SAMSON'S METHOD NOT RECOMMENDED

MARENUS H. JENSEN

When urgent appeals are put out for clothing for our Eastern or Western International Welfare Centers, the question invariably comes up, "How are we to secure such large quantities of clothing?"

There are many ways of putting on a clothing drive, some right, some wrong. While Samson, of old, put on a very successful clothing drive, we would not recommend his method, however urgent the need. You say, "But still he is listed among the faithful in the eleventh chapter of Hebrews." This is true. And if he turned in his report the next Sabbath, he was, no doubt, regarded by the church as a very faithful welfare worker. According to Judges, chapter 14, he gave away thirty garments and thirty pieces of bedding. Not a bad weekly report. In fact, according to present standards, it was a very good report.

Such an excellent report coming from one of the younger men of the church, certainly merited a few words of commendation from the Missionary Leader. And so far as we know this was good clothing. Yet, we question if it was the method used in his clothing drive that put his name among the faithful in the eleventh chapter of Hebrews. It was more likely that it was because he had repented and asked God to forgive him for the things he had done so wrong. And, sometimes I think it would not be amiss if some of God's people today should ask God to forgive them, perhaps not for their method of gathering clothes, but their cold, loveless, arbitrary method of giving out clothes, and for the kind of clothes they offer the poor.

Now, we trust that none will conclude that clothing drives should not be put on, simply because Samson of the Bible did not use what we may consider the best method. I would like to add, right here, even though a method may be successful, as was that of Samson, there may be other reasons why it is not the best and therefore cannot be recommended.

While there are right methods and plans for putting on clothing drives, there are some prerequisites that are of far more importance to success than any material method I might mention. First of all is a live, active spirit-filled, producing church, overflowing with the love of the Lord Jesus Christ. If this were characteristic of all our churches around the world, we certainly would not have to resort to Samson's methods to meet our clothing needs. * But in suggesting right methods, I would list, as number one, visitation. Call on your neighbors and businessmen, report to them what the church is doing. If you really have something worthwhile to report, you will get help. If you do not, you should not ask for it. Second, cooperate with other worthy organizations and they will cooperate with you. Third, if your conference has a pick-up van, give wide publicity to its coming to town. Tell of the need and ask for help. People are not going to give unless they know there is a need. And they are not going to give to Seventh-day Adventists unless they know that there is an active Seventh-day Adventist church in their town. Go to the Mayor, Chief of Police, and the Fire Chief, and offer your help and you will get help.

These are but a few of the right methods that may be used. If these are faithfully carried out, you will not have to resort to Samson's questionable methods to supply clothing needs.

Information Wanted

An Evangelistic Crusade will be held in St. Joseph, Missouri, beginning April 12. Elder C. L. White, evangelist, will be using a portable evangelistic auditorium for the meetings.

We urge you to begin immediately to send names of persons of your acquaintance who live in St. Joseph and surrounding area. These persons will receive an invitation to attend the meetings. The times in which we live demand that we give these friends and loved ones an opportunity to hear the message! Please do not put off writing. Again we urge you, do it now!

Names may be sent to: Elder J. R. Coyle, 2616 Belle Street, St. Joseph, Missouri 64503. Thank you.

Attention, Highland Alumni

Highland Academy, Portland, Tennessee, will hold its annual Alumni Week End April 24, 25.

Plans are being made to make this the best week end yet, and all alumni and former students are urged to attend and show their loyalty to their Alma Mater. This will be an excellent opportunity to renew old acquaintances. This year the classes of '54 will be honored.

All alumni are requested to send their current addresses and those of any other alumni to Highland Academy as soon as possible.

Youthful Influence

Have you ever explored the possibilities of what you might accomplish as a devoted youth in actual soul winning? We hear constantly thrilling stories of what dedicated young people are accomplishing, but just think what would happen if a soul-winning spirit were to invade the heart of each member of every MV Society.

The time has come when our youth must fully sense the power of their influence. MV TARGET 3000 provides the motive, and 1964 will prove it. We believe three thousand candidates for baptism will be made possible by our youth accepting this challenging program. The Spirit of Prophecy stresses the urgency of our youth accepting the tremendous responsibilities of their influence.

"The youth, if right, could sway a mighty influence. Preachers, or laymen advanced in years, cannot have one-half the influence upon the young that the youth, devoted to God, can have upon their associates. They ought to feel that a responsibility rests upon them to do all they can to save their fellow mortals, even at a sacrifice of their pleasure and natural desires. Time, and even means, if required, should be consecrated to God."—Messengers to Young People, p. 204.

What is more, we believe that the youth are ready to fight for God's cause as never before. Our youth do not hesitate to sacrifice time and pleasure when the needs are squarely placed before them.

MV TARGET 3000 calls for the youth to join hands with their pastors in winning three thousand candidates for baptism. The hour is come for the church to give its approval and support by challenging its own youth to take hold of this responsibility. Let the pastors, teachers and parents rally around the MV Society in this endeavor, that every youth might exert a mighty influence to finish the work quickly.

MV leaders, pastors and church elders will find your conference MV secretary ready to give you a booklet and materials concerning every aspect of this program. Be sure your MV Society participates in MV TARGET 3000.

A Problem Solved

For years youth leaders in all phases of the young people's work have been attempting to solve the problem of finding activities for the young people in their churches that will be interesting and stimulating to the youth while at the same time providing the necessary character-building ingredients. To schedule programs which will interest and satisfy our young people while at the same time help them to grow spiritually and strengthen their ties with the church has been our greatest youth problem.

Socials and recreational activities, though playing a large role in saving our young people, are not alone the answer. If we provide nothing but social and recreational activities for our youth, we only put off the time of their eventual loss to the church and to the Lord. We are giving them all desserts with no nourishing foods.

The aim of the MV Department this year is to have a well-balanced, spiritual diet; and of what will the main entrée of this diet consist? Some type of Share-Your-Faith activities—a Voice of Youth series of meetings, Friendship Teams, Operation Fireside, Community Services or some other equally-proven youth evangelistic campaign. Voice of Youth meetings, wherever they have been held by our young people, have been enthusiastically entered into and thoroughly enjoyed by the youth. At the same time, these activities have been building the character and shaping the outlook of the young people who took part in them. May there be some well-planned, thoroughly-carried-out type of youth evangelistic endeavor in every church in the North Pacific Union during 1964.

Be a Soul-Winner

Many willing workers at home and abroad have longed for greater power in presenting Bible truth. They realize that something more than factual knowledge is necessary. Convincing argument must have with it sincere persuasion if souls are to accept the doctrines. But sincerity without knowledge and skill is not sufficient.

Evangelism in public halls or in the churches frequently presses into service many willing workers with limited preparation for or experience in soul-winning. A series of studies is now ready to assist busy church members in their preparation for effective soul-winning. With guidance and encouragement of the local pastor, even working all alone, many earnest members can give an evening a week to studies with neighbors or other interested ones, and win many souls.

But there are certain fundamental facts and procedures that the beginner should have lest he mar the patterns of truth in his efforts to make them attractive to the learner. One needs to be not only harmless; he should also be wise. The apostle Paul urged Timothy to study in order to be approved, and rightly divide or teach the Word. There is a time to be silent but there is also a time to speak.

And the successful veteran is always

Did You Know?

1. Did you know young people like evangelism?

MV societies and academy groups from every part of the United States have been involved in soul-winning endeavors during the last year. Without exception, the young people who have participated in these soul-winning endeavors expressed the great satisfaction and enjoyment which they received from this type of activity, and also expressed a desire to again participate in evangelism whenever possible.

2. Did you know that young people can win souls?

Last year one pilot evangelistic program was held in each conference in the North Pacific Union. In these five evangelistic endeavors more than thirty souls gave their hearts to the Lord and were baptized into the Seventh-day Adventist Church as a direct result.

3. Did you know that evangelistic work is being done in many places in the Northwest right now by young people?

By the end of 1964 it is hoped that every society will have held some type of share-your-faith activity put on by the young people in the local society. Many of these groups have already begun their soul-winning program.

4. Did you know that your youth are waiting for your support in this endeavor?

If your society or church has not yet begun its share-your-faith activity, get together with your pastor, youth leaders and church officers to help lay the plans. If your group is already engaging in some form of youth evangelism, do your best to support it by your enthusiasm and your help in any way needed.

learning improved methods. That is how he continues to win souls and becomes a veteran in the cause. Even the largest and oldest trees, so long as they live, put forth new growth every year, though it is no more than small twigs at the tips of their great, spreading branches. Growth is evidence of life and vitality. The first or the next soul one saves may be his own.

The set of studies, designed especially for the friendly, earnest person who sees opportunity but lacks a little confidence in his own skills, was prepared by Louise Kleuser, for many years the leader of Bible instructors, and one of the secretaries in the Ministerial Association of the General Conference. Here are concentrated the methods, experience, and work-patterns of an eminently successful soul-winner. They form a veritable treasury for anyone seeking to present Bible truth successfully.

These studies have been in use long enough to prove and demonstrate their effectiveness. They are packed with essential facts, and successful methods of presentation. Each study supplies the learner with pointed illustrations in question and answer form. The mastery of each step prepares for a Bible lesson on a special subject and illustrates how others can be given. Skillful handling of subject matter is developed. Guidance by experienced workers, and simple measurement of progress are provided.

This course is not intended as advanced training in the theory or doctrine but does show how to apply the best methods for teaching truth in order to win souls. It takes accumulated knowledge, organizes it in simple, quickly-acceptable form, and breathes into it the friendship and earnest-heartedness of the soul-winner.

For further information concerning this inexpensive training course, write to the Ministerial Association of the General Conference, or to the Home Study Institute, both of Takoma Park, Washington, D.C. 20012.

Korean Vacation Bible Schools Develop New Churches

In a letter recently from Mrs. C. A. Williams, Child Evangelism Director of the Korean Union Mission, she writes: "It is hard to credit any one baptism to any one interest or personal contact. We have many individuals that we know have had their first contact with the Advent Message through Vacation Bible Schools and Branch Sabbath Schools.

"However, we do know that in Korea in recent years we have had a very rapid expansion in Sabbath School work which has come about mainly through Vacation Bible School evangelism. Many of these areas where we have Sabbath Schools and even churches today, have had their start through a Vacation Bible School. This method of labor has been used by our laymen and ministers to enter new territory where we had no churches before.

"When territory is entered by means of Vacation Bible School evangelism, it is quite easy to get a large number of children together. It is a most natural thing then to reach the parents through the children. This is accomplished mostly by visiting in the homes of the children in the afternoon and inviting the parents to a meeting especially for mothers and fathers to be held in the evening.

"After the Vacation Bible School has been completed and the graduation exercises are over, a Branch Sabbath School is organized. We do not announce any closing of the Vacation Bible School but announce that hereafter we will meet once a week rather than every day. Soon the numbers are sufficiently large as to provide strong leadership to organize a company. Shortly after this land is acquired and a request is made to the Mission to build a church. The people themselves contribute most of the labor and materials for the church building. By this time a large number have already been baptized and more have been brought in. After the church building is completed, an evangelistic meeting is held and more souls are brought in. The church by now will have had two or more Branch Sabbath Schools operating, which were started through Vacation Bible School evangelism, and the first thing we know we have a strong interest throughout the entire district spread over a number of villages.

"This church then becomes a mother church sending out teams of young people and workers into still other areas. They report back to the mother church, telling stories and thrilling experiences they have had working for the Lord, and how He has blessed them. Others in the church hear these experiences and want to receive these blessings, so it is not long before other companies are started, and they in turn grow into churches all over the land.

"In one area, not far from Taejon, Korea, we have nine churches all within a distance of thirteen miles. All of these, with the exception of the mother church, were started directly or indirectly through the activities of Vacation Bible Schools. Among these there are approximately 800 baptized believers. This is one example of many areas in Korea today where we have many churches quite close together which have been raised up largely through the efforts of young people holding Vacation Bible Schools.

"We will never know until we reach the kingdom the full story of the many thousands that have received their first impressions of truth through listening and watching the story of salvation demonstrated by devoted church members on a flannelboard in a Vacation Bible School."

Indeed, Vacation Bible School is an effective type of evangelism. Is your church making full use of this wonderful means for evangelism outreach?

Bulletin

We have just received word that the February Smoke Signals has gone over the 1,000,000 mark in circulation and is well on the way toward 1,500,000, perhaps 2,000,000. Entitled "So You Want to Quit!" this issue likely will eclipse all denominational publication circulation records.

Already hundreds of requests for help in quitting smoking have been received following the Surgeon General's report on smoking and health. This Smoke Signals, co-authored by Elman Folkenberg and J. Wayne McFarland of Five-Day Plan fame, tells smokers how to quit smoking permanently.

On February 22, Temperance Commitment Day, our people will have an unprecedented missionary opportunity with the February Smoke Signals. Let us not fail to accept the challenge.

Postgraduate Convention for Medical Alumni

How many graduates of the Loma Linda School of Medicine are furthering the medical missionary work of the Seventh-day Adventist Church will be revealed during the opening meeting of the Alumni Postgraduate Convention, Friday evening, March 6, in the White Memorial Church. The convention is sponsored and produced by the Alumni Association of the School of Medicine.

With their topic, "Medical Missions—an Alumni Opportunity," a group will tell how they, with the cooperation of fellow alumni, are helping to provide much needed drugs, equipment and other supplies to mission stations manned by alumni, according to Dr. Louis L. Smith, Chairman, Religious Program Committee.

Dr. Gustave H. Hoehn, a former missionary to Africa, for a number of years has headed the sample medicine gathering and sorting project of the Alumni Association's Medical Assistance Program. With a smart group of helpers, he has packed for shipment each year an average of 15 tons of pharmaceuticals.

cals valued at $150,000. These drugs have been brought to the Alumni office by alumni and representatives of drug concerns.

Dr. L. H. Lonergan of Loma Linda will tell of his work in soliciting equipment and repairing it for overseas shipment. Dr. Paul H. Freeman of Santa Ana, will relate some of his gratifying experiences in seeking equipment for colleagues.

A symposium having as its subject, "Loma Linda University—and the Challenge of Global Medicine," will be offered on Sabbath afternoon March 7, at 3:15 in the White Memorial Church. Featured speakers will include Dr. Ellsworth E. Wareham, member of the LLU Heart Team, who recently went to Pakistan and the Far East on a mission program; Dr. William Wagner, who was medical director for the Dar es Salaam Hospital in Baghdad before the Iraq government appropriated it, and subsequently director of the Benghazi Hospital in Libya, where he was instrumental in raising a half million dollars to help build a new hospital; and Dr. Lawrence D. Longo, former missionary to Nigeria who combined mission work with teaching in the University of Ile Ife. Also expected to be a member of the panel will be Dr. P. William Dysinger, recently with the LLU Tropical Medicine Field Station in Tanganyika, and Dr. Orpha M. Speicher, for the past 30 years the Director of the Reynolds Memorial Hospital of the Church of the Nazarene, Maharashtra, India.

A pot-luck luncheon for former and furloughing missionary doctors will be held in the Sabbath School rooms of the White Memorial Church Sabbath, March 7, at noon. All missionaries and families are invited to attend.

A special Sabbath service will be held in the White Memorial Church during the worship hour, March 7.

The Annual Alumni Banquet will be held in the Biltmore Bowl on the evening of March 11. Dr. Edward R. Annis, president of the American Medical Association, will be the guest speaker. Class reunions are being planned for the week, and there will be a special dinner for the members and prospective members of the newly formed Walter E. Macpherson Society.

The entire program of the Alumni Postgraduate Convention is being produced by the Alumni Association of the School of Medicine. Members of the faculty of the LLU School of Medicine will present the refresher courses. Some of the country's most outstanding specialists in medicine will take part in the Scientific Assembly Program.

All doctors of medicine are cordially invited to attend. Further information may be secured by writing the Alumni Association, 316 North Bailey Street, Los Angeles, California 90033.

The number before us in this article is 678, and 678 represents the number of penal institutions in the United States. This includes state penitentiaries, federal penitentiaries, federal prison camps, federal penal institutions, state prisons, and reformatories. But 678 is only a small part of the total with which we are involved. These 678 institutions hold over 360,000 human beings—a tremendous mission field.

Our great missionary periodicals stand ready to go into these institutions and serve and minister and evangelize in your behalf.

Last year, in response to our appeals, fewer subscriptions were turned in than would account for one subscription to each institution—just a little more than one journal for each 1,000 of those involved in these institutions. This means that scores of these institutions received no copies of Message Magazine.

Is it nothing to you that there are hundreds and thousands in need of the help that you could give? We maintain a World Literature Fund for this purpose, a fund that is largely used among the penal institutions of the United States.

How pleasing it would be to the Lord if you would send a substantial offering now to Southern Publishing Association World Literature Fund, Box 59, Nashville, Tennessee 37202.

Weddings

Monica Hall and James Spencer exchanged marriage vows at a candle-light ceremony in the Seventh-day Adventist church of Wenatchee, Washington, on December 22. Elder Ray Badgley read the services. Jim and Monica are making their home in Los Altos, California. We wish them God's blessing as they establish their new home in Christ.

On December 28 the new Seventh-day Adventist church of Wenatchee was the scene of a wedding service as Marilyn Badgley and Frank Stephens were joined in marriage by the bride's father, Elder Ray Badgley. Frank is the son of Elder and Mrs. Lloyd Stephens of Paso Robles, California. The couple are presently living at Tumwater, Washington. May God bless them in their new life together.

Bette June Anderson of Glendale, California, became the bride of LeRoy Loring Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Anderson of Stevenson, Washington, in the Campus Chapel at Walla Walla College, October 13. Dr. Clifford Anderson, father of the bride, performed the ceremony. The young people are making their home in College Place.

The Tabernacle church in Portland, Oregon, was the scene of a beautiful wedding service on June 9, 1963, when Linda Luce and Edward Bauer were united in marriage by Elder Richard Lange. Their wedding was the first service held in the new church. All wish this talented and dedicated young couple God's richest blessings.

A new home was established when Bessie Bighaus of St. Helens, Oregon, and Dick Gemar of Ledger, Montana, were united in marriage November 13 in Conrad, Montana. Elder A. M. Matar officiated at the ceremony. We rejoice in this establishment of another Christian home in Ledger, Montana, where Dick is manager of the Farmers Union Elevator.

Confidence in the Brethren

Doubtless the greatest testimonial ever given of any man is found in Acts 2:22: "Jesus of Nazareth, a man approved of God." In thought, word and action, Christ had the approval of His Father in heaven. Thus Christ not only merited, but gained the confidence of many millions who have lived and died for Him.

Confidence is a major factor in church relationships. Without it Christian fellowship is impossible. It is a great thing to have confidence in the brethren.

Confidence, one of the hardest things to gain, is very quickly and easily lost. Sometimes only a word, or a glance will result in the loss of confidence; and once lost it is very difficult to regain.

Christians sin often in this matter of "confidence in the brethren." For some mysterious reason many people take it for granted that since they are Christians others should have confidence in them. Then again, there are those simple folk who assume that since an individual professes to be a Christian they must have confidence in him. The result is: painful disillusionment, often discouragement, and loss of faith in God. Confidence does not necessarily follow baptism. Confidence must be earned and merited by an approved conduct.

Mother as Teacher

Many mothers of preschool children are wondering whether they could give their child the kind of school readiness that he needs right in their own homes. The answer is Yes. If the mother is not working away from home but is with the child during the day, she can be an ideal kindergarten teacher. In fact, mother is a teacher whether she realizes it or not. Trained or untrained, right or wrong, mother is teaching her child by her words, by her facial expressions, by her tone of voice, and by what she does. (If she has had no technical training in the art of teaching, it would be advisable for her to take the correspondence course offered by The Home Study Institute, Washington, D.C. 20012). She teaches every day, all day. That is one reason why a "school schedule" would not be practical or desirable for the mother in the majority of cases. The training of the child becomes a part of the regular home duties, and home duties a part of the training.

The curriculum, however, of the Manual for Parents and Teachers of the Weekday Kindergarten is just as important to the mother-teacher as to the schoolteacher and must be followed as carefully. The child taught at home needs every one of these subjects called for in the curriculum just as much as the child taught in a day school, and he needs them for the very same reason. We use the same principles in teaching one child as we do in teaching a group.

Remember that in the home school the curriculum is the same; only the schedule is different. Each mother will make her own schedule. The majority of mothers find that the morning family worship period is the ideal "opening exercise." What better way could we start our home school than to invite the Master Teacher to be with us during the day? One mother, however, discovered that her little daughter had a great desire to go to "regular" school like all the other children in her neighborhood. Mother made her home school as nearly like a "real" school as possible. On school days Martha would put on a school dress and leave the house at eight-thirty with her books and lunch box. Walking to the corner and back, she would enter the "school-house," greet her "teacher," put her wraps away, and go to her desk. School opened with the flag salute, song, prayer, story, and all. From here on, kindergarten and the work of the home were integrated. Although no schedule was visible, the mother's regularity in her home duties made the teaching more or less regular. (See page 11.)

In addition to following many of the suggestions in this manual for the group kindergarten, the mother will find many natural situations in the home that lend themselves to teaching practical lessons to the child. Here are some hints: The Story Hour (see pages 47 to 70). This is one of the best teaching methods known. The story becomes a part of the child. The kind of story he hears molds his character for life. That is why we tell Bible stories and not fairy tales to our children. Nature, health, safety, and courtesy, too, are learned best through the story. Both father and mother should tell stories to the child. Whether they are told the first thing in the morning, during a little quiet time after dinner, or before going to bed matters little, but stories the child needs and must have.

If she knows how, the mother can use many household objects and home activities to train her child to see objectively, to hear discriminatingly, to feel sensitively, to taste and to smell perceptively, to control his muscles, and to form wholesome attitudes. The Manual for Parents and Teachers of the Weekday Kindergarten will serve her as a guide.

The Teenager

Q. How long should one remain single?

A. 1. Until one is matured physically and emotionally. The majority of people reach physical maturity sometime during their twenties. One is emotionally matured when he can do the right thing at the right time in the right way on his own initiative without anyone telling him.

2. Until one is able to be independent financially. No one in debt has any right to think of marrying. Not until one is able to earn his own way and more is he ready to assume the responsibilities of a home.

3. Until one can be happier married than single. No one in his right mind would ever think of marrying if he believed that by so doing he would be miserable.

4. Until one can contribute to the happiness and success of the home. The home is like a bank—you must put something in before you can draw anything out.

5. Until one can accomplish more for God by being married. A team pulling together can accomplish more than a single person working alone. But a team pulling against each other destroys the work of the other. Nothing is gained by being married unless each contributes to the success of the other. Jesus worked alone. Many men and women have done a mighty work for God alone. Much easier to work alone than to be united with someone who is pulling against you all the time.

MONTANA

Mount Ellis Academy

◆ The Students Association launched a campaign Monday, February 3, to collect funds to purchase a new film projector and a new tape recorder. Participants in the contest are the "Echoes," seniors and sophomores, under the leadership of Tom Ree, and Carol Sidmore; the "Tellstars," junior and freshmen, with Gene Jennings and Susie Barrow as leaders; and the "Sputniks," faculty members led by Mr. Paul Harris, instructor in mathematics.

◆ Saturday night, February 1, was party night at the school with faculty members opening their homes to groups of fifteen each. Those wishing to ski or ice skate instead met at the ski lodge or the skating rink outside the gymnasium.

◆ Four new students, two from outside the state, have registered for the second semester. These include seniors Margie Rueb, Leola, South Dakota and Ben Loomis, Glendale, California; freshmen, Lorna Dawes, Plentywood, Montana and Rosemary Pointer, Lewistown, Montana.

Is Time Running Out?

Yes, it most certainly is and you and your neighbors will be convinced of this as you read the second edition of the popular new book by Arthur S. Maxwell, Time Running Out. In this excellent missionary volume this informed author gives new and startling evidence of the approaching climax. You owe it to yourself to read this one-hundred-sixteen-page, up-to-the-minute book on current events and you can not do a more effective piece of missionary work than by distributing these like the leaves of autumn to your neighbors. Nearly a quarter million copies have already been distributed since June, 1963. A package of ten copies is $1.50, plus twenty cents for mailing. We pay the postage for forty copies or more and will be looking for your orders.

There are some well recognized factors that result in the loss of the confidence of others. As "brethren" we should often check ourselves to discover why confidence is so easily lost. Here are several reasons why others lose confidence in us: First, selfishness on our part. Any move we make, or design we pursue with the purpose of satisfying some selfish desire, will ultimately result in harm to a brother, or sister in the faith, that will destroy their confidence in us.

An evil temper results in loss of confidence. When one allows tension or bitter feeling to accumulate in his heart against someone else, the time will come, sooner or later, when that feeling will result in an explosion of evil temper. The result: loss of confidence. The same can be said of evil criticism. This bird soon comes home to roost. Evil words spoken have a sure way of reaching the very one about whom they were spoken. The result: loss of confidence.

Many other factors could be named, but suffice with one more—hypocrisy. This was the guilt of the scribes and Pharisees in Christ's day. It is not removed from the precincts of the saints today. Nothing destroys the confidence of the youth more easily than the hypocrisy of those who pretend to be their teachers.

Now, it is not enough for us to know why confidence is lost. We must discover how it is regained, once it has been lost. There are two simple rules for winning and holding others' confidence: (1) To keep and to live up to one's own words, regardless of the cost; and (2) Always thinking, speaking, and acting in such manner that we may merit the approval of God. This course is not easy to follow. It will often require great sacrifice, and many people will not appreciate our course at first. That is how it was with Christ. His manner of life meant the cross for Him, but in the end He became our Elder Brother, "whose house are we, if we hold fast the confidence and the rejoicing of hope firm unto the end."

Building Program Launched At Sutherlin

Approximately 100 members and friends of the Sutherlin Seventh-day Adventist church met Sunday evening, January 26, at the Sutherlin Community Building to enjoy a fellowship dinner for the purpose of launching a building program for a new sanctuary.

The delicious Chinese food prepared under the supervision of Mrs. Yo Han Kim, plus the soft Hawaiian music, created a pleasant Hawaiian setting.

To emphasize the launching of the project, Mrs. Barbara Slawson, who was in charge of the decorations, had the tables colorfully decorated with miniature red rockets on a background of blue. A large steaming rocket was centered at the entrance.

Dr. Clifford Hein, the general chairman, introduced the members of the Canvass Committee as follows: Initial Gifts Chairman: Dr. Fred Herscher; Assistant Initial Gifts Chairman: Ivan Holm; Special Gifts Chairman: Yo Han Kim; two Team Captains: James Park and Carl Pound.

The total construction cost of the new sanctuary will be approximately $35,000 with funds of $10,000 already available. The balance of $25,000 must be obtained in pledges by the members over a period of 100 weeks.

After an attractively prepared brochure was distributed to those present, one of the team members concluded that the program would be a real success as $20,000 was already committed by 23 families.

The new sanctuary with a seating capacity of 300 will extend from the present church building, which was erected in 1926. The present church building will be divided into classrooms for the children and youth. The outside structure of the present building will be remodeled as well as the Dorcas Welfare building.

Victory Sabbath, February 1

Sabbath, February 1, was victory day for the Sutherlin members. The goal of pledging $25,000 had been reached, and this announcement was glad news to everyone. Definite answers to prayer have been received as the members have stepped out in faith making their commitments. Concluding the Sabbath service, special dedicatory prayers were offered in the commitment of the pledges.

Columbia Academy News

Elected to the top posts of the Senior and Junior classes at Columbia Academy are Darrel Zabell and Roger Van Santen. Zabell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zabell of Portland, and Van Santen is the son of Dr. and Mrs. H. B. VanSanten of Salem.

Darrel Zabell

Carolyn Fleck

Roger Van Santen

Luanna Loeffler

Assisting VanSanten are Luanna Loeffler, vice-president; Lester Riter, chaplain; Geri Woodruff, secretary; Vivian Byers, treasurer; Edward Stevenson, sergeant-at-arms; Barbara Glantz, chorister; Claudine Bowman, pianist; and Carolyn Syphers, artist.

Mr. Ronald Reed, science and mathematics instructor, and Bill H. Buell, history instructor, will sponsor the Senior class. The Junior class sponsors are Miss Gladys Robison, piano and voice teacher, and Mr. A. G. Grams, dean of boys.

world today there are countless thousands who know little or nothing about the events that are already leading into this time of great perplexity.

In talking with our own members about contacts with those not of our faith, it seems that many people sense that something is about to break and yet they cannot be sure just what it is. These same individuals have strong conviction and when the truth is portrayed to them from God's Word, that conviction which may not appear on the surface, is deep, nevertheless. It appears that the words of the servant of the Lord are about to be fulfilled, where it states:

"Soon the last test is to come to all the inhabitants of the earth. At that time prompt decisions will be made. Those who have been convicted under the presentation of the word will range themselves under the blood-stained banner of Prince Immanuel."—Testimonies, Vol. 9, p. 149.

Yes, these thousands of souls are on the verge of the kingdom and when the final events unfold, they, with thousands of others who give no indication of their convictions, will come out and join the remnant people of God.

Literature in its many forms has played a tremendous role in these silent but firm convictions. Thousands of souls, without realizing it, are waiting for the truth that is presented in our literature.

Did you know that here in Oregon Conference there have been 28,550 copies of Time Running Out distributed in just seven months? This is just about two per member. You, and you alone, can double that amount, and I feel it should be doubled and tripled, and then some! Besides doing real missionary work, the cost is very nominal—just 25 cents per copy.

Write to your Book and Bible House today and get your supply, or see your church missionary secretary. Postage is 10 cents for first copy; for a package of ten copies to one address, the postage is only 20 cents; 200 or more copies are sent postpaid.

Tragedy In Alaska

Word has been received that the girls' dormitory and kitchen at Bristol Bay Mission School, Aleknagik, Alaska, has been destroyed by fire, taking the life of little three-year-old Don Whybark. According to our report, the building and contents were a total loss. Details will follow.

The Anchorage Ingathering campaign for 1963 was filled with thrills and spills as adults and juniors cooperated with God in topping their goal with $4,050. The campaign began even while an evangelistic series was being conducted by the pastor. It was organized entirely by the laymen of the church.

While the campaign began slowly, overcoming obstacles such as icy roads and cars sliding into the ditches, it continued to gather momentum. Within four nights of the closing day for Ingathering we were over $1000 short of our goal and almost out of territory. It looked discouraging and some began to fear, but with an extra request for help from the Lord a rally began on Sabbath so that in two evenings within the remaining territory over $1000 was Ingathered. This was, according to all memories, an all-time high for the Anchorage church. It simply illustrates that when things look impossible to man, God works to prove their possibility.

A new record was also set with 18 persons earning the Jasper Wayne award and many more earning the other awards; $1,374 was solicited by the JMV age under the direction of Leo Eggert.

The campaign was followed with an Ingathering victory dinner which saw many persons in attendance who are not yet members of the church but who participated in the campaign. These were persons who had been attending the evangelistic meetings and swung their interest into the Ingathering season. The Anchorage church is full of praise to God as they recognize it was only through Divine help that this victory was possible.

IDAHO

Radio Evangelism in John Day

Plans for radio evangelism in John Day, Oregon, have been laid by the church board. It is planned that beginning on February 16, the church will sponsor thirteen half hour radio programs which deal directly with Seventh-day Adventist doctrine and belief.

These programs will deal with areas of teaching such as Faith, Prophecy, Heaven, Grace, Second Coming, Sabbath, State of the Dead, and other evangelistic topics of importance. That it is time we use this media for more direct presentation of our distinctive doctrines is the belief of the members in this area.

The situation is unusual in that there is no other radio station that reaches to this area, giving us exclusive coverage of the population of Grant County. The program will be carried on the local station KJDY at 10:00 to 10:30 every Sunday morning till mid-May at which time a three-week series of meetings will be held in conjunction with the radio broadcast in order to bring the listeners to a decision on what they have heard.

The program gives promise of great success and the Burns, Oregon, church has asked for a similar program in their area in the Fall. The situation there is similar to John Day in that the local radio station has exclusive coverage also.

We trust that with the blessing of God, this venture will reach many who otherwise might not hear God's message for this time.

Proper Foresight

Everyone reveals where his heart is by what he does with the "treasure" which the Lord has given him. Jesus knew the human heart well when He pointed out that "where your treasure is, there will your heart be also." Matt. 6:21. This treasure may include financial resources, properties, et cetera.

Every sincere member of the church will want to place as much of his "treasure" as possible into the work, for the heart of every faithful Seventh-day Adventist is in finishing the work of the Lord. The Spirit of Prophecy has stated: "It is God who blesses man with property, and He does this that they may be able to give toward the advancement of His cause."—Acts of the Apostles, p. 75.

The question is sometimes asked, "When should a person begin planning to make his properties available to the cause of God?" Because of the uncertainty of life, wisdom indicates that such arrangements should be made without delay when the Spirit of God moves the heart. The following statement from Testimonies, Vol. 3, p. 117, is most pointed: "Christians . . . should manifest wisdom and foresight. They should not neglect the disposition of their means . . . They should have their business in such shape that, were they called at any hour, . . . it might be settled as they would have it were they alive."

How can you arrange to place your means in the cause of God? There are three methods available, and your conference financial advisor will provide, without obligation, counsel regarding the method that suits best your individual needs. These methods are: trust agreement, annuity, and your will.

In most cases the trust agreement offers the most advantages, but any of these will be explained in detail should you desire it. You are invited to take advantage of the confidential counsel available to you. Just drop a line to the Upper Columbia Conference, W. 1025 Indiana, Spokane, Washington, and you will receive a prompt reply to your request.

taries of the North Pacific Union and General Conference respectively, were guest speakers at the afternoon meeting. The price of liberty, it was emphasized, is eternal vigilance. Seventh-day Adventists are great advocates for the separation of church and state. How and what to say to our neighbors at the proper time with relation to the separation of church and state were just a few of the topics discussed that afforded the church a tremendous opportunity to witness. We must concern ourselves with the major business of preaching and living the gospel in these last days.

Won't you pray with us that Heaven's

We are grateful for the 487 precious souls that have united with the churches of our Conference and for the dedication and zeal that they bring to the work. We solicit an interest in your prayers in their behalf. We also earnestly appeal for the greatest soul-winning endeavor in all of our history by both ministry and laymen in this bright new year. We have a tremendous message of confidence and hope to give and we need to be busy sharing it with all about us.

We appeal for our laymen to give Bible studies, to hold cottage meetings, to conduct lay efforts, to distribute literature, to manifest kindness, courtesy and love as a means of winning souls to the Lord Jesus. We have appealed to all of our pastors to hold an effort in all of our churches during 1964 and for all of them to hold at least one effort between now and camp meeting. We solicit your cooperation in attending these meetings and supporting them in every way possible. Your friends and neighbors might be willing to come with you to a meeting when they would not attend otherwise. Let us work together and pray earnestly for great success in our soul-winning endeavors this year.

Puyallup Members Occupy New Church

The new church building of the Puyallup congregation was occupied for the first time on Sabbath, February 1. This long-awaited move climaxed five years of giving and building by the membership which started with the construction of the Nelson-Crane school, a modern three-room, eight-grade school, the construction of the education wing of the church, and finally, the completion of the church. The Sabbath school members and guests assembled outside the door as Doctor K. H. Sturdevant, chairman of the building committee, presented the pastor, Elder R. W. Wentland, with the key. After the doors were opened J. Clyde Nelson, a member of the Puyal-

Ring, and family of Eugene, Oregon, were special guests on this occasion, as he was the Puyallup pastor when the building program was started.

In the afternoon an open house for the public was held at 3 o'clock, with Elder N. R. Dower as the featured speaker. Doctor Sturdevant spoke on the faithful giving and work of the members and the help and kindness of friends which have made this building program a success. Something in excess of $200,000 has been raised and expended without incurring any debt. Members of the building committee in addition to Doctor Sturdevant, include Laurence Bagley, J. Open House at Auburn Academy

The constituency and newly elected church officers of the Washington Conference met at Auburn Academy Sunday, January 19, for an Open House and special meetings to aid in the operation of local churches.

Church officers received instruction concerning all phases of church activity from conference personnel and lay leaders. Elder N. R. Dower, conference president, officiated at the meetings.

At a special session devoted to Christian education, Elder Dower announced plans for a new administration building for the Academy. Although construction of the new building will not begin until current campus projects are completed, plans call for a one-level masonry and steel structure with classroom and chapel accommodations for 400 students. Cost of the building is estimated at $250,000.

Another item of campus construction to be started in the near future is a chapel for South Hall, girls' dormitory. Costing $15,000, the chapel will extend from the north entrance and have a seating capacity of 178.

Over 700 people took advantage of the Academy's Open House by visiting the newly remodeled South Hall and touring other areas of the campus.

Many of the visitors toured Academy Wood Products and the new hassock factory. To stimulate business for these industries, Academy Principal L. E. McClain, and Mr. Joe Day, Academy Wood Products superintendent, recently visited San Francisco and Los Angeles furniture markets. In addition to providing beneficial physical labor, the furniture factory has long played an important part in providing students with the funds to secure a Christian education.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

February 22 in the new Puyallup Seventh-day Adventist church the Mittleider-Beaman-Aufderhar Evangelistic Team will begin an evangelistic campaign. The team is very desirous of obtaining the names of backsliders and interested relatives and friends of our members in this area. If you know of such, send their names immediately with information concerning them to Pastor R. W. Wentland, 510 18th Street Southwest, Puyallup, Washington.

Each name received will be sent a personal invitation to the meetings. Do remember these meetings in your prayers that a rich harvest of souls will be reaped.

Auburn Academy Class Officers

Activities sponsored by the various academy classes will play an important part in student life for the remainder of the school year.

Parties held Saturday night, January 25, were the first social functions for the classes. Class picnics will be the main attractions when the warm days of spring arrive. Juniors and seniors will banquet together to provide another delightful memory of school days.

In addition to the social activities, a trip to Walla Walla College and the time of mortarboards and diplomas await the seniors.

Class prayer bands that meet every Friday evening after vespers provide opportunities for spiritual fellowship.

Leading the seniors are Greg Neustel, president, Puyallup; Cheris Parker, vice-president, Tacoma; John Stafford, spiritual vice-president, Kirkland; Ivan Bauer, treasurer, Snohomish; Darlene Barnhart, secretary, Seattle; Al de Forrest, sergeant-at-arms, Tacoma. Sponsors are Mr. Ron Barrow, Mr. James Hanson, and Elder C. L. Witzel.

Horace Gates' Book

A number of requests have come in to the Washington Conference MV Department, for the Horace Gates booklet, Leanin' on the Old Back Gate, from which several quotations were taken at the time of the author's funeral. "The Seventh Day"

The book The Seventh Day, by Booton Herndon, is a sparkling volume which is written by a non-Adventist, well-known free-lance writer. It is the story of Seventh-day Adventists written in a most appealing way.

I believe this volume is a tremendous public relations volume for our non-Adventist friends and neighbors, and should have a much wider circulation than it has had. This volume will be the means of bringing the "Adventist message" to them in a favorable light without prejudice. It is authentic and objective and brings into sharp focus the spirit and progress of our work.

"By almost any criterion of the western world for human happiness, the more than one million and a quarter adult members of the Seventh-day Adventist Church must be rated as one of the most fortunate groups on earth" is the opening sentence in this informative book.

"To the preaching of the nearness of that day and the universality of God's offer of salvation, Adventists have dedicated their lives. Theirs is not the defeatist dirge of 'Minutes to Midnight,' rather, they say, the time is now Minutes to Morning—the glorious morning of the Advent!" is the concluding sentence and packed in between these sentences is a delightful surprise. This book is worth-while reading for anyone. It is easily the best public relations volume yet.

Oscar—Mathew James was born at Portland, Ore., on March 2, 1963, and passed away on Jan. 9, 1964. Surviving the infant are his mother, Florence; and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Holzhauser, members of the Shady Point church. Interment was at Memory Gardens Park, Medford, Ore.

Powell—Herbert L. Powell was born Oct. 25, 1923, at Campo, Colo., and died in a Seattle hospital Jan. 2, 1964. He faithfully served his country in the United States Navy. He was a member of the Tacoma Central SDA church. Survivors include his wife, Betty; one son, Rick; one daughter, Juleen; all of Tacoma; one stepson, his stepmother, one brother, two sisters, and one half-sister.

Moran—Mr. Gary Michael (Mickey) Moran was fatally injured on Jan. 7, 1964, and passed away in the Deer Park Hospital two hours after his accident, at the age of 23 years. Mickey was united in marriage with the former Barbara Jenike on Sept. 13, 1959. He was a graduate of Upper Columbia Academy and was to have graduated from Whitworth College in June of this year. He is survived by his wife, Barbara; two sons, Gary Michael, Jr. and Terry; his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Moran of Chattaroy, Wash.; a brother, Larry, and his grandmother, Mrs. Pearl Leach of Deer Park.

Gates—Horace Chester Gates and his son, Francis (Frankie) Ray Gates, the third son of the Gates family, passed away as a result of exposure and exhaustion during a holiday mountain climbing trip at Mount Index, Wash., on Dec. 26, 1963. Horace was born in Bellingham, Wash., on Oct. 24, 1921. He attended church school in Bellingham, Wash., and was baptized in the Seventh-day Adventist Church at the age of ten. He attended Auburn Academy and Walla Walla College. On April 26, 1942, he was united in marriage to Bessie Worden, who has been his faithful companion through the years. Besides a three-year tour in the Army-Medical Corps in the European Theatre during World War II, Horace has taught church school in Carnation, Bremerton, Bellingham, Olympia, Centralia-Chehalis and Seattle. Horace leaves to mourn his passing: His wife, Bessie; three sons, Bill, Louis and Horace, Jr. (Buddy); two daughters, Alice and Beverly; his sister, Wilma Mittleider; and his father, Joseph Gates. Frankie was born in Bellingham, Wash., on Oct. 2, 1951. He was baptized into the Seventh-day Adventist Church during May, 1963. Those who knew him best knew him as a boy with a cheerful disposition who loved everyone. Frankie is survived by his mother, his sisters and brothers. The last recollections Horace and his son, Frankie, had in this life were the mountains that they loved; the next recollections they will know will be when they meet their Saviour.

Vincent—James Stewart Vincent was born at Jackson County, Ore., Aug. 17, 1877, and fell asleep on Jan. 6, 1964. Our brother was a faithful member of the Salem household of faith. Left to mourn her loss is his faithful wife, Bird Vincent.

Walla Walla College

Evaluation of Scholarship Students

DR. T. W. WALTERS
Dean of Students

How well are 1963's group of scholarship students performing during their first year at Walla Walla College? First, it should be recognized that any evaluation must be stated in tentative terms for these students have completed but one quarter of college study; and furthermore, they are herewith being appraised solely on their scholarship achievement.

It is understood on a college campus that there are other areas of personal development and contribution to the life of the college with which one must be concerned if he were to make an overall assessment as regards their achievement.

In the spring of 1963, 12 partial scholarships were granted to the following freshmen: Auburn Academy, Lorraine Mittleider; Columbia Academy, Dennis Stillwell; Gem State Academy, Myrna Hand; Laurelwood Academy, Michael Cress; Milo Academy, Judith Stiffler; Mt. Ellis Academy; Darlene Ehmen; Portland Union Academy; Betty Jean Nelson; Upper Columbia Academy, Jack Jacobson; Walla Walla College Academy, Bertrom Connell. Montana Conference: Barbara Messinger, Plentywood, Montana (High School); Oregon Conference: Joan Harvey, Eugene, Oregon (High School); Upper Columbia Conference: Annita Fitzgerald, Ephrata, Washington (High School).

These students, pursuing curricula which include theology, pre-medical, pre-nursing, English, history and elementary education majors, have given an excellent account of themselves. Three of the 12 earned A grades in all of their subjects; five have an average of B, three others have B's and C's, and only one has a C average for the fall quarter.

These young people are active on the campus in various work situations as they assist in earning a portion of their own college expenses. It should be pointed out that some of them are considerably above average in their potential so far as scholarship is concerned. However, a number have no more basic ability than scores of other young people studying on the campus. Probably the most significant observation about these high achievers is the fact that they have learned to organize their time and to discipline themselves to do a job as well as they possibly can. Undoubtedly this was a factor in recommending them at the time of their graduation from secondary school.

Counselors are repeatedly impressed with the fact that students who are ordinary college prospects can make an extraordinary record as they pursue curricula in which they are interested, with well-established patterns of personal discipline.

The scholarship students of 1963 at Walla Walla College have given a good account of themselves and appear to have justified the confidence expressed in them by the various academies and conferences who support this program.

Journalism Major Inaugurated

With an action by the Board of Trustees this week, Walla Walla College becomes the first Seventh-day Adventist school to offer a major in journalism.

"We think the new major will have considerable appeal, both to students in the North Pacific Union Conference and to those from other parts of the country as well," commented Dr. P. W. Christian, president of the college.

In the week before the board met, the proposal for a journalism major received encouragement from two directions. In a chapel address, Elder Duane S. Johnson, associate secretary of the General Conference, urged students to study journalism. "Our need for writers is desperate," he said.

The same day Elder Gordon S. Balharrie, dean of the School of Theology, returned from Berrien Springs, Mich., where he had attended meetings of the ministerial training advisory committee. "Theology students must be urged to take journalism," he said. "We are desperate for writers."

"Seventh-day Adventists have 71 periodicals in English alone, 39 publishing houses, and scores of conference and institutional public relations offices," says Miss Roberta J. Moore, who will head the new journalism department here. "With such a vast program, we need to train young people to become competent writers and editors."

Journalism students will begin their work with a wide range of courses from several departments. "They need a good background in English, history, political science, economics, and the behavioral sciences," says Dr. H. L. Rasmussen, academic dean.

Specialized study begins with a basic news writing course, open to both freshmen and sophomores. News writing students gain practical experience as reporters for The Collegian, weekly student newspaper.

In their junior and senior years, majors will go on to take other professional courses in both newspaper and magazine journalism.

Journalism courses are taught by Miss Moore and by Mrs. William Lay, public relations director for the college.

Committee Revises MV Handbook

Professor Eugene Winter, chairman of the Department of Physical Education, spent one week at Andrews University as a member of the committee for revision of the denominational and recreational handbook. With Elder John Hancock as chairman, representatives of schools and conferences collaborated on the project which will include sections of the philosophy of recreation, physical fitness, camping, and the many other activities sponsored by the Missionary Volunteer Department.

The handbook in a completely new format will be excellent source material for youth leaders, Dr. Winters believes.

Band Clinic and Concert

Not an innovation, but a refinement and coordination of techniques regularly used in music education, a Band Clinic and All-Academy Band Concert on the campus of Walla Walla College, February 6-8, won unanimous praise from participants and observers.

Directed by H. Lloyd Leno, director of bands at WWC, the clinic had directors from academies throughout the Northwest as lecturers and/or sectional instructors for the clinic. Several WWC students assisted as instructors and clinic band members.

From the arrival of the 67 academy students from nine academies, two days were packed with lectures, sectional meetings, practice, and joint rehearsals for the Saturday evening concert—climax of the events.

A two-fold result of the clinic and concert might be noted. Worth to the academies and individual secondary students is easily recognized. The clinic was a test of the student's ability to absorb knowledge in a concentrated form, and to unite his efforts with a spirit of unparalleled co-operation for the achievement of a common goal.

On the other hand, the opportunity to play with others as talented or more so, and especially to perform under the direction of Professor Leno, clinic conductor, and of a nationally-known and famed director of the Detroit Concert Band, Leonard B. Smith, was stimulus for as near perfection as the youth could achieve in so limited a time.

For WWC, the privilege to extend the
