MEDICAL MINISTRY ADVANCE

W. J. HACKETT, President
North Pacific Union Conference

Throughout the world Seventh-day Adventist doctors, nurses and other personnel trained at Loma Linda University are making a tremendous contribution to the onward march of the Advent message.

Just a few weeks ago I visited Loma Linda again, as I attended the Board meetings, and I saw the onward progress of the new medical facilities that we must have in order to train personnel to fill these needed posts throughout the world. New curriculum plans are also in progress to help students more effectively than ever to acquire the superior medical education visualized by the servant of the Lord.

We have many dedicated doctors and personnel in that institution who are giving their lives for the furtherance of the cause. This has been one of the largest undertakings that Seventh-day Adventists have ever entered into and we do need the support of our people all over the world.

We are looking forward to April 9 when a special offering is to be received to help Loma Linda University build the facilities so much needed to carry on this great missionary project.

We appreciate too, that the brethren are attempting to make Loma Linda a grade A medical college in every respect. It was because of this desire that they had to unite on one campus. Medical education has changed and now they have united the Los Angeles and Loma Linda campuses on the one campus at Loma Linda where we have a great opportunity to show the world that we still believe in medical-missionary endeavor.

On this one campus we are training physicians, dentists, laboratory technicians, X-ray technicians and people in many other specialties as well as professional activities to faithfully support the conference program and the work of the Church all over the world.

Your leaders here in the North Pacific Union wish to encourage you to faithfully support Loma Linda in your offering on April 9. I know that there are many calls coming to you from time to time, but this is an important segment of our work and we trust that you will give liberally to support this worthy project.

NATIONAL MCC CAMP—MAY 31 to JUNE 12

THEODORE LUCAS

The National Service Organization of the General Conference announces the coming National Medical Cadet Corps Training Camp to be held at Grand Ledge, Michigan, May 31 to June 12, 1966. Every day the draft calls reach lower into the manpower capacity here in the United States. Men who would have been deferred even a year ago are being taken today. The prospect is that the draft will reach even further if the war in Vietnam continues to escalate. The forecast is that some draft boards will be forced to take married men and college students. The exact formula has not been worked out, but almost certainly college students will be drafted.

This brings a need of preparation for military obligation into sharp focus, since at the present time if a young man is in good mental and physical condition there is a good chance he will be called into military service. So before he reaches draft age, the Seventh-day Adventist should begin making preparation for this service as a noncombatant. Some Adventist men do not expect to be drafted, feeling that somehow they will be released from this obligation. On the other hand, some enter the service completely prepared. Such an individual usually is one who has a strong religious conviction—one who long before his induction has committed his life to God to be guided by his will, has put his financial and personal affairs in order, and is ready to face any eventuality. This requires deliberate and advanced planning.

One of the best ways to prepare for one's military obligation is to take advantage of the coming National Medical Cadet Corps Training Camp.

We must face the solemn fact that we are at war. There are emergencies, sacrifices, and unusual situations ahead for all of us, particularly for our young men. Surely they must be planning to receive adequate preparation for their military obligation. The answer is the Medical Cadet Corps program.

Throughout the United States and its possessions and in all the world there are thousands of our young men who are serving in the military. Our heavenly Commander-in-chief gives the following call through His messenger: "Christ calls for young men who will volunteer to carry the truth to the world."—Colporteur Ministry, p. 19.

To me it is evident that God has permitted our young men to be called into military service at such a time as this that they may be witnesses for God, the divine Leader of the remnant church. Our young men must face the stern realities of military life, rise to the occasion and feel their responsibility to rightly represent the truth.

Every parent and every church member has a responsibility to our young men to encourage them to prepare for the crises ahead. Those who take the Medical Cadet Corps training are prepared, both physically and spiritually, in experience which will stand the test that is certain to come.

At the National MCC Training Camp to be held just prior to the General Conference Session, the young men will be under the adequate leadership of trained Seventh-day Adventist officers, many of whom have had military training and background. Some have

COLLEGE QUALIFICATION TEST

CLARK SMITH, Director, National Service Organization

The Selective Service System has announced the dates Saturday, May 14; Saturday, May 21; and Friday, June 3, 1966, for the College Qualification Test. All men expecting to apply for deferment as a college student for the 1966-67 school year should take this test. The last date was placed on a Friday rather than again on a Saturday specifically for Seventh-day Adventists. The officials in the National Headquarters of the Selective Service System are familiar with Seventh-day Adventists and their habits of Sabbath observance.

Every man who will be in college next school year and who is registered for Selective Service or will register before June 3, 1966, should take this examination. Its purpose is to provide evidence for the use of local boards in considering deferment of a registrant from military service as a student. If for any reason such a person will not be able to take the test (such as being absent from the United States on those dates, or other valid reason), he should write to his board and explain why he will not take the examination and declare his intention of taking this test at the first opportunity available to him. Approximately 1,200 testing centers in the United States have been designated where this test will be given.

To apply to take the test a registrant should go to any local draft board office and obtain (1) a Bulletin of Information, (2) an application card—SSS Form 106, (3) a Ticket of Admission—SSS Form 107, and (4) a mailing envelope. Forms must be filled out and mailed according to the instructions given in them and postmarked no later than Saturday, April 23, 1966.

The instructions specifically state: "Because of the possibility that the applicant may be assigned to any one of the three testing dates, it is important that he list a center and a center number for each date." The application card (SSS Form 106) has the three dates—May 14, May 21, June 3, each followed by space for number and location of the center to be filled in by the applicant for this test. Seventh-day Adventists should write in the words "Seventh-day Adventist" in the squares opposite May 14 and May 21, then fill in the required number and location of the test center selected by them opposite June 3. It would be well for Adventist students to send in their applications as soon as possible, lest the spaces available on June 3 at the center they choose be filled by those applying before them.

The list of centers where these tests will be given includes some Seventh-day Adventist institutions. Test will be given at such institutions only on June 3.

"Signs" in a Convenient Place

A copy of Signs of the Times lay on a table beside Mrs. Elsa Brooks in the Loma Linda Sanitarium. It was colorful. There was magic in the name. The titles of the lead articles were interesting.

Mrs. Brooks took a copy in her hand and began to peruse the contents of this journal. The more she read, the more her interest grew. Although she was religiously inclined and a member of a protestant church, she was impressed by the Christ-centered, Bible-filled messages in the Signs and decided to order a year's subscription.

A few months later upon visiting the Sanitarium again, a few books were purchased. To her joy she discovered that several of the books were published by the same company which printed Signs of the Times.

One evening while viewing television Mrs. Brooks listened to Elder Vandeman on "It Is Written." This program was also sponsored by the Seventh-day Adventist Church. By this time Mrs. Brooks decided the Lord was leading her into new discoveries of truth.

She wrote for the "It Is Written" Bible lessons. Brother and Sister Bathke, members of the local Seventh-day Adventist church, invited Mrs. Brooks to attend public meetings, and then requested permission to hold Bible studies in her home. Following these studies Mrs. Brooks attended the Bible class conducted by Elder A. L. Bristol, and subsequently was baptized in the Ontario, California, church. She is grateful to Loma Linda Sanitarium for placing copies of Signs of the Times in a convenient place for their guests to read.

Why not send Signs to homes, and places the Signs in other convenient places to be read by earnest searchers for truth?

Connie Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Roberts of Moscow, Idaho, became the bride of Lloyd Armstead, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Armstead of Bremerton, Washington, on Sunday, January 30, in the First Presbyterian Church in Moscow. Lloyd and Connie have established their home in Pullman, Washington, where Lloyd is completing his fifth-year teaching requirements. Elder Norman Versteeg performed the ceremony.

The Spokane Linwood Seventh-day Adventist church was the scene of the wedding of Sharyn Masters and Earl Vogt on Sunday afternoon, February 27. Sharyn and Earl are both graduates of Upper Columbia Academy, and Sharyn is also a graduate of Walla Walla College where she majored in nursing. They will live in Moscow, Idaho, where Earl is a senior at the University of Idaho. Elder L. J. Meidinger was the officiating minister.

Signs of the Times

This is the time of the year when all hands, all hearts, and all pocketbooks are given to one of the great missionary programs of the church, that of establishing pulpits in the homes of thousands through subscriptions to the Signs of the Times.

A quick work is to be done this year in caring for the entire Signs program within the month of April. If we put our shoulders to the task and follow the plan as outlined by our pastors, our home missionary leaders and the Idaho Conference, great things will be accomplished in a very short time.

Now is the time to compile your new personal Signs subscription list and have it ready for special name gathering Sabbath as designated in your church. Now is the time to decide where you are going to send clubs of Signs. Now is the time to sponsor names to be supplied by the Voice of Prophecy, the Faith for Today, overseas mission fields, or interests in your local community. What we do, let us do now. Why wait? There is great satisfaction in following the program within the allotted time. As we work together and pray together, we will stay together, and united together we shall help to circle the world with truth for these times. "He that winneth souls is wise." The Signs of the Times way is a good way.

Progress in the John Day District

Geographically speaking, the John Day district is a very large one. Compared to the Washington Conference it is about the same length and half as wide. Population-wise the district is among the smallest in the Idaho Conference. However, measured quality-wise, the members of the John Day district are without peer.

Realizing the "day is far spent, and the night cometh when no man can work," the watchword in all three churches is, "forward." The members of the Burns church are at the present time looking forward to the near future when the Conference evangelistic team will arrive to hold a series of meetings. As they wait they are not in idleness. The church has undertaken an active lay program of visitation and Bible studies.

The Burns church is also working on a long-range program to establish a church school. Already they have acquired property on which to build and have a nice start on raising the necessary amount of cash. Not willing to be content with merely providing for their own, the little Burns church has also committed itself to establishment of a Health and Welfare Center during the year 1966.

The John Day church is actively forging ahead on all fronts. A remodeling program is in full swing on the old parsonage which now houses the children's departments of the Sabbath school. The church school is in need of a new water supply, which is well under way, and is scheduled to be finished before school next Fall. Although there is no school being held this year, due to lack of pupils, there are definite plans being made for a church school next year. They have a very nice little building that is less than three years old which includes living apartments for the teacher that are soon to be completed.

Not to be outdone by her sister church in Burns, the John Day church is also going ahead with plans for a new Health and Welfare Center. The Long Creek church which is in the same county as John Day, will be a supporter of the Center in John Day. Although busy with these many activities the church members are actively engaged in an all-out soul-winning program. They have set their goal for forty Bible studies per week and this involves nearly every adult member in the church.

Our Long Creek church is nestled in a beautiful little valley about forty miles north of John Day. Our members there are for the most part cattle ranchers. They are busily carrying out their part of the great gospel commission in a strong personal work among their neighbors and friends. Their Dorcas Society is operating as a "strong arm" of the message.

All churches of the district carried on a strong Ingathering campaign this year with all three exceeding the Conference goal in a strong way. Over and above the local programs of each church they have all shouldered their fair share of the various Conference-promoted activities such as the Liberty campaign, the Signs campaign and the Gem State Academy program. Tithe and mission offering statements testify to the faithfulness of the membership in carrying out their financial responsibilities.

We of the John Day district pledge our united effort to the finishing of God's work in our little part of the great harvest field of the earth. We wish to join with our brethren of the great North Pacific Union Conference in working and praying for the soon return of our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ.

B.V.E.S. Patriotic Program

Students of Boise Valley Elementary School, under the leadership of John Hamilton, principal, recently presented a patriotic program of song, recitations, and instrumental music for parents and friends.

Kenneth Terrell, Susan Woodruff, and Jana Rogers as seen at Boise Valley elementary school's patriotic program.

Decorations were in red, white, and blue. A 20-foot Washington monument replica below the stage was the setting for the evening's program.

Included in the program were skits, poems, recitations, and music by the school's band, orchestra, and choir. The band, directed by Richard McCoy, Gem State Academy, played "Thunder and Blazes," "Manhattan Beach," and "God of Our Fathers." The orchestra, also directed by Mr. McCoy, played "Yankee Doodle Boy," and "Blue Tail Fly." The 38-member choir, directed by Alvin Kurtz, teacher of grades five and six, sang "I Hear America Singing," "America, I Love Thee," and "America."

Children of Mrs. Harold Gray's grades three and four enacted a play, "The Bill of Rights." Mrs. Delos Badger's grades one and two did a Lincoln acrostic and "Finlandia" with the use of bells.

The evening's offering went for the school's entryway improvement fund.

Twelve Months for Christ

"Why not let the Lord bless your Investment projects twelve months of the year?" was the plea of the Investment leader at the beginning of 1965. The Lord did bless and the many projects brought in $1,722.35 for the Weiser Sabbath school when the year 1965 came to a close.

Each class and division had a goal, and every member did their part to see the objective reached.

One brother invested the returns on plaques he made; petrified wood bookends was another's investment; a crop of early potatoes was invested and all over $100 was the Lord's; a truck farmer invested one-tenth of his profit; another raised tomato plants in his house for spring planting.

The year ended with a good investment sale and all felt the Lord's blessing on their projects. As our members look to the new year they decided "that in '66 all will invest for the Lord."

Youth Evangelism in Troy, Idaho

Sunday, February 20, marked the opening night of a special evangelistic campaign in Troy, Idaho. Elder Charles G. Edwards, Conference MV Secretary, was the speaker, and the youth of the Troy and Moscow churches were his co-workers. The youth did the ushering, provided the special music, and laid the groundwork for the meetings with an Operation Fireside program.

The meetings were held in the Grange Hall of Troy, and every night the hall was filled with eager listeners. Many guests and visitors from the town of Troy were in attendance. Even among the guests there seemed to be a marked enthusiasm that was manifested in their urgent invitations to their friends to attend the meetings.

Some of the folk who were visited remarked repeatedly how wonderful it was that the young people were sponsoring these meetings, and they spoke in glowing terms of their admiration for our young people. One lady even stated that other churches were so impressed with the work of our youth, that they were introducing special programs for their own youth, to follow our example.

During the series, Elder Edwards also held special meetings with the youth in the Moscow Junior Academy and in the Farmington church school.

A large number of interested people attended and a number are planning to be baptized in the near future. Elder A. R. Hall of the Troy district is following up the interest in his area. The meetings were also supported by Elder Horton of the Moscow district.

On the left, you see pictured the youth choir that performed several times during the special evangelistic campaign sponsored by our youth in Troy, Idaho. Right, portion of the crowd in attendance one night at the meetings held in the Troy Grange Hall.

"Ideals" for Spokane Junior Academy

Spokane Junior Academy held their Spring Week of Prayer March 7 to 11. Youth Pastor Will Degeraty presented topics selected by the young people in grades six through ten. Emphasis was placed on "Christian Living in These Last Days."

Grades one through five studied the early pioneers of our Advent message.

By keeping "Ideals" before our young people such as these early pioneers, it gives them one more reason to work for, and prepare for, the eternal Home.

At the conclusion of the week fifteen young people had made decisions for baptism.

Grades one through five of the Spokane Junior Academy display pictures of our pioneers in the Advent message.

The sun was trying to shine through breaks in the cloudy sky, casting light and dark shadows on the mountain hillside. I pushed off on my skis and glided silently over the powdery snow, crossing a small mountain meadow, and entering the trees again. The air was fresh and cold, and the wind swirled the falling snow around me, filling up my tracks as I went. It was Sabbath morning, and I was up earlier than the rest of the group. I took a little walk on skis out into nature where I could walk and talk with God and listen to Him talk to me through the trees, the snow, and the wind—all part of God's other book. The snow and wind during the night had covered up all of the previous tracks and had left the woods perfectly clean and unmarred. It reminded me of the text in Isaiah which says our sins may become as white as snow.

Our Outdoor Club was spending a weekend up at the Walla Walla College biology lodge in the Blue Mountains. We had our own Sabbath school and church services, and then we all went out for a walk before dinner. We spent the afternoon hiking in the snow, admiring the beautifully laden trees and hills, and enjoying the companionship of all our friends. That evening we sang songs and had a vesper service as the sun sank into the west. Then we all listened to a lecture on "Mountaineering Dangers." This concluded a series of twelve lectures on mountaineering and wilderness survival. Two weeks before we had gone to Horse Thief Butte for our basic rock practice, and tomorrow we would have our basic snow practice.

We started our outdoor club this fall at Walla Walla College. Soon after, we began a course in basic mountaineering and wilderness survival. About

All church members are invited to join this chapter of the Upper Columbia Outdoor Club at College Place. Both Protestant churches observed the World Day of Prayer this year at the Seventh-day Adventist church. Elder Arthur Warner of the Adventist church was master of ceremonies, and Pastor David Heyser of the Presbyterian church was the speaker. Two members of the Presbyterian congregation, Mrs. Howard Walley and Mrs. Edmond Searle, along with Mrs. Dorothy Tomlinson of the Adventist congregation gave prayer readings. MEMO :

Progress of the gospel message in reaching millions in many parts of the world depends largely -- in some countries entirely -- on the entering wedge of our church medical work. Prophecy is being rapidly fulfilled in these lands, but greater support is needed from every church member if the important "right arm" of God's work is to continue its effective ministry to a waiting world.

Accept your full share of this sacred responsibility by giving liberally when the offering for medical education is taken in your church this Sabbath, April 9.

LOMA

Loma Linda University invites you to help "turn on the lights" all over a darkening world. Your special offering this year will aid youth in their pursuit of a Christian education and help them, in your behalf, to take the light of the gospel and the blessings of a healing ministry to every land . . .

Loma Linda University graduates have become most effective instruments for the uplifting and influencing of humanity around the world.

Seaside Opens New Building

Our faithful members at Seaside have planned, sacrificed, and toiled for several years to secure a better place of worship. Their fellow believers, neighbors and friends at Astoria united their efforts with the Seaside church in helping to bring about the new meeting place.

On Sabbath, February 26, 1966, the portion of the new building, comprising Phase I of the project, was opened for church services. This phase of the overall plan contains a general assembly room with seating capacity of about one hundred, auxiliary rooms for Sabbath school divisions, and utility rooms. It is a compact unit, ample to house the existing congregation on a temporary basis.

The Astoria church met with Seaside on this auspicious occasion. Members of the Astoria church put in about 3,400 hours of free labor, valued at more than $10,000, in helping to erect the new building at Seaside. That is real Christian love in action.

Much credit is due to Elder L. N. Boyd, pastor of the district, for bringing the working forces of these two churches together and giving constant direction and assistance in the construction work. Merritt Crawford, who has been building contractor for a number of our church buildings in the Oregon Conference, was able to give the necessary leadership and guidance in this work. Elder Ira Follett, former pastor of the Astoria district, and who helped secure the new building site, was also present for the occasion.

Two of the Conference officers—V. J. Jester and the writer—and Shirley Burton were able to participate in the worship service and the Sabbath school of this opening day.

Following the morning services the members of the two churches, Astoria and Seaside, arranged for a potluck lunch, which was served in the old building nearby. What a luscious feed! Everyone, including all the many visitors from far and near, was royally feasted.

Seaside is a fast growing area of the Conference. Now, with the new building in use, this area will be thoroughly covered with our message. We anticipate immediate and constant growth in the Seaside church membership. Several of our people living in Portland are uniting their efforts with Seaside to enlarge the Lord's work in that beautiful beach resort.

"Ye Are My Witnesses"

An early-winter airplane tragedy may well fulfill a mother's explanation before the year's end. Certainly it has already resulted in removal of prejudice and arousal of interest in God's remnant church.

Only God knows the whereabouts of Dick and Jean Coleman and Joe and Cheryl Jenson who disappeared in flight February 6 en route to Walla Walla College. However, the entire Northwest knows more about rescue operations of the Civil Air Patrol, donated food of the area merchants, unselfish service of Dorcas-Welfare workers—and the sustaining faith of Seventh-day Adventist parents.

Engaged in conversation with one CAP officer, the lost pilot's mother explained the rallying of friends and family behind rescue operations. "Ordinarily," the officer said cautiously, "we don't like to have family members around when we are conducting a search. They usually are so emotionally disturbed that they feel that we are not doing enough, even curse us for not finding the lost. You folks are not like that," he spoke sincerely. "You have come in with your friends to encourage and feed us. What makes the difference?"

"The difference," Mrs. Paul Coleman pointed out, "is that even if we don't find them, we still have hope." Continuing, she struck at the officer's heart, "My son has wanted to be a missionary since he was six years old, and we were in Borneo. It may be that he can do more for you in death than he could in life." The officer turned, emotionally shaken.

Spearheaded by another mother, Mrs.

Serving hot drinks and sandwiches were Pastor Ed Wilson and Bion Whitehouse, The Dalles; Mrs. Marion Jenson, Port Orchard; Cadet Ellis, Seattle CAP Observer; and Mrs. Joe Crain, Auburn.

Marion Jenson (who only the week before had told her Port Orchard, Washington, Dorcas ladies she felt they ought to have an emergency canteen unit to use in disasters), The Dalles Dorcas ladies and Pastor Ed Wilson moved into action. While planning for the airport was in progress, Eilertsons Nursing Home took over. Hot plates were moved into the Dallesport on makeshift, saw-horse tables; merchants contributed cases of food, boxes of fruits, dozens of loaves of bread; a dairy added milk; others offered food-stuffs at cost. Church members and non-Adventist friends and strangers alike were bent on serving 50 pilots and observers who at their own expense have dedicated themselves to this auxiliary wing of the Air Force.

One pilot, in the CAP for 20 years—once on search as long as three weeks,—was amazed that anyone would take time to have a hot drink and food ready when he returned from a mission. "We lay off our jobs to do this because many of us have been the objects of search," another avowed, "but never before has anyone sought to feed us or make more comfortable our sleeping bags."

"This is my religion," asserted another pilot candidate for God's kingdom. "Last year I spent $4,000 upgrading my personal rescue equipment. You are the first to save us cost of food and shelter."

Our own members, too, turned up to offer assistance in the search. Where they were trained and equipped, they were used.

On every hand these who labored for love of the pilot were amazed at their reception and that for the first time in scores of missions they had not had to fend for themselves. Private pilots (including Elder Paul Grove of Walla Walla College, Ed Webb of Portland, the Danielson brothers and Norman Skeels of Laurelwood, Don Dempsey and Eldon Yates of La Grande and Keith Magee of Troutdale) were also grateful.

Thirty different airplanes were used in the first six searching days. Man hours for CAP records totaled 4,771—and these were only the beginning. Dozens of area residents opened up their homes to rescue headquarters and accommodations. Ranger and Mrs. Buddy Thomas of the Pinchot National Forest manned around-the-clock the radio for the Skyliner Mobile Radio Club. The Willard, Washington, Women's Club housed and fed Walla Walla College students and CAP cadets. Lt. Richard Pingrey left his classroom to organize operations.

Food was sent from as far away as Laurelwood Academy where father

◀ Reading from top to bottom:

Located on Highway 101, the Seaside church is in a strategic spot to attract passersby.

Temporary sanctuary accommodations are at the south end of the building next to 14th Avenue.

President H. L. Rudy spoke to more than 150 guests crowded into the temporary sanctuary. When Phase II is added to the north end of the existing structure, the edifice will be L-shaped.

Charter member Hilma Habekast, now of McMinnville, was among the guests. Others were from Gladstone, Garibaldi, Boring, and Astoria, Oregon, and Battle Ground and Longview, Washington.

Paul Coleman is band director. A night chef's crew at Portland Sanitarium included the Catholic dietitian from St. Joseph's Hospital in Vancouver as well as Adventist Erika Braun. Sunnyside members (where Jean and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herb Gingrich, are members) sent prepared foods and money. Mrs. Joe Crain, Cheryl's mother, joined the Gingriches also in food preparation. Everyone seemed to be spurred onward by a whispering voice, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto these. . ."

Flying was not new to any of the families. Dick had determined that the best way to serve a mission station was to fly; Jean had dedicated her life to assist him in this missions work. While Joe and Cheryl had no immediate plans to use flying in the Lord's service (he was under research appointment at Loma Linda), Joe's brother Bill is a flying pastor in Alaska. All four looked forward and were preparing for the last great space flight with the Master Pilot.

A final Memorial Service for the four is scheduled for Sunnyside on March 26. In lieu of flowers, the families (in consultation with Oregon, Washington, and Union conference officials) are suggesting that contributions be made for a Mobile Can-teen Unit which could be used by local Dorcas-Welfare groups in future emergencies. Such a trailer unit would be fitted with stoves, refrigerator, and foodstuffs for immediate use where the disaster occurred.

The parents—Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gingrich, Portland; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Crain, Auburn, Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Marion Wm. Jenson, Port Orchard, Washington; and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Coleman, Laurelwood—are grateful for your sustaining prayers and encouraging letters in this distressing experience.

Servicemen's Literature Offering

One of the most important dates to remember in the near future is May 14, 1966. The offering on that Sabbath is for the Servicemen's Fund. This offering comes once every two years and helps to supply literature to those in the Service. There are over 200 of our boys in Vietnam alone to say nothing of those serving in other places. Many more will be called in the future. This will place a heavy demand on this fund which helps to supply the Serviceman's Kit as well as other periodicals to these young men.

Just the other day word came again that another of our boys was killed in action. Surely nothing more could be said of the needs of these boys who serve under such conditions. The goal has been set at $75,000 which is needed to insure that these men will receive that which will be helpful to them in remaining true to God.

This is a real crisis hour in their lives. We must support them with our letters and prayers and, above all, a substantial offering on May 14. They are counting on you and look forward to the literature and other supplies they will receive which will enable them to share their faith in the many troubled spots of this earth. They are counting on you.

Saturday Sabbath Observance Urged to Promote Church Unity

NEW YORK—A New York City minister says that if Jews and Christians would observe Saturday as Sabbath, it would promote religious unity to a degree never before seen in the history of our civilization.

In a Sunday sermon at the Middle Collegiate Church in New York City, Dr. Ernest R. Palen, of the Reformed Church in America, proposed that Protestants and Catholics alike join the Jews in observing the seventh day of the week as a day of worship. "It should not be too great a break for Protestants and Catholics to observe the same Sabbath Day that Jesus Himself observed," he said. A National Council of Churches spokesman said that the loss of Sunday as a day of worship might be healthy for all concerned. He noted that Sunday was picked rather arbitrarily for a day of Christian worship, though some Christian churches, such as the Seventh-day Adventist Church, continue to observe the Bible Sabbath.

Dr. Palen proposed that Pope Paul VI take the initiative. He predicted that if the pontiff designated the seventh day, the historical and Biblical Sabbath, as a day to keep holy, most of the major Protestant bodies would follow his lead.

Forty Years in Nursing Service

As a Seventh-day Adventist registered male nurse who has been engaged in the nursing profession for 40 years, I wish to pay this tribute to the nursing profession.

Nursing service in its broadest sense may be defined as an act and a science which involves the whole patient—body, mind and spirit. It promotes the patient's spiritual, mental and physical health by nursing technique, teaching, and example. Nursing stresses health and health preservation, and involves the care of the patient's environment—social and spiritual as well. It gives health service to the family and the community in which a nurse renders nursing service.

In Counsels on Health, page 387, we read: "Earnest, devoted young people are needed to enter the work as nurses. As these young men and women use conscientiously the knowledge they gain, they will increase in capability, becoming better and better qualified to be the Lord's helping hand." "To the young men and young women who are being educated as nurses . . . I will say, Keep close to Jesus. By beholding Him we become changed into His likeness."—Page 590.

Surely, in the serious times in which we live, Christian nurses have a great responsibility and opportunity to witness for Jesus in the healing art.

If you have not yet chosen your career, young person, consider the medical field—"right arm of the message."

Medical Centennial

Portland Sanitarium will celebrate the centennial of Seventh-day Adventist medical work this year.

One hundred years ago, in 1866, the church voted to implement a strong health-emphasis program. Beginning with a health periodical and a health institute, the medical work has extended to 189 countries of the world. In 1965 approximately four million persons were treated at the church's 128 hospitals and 146 clinics throughout the world. One out of every three Adventists employed full-time by the church in 1964 was a medical worker.

Open-house celebrations, fair exhibits, and parade entries by Adventist medical institutions on Hospital Day and throughout 1966 will center around the centennial of Adventist medical work.

Formation of Youth Associated For Christ

Born out of a deep longing to counteract the statistics of "One out of twenty" along with the sincere belief that much can be accomplished through associated effort, the Tacoma area MV Societies of Central, South Side and 23rd Street churches, including Puyallup and Olympia, on March 4 formed a Youth Association.

Tentatively this combination of Societies shall be known as Youth Associated for Christ.

The immediate objectives of this association are to inspire our young people to deeper consecration and dedication of life to Jesus Christ in view of the nearness of His return, and to inspire our youth to greater soul-winning endeavors in recognition of the fact that soul winning and salvation are intimately connected.

The association is being given strong support and direction from Elders Ehrhardt and Wentland. It was decided that meetings would be held once a month alternating between the respective churches. The officers selected are as follows:

Association Leader
Charles W. Lott
Asst. Association Leader
Ronald E. Bushnell
Secretary
Pastor Don Blehm
Temporary Music Director
Pastor Arthur Bushnell

An executive committee comprising the pastors and MV leaders will work hard to direct our youth toward those eternal realities which make for abundant living in this world and in the world to come.

Volunteer Park Church Observes Anniversary

On February 27 the Volunteer Park church held an anniversary dinner in its fellowship hall. Three years ago, February 23, 1963, the old Seattle Central church was burned. One year ago the congregation moved into its new building and changed the church name to Volunteer Park.

On the third anniversary of the fire H. L. Keene, the church treasurer, reported that the church cost was approximately $13.50 per square foot, total investment being $368,749.53. There remains somewhat of a financial involvement which church officials are confident can be cleared in two years. Elder Stanley Hiten, pastor, reviewed many providential circumstances in the past three years contributing to the good progress report for which all thanks is due to God's goodness.

These students and many others met recently with leadership of each of our local conferences and the union conference when they visited Loma Linda University as a recruitment item. WE MUST HAVE YOUR ZIP CODE NUMBER, PLEASE

All address plates in the current "North Pacific Union Gleaner" mailing list have been supplied with a Zip Code number. When it becomes necessary to write us about your subscription, be sure to include the "old" and the "new" Zip Code numbers—this is essential because, due to complete restructuring of the mailing list to fit new postal regulations, it will be very difficult to locate old addresses from name and address only.

Subscriptions and changes of address sent from the local Conference offices as well as from individuals should include this Zip Code information.

ALSO TAKE NOTE—Whenever a mailing address is used in published ads, reports, or notices requiring answers by mail, please include the Zip Code number as part of the copy or publication may be delayed until this is supplied.

Our thanks to the many individuals already supplying the Zip Code information with items sent to the "Gleaner" office.
