"THE PLACE OF OUR MEDICAL WORK IN A DEVELOPING AFRICA"

C. D. BLAINE, M. D.

As we all are aware, the past few years have changed and quickened every way of life. In what was once called "Darkest Africa" the sun has risen. The people have suddenly awakened, and found themselves. The national leaders are making Herculean efforts to bring to their people the benefits of civilization that previously only the privileged few have enjoyed. These countries of Africa are rapidly changing, and catching up with their more sophisticated neighbors.

What is the place of Seventh-day Adventist medical work in developing Africa? Scientific discoveries during these same past few years have revolutionized the practice of medicine. However, the work of health and healing is still the right arm of the message. It still will break down prejudice that men may be completely restored in body, and mind, and soul. Our plan and methods may change, indeed must change; but the medical work will be the right arm of the gospel until it is preached in all the world.

Our medical workers have helped to open up some of the remotest parts of Africa. Not only have they brought healing and health to the people, but also improved standards of living. Now, conditions in Africa are changing. In some countries, up to 40 percent of the population has migrated to the cities, and this percentage is rapidly increasing. The national governments are also taking more and more of the responsibility for the public health. Socialized medicine is here to stay. Modern hospitals are very expensive to build and operate, and usually only national governments have the necessary capital.

How can we reach the people in the cities? They must not be neglected. They will soon bear the brunt of the seven last plagues. Jesus Himself spent much of His time working the more important cities of Palestine. He went to where the people were, just as long as He was permitted to do so.

What can we do today? Our funds are limited. We cannot afford to build many large hospitals. The Spirit of Prophecy counsels us that the medical work should not take so much money that the rest of the gospel work is crippled. Should not the right arm rather work for and support the rest of the body? One suggestion is that we re-examine and re-study the counsels of the Spirit of Prophecy in the light of modern developments and the new problems that we face today. Perhaps there are ideas there that we have not thought of. Careful study and planning is one of the keys to success, especially when one's resources are limited. As Pastor R. M. Reinhard, the Trans-African Division treasurer, told us recently, "We should work smarter, not harder."

Another suggestion is that we consider the opening of out-patient clinics for the upper and middle classes in the cities. This has already been done in Blantyre, Malawi, with outstanding success. We also have many dispensaries scattered over Africa, many in rural areas, and operated by trained African orderlies who are giving yeoman service, not only in ministering to the physical needs of the people, but also to their spiritual needs. In the cities, of course, the clinics would need to be staffed by trained physicians. Our rural dispensaries have mostly been quite profitable financially, and have required relatively little capital to get them started; and it would appear that in the cities out-patient clinics, even with modern facilities, would be considerably cheaper to build and operate than hospitals. It is also true that modern advances in medicine have made it possible to treat many conditions at home and in the office that previously required hospital treatment. People also appreciate being treated in this way, because for them it is much less expensive.

Such clinics would also be ideal places to display and sell our fine Adventist books and periodicals. Could not the medical work and the publishing work cooperate in this way to the saving of more souls? These clinics could also become centers for health lectures, classes in cooking and nutrition, and other projects like the excellent 5-day plan to stop smoking.

When the enemy of souls sees us enter his strongholds, no doubt he will do all he can to make things as difficult as possible for the spread of the gospel in the cities, but let us remember the words of Caleb, "Let us go up at once and possess it, for we are well able to overcome it."

MCC will also give valuable guiding principles on making the proper approach to your officers and chaplains to avoid troubles in Sabbath observance during military service. You will learn the proper procedures in requesting a post of duty in which you may labor conscientiously in Sabbath duties compatible with Sabbath observance, and also how to be exempt from bearing arms.

MCC alerts you to your relation to the call of your country, and how this call is related to God's over-all plan for you. Your attitude in responding to your call can make the

Washington Camp Meeting

While at the General Conference Session we were notified that there was a good possibility that Elder W. R. Beach, Secretary of the General Conference, would be with us for camp meeting, and it was also hoped that Elder N. C. Wilson, newly elected president of the North American Division, would come. These are just two of a goodly number of others who will be coming to the Washington camp meeting this year to share with us the blessings of the General Conference Session and to inform us of the progress of the world work.

This promises to be an outstanding meeting and we earnestly invite all who can to be sure and come for the full time. Once again we are anticipating some natives from overseas fields to be with us.

NOTICE

The officers of the Western Washington Corporation of Seventh-day Adventists are prepared to counsel with you at camp meeting regarding your estate plans. Bring with you your present wills or trust agreements and we shall be glad to discuss the steps that should be taken to bring these papers up to date. We invite you to visit the Corporation office, which is to be located in the new Administration Building at Auburn Academy.

Camp Meeting Is Here

We are looking forward to meeting our members at camp meeting. This is always a glorious time, and this year promises to be the best ever. Your Bible House is planning the usual good display of our literature. There are just a host of new items which you will not want to miss, and please remember that the books by Ellen G. White are discounted 20 percent. Everyone should check to see what ones are missing in their library.

Our office will be closed from July 9 through 25. We will be open on July 26. See you at camp meeting. Come prepared to take home arm loads of good books.

Grays Harbor Welfare Center at Work

The Hoquiam-Grays Harbor Health and Welfare center which opened in the fall of 1963 has moved to larger quarters at 302 E. Heron in Aberdeen. Each Tuesday the Dorcas ladies have been on hand helping those in need. Mrs. Edith Cowan, the Welfare leader, has been busy with such projects as quilt tying and supplying material to those who are willing to work at home and are unable to spend their time at the center.

A literature rack was also placed inside the window with the sign "Free Literature—Inquire Within." People stopped to look at the pamphlets but did not enter. The leader decided to place the rack outside the door; now they stop and help themselves. Many pamphlets have been distributed by this method. The admonition in Ecclesiastes 11:1 "Cast thy bread upon the waters; for thou shalt find it after many days," will be fulfilled as we do our part.

The reward of a smile and a thank you from those helped serves to satisfy those who labor from week to week at the center. Through the efforts of God-fearing Dorcas workers, souls will find their way into the kingdom.

One dear sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Hamilton, who is 75 years of age and a "Dorcas" at heart, has been very active with her nimble fingers at home cutting and sewing quilt blocks. Since last October, she has made 26 quilt tops which the other Dorcas ladies tie and return to her for the finishing touch.

When this project was mentioned, this sister's health was not too good, but she stepped out by faith believing the Lord would grant the necessary strength to do her part in helping some needy soul. Her health has improved steadily.

May God tenderly watch over His Welfare centers and the sisters in Christ who so lovingly stand each week at their post of service in Christ's vineyard.

Camp Meeting Music

It is almost camp meeting time at Gladstone, July 14-23! During this great convocation we will sing mostly from our Church Hymnal; therefore, we suggest you bring your Hymnal along with your Bible.

We desire that the music at the Gladstone camping session

- will impress His Word upon hearts
- will give to each a new meaning and purpose of life
- will promote harmony of action to finish His work
- will inspire God's people to be faithful unto the end.

We know that "amidst the deepening shadows of earth's crisis, God's light will shine brightest and the Song of Hope and Trust will be heard in clearest and loftiest strains."

Ralph Sandberg of Portland Union Academy will direct the choir; Paul Coleman of Laurelwood will be in charge of the band and orchestra. If you have had experience with a

Chairman, Music Committee

Milo Academy Dean of Boys

Milo Academy extends a very warm welcome to Mr. John Knutson, his wife Patricia, and their two children, Lisa and Robert.

John Knutson

Mr. Knutson comes to Milo as the new dean of boys replacing L. A. Huston who will teach in the areas of history and English at the academy. Both Mr. and Mrs. Knutson graduated from Upper Columbia Academy and attended Walla Walla College. Mr. Knutson received his B.A. degree in history from the college in 1964. From there he went to Wenatchee Junior Academy as principal, holding that position until accepting the call to Milo. Interestingly Mr. Knutson spent his elementary school years at the school in Wenatchee.

Milo is anxious to join hands with this fine couple, and their joy in serving young people will greatly enhance the cause of God in southern Oregon.

Laurelwood Needs You

Education at Laurelwood Academy is missionary training. We believe that every son and daughter is called to be a missionary. It is ever kept before the young people that they are called to the service of God and their fellow men. Each teacher on the staff is dedicated to the task of giving this type of education.

Because we are a chosen people with an extraordinary mission to accomplish, our youth need a special preparation—a preparation that cannot be obtained in the public schools.

Laurelwood Academy is looking for young men and women who want to be fitted for a place in God's work; young people who believe that Christ is coming soon and want to be prepared for this great event; young people with the single purpose of finishing the task our forefathers began 120 years ago.

If you are interested in joining a family of students who are going places for God, we still have room for you. Write to us. Visit us at camp meeting. Come out and see us. Make sure you are enrolled at Laurelwood Academy this fall.

Principal

Laurelwood Graduation

Elder G. S. Balharrie chose the class aim for the commencement address title for 87 seniors at Laurelwood Academy: "Strong Hearts for God."

The greatest need in our churches, Elder Balharrie told the seniors, is for men and women whose strong faith in the Lord and His Word will lead them to an eternal future with the Master Teacher. Citing the Waldenses as examples, the Walla Walla College pastor-teacher appealed to the class to step out with courage, stick-to-it-iveness, and love for their fellow men as they find their places in the world or continue education.

Principal A. T. Wiegardt awarded the diploma of Dennis Bond posthumously to his parents, Dr. and Mrs. B. W. Bond of Eugene. Dennis's senior year was ended by a mid-term holiday automobile accident near Cottage Grove.

Dennis was also remembered in the class gift, which included new American and State flags in addition to a memorial erected at the base of the flag pole.

Twenty-eight members of the class wore golden cords at commencement exercises, signifying 21 units of credit with a minimum 3. average for an enriched diploma.

Other weekend speakers were Elders E. S. Humann, union conference auditor, and M. L. Mooers, academy church pastor and a class advisor.

Class officers were Gail Perry, Anchorage, Alaska, president; Larry Blakely, Portland, vice president; Lance Herrington, Dillingham, Alaska, chaplain; Marsha Oberg, Cottage Grove, secretary; Derryl MacLean, Forest Grove, treasurer; Jim Sturdevant, Hillsboro, parliamentarian; Bob Misener, Puyallup, Washington, sergeant-at-arms; Sharon Wentz, Portland, chorister; Marianne Huber, Heppner, pianist; and Verna Olson, Lebanon, organist. Mr. Robert Sutton was the other class advisor.

IDAHO

Spanish Teacher

It is always a pleasure to find teaching replacements who have not only the theoretical knowledge of their field but extensive practical knowledge as well. Mr. Dean Munroe, a 1966 graduate of Walla Walla College, is such a person.

Mr. Munroe was born in South Gate, California. His father was in the United States Air force which entailed moving often and all around the world. When Mr. Munroe was in the sixth grade his father was transferred to Old Spain where the Munroe family made their home for three years. During his eighth grade Mr. Munroe took all his school work in a Spanish school. Also, while the family was located in Spain many opportunities were found to visit the countries of France, Germany, Italy, Switzerland, and Austria, as well as traveling extensively in Old Spain itself.

Mr. Munroe graduated from Walla Walla Valley Academy in 1961 and from Walla Walla College in 1966.

Mrs. Munroe is the former Patricia Lewis of Corvallis, Oregon, a 1961 graduate of Laurelwood Academy. Mrs. Munroe attended Walla Walla College for two years, and she has been employed in the business office for the last five years. The Munroes have one daughter, Linda Diane, five months old.

Mr. Munroe will be teaching Spanish I, Spanish II, English I, and Developmental Reading. He will also assist Mr. David Russell in overseeing our Audio Visual Department.

The Munroes will be on campus in mid-July.

Vacation Bible Schools Highly Successful

Vacation Bible Schools were recently held in the Endicott and Colfax districts. In both areas church support and enthusiasm was excellent.

The Endicott Vacation Bible School was held from June 6-10 under the leadership of Mrs. Sam Brown. Both Brother and Sister Brown have dedicated much time to child evangelism. Other key ladies helping in this effort were: Mrs. Evelyn Magnuson, Mrs. Barney Schoepflin and Mrs. Harry Judson. The enrollment hit a high peak of 22. A story hour follow-up is being planned in the hope to keep Christ before these boys and girls.

In Colfax the Vacation Bible School was held June 20-24 under the direction of Mrs. Bob Repp. The Lord has richly blessed this school. Last year Vacation Bible School ended with 21 boys and girls in attendance. This year it nearly doubled with 41 boys and girls in attendance. One girl was so enthusiastic that she brought five others with her to the Bible school. The division leaders were: Mrs. Gary Hilde, Mrs. Ben Sherrer and Mrs. Bill Walter. Mr. and Mrs. Alby Ochs took charge of the crafts. There was nearly one hundred per cent participation from the church ladies. A strong follow-up program is under way including story hour and recreation at the gym.

One mother commented that our Bible School was superior to that of the one recently conducted at her own church.

We appreciate the dedicated members in these churches who are not forgetting the salvation of those whom Christ said, "Of such is the kingdom of Heaven."

School Receives Model Rating

The Milton-Stateline school has been awarded the top rating of "Model School" after a comprehensive study under the direct supervision of Elder A. J. Werner and Miss Bernice Searle. Factors determining the rating are: location; school building, equipment, administration, and finance; teacher qualifications and responsibilities; Home and School Association; School Health Program; and its religious classes, activities, and program stressing character building.

A peaceful country atmosphere is the setting for the school conveniently located between Milton-Freewater and College Place. Completing its fourth year of operation with 220 students the eight-grade school is situated on a ten-acre campus on Crockett Road between the old and new Milton Highway. The campus includes a ball diamond, playground equipment, and ample space for a play area during warm weather while the gymnasium provides for winter activities. The building includes eight classrooms in addition to a complete library, a fully equipped home economics room, shop, office, health room, and gymnasium which also serves as an auditorium having stage facilities and public address system.

To give every child an equal opportunity to develop his musical ability a progressive music education program is included in the curriculum at no extra charge and students in every grade benefit from the choir and instrumental program with three choirs, two bands, a recorder ensemble, rhythm band, and music appreciation classes under the direction of a full-time music teacher, Mr. Harlan Bates.

Art classes in the upper grades are taught by Miss Nancy Johnson. In addition to the regular scheduled physical education classes a tumbling team has developed as a result of the tumbling classes. Tumbling instructors are Mr. Richard Robins and Mr. Wallace Mandigo who supervise both beginning and advanced classes.

The majority of the students are transported to the school by bus, and three complete bus runs daily cover an area from Eastgate to Umapine and from northwest College Place up the Walla Walla River Road in Milton-Freewater.

Pastor E. D. C. Richardson is chairman of the School Board. Mrs. Melvin Meharry is Home and School leader, and the assistant leaders are Mrs. Helen Rice, Mrs. Cleo Wentland, Mrs. Shirley Wentland, Mrs. June Larson, Mrs. Betty Waggoner, and Mrs. Marilyn Kaufmann. The full-time custodian is Mr. Ray Clark. Faculty members are: principal and Does Vacation Bible School Pay?

More than eighty boys and girls attended Vacation Bible School at the Anchorage Seventh-day Adventist church this summer, and over half of this number were from non-Adventist homes.

Have you ever asked yourself the question, "Does Vacation Bible School really pay?" I am sure you have and also wondered whether the results achieved were commensurate with the time and money expended. I think we can answer yes to all of these questions. Vacation Bible Schools do cost money and they do take a great amount of work and preparation and time to conduct, but they do pay.

For some of the boys and girls, Vacation Bible School is the only religious training they will receive for the year. If they are lucky they will be able to attend again next year.

We are often amazed at the amount of information children can absorb in just two weeks. They learn to sing and to pray, reverence for God's house, crafts and citizenship. Many of them hear of Jesus and His great love for the first time and some take their stand for Him through vacation Bible School. We have today some of these same children in our Sabbath school and several have enrolled in Junior Camp.

As Seventh-day Adventists we believe our message is to go to the entire world. Vacation Bible School is one more place where people learn of the soon coming of Jesus and God's requirements for us today. There are thousands of people who have been won to our church by the witness of teachers and little ones through the instrument of Vacation Bible School.

Aerospace Education Workshop

Time for registration for the Aerospace Education Workshop, July 18-29, is growing short, but a few more registrants can be accommodated, says R. E. Stahlnecker, Workshop director.

As the date of the Workshop nears and plans are made firm, enthusiasm mounts for the coming educational experience scheduled. Two of the most fascinating topics with exhibits are "The Spacemobile Program" with a spacemobile to be exhibited on the campus by NASA representatives, and "The Science of Rocketry" by Robert Gessel, Washington state aeronautics communications officer in charge of rocketry, actually setting off rockets as a part of the program.

Teachers attending will be able to discuss aerospace education on which Major Hugh G. Simpson, U.S.A.F. Reserve, is an expert.

Registration should be made at once. Write: Dr. R. E. Stahlnecker, Walla Walla College, College Place, Washington 99324, for further information.

Trade-Tech School

Ambitious, mechanically oriented Adventist men of the Northwest who recognize the need of training for today's job market will be interested in the following report from the College Place Trade-Tech School being operated on the WWC campus.

Seven men finished in June: three as printer-lithographers, two as auto mechanics, and two as radio-telecommunication technicians.

All the printers were placed in denominational work: one went to Loma Linda University press, one went to St. Helena Sanitarium and Hospital, and one is leaving this summer for Malamulo Mission press in Malawi, Africa. Two or three times as many printers could have readily been placed.

Both the auto mechanics were hired—or had received offers—before school was out. More cars and trucks are being made, sold, and used than ever before, and it is plain that there will never be enough good servicemen in this field.

One of the radio-TV technicians was drafted into the army and the other (who plans to use skill to help him complete a college degree course) is employed by the college.

More welders are needed.

There is urgent need in industry for electronics technicians, and some of the largest companies in the world have expressed an interest in all those the school can produce.

New sections are starting in these trade areas this fall (September 18) and there are openings at present in all three. Past experience indicates they will be more than full by the start of school, so interested students should apply—or request further information—as soon as possible.

In addition, a new area, welding, will be opened. This will normally be completed in one school year (the others are two) and will cover all phases, including the latest techniques, of this very-much-in-demand skill. (Calls for welders have been coming to the school for over a year, from all over the country. One SDA employer alone could use the entire output of this class for several years!)

For more information or to reserve a place in this technical school, write to Dr. Calvin L. Trautwein, Walla Walla College, College Place, Washington 99324. But do it soon, before it is too late—facilities are necessarily limited.

Books on Display

A collection of more than 1,000 new library books for children and youth from kindergarten through grade nine are now on display in the Curriculum Library, Smith Hall, on the WWC campus, says Mrs. Kenneth Groves, curriculum librarian.

The tremendous selection of fine books sent by 60 publishers to teacher training colleges is open to the public and should be of special interest to parents and teachers. On the campus the collection of Books on Exhibit is used for the course in Children's Literature now in progress under the direction of Miss Bernice Searle. By request, the display will be held over during the second term of summer school, and during the Library Workshop, August 1-12.

Another collection, courtesy of four additional publishers, will be added to the display for the Workshop.

Master Guide Family

Missionary Volunteer study and work are a family as well as a society occupation, at least at the College church.

Working toward specified goals each year, Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Losey, both Master Guides, have shared in the preparation for investiture of many local youth as well as of their own children. This past year it was study and work toward the highest rank for Suzie Losey, 17-year-old Walla Walla Valley Academy student.

At the spring investiture at the College church, Suzie received the Master Guide rank with a third generation, her maternal grandmother, Loma Linda, California, herself a Master Guide, presenting the pin and scarf.

"We've enjoyed going through the entire series of MV ranks," says Mrs. Losey. And with Larry a Guide, the Losey family will undoubtedly continue to be MV conscious.

West Africa in Need of Books

I am happy to report that there is an increasing interest in Christian education on the part of some of our laymen and workers. In fact, some new schools based on SDA principles of Christian education have already been established and others are being planned by our West African church members. The trend is very encouraging indeed.

In order to fan this spark and feed the flame, we need reading material on SDA Christian education. We need large numbers of the following books:

Education

Fundamentals of Christian Education

Counsels to Parents, Teachers and Students

For our busy mission presidents and education secretaries, we urgently need a number of copies of Education Principles in the Writings of Ellen G. White by E. M. Cadwalader and The Gist of Christian Education by A. N. Nelson and R. G. Manalaysay. These mimeographed compilations have been used by teachers and students in college
