COLLEGE PLACE, WASHINGTON, JULY 12, 1949

The C.M.E. and the Denomination

The School of Medicine of the College of Medical Evangelists is one of seventy-one fully approved schools of medicine in the United States. Many of these schools of medicine are supported by the taxpayers of the states in which they are located. Others are supported by large endowment funds and privately-controlled foundations.

Medical education is very expensive. This is due to the extensive background of scientific training that must serve as a foundation for the handling of the many perplexing forms of disease, and also to the large amount of individual and small-group teaching by which the skill of an experienced physician is passed on to the medical student. Scientific physicians are not developed by mass production methods. The process of training physicians is laborious, time-consuming, and costly.

It is a considerable undertaking for our denomination to maintain a School of Medicine. As is the case with all approved schools of medicine, the income from tuition offsets only a fraction of the total cost of operation. Our tuition rates have been increased as much as is consistent with the ability of our students and their sponsors to pay. Our tuition is even high as compared with other schools of medicine. The recent percentage increase in operating costs has far exceeded the increase in our income from tuition.

We have recently expanded our student enrollment to ninety-six students in each freshman medical class. In terms of freshman enrollment, we are now the largest School of Medicine in the West. In spite of the increased enrollment, however, our costs of operating are about four times as great as the amount of the tuition income. This is the basis on which an appeal is being made to our denominational constituency in the form of a C.M.E. offering day.

The School of Medicine of the College of Medical Evangelists has now been in operation for approximately forty years. During this time, more than twenty-two hundred Adventist physicians have been trained. It is from this group that our foreign medical missionaries have been selected. It is from this group that the physicians have been chosen to staff our hospitals and sanitariums in the United States. Practically all of our full-time faculty members in the School of Medicine have come from this group of alumni. Also, many are engaged in self-supporting work and are maintaining such affiliations with our church and conference organizations as to contribute by precept, influence, and funds to the furtherance of the gospel program.

There is an ever increasing demand for the service of consecrated Christian physicians. Our Alumni Office now has on file more than two thousand listings of location in various parts of the United States and the world at large, in which the services of Adventist physicians are requested.

Many of the youth of our denomination are looking forward to the possibility of a medical training. Just now there is a larger number of Seventh-day Adventist students making application for medical training than can be accommodated in the School of Medicine. This situation is the obvious result of the increased number of college students who have taken advantage of educational benefits offered to veterans. The faculty of the College of Medical Evangelists will continue to do its best to offer a Christian medical training to the largest possible number of Adventist youth.

Schools of medicine operate five and a half days per week. Other schools than that of the College of Medical Evangelists schedule regular class laboratory assignments until noon on the Sabbath. In view of the large number of applicants to all schools of medicine, most schools do not care to be "bothered" with students who request exemption from classes on the Sabbath. Thus the School of Medicine of the College of Medical Evangelists is now the only school of medicine to which an Adventist student can look with assurance of freedom from class assignments on the Sabbath. It is therefore the more necessary that the denomination carefully sustain its own School of Medicine.

Seventh-day Adventist physicians throughout the world have exerted a tremendous influence in furthering the spread of the gospel. Personal contacts made by these physicians have already resulted in a harvest of souls. The denomination needs an even stronger program of medical missionary enterprise. The youth of our denomination deserve a continued opportunity for medical training. The denomination needs the College of Medical Evangelists, and the College of Medical Evangelists must have the hearty and liberal support of our constituency. Your generous help next August 13, (C.M.E. Offering Day) will be a means of insuring the continued success of our denominational School of Medicine.

HAROLD SHRYOCK, M. D.

Ingathering—Curacao Mission

In America we are not ahead of the Curacao Mission in Ingathering. While working in the States I used to raise 75 per cent or more of the Ingathering in my district of churches, together with a member of each town who was well acquainted. Consequently I'd feel fortunate to get a few of my churches to reach the minute man goal. In this mission land the members will not wait for the minister to go Ingathering with them. They go alone. They comb the territory—business places and homes alike. You wouldn't expect it from the mission field, when the Ingathering at home is for the benefit of missions. We appreciate the help in these needy fields. Nevertheless, the Curacao Mission is not a mere receiver, but last year we actually gathered for Ingathering $8,290 from our own territory. Our territory consists of three small Dutch islands in the Carribean Sea with a population of about 110,000. We were nearly a two-minute-man mission. One church was nearly a three minute-man church.

Right now we are again in the midst of the annual campaign. This year we expect to become more than a two minute-man mission by raising the equivalent of $11,000 in U. S. currency.

How do we do it? It is the natural outcome of united co-operative churches in which practically every member has an active part in missionary calls and solicitation. The workers gather only a small percentage. This entire church participation makes it easy for all and glorious are the achievements. All share the blessings of Ingathering.

Our native believers will help support the cause in whatever opportunity presents itself. They are too poor to help much from their own income, but they are not idle in getting more elsewhere at Ingathering time.

At the end of the third quarter our own Inter-American Division is to benefit from the 13th Sabbath offering overflow. In this field our people, many of them drawn from large areas of Catholic fanaticism, have demonstrated that they deserve a generous bountiful gift from the more prosperous believers of North America. If our believers here could be put in your places, and the call of missions came to them, I am sure the third quarter Sabbath school offerings would be exceedingly large.

Why a Church Music Institute

Anyone who has carefully read the record of the musical services of the temple in the old dispensation as recorded in the books of the Kings, of the Chronicles, and of Nehemiah will be impressed with the care given the musical portion of the services and the preparation and training of those serving the temple in a musical capacity, and to the planning of the musical contributions to worship. Should anyone think that such preparations and devotion are not important today or that other activities are so essential that the music of the church should be only a pleasant incidental, the reading of pages 481 to 500 in Volume V of the Testimonies to the Church will bring such a one to at least serious reflections on the subject.

Not only church musicians, but all who wish a sharpened sense of the significance of worship and of those elements that make up worship could do no better than review these pages. The coming Institute is planned not only to enlarge the church musician's view of his work, but to give him a broader technique in working with his congregation, his choir, and his instruments.

WEDDINGS

Margaret Weaver and Kenneth Baldwin were united in marriage on the evening of June 21 at the Sunnyside church in Portland, Oregon. The beautiful service was made more attractive by the fact that Mrs. E. E. Rippey played the same wedding march she had played at the wedding of Miss Weaver's parents, Dr. and Mrs. John E. Weaver. The ceremony was performed by Elder G. W. Chambers.

On the evening of June 9, Vernon Russell Sample and Phyllis June Clifton were united in marriage in the Laurelwood Academy chapel. The ceremony was read by Elder William Lay. May the rich blessing of heaven abide in this newly-established home as these Christian young people continue their studies at Walla Walla College.

The Longview church was the scene of a beautiful candlelight ceremony in which Charles Lampson of Sara, Washington, and Juanita Smith of Castle Rock were united in marriage. The vows were read by Elder C. G. McKeown. Mr. and Mrs. Lampson are making their home in Vancouver, Washington. May the good hand of Providence bless them abundantly.

Farewell to the North Pacific Union

During the past seven years it has been our pleasure to work here in the North Pacific Union. Mrs. Adams, the children, and I have learned to love the members of this Union. We began in the early part of 1942 in the Olympia district of the Washington Conference, going on to the Tacoma, and Renton-Auburn districts. Coming to Idaho in 1945, it was a real thrill to work with the members of the Payette and Weiser districts. January of 1947 we were happy to join the office staff of the Idaho Conference where it has been our privilege to meet and work with the members of this fine field.

As we look back upon our privileges while here in this Union, we are indeed thankful that the Lord has given us a place in His service. Realizing that there is a great work to do throughout the entire world field, it is our desire to serve wherever we are called. A short time ago, we received a call to the East Brazil Union where the writer will continue his activities in the Home Missionary and Sabbath School Departments for that Union. Our headquarters will be located at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

We wish to express our deep and sincere appreciation to the membership of the fields in which we have worked and for the fine spirit of co-operation that has been expressed as we have worked together to finish the work here in the homeland.

Mrs. Adams, the children, and I desire your prayers as we go forth to this new field which will be filled with hardships and trials, but we all realize that the coming of Jesus is near at hand and let us all strive together and meet again at the coming of our Saviour.

Our address when we reach the south will be: Rua Lopes Travao 84, Niteroi, Estado do Rio, Brazil, South America. We would appreciate hearing from the members here in this field from time to time, and we will do our best to answer your letters and give you a picture of the work in that extremely interesting field.

May the Lord bless each and every one of you is our prayer.

ELDER AND MRS. R. E. ADAMS,
JACQUELYN AND DEANE.

Junior Camp Time

Applications are rolling in for Oregon's junior camps. We are happy to receive these enrollments from juniors that have been to camp and from those coming for the first time. All will have a good time. A program is planned that will challenge every boy and girl in camp.

Save a dollar! yes, that's right. You actually save a whole dollar by sending your full remittance to the conference office before camp begins. We encourage you to save, thus making junior camp less expensive than last year. Parents who have two or more to send to camp will notice that a ten per cent discount is granted in this case. However, the important thing is to get your application in the mail today.

The Trailblazer camp staff join me in sending you a welcome. Yes, our jovial chef with his big white bonnet says, "Let them come, I'll have a banquet dinner on each day." So, for the time of your life in "Nature's own playground" rush your summer camp application today.

Cost of Attendance

We are living in a time of high prices as well as a time of high wages. The cost of education has also risen during this time of rising costs and wages. The cost of education, however, has not risen as much as wages. A Walla Walla College catalog of thirty years ago records the price for tuition, room and laundry as $18 and 60 hours of work per period of six weeks. This seems very small. The student rate per hour thirty years ago would average ten to twelve cents per hour. Now it averages about sixty cents per hour. If a student now works sixty hours in six weeks and pays the remainder in cash the payment would be $32.50 per six-week period. In other words, less than twice the payment of thirty years ago. The above considerations do not include the costs of meals. The minimum charge for meals thirty years ago was $9 per six weeks while the minimum charge today is $22 to $25 for the same period. This is less than three times the amount of thirty years ago.

In other words, while the amount paid by the college has multiplied five times the cost of cash payment for tuition, room and laundry has not doubled and the minimum cost for board has not tripled.

If one could have paid all cash for tuition, room and board thirty years ago, the cost would have been approximately $25 per six weeks. The cash (no work) requirement now is $68.50 for the six weeks, or less than three times the value of thirty years ago.

Cash Requirements

It is well that students work while at college. This is in accordance with the teachings of the Spirit of prophecy. Some students earn all of their expenses at the college by working through the summer full-time and during the school session, part-time. Many others work at other places during the summer. Many of these can earn enough during the summer for most of their school expenses.

It is impossible for the college to supply work to all students. For this reason most of the work is reserved for dormitory students. Let us suppose a student working two hours a day for six days in the week. This would amount to 432 hours during the school year. At 50 cents per hour this would amount to $216 for the year.

Tuition for the year for full school work is $264. Room and laundry is $123 to $147. Board varies since it is on the cafeteria plan. An average, doubtless, would be $250. The total then would be $661. Books and other fees would bring this to $700 for the year. Subtracting $216 for 2 hours of work a day would leave $484 cash requirement for the year. This represents a bit over $50 per month.

If a student were to work 3 hours a day the cash requirement would be $376. The men students earn a higher rate. If the rate were 75 cents per hour the cash requirement after working 2 hours a day would be $376.

Parents would do well to expect their children to work part time. The cash requirements would then be within the reach of our people and many of the young people could earn sufficient during the summer to meet the cash requirements.

Plan now to enroll in September.

WHAT TO DO? Hiking, nature study, prospecting, photography, etc., plus just plain resting and relaxation.

How? Hiking, pack horses and licensed guide.

COST? Approximately $30. ($10 for horses and paid personnel, $10 for food and $10 for transportation—round trip from College Place.)

For more information write to: Eugene Winter, Walla Walla College, College Place, Washington.

No applications will be accepted after July 24.

Elders W. B. Ochs, L. K. Dickson and W. A. Scharffenberg of the General Conference; J. L. McConaughy of the Pacific Press; and missionaries C. J. Ritchie and O. W. Lange. Elders Scriven and Nagele and the various departmental men from our union conference will be with us, and Walla Walla College and the Southern Publishing Association will also be well represented. A very special treat is in store for those who are able to be at camp meeting the last week end, as Elder Richards, Elder Walde, and the King's Herald's will fill a number of appointments at that time. A schedule of speakers for the various meetings will be available on the camp ground to those who desire it.

As the members of our churches throughout the conference gather together in this camp meeting, we solicit the prayers of our people that the Lord will pour out His blessings in an abundant measure, and that our people may leave this gathering with a richer spiritual experience than they have ever had.

Something Different

Green, luscious vegetables, fresh and crisp and, oh, so tender were dug from underneath the snow drifts at Auburn Academy in mid-winter, after weeks of cold weather with the mercury hovering around zero.

You too, may have fresh vegetables from your garden the year 'round, about three years out of four if you live in the Pacific Northwest—and the fourth winter too, with a little protection, they may still be available.

There are around thirty vegetables that will withstand temperatures down to ten degrees above zero, Fahrenheit. For many varieties the time for transplanting is around the close of camp meeting. There will be an abundance of plants available from the Home Economics garden at that time—collards, kale, broccoli, winter cauliflower, brussels sprouts, winter cabbage (Savoy, red, green), and parsley are among those available, for only 29c per dozen. There are some vegetables that may be planted from seeds after camp meeting. We shall be glad to give you charts for planting.

Plant a winter garden this year and provide an inexpensive source of protective foods for your family.

We expect to have freshly ground flour available in quantity, ground in a Lee stone buhr mill. It is very fine and may be used the same as white flour. You will be delighted with it.
