

Colegio Adventista Puertorriqueno
Apartado 118
Mayaguez, Puerto Rico

Dear Friends in the Homeland:

Requests have been coming to us lately for more information about our school—something that could be used to encourage a large Thirteenth Sabbath offering. It is hard to know where to begin, but let us just suppose you have come here for a visit, and we are taking you around (as we do the real guests) to see our school, to meet some of our teachers and students, and to learn a bit of the school's history.

You have come by airliner from New York or Miami, landing in our capital city of San Juan. We hope you have done a bit of sight-seeing in this interesting city, whose history dates back to the 1500's. We hope, too, that you took the little Caribar plane across the island to Mayaguez, as it is only from the air that you can truly appreciate the beauty of this little tropical island—jewel of the Caribbean.

But now you are entering a private road, just beyond Mayaguez. The road is very rough and rocky—because we do not have the money to pave it. You cross a river which, because of the recent heavy rain, is pouring over the culvert. It should have a real bridge—but that takes money, too. Now you enter the school property, a large farm of 280 acres. It is not a farm as we usually think of the term. This farm is hills and valleys covered with a jungle of trees and shrubs, many of which yield food for our kitchen. A few young cattle are grazing on the hillside—a future dairy herd.

We soon come to a few buildings—an old house and two barn-like structures—with concrete floors and tin roofs. These were our school only a brief three years ago. Only the earnest desire for a Christian education on the part of the students, and the real pioneer spirit in the staff—Donovan Olson and his group of teachers—made them willing to endure the hardships of that first year. These buildings stand empty now except for housing a few faculty members, who have no other place to live, and our print shop.

Yes, we have a print shop with a bit of machinery—no linotype, nor anything very up-to-date. But we do all the printing for the local conference, for Bella Vista Hospital, for our own school, and some commercial printing. It is all done by students, under the direction of Jose Hernandez. You must meet Jose (Pepito, we call him), a young man with a radiant smile and an exceptional talent for preaching. He came to us a year ago from Cuba. This fall there were wedding bells at our school, when a charming little bride for our Pepito came from Antillean College in Cuba. Regina is originally from the Dominican Republic. She is now on our academy teaching staff, besides keeping up her little apartment near the print shop.

But now let us go up the hill to our school proper. We drive up a paved road (thanks to the late Dr. Dunscombe), round a curve, and here we are on a leveled-off hilltop. You notice at once the beauty of the location—verdant hills and valleys all around, the city of Mayaguez below, and the blue waters of the Caribbean beyond. You know that it would be an inspiration indeed to work and study in such a lovely situation.

We go now to the office so you can meet some of our personnel. You find you are in quite an "international" institution. Here is our principal, Prof. Gilberto Harper, half American, half Cuban. In the office several students are working; Ronny Lane from Washington, D. C., Eneida Rodriguez from California, Lydia Meza from Peru. They will tell you we have other students from Ecuador, Honduras, Santa Cruz, and St. Thomas Island. In the business office you meet our treasurer, Mr. Brignoni, a real Puerto Rican. You later meet other teachers native to this island, but you find that our girls' dean, Miss Garcia, is from the Dominican Republic. You also meet Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Taylor, fresh from the States. The Taylors were here the first year of our Colegio, but for the past two years they have been in ministerial work in Oklahoma. They recently answered a call to come back and help in our Bible and English departments. Mrs. Taylor also teaches typing.

You are anxious to be shown around, so we proceed. You find that these offices are in a partitioned-off corner of the dining room, because they have no permanent quarters as yet. The dining room itself is very nice, with many large windows looking out on the countryside and the sea, and with new mahogany chairs (a result of the chair campaign last year). The kitchen is roomy and fairly modern, but it still has no cold room, much needed in the tropics, and only the barest of necessities in equipment. Here you meet our cook, Mrs. Moreno, whose husband is our general repairman.

You climb some temporary wooden stairs to our classrooms above the kitchen. We have only three, which scarcely suffice for our 127 students. The only way we can manage it is to have grades 7-9 in the mornings and 10-12 in the afternoons. Even so, some of the classes must be taught elsewhere. But you notice that new classrooms are being constructed nearby—the start of an administration building.

Next we visit the girls' dormitory. It is a fairly nice, modern building, but it is already overcrowded. There are five girls to a room, and a temporary room has been made in the lobby. Already, we need to add a second floor to this dormitory. At one end of this building is our chapel, and underneath is the apartment of the Harper family.

Now, let us go down a little slope to a large house. This was the first permanent structure on the hill, and it has quite a history. At the beginning of the second school year, in 1958, the girls' dormitory was not ready for use. Neither were there living quarters for most of the faculty members. So, for four months, all the girls and three faculty families were packed in this house. Girls' bunk beds were lined up in rows about two feet apart and three bunks high. The Harper family of four had one room. The six Olsons and two Lunds had the far end of the house—really just one big room with no outside windows and doors, only screen. Two small bathrooms served the whole 50 of us. But there was little complaining because we all knew better days were ahead, and we were happy to help pioneer a new work.

At present, you notice this house contains the laundry and two nice apartments. The Ortigas (biology teacher and laundry supervisor) occupy one apartment, and we Lunds have the other. My living room is the music studio.

Going now to the other end of our hilltop campus, we find the beginnings of a very interesting building—the new boys' dormitory, for which some of the Thirteenth Sabbath overflow will be used. You can see it is going to be a lovely, modern structure. All of this will take thousands of dollars. What we get from the Thirteenth Sabbath offering will cover only part of it.

The construction, of which Mr. Lund is in charge, will be of concrete blocks and reinforced concrete. The floors are of polished concrete tile, in attractive colors. The roofs are concrete slabs. This makes the building practically fireproof and hurricane proof—so necessary here.

This school has sprung up rapidly, to fill a very urgent need here in Puerto Rico. But now the need is still more urgent. Political situations in nearby islands make it impossible for some students to attend our Antillian College in Cuba. We must begin offering college work here. This will mean still greater demand for student rooms, classrooms, and faculty housing. We know not where the money is coming from to supply all these needs. But, God has surely blessed this school of humble beginnings. He will continue to bless it, we know, and will touch the hearts of people everywhere to give as they have never given before, so that His work, not only here, but throughout the world, may continue to grow and be a blessing.

Yours in the Master's service,
HELEN LUND

Bible Society Offers Daily Reading List

To encourage Christians everywhere to read their Bibles regularly, the American Bible Society has published a list of suggested readings for every day in 1961. These are printed in convenient bookmark form.

"The Book for everyone is surely for you," the Society declares in a brief introduction. "This is your invitation to read it faithfully and prayerfully."

The Society reports that similar lists prepared for previous years have been used by over a million people. Many churches, the Society says, order the lists in quantity and distribute them to their members and others in the community. Individuals order them for their own use and for neighbors and friends.

Special selections are listed for the Thanksgiving-to-Christmas World-wide Bible Reading period.

Single copies of the Daily Bible Reading schedule are free. In quantity, the price is 60¢ a hundred.

The address of the American Bible Society is 450 Park Avenue, New York 22, New York.

Ingathering—A Source of Good Will

Ingathering can be the blessing it was intended to be when back in 1903 Jasper Wayne first hit upon the plan. Or it can be a source of misunderstanding between the church and the community. The manner in which members conduct their door-to-door solicitation can determine largely the degree of good will achieved.

This once-a-year contact brings the church to the door of virtually every home in the vicinity of the church. Many householders and businessmen base their opinion of the church on the impression left by this one very special contact. It is indeed a heavy responsibility the Ingathering solicitor bears—the good reputation of his church. In counsel with the General Conference Home Missionary Department, the Bureau of Public Relations has prepared the following brief list of suggestions to give guidance in making the most of this important public relations responsibility. Why not make them a part of your Ingathering rules to follow when visiting homes in your community?

1. When soliciting, members should carry properly signed credentials.

2. Remember that you are representing Christ and His message. Do not attempt to conceal your identity as Seventh-day Adventists. This is hurtful, for it pictures the church as not altogether honest, and fails to take advantage of the good name the church has developed through its good-neighbor activities and public relations program.

3. Be accurate in saying to what the contribution goes. Example: "Your contribution helps to carry forward medical, educational, welfare and mission work in 189 countries as well as right here at home." Be accurate and appealing. (Consult "Helps" provided by Home Missionary Department.)

4. Never say:

- "Your contribution goes to help local welfare work." (Never)
- "We are soliciting for the (BLANK) Sanitarium." (Never)
- "Help the poor and needy." (Never)

5. Avoid any appearance of being persistent. Do not attempt to apply pressure for a contribution. You are building good will, not playing on it.

6. Do not try to fool the public into thinking a group is out caroling when using a carolette machine. Say: "We are bringing music of the season and a report of our world uplift program."

7. At all times be pleasant, regardless of reception. Your impression builds for the future and not just for today.

Weddings

The Ashland, Oregon, church was the scene of a lovely Christian wedding the evening of October 2, when Shirley Joanne Paulson and Edward Walter Dalton repeated the marriage vows before Elder Don MacIvor. Our prayers go with this fine young couple as they leave for California where the groom will complete his education.

On Sunday afternoon, October 23, in the Ione, Washington, Seventh-day Adventist church, Wilma Jean Fristad of Ione and Chester Lloyd Burrows of Usk, Washington, were united in marriage. We pray that the Lord will bless this newly established Christian home. Elder Edwin G. Brown officiated.

Maurice Stewart LeFore and Joyce Fay Taylor were united in marriage at the Milton Seventh-day Adventist church on Sunday evening, October 16. They are now living in Texas where Maurice is stationed at the present time. The ceremony was read by Elder Paul C. Heubach.

On Thursday afternoon of November 3 Eliza E. Zinn of Portland, Oregon, and Asa E. Lewis of Pendleton, Oregon, were united in marriage at the home of Elder C. S. Joyce. They plan to make their home in Portland, Oregon. Heaven's richest blessing is the wish of their many friends.

Geraldine Louise Turner and Richard Karl Amonson, both of Milton-Freewater, Oregon, were united in marriage the evening of November 8. Elder G. W. Chambers performed the rites at a home ceremony in College Place, Washington. This new Christian home is being established in Pendleton, Oregon.

On Sunday afternoon, October 23, Cheri Ann Striplin became the bride of Kenneth Van Fossen in the Ballard Seventh-day Adventist church in Seattle. Elder E. W. Striplin, father of the bride, performed the ceremony. They will make their home in Bremerton, Washington. May God richly bless them as they establish this new Christian home.

Bible House Book Sale Schedule

Here is just a word to let our membership know that we are again planning a series of 16 book sales this year throughout the Conference. We are sending by way of your church missionary secretary a bulletin explaining the particulars and listing a large number of items that you may be interested in.

This year we will be bringing a larger number of new books to our sales. We have a goodly number of new long play and stereo records as well as the largest number of children's records that we have ever stocked. Our bargain table will carry the usual "good buys" at a very nominal cost. With Bible games, Reading Course books, devotional books, Christian Home Calendars, the Morning Watch Calendars, and a host of other items on display I know that you will want to be present early and make sure you get what you need before the supply is exhausted.

Our special books on sale cannot be ordered through the Bible House. No mail orders will be accepted. So take advantage of these good books when the sale comes to your district or church.

Here is a schedule of our book sales. The time will be 7:00 o'clock unless otherwise announced. The exact place of meeting will be designated by the local pastor. We hope to see you there.

ALASKA

First Book Sale North of North Pole, Alaska

October 29 and 30 were the dates of America's northernmost book sale. The location was the beautiful, new Seventh-day Adventist church in Fairbanks, which is thirteen miles north of North Pole, Alaska.

Elder Don Jacobsen, the pastor, and Ron Turner as singing evangelist, started a series of evangelistic meetings on October 22. These meetings were started before the finishing touches were completed in the sanctuary of the church. With a few inches of snow and a crisp five degrees temperature outside, people came to the meetings. A goodly number of interested people were attending and already have purchased our truth-filled books.

On Sunday evening when the sales were tallied, $309.52 of our books and records had been sold. This is significant because the membership of the church is less than fifty members. There were other interesting facets in connection with this sale. It was the first sale in the new church, and it was the farthest north book sale in America. The writer, along with the books and records, was flown over 450 miles to the sale through the courtesy of one of our members, Brother Fred Frakes.

The members of the church were thrilled with their new church, the meetings where new decisions were being made by both non-members and members, and the books which they purchased. We ask that all of our believers join us in praying for the continued success of Elder Jacobsen's effort so a rich harvest of souls may be saved for God's Kingdom.

WASHINGTON

New District Superintendent

After laboring for more than a decade in the Upper Columbia Conference we have accepted a call to the Washington Conference. While never satisfied with the number of people that we win, we are thankful that the Lord so blessed in our evangelistic campaigns that hundreds of people were baptized and added to His church in the Upper Columbia Conference.

We are now settled in our new field at Port Angeles, Washington. Port Angeles is a city of about 12,000 population located on the Strait of Juan De Fuca with the great Olympic National Park at its back door—figuratively speaking. When it comes to towering wooded mountains, dense forests, beautiful lakes and bays, we wonder what

Here is a picture of our "It Is Written" advertisement. We are supposing some other church might see and use this idea. We had two signs made 24-in. by 60-in. announcing the telecasts. We installed one on each side of a top carrier. We use a tape recorder in the car with the speaker on the roof between the signs. The signs cost less than $15 to have painted. We patrol our area during the two hours prior to the telecast time. We believe it is very effective and something different. This unit can be adapted to Ingathering and many other projects.

Federal Way Home Missionary Department can surpass in natural scenic beauty the Olympic Peninsula. Although we had lived in eastern Washington for several years we felt that we had not really seen Washington until we visited this extreme northwestern part of the state.

Yes, we find ourselves in another conference but not total strangers and beyond the circle of our friends. It has been interesting to find here those who have attended our evangelistic campaigns in some other conference, and see the fruitage of our labors in years past. We even found members in the church here who were at one time our next door neighbors.

We are impressed that Elder DeWitt

Osgood, former district pastor, has done an excellent work. We are also impressed that there are a lot of faithful, zealous laymen in this district, therefore we are of good courage and believe that with their help and the Lord's blessing a good work will be accomplished.

However, with five churches in the district to care for and a series of evangelistic meetings to look forward to and conduct after the first of the year, we need your prayers.

It would be impossible to write to all our friends and acquaintances, therefore we are using the GLEANER to greet them and to let them know where we are. Everyone delights in getting mail from friends. Our new address is, 1001 East 3rd Street, Port Angeles, Washington.

OREGON

Autumn Council Reflections

The 1960 Autumn Council of the General Conference Committee was held at the denominational headquarters, Takoma Park, Washington, D. C. This was the year when the overseas division leaders attended, and also the local conference presidents in the North American Division were invited to attend and participate in the business of the Council. On the last day of the Council (October 31) additional delegates representing the College of Medical Evangelists joined in the work of the assembly.

As usual, when overseas representatives are present, the reports from the world field constituted the major highlights of meetings. The chief inspiration of these reports consisted in the evidence presented that God's work moves steadily forward, even in sections of the world where the national climate is unfavorable for the preaching of the Gospel. The coming issues of the Review and Herald will contain many of these reports by our overseas division leaders. Everyone should make certain to read of the triumphs of God's work as presented to the delegates of this Autumn Council.

Study of the future development of the College of Medical Evangelists occupied a day and one-half of the Council's time. Suitable actions were taken to assure, as far as lies within our power, the high rating and excellent quality of work being done in this great institution. Steps necessary for the consolidation of clinical instruction on one campus were agreed upon, allowing the College Board of Trustees time and opportunity to work out the details of such consolidation. At the same time plans are to be effected for the building up of "Loma Linda University" so that this new institution will be able to undergird the basic science curriculum to the extent that the teaching program of the School of Medicine will be greatly enhanced.

"Blueprint Evangelism" was a term that received official introduction into the work of our churches around the world. More will be said about this as we follow through on these plans as they have been formulated. Again we direct your attention to the forthcoming issues of the Review and Herald which will bring the actual Council recommendations to all subscribers and readers of this, our denominational Church paper.

This recent Autumn Council had more than its usual share of perplexing problems. However, as one who has attended these annual meetings for more than twenty-five years, I can testify that the spirit of unity was never missing in any of the discussions. This is as it should be in our day, when the anger of the nations is again rising to a fighting pitch.

Let us remember our world work and its faithful leaders in our daily prayers. God has set His hand to quickly finish His work.

Milo Herd Attracts Leading Dairymen

On October 18 more than twenty of the leading dairymen of the State of Oregon visited Milo Academy dairy and spent several hours observing the herd of nearly 100 registered Holstein animals that has been making outstanding records the past few years under the able direction of Mr. Lloyd Scherer and his staff of student helpers.

The visitors showed a keen interest in the physical characteristics and type of the individual animals and their offspring produced from world renowned sires through artificial insemination. The pedigrees of the young stock were especially noted and inquiries were made regarding possible purchase prices.

Interest was also shown in the sanitary technique during the milking procedure; in the keeping of records on each, and the veterinary care given for various common ailments by Mr. Scherer. Cleanliness of students during milking and care of milk and equipment is reflected in the extremely low bacteria count per milligram made on our raw milk of 5,500 when the state allows a maximum of 80,000 for raw milk and 20,000 for pasteurized milk.

Official records of the D.H.I.A. (Dairy Herd Improvement Association) reveal the following outstanding facts:

Number cows D.H.I.A., Oregon	35,277
Avg. Prod. D.H.I.A., U.S. (lbs.)	10,068
Avg. Prod. D.H.I.A., Oregon (lbs.)	10,559
Avg. Prod. Milo Herd (lbs.)	14,061
Milo Record Winning 2 yr. old (lbs.)	14,140

Our visitors were served a noon lunch in our cafeteria where they could exchange opinions and observations. An ice cold beverage of homogenized Milo Dairy milk seemed to be enjoyed by all.

Laurelwood Academy News

A Laurelwood Academy student placed first from among 13 entrants in the wildlife conservation speech meet in Hillsboro last week. LeRoy Fish, senior from Eugene, represented LA in the Washington County meet, asserting that "a man without the out-of-doors is a man without God."

LeRoy's wish is not to speak with winning only in view; he wishes to help others realize the importance of the preservation of God's great out-of-doors. Moreover, the $15 which he received is being used to purchase field study guides for a newly-organized campus Nature Club, of which he is president.

Laurelwood students and staff surpassed the $1,100 Ingathering goal in the annual nut-picking venture last week. Although the final total will not be determined until returns are in from solicitation of school business patrons, Treasurer William Stitt has received $1,390.63 for the mission project.

Adding to the Youth Rally conducted by Elder T. E. Lucas at Portland's Stone Tower church last week was the Laurelwood choir. Providing instrumental numbers were Earlene Parmele, LaRenne and LaVonne Ebel, Shirley Docherty, Peggy Weaver, and Terry Schlaht. Also on the program were seniors Linnea Wicklund, Dale Ziegele, and Bill Millard.

Elder Lucas spoke in the Laurelwood chapel November 8.

Eighty-four students who received eight subscriptions for the Laurolian enjoyed a four-hour cruise in the Portland Harbor and on the Willamette River November 1. The 168 reaching the individual goal of four subs will attend a winter banquet.

honored on their 40th wedding anniversary October 27. Mr. Britton has been the farm manager and orchardist at LA the past three years. He was an orchardist in the Hood River Valley for 20 years and later a dairyman 16 years. The Brittons have four children of their own and have mothered and fathered 36 other children, 13 from MacLaren school at Woodburn. They have ten grandchildren. Each of the younger Brittons has followed his father's example of receiving his education at Laurelwood Academy. We pray for God's richest blessings on this home and the homes of all Laurelwood patrons.

"It Is Written" Survey Cards

Our members will be interested in learning that just about 450 requests for "Take His Word" were received for the first four weeks of our "It Is Written" television program. It is very gratifying to know that 450 people have, on their own initiative, requested this material. However, there are hundreds of others who need just a little additional encouragement to enroll.

We would suggest that all our church members secure two or three copies of the enrollment cards entitled, "Have You Seen," and endeavor tactfully to enroll good friends and near neighbors. Of course, there will be those who will participate in the regular survey days, contacting 25 homes on each occasion.

We believe a good percentage of our enrollments will come from personal friends and acquaintances; but if those engaged in surveys secure anywhere from two to five enrollments from 25 homes, they have done wonderfully well.

The object of these cards is two-fold. A large number of people do not, as yet, know about the program, and so this is another opportunity of bringing it to their attention. The number of enrollments received at this point will not be very large but will grow as the weeks roll by.

We will soon release the results of the survey days in our conference. In the meantime, we urge our members to earnestly pray for the success of the program. All who have seen these telecasts agree that they are really wonderful.

C. J. RITCHIE

From the "It Is Written" Mailbag

"Please send me 'Take His Word.' I wish to tell you how much your program has meant to me. Although I belong to a church and go twice each Sunday and attend all other auxiliary meetings, I have been greatly confused and troubled in heart and soul. I feel 'Take His Word' will be a great comfort and help to me. Later I will send you a contribution toward keeping your wonderful program on the air."—Ashland.

"I sat here in my little country home and felt as though there was not anything to live for. I could feel the pressing power of Satan round about me. I turned on my television and 'It Is Written' was on. As I sat and prayed with you, I could feel that wonderful peace of God flow through my soul. Please send me 'It Is Written.'"—Central Point.

"To whom it may concern: I really enjoyed your program that was shown on October 30. I wish more Christian television programs would explain things so clearly. I am a young mother of three children and have been raised in a Christian home from the age of nine. But never have I heard so well explained the second coming of our Lord. I would like very much to have a copy of your Bible study cards."—Klamath Falls.

Walla Walla College

WWC Temperance Chapter Signs Constitution

The Walla Walla College chapter of the American Temperance Association became official on November 12 when the club constitution was signed by Jim Fell, president, in Dr. P. W. Christian's office.

Other college chapter officers are: Frank Bondonno, vice president; Ronna Scott, secretary; Lillian Konzelman, treasurer; Russell Thomas, P. R. secretary; and J. G. Penner, advisor.

This year's A.T.S. will be conducting MV programs and church services, and will be working with the local temperance organizations in the Walla Walla area. It will also be presenting programs in the local high schools.

Capacity Crowds Hear Amateur Hour

Capacity crowds in two auditoriums heard Nancy Thompson play her Swiss bells to win the grand prize in both auditoriums and first place in the novelty section. A sophomore pre-medical student from Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, Nancy is majoring in biology.

Other first place winners were: Dave Barrera, Guatemala City, Guatemala; a ladies' quartet consisting of Darlene White, White Salmon, Washington, Dorothy Von Bergen and Sharon Staley, Portland, Oregon, and Eleanor Vi-pond, Nehalem, Oregon.

Winners in the junior section were: Gary Burns with pantomime by Eric Larson and accompanied by Ruth Budd; Stan Holm; and Jean Durham and Sandy Fairchild.

In other sections prizes were taken by Bob Lopp, Kalispell, Montana; Margrete Froom, Seattle, Washington; Gary Schoepflin, Grand View, Washington; Bernie Paulson, Roseburg, Oregon; Gordon Reid, Los Angeles, California; Aubrey Luke and Louise Cowin of College Place.

Master of Ceremonies in the two auditoriums were Alvin Kwiram in Columbia and Elder Walter Blehm in the Library Chapel.

Associated Students to Launch Fund Drive

The Associated Students of Walla Walla College voted Monday, November 7, to launch a solicitation campaign for $10,000, funds to be used toward an organ for the new College church.

Peter Maher, ASWWC president, and Elder P. C. Heubach, college pastor and dean of the school of theology, presented the needs and possibilities to the 1,300 member student body and faculty in an assembly program. The vote taken approved the recommendation of the Student Council to raise the $10,000.

Executive officers have voted to match the money brought in by a student drive up to $10,000 from student association reserve funds, Maher revealed.

With the enthusiastic support of friends, relatives, and alumni of the ASWWC, the purchase of the organ will be assured, says President P. W. Christian. The North Pacific Union Conference Committee has authorized the transfer of $10,000 formerly set aside for a previous ASB project. The college board has done the same. Elder Heubach points out that each dollar donated to the student campaign will mean $4 toward the church organ which will mean so much in worshipful atmosphere in the new church and on the campus.

Fund raising for the College church has proceeded over a long period of time. Last spring all non-student church members were canvassed and a three-year continuing sacrificial program organized, said Elder Heubach.

Cooperating with local members are the Union Conference, the Upper Columbia Conference, and the General Conference towards the building of a sanctuary on the campus.

UPPER COLUMBIA

Viewers Like "It Is Written"

Each day brings to the office many favorable letters of our "It Is Written" program. Enrollments for the "Take His Word" Bible study plan have nearly reached the four hundred mark. The reports from all over Upper Columbia Conference indicate that "It Is Written" is stimulating its viewers to think on spiritual things and to share with others the wonderful truths they are learning. Here are three letters we have received during the past week.

From Toppenish: "Just a note to let you know how much I enjoy your program. I am looking forward to more of the same. . . . Would it be possible to get the Scripture verses used for the program 'Life on Other Worlds,' October 2? It is most fascinating—something I had thought on, but not so far reaching."

From Yakima: "I have been listening to your program . . . and enjoy it very much. . . . I thought the one 'Life on Other Worlds' was very thought provoking."

From Kettle Falls: "I have been a steady viewer of your new program 'It Is Written' since it started on our KXLY television station. The members of my family along with myself, enjoy your religious program very much. . . . I take notes on each program and afterwards I take my notes and retell what I have learned to my elderly neighbors. . . . Send your copies of the pamphlets you advise each one to get who wishes to get more from their Bibles."

MONTANA

Announcement

The newly formed Cummings-Dale evangelistic team for the Montana Conference will be conducting an evangelistic effort in Hamilton, beginning November 26. Darby will be included also in the area covered. On January 14 a similar effort will be conducted in Missoula.

All those having interested relatives or friends in these areas, or know of any former members in those cities, please write their names and addresses to Elder Frank Munsey, 13405 S. 4th St. W., Missoula, Mont.

The opening address at 7:30 p.m. will be "Astounding Wonders of God's Starry Heavens."

A Specialist Appreciates "Desire of Ages"

It is thrilling to receive letters requesting the Desire of Ages. Here is a portion of a letter from an eye, ear, nose, and throat specialist in Montana. "Thank you for the book which we received today and I am already forwarding it to my son . . . I'm enclosing two addresses of my children and perhaps it would be best to send them direct from your fine organization. It surely is a splendid book and I see it was written over 60 years ago. For some reason I have never seen it before."

The doctor enclosed a check for 7 copies of Desire to be placed in hotels and motels.

Surely the Lord has led in Operation Desire. Won't you see to it that copies are replaced where there is a need locally?

We have sent out more than 500 copies of Desire from the office since 1957. Requests come from all parts of the U.S. and Canada, from all walks of life. Many souls will be in the kingdom as a result of this project. Let us be faithful!
