

Victory Through Faith

JOHN K. GRISWELL, JR.

President, Atlantic Colombia Mission, Inter-American Div.

The people in the little town of Ayacucho, Colombia, were suspicious of Mrs. Carmela Chogo. She had a very strange religion for she kept the seventh day as a rest day.

Shortly after moving to Ayacucho she started to teach this peculiar belief, and with such success that soon a large group began meeting.

One day, some time later, a friendly neighbor passed away. Mrs. Chogo, with several of her fellow-believers, went to pay a visit to the widow to read her a few Psalms and to comfort her. Suddenly the Chief of Police entered the house accompanied by two policemen and a few civilians. He arrested all of the Sabbath-keepers and took them to jail. Why? The only accusation he could bring against them was that of participating in Adventist services.

The prison was a filthy, foul-smelling place. Like the disciples of yore, the feet of the brethren were locked in wooden stocks. Doctor Pinillos, one of the new converts, was thought to be the pastor of the group; to make doubly sure that he could not escape, the policeman fastened his head in the stocks instead of his feet.

Later, that same night, one of the policemen was ordered to kill the prisoners. Though he was hardened to this kind of task, he still felt it necessary to prepare for the ordeal by anesthetizing himself with drink. He then went to the prison to perform his duty. As soon as he arrived, he drew his pistol and fired several shots at the prisoners. He was not allowed to go on, however, for as if by a supernatural power, one of the other guards jumped upon him, disarmed him and shouted, "You will have to kill me first."

The would-be executioner was forced to withdraw, but still maintained the firm purpose of completing his task the next morning. To clear his mind he went down to the river to bathe himself. But again his plans were brought to nought, for the small river, which seldom rises, rose rapidly that morning while he was taking his bath. Its turbulent waters seized the policeman and carried him downstream. His body was found many miles from the spot where he had disappeared. God had intervened so that no harm could come to His children.

The Chief of Police, awe stricken by this unanticipated turn of events, released his prisoners, but not before fining them $130 (Colombian Pesos) and ordering them to never hold any more meetings. Inasmuch as they could not keep quiet, the trials increased in frequency for that wee group of Christians, but the flame of persecution kept their faith aglow and inspired them to win others.

The number of believers grew rapidly. The Chief of Police and his men constantly spied on the Adventists' movements and harried them. One notable enemy of the Sabbath-keepers, upon seeing how badly they were being treated, was so deeply impressed that he gave his heart to God, and like Saul of old, became their principal leader.

On Sabbath mornings, in order to evade the vigilance established by their antagonists, the brethren would leave their homes, some of them carrying waterbuckets, and others hoes, shovels, and picks. They would leave the town by various routes in order to mislead their enemies and they would then meet in the woods in some pre-arranged rendezvous. There they would hold their Sabbath School and study God's Word. For many months they were compelled to meet under these circumstances to escape their persecutors.

By 1962 there were seventy-four baptized members and the Sabbath School attendance had reached the mark of one hundred fifty persons. Their present need is a church in which to worship. By making great sacrifices the members have been able to raise the equivalent of $500 and are pledged to raise more. This, together with an equal contribution by the Colombia-Venezuela Union made it possible to acquire an ample piece of ground in a strategic location. Liberal offerings by the Adventist people in the world field made possible further funds, and at the present time definite plans are being made for the construction of a church. How happy and how thankful they are.

Surely, in the day of the Lord's coming, those who have invested their means in missions will see glorious dividends from the Bank of Heaven.

While some give their means, others, like the brethren in Ayacucho, endure fiery trials and win souls by their example. All will hear the words "Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world." (Matthew 25:34)

Last Call for Camp Doss

This is the last call for young men in the North Pacific Union who are interested in taking the Medical Cadet Training Course at our National MCC Training Camp at Grand Ledge, Michigan, this year from June 4 to 18.

The young men who are either sixteen this summer or who will be at least in the eleventh grade next year are eligible to attend this very important training program.

I am happy that there are several young men in the North Pacific Union who have already send in applications to attend the camp this year in Michigan. As I wrote two weeks ago in the GLEANER, The North Pacific Union has a financial policy to assist our young men with their transportation to Grand Ledge. This is a $35 allowance—$17.50 of which comes from the local church and an additional matching $17.50 from the local Conference. Any young man who is planning to attend Camp Doss this year from our Union should contact his local pastor immediately to be sure that financial arrangements are made before he leaves for camp.

In order to assist any young man who at the last minute wishes to go to camp, we are printing on this page of the GLEANER an application form which can be sent directly to the General Conference for your registration. Camp Doss will not be held on the West Coast next year in 1964. When it does return West again in 1965, it will probably be held in the Pacific Union Conference territory. It is imperative, therefore, that those who wish to take this training during the summer give consideration to the National Medical Cadet Camp in the East this summer.

Lay Congress Bible Evangelism Workshop

Delegates coming to attend the North Pacific Union Lay Congress during July 24-27 will enjoy the privilege of receiving instruction in several workshops. One of the most important workshops will feature Bible evangelism.

It is a thrill to win souls. The heart of the lay soul-winning program is the giving of Bible studies. Adventists should always keep in mind that the plan of giving Bible studies received the unique description of a "heaven-born idea." This proven plan of conducting studies in private homes or in community groups is still one of the most productive in winning souls to Christ.

Elder V. W. Schoen, of the General Conference, is coming to be the instructor in Bible evangelism. He has a rich experience in lay evangelism. He has a rich experience in lay leadership from Inter-America, where laymen are doing exploits for God. Elder Schoen will impart "know-how" in giving Bible studies.

Come to congress! Learn new tips on giving Bible studies. Find your place for a finished work. The glorious role of Bible studies being given by church members in the climax of the gospel work is set forth in the following statement:

"Hundreds and thousands were seen visiting families, and opening before them the word of God. Hearts were convicted by the power of the Holy Spirit, and a spirit of genuine conversion was manifest."—Testimonies, Vol. 9, p. 126.

It is interesting to note that Seventh-day Adventist church members around the world during 1958-1961 gave over twenty million Bible studies. In this same period souls won through the help of laymen totaled 151,553.

Academy Anthology of Creative Writing

Orders are still being taken for First the Blade, the 1963 academy anthology of creative writing. Begun by the Department of Education for the 90 academies and intermediate schools in the North American Division, the anthology is designed to give recognition to the creative expression of youthful writers.

A few copies of the first two volumes are still available. The 1961 edition carries entries by Kathy Anderson, Portland Union; Lloyd Cripe, Upper Columbia; Tom Calkins, Dale Hanson, Richard Morris, and Vicki Blisserd of Laurelwood.

Volume II includes the poetry and prose of Ann Keats and Charlene MacKenzie, Auburn; Lee Anne Van Tassel of Columbia; Carolyn Davidson and Earle Knowles, Milo; Charlene Hutchison and Luvon Stout, Brewster, Washington; Eddie Gibbons and Brent Gardner, Mt. View School, Everett, Washington; Arlene Riggins, Vernene Hartzell, and Lewis Cochran, Laurelwood.

Six Union schools are listed in this year's book: Beacon Junior, Idaho; Upper Columbia, Portland Union, Brewster School, Milo, and Laurelwood.

Order from Shirley Burton, Laurelwood Academy, Gaston, Oregon. Volumes I and II are $1.25. The 40-page Volume II is $1.50.

"They Shall Shine as the Stars!"

Time: Second Sabbath of Camp Meeting, June 15, 1963; 4:30-5:30 p.m.

Place: Main Auditorium,

Auburn Academy

This special, unique, 60-minute feature presentation will be one of the most outstanding highlights of all camp meeting programs! It will feature colorful youth pageantry of talent, inspiration and adventure. Special attention will also be given to all 1963 graduates in the Washington Conference, and official diplomas and certificates presented by proxy.

Over one thousand participants, including graduates in their colorful caps and gowns, teachers, students, and representatives from our schools, including Auburn Academy, will bring you this most thrilling panorama of Christian adventures, soul-searching challenges, and spiritual rejuvenation and refreshing. Truly, this promises to be one of the most unusual, history-making events in the denominational activities of our Conference!

By all means make definite plans NOW to be there and witness—"They Shall Shine as the Stars!"

Washington Camp Meeting Music

Music has played an important part in the great revivals of the Christian way of life. Camp meeting music affords an opportunity for our people to join in the ministry of sacred song as in no other way.

In seeking to implement a strong music program at the coming camp meeting, we would urge all those who possess and play a musical instrument to make provision for using it at the main pavilion on both Sabbath mornings—June 8 and 15. We would like to plan a Sabbath School orchestra to play on these dates.

Ancient Israel played their musical instruments at some of their solemn convocations. How fitting that modern Israel do the same. So bring your instrument and plan to play at the time for Sabbath School on both Sabbaths of Washington camp meeting.

Baptism and Child Dedication, Chehalis District

Sabbath, May 4, was a high day in the Chehalis district of churches. A large dedication service was held in the Chehalis church in which over twenty-four youngsters were dedicated to God. All the elders of the churches who were present took part in the ceremony. As the song, "When He Cometh," was played on the organ by Mrs. L. G. Steck, parents came forward bringing their young ones to present to the Lord. Each local elder received into his arms a young one as the dedicatory prayer was offered by the pastor. An unusual feature of this service was that two of the elders held their own child as it was being presented. One child was held by his great-grandfather. As a fitting climax to this portion of the service, each child was presented a flower blossom.

Elder E. M. Oberg, a veteran worker in the cause, and a beloved member of the Chehalis church, gave the baptismal sermon, after which sixteen candidates were publicly examined and accepted into the churches. After the administration of the sacred rite of baptism conducted by both Elders Oberg and McGann, the members came forward and extended the right hand of fellowship.

One family, save for father and a small brother, joined the church through baptism. Mother and five children were in the baptismistry together. This lovely family is earnestly praying that father will join them in happy church membership.

This was truly a memorable day for the churches of the Chehalis district, a day that will ever live in the memory of those present.

An Error

If you have received one of our camp meeting booklets, we want to point out an error that was made in the price of one of the items. On the inside of the front cover we give the prices of the new small Bible-Hymnal sets. The special price on the first one, Number 20XDA, is given as $9.50 and should be $19.95. Please make this change in your booklet. We hope you will consider one of these sets. Already they have become extremely popular.

A Double Portion

The Lord blessed with a "double portion" of decisions for Christ after a five-week evangelistic campaign in the Tacoma 23rd Street church.

Pastor Arthur Bushnell, who conducted the evangelistic series, the first such experience he has had, was overjoyed to have six precious souls unite with the remnant church of God. Prior to this occasion Pastor Bushnell's highest baptismal ceremony had been with three candidates, but a "double portion" of the Lord's converting power had twice as many into a watery grave with their Lord on May 4.

As of May 4, when the rite of baptism was administered by district leader, D. L. Crowder, the little Tacoma 23rd Street church has grown bigger by six. Now the total membership numbers

Hood River-White Salmon Area

The Conference committee has given study to the development of our work in the Hood River and White Salmon districts. As the result of the organization of a growing company at Glenwood it was considered advisable to make a separate district comprised of White Salmon, Trout Lake and Glenwood.

This move led to a change in the Hood River district. Hood River and Stevenson have been brought together into one district. The Dalles and Wahkiacus now constitute a new unit, thus making three districts in the territory where previously there were two.

Beginning July 1, 1963, the three districts will operate under separate respective leaders. Ed Eigenberg, who has recently been called to the Oregon Conference, will have charge of the White Salmon district. Elder L. L. Huntington will be pastor of the district comprised of The Dalles and Wahkiacus, known as The Dalles district. Elder Tom O. Willey of the Upper Columbia Conference has accepted the invitation to serve as pastor of the Hood River-Stevenson district. The Willeys will live in Hood River.

By adding one additional worker to the territory as indicated above it will be possible to foster a much stronger soul-winning program than under the former arrangement. We rejoice over the steady growth of God's work in these areas along the Columbia River and the adjacent communities.

Oregon Camp Meeting

Another rich program is taking shape for the Oregon Conference camp meeting at Gladstone Park, July 10 to 20. There are six well known speakers from the General Conference scheduled to be with us. Missionaries fresh from the overseas lands will bring their usual inspiration to both old and young.

The Faith for Today group will be present during the earlier part, and the Voice of Prophecy group will be on our program during the latter part of the convocation.

The North Pacific Union Conference staff will be on hand throughout the period to give their usual strong help in the various phases of God's work. Walla Walla College and other institutions will, of course, be represented as usual.

Several features that have been introduced during the past few years, such as the group Bible study, medical aids, etc., will be featured again, with other helpful features added. The camp meeting program will be spiritual, educational and practical. It will be well worth attending throughout.

Gladstone camp will be ready to house its usual population. All cabins will be ready for occupancy. Tent frames are also restored, many are completely new. Most gas and water lines have been improved and, of course, fully restored where broken by the storm. Electric lines and installations will be practically new throughout the camp. While many traces of the "great blow" are in evidence all over the camp we are glad to report that in many respects our campground is in better condition now than it has been for many years.

Plan to be with us at camp meeting. Bring your best disposition and a prayerful and helpful spirit with you.

Hiking and Camping Course

"How to Get Away from It All," in two easy lessons. Down-to-earth illustrated information on how to walk the trails and camp away from the end of the road and enjoy it. If this is something you and your family would like to do but do not know just how to begin, here is the time and the place. The Portland Chapter of the Oregon Outdoor Club is presenting two lessons on Hiking and Camping on Tuesday evenings, June 11 and 18, at 7:30 in the Nurses' Home Assembly Hall.

Hear Elder A. R. Lickey present the great truths of the Advent message with beautifully illustrated slides and black light. Why not form a TV Bible class, inviting folks to your home to view the program or go to their home to do so. After the presentation is over, perhaps you can spend a few moments discussing what has been presented. In due course this could lead to Bible studies.

TV Bible Class Brings Results in Canyonville

The following is a letter from a prominent businessman in Canyonville, Oregon, written to the TV Bible Class: "Dear Sir: I am interested in your home Bible study for busy people. I enjoy your TV program very much and occasionally attend the Adventist church here, although I am not a member."

During our three-week effort last year this gentleman attended a few times, but showed only a casual interest. Last fall when the TV Bible Class began this man became a steady viewer. His interest quickened. He closed his place of business each Sabbath and began attending our local church.

Recently the Knowles evangelistic team returned to Canyonville for an eight-night series. The members brought with them the ones to whom they had been giving studies. Each night this businessman came early and took a seat in the second row from the front. When the call for full surrender was made he was among the many who came forward. He is now a baptized member.

Mrs. Esther Falk, a busy doctor's wife with a family of her own, took compassion on a destitute, bewildered mother left to care for a family of seven children. Food and clothing were kindly provided. Each Sabbath the mother and seven children came to Sabbath School and church with Mrs. Falk. The children learned to love Sabbath School, but they also learned to love the one who had been so kind in their time of need. Many a tear was shed as Mrs. Falk stood by the baptismal surrounded by the little children, with the smallest ones clutching her skirt in their tiny hands, as their mother was buried with her Lord in baptism. May God continue to bless our medical workers and their wives as they share their faith in their communities.

A lady who was baptized at the close of last year's effort was hesitant about inviting a certain neighbor to come to the meetings. One day she took courage and seeing her neighbor at the mail box, approached her with an invitation. She was almost surprised when the neighbor willingly accepted the invitation. As Pastor Knowles began speaking the visitor said, "I know that man. I watch him every Sunday on TV, and I believe he is right about the Sabbath." She came every night during the remainder of the series, and is now looking forward to baptism. The ladies who met at the mail box now sit side by side in Sabbath School.

Would you like to have an experience like this? You can, if you will share your faith with your neighbors. Many throughout the Oregon Conference are catching the vision of what can be done by developing interest in their neighborhoods by the use of literature, and invitations to listen to and view our radio and television programs, and then bring these folks to decision meetings.

Our believers in Canyonville, Gledale, and Myrtle Creek gave the meetings their whole-hearted support by attending faithfully every night and by bringing their friends and loved ones. They were rewarded for their labors on Sabbath, May 11, when they had the joy of seeing their pastor, Elder Harry B. Davis, administer the rite of baptism to thirteen candidates. Others are preparing for a future baptism.

The Knowles evangelistic team now moves on to hold meetings in Lebanon and Veneta. If you know of those in either of these two areas who should be contacted by our workers, please send the name, address, and information to:

A New Way To Help Your Neighbor

"The Winners!" This was the caption at the top of the article printed in the Corvallis Gazette Times at the close of our second Five-Day Stop-smoking Clinic here. The article then goes on to explain that these winners are the 18 individuals who feel they have given up the smoking habit completely.

The average attendance at this five-day series which was held in the high school auditorium was 34; and 21 were present the closing night. Elder E. G. Fresk states that several of those who did not attend all of the meetings also felt that they had gained the victory over smoking.

The persons attending the clinic with the desire to stop smoking came from all walks of life, including Oregon State University students and instructors, secretaries and business people, Adair Air Force personnel, and one physician.

One "Winner" was 90 years old, and had smoked for 72 years. The average number of years of smoking among the others was 20-35 years.

Careful groundwork was laid before the meetings started. Personal letters were written to all of the medical men in the city. Elder Fresk, assisted by the Church Temperance Secretary, and Dr. J. M. Anholm, who participated in the course instruction, made personal visits to many businessmen in the area to ask permission to post announcement signs in the windows of their business establishments.

People of the Corvallis church agree with others who have written to the GLENER in regard to this program, that it is a wonderful means of breaking down prejudice and making favorable impression upon people of the city by helping our neighbors in a definite way. For, as an editorial in the Gazette Times put it—"Breathed there ever a man with soul so dead who never unto himself has said, 'I'm going to quit smoking!'" goslavia, he spent the major portion of his youth in Brooklyn, New York City, attending the Greater New York Academy and finally graduating from Atlantic Union College, South Lancaster, Massachusetts. Pastor Carcich's first ministerial post upon graduation was in the northern portion of New York state, 1934-41. In 1941 and '42 he labored in a pastorate in southern New England, moving from that work to the post of president of the Southern New England Conference, which he held until 1946, when he accepted a call to the same position in the Illinois Conference of Seventh-day Adventists. In 1950 he moved to the president's chair in the Washington Conference, with headquarters in Seattle.

In 1957 Pastor Carcich moved up to the post of president of the Central Union Conference, which included the states of Colorado, Wyoming, Kansas, Nebraska and Missouri. This post he held until the church in General Conference session in San Francisco called him as vice president of the denomination's world work. In this capacity his particular responsibility lies in the North American field, with its 3,197 Adventist churches, and well over 340,000 members.

We are glad that Elder Carcich is returning to the Northwest to spend some time in ministering to us during the coming camp meeting at College Place, June 12-22.

It will be the privilege of the Upper Columbia believers to welcome one of their boys with his family back to the Northwest as one of our camp meeting guest speakers.

Born April 7, 1926 at Stayton, Oregon, Mr. Hegstad received his Bachelor of Theology degree from Walla Walla College. He continued his studies, receiving a Master of Arts in Religion degree from the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary, Washington, D. C., in 1954. He was ordained to the gospel ministry in 1955 at Lewiston, Idaho.

Roland Hegstad

From 1955 to 1957 Elder Hegstad was assistant editor of These Times, a monthly inspirational magazine published by the Southern Publishing Association of Nashville, Tennessee. In 1957 he was made associate editor of the magazine, and a year later he became book editor for the Southern Publishing Association.

In July of 1959, Elder Hegstad was asked to serve as editor of Liberty, a magazine of religious freedom published by the Religious Liberty Association. He was also made associate secretary of the association at that time.

His wife is Stella Marie, who was also a student at Walla Walla College. They were married August 22, 1949. There are two children Douglas Roland, age 6; and Sheryl Marie, age 4½.

All will want to greet and hear Elder Hegstad during our coming camp meeting.

Academy Commencement Speakers

Speakers for graduation events for Walla Walla College Academy were announced today by Principal Harold D. Schwartz.

First event, senior consecration service, will be held in the new College Church, Wednesday, May 29, at 8 p.m. with Pastor Paul C. Heubach as speaker.

Senior class night program will be presented by members of the class in the Library Chapel Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Vice-principal Clifford Sorensen, and Mrs. John Thorn, supervisor in secretarial science, are sponsors for the 42-member class. The officers of the class with their sponsors are in charge of the program which will include the traditional class will and presentation of the class flower to the parents. Honor address will be by Clyde Hooper, and presentation of awards by the principal.

Sabbath morning at 9:30 in the Village church, the class will be in charge of the Sabbath School program.

Elder Gordon Dalrymple, assistant editor of the Signs of the Times and assistant book editor at the Pacific Press, Mountain View, will give the baccalaureate sermon at 2:30 Sabbath afternoon in the College Church. A graduate of Walla Walla College Academy and an alumnus of WWC, Elder Dalrymple is an experienced evangelist and pastor as well as an editor and author.

Commencement for the academy group is scheduled for Sunday evening, June 2, at 8 o'clock in Columbia Auditorium with Professor J. N. Barnes, School of Theology, as speaker.

Diplomas will be presented by Principal Schwartz assisted by Vice-principal Sorensen and Ervin Bigham, registrar.

Elementary School Music Workshop

Plans for a two-credit summer session Seminar in Elementary School Music are now finalized, Dr. Melvin K. West, chairman of the department of music, announced this week.

Dates for the workshop to be conducted by Miss Frances L. Brown, associate professor of music at La Sierra College, are July 15-26. Beginning of the Workshop coincides with the beginning of the second term of summer session and will be especially advantageous for teachers who wish to study during the first term and include this intensive two-week Workshop in their summer program.

Planned for both experienced teachers and college teachers-in-training, the course includes emphasis on fundamentals of music, the various learning processes of music, repertoire, handling of young voices, rhythm band, and general music appreciation.

Miss Brown, the denomination's foremost authority in elementary school music, holds the M.A. degree from the University of Southern California and has done graduate work at the University of Redlands. She prepared the set of Singing Time Tapes for grades one to four. This set is already in use in Seventh-day Adventist church schools. Before arriving for the July Workshop, Miss Brown hopes to complete a set of tapes for grades 5-8.

Because of the intensive nature of the program and the necessity of having materials provided, Doctor West urges those who wish to enroll for the Workshop to write him for information and confirmation of registration.

Awards Presented in Chapel

Approximately 40 Walla Walla College students received recognition of high scholastic achievement in an Awards Chapel, Monday, May 20.

The 22 seniors and juniors nominated and announced last December as Walla Walla College's representatives in the Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges received certificates.

Elder B. M. Preston, public relations secretary of the North Pacific Union Conference, presented the Pacemaker trophy of the Adventist Collegiate Press Association (ACPA) to Dave Wood, Collegian editor. "This award," said Elder Preston, "indicates top scoring among Adventist college newspapers and marks the Walla Walla College Collegian as the best college newspaper in the denomination." Elder Preston brought commendation to the Collegian staff, to Mrs. William Lay, advisor, to Walla Walla College from Elder E. W. Tarr, General Conference public relations secretary, and Miss M. Carol Hetzell, co-ordinator of the ACPA rating program.

Scholastic Excellence

Excellence in scholarship and in creative accomplishments was stressed by Dr. P. W. Christian, president, and by department heads and teachers who made individual awards.

Elford Radke, Portland senior business administration major, was named recipient of the Wall Street Journal award as outstanding business student by department chairman Professor J.

G. Mehling. Radke has accepted a position as assistant to Wesley Siegenthaler, manager of the Portland branch of the Pacific Press.

Linda Osborne, Yakima, summer senior and secretarial science major, was recognized as Secretary of the Year by Mrs. H. E. Weaver, acting department head. Miss Osborne will be the secretary to the principal at San Gabriel Academy next year. Underwood Corporation awards of merit for outstanding achievement in typing were announced for Merle Balharrie, College Place, and James Hall, Yakima; in calculator proficiency, Patricia Lewis, College Place, and Darlene Crays, Milo.

Three Chemical Rubber Company scholastic awards were presented, each including a handbook of that particular field: Mrs. A. D. Schlotthauer, acting head of the mathematics department to Gordon Johnson, Portland; C. W. Shankel, associate professor of chemistry, to Jerry Schoepflin, Portland; Dr. C. C. Barnett, chairman of physics department, to Jim Brackett, Paradise. A WWC physics achievement award for high scholarship goes to Charles A. Jones, Gaston, says Doctor Barnett.

E. F. Cross, chairman of the engineering department, presented an engineering scholastic award to Stan Capon, College Place. Dick Hart, Roseburg, received the award for scholastic performance in a three-quarter course in World Civilization from Dr. Frank E. Meckling, chairman of the history department.

Ruth N. Thomas, senior home economics major, received from Miss Evelynne Wright, chairman of the department of home economics, the Crisco award for being the outstanding student in home economics. Miss Thomas goes to Maplewood Academy next fall as dean of girls.
