WHO'S TO BLAME?

RALPH S. WATTS

President, American Temperance Society

When American adults talk about the morals of teen-agers today, they recite a string of indictments—vandalism, drinking, smoking, early sex experiences, and thievery. It all adds up to an increase in teen-age immorality, at least in the eyes of adults.

Who's to blame?

When this question was put to PTA presidents in cities and towns throughout the U.S., the response was unanimous in declaring adults were at fault.

"It's what the parents do or don't do that makes the difference."

Too many present-day parents have developed an attitude, a way of thinking about life which holds that it does not make much difference what anyone does.

But it does make a difference.

In studying youth smoking, John Pflaum, a behavioral scientist of the University of Wisconsin, has found that more than a million and a half adolescents "are recruited to the smoking community" each year. The majority of these youth would never have started smoking or drinking had their parents taught them by precept and example that right is right, no matter what "best friends" may do or think. Yes, there is a difference.

As Adventist Christians, we are in a most favorable position to point out the difference in our community. We know a "better way of life," for we as a church practice total abstinence. We can speak with authority. God is bringing our church into an unparalleled position of responsibility and leadership in the field of temperance.

And we have the best array of temperance literature—Listen magazine,
Smoke Signals, pamphlets, and numerous books pointing out the evils of smoking, drinking, and narcotics. These are effective weapons we can use in combating the propaganda barrage aimed at American youth by the tobacco and liquor industries.

The World Temperance Offering will be taken in all our churches on October 23, 1965. Let us give liberally so that our temperance program may more effectively "help youth to know the truth."

Notable Articles to Appear in "Review"

Already there is appearing in the Review the unfolding story of the fourth session of the Vatican Council.
R. F. Cottrell of the Review editorial staff is in Rome reporting. Indeed, since the first session of the Vatican Council began in 1962 a special reporter for the Review has been in attendance for each session. We believe that this is one of the best journalistic services we have ever provided our readers.

As this current session comes toward its close, which presumably will end the epochal Vatican Council, the Review has arranged, through the courtesy of the Northern European Division, for B. B. Beach to come to Rome again to write a series that will summarize all the sessions and interpret for us the import of the principal action taken. We believe that many of you will want to cut out and file his series. You will probably remember his excellent reports on earlier sessions.
Where, but in the Review, could you hope to find so comprehensive a presentation of this great council?

Incidentally, there may be a few who wonder why the Review has given so much space to the activities of the Catholic Church. For the same reason that Mrs. White gave so much space to Rome in her impressive work, The Great Controversy. We wish to keep abreast of fulfilling prophecy! That is one of the prime reasons for publishing the Review.

In the Review of October 21 appears the almost breathtaking story of the pope's address before the United Nations in New York. It happens that New York presently shares with Rome the spotlight on Catholic activities. The pope's United Nations address has been personally reported by another of the Review editors.

If you would keep abreast of pro-

Remarkable Story Is Now a Book

Today Alice Princes Siwundhla is studying for her Ph.D. at the University of California, Santa Barbara. This in itself is something of a miracle!

Alice was born in Johannesburg, South Africa. Orphaned at the age of 8, she went to live in a primitive African village. A mission school rescued the lonely girl from heathenism, and the love of dedicated missionaries saved her from despair. It was indeed a miracle! Alice Princess has come a long way since then. Her inspiring story was shown to millions on the "This Is Your Life" TV program.

Alice, her husband Nulme, and their children, now live in Goleta, California. Mrs. Siwundhla continues to hold audiences spellbound at Rotary Clubs, conventions, youth gatherings, and church meetings, while telling her experiences.

The Pacific Press Publishing Association is proud to announce the publication of Alice Princess—An Autobiography. This outstanding and thrilling book is available at Book and Bible Houses, for the special introductory price of $2.65.

Space Age Advances Nutrition Program of Church

Growing interest in Loma Linda Food's vegetable protein products is being shown by the World Health Organization, the Government's astronaut scientists, and more and more Americans who are becoming vegetarians, according to Loma Linda Food's General Manager, C. P. Miles.

The World Health Organization has sought the technical aid of the International Nutrition Research Foundation in establishing a million dollar facsimile of Loma Linda Foods' soy milk plant in Indonesia, and at present WHO is aiding in the installation of a similar plant in Formosa.

NASA (National Aeronautic and Space Administration) officials have also contacted Loma Linda Foods' research laboratories to aid in preparing by freeze drying and other methods, various Loma Linda products for the use of astronauts in space travel.

Although the last Gallop Poll indicated that there were three million vegetarians in the U.S., it is evident that this number has been growing along with the general increase in population—if the sales figures of Loma Linda Foods is any indication. Treasurer's reports indicate that the company's sales thermometer continues to rise steadily, with sales of some products (such as soy milk, for example) showing an increase of many thousands of dollars over each preceding year.

"We are pleased," says Pacific Union Conference Treasurer W. J. Blacker, "to see the excellent financial showing of Loma Linda Foods. . . . This indicates that every employee is a diligent worker; and although we do not often come in contact with those who carry on the day-by-day activities in the factory, we appreciate the service that is being rendered by each individual, no matter in what capacity. We wish to thank this group for their important contribution to the total work of the church."

As we look forward in 1966 to celebrating Loma Linda Foods' 60th Anniversary, Manager Miles says, "we are thankful for the evidence of the Lord's definite blessing upon our denominationally-owned and operated plant. We are proud of the many fine foods our staff has been able to perfect over the years and are looking forward to introducing a number of new ones in the near future. Now ready for the market is our new Instant Breakfast Cup and Carob-flavored Soyagen (soy milk), and other vegetable protein foods are scheduled to be released at an early date."

The growing demand for Loma Linda vegetable protein products has created a real need for workers at the plant in Riverside, and the company is looking far and wide for career men who would like to dedicate their lives to the field of nutrition. The company offers on-the-job training for those who wish to apply for general factory work, and other openings are also available in specialized lines. Church members who wish to apply for employment are invited to do so. Applications may be addressed to Loma Linda Foods, Production Department, Riverside, California 92505.

"TERRIFIC"

Allow me to share with you two short, gripping paragraphs which speak volumes:

"The Signs is terrific and full of deep spiritual insight. Please accept my compliments on a terrific magazine. As a result of reading it and taking the Bible course, I am soon to be baptized into the Seventh-day Adventist Church."

The old saying is still true today: "More Signs means more souls."

You can still send Signs to your relatives through your local Book and Bible House.

Faith for Today's Pastor W. A. Fagal, recently addressed the Protestant Sunday morning worship service at the New York World's Fair. Many tourists from around the world, plus a special Boy Scout contingent were on hand to hear the TV pastor describe the Christian's role in 20th century living. The service represented a unique opportunity for a Faith for Today witness. Pastor Fagal alluded to the need for a fearless courage on the part of the Christian in meeting life's issues. He skillfully drew from the healing experience of Jarius' daughter to pinpoint practical lessons. Later Pastor Fagal was invited to conduct a fifteen-minute telecast from the RCA building on the Fair grounds for Fair viewers. This highlighted beliefs and convictions of Seventh-day Adventists and again afforded a splendid opportunity for witness to the truths God's people hold dear.

Get the Seat Belt Habit

The use of seat belts won't prevent an auto accident from occurring, but studies show that their use does reduce the possibility of serious or fatal injury by more than one-third.

Play it safe—give yourself that extra chance.

- * Install seat belts in your car—front and back seats.
- * Fasten your seat belt—every time you drive.
- * Encourage your passengers to fasten their seat belts.

Pressroom Expansion at Pacific Press

The Pacific Press Publishing Association has taken another giant step toward expanded production.

A new $325,000 Miehle four-color offset press went into full production this month (October) at the publishing house's headquarters, Mountain View, California.

The new press is expected to double the speed of production, turning out up to 6,500 sheets an hour. It will take over printing most full-color books having a production run of more than 10 thousand copies such as the 10-volume Bible Story series and Your Bible and You, both by Arthur S. Maxwell, Golden Treasury of Bible Stories by Arthur W. Spalding, and The Desire of Ages by Ellen G. White. The press will print religious, health, and children's books, textbooks and pamphlets.

Two two-color offset presses will continue printing less-widely circulated books, periodicals, and religious and health pamphlets. The two-color presses have been in operation since the publishing house switched from letterpress to offset printing about 1955.

Three smaller offset presses turn out general advertising, magazine and book covers, and record album sleeves for Chapel Records, a division of Pacific Press.

The advantage of a four-color press over the two-color process is that it eliminates running colored pages twice through the press in order to produce four-color books. With the new press, four-color production is possible in just one press run. Red, blue, yellow, and black are the colors combined on the press to turn out full-color work.

The Pacific Press, the West-coast publisher of Seventh-day Adventist literature, was organized in 1875 at the urging of Mrs. Ellen G. White.

Constituency Votes New Dormitory for Upper Columbia Academy

On Sunday, September 26, a large group of delegates from all parts of the Upper Columbia Conference met on the campus of Upper Columbia Academy to study its needs, and make plans for the future.

The old part of the girls' dormitory at Upper Columbia Academy. This structure is now scheduled to be replaced by a new building more adequately planned for dormitory purposes and for the safety of the young people.

In the morning session a report was given by Principal F. E. Schlehuber on necessary steps that had recently been taken in renovating the sewer system. Principal Schlehuber also pointed out some of the needs of the school.

The principal need, which is one of the most acute, is the need to either renovate completely or rebuild the old part of the girls' dormitory. It was pointed out that this building is fifty-two years old and is inadequate for the purpose for which it is serving. It was not initially constructed as a dormitory. The wiring in the building is antiquated, and presents certain hazards and dangers. The sewer and water systems of the building almost continuously demand expensive repairs. In addition, the type of construction of this building would almost certainly require the installation of a very expensive sprinkler system, if it is retained.

Delegates were also told of the pressing demands and need for a new water system which would provide for adequate fire fighting water storage and facilities. This is a requirement which must be met within the next three years.

President R. C. Remboldt emphasized all needs and also pointed out to delegates that it should be our goal in future planning to construct a church on the campus for the worship services of the students.

Following the morning service all delegates went to the cafeteria and ate a delicious dinner, after which tours were planned.

Delegates were taken on a thorough tour of the old girls' dormitory, and inspected carefully its needs.

At the afternoon session, after careful discussion the delegates voted near-unanimously to concur with the recommendation of the Conference Committee to completely rebuild the old section of the girls' dormitory rather than attempt to remodel the existing structure. They also voted to continue plans for the new water system and to institute a master planning committee to work out details of the other Academy needs. A Building Committee was selected and confidence was expressed in the splendid way the Academy is being operated.

New Publishing Department Worker in Upper Columbia

Frank Hansen, assistant publishing department secretary of the Upper Columbia Conference, and his family.

We are happy to announce the appointment of Frank Hansen as Assistant Publishing Department Secretary of the Upper Columbia Conference.

Brother Hansen is a graduate of Columbia Academy, Battle Ground, Washington. After his graduation from this school in 1950, he spent five years in the U. S. Air Force. In 1955 he married Dottie Eloise Osborne and then attended Southwestern Union College in Keene, Texas.

Brother Hansen started canvassing in the Oregon Conference in 1958, and was appointed Assistant Publishing Secretary there in 1960. He spent two years in this post and then served in the Southeastern California Conference for one and one half years in the same position.

With a desire burning in his heart to have more direct experience in selling our books, he left California two years ago and began canvassing in Washington and Oregon, this time selling a thirty-four volume library of books to corporations, schools, and others.

Through these years, the Lord has blessed his work with more than $200,000 in deliveries and 25 baptisms.

During the past summer he helped in the student canvassing program in the Washington Conference. We feel fortunate that Brother Hansen has accepted our invitation to assist Elder W. G. Wallace in the Upper Columbia Conference. Brother and Sister Hansen will be living in College Place.

Incoming Conference Personnel

The Upper Columbia Conference is happy to welcome two new families to its working force. The Patterson family comes to us from the Idaho Conference where they have served for the past five years. Elder Patterson is a graduate of Auburn Academy and Walla Walla College. He attended the seminary in Washington, D. C., 1059-1960. Mrs. Patterson is the former Rachel Ireland of Wenatchee. They have two children, Cynthia Rae, 2½ years, and Jeffrey Eugene, 6 months. The Pattersons have established their home in College Place, Washington, where he has already assumed his new and challenging responsibilities as Youth pastor of the College Place Village church. Elder Gary Patterson is the son of Elder Glenn Patterson, Religious Liberty Secretary for the Washington and Upper Columbia Conference.

Brother Willfred L. Degeraty was born in Denver, Colorado, and spent most of his boyhood and youth in that state. He graduated from Campion Academy in 1960. Brother Degeraty then enrolled at Walla Walla College and majored in theology and minored in speech, graduating in 1964. He attended Andrews University, theological seminary, and will receive the Master of Arts degree in religion, December 1965. His wife is the former Diane McClelland. She was born in Oakland, California, and attended Lodi Academy, Pacific Union College and Walla Walla College. Brother Degeraty has been asked to work with Elders Herman Bauman and C. Loren Purdey in the conference evangelistic team.

We welcome these two families to our conference and pray the Lord will give them a most fruitful ministry.

Series scheduled by Pastor Don Reiber that were to be held in the lone, Wash. church, October 15 through November 14, will be held in the Community Hall in Metaline Falls. Meetings will be held on Thursday, Saturday and Sunday nights starting October 16.

Youth for Youth Meetings in Hermiston

The week from September 25 to October 2 marked a special Youth for Youth evangelistic series in Hermiston, Oregon. These meetings were sponsored by the Missionary Volunteer Society and the church school of the Hermiston church. Elder Charles G. Edwards, Conference MV Secretary, was the speaker, but young people from the church served as hostesses, ushers, offered the prayers, and provided the special music.

The meetings were held in the Civic Recreation Center of the city, and throughout the series the crowds increased until the final night, when the largest crowd of all attended to hear Elder Edwards give his sermon, "Why I am a Seventh-day Adventist."

Each night there were beautiful color pictures from Europe on the screen, and a thrilling continued story held the attention of the children. The young people did a superb job in their special music, including a number of selections by the Youth Choir.

One young high school girl, sixteen years old, started coming the first night, and bringing with her two sisters, and a brother, they attended every meeting including Sabbath school and church on Sabbath. She remarked to a friend, "We have not been attending church anywhere, but going to these meetings has helped us to realize how much we have been missing."

The Week of Prayer in the church school was held simultaneously, and the Lord greatly blessed this series with special emphasis on the needs and interests of youth. At the close of the meetings three young people were baptized, and twelve others made decisions to study and prepare for that sacred rite to be administered soon.

Elder Reo Clyde, pastor of the Hermiston church, gave tremendous help to the program, and is continuing to follow up the interests.

The Upper Columbia MV Department is planning more such youth evangelism in the future, in various parts of the conference.

PUSHING ON

The Walla Walla College church is happy that 1965 will see an increase of approximately 17 percent in its gifts to missions through the Sabbath school offerings. This amount in other figures is nearly $4,000 gross gain for the year of $75 more per Sabbath than during 1964.

The plan of promotion is very simple. Each Sabbath the bulletin notes the total Sabbath school goal and the preceding week's offering. It gives the congregation courage as they see the goal surpassed nearly every Sabbath.

Secondly, the class teachers mention the class goal to the individual classes from time to time, using a few seconds to describe the opportunities for mission support.

The Sabbath school officers have tactfully pursued the above plan all through the year. It is their hope to further increase the church's contribution in this area as it pushes toward a full 50 percent increase in missions giving. They realize that this time of affluence could quickly fade to one of economic stringency. What we do for God's cause throughout the world must be done now.

Farewell

We are writing to our friends of the great Northwest and Upper Columbia

A. J. Reisig

Conference from the beautiful city of Atlanta, Georgia. These lines are not easy to write, for in reality we do not even want to say farewell to "you all," just say what a pleasure it has been to work in Upper Columbia for the past ten and a half years. These have been pleasant, memory filled and swiftly passing years.

In leaving you, we have left a part of ourselves with you in the lives of our young people and the Pathfinders of the Conference. We have left our son, Don, in Spokane to complete his course of study. Our hearts shall thrill as we remember the dedicated youth workers and club officers. Some of these have stayed by their Pathfinder Clubs for all the years we were there and are still continuing on. Our fellowship with the Conference officers, departmental secretaries, office force, and the ministerial staff was indeed an enriching experience. We shall in memory continue this pleasant association as we pray for the work to move speedily forward in Upper Columbia.

Our new work with the Loma Linda foundation in the beautiful and fast growing Southern Union has already brought real challenge and inspiration. This is a beautiful area in which to labor. The highways we travel seem to meander through the most beautiful tree covered country. Needless to say, we just never expected it to be so beautiful.

Our home is located in a new subdivision called Safari Woods. We hope that as you pass through Atlanta you will stop by to pay us a visit. Our address is 504 Safari Circle, Route 4, Stone Mountain, Georgia. As we moved in we placed the welcome mat at the door.

May the Lord be able to move with great power in Upper Columbia as well as here, because we see the fast fulfilling signs that His coming is near, even at the door. For that happy day we shall be praying and working.

ELDER AND MRS. A. J. REISIG

Portland Sanitarium and Hospital Intensive Care Unit

Better hospital care at the lowest possible cost is the aim of the newest department at Portland Sanitarium and Hospital.

The Intensive Care Unit is for those patients who are critically ill and who will require and benefit from highly-skilled nursing care with close or frequent, if not constant, nursing observation, patients who would otherwise need special nursing care. This improved nursing service is less than one-third the cost of special nursing care, according to Robert Burgess, patient's business manager.

The Intensive Care Unit is equipped to handle practically all emergency situations. The unit has 11 beds, all within ten steps of the nurse's station, and two beds in sound-proof rooms for isolation, where it is required, such as in burn cases.

Included in the inventory is a complete medication supply, a built-in oxygen supply at each bed, and suction with adapters for gastric, thoracic, and tracheal suction. A Mark 17 Bird Respirator is in use now, and plans have been laid to add a four-patient Cardiac Monitoring System, which is designed to give continuous information of heart rate with the electrocardiograph and electrocardioscope. Also included are a cardiac pacemaker and a direct current cardiac defibrillator. A gift of $2,769 from the Hospital Auxiliary in May of this year is being used to purchase special equipment for this new department.

Opened July 14 with the admission of two patients, the unit has averaged four patients per day and is staffed by registered nurses who keep a 24-hour close watch over every aspect of their patient's care. A ratio of one nurse to every two patients is maintained.

The concept of a separate Intensive Care Unit is relatively new in the general hospital field. First begun some ten years ago in several large government hospitals, the Intensive Care Unit has become increasingly necessary as more complex medical and electronic equipment has come into use. With the sophisticated respiratory therapy and monitoring systems in use today, nurses must specialize. The Intensive Care nurse must be intimately familiar with the machines she operates.

"The Intensive Care Unit," said Mrs. Esther Losey, R.N., surgical floor supervisor, "has been needed here for many years. We are happy that we can now provide this service."

Wrong Name

In the article which appeared in the September 24 GLEANER, entitled "A Mother's Prayers Answered Twice," the wrong name was given to the mother. The correct name for the mother of Mrs. Bliss and Mrs. Gates is Mrs. Alma Emery.

Bible Evangelism at Stone Tower

Many thrilling experiences came to members of the Stone Tower church in Portland on Sabbath afternoon, September 25, as they went adventuring for Christ.

Associate Pastor Calvin Smith and his visiting partner going from door to door stopped at a home where they found a mother and fourteen-year-old daughter at home. When the mother saw Pastor Smith with the Bible in his hand she immediately invited them in. Here is why. She explained that she and her daughter were going somewhere in the car earlier that afternoon when for some reason she felt impressed to return home. On the way home the daughter inquired, "Mother, do we have a Bible at home?"

"Of course we do," the mother replied. But as she thought about it, she realized that they did not have a Bible. They had just arrived home and the mother was thinking that they must get a Bible when the door bell rang. It was Pastor Smith and his partner standing at the door with a white Bible and a set of lessons.

The mother was happy to accept the Bible and the study sheets. She was so grateful for people who were interested enough in their neighbors to encourage them in Bible study that she insisted on giving an offering to help buy more Bibles for other homes. She said this visit was an answer to her prayers.

In the same block a Buddhist man from the Orient gladly accepted the Bible and the lessons that he might learn more about Christian religion. In that one block in the city of Portland five homes accepted the Bible and the lessons. Five families in that one block will now be watching the TV Bible Class each Sunday at 1 o'clock on Channel 12. They will be looking up the Bible verses in their white Bibles by page number as they follow along with the study being given on TV.

Pastor George Knowles joined with Elder Philip Dunham, pastor of the Stone Tower church, and his associate, Calvin Smith, from September 24-30. The laymen rallied to the task and under the blessing of God placed 150 Bibles in non-Adventist homes.

This program is not limited to one day or to one week. It is a program that will grow as more members participate from week to week. The goal is for every church member to place at least one Bible in some non-Adventist home. This will mean every member will be praying and working for at least one soul. Every two weeks the laymen visit back to the homes where they have placed Bibles to pick up the lessons to be corrected and to leave two more lessons.

Longview is continuing the program in that area with strong leadership. The Longview district is now using its third shipment of Bibles and lessons. Three hundred Bibles and lesson sets have now been ordered by that district. Their goal is to visit every home in their territory with this Bible study offer. With every member participating this can be done.

New Staff Members at Portland Union Academy

Meeting the record enrollment at Portland Union Academy were nine new teachers—in addition to the regular staff.

Principal Cecil Roy, himself new to the position, has gathered experienced and certified teachers to supplement the staff. Holder of an M.Ed. from the University of Oregon, 1961, Mr. Roy began his teaching career in the St. Helens church school. Since then he has been at Portland Union Grade School, Rogers School, Walla Walla College, Africa, and Eugene. Both Mr. and Mrs. Roy graduated from Laurelwood. They have two boys, Ricky and Cecil—7th and 9th grades.

Mrs. Dale (Darlene) Clark is registrar. Having two and a half years' experience in the Walla Walla College registrar's office, Mrs. Clark graduated in 1963 with a degree in Secretarial Science. She is a Columbia Academy alumnus.

Elder Floyd Matula is chairman of the Bible Department and director of counseling service. Ordained only last July, he was pastor of the Lebanon-Sweet Home district. Graduating with a major in theology from Southern Missionary College in 1952, Elder Matula first was employed by the state welfare department before entering denominational work at Roseburg in 1961. The Matulas have three children—Richard, 13; and twins Karen and Kim, 9.

Instructing band and instrumental music is Mr. Ralph Sandburg. He came to PUA following nine years at Glendale Union Academy. Other experience includes Newbury Park Academy and Portland Union Grade School. Mr. Sandburg received the master's degree in music from the University of Southern California.

Miss Donna Jean Avery gave up the opportunity to teach in Hawaii to return to her alma mater and teach home economics. She is a 1965 graduate of Walla Walla College.

Director of food service is Mrs. Carl (Jewell) Miner. She held the same position at Milo Academy five years and more recently was an associate at the Portland Sanitarium. Mr. Miner is custodial engineer of the Oregon Conference office. They have five children—Sharon, married; Ron, serving the United States in Germany; Duane at Walla Walla College; Kathy at Columbia; and Marilyn at Portland Union Academy.

Mrs. Ed (Donna) Webb, another Walla Walla College-trained teacher, is instructing in commercial arts. The Webbs have one son, Eddie, a 9th grader.

Vocational and industrial education is being taught by Mr. Sam Robinson. From Sutherlin, Oregon, Mr. Robinson received his degree at Andrews University. His experience includes teaching at Lariat Boys' Ranch near North Platte, Nebraska.

Mr. James Duke received a B.S. from Walla Walla College last June. A chemistry major, he is instructing chemistry and math. The Dukes have two preschoolers.

Awards for Investment

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Payne of Gresham have a unique Investment project which grows year by year.

A literature evangelist, Mr. Payne spends his home hours "producing more garden than we ever use." And after hours at the Portland Public Library, Mrs. Payne cans and bakes and freezes. Since joining the church seven years ago, they have felt an "Investment blessing" in their home.

In fact, Investment is a common subject around their home, especially when they have guests for Sabbath dinner and serve "second place gooseberry jelly" or "first place green beans." Or a walk through the vegetable or flower gardens reveals giant squash with the word "Investment" growing right out of their "hides."

Mrs. Clyde Payne is shown with representations of her canning, breads, and cookies which contributed $47.50 to Investment.

The references to first or second or third place have to do with county fair entries. Of 37 entries at the 1965 Multnomah County Fair, Investment projects netted 22 awards—12 of them blue ribbons. The cash awards amounted to $47.50—for Investment! (Only 12 awards were won in 1964.)

First-place awards were received in the following divisions: yeast breads—white loaf and whole wheat rolls; quick breads—nut bread, whole wheat muffins, fruit muffins; canned fruit—cherries, peaches, pears, fruit cocktail; canned vegetables—whole and pieces green beans and mixed vegetables. In addition, Mrs. Payne received three second-place ribbons and seven third.

They have already canned entries for the 1966 Fair. As they complete this year's project, they are including pennies saved throughout the year, the sale of garden produce, hand-painted stationery, and preparing various articles for the Sabbath school's annual Investment Sale.

The Paynes' Fair Project has been a means of testimony to non-members as well. Friends noticing the lists of awards in the newspaper receive a full explanation of the use of the prize money. Even their dentist used this project as dental-chair conversation!

Stan Midgley Is Coming to Oregon

Oregon Adventists will, this month, be able to view God's Second Book through the films of the nationally-famous Stan Midgley on another of his biennial Northwest tours.

Stan Midgley graduated as a chemist from Princeton University during the depression. On the job his fellow workers called him the "crazy chemist" because he rode his bicycle 48 miles to work every day of the summer.

After eight years as a chemist, Mr. Midgley decided the only good things about his job were his eight vacations, so he went into vacations full time. Since then Midgley Chucklelogues have established him as the "Mark Twain of the Camera."

New scenes are added every year to make his films even better the second time. He may be near you.

Portland Ball Team Win Approbation

Eleven Portland young men have found a new method of Christian witness—on city ballfields.

Sponsored by Jim Hodgkins, a Stone Tower member, the eleven are a league-winning team. But more important they feel responsibility to represent the church.

So impressed were the city officials that they scheduled, automatically, all games around the "Seventh-day Adventist team" and their Friday nights. The Portland Softball Association commended the group for their sportsmanship, agreeable dispositions, clean language and clean living. Moreover, they noted that on nights when the Adventists played, the take at the gate increased as much as 600 percent. Spectators, they discovered, like to watch these "clean-cut boys."

So impressed was one young man from an opponent team in 1964 that he begged to be one of them for the last season. He promised to live up to all their principles except the Sabbath—and even attended church!

Manager Lloyd Wescott noted what it does for the team too. "Most teams go out to play and win," he said, "while we go out as a Christian team to play clean ball." A player observed, "Having to show ourselves as Christians makes us better men as we play—and as we meet the other players on the streets afterwards."

The Softball Association through the Bureau of Parks was pleased to admit this Adventist team, remembering the Christian witness of Archie Hamlin, former Portland Adventist nurseryman now in Florida. He is in Portland's Softball Hall of Fame as the outstanding pitcher of the '50's.

And the current pitcher, David McClain, holds somewhat a record himself. In 202 innings, he has struck out 206 players, won 26 games, and lost 7.

When the 1965 season ended, the "Adventist boys" were National City League and Booster Tournament champions and finished second in the Metropolitan Major Playoffs. More important was the invitation to play again next year because "we like the way you live and play, and we like the association with your families and other church members who support you."

Destiny Books

On the snow-white, marble wall of one of the world's greatest libraries, are inscribed these words: "Reading makes a man ready." How true this is! Good books help a man get ready for every phase of life. They help to sharpen the intellect and fill our minds with things worth while. As we look into the lives of outstanding individuals who have lived in the last few centuries, we realize that many of them would never have left their mark on humanity were it not for their good reading habits.

Still another author has said, "Good books are like good friends, we just cannot have too many of them." In order to make it possible for you to have more good books in your home, the Pacific Press Publishing Association has prepared a new series of paper-back books entitled, "The Destiny Series." This is an outstanding group of books that will inspire any reader. The stories and experiences in these books will bring courage and hope. They cover a wide range of reading interest.

At the present time there are seven books in the series, with more to be added from time to time. They normally sell at the low price of $1.50 each, but from October 1, 1965, until December 31, 1965, these books will carry the regular 10 percent holiday discount. However, if you buy any two along with the latest book in the series, entitled, Some Rain Must Fall, you may have the three books for only $3.50.

Why not make your home library more complete by adding this new series to it. Use the convenient order blank listed herewith, and order from your local church missionary secretary or Bible House.

How Much of Your Income Is Yours to Keep?

American citizens are, without doubt, the most "adverted to" people ever to live on the face of the earth. Through the media of newspapers, magazines, radio, television and the U.S. mails, the citizens of this country are deluged with hundreds of thousands of advertisements every day of the year. All of them have one thing in common; they are competing for the consumer dollar.

You and I are the consumer. Every day, yes many times a day, we are subjected to pressures to spend our money. A sad part of the picture is, a great number of us have our money spent long before it is even earned!

One of the large life insurance companies has as its slogan, "Part of all you earn ought to be yours to keep." And this company proceeds to demonstrate that the one sure way to see those dollars again is to put them into life insurance. But I wonder if this is really storing dollars for the future?

It is my firm belief that the only sure way of saving dollars for the future is to deposit them in the bank of heaven, "... where neither moth nor rust consumes and where thieves do not break in and steal." Matt. 6:19.

The General Conference Autumn Council of 1963 and the Spring Council of 1964, took action to invite every member of the Church to increase his Sabbath school weekly mission offering by 50 percent starting in 1965. A great many of our members responded immediately, some even doubled their offerings and this has been reflected in the Sabbath school offering reports of the North Pacific Union.

One pastor promoted this action in his church before the official date—before he knew all the facts, and asked for his members to double their offering. The entire membership accepted the challenge and voted to double their offerings, which they immediately did. Later, when it was discovered that the plan was to increase by 50 percent instead of 100 percent, they decided to stick to their promise of double offerings. When individual members of this church were asked if they felt the increase to be a burden, the nearly unanimous reply was that after the first two or three weeks they did not even realize that they were giving more.

Actually, brethren and sisters, this will be true in nearly every instance.

There are thousands of competitors for every dollar we get. Most of them appeal strongly to our selfish natures. However, there are a few voices calling for our dollars that give us opportunity to share with someone in need. These are the dollars that we lay up for our future. Remember,

"Part of all we earn ought to be ours to keep." The Lord Jesus pointed out that in this way we can, "... lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven." And He ends up by saying, "For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also." Matt. 6:19-21.

Black, storm clouds of war are rolling throughout many nations of earth. The increase of knowledge leaves us breathless. The powers of nature are unleashed in the fury of storms, earthquakes, and pestilence. Can any Seventh-day Adventist Christian doubt that the coming of Christ is upon us?

Soon the "things" of life will be valueless. Soon the last call for God's children to sacrifice for others will be given. Then, what we have left will

They have already sold over 1,100 volumes of the Spirit of Prophecy and we expect many more before the year is over. God has been very good to us this year.

Have you been thinking lately that you would like to do more for your Saviour? Are you disappointed with your employment? Do you feel an urgency to share your faith before it is too late? It could be that the Lord is working on your heart, preparing you for a part in His literature work. Why don't you investigate today? Contact your local publishing secretary. You will be glad you did!

rise up as a testimony against us. Why not make a covenant with God by sacrifice? We dare not wait until it is too late for our means to be used. Shall we not arise and finish the work?

The best way to answer the challenge is to respond to the call for a 50 percent increase in Sabbath school mission offerings. Many have answered by an increase of 100 percent, but what about you who have thus far ignored the call of our leadership?

If you would have peace in your soul and joy in service, systematically open your pocket book to the needs of lost and dying souls and this promise shall be yours. "Great peace have they that love thy law and nothing shall offend them." Ps. 119:165. (All texts from R.S.V.)

G.S.A. Boys' Parlor Project

Forty-one young men enrolled in Gem State Academy during the 1961-62 school year.

Walter Meske

The number has increased each year so that we are privileged to have 104 young men living in the boys' dormitory today. More important than numbers is the outstanding spirit that has prevailed during the opening weeks of school. The strong emphasis on a quiet, supervised study period has been well accepted and is making a contribution to the scholastic program.

Some have asked if there will be a project this year for parlor improvement in the boys' dormitory. We are glad to announce this as our project for the year.

You may be unable to make a cash contribution; however, may we suggest that you check your basement, attic, or garage for things which you no longer need. By placing these items up for auction or sale through a radio trading post or newspaper want-ad it may be possible to convert items no longer needed or useful to you into a cash donation for this dormitory improvement project.

It is encouraging to learn of the support many are giving. The project has already received support from some folk who have contributed several saving stamp books. We would encourage others to send us either Gold Strike or Green Stamp books. Any help you may give will be appreciated.

We are grateful to the Idaho Book and Bible House for a special donation of Spirit of Prophecy books currently in use by the fellows. Others have offered magazine subscriptions which will be especially desirable when the parlor project is completed and adequate provision has been made for their use.

I have enjoyed making the acquaintance of each boy in the dormitory. My work has been made even more enjoyable through the excellent help of Merwin Peters, head monitor, and Rollie Morrison, boys' club president. My family and I appreciate the sincere friendliness of the members of the Idaho Conference. It is our desire to do everything possible to help the young people of Gem State Academy. Thank you for your letters and suggestions. We solicit your prayers that we may have wisdom to give each student proper guidance.

In Step With "Steps"

On October 2, the Idaho Conference launched a fall missionary program to distribute 10,000 copies of the inspirational little volume by Mrs. E. G. White entitled, Steps to Christ. Before one week had passed 18 churches had made purchases of 2,840 volumes, well past the 25 percent of the goal. This is a very outstanding accomplishment. Our people are a good people and they are always ready to respond to the task set before them.

The church at Weiser purchased 500 copies. Pocatello is already over the 5 per member mark with 555 copies purchased. Boise, Parma and Idaho Falls are past the 100 mark. It is hoped that by November 1 the program will be finished and the entire field covered as the leaves of autumn. The Voice of Prophecy correspondence cards that were inserted in every Steps will be a very effective means causing honest hearts to continue searching for truth after the book has been read.

Steps to Christ has been translated into 83 different languages and its circulation is past the 12 million mark. God has blessed many, many people since the book was first published in the year 1892.

If you are a member of the Idaho

Conference and you have not made your purchase of Steps for your missionary program, contact your missionary secretary today or order direct from the Bible House in Boise. Enclose 95 cents for each package of five or $26.60 for a full box of 140. Postage will be paid regardless of the size of the order.

Mount Ellis News

◆ With the publication of Volume 1, Number 1, Mount Ellis Peeks, the school paper, made its bow to the student body. Published monthly, the journal will have nine issues for the year. The editor-in-chief is Jim Dexter; associate editor, Pene Cummins; affairs editor, Sally Pratt; society editor, Susie Barrow; advisor, Mr. Kraid I. Ashbaugh, English and journalism teacher.

◆ A hike to the ski lodge, followed by supper, games, and the viewing of three films was the Saturday night activity, September 25.

◆ As the freshmen had toured Yellowstone, Thursday, September 23, other new students of the upper grades took the same tour a week later, September 30, spending the day at the Park. A long standing tradition of the school, all new students of Mount Ellis Academy are given an all-day trip through the Yellowstone National Park early each school year, usually on the first and/or second Sundays, but uncertain weather had delayed the program this year.

◆ Instead of devoting one week to one subject for the regular Wednesday night prayer meetings, Elder Larry Lewis, Bible teacher and pastor, has announced that a series of studies on interesting Bible subjects, each five to six weeks long, will be presented.

The topic studied at present is "An Introduction to Ancient Bible Lands," a tour of the areas in which the Bible was written, illustrated by slides. Elder Lewis studied these lands as a part of his schooling at Andrews University while completing the bachelor of divinity degree last year.

◆ "Is progress real? Are we all doomed to decay?" were two of the questions asked by Dr. T. W. Walters, associate secretary for the North Pacific Union Conference, as he spoke for girls' worship Sunday night, September 26. Doctor Walters was at the academy to administer the Washington pre-college Entrance Test to all seniors, and carried out this task Sunday evening and Monday morning, September 26 and 27.

Brother Leo Finkbinder has supervised the work on House A, a conference-owned parsonage which will be occupied by the treasurer. The plans are to have a student crew under Brother Finkbinder work on the other two houses which are to be occupied by faculty members.

◆ First session of the swimming classes was held Sunday, September 26, at the Bozeman Hot Springs. There are three classes meeting: the beginners' class with 11 students, the intermediate class with 17 students, and the life-saving class with 11 students. Teachers are Dean Charles Stevens, beginners' class, and Principal Clyde W. Smith, life saving. Students teachers will be used in teaching intermediate swimming for the present, Principal Smith reveals.

Swimming classes will continue until the ski hill is covered with snow, at which time skiing instruction will be given to 31 students who have registered for this class. Beginners', intermediate, and advanced skiing will be taught by instructors from the Bridger Ski Bowl.

◆ Ingathering field day, Tuesday, October 5, found 19 cars, each with from four to nine students, covering 19 towns in south-central Montana. A total of $755.26 was realized for the one day's activities, but the students plan to reach their goal of $1,000 by Christmas caroling in December.

Parents, "Gray" Matter, and The Spirit of Prophecy!

Every parent has been faced with some of those perplexing inquiries of youth beginning with, "But what is wrong with...?" or "Why can't we...?" Sometimes the explanation is easily given, for some questions of right and wrong fall most clearly in the area of totally "white" or totally "black." But all the problems in youthful minds (or adult ones, for that matter) are not so clearly defined. The most difficult ones are those that appear, at least, to have both a little "black" and a little "white," depending on how one looks at it, of course! These questions with a "grayish" tinge are the source of most of life's common problems, and present the greatest challenges to a Christian's good judgment, balance, and self-discipline.

The inability to find satisfactory answers to these "gray" questions causes more youthful insecurity and uncertainty in spiritual things than many parents realize. In practical life, the experience and solicitude of parental concern cannot always be present to give guidance and counsel to the inexperience of youth. Therefore, to prepare them for that moment when their own mental and spiritual powers must be wisely exercised in maintaining Christian balance and discernment, is the supreme, God-given duty of their parents.

And, fortunately, we parents have not been left to attempt so important a task in our own strength and wisdom. Thousands of pages of the finest help available to parents today is found in the writings of the Spirit of Prophecy. There are three ways that these inspired counsels may be most profitably used in our homes.

First of all, as a parent, my own mind should be thoroughly saturated with the writings of the Spirit of Prophecy and its inspired principles for Christian living. This will sharpen my personal sense of right and wrong, and impart balance and discernment to my own decisions in those "gray" problem-areas of life. How important this is, since my personal example and influence will be read by my children long before they can read the printed page!

Then, since being a parent is a "specialty" field, I should make it a point to obtain the finest training available in order that I might fulfill the exacting qualifications for Christian parenthood. The Spirit of Prophecy volumes, Child Guidance and The Adventist Home, are but two examples of inspired guidelines that point the way to success as I engage in the "nicest" work given to man!

Last of all, I should want the minds of my children to be as trained to turn to these counsels of God for guidance and encouragement as I want my own to be. To accomplish this, I should begin at the earliest age to introduce my children to Jesus' "messenger," Ellen White. I would see that the Lord's servant became one of their most beloved and best known heroines. I would do this by reading to them from those books which tell the story of her life, such as Stories of Little Ellen, and follow this up with her visions of heaven from such works as Early Writings and Life Sketches.

As my children learned to read for themselves, I would buy them a personal copy of every Spirit of Prophecy book they would read through. I would feel more than amply repaid for the dollars spent, at seeing them eagerly searching for truth on their own initiative. As their youthful horizons broadened, bringing new questions and problems, I would show them how to search out for themselves the principles laid down in the Spirit of Prophecy that should govern their decisions in a particular instance.

Finally, when the day came for them to face life on their own, I would feel that I had done my best to lay a solid foundation in an area of their lives where it would count most. They would have a respectful admiration for the life and work of a messenger of God, they would have a love and reverence for her inspired counsels, and they would know how to apply these counsels in their personal experience.

This is a program that will work. It is most effective when started early, but it is never too late to begin a new program when it is a good one that meets with God's approval and promises His blessing. By all means, take advantage of the present discount on Spirit of Prophecy books, stock up your library, and begin a systematic plan of study in your home immediately!

Washington Conference

YOUTH BIBLE CONFERENCE

October 28-31 Sunset Lake

TOPIC "Headlines From Patmos, Studies From Revelation"

Teacher Elder William Baxter

Each year academy and high-school youth who have a driving desire to greatly improve their Christian experience and to store up Bible knowledge for the perplexing days just ahead of us attend our Youth Bible Conference. Many have expressed a completely new concept of spiritual appreciation and the nearness of the end of time.

We are limiting attendance to those only who are sincere in their desire to study, in a special way, God's Word.

Limited — 75 from Auburn Academy, plus one from each church.

Bible Lectures

At the invitation of ministers of Walla Walla Valley Seventh-day Adventist churches, Elder Andrew C. Fearing, associate secretary of the General Conference Ministerial Association, will be guest speaker in a series of Bible lectures, "Winners and Losers of Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow," in the College Church, October 22 to 30.

Andrew Fearing

Recently returned from a year of evangelistic work in the heart of London, Elder Fearing brings years of experience as administrator and evangelist in most of the large cities of the world to the local area.

Elder Richard D. Fearing, pastor of the College Church and brother of the guest speaker, will be master of ceremonies for the meetings held each evening at 7:30 (except Saturday) and Sabbath mornings at the 11 o'clock worship hour. Collaborating in the area-wide project designed particularly so that church members may bring friends, are Elder N. R. Johnson, and other area pastors. Elder Gary Patterson, youth pastor of the Village Adventist church, will direct the music. Dr. Melvin K. West is in charge of appointing organists.

"There is no extensive advertising or publicity," says Pastor Fearing. "If each family in the church will bring another family or an individual, the series of Bible lectures will have a two-fold effect of benefiting the church and the community of the Walla Walla Valley."

Dormitory Women Hold Open House

More than 500 women of Aleph Gimel Ain opened their residences to approximately 100 guests at an Open House Sunday evening, October 10, in Conard Hall and the annexes occupied by the College women.

Miss Marjorie Jones, Nampa, Idaho, AGA president, received at the Conard Hall doors. Beautiful flowers and warm welcomes gave a festive air to the whole picture; the parlor with attractive furniture emphasized the social atmosphere; and the Chapel and Prayer Room suggested the spiritual atmosphere.

But the rooms, reflecting the personality qualities of the hundreds of women who live in them, ranged from formal to fun loving. The latter was illustrated by an announcement in one room, "We live here," and evidenced by open books, a squiggle of toothpaste, and a letter partly typed. Every room, however lavishly or sparsely furnished, was sweet, clean, and in good taste.

Hostesses in Conard Hall were: Alice Banarathanachai, Bangkok, Thailand; Lorna Fontanilla, Wahiawa, Hawaii; Vicki Blisserd, Eugene, Oregon; Beth Adkins, Issaquah, Washington; Marilyn Courses, Sandy, Oregon; Barbara Parmele, Sandy, Oregon; Sharon Sage, Camino, California; Norma Blanck, Moscow, Idaho; June Pride, Kennewick, Washington; Janet Hedrick, Livermore, California; Judi Light, Portland, Oregon; Phyllis Zabolotney, Lignite, North Dakota; Dena Sherrard, Pasay City, Philippines; and Sharon Slaybaugh, Portland, Oregon.

Refreshments were served in Conard Hall garden with its lighted fountain and inviting tables. Hostesses in the gardens were Rita Cone, La Sierra, California; and Melody Rockwell, Sunny-side, Washington. Serving refreshments were: Janet Ashbaugh, Bozeman, Montana; Linda Kilgore, San Mateo, California; Sheryl Pampaian, Reedley, California; Jean Kegley, Okanogan, Washington; Linda Williams, Poulsbo, Washington; Linda Hubbard, Bozeman, Montana; Diane Sweetman, Portland, Oregon; Gloria Davy, Elizabethtown, Congo; Rosemarie Martin, Newberg, Oregon; Jean Holm, Bandung, Indonesia; and Mary Lu Gammon, South Lancaster, Massachusetts.

Off-Campus Appointments

Walla Walla College faculty off-campus appointments this month indicate the wide variety of services given and responsibilities carried by the staff of a Christian college.

Week of Prayer appointments are being kept by: Dr. J. N. Barnes, assistant professor of religion, Loma Linda University; Andrew Leonie, assistant professor of education, Gem State Academy; Elder J. Paul Grove, professor of religion, Laurelwood Academy; and Elder Gordon S. Balharrie, dean, School of Theology, Columbia Academy. Elder Richard D. Fearing, College Church pastor, will be speaking at Upper Columbia Academy the weekend of November 5 and 6.

Dr. Reuben Manalaysay, professor of education, returned last week from assisting at elementary teachers' con-

Public Health Nursing

History is being made on the campus of Walla Walla College this quarter as 15 school of nursing students study public health, with practical experience under the supervision of the Umatilla County Public Health Department.

An intensive training program of on-campus classes two days a week with experience in Pendleton, Milton-Freewater, Weston, Hermiston, and Umatilla schools and homes is under the direction of Mrs. Robert Blumen-thal, assisted by Miss Beverly Paladeni.

The public health unit will run three quarters with different students participating each quarter.

Pictured are 14 of the 15 junior and senior students in the School of Nursing participating in the first campus-based public health program. They are, left to right: Back row: Carlene Traylor, Irene Clarambeau, Judy Storfjell, Colleen Hamilton, Twyla Reimche, Sandra Schultz. Middle row: Jeanne Fish, Bonnie Humphreys, Linda Blake, Leona Tadla. Front row: Phyllis Rehling, Pat Moore, Imogene Lyons, Fred Troutman.
