A JOB DONE YET UNDONE

W. J. HACKETT, President
North Pacific Union Conference

We wish to commend our people living in the state of Washington for throwing their full support behind the securing of signatures for Initiative 229. You already know that we did our part in securing the number of signatures needed and soon the matter of the Blue Laws will be placed on the ballot for the people of Washington to vote.

Your leaders are strong and united in the belief that Seventh-day Adventists should vote to abolish the Sunday Blue Laws. We must stand consistently against Sunday Laws anywhere at any time. Now we must take the wonderful opportunity to educate the public in regard to the issues at stake.

The Religious Liberty committee that met recently is suggesting that we circulate not less than 135,000 copies of the pamphlet, "Questions on Sunday Laws." This is a pamphlet especially designed to inform the general public of our stand on Sunday legislation. Just before the voting day we hope to circulate another pamphlet beamed more specifically to the problem of the Blue Laws in the State of Washington. We hope to hold Religious Liberty rallies, radio and television interviews, as well as distributing literature to acquaint the public with the real issues at stake in this religious legislation.

We shall appreciate the cooperation and help of all of our people in the state of Washington as we carry out this educational process. We can certainly count on our people for their support and help.

A MOMENTOUS OPPORTUNITY TO GATHER FUNDS FOR INVESTMENT

LOUIS B. REYNOLDS, Associate Secretary
General Conference Sabbath School Department

Not often in the history of our Sabbath school work have there appeared opportunities as notable and outstanding as those now open to us to realize a mammoth return on our investment projects. The sale of dedicated crops, of special services, of white elephants and the like, have yielded through the years since 1925 an extra 15 million dollars for our needy mission program. But that now appears fiscally small when compared with the mounting dollars now being quickly harvested for the cause.

R. R. Andrus, investment leader of our Buchanan, Michigan, church, has come up with an idea which seems to be the most dramatic and instan-taneous in its success of all that we have ever heard about. He is selling Zip Code Directories and using the profits for investment. The directory retails at a cost of $2.70 through the office of the Superintendent of Documents. But through the Directory Service Company of Algoona, Iowa, Brother Andrus has a quantity of the same books printed, and he is selling them for $1.00. Fifty cents of the sale price goes for investment. Incidentally, government authorities are delighted to have this voluntary help with their zip-code campaign.

In the first 45 days of spare time canvassing, Brother Andrus sold enough directories to make a profit of $1,890. Since then he has increased this figure to over $2,400, and the requests for his booklets are still coming in.

The cover of the directory identifies the project as one that is sponsored by the local Seventh-day Adventist church. It is specifically labeled as an "Investment for missions." The back cover, which tells how the proceeds will be used, acts as a further appeal for the sale.

Enough additional directories have now been printed by Brother Andrus so that he can make quantities available to churches that are interested in following his plan. More copies will be printed as the demand increases. If every Adventist church member in the United States buys only two Zip Code Directories, keeps one and sells one, we could raise an extra $500,000 clear profit this year for investment.

The Zip Code Directory contains the same zip codes as the U.S. Superintendent of Documents Directory of Post Offices, offered by the Superintendent of Documents. It lists over 35,000 zip codes, in all 50 states, plus the Caroline Islands, District of Columbia, Guam, Mariana Islands, Marshall Islands, Puerto Rico, and Samoa.

The directory is a practical, usable, convenient-sized reference work. The prices from Brother Andrus are as follows: Sample copy—$1.00, retail; 20 to 199 copies 60 cents each; and over 200 would be 50 cents each. Those who are interested in having their Sabbath school participate in this project should contact R. R. Andrus, P.O. Box 157, Berrien Springs, Michigan 49103. He has printed materials which will explain the plan more

Andrews Gets New VEEP

The Board of Trustees announced July 18 the appointment of Earle Hilgert, Th.D., as Vice President for Academic Administration at Andrews University.

Earle Hilgert

Recently professor of New Testament and acting dean at the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary, Dr. Hilgert has been at Andrews since 1952.

Queried about his reaction to the new appointment and his concept of Seventh-day Adventist education, Dr. Hilgert said that the responsibilities of a university included the transmission of knowledge and values.

Included in this, he added, was the carrying out of a constant and critical re-examination of accepted knowledge and values to facilitate orderly change, development and improvement in society, and the presentation of its teachers to the community as a group of experts.

His concept for Christian education is based on the counsels given this people through the Spirit of Prophecy, principles that, he notes, have been sure guidance in the development of a strong system of education. These principles, he affirms, contain values for further progress and future perpetuation of the system.

Receiving his undergraduate degree from Walla Walla College, he earned his master of arts and bachelor of divinity degrees from the Theological Seminary. He was awarded the doctor of theology degree at the University of Basel, Switzerland.

A member of several learned societies, a writer with articles published in several learned journals, and an experienced traveler, he also brings to his position the past experience of missionary, having chairmanned the department of history at the Philippine Union College from 1947-1951.

Assuming his new duties August 1, he will replace Charles Hirsch, Ph.D., who has been appointed as Secretary of the Department of Education in the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists.

Decision Meetings

A Faith for Today Decision series will be conducted in Detroit in October by Pastor W. A. Fagal and the Faith for Today Quartet. Assisting will be Detroit area pastors and Faith for Today personnel.

If you have the names of friends, loved ones or other interests living in the Detroit area, please send them immediately to Faith for Today, Box 8, New York, N. Y. 10008. They may be addressed to Department of Field Evangelism.

This will be the fourth in Faith for Today decision meetings. Within the last year series have been held in Washington, D. C., Swift Current, Sask., Canada, and Manchester, New Hampshire.

Pray that God will abundantly bless with a good harvest of souls in Detroit.

preceding six months the figure stayed close to 240—sometimes slightly higher, sometimes dipping slightly lower. May, June and the early part of July saw coverage moving upward as newly prepared brochures in four colors were mailed to 200 stations across the country and 50 program directors were contacted personally and by phone about carrying the program.

Station coverage goal by the beginning of the winter telecast season: 275 stations.

Faith for Today's coverage began in May, 1950, with one station—New York's WABC.

In April of 1957 the number of stations televising the program was 150; by June of 1963 it had reached 216; and by September, 1965, 239. Hand in hand with marked increase in over-all station coverage has been the increasing number of stations featuring the telecast in color. Six months ago 23 stations televised Faith for Today in color. Today the program is on 100 stations in color. And Station Relations Director F. W. Hudgins anticipates that by 1967 this figure will have jumped to 150.

He points out that continued support of church leaders and members in writing letters to stations and inviting friends to view the telecast will further strengthen station coverage.

Newly prepared is a Faith for Today "Boosters Kit" which includes helpful material for the entire church membership in inviting friends to view the telecast and in strengthening the telecast's position with its local station.

Says Mr. Hudgins: "While 251 stations televising Faith for Today represent a milestone in the program's history, they also serve as a challenge to reach the 275 mark in the next few months. With God's blessing and the continued support of the field, this can surely be done. Added station coverage is more than a statistic—it means more viewers, more Bible School enrollees, and, best of all, more souls won."

Register Now to Vote

The opportunity to point out the principles of separation of church and state and individual freedom continues to be ours as we press for these principles in the proposed repeal of the "Sunday Blue Laws" in the state of Washington.

It is wonderful that our people have responded so well and worked hard to put Initiative 229 on the ballot for November 8. However it is necessary now to point out that the true issue in these Sunday laws is the mixture of religion with politics. We must show that no day should be set aside by the state as a Sabbath, which is what the law now does.

In the book Gospel Workers, beginning on page 391, we read: "We cannot labor to please men who will use their influence to repress religious liberty, and to set in operation oppressive measures to lead or compel their fellow-men to keep Sunday as the Sabbath. The first day of the week is not a day to be revered. It is a spurious sabbath, and the members of the Lord's family cannot participate with the men who exalt this day."

"Every voter has some voice in determining what law shall control the nation. Should not that vote be cast?" God's people "fail to do their whole duty unless they exert their influence by precept and example—by voice and pen and vote."—Ibid., p. 387.

To be sure you do not fail to fulfill your responsibility, call your city or county office and make plans to register now when the books are open.

Attention, All Public Health Educators!

If you are interested in preventive medicines and health education you will be glad to know that there is a plan to organize a Seventh-day Adventist Public Health Association. It is planned to do this at a special meeting during the APHA meeting in San Francisco, October 31 to November 4. If you desire more information concerning this organization, please write to P. W. Dysinger, M.D., Loma Linda University, Loma Linda, Calif. 92354.

Last Call to the Seattle ASI Convention

Are you coming? This is the last call for the Western ASI Convention to be held in Seattle, Washington, August 24-27, 1966. The opening meeting is Wednesday, August 24, 7:30 p.m. Come to the Carribean Room of the Tropics Motor Hotel. Join your West Coast ASI friends for this great meeting. You can not afford to miss it!

The meeting will open with a keynote address to be delivered by Elder R. R. Bietz, president of the Pacific Union Conference. You will want to hear about the thrilling and challenging possibilities in ASI institutions for fulfilling their God-given role in the future. This will be a message every ASI institution owner and manager will want to hear.

The convention theme will be, "The ASI Spiritual Outreach." A symposium of experienced self-supporting institution leaders and workers will present valuable information and material regarding the ASI spiritual outreach to employees, clients, business contacts and friends. Stimulating ideas regarding methods and ways will be featured.

A special training feature in techniques of ASI spiritual ministries will be given daily. We believe this training in "know how" will be worth your trip to Seattle.

Are you coming? It is still not too late to decide. Just decide, "I am going!" If you do not have a room reservation, try the Tropics Motor Hotel. Should the Tropics be full, surely you will be able to get a room somewhere in Seattle.

Remember, ASI members and all others interested are invited. This is the last call. See you in Seattle!

Teen-agers Wanted

Question: Why do so many young people quit attending church in their teens? I understand that J. Edgar Hoover makes the startling announcement that seven out of eight quit attending church and Sunday school before they reach their fifteenth birthday. I know that in our own church several of our young people are growing more and more indifferent. They prefer to stand outside on the sidewalk, and if they do come inside, they seem to be more interested in one another than they are in the sermon.

At the present time my thirteen-year-old son and my eleven-year-old daughter still are very much interested in church. How can I keep them this way? Should they continue sitting with their father and me or should they sit somewhere else? The majority of the young people their age are sitting where they please. Their parents claim that they are too old to be treated as children. Are my children likely to lose interest in church if they continue sitting with the family?

Answer: The teen-ager is old enough to know when he is not receiving all the benefits he has a right to expect. When this occurs he loses interest. If every time he attended a picnic he got nothing but leftovers or a few crumbs, he would decide that picnics were not for him. So it is with church; when he gets little or nothing out of the service he loses his desire to attend. Although wise enough to know that something is wrong he is seldom experienced enough to be able to analyze the cause of the trouble himself. With the mistaken idea that a teen-ager who sits with his parents may be considered as still a child, he looks for a seat elsewhere. But being very self-conscious, as well as lonely, he hesitates to go in search for a seat by himself. He seeks out one or more teen-agers and they together slide into the nearest empty pew or retreat to a far corner of the room. This situation invites temptations that few have the power to resist. They whisper, laugh, and notice anything and everything of a trivial nature, but receive nothing from the sermon. They are intelligent enough to know that they have been cheated out of something and naturally they resent the fact. All they got out of the service was the disapproving looks of some of the adults near them. They soon feel that they are not wanted and begin groping for excuses to remain away from church.

But the picture is entirely different when the teen-ager feels that he belongs, is welcomed. The little child sits with his parents to receive help and guidance from them; the teen-ager sits with his parents to give honor and dignity to the family. The teen-ager adds to the family standing as no other person can; his parents need him. Let him know they want him. In this unique situation he is in a position to receive the full benefit of the service. With his alert mind he can worship on an adult level and follow the high points of the sermon step by step. This enables him to discuss the thoughts presented with matured people Sabbath afternoon, or to incorporate his notes into a talk of his own that he will give himself someday. The teen-ager who sits with his parents and receives the same blessings as other adults will enjoy the church service. He needs the church and the church needs him. Teen-agers are wanted.

Teach a Baby?

WHAT can you teach a baby when he sleeps all the time? Yes, I have read, "Education begins with the infant in its mother's arms," but pray tell me WHEN are you to schedule the classes? HOW can you teach him anything when he is too little to sit up, too small to walk, and too young to read? I would like to know.

Would you really? You can. If you will order from your Book and Bible House (a) Manual for Parents and Teachers of the Weekday Kindergarten ($1.75) and (b) Christian Home, series C ($1.80) you will discover WHAT to teach and HOW to teach your little infant and your young pre-schooler.

Tiny Thinkers

"Little-pitchers-with-big-ears" had heard the conversation between her mother and an old school friend of former days. She learned that mother's old boy friend had married and had a little girl by the name of Ellen, and that her daddy's old girl friend had married and had a little girl by the name of Joyce. Not being able to think the problem through she asked, "Mother, if you had not married daddy, would I have been Ellen or Joyce?"

RESEARCHER REPORTS

the comparative merits of meat and vegetarian diets.

"If the population explosion continues at its present rate," Dr. Register notes, "by the year 2050 the majority of the 16 billion people on the earth will have to agree to eat a diet coming mainly from vegetable sources."

Nutritionists at Loma Linda University and elsewhere are aware of this problem and have been looking forward to the future food needs of the world for some years. For the past 15 years researchers at Loma Linda have been conducting experiments in animal and human nutrition to determine whether such a vegetable diet will maintain adequate health in man.

Realizing that man is not a rat, these investigators organized several Loma Linda University students into a human guinea pig club. Students were fed, respectively, pure vegetarian, lactovegetarian (including milk and eggs), and nonvegetarian (meat) diets. Vegetable entrees prepared by the Loma Linda Food Company of Riverside, Calif., (not connected with the university) were used in the place of meat in the vegetarian diets. These studies represent the first controlled experiments in which the protein of meat substitutes have been compared with meat in the diet of human subjects.

Using nitrogen balance studies (measuring nitrogen intake and nitrogen excretion) to determine the quality of protein in the diet, these investigators found that the students on each diet maintained nitrogen balance, indicating that the quality of nitrogen was adequate. Also, there was no practical difference in the digestibility of the three diets. Studies are now being planned for this fall, according to Dr. Register, in which the protein in the diets will be decreased 50 per cent.

In a separate study, the students were given liberal quantities of food that was high in animal or saturated fats, such as meat, butter, milk, and ice cream. After their blood cholesterol levels were determined, they were put on a completely vegetarian diet for 17 days. Another test showed that their blood cholesterol levels decreased about 25 per cent during this period.

These and other nutritional studies are jointly supported by the Lassen Foundation, the Pacific Union Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, and the Loma Linda Food Company. The comprehensive research program cost over $60,000 during the past year, according to Dr. Register.

New Opportunities In Food Service

Since the days of the garden of Eden man has been interested in food, diet, and nutrition. It has been his joy, his satisfaction and sometimes his downfall. In fact, eating is one of the principal concerns of humanity. Feeding the stomachs of mankind has been through the ages the principal industry of the world. The first instinct of a newborn baby is to put everything within reach into his mouth and it appears we never outgrow the urge. Mankind toils and sweats to earn money primarily with which to feed himself. It is only occasionally we get sick and go to hospitals, but three times a day we sit down to some table, reverently bow our heads in gratitude to God, and then promptly fill our stomachs. What we put in our stomachs to a sizable extent determines our health, sometimes our disposition, our outlook on life, the efficiency of our work, the clarity of our thinking, and to some degree our success in life. What we eat or do not eat, must not become our creed, nor our religion, but it does play a significant part in giving us strong bodies with which to serve God and clear minds to comprehend His will.

This church is particularly fortunate in that God has given special instruction to aid in accomplishing these ends. The science of food and cookery is therefore of great importance both in the lives of all of us and in the ministry of the church in its medical and educational instructions. Our hospitals need well-qualified personnel in this field. Our academies and colleges utilize the talents of many in this area, for theirs is the task not only of feeding starving adolescents and young people, but of teaching them proper food selection habits. These good and desirable ends are not achieved by resolutions voted by boards, but rather by the daily ministry of well-prepared, well-qualified, skilled and dedicated people.

To help fill this need a new two-year course is being offered in Food Service Supervision, at La Sierra College, starting in September of 1966. It is hoped in this way to help meet this gigantic need. A well-qualified faculty has been brought together, ably competent to impart instruction and supervise this experience. A high school diploma and a C average or better is an entrance requirement. The course is open to both young men and young women and leads not only to an Associate Arts degree but, more important, to the possibility of a career in this interesting and important field in our hospitals, colleges, boarding academies, nursing homes, et cetera. Fire Training Available For Institutions

The General Conference Insurance Service is constantly endeavoring to reduce the insurance losses occurring each year in denominational properties. The analysis, measurement, and improvement of the many loss possibilities which exist in the denomination today have brought forth the demand for professionally and technically competent personnel in the Insurance Service.

As one of the means for meeting this demand, Melvin Harris, a Technical Representative of the Insurance Service, attended an intensive fire school conducted at the test facilities of the Anslu Company in Marinette, Wisconsin. For three fast moving days the 28-member class fought fires with the various types of fire extinguishers in use today. Emphasis was placed on correct and safe procedures so that the class members would be able to return to their companies and train other employees. The class was made up of personnel from throughout the United States and Canada and included one person from Saudi Arabia.

Although all types of fire extinguishers were used, emphasis was given to fires requiring special techniques and those best controlled by the use of dry chemical extinguishing agents. These consisted of gasoline fires of various sizes and situations, and other fires of industrial chemicals, flammable metals, wood, automobile tires, and propane.

Mr. Harris comes to the General Conference Insurance Service with previous fire service experience and will be available upon request to assist denominational institutions with fire training for their employees.

rewarding experience for me and everybody else in the workshop.

"This workshop, organized by Dr. R. E. Stahlnecker, associate professor of education, was the best organized one I have attended. I would particularly like to praise the friendliness that I met all over the campus from the young to the elderly. Everybody treated me like visiting royalty."

"I was privileged to attend a church service in the very beautiful College church and had the feeling of being in church there. What I am trying to say is, I like the feeling when I go to a house of worship, that it is a church; and though this was one of the most modern churches I have seen, nevertheless, I still had the feeling that I was in God's house.

"Forty persons were enrolled for the two weeks and all of them completed the assignment of preparing teaching resource units for use in their classrooms. A large number of the workshop participants are clamoring for an advanced workshop in Aerospace Education for next summer."

Following are a few of the comments taken from the evaluation sheets which workshop participants were asked to turn in anonymously:

"I now realize the necessity of teaching aerospace in the classroom because of the age and times in which these students are growing up."

"We felt fortunate indeed to attend sessions conducted by such highly qualified personnel. All the speakers were authoritative and well-prepared. Their use of audio-visual aids greatly enhanced their effectiveness."

Chemistry Department

The Walla Walla College Chemistry Department, headed by Dr. C. T. Jones, is able to offer a program of high quality in analytical chemistry, organic chemistry, biochemistry, or physical chemistry.

Dr. Jones is a specialist in analytical chemistry; Dr. J. R. Chambers, professor of chemistry, is a specialist in organic and biochemistry; and Dr. Wayne Zaugg, assistant professor of chemistry, specializes in physical chemistry.

C. T. Jones

Departmental majors who graduated in 1966 were accepted for medical or dental study or for graduate work in chemistry at schools of their choice.

Engineering, pre-nursing, industrial education, physical education, and home economics students, as well as pre-medical and pre-dental and chemistry majors, take classes in the expanding field at WWC.

On order is an electronic laboratory, says Dr. Jones. The $1,000 piece of equipment will be put into use at the beginning of the fall quarter. "We are planning to introduce work in the field of infrared spectrophotometry," says Dr. Jones. A major piece of equipment to add will be the infrared spectrophotometer.

The department head returned July 30 from Washington, D.C., where he had attended a six-week NSF institute on History and Philosophy of Science and Mathematics.

LLU Acceptances

Robert Brath, Portland, 1966 graduate with a major in chemistry, has been accepted for dental study in the LLU School of Dentistry.

Dale Piper will begin the study of Occupational Therapy with this fall's class at LLU. He completed requirements for the course at WWC in 1965-66.

Camp Meeting Follow-up

Judging from the size of the crowd at the Oregon camp meeting, I feel that most of our members were there. If you were not able to attend or did not get all the items you wanted during the camp, here is another opportunity.

First, we have extended the camp meeting prices until August 17, and soon in the mail you will receive a circular on the items that are still available.

If you did not receive a copy of the camp meeting circular, feel free to write in for one and we will send it to you by return mail. These were just available at the campground as they came too late to send out as we had planned.

Just one reminder: The Destiny Series which have been so well received, may be purchased at the special prices until the 31st of August.

This is an outstanding buy for such an excellent series of books. Those available—

Voyage of the Arctic Arrow
By Faith Alone
Once a Smuggler
These Fords Still Run
That Book in the Attic
Brand From the Burning
Some Rain Must Fall
Heart Cry
Wrath of the King
As the Stars Forever

Watch for the NEW titles that will be added regularly. Also, do not overlook the Panda Series for the Juniors. Two titles are now available—Little Tyke and Secret of the Cave.

Until the close of August you may select any three of the above Destiny or Panda series for just $1.15 each. Regular price is $1.50. Postage 15 cents per book and 5 cents for each additional to the same address.

Answered Prayer

Jean Tucker was reading a Seventh-day Adventist book one Friday afternoon. As she read she prayed that someone would come who would talk to her about things she was reading in the book.

Jean Tucker

That same afternoon Bible Instructor Lorena Lampson made a call to a neighboring district in Portland and found no one home. As she pondered a possible purpose in her being in that area, she thought of Mrs. Tucker whose name she had on her list to be visited. A voice seemed to say, "Go to Jean Tucker's." Her visit was an answer to Mrs. Tucker's prayer. So impressed was Mrs. Tucker with this immediate answer to her prayer that she accepted Mrs. Lampson's invitation to attend church the next day.

Bible studies were arranged. A white Bible and "The Bible Speaks" lessons were introduced into the home. An invitation was given to view the TV Bible Class.

Mrs. Tucker's first contact with the Adventist message came through her husband's parents. They sent literature including the two books, The Desire of Ages and The Great Controversy, which became Jean's favorites. She read them both through twice.

Just before her baptism, Jean Tucker penned this testimony: "I feel that I have found a place in the true church. I want to thank all the people who helped me to find my way to Jesus." She was baptized in the Lents church by Elder G. Edward Bryan on Sabbath, April 23.

Even though you may not be a professional Bible instructor or a minister, God can still speak to you and lead you to someone who will be blessed by your visit. Have you ever prayed, "Lord, please bring me in contact today with someone with whom I may share my faith?"

When you feel impressed to make a missionary visit, do not neglect the impression. There may be someone who is waiting and praying for you to come to him with God's message.

Washington Camp Meeting

The annual Washington Conference camp meeting for 1966 was held as usual on the beautiful Auburn Academy campus from July 14 to 23. Almost perfect weather, an outstanding program, and a dedicated constituency who came to seek in earnest for a blessing, combined to make it what many called "The best ever."

Space will not permit mentioning all the features which brought such rich blessings to those in attendance; but these come to mind: the daily messages of Elder G. A. Coon concerning soul-winning methods and happy homes; Elder H. G. Stoehr with his series on "The Impending Conflict"; and the group of health talks by Dr. G. W. Thompson from Loma Linda University entitled, "God's Blueprint for Good Health."

One very noticeable feature of this year's meeting which demonstrated very clearly the interest of the members, was the way in which they stayed by for all the Sabbath meetings. The Sabbath afternoon and evening services were nearly as well attended as was the worship hour; and this meant an almost capacity crowd.

A note of sadness was introduced by the necessity for saying "Goodbye" to our beloved conference president, Elder N. R. Dower, as he leaves us for Washington, D. C.; but at the same time we were glad to welcome our new leader, Elder W. J. Blacker, who spoke at the Sabbath morning service on the last day. Elder W. A. Fagal of Faith for Today delivered the closing message, and "He sent the people away; and they blessed the king, and went unto their tents joyful and glad of heart for all the goodness that the Lord had done for . . . Israel his people."—1 Kings 8:66.

Ordination at Camp Meeting

Three licensed ministers of the Washington Conference were ordained in a Sabbath afternoon service on July 16 at the Washington Conference camp meeting. Ted Parks of Federal Way, Clyde Praye of Snoqualmie, and H. H. Hill of Seattle were consecrated to the ministry by the laying on of hands.

Elder Parks began his ministerial career in 1962 as assistant pastor of the Everett district. He was transferred to Ferndale in 1964, and has been at Federal Way since 1965. He and his wife are under appointment to a mission station in Zambia, Africa.

Elder Praye also began his work in the Washington Conference in 1962. He has served at Bremerton, Ferndale, Federal Way, and is now in charge of the Snoqualmie, Issaquah and Carnation churches.

Elder Hill is the former director of the Alcohol Problems Association. He resigned that position in 1965 to become pastor of the Seattle Green Lake church where he now serves.

"You People Are Like Magic"

A few months ago Elder D. G. Matthews and Doctor Dale Minner conducted a 5-Day Stop Smoking program in Kent, Washington, sponsored by the Kent Lions Club. The attendance was a bit unusual since all who took the course were women. This is the first time in this area that such has been the case. However, this indicates that women smokers are beginning to realize more than ever that if they start smoking they are soon caught in a vicious trap.

One of the ladies attending the program had earned her nursing degree at the local university after having spent her youth in the rugged area of northern Alaska. She was born in Lapland and came to the University of Washington for her degree. After obtaining her education she married and two lovely daughters came to bless their home. She felt constantly guilty for the example she was setting before her daughters by smoking. She had become addicted to tobacco while attending high school in Alaska and had never been able to break from the habit even though she had tried many times. In telling the writer of her experience she said, "I don't quite understand—I had prayed often for God to take away this vicious habit, and He never did it. But you folks come here and put on your program, and the first night I stopped smoking, and here it is three months later and I have never touched another one. It seems like you people are magic!"

I told her that we too had asked the great God of Heaven to give her victory, and He heard both her prayers and ours and had rewarded both of us.

Pastor and Mrs. Robert Skinner of the Kent district have met this lady and will help her to continue her journey toward a better life.

Train Up a Child

"Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it." Prov. 22:6. What better way to help do this than through the Vacation Bible School!

Vacation Bible School has been an annual program for the Eagle church for the past several years, with continuous growth. Good results have been seen with 10 attending Sabbath school regularly and three enrolled in Pathfinders.

This year we had an enrollment of 96 including 73 non-Seventh-day Adventists, and we will sponsor three non-Adventists to Junior Camp. This has come about by much prayer and planning by the church members, particularly by our director, Mrs. Charles Ferguson. The success of the VBS program can be attributed to the cooperation of the members in the visitation program, literature distribution, personal invitations and prayer. Good use was made of the posters and banners made available through the conference, and also the press.

Our program outline the past two years has been one solid week of 2½ hour sessions (9:00 - 11:30 a.m.) and then five successive Mondays following to complete the lessons. In this way we have contact with the children throughout the summer months. Neighborhood story hours are planned once every two months for the fall and winter which is a good contact throughout the winter months. A very interesting and successful program was given for the parents, relatives and friends on the first Monday evening following the week's session. Refreshments consisting of punch and cookies were served in the schoolroom, where also the crafts and other materials were displayed. A picnic has been planned the last day of our VBS which will be August 1. The parents are invited.

We found through experience that it is best to make an advanced printed schedule which was included on the special invitations given out two weeks before VBS began.

The staff included as follows: director, Mrs. Charles Ferguson; assistant director and song leader, Mrs. Howard Venable; pianist, Mrs. Melvin Lindsey; craft leader, Mrs. Kenneth Moore; Junior leader, Pastor Wilbur Ingram assisted by Mrs. Virgil Grove; Primary leaders, Mrs. Glen Strong and Mrs. Leroy Guill; Kindergarten leader, Mrs. Wilbur Ingram. Others helping were Mmes. Larry Sparks, Ron Mace, L. C. Mace, Clinton Johnson, Chester Kinsey and Maurice Foland.

We are thrilled with our VBS. I am sure the entire staff would be willing to spend their time and efforts even though there were only SDA children because we feel it is important for our own children as well and helps in their Christian training. Especially do we feel it is necessary for the ones who do not attend church school and those with little Christian training in the home.

We would encourage other churches to build up a Vacation Bible School program. It will help you individually as well as helping your church and community.

Many parents have expressed a real interest in the over-all Vacation Bible School program. Who knows, perhaps "a little child shall lead them." Let us help these parents train up their children in the way they should go. The early years are the responsive years. We are praying for baptisms in the future.

You Say, "Just a Student Literature Evangelist"

Recently it was my privilege with another literature evangelist to contact an exceptional Christian family. They purchased several of our books. While visiting with them we learned they had nearly a mile frontage on beautiful Lake Chelan, so I asked them as to the possibility of some of our student literature evangelists coming in and camping there the 4th of July weekend. They were thrilled with this idea as they were longing for Christian fellowship because they had become dissatisfied with their own church and felt a longing for more truth.

After deciding and making definite plans, this family were so enthusiastic they began improving a spot for our camp, an outdoor fireplace, rest rooms, et cetera, and the use of their boat—all at no charge. They want to dedicate this spot for Christian workers.

After I arrived there on Friday, July 1, it began pouring down rain and continued all day, so I told the family we would call it off but that I would call later Friday night and let them know for sure. All of the students were supposed to have been cared for by staying at other places but when I called late that night and told them it was definitely called off, the mother informed me two of my girl students were there. I told her I was embarrassed and would come and get them. She said, "No, they are just lovely Christian girls and we would like to keep them." After persuading me, I told her I would pick them up at 8 o'clock in the morning and take them to church. When I arrived, Vicki Osborne and Sharon Champaign, with all their luggage, were ready to leave but the mother with tears in her eyes begged us to come back and said, "It will stop raining." Nearly all day Sabbath it rained. Later the girls' parents came after them but Vicki had forgotten a couple of things at this home. (God truly works in mysterious ways.) So her parents took them back again and this family were so excited that they talked the parents into the idea of leaving Vicki and Sharon there for a couple of days.

During those few days God helped

Vicki and Sharon to share their faith and they studied together. The family revealed that they had been studying our faith for nearly five years on their own. Vicki invited them to church and they went. They have six lovely children. All of them play musical instruments and sing. A nephew living with them is going to a Christian college studying for the ministry but has not decided what denomination. Now he is interested in studying ours.

"Just a student," you say, but oh, how God is leading them in these last days! This past week we had nine student girls on a group canvass in Oroville. While working with Cindy Zundel we met a wonderful lady. She did not know we were SDA's and was talking about Armstrong's Program on the radio and said she had sent him $20 tithe, and asked him where he got his information on Ellen White's being a medium. (An article she had read in one of his papers.) She then proceeded to tell us she really enjoyed reading anything Ellen G. White wrote and asked us if we knew anything about her or her writings, or of her being a medium. We assured her Mrs. White was no medium and referred to statements in her writings concerning this and then told her we were Seventh-day Adventists. She was immensely happy to learn of this. This lady fell in love with the Christian countenance of this young student and hugged her. She finally revealed that her husband (72 years old) had an SDA background as a boy. It was not difficult to leave many more of Mrs. White's writings in this home and some of the other books, too. I truly believe this lady would not have responded as she did had it not been for this student's countenance. Yes, another home open for studies because of a student.

"Only a student," you say, but God sent that student, and what a harvest it will be in the earth made new. How about you? Are you seeking the lost? Are you doing your best? If you desire thrills such as these, contact your local publishing secretary.

New Construction at Tri-City School

On a sunny July 10, with hearts full of joyful anticipation, church and school leaders from the River-view Seventh-day Adventist church, gathered for the ground-breaking ceremonies that marked the beginning of the second phase of construction at Tri-City Junior Academy, Pasco, Washington. This phase will add to the present six-room school plant a new 60' x 120' auditorium-gymnasium with stage, showers and dressing rooms, home economics room and kitchen, and library.

Construction has already begun under the direction of Alden Vixie, the building contractor. According to Walt Hampson, building committee chairman, the auditorium-gymnasium will be ready for use before winter weather arrives. It is hoped that the entire plant will be completed within a year.

City area are forging ahead in a plan to meet the needs of their youth. Tri-City Junior Academy has seen phenomenal growth in the past few years. Just six years ago approximately 35 children were attending a two-teacher school. Last year 132 students were enrolled in grades 1-10. Ten full- or part-time staff members were employed.

A strong program of education is planned for the coming school term. Extracurricular activities will include band, choir and tumbling. An active Associated Student Body and a six-member annual staff promise another interesting school year. The added facilities under construction will greatly aid the over-all school program.

Vacation Bible School Evangelism in the Spokane Area

It was an enthusiastic group of children which took part in the Vacation Bible School program Thursday evening, June 30, at the Linwood church. After the well-planned program was presented, the parents went to the various divisions to view the children's crafts and completed Bible workbooks. Refreshments were served under the supervision of Mrs. Merlin White. This social hour gave the teachers a chance to visit with the many non-Adventist parents present.

Eighty-six children were enrolled in the program and thirty-three of these were non-Adventist. Nine of the thirty-three came from Catholic background. The VBS was under the direction of Mrs. Ronald West and Mrs. Fred Langbehn. Elder Edwards kept things lively with a dramatic continued story. Mrs. Daryl Bartholomew drove into town each day to be the pianist. Mrs. Merlin White served cookies and punch furnished by the ladies of the church each day.

Mrs. John Twing led out in the Junior room assisted by Elder and Mrs. Saxton, Mrs. Janot, Mrs. West and Elder Meidinger.

The Cradle Roll which freed other mothers to work in other divisions was led by Mrs. Ronk with Linda Myers assisting. The leader for the Primary Division was Mrs. Delbert Koberstein with Mrs. Homberg, Mrs. Scheresky, Norman Taylor, Mrs. Crumley and Mrs. Birchell teaching. In the Kindergarten, Mrs. Les Stentzel led with Mrs. Barbara Moran, Mrs. Jim Rogglun, Patti Oss and Marilyn Lohne teaching. Special feature in the Kindergarten and Primary room was a series of nature stories by Mrs. Ted Stentzel. Crafts were under the direction of Mrs.

Walter Fairow and Mrs. Wayne Platner.

For the followup it was decided to have a craft hour each Wednesday at the church for several weeks and encourage the non-Adventists to start attending Sabbath school. The craft hour will be conducted by Mrs. Platner and Mrs. Fairow.

The Primary Treasure or the Junior Guide will be sent to each interested child of non-Adventist families for the coming year.

Alaska Mission Spot News

A retreat for all Seventh-day Adventist servicemen in the Anchorage and Fairbanks areas is to be held at Camp Tuskoye the weekend of September 2-4.

The first junior camp ever to be held north of the Arctic Circle was conducted in the Fish River area of Alaska in July by Pastor Dewey Payne.

Elder Frank Owens, formerly pastor at Sitka, has accepted a call to Redding, California, where he will teach Bible at the Redding SDA school.

The new pastor at Fairbanks is Ronald Breingan who recently taught school in the Southeastern California Conference.

The summer meetings for the camps were held at Wrangell and Gildersleeves' the weekend of July 31. Guest speakers included Elder J. C. Hansen, mission president, and Elder W. J. Hackett, president of the North Pacific Union Conference.

Kalispell Vacation Bible School

This is a copy of the letter received from Sister Bonnie Craft who led out in the Vacation Bible School in Kalispell, Montana:

"I want to tell you that we just finished a most successful Vacation Bible School!

"We had 84 little children some days at school—with an average of 72 for the two weeks.

"Enclosed is a snap of our closing evening program, which was well attended.

"We started June 6 and had our closing program June 19. Most of the children were not Adventists and enjoyed the stories of our Bible Heroes—I wish you could have heard our wonderful stories each day, and heard the children sing. They wore these little choir robes the closing night.

"We served them milk, cookies, and juice every morning. They made some nice crafts daily too.

"We are already making plans for 1967 and a good Vacation Bible School. Elder Allaway (the local pastor) said that he was well pleased with it this year. We hope that many little souls will be saved from our Kalispell efforts.

"God bless all our schools all over the world."

Weddings

In the Campus Chapel at Walla Walla College on July 10, LaVanna Jean Chickering, daughter of Mrs. Cleatic Chickering of College Place, Washington, became the bride of Edward Warren Lambert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Forest Lambert of Surge Narrows, British Columbia, Canada. LaVanna graduated from Walla Walla College in June with a major in Home Economics. Edward is planning to become a physician and following a few weeks' residence in Canada the young couple will go to Guadalajara, Mexico, where he will begin his second year of study at the University of Guadalajara, School of Medicine. Elder G. S. Balharrie performed the ceremony.

The Parma Seventh-day Adventist church was the setting for the wedding of Carol Murray and Jackson Huett on Sunday afternoon, June 26. Carol and Jack have established their home in Pendleton, Oregon. Elder D. L. Ringering performed the ceremony.

Laurice Porter, instructor of English at Gem State Academy, became the bride of Sgt. Larry Armstrong, U.S. Marine Corps, on Sunday, June 12, in the First Christian Church in Hermiston, Oregon. Larry and Laurice are now making their home in the Carolinas at his base. May God's blessings be upon this fine Adventist home. Elder D. L. Ringering was the officiating minister.

Marjorie Jones and Charles Brown were united in marriage in the Caldwell, Idaho, church June 9. Elder Leon Cornforth of the Upper Columbia Conference was the officiating minister. The couple plan to continue their education this fall at Walla Walla College where the groom is a theology major. May God richly bless this new home.

On Sunday afternoon, July 17, in the Seventh-day Adventist church in Colville, Washington, Bonnie Boicourt and Kevin Knapp pledged to each other their vows of fidelity and love. They were united in the sacred bonds of marriage by Elder A. H. Warner. The newly wedded couple will make their home in College Place, Washington. May God's richest blessings be theirs.

Lin Boicourt of Marcus, Washington, and Philip Venden of Omak, Washington, were united in marriage June 12 at Colville, Washington. They are making their home at Omak. We pray God's continual blessing upon this fine young couple, that they may be a light in their community. The officiating minister was Elder A. H. Warner.

Linda Louise Hamilton of Boise, Idaho, and C. Barton Moore of College Place, Washington, exchanged vows in a lovely afternoon ceremony on June 12. The marriage was solemnized by the groom's uncle, Elder A. L. Moore. The new home is being established in College Place where the groom will continue his ministerial training and the bride will be employed as office secretary in the Department of Education.

Friends and relatives gathered in the Laramie, Wyoming, church on June 5 to witness the marriage of Suzanne Carol Craik of Centennial, Wyoming, to Donavon Charles Kack of Conrad, Montana. Elder Robert Correia officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Kack will be leaving Wyoming shortly to take up residence in Lincoln, Nebraska, where they plan to further their education at Union College.

Wedding vows taken June 19 in the Grants Pass Seventh-day Adventist church united in marriage Sharon L. Smith and James W. Hardin. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Lloyd Smith, Grants Pass. Parents of the bridegroom are Elder and Mrs. L. F. Hardin, Portland. The couple is at home in College Place where the bridegroom is a junior music education major at Walla Walla College, and the bride is secretary in the public relations department. Elder Arnold C. Lien officiated at the candlelight ceremony.

Allen Arthur Brooks and Shelley Marie Rylands were united in marriage Sunday, July 10, in the SDA church in Gold Beach, Oregon. The couple will make their home in Gold Beach. G. M. Krick officiated at the ceremony.

On June 26 the Cedarhome church at Stanwood, Washington, was the scene of a beautiful candlelight ceremony when marriage vows were exchanged by Emily Braun of Everett, Washington, and Keith Yarwood of Milton-Freewater, Oregon. May God's blessing rest upon this couple as they establish a Christian home at College Place where the groom will continue his education. Elder Eddie Norton performed the ceremony.

Janice Konzack of College Place, Washington, and Robert Foster, Jr., of The Dalles, Oregon, were united in marriage Sunday, June 12, in a beautiful candlelight ceremony held in The Dalles Zion Lutheran Church. Elder Letcher Huntington officiated. The couple will make their home in College Place where they will continue their studies at Walla Walla College. May the Lord's blessing rest upon these young people.

Candles and daisies highlighted the ceremony of Beverly Lynn Maier and Arthur Eugene Hudson on Sunday, June 26. They were married in the Springfield church by Elder W. W. Ring and plan to continue living in Portland, Oregon. May God's blessing rest on this new home.

Painter—Bryan Dee Painter was born May 4, and fell asleep in Jesus June 13, 1966. His brief stay in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Painter of Springfield, Ore., was precious to them. They look forward with hope to the resurrection.

Mills—Audra Nora Mills was born July 1, 1888, in Michigan and passed away June 22, 1966, in Olympia. During the last few years of her life she rejoiced in the truths of the third angel's message, becoming a member of the Olympia SDA church during the Stanley Harris evangelistic campaign in 1962. She leaves to mourn no living relatives.

Colvin—Charles Colvin was the son of Norman and Agnes Lindsay Colvin. He was born Sept. 17, 1948, at McMinnville, Ore. He is survived by his parents; one brother, Clifford, now in the United States Army; one sister, Mrs. Beverly Neil of Terribone, Ore.; and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Colvin.

Wingo—Mrs. Vastie Wingo was born Feb. 20, 1902, at Buena Vista, Ga., and passed to her rest in Spokane, Wash., on July 4, 1966. For 12 years she had been a member of the Spokane Central Seventh-day Adventist church. She is survived by her husband, Mannie Wingo. Interment was at Fairmont Cemetery in Spokane.

Lewis—Della Grace Lewis was born in Marble Falls, Texas, April 14, 1887, and passed away in Portland, Ore., May 23, 1966. Sister Lewis was a faithful member of the Montavilla church in Portland. She was a lover of nature and the Creator of all nature. She was laid to rest in the glorious hope of meeting her beloved Redeemer at the great resurrection day.

Hanniwell—Ross Hanniwell, 41, of Rose Lodge, Ore. passed away Sabbath, April 9, 1966, as the result of a head-on collision in his automobile near Rose Lodge. Ross was a member of the Oceanlake church and a faithful Christian. He is survived by two brothers: Everett and William of Chicago. Brother Hanniwell rests in the Taft, Ore., cemetery.

Green—Mrs. Cora Green was born Feb. 24, 1875, in Exira, Iowa, and passed away June 12, 1966, at Portland, Ore. At an early age she accepted Christ as her Saviour, and became a believer in the third angel's message in her early teens. She was a member of the Mt. Tabor church of Seventh-day Adventists in Portland, Ore., at the time of her death. She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Viggo Hansen of Portland, Ore., and a brother, John Huntley of California.

Blanes—Emma G. Blanes was born Dec. 15, 1896, at Olegua, Wash., and passed away in Longview, Wash., July 1, 1966, five years to the day after the passing of her husband Carl. She was laid to rest in the Little Falls Cemetery, Vader, Wash. Important advice to two groups of students comes from Dr. H. L. Rasmussen, academic dean.

"Acceptances thus far indicate as large a student body as last year for the coming year," says the Dean. "But there are still many who should apply at once." The Dean stresses that it is especially important to young men of draft age who desire to be in college that they be accepted by the college of their choice. "We will do all in our power to inform your selective Service Board that you plan to attend college," says Dean Rasmussen.

A second group, students who have sent in applications but have not received acceptance, should be certain that their transcripts and letters of recommendation reach WWC at once.

On September 18, all students should arrive on the campus. Registration, tests, and orientation will occupy the first three days. Instruction begins for the fall quarter September 21.

Sports Fitness Camp

The second term of a two-session, highly successful Sports Fitness Camp, under the direction of John Waterbrook, ended July 22 with marked improvement shown on physical fitness tests.

Of the 80 children, divided equally between boys and girls during the second term, an average increase in physical fitness of ten percent was made in a twelve-day period, says Mr. Waterbrook. Some children increased as much as 20 percent.

The camp director stressed the fact that sports alone do not keep children physically fit. The camp program was a varied one with calisthenics, body-building exercises, trampoline, games, and swimming.

Assisting Mr. Waterbrook were students studying methods of teaching physical education: Elmer Weller, Dave Thornsby, Wilda Zumwalt, Ruth Krivoshein, John Hunter, Donna Hoover, Joe Fisher, and Albert Wiggins.

Aerospace Education Workshop

Major Hugh Simpson, representing the U. S. Air Force, made significant statements in an interview at the close of the two-week Aerospace Education Workshop at WWC. A few of them follow.

"This has been a unique workshop. With my background in education and in the Air Force, I have been greatly impressed for, of all the workshops I have attended, this has been the most inspirational. It has been a challenge, and it has been a very
