, 1924 at Sidney, Mont., and passed away August 7, 1936, while bathing in the Missouri River near McCone City, Mont. The body was not recovered. He leaves to mourn their loss, his father and mother, four sisters and two brothers. Robert was a staunch Christian, loyal to God and the Bible truths that he knew. He especially believed in keeping the commandments of God and ordered his life to do so. Our hearts are sad yet we are not without hope. God has promised us a resurrection day when the dead in Christ shall rise first, and worldly conditions tell us that that day is near at hand. Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Gregg.

Walters.—Hanna G. Schultz was born Oct. 11, 1883 at Kansas City, Mo., and was married to James Walters in 1883. To this union eight children were born, seven of whom are left with the father to mourn their loss. Sister Walters was a devoted Christian, uniting with the Seventh-day Adventist church in her early life and remaining faithful to the end. The family moved to Oregon in 1893 settling near Gaston where they have since resided. Words of comfort were spoken by the writer assisted by Elder W. T. Hilgert. R. W. Airey.

Union Office Notes

ELDER AND MRS. E. K. SLADE returned Friday from a few weeks vacation at the Rest Haven Sanitarium. They are feeling rested and much improved in health.

Elder D. A. Lower and Prof. H. C. Klement were both callers at the Union office the past week.

Ingathering Is On

INGATHERING is on in earnest in our union. Every conference is determined to raise its goal as rapidly as possible.

We are glad to welcome Elder W. H. Bergherm of the General Conference Home Missionary Department to our union for a series of workers' meetings and district meetings.

Friday, August 28, a workers' meeting was held in Bozeman, Montana, followed by a district meeting in Bozeman over the week-end. Wednesday, September 2, a workers' meeting will be held in Spokane, following the Upper Columbia Conference constituency meeting. Thursday, September 3, a meeting will be held in Caldwell with the Idaho Conference workers, and Monday, September 7, there will be a meeting in Seattle with the Washington workers. A series of meetings will be held in Oregon, ending at Medford on September 12.

We are indeed happy to have Elder Bergherm here for these important meetings. We know they will help us reach our aim:

Ingathering out of the way,
Victory by election day.

L. E. ESTEB.

Youth's Congress, June 1937

THE North Pacific Union Conference Committee have voted that we could have another youth's congress, in June of 1937. I am sure that the young people in our Union will be happy to hear this news.

This congress will be held in Gladstone Park, Gladstone, Oregon. The Oregon Conference owns this historic camp, and as it is only twelve miles from Portland it is an ideal spot to hold our congress. The large auditorium will seat nearly three thousand, then there is the Missionary Volunteer and the Junior Log Tabernacle that will each hold nearly a thousand. The park is fenced, and the Oregon Conference is prepared to pitch all their tents. The cafeteria will hold over five hundred diners at a time, and that will meet our needs.

We are passing on the information at this time, so that our youth will start planning on being there. The total cost for the four days will be $5.00. That includes room and meals. There will be no other charges. Each will have to look after his own transportation.

We are not prepared now to give the dates, but no doubt the Congress will be held after the middle of June.

Start saving your money now, and meet two thousand more of our youth. From time to time we will put articles in the GLEANER about the Congress.

GEO. S. BELLEAU.

"Those who are truly converted must become more and more intelligent in their understanding of the Scriptures, that they may be able to speak words of light and salvation to those who are in darkness and perishing in their sins."
