

ALASKA MISSION OFFERING—SEPTEMBER 22

C. A. Scriven, President
North Pacific Union Conference

Sabbath, September 22, will be a high day in the North Pacific Union. This is the Sabbath on which we have the privilege of giving to our own North Pacific Union Mission Field. The Alaska Mission received $7,000 from this offering in 1961. If each of us could give 50% more than we did one year ago we could provide $10,000, which would be a great lift to the Alaska field. Your offering will be deeply appreciated by the personnel in the Alaska Mission and will help in giving the Message in that rather difficult section.

NOTICE—Pastors, church elders and church treasurers:

All loose offering taken on Sabbath, September 22, should be included with any specified amounts contributed to the Alaska Mission offering.

CAMP DOSS ATTENDED BY ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-THREE

John H. Hancock, Director
War Service Commission, North Pacific Union

One hundred and fifty-three cadets, plus the staff members attended Camp Doss, the National Medical Cadet Corps Training Camp this summer at Gladstone, Oregon. Of this number, 114 enrolled from the North Pacific Union Conference.

From the very beginning an excellent spirit was manifested by the young men, which resulted in rapid strides being made in the training and many wonderful spiritual victories attained. It would have been thrilling, indeed, if parents and teachers could have heard the testimonies of these cadets as they told how God had blessed them at Camp Doss and what the training of the two weeks had done for them personally.

Some of the cadets mentioned that they had come to Camp Doss against their own desires, having been sent by their parents, or more or less driven into the training because of school requirements for graduation. Again and again, however, these young men stated near the close of camp that this was one of the most wonderful experiences that had ever come to them, and felt that God had definitely led them into this training program. Many expressed their desire to take the advanced training in future years. The wisdom in making MCC a requirement for graduation in the academies of our union, was certainly borne out very vividly by the testimonies of these youth. Camp Doss has an effect on young men similar to that of a week of prayer in one of our schools, and the rigid discipline, training and character guidance studies separate the "men" from the "boys" quickly.

On the last Wednesday of Camp Doss, the 60th Field Hospital from Fort Lewis, Washington, arrived on the grounds and set up the 100-bed unit, complete with its own water and light supply. Army instructors taught classes to the cadets for three days, and on Monday following the grand review of the troops, the cadets were privileged to receive detailed instruction in the hospital itself.

Is It Enough?

All faithful Sabbath school members plan for a special offering for missions on each 13th Sabbath. Members in the North Pacific Union have been very loyal in their mission offerings.

Some plan, budget or save a specific amount for the 13th Sabbath offering. Others decide how much they will give just before the offering is received Sabbath morning. But in either event, before finalizing on the exact amount we plan to give in the 13th Sabbath offering September 29, let us first ask ourselves conscientiously, "Is what I plan to give enough?" If we will earnestly ask God to show us what we should do, the Holy Spirit will impress our hearts.

The Lord wants His people to develop a spirit of unselfishness and love for others in need. One of the most effective ways this is accomplished is for the Christian to give unselfishly of his financial means for the sending of the gospel to others. Satan well knows this and is constantly tempting God's people to give less rather than more.

A Sabbath school member just cannot give much, but there is a real danger of giving too little. It is easy to distinguish which voice is speaking to one—the Holy Spirit or the voice of the evil one. The evil one is always on hand to suggest one give less to God's cause. The Holy Spirit impresses the heart to do more for God.

Therefore, it is very important that before we decide what our gift on the coming 13th Sabbath will be, that we ask ourselves, "Is what I have been giving in 13th Sabbath offerings or what I plan to give on Sabbath, September 29, enough?"

B. M. Preston, Secretary
Sabbath School Department

Colonel Hubert L. Binkley, MC director of plans, supply and operation of the Surgeon General's Office, Department of the Army, at Camp Doss, arrived on the last Thursday of camp and stayed until Monday giving lectures to the men. He also reviewed the troops on Sunday when about 500 civilians attended the special

World's Fair Visitors See Adventist Exhibit

GORDON ENGEN, Editor, Lake Union Herald

Seattle's World's Fair was on the travel route of hundreds of Adventists who attended the General Conference session which ended August 4.

It has been suggested that the upward surge in fair attendance which set new records during the week following the conference might be attributable to the many Seventh-day Adventists who arranged their itineraries to include the fair.

To date nearly six million people have passed through the turnstiles to the fair, and before it ends officials expect a total of eight and one-half to nine million visitors.

About 8,000 of these people each day pause at a 15-by-30-foot exhibit on Boulevard East entitled "Your World Beyond Tomorrow," sponsored by the Seventh-day Adventist Church. Blending in with the fair theme, Century 21, the display focuses the attention of spectators on the world beyond Century 21, to the world re-created—the New Earth.

Pictures of Adventist work in various parts of the world bear out the story told by the large lighted revolving globe stationed by one of the entrances. Near the west door a small waterfall adds atmosphere to the display.

H. K. Christman, former circulation manager of the Pacific Press Publishing Association, is in general charge of the Adventist exhibit. It is sponsored jointly by the Washington Conference, the North Pacific Union and the General Conference. Elder Christman estimates that by the end of the fair, October 21, they will have given out nearly 400,000 pieces of literature including 250,000 Bible course enrollment cards. Already hundreds of these cards have been returned to the conference's office.

"Our aim is to create a favorable image of our church to the onrush of the crowds, knowing that the vast majority will only stop by for a moment," stated Eddie Norton, one of the attendants at the Adventist exhibit.

"It is reassuring," he continued, "to find out that many people have become acquainted with some phase of Seventh-day Adventist work through the Voice of Prophecy, Faith for Today, It Is Written, or through Adventist medical institutions, schools, or churches."

Elder Christman emphasized the great evangelistic opportunities presented by their seven-day-a-week operation, running 12 hours a day. "Every one of our workers is constantly alert, watching for interested souls among visitors," he stated.

Century 21 Exposition presents a collage of entertainment, although there are a number of amusement-park-type rides. It is rather an effort to portray the world as science is shaping it in the 21st century.

Predominating the entire fair is the Space Needle towering 600 feet above the 74-acre fairgrounds. It also serves as an unmistakable landmark easily seen from almost anywhere in the city. The space motif crops out everywhere, from space-needle-shaped ice cream cones to the intricate United States science exhibit.

The international atmosphere is everywhere. Exotic foods from all over the world help give visitors a "taste" of these foreign countries. In addition, 59 countries have exhibits at the fair which depict some aspect of their culture.

Lines of people form serpentine patterns at every turn. Visitors standing in line for the Space Needle may find themselves in downtown Seattle via the monorail if they are not careful. These lines sometimes discourage patrons from visiting the most interesting things at the fair. At times one has to wait two to three hours to gain entrance to some of the exhibits.

Under the shadow of the Space Needle is the Adventist exhibit, "Your World Beyond Tomorrow." Just to the right of the Space Needle can be seen a helicopter which takes spectators for short hops around Seattle.

A number of religious buildings and booths are in operation. The largest such building is the Christian Science Pavilion.

One of the most interesting and best patronized religious exhibits is entitled Sermons from Science, sponsored by the Moody Institute of Science. Each hour they present a half-hour program ranging from motion pictures to live demonstrations. During one demonstration Dr. George Speake becomes a human lightning rod as one million volts of electricity pass through him.

Perhaps one of the most controversial of the religious exhibits was the Sound and Light film shown in the Christian Pavilion. Sponsored by 23 denominations and 18 other agencies, the film is designed to depict man's birth, life, and death in relation to Biblical themes. Although it is geared to the nonchurched individuals, it takes considerable religious background to be able to understand its abstractions. For those who were not sure what it meant, an explanation sheet was given out following the showing.

One of the most striking impressions of the fair is the cleanliness of the grounds. Despite crowds of 70,000 to 80,000 daily, compressed into the 74 acres of the fairgrounds, litter is rarely in evidence.

The fair attracts visitors from every part of the United States as well as from many countries of the world. Prominent personalities show up every few days. For example, during the week of August 5, Attorney General Robert Kennedy and his family as well as former Vice-president Richard Nixon joined the throngs.

The fair leaves many impressions on its visitors. The one most readily detected by Adventists is that, in the minds of many men, science is almost taking place of God. For many, science has erased the concept of a Creator, substituting so-called scientific theories. It goes on to replace the Redeemer and re-creation with the marvels of the laboratory and technology, making man the master of the universe.

It is extremely fitting that, amid all this acclaim for science, there should be voices pointing men to the Creator who set the laws of nature in motion, and the Re-creator who will usher in the true Space Age, but without sin.

Five-Day Tobacco Cure

A unique Five-Day Tobacco Cure Plan was presented to the workers of the Washington Conference over the Labor Day weekend by Elder E. J. Folkenberg and Dr. Wayne MacFarland. By the time you read this, the CBS Documentary Television program on Tobacco will have been seen on Wednesday night, September 19.

In this program, Elder Folkenberg and Dr. MacFarland show and explain the Five-Day Tobacco Cure Plan. It is estimated that perhaps 40,000,000 people will see this program and, no doubt, many will be approaching Seventh-day Adventists for help in curing the tobacco habit.

Most of the ministers saw this plan in operation in the city of Auburn. About 25 people took the Five-Day cure, and gained the victory over the tobacco habit.

The plan includes the use of water, ceremonies. He was highly pleased with the accomplishments of the cadets and stated that he could return to Washington, D.C., with a much better picture of the work of the MCC and be better prepared himself to help our young men in the army.

Representatives from the General Conference National Service Organization included Elders J. R. Nelson and T. E. Lucas, who gave a series of character guidance studies. Colonel Clark Smith, MCC, was the commander of the camp with Major Harry Garlick, from the Pacific Union Conference, as executive officer. Elder George Chambers joined with the writer as camp chaplain. The staff members this year included MCC commanders from academies in the North Pacific Union and other academies as far away as New York.

Captain Lawrence McConnell, of the California National Guard Reserve, was sent from the Golden State to be an observer during the entire medical cadet camp. This is the third national camp which Captain McConnell has attended and he is very favorably impressed with the work our church is doing to prepare our young men for military induction. At the grand ceremonies on Sunday, Captain McConnell presented a beautiful trophy to Sergeant Gerald Winslow, a senior student at Columbia Academy. This trophy was awarded to the outstanding cadet of the camp. We heartily congratulate Sergeant Winslow on this outstanding achievement which represents top honors in military courtesy, military drill, first aid, general knowledge of MCC curriculum and outstanding moral character.

An added feature to this year's national camp was the presence of a small corps of Canadian cadets under the supervision of Captain Bidulock from Canadian Union College. Their snappy drill and distinctive uniforms added much color to the training program.

Medical cadet corps will be conducted in all but two of our academies in the North Pacific Union this year. These two academies are on the alternate-year plan and will be conducting corps in 1963. With the world situation becoming increasingly tense, the value of medical cadet corps preinduction training is becoming more and more vital to our young men. Pray for the success of the academy corps in our union this year.

ALASKA

New Workers in Alaska

It will be of interest to our believers to learn that Elder Paul Haynes, of the Washington Conference, accepted a call as pastor evangelist to the Alaska Mission and is now in the field working at Juneau.

Elder Haynes comes to our field with a good background of evangelistic and pastoral experience in smaller communities. He has also had the privilege of working with experienced evangelists in the larger cities. Prior to coming to our field he was the pastor of four churches in the Island District.

In making their decision to labor in our field he wrote: "We will regret leaving those we have brought to the Lord, our relatives and many friends, but we look forward with fresh vision to a new field of service in the Alaska Mission. . . . It is our earnest desire that one day soon the unfinished task will be completed and our long-looked-for Saviour will come."

We welcome Brother and Sister Haynes and their son, Landon, to Alaska. Fortunately they are privileged to be placed in an area of most spectacular beauty for Juneau is not only famous as Alaska's capital city, but also because Mendenhall Glacier and Auke Lake add to the scenic variety of the southeastern section of our field.

We trust all will remember Brother and Sister Haynes in their prayers.

MONTANA

Prayers Answered

"In the time of harvest send forth laborers into the field, O Lord, we pray," has been on the lips of the members of the Montana Conference. God has heard and answered in a heart-warming way.

After much fervent prayer and planning, Elder C. P. Lampson, the North Pacific Union Publishing Secretary, and the local conference Publishing Secretary made a tour through the western part of the conference, speaking in the churches in the evenings and visiting with some of the members during the day, encouraging them to enter the literature ministry. The response was excellent. Eight church members accepted the call and are now preparing to enter the field.

To climax the wonderful week, a training school for new workers was

Butte Vacation Bible School

An effective type of Sabbath school evangelism is the summer Vacation Bible School. It offers an opportunity for soul-winning endeavors and what a privilege it is!

The Butte church took advantage of this soul-satisfying method of evangelism. Under the able direction of Mrs. Thomas Chamberlain, assisted by 12 adults, approximately 60 boys and girls met each morning in the new church for a general program of songs and preliminaries before breaking up into various age groups.

Leadership to the Kindergarten division was given by Mrs. Jack Andre, to the Primary group by Mrs. A. M. Matar and the Juniors under the leadership of Mrs. Frank Rosich. Others lending their assistance were: Mrs. Bertha Barrett, Mrs. George Beech, Jeanne Rosich, Mrs. Eileen Flint, Mrs.

Butte Vacation Bible School

Fern Allen, Luella Arns and the writer. The recreation period was under the supervision of Mrs. Alvin Ek. The nature of the craft work was of unusual interest and value to the groups.

Truly Vacation Bible Schools pay rich dividends in awakening interest and focusing attention on winning souls. If your church has never taken part in this type of child evangelism, try it next summer and experience the joy of working for the salvation of boys and girls.

News of the Conference

In recent days there have been a number of changes in the working personnel of the Idaho Conference which will be of interest to our membership. It has been known by many of our members that Brother J. O. Hanson, our Conference secretary-treasurer, was reaching retirement age. Brother Hanson will be retired from his present position as of October 1, 1962. He will, however, be giving valuable service to our Conference on a limited basis for an undetermined period of time. He has been asked by the committee to help in the auditing of church books, to assist with the securing of annu-

You will be pleased to know that after a very prayerful consideration of some fourteen names that were presented to us for a replacement of Brother Hanson, that the Committee voted to ask Brother J. W. Griffin, who is assistant secretary-treasurer of the Upper Columbia Conference, to fill this position. He has accepted our invitation and he and Sister Griffin will be moving to Boise before the end of September. We do appreciate so very much the dedicated and faithful service that Brother and Sister Hanson have given to the Idaho Conference during the 13 years that they have been here. We shall never forget them. Many fine buildings including churches, schools and parsonages have been built. Tithe has shown a fine increase and other progress has been noted during the years of his service. While we desire to give God the glory for it all, we do express our thanks to Brother Hanson for the part he has had in making these gains a reality.

We are looking forward to our work with the Griffins. Brother Griffin has worked in Alaska, Montana and Upper Columbia before coming to us. He is well qualified for the job, and our workers and laity alike will learn to love the Griffins. Sister Griffin is the daughter of Elder Christian Sulzle, now deceased. Elder Sulzle was one of our German ministers of days gone by. The Griffins have two children, John who is a junior in Walla Walla College and Jean, their daughter, who is a freshman. We believe that the fine growth and forward-looking program will continue and increase in our Idaho Conference in the days to come.

Don't wait — write now!

Sleeping Bag—lost. Did you find one or get the wrong one? An expensive dark gray Neville (Brand-name) has been lost. Please contact us if you have seen it.

Idahaven—Spiritual Haven

Camp Idahaven 1962 is now in the past. Many and various experiences and blessings have been received.

The better spiritual tone of our camps seems to have been the biggest improvement of this year's camp. While a beautiful new beach and some new equipment added greatly to our camp, these were in second place as spiritual emphasis crowded them out.

Elder Ralph Martin from the Nampa district and Elder Ed Harms from the Baker district presented wonderful challenges as they ministered to our camps. We feel that the good gained from this one facet alone made the costs of the camps a "real bargain."

New plans and improvements are now being worked out for next year. You or your boy or girl will be there, won't you?

Walla Walla College

Registration

Registration dates at Walla Walla College are September 23, 24, and 25 with registration for all except freshmen opening Sunday morning at nine o'clock in Columbia Auditorium, says Dr. H. L. Rasmussen, academic dean.

Registration hours during the three days are 9 a.m. to 12 and 1:30 to 5 p.m. Students are urged to avoid delay and to complete registration before Wednesday, September 26, when a late registration fee goes into effect.

On September 6, acceptances totaled 1,350 as compared with 1,250 on September 6, 1961.

Freshmen

All freshmen will arrive on campus Sunday to be located in the dormitories, make business arrangements, obtain registration booklets, and be ready for the opening convocation in the Library Chapel Sunday evening at 7:30. Attendance at this convocation is mandatory.

Monday's program for freshmen begins with a convocation at 7:30. This will be followed by a testing, orientation, and registration procedure important to all entering freshmen. Evening social events include a reception and "meet the faculty" event on Monday evening in Columbia Auditorium and entertainment by the Student Association on Tuesday evening.

All new students have received a form for physical examination from the registrar's office. They should bring this statement showing results of a recent physical examination. Otherwise the student will be required to take the physical examination for which there is a $5 fee.

Classes for all students begin with Wednesday morning's schedule.

New Church Opening

It is with regret that the College Church board decided, once again, to defer the opening service of the new College Church.

Further delay of delivery and installation of church pews has necessitated this decision.

New date for the important opening is October 20, which is also the beginning date for the fall Week of Prayer at Walla Walla College. Original plans for a special service will be carried out, says Elder P. C. Heubach, pastor. These will include messages by the pastor and a conference administrator, special music by College groups, and other plans to be announced in detail later.

Speaker for the fall Week of Consecration will be Elder William A. Fagal. The Faith For Today quartet will also be on campus for the entire week, October 20-27.

It is hoped that plans for an afternoon Faith For Today service may be worked out so that a full day of spiritual blessing may be experienced by those who attend this high day in the experience of the members of the College Church.

Sturges and O'Gorman To Be Speakers

Dr. Stanley Sturges, selected by the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce as one of this country's Ten Outstanding Young Men for 1962, will speak at two services in Columbia Auditorium on the Walla Walla College campus the weekend of September 21 and 22.

The young Seventh-day Adventist missionary to Nepal will show pictures of mission work in that country at a Friday evening service at 7:30. Sabbath morning he will be the speaker at the College Church worship service at eleven o'clock, also featuring mission work.

Doctor Sturges, 32-year-old missionary to Nepal, became one of America's better-known physicians as a result of his selection by the Jaycees. Flown to America to receive the Jaycee's award, he and his work among the people of Nepal were featured in newspapers, magazines, and on radio and TV almost from the moment of his arrival in California until the day of his departure from New York to return to the rigors of frontier life.

Religious Liberty Rally

On the same date, September 22, at three o'clock in Columbia Auditorium, the Rev. W. E. R. O'Gorman, author, lecturer, champion of religious freedom, will speak on the subject, "Winning the Battle for Religious Liberty."

Born an Irish Protestant, Rev. O'Gorman became a Roman Catholic at the age of 21, but later left the church because of the many abuses he saw, including the serious involvements between Church and State.

There will be a question and answer period at the close of his address.
