A Publishing Work Is Born

"You must begin to print." It was these words, spoken to James White by his wife Ellen G. White, back in 1848 at Dorchester, Massachusetts, that set in motion the publishing work of the Seventh-day Adventist denomination. Sister White had just been given a vision of the proclamation of the sealing message and the duty of the brethren to make known present truth. She laid on her husband the burden of printing a little paper. "Let it be small at first" she said, assuring him that as the people read, funds would come in. Success would attend the work, and from a small beginning there would be "streams of light" shining "clear round the world."

It was eight months before the first issue of Present Truth appeared. The Whites were in Connecticut then. Peniless and perplexed, feeling that he lacked the support of fellow believers, Elder White had given way to discouragement and planned to seek employment in the hayfield. But again a message of assurance came to him. He began to write and in July 1849 the papers came from the printer, were folded, wrapped and mailed out with earnest prayers and tears.

That was the beginning. No organization, no staff, no press, no office, no money. Nothing but a vision of what needed to be done and absolute faith and devotion to that cause. For some time the publishing work continued to have no certain dwelling place, existing as best it could in attics and rented rooms, with hired printers.

After eleven issues, Present Truth was succeeded by the Review and Herald, first published in Paris, Maine. The second volume came from Saratoga Springs, New York. Early in 1852 there was a move to Rochester, New York, where a printing press was actually purchased and a publishing office established so that we could do all our own work. It was in Rochester that the Youth's Instructor first came into being as a paper for the children costing about three cents a month. In 1855 came the move to Battle Creek where a two-story frame building, 20 by 30 feet, was erected. This served until 1861 when the large brick building was ready and the literature publishing of Seventh-day Adventists was at last on a secure and permanent footing in North America.

Similar stories could be told of small beginnings in other lands. The word to James White in 1848 was, "Streams of light that went clear around the world." So it has been. The vision has not failed. In spite of poverty and weakness the printed page has come to life across the sea, speaking to every man in his own tongue the wonderful works of God. The pattern has been largely the same everywhere. A devoted missionary with a language teacher, the laborious translation of a tract or two, a hired printer, the first precious sheets distributed with prayer and tears and faith. Ask the pioneer missionaries and they will tell you of such a start in many places. Consult the current reports and you will learn of the miraculous progress through the years until now the hum of the Adventist press around the world is never silent. Today in dark Africa, pagan India, Buddhist China, forbidden Lhasa, Catholic Philippines, Moslem Malaya and Indonesia, neglected South America, the printed word is sounding the keynote of our glorious message, the thrilling news that the return of Christ to this earth will not be long delayed.

John Motley, author of the Rise of the Dutch Republic, says that when Laurence Coster, that obscure citizen of Harlem, succeeded in printing a little grammar from movable types he had forged a weapon more potent in the great struggle for freedom than any which the wit or hand of man has ever devised or wielded. Doctor Bowdler describes the press as "the mightiest of the mighty means on which the arm of progress leans." Seventh-day Adventists rejoice in the assurance that the publishing work will be to a large degree, the means in God's hand to accomplish the work of that angel of Revelation 18 who comes down from heaven with great power so that the earth is lightened with his glory.

May the Lord continue to bless and prosper our publishing work in field and office in every land, giving it favor with men and governments, speeding on its holy task to an early and glorious triumph.

Christmas in October Again!

It's no rumor; it's a fact. There isn't much use in trying to keep it a secret, for the news is spreading like wildfire. Jolly old Saint Nick has already set up shop in some mighty important places. During October your Book and Bible House is again playing

Santa Claus. As usual they are thinking of something that will please every member of the family. This year's October Special is made up of two new books to do just that. Gray Ghosts will appeal to youngsters of all ages, while young people and adults will appreciate C. L. Paddock's superb storytelling in Byways.

Among the many enthusiasts for this year's October Special selection is Elder I. J. Woodman. Here is what he says:

"One Sabbath morning this year, I listened to Elder Charles L. Paddock present one of the most interesting sermons I have heard in some time. He used such outstanding stories to illustrate his remarks that I asked myself, 'Where did he get those wonderful stories?' I have found the answer in a little book entitled Byways written by Elder Paddock. In my library I have many books of stories and sermon illustrations but this one, for its size and price, now tops the list. Byways is your solution to the ever-present problem of finding a good story or for pleasant reading.

"I am sitting in my room high in a large hotel. Fire sirens and clanging bells tell there is excitement not far away. But I am so engrossed in Gray Ghosts that I do not even go to the window to look down: As I read on, the noise below subides but my interest in the escapades of 'Colonel' still runs high. As I finish the last lines of 'Confusion at the Bridge' I am sorry to see the book come to an end. When you read Gray Ghosts I think you will agree that it takes more than a fire alarm to distract from the thrilling interest of these true animal stories."

These two books are going to solve a lot of gift problems for both young and old. From now until October 31, you can save by ordering both of these books together. The regular price is $3.25. Order Byways and Gray Ghosts now for only $2.47 postpaid. Order from your church missionary secretary or from your Book and Bible House. Add sales tax where necessary.

Teacher's Sabbath School Lesson Quarterly

Orders for the new Teacher's Edition of the Sabbath School Lesson Quarterly should be placed with the Book and Bible House very shortly. This Quarterly in which every alternate page is blank will be a great help to teachers and to all others who wish to write in their own notes on the lesson as they study. The price of single copies is 25 cents; subscription price, 75 cents a year. Every Sabbath school should place a standing order for a sufficient number of these quarterlies to supply all senior division teachers and any others who may desire them. Unless sufficient orders are received to warrant the expense of publishing this special Quarterly, the project will have to be dropped. Order at once to have your Teacher's Quarterly for the first quarter of 1954.

The Lord Has Spoken in Regard To Paying Tithes

"The Lord has spoken in regard to paying tithes. He has said, 'Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in Mine house, and prove Me now herewith, saith the Lord of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it.'" Quarterly. Many teachers and Sabbath school officers have not known they were available. After counseling with some of our conference Sabbath school secretaries and Bible House managers in this union, it was felt that unless some word is sent into the Bible House requesting a change, beginning with the first quarter of 1954, ten per cent of the total order for senior quarterlies will be teachers' quarterlies. This will automatically insure a supply of teachers' quarterlies being made available to our teachers each quarter.

Original King's Heralds to Sing On Broadcast

The question often comes to The Voice of Prophecy as to the whereabouts of the original King's Heralds, formerly known as the "Lone Star Quartet," who were singing on the broadcast in 1937 when the name, "King's Heralds," was adopted.

As will be remembered, the Lone Star Four consisted of three brothers: Louis, Waldo, and Wesley Crane; and Wesley Crane; and Raymond Turner, bass. This quartet was organized in 1928, and in 1936 joined Elder H. M. S. Richards in city evangelism.

On Sunday, October 11, the day following Voice of Prophecy offering day in the churches, the original King's Heralds will be heard on the North American Voice of Prophecy broadcast on both networks, and also on the following stations: WLW—Cincinnati; KOB—Albuquerque; KCMO—Kansas City; WNAX—Yankton, South Dakota. They will sing two selections; "Hold to My Hand," and "I've Been Listenin'." Two numbers also will be sung by the current King's Heralds, and then a double quartet number will be heard, featuring both quartets.

During the 16-year history of the King's Heralds, there have been eleven combinations of voices, including 17 different singers.

Tune in on October 11 and invite your friends to listen with you.

Oleomargarine in Minnesota

A recent article referring to Allsweet Margarine failed to include the information that "in order to conform with Minnesota state laws, it is necessary to incorporate animal fats into the formula." Although this affects only the State of Minnesota, we call attention to this for the sake of any of our members who may travel through or go to live in Minnesota. In fact, it is a good policy to read very carefully the labels on foods in general.

Opening Service of the Tacoma Evangelistic Effort

It was a windy and blustery night, but the auditorium of the Tacoma Evangelistic Center was well filled with an attentive and appreciative audience as Elder D. H. Spillman presented a stirring sermon entitled "Christ or Chaos." It was gratifying to see a large number of friends and visitors at this opening service. Many of them expressed their appreciation, both of the sermon and the church building.

The evangelistic company, composed of Elder and Mrs. D. H. Spillman, Elder and Mrs. Lewis Lyman, Elder DeWitt S. Osgood of the Tacoma district, Elder C. R. Aimes of the Puyallup district, Mrs. Marie Dill, and Brethren Duane Anderson and Don Parks are to be commended for the splendid program they arranged for the opening night. The music was inspiring, the ushering was excellent, and the floral decorations were pleasing to behold. I am sure that the visitors who attended this service were well impressed with what they heard and saw.

I would take this occasion to encourage our people everywhere, and especially those who have friends living in the vicinity of Tacoma, to write and invite such to attend Elder Spillman's meetings. Inviting some of our people will mean much to increase the attendance. Those of our members who live in the vicinity of Tacoma should endeavor to attend as many of the meetings as possible, and by all means bring their friends with them. Let us all work together to make the Tacoma evangelistic campaign a success for God.

The Fruit of Laymen's-Evangelism On Whidbey Island

Late in 1952, Sister Agnes Ellwanger of the Langley church purchased an S.A.V.E. machine as an investment in soul-winning. This machine was turned over to Brother and Sister Donald Wentworth, who not only invested many hours of time but also many gallons of gasoline in order to visit and bring these Bible studies to the homes where they were received. Members of the Langley church also helped to provide some of the gas for these journeys, and prayed for these earnest workers.

The first-fruits of all this sacrifice and prayer were seen on Sabbath, September 26, when Pastor Bauer and members of the Everett church opened their church doors to the pastor and members of the Langley church, and joined with them in worship while three precious souls, the fruit of this laymen's evangelism, were buried with their Lord in baptism, to rise and walk in newness of life.

What joy must come to the heart of Christ as men and women accept of His salvation so dearly bought for them! Jesus said that there is joy among the angels of heaven when just one sinner repents. And this experience has brought joy to the members of the Langley church and to their pastor. This joy also thrills the hearts of the three who have sacrificed their means and their time to bring the truth to this brother, his sister, and his wife, who have just entered, by baptism, the joyful and satisfying experience of the Christian life, and membership in God's remnant church.

F. A. WYMAN.

Services Prove Attractive

Some neighbors, bedecked and jewelled, living in the vicinity of our new Tacoma Central church have been attending Sabbath services. They like the church, the people, and the message. They say, "You folk seem to have so much spiritual strength." They have suggested that they would like to make this church their church.

Another Treasure—Where Is It?

If you have not been following this series of treasure hunts in the GLEANER, you have been missing at least one blessing—the blessing of searching the testimonies. Then, if you would search soon enough and should be first to find the hidden treasure, you would receive a second blessing, one volume of the Christian Home Library series.

Following is another treasure from Testimony Treasures. If you are first to find the volume and page from which it is taken, the first to get that information to the Washington Book and Bible House, you will receive a free volume of the Christian Home Library series of your own choosing and the blessing of searching as well. Here it is:

"I saw that many in different places, East and West, were adding farm to farm, and land to land, and house to house, and they make the cause of God their excuse, saying they do this that they may help the cause. They shackle themselves so that they can be of but little benefit to the cause. Some buy a piece of land, and labor with all their might to pay for it. Their time is so occupied that they can spare but little time to pray, and serve God, and gain strength from Him to overcome their besetments. They are in debt, and when the cause needs their help they cannot assist; for they must get free from debt first. But as soon as they are free from debt they are farther from helping the cause than before; for they again involve themselves by adding to their property. They flatter themselves that this course is right, that they will use the avails in the cause, when they are actually laying up treasure here. They love the truth in word, but not in work. They love the cause just as much as their works show. They love the world more and the cause of God less; the attraction to earth grows stronger and the attraction to heaven weaker. Their heart is with their treasure. By their example they say to those around them that they are intending to stay here, that this world is their home."

This is indeed a treasure. It is wonderful that the Lord foresaw our temptations and tendencies and has warned us beforehand that we may avoid the snares of the devil. God has been so good to us in giving us these insights into the wiles of the adversary of our souls. Shall we not take full advantage of these saving truths?

Enumclaw School Expands

For several years Enumclaw has had a good one-room school at the northwest edge of the town. After experiencing a persistent growth each year, it finally burst out at the seams. A council was held after camp meeting and plans were laid to build on a second 20 x 24-foot room. These two rooms with connecting entry hall and rest rooms would make a superior school arrangement as well as providing more room for an occasional church social.

With a nod from the conference office, the work was begun. On Sunday, August 9, existing swings were moved and a continuous concrete foundation put in. Work progressed through the week and on the next Sunday, August 16, the roof was finished and a coat of paint applied over most of the exterior. The internal work moved rapidly along. The walls and ceilings were made of "dry wall" construction beautifully finished in soft green. Excellent blackboards are along two walls and a row of windows is in the front. An oak floor was laid in the old room and hall as well as in the new room and then sanded and varnished. Additional desks were obtained, bookcases were built in, and the school was readied for opening the week of Labor Day.

One carpenter member, Chester Jarrett, was paid to devote two weeks full time to organize and get the work going. Otherwise all the labor was donated. The school board chairman, Carl Dickerson, also led out in a strong way in organizing the finances and in keeping the work moving.

School began with 24 students in the 8 grades. Sister Freeman and Sister Aufderhar are the teachers. Under God's continued blessing we are looking forward to an even better school year than before.

VOICE OF PROPHECY DAY, OCTOBER 10

Your gift to The Voice of Prophecy on October 10 may very well be, under the direction of the Spirit of God, a spark that will make possible the lighting of another radio tower with the message of truth—and that tower may be the one that will bring those for whom you are praying "near to the heart of God!"

Though 530 stations in North America flash forth Christ's teachings of salvation, there are hundreds of radio towers that pierce the heavens without once proclaiming His closing message.

Not what we have done, but what we ought to do, should be our guide as we give on Voice of Prophecy Day.

ACROSS THE WORLD

The global influence of the Voice of Prophecy broadcast is immeasurable. The soft-spoken, yet forceful, messages; the sweet songs of the singers; the organ meditations; the Bible Correspondence Courses—which together herald the great love of our Saviour—are heart-winning instruments in the divine hand of God.

And the reward? Among the nations of earth, numberless thousands are finding in that "place of quiet rest" their hope for a better life to come. Shall we not unselfishly share that hope with many more?

Pathfinder Camp

Oh, the magic of a campfire! Tensions ebb away; old animosities are forgotten; and friendships deepen around the glowing embers. A campfire, you see, pushes the soft friendly darkness back just far enough and not too far. It shuts out the material world and leaves individuals alone with each other and with God in its friendly glow. "I went camping with him once," is all you need to say in order to express friendship for one in such a way that you may be understood perfectly.

It was the desire to bind our young people to the heart of the church and to God that caused Sister Evelyn Nystrom to take her Pathfinder girls on a camping trip. One solid week they camped. Did they get tired of it? "It rained," the girls admitted, "but it surely was fun."

How did Sister Nystrom stand the "ordeal"? "No fooling," she said, "I feel ten years younger."

To look up at the heavenly bodies from around a campfire does something good for anyone. Let us have more camps of this nature and set time back ten years.

Mt. Ellis Academy News

Mt. Ellis Academy's annual climb to the top of Mt. Ellis took place Tuesday, September 15. Warren "Buz" Winkle retained a four-year record of being first to reach the summit. Even though many of the students who had begun the climb dropped out, Elder C. L. Witzel, principal, was among those who scaled the peak.

Brother Herbert White, grandson of Sister Ellen G. White, was the chapel speaker Friday, September 18. He told of experiences which he had witnessed in this country and in Australia in connection with the work of Sister White. Because of the interest manifested in his message he was invited to speak again to the students on Monday, September 21.

Elder Stewart Emery, Missionary Volunteer and home missionary secretary for the Montana Conference, spoke for church services Sabbath, September 19, answering the question, "Why Isn't the Church Attracting Sinners?" In the afternoon he brought a brief report of the Pan-American Youths' Congress to the Missionary Volunteer meeting and, with the assistance of Sister Wagner, Sister John Griffin, and the Bozeman Pathfinders' Club, showed how this organization functions. He revealed that plans had been laid for the carrying on of a Master Guide and a Pathfinders' Club at Mt. Ellis.

Saturday night, September 19, games were played in the Ellis Auditorium during the early part of the evening, and around 8:15 the students retired to the assembly hall where Professor Claris F. Way led a community sing and stories were read.

New concrete walks have been laid at the residences of Principal C. L. Witzel and Elder K. Eldon Baker. A portion of the walk which leads from the girls' dormitory to the administration building has been relaid and the walk at the entrance of the latter has been widened and improved.

Girls' and boys' week ends, an annual camping-out event, was held from Friday, September 25, to September 27. The girls camped at the 4-H camp in Hyalite Canyon, while the boys tented at Squaw Creek in Gallatin Canyon.

Colporteur News

Brother Allaway was down in the Jerome district last week working with the colporteurs and states that he had the privilege of going out one evening with Elder R. A. Garner to one of his cottage meetings. In one farm home, there were at least seven adults and ten young people who were very attentive to the message that Elder Garner presented.

It was also thrilling to see a set of our books on the farm home table which had been placed there recently by our colporteur evangelist, J. M. Hays. Also, Brother Allaway had the privilege of taking Elder Garner to a number of other homes who have become interested through our colporteur work and who are going to take Bible studies.

No doubt, there are many others in our conference who would like to get into this great evangelistic work and see souls brought into the message.

WEDDINGS

On the evening of September 19, Pvt. Jack M. Humbert, currently stationed at Fort Lewis, Washington, and Donna J. Murtishaw of Irrigon, Oregon, were united in marriage at Tacoma, Washington.

Albert Dowling and Cecelia Baker, both of Tacoma, Washington, were happily united in marriage on the evening of July 11. They are making their home in Tacoma.

On August 10, Glenn Louis Roark of Wichita, Kansas, and Marian Joanne Lenz of Harvey, North Dakota, were united in marriage in the Sandpoint, Idaho, Seventh-day Adventist church. The groom is now serving in the U.S. Army and is stationed in Maryland, where they will make their home for the present. The ceremony was performed by the bride's uncle, Elder R. W. Fowler.

Priscilla Dietrich and Verlin Gibson were united in marriage at the Seventh-day Adventist church in Medford, Oregon, the evening of September 27. Brother Gibson had just recently been released from army service. The young couple will shortly be moving to College Place, Washington, where Brother Gibson will continue his education in Walla Walla College. The service was conducted by Elder Frank Steunenberg, pastor of the Yreka-Fort Jones district of the Northern California Conference.

In the Sabbath afternoon service there will be more illustrations and demonstrations by some of our leading division leaders. Saturday evening the picture "South Pacific" will be shown. This is considered one of the very best films to be seen in our conference. Sabbath school helps, patterns, devices, will be available as well as a supply of books after the showing of the picture.

Sunday from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00, and 2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. will be devoted to the making of patterns and other workshop activity. The workshop will be conducted in the basement of the church.

All of our Sabbath school officers and department workers in the College Place, Milton-Freewater, Pasco, and Pendleton districts are urged to attend. Some of the good things shown and demonstrated at the Hayden Lake Workshop held last August will be available so that a larger number of our Sabbath school workers may have this much needed help.

We will be looking for YOU!

Ingathering Highlights

Enthusiasm ran high on Tuesday, September 29, for this was Field Day for W.W.C. Ingathering. First reports indicate that quite a large sum will be raised this year. In chapel Wednesday, September 30, a partial report showed that over $2,000 has already been raised. Many and varied have been the experiences of all those who participated in this united effort of missionary work. The students and teachers traveled many miles to engage in this worthy effort. The missionary-minded leaders supplied them with enrollment cards for the 20th Century Bible Course, "literature bombs" (well supplied by Kendall Noah, the home missionary leader for the College church), and the usual Ingathering pamphlet.

With faces aglow and enthusiasm still running high, but with tired bodies, the students returned to the College persuaded that the Lord had blessed them and had made them a blessing to all they had contacted that day. Elder Joyce of the Union Conference and Elder Chase of the Upper Columbia Conference together with President G. W. Bowers and Dr. W. I. Smith of the College united their efforts in supplying the leadership for this Ingathering campaign.

Program Attractions Coming

The lyceum series at Walla Walla College for the year 1953-1954 presents many outstanding programs which will be of interest to our patrons, alumni, and friends.

On October 17, the first attraction for the autumn quarter is in the North Western Woodwind Quintet from Portland, Oregon. "This is a combination seldom heard here about and one which brings an astonishing wealth of instrumental color and hues within the compass of a small space. The varied moods which such a group can suggest in the proportion and power they may possess, make possible a program of delightful diversity."

This year it is again our privilege to present the Don Cossack Chorus. This famous chorus will appear in concert in Columbia Auditorium, Monday evening, November 2. There is no doubt but what this will be one of the outstanding programs of the year. The following Saturday night, November 7, Dr. Kurt Singer will present his lecture "Spies and Traitors." In view of the present intense international situation, this will be a very timely report. Students of history and current events as well as the general public will profit much by Mr. Singer's lecture. November 14, Virginia Jean Rittenhouse, whom many of our readers will remember as Virginia Jean Shankel, a former member of the Walla Walla College music faculty, will present a violin concert. Mrs. Rittenhouse is one of the outstanding violinists in the United States today having won nation wide recognition by her musical talent. We are extremely fortunate to have this opportunity to hear her.

The first lyceum of the winter quarter will be presented by Grant Johannessen, pianist, on December 5. Mr. Johannessen comes to us "to both hear and play, understand, and render. Listening to him, consequently, is ever a musical experience."

We feel certain that many of you will enjoy attending some or all of these concerts. You are cordially invited.

Literature Wanted

The literature band of the Walla Walla College church want to secure clean, used copies of My Bible Story, Our Little Friend, Youth's Instructor, Listen, Life and Health, Signs of the Times, These Times, Our Times. Please mail to Mr. Kendall Noah, Box 133, College Place, Washington. These papers are to be used for literature distribution and L-bombs (literature bombs).

Teacher Convention

The Elementary and Intermediate Teachers' Convention for the Idaho, Montana, and Upper Columbia Conferences was held at Camp MiVoden on Hayden Lake, Idaho, September 23-27. This was one of the largest teaching conventions ever held within our conference with about 170 persons in attendance. The convention was under the leadership of Elder W. C. Loveless of the Upper Columbia Conference, Elder J. T. Porter of the North Pacific Union Conference, Elder S. H. Emery of the Montana Conference, and Elder A. J. Werner of the Idaho Conference. They were assisted by Pearl Canwell, North Pacific Union; G. W. Chambers, North Pacific Union; O. T. Garner, Montana; A. J. Gordon, Idaho; Mary Patterson, Upper Columbia; M. J. Perry, Upper Columbia; Bernice Searle, Walla Walla College; R. A. Underhill, Walla Walla College; and Joyce Wilson, Upper Columbia Conference.

The theme throughout the convention was "The Science of Salvation." Workshops were conducted in every aspect of school work including the teaching of the different subjects, opening the door of nature, the importance of teaching the children to share their faith, and the Junior Missionary Volunteer Society, including the progressive classwork.

Those of us who were leading out in the various topics were impressed with the fine group of teachers employed in the three conferences concerned. We were especially pleased to have present so many young men who had dedicated their lives to teaching work. We invite an interest in your prayers and your whole-hearted cooperation with these teachers in making our church school work in these several conferences mean all that it should in the saving of our youth.

C. LESTER BOND.

Office Personnel Changes

It is with regrets that we bid farewell to Miss Marjorie Nelson who has labored for four years in the Upper Columbia Conference office. Miss Nelson came to us directly following her graduation from Walla Walla College and has labored faithfully, first in the educational department and, following that, in the Book and Bible House. Recently, Miss Nelson received a call from our Faith for Today office in New York. We wish her Godspeed as she leaves the Upper Columbia office to take up her new work.

Recently, there have joined our staff in the Upper Columbia Conference two new office secretaries. Miss Flora Oslund has come to us from Hope, Canada. She is laboring in the Home Missionary Department.

Mrs. Mildred Hover has recently joined our staff. Mrs. Hover has labored in the General Conference office for more than 20 years. She brings with her to Spokane her mother, Mrs. B. C. Numbers, and her two children, Melvin and Barbara.

We welcome these new workers to our staff.

Sabbath School Workshops

The first of five Sabbath School Workshops to be held in Upper Columbia Conference will be conducted at the College Place Village church beginning Friday evening, October 16, and continuing through to Sunday afternoon.
