COMING SOON—THE BIENNIAL CONVENTION OF THE ASSOCIATION OF SDA SELF-SUPPORTING INSTITUTIONS

September 20-23, 1967—Minneapolis, Minnesota

No other convention compares with the gathering of Seventh-day Adventist men and women engaged in private Seventh-day Adventist enterprises. Eight different categories will be represented, such as nursing homes, retirement homes, medical groups, schools, industries, and hospitals. There will be something for everyone. Topics to be considered include:

Purpose and Value of the ASI
Preparation for Retirement
Pensions and Insurance
Labor Unions; Federal Wage and Hour Laws
Non-Adventist Workers in SDA Institutions
What the New Employee Is Looking For
The Worker and His Job
Training Opportunities
A New Look at Food Service
Relationship of Conference ASI Secretaries to ASI Members
Spiritual Vitality a Necessity

Key speakers will be: Neal C. Wilson, vice-president for the North American Division of the General Conference; W. R. Beach, General Conference secretary; W. M. Adams, associate secretary, Religious Liberty Department; John Weidner, hero of the book Flee the Captor; Congressman Jerry Pettis, Seventh-day Adventist congressman from California; and others.

The vital business sessions, at which delegated laymen conduct the business of the organization, are unique in that there is no other area in the denominational operations that has lay leadership such as does the ASI.

All ASI members are urged to attend, and those interested in joining the ASI. Meetings will be held weekdays at the Pick-Nicolett Hotel, in the Lakewood Room. Sabbath services will be held in the Minneapolis First Church.

If you haven't been to Minnesota, you will enjoy this scenic state filled with home-loving, good-hearted, friendly people. Come to Minnesota and attend the ASI Convention!

dence in the surety of the message they proclaim.

Magne Fuglheim began his ministry in Denmark, the country of his birth. His determination to enter the ministry came early in life, and how fitting that his mother should be present to witness the ordination of a son who was dedicated to a purpose while still a child. Also present was Elder Fuglheim's wife and her grandmother in whose home she was reared. Both of these parents are visiting the Fuglheims from their homes in Denmark.

Robert White was fortunate to have his mother, wife and her parents present. When just a lad, a literature evangelist called at the home of Robert and his mother. About a year later they were baptized and soon it was time for Robert to go away to our academy and then on to college, and then it was marriage to the daughter of the literature evangelist who called at the home.

O. A. Braman, manager of the Washington Book and Bible House, grew up in historic New England. While working in industry, he secured lodging in the home of a Mrs. Clark and two things happened. He was taught and he accepted the teachings of the Seventh-day Adventist church and he married Mrs. Clark's daughter. It was after this that he started denominational work in Southern New England. Mrs. Braman and her mother and their two sons and their wives were present.

We wish for these newly ordained ministers many rich blessings as they give themselves unreservedly to the completion of the work here in the Washington Conference.

Ordinations

On Sabbath, July 15, at 2:30 p.m. three Washington Conference workers were ordained to the gospel ministry. The special service was a very important part of the camp meeting program at Auburn Academy.

The sermon was preached by K. H. Wood, editor of the Review and Herald, following which the ordination candidates were introduced to the large congregation by W. J. Blacker. The three men responded by confirming their commitment to the ministry and testifying to their confisomething very special and it is a little out of the ordinary. These meetings are geared for the youth, particularly upper high school and college. They have spent many hours selecting the men qualified to speak on topics of interest to today's teenagers. The meetings run Sunday, Monday, Wednesday and Friday—August 13, 14, 16, 18, 20, 21, 23, 25, 27, 28.

R. H. Brown, Ph.D., will open August 13 and 14 with "Evolution vs. Creation, Part II." On Wednesday, August 16, the Reverend Torres from Teen Challenge will talk on "Dope and the Teenager." August 18, Elder Crowder will speak on "The Black Rebellion." Doctor Grauman, and Doctor Richard Johnson, a prominent psychiatrist, will start the new week of August 20, with a discussion on today's moral codes. Then on Monday, August 21, Elder Bruce Moyer will show "Christ the Man" as compared to the feminine men of today. A film entitled "Youth in Rebellion" will be featured August 23. Closing the second week, on Friday evening, August 25, Pastor Gary Ellis will expound on "The Quest, Modern Man's Search for Utopia." Elder Hackett will explain "Psychic Phenomenon" on August 27. Elder Bruce Moyer will close on Monday, August 28, speaking of last-day events and comparing the prophecies with our fast-changing times.

They are not ordinary meetings. They are a forum, open to questions and debate. The youth are not trying to convert the "heathen"; they are trying to show how Christianity is a real working thing. They want to show Christ to today's youth.

Total Baptisms for the Union, first and second quarters 1,437

*Evangelistic team results included

The General Conference, at the Union Sessions throughout North America, has set an objective of 100,000 baptisms for the year 1967. To make this a reality and a workable goal for each district, we have broken this down according to the size of each district. In a district where they have 500 or more members their minimum total of baptisms per year should be 30. Where the district has 200, but under 500 membership, their minimum baptisms should be 20. For districts having a combined membership of under 200, minimum baptisms should be 15. We wish to congratulate each member in each district whose name appears above because you have reached or surpassed this objective.

ennial session, we challenged the delegates to help us reach or go over the $30,000 figure. This challenge must have spread to others, because our hopes have been rewarded by total sales of $31,309.40, and the only thing we can say is, "You did it again." Such wonderful people! This is by far the largest amount of literature ever sold on the Washington campground.

If another year of camp meeting is given us by the good Lord, then our next step is, of course, a larger figure. Shall we say $35,000? You will not fail. My only concern now is that you make wise use of the things you purchased. Time is so short, one catastrophe right after another, human life becoming cheaper and cheaper, the desperate need of the world is to know the greatest Man that ever lived, Jesus Christ. What a tool we have with such wonderful literature, and how much our own souls will be watered by extending it to others.

May I personally thank all of you for making my camp meeting such a joy. Even with the long, long hours and the hard work, the joy and satisfaction that comes from service overshadows it all. May God bless you all until Jesus comes.

Josephine Edwards' New Books

Two new books have arrived in the Bible House since camp meeting written by Josephine Cunningham Edwards. The Enchanted Pillowcase and Other Stories is a reprint to fill the many, many requests that have come for this book. The cost is $2.75. Pioneers Together is a biography of the R. F. Cottrells, long-time workers both at home and abroad. Written in Mrs. Edwards' usual interesting manner, you will find this book a must for your library. Cost is $3.95.

Two books that arrived late at camp meeting should also be mentioned. These are paperback story books in the Panda Series. Swift Arrow is the story of a white boy captured by the Indians, and all of his experiences until he flees safely back home. Sibande and Other Stories are mission stories, full of action and interest for old and young alike. These sell for $1.50 each, or any three in this series for $3.59. This special price is good until August 31.

Order from Idaho Book and Bible House, Box 7667, Boise, Idaho 83707. Add 20 cents postage for first book 5 cents for each additional book desired.

New Academic Year Soon to Open

In just three weeks the bells at Gem State Academy will ring in the beginning of its fiftieth year of Christian education. There will be some 250 students very much involved in many types of spiritual learning, working, and social activities. It is the desire of the administration and staff of Gem State Academy that everyone be here and ready for their particular part in the 1967-68 school year.

A few minor changes in the normal first two days of school involve registration, the taking of SCAT and STEP Tests, as well as some Math, English, and Reading Place-

The Advent Movement

In carrying on the work of the Lord, our ministers move from place to place both within the conference and from one conference to another. This summer several adjustments have been made in the working staff.

Elder and Mrs. Harold Gray accepted a call for mission service as president of the Iran section in the Middle East Division. They will be living in Tehran, Iran. Elder C. H. Hamel, who was serving in the Baker-La Grande district, at the constituency meeting was elected to fill the vacancy in the Lay Activities and Sabbath School Departments. Elder Glenn Aufderhar, who has been our conference evangelist, will be the district leader in Baker-La Grande area. Brother Darold Bigger will be assisting in the district. Early in July Brother and Sister Dean McDaniel and the three children left for Cyprus in the Middle East Division where he will serve as pastor-evangelist. Brother R. R. Nickell has already moved to Salmon as district leader.

ment Tests. Unless you have a letter from the academy indicating that you are to come sooner for a work appointment, please go by the accompanying submitted schedule for arrival on campus.

New students who have not already had their transcripts sent to our registrar should do so immediately. Also, a number of medical examination report blanks are still not in. Completion of registration will be held up until all records are in.

Let's Make Music

The music department of Gem State Academy has certainly not been left out of plans for another good school year. New music has been purchased and interesting programs are being planned.

One of the musical organizations we are most proud of is the orchestra. Last school year the orchestra toured to Salt Lake City, Reno, and Twin Falls, in addition to giving programs at the academy and in Caldwell. Other tours are planned for the coming school year, including a trip to Walla Walla, Washington.

We are hoping to have several new students join our orchestra, to help replace those who graduated, and to increase the size of our group. We are especially anxious to gain cello and violin players. Even if you have never played in an orchestra, bring your instrument with you when you come to the academy. Those who do not play stringed instruments should remember that our orchestra needs other instruments, also, and that we hope to have good band and choral groups during the 1967-68 school year.

Don't forget your instrument when you come to Gem State Academy. We are looking forward to making music with you in September!

TRUDY CARPENTER

News in Brief

★ Twenty were baptized following a series of meetings conducted by Pastor F. G. Roper and laymen in the Tabernacle church. Those assisting were Mrs. Leila Davidson, Bible instructor; John Lundquist, chorister; Mrs. Charlene Ross, soloist; and Mrs. Jay Davis, organist.

★ A concerted effort to reach youth was begun this month at Seaside where youth teams contact fellow youth on the beaches in the afternoon, inviting them to evening services conducted by Elder Elmer Koronko and Paul Nystrom. Adding music are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reynolds and Mrs. Nystrom.

★ By actual count, 204 Juniors did not miss a single 7 a.m. devotional during camp meeting last month. This would seem to indicate that our children are interested in religion when the message is presented to them in an attractive way. Decisions for baptism totaled 74.

★ An experienced art teacher is needed for the fall term in a school which for years has had an outstanding department, varying from textiles to ceramics. The prospective part-time teacher, preferably state certified, may call Portland, 628-1123, or write the conference office.

On June 17 the Clackamas River was the quiet setting where seven individuals witnessed their decision by baptism.

After renting the Methodist church for two and one-half years, the Oregon City congregation with these new members moved last month into their new school auditorium which will serve as a temporary church sanctuary.

Elder Q. E. Qualley is seen here with Jay Betneski, Bruce Malvaney, Mrs. R. Sharp, Trude Ringering, Cynthia Graham, Susan Nixon, and Debra Maxwell.

New Staff Member at Laurelwood Academy

Mr. Gary Dickson from Takoma Park, Maryland, joins the staff of Laurelwood Academy this fall as history teacher and assistant dean. Completing his M.A. in education this summer at Walla Walla College, Mr. Dickson has attended Shenandoah Valley Academy and Columbia Union College where he received a B.A. degree in biology and social studies.

Gary Dickson

The Gem State Academy orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Richard McCoy, will again be an active group this fall.

Activities and interests vary for Mr. Dickson and include music, nature study, sports (especially tennis), and young people. During his academy years, Mr. Dickson served as head monitor in the dormitory and senior class president. He continued to gain experience in leadership by becoming president his junior year at CUC.

Mr. Dickson looks forward to a full dormitory and a good year at Laurelwood.

Have you made your reservation to attend a Christian school this fall?

Two Campaigns Equal 138 Baptisms

Surely the blessings and power of God were never witnessed more fully anywhere than they were just recently in Hermiston, Oregon, and the Tri-Cities, Washington. The Upper Columbia Conference Evangelistic Team, made up of Herman Bauman, speaker, Lorie Purdy, soloist, and Paul Cole, campaign manager, began meetings in the lovely new Seventh-day Adventist church in Hermiston last October 8. The evangelistic team, along with Pastor Reo Clyde, worked hard and long and earnestly prayed for the salvation of souls. The church members worked very hard, faithfully supported the meetings, and prayed daily for the success of the campaign. The Spirit of God surely took charge of our efforts and answered our prayers, for when 12 weeks of meetings were finished there were 84 precious new members in the family of God. Many stories of marvelous victories could be told, for every decision was important and thrilling.

To many the message was brand new and wonderful. Leaving their own churches, going against the wishes of relatives and friends, they stepped out courageously to follow the voice of God. To some the message was old. They had resisted, and even fought against it for twenty years or more. But the Spirit of God can soften and subdue hearts, and these people are now valiant soldiers in the army of God. Undoubtedly the most touching and thrilling thing was to see nineteen homes united in the truth as formerly unbelieving companions embraced the message that their partners had loved so long, and lived so faithfully.

On March 19 of this year a Bible Crusade was begun for the Tri-City area in Richland, Washington, in the auditorium of the Jason Lee public school. The devil tried to discourage our efforts at first. Easter programs put on by other churches, spring vacations, and early farm work held our attendance down for awhile. But a praying and working church with an energetic and dedicated pastor, and the Spirit of God, cannot be held down by the devil and all the adverse circumstances in the world. Attendance began to build, souls began to feel conviction, hearts began to respond. The Lord blessed with the baptism of 54 dear souls. We say, "Praise the Lord!"

Now to the Tri-City pastor, Ralph Martin, and the new Hermiston pastor, Roger Heinrich, is given the privilege of shepherding these 138 precious new "sheep" who have become a part of God's flock. Please pray for these pastors as they lead the churches, and these new members, that they may be faithful and have a part at last in God's heavenly fold.

Chemistry, An Exciting Field

If you have interests and aptitudes in the sciences, the Walla Walla College Chemistry Department with its excellent equipment and highly trained and experienced staff can train you for a place in the exciting field of chemistry.

Take a look back over the yesterdays and see the strides being made in your lifetime; then realize the possibilities for the future.

"Two hundred years ago scientists believed in the existence of phlogiston. One hundred years ago they had neither a periodic chart nor the simplest picture of atomic structure. Today they are on the verge of sending an expedition to the moon.

"In fact during the last one hundred years man has achieved greater progress in both theoretical and applied chemistry than he had during all the previous milleniums of his existence. Chemistry and related fields of knowledge have been welded from a formless body of empirical data into a highly coordinated science. In systematic fashion man has wrested secrets from nature and translated his new insight and understanding into tremendous power. He has vastly enlarged his mastery over nature and increased his independence from it. Above all, what has distinguished the last century from all others has been the swift, forward surge in man's knowledge and his command of the physical forces of nature.

"Under the watchful eye of the skilled research chemist, the test tube is constantly providing him with better things for more abundant living and for a longer, healthier life with increased leisure in which to enjoy them. The application of chemistry and the related sciences to the needs of mankind has provided us with today's margin of comfort over deprivation, of luxury over necessity, of knowledge over ignorance, of security over fear, and, perhaps, chemistry has lifted man's crushing burdens, enriched his life, and enabled him to raise his vision to the broad and hopeful horizons of tomorrow.

"But chemistry is still a very young science. Perhaps the most significant feature of present chemical progress lies in the fabulous future it portends. The more we know, the more we are aware of the vast area of the as yet unknown. Most intriguing and promising are the secrets of nature which are now at the frontier of man's knowledge and understanding. How, for example, does the green leaf utilize the sunlight to convert carbon dioxide and water into food and fuel? By what mechanism are minute traces of vitamins and hormones enabled to produce their far-reaching effects on the human body? How can radiant energy of the sun be converted efficiently into some form of useful, storable, transportable energy? The practical consequences that would follow the unlocking of mysteries such as these cannot even be imagined. Much of the fascination of chemistry arises from the fact that it is not a completed and static, but rather a growing and dynamic, science.

"The chemical industry is today the largest industry in the United States, surpassing all others in earnings, rate of growth, and promise for the future. It accounts for more than a quarter of all goods produced in the nation. In our scientific age we often find the rapid advance of chemical technology during the past 150 years less surprising than the slow progress during the preceding history of mankind. More than two-thirds of all the products of our present factories were unknown two centuries ago."

At WWC, Dr. Carl T. Jones, analytical chemist with 30 years' teaching experience, heads the department. Professor C. W. Shankel has had over 40 years of teaching experience; and Dr. J. R. Chambers, organic chemist, has a background in teaching, research, and publications.

A new member joining the faculty in September is Dr. Clarence Chinn. He comes from Southern Missionary College where he has taught for the past 11 years, to teach in his area of specialization, inorganic chemistry.

The department has added new equipment each year making it possible to give training in the three areas of spectrophotometry: ultra violet, visible, and infra red. The equipment also includes three gas chromatographs as well as an electronics laboratory, purchased during the past year.

Summer Commencement

Elder Philip Dunham, pastor of the Stone Tower church, Portland, will give the commencement address for approximately 100 summer session graduates on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, August 20, in the College church.

Philip Dunham

A graduate of La Sierra College with an M.A. degree from the School of Theology, Andrews University, Elder Dunham pastored churches in the Southern California and Northern California conferences before coming to the North Pacific Union.

The largest summer session classes of candidates for both masters' and bachelors' degrees will be graduating this summer. Four will be receiving master of education degrees, 19 master of arts in education and two master of arts in biology.

Those receiving degrees in education, all teachers, will be continuing their professions in schools from the Northwest to the East Coast from primary grades to college.

Two will be teaching in SDA schools overseas. Leroy Kuhn, a missionary to Ethiopia on graduate study leave, will be returning in the summer of 1968. He was both teacher and administrator in Canadian schools before going to Ethiopia. Paul Tooley, with ten years' teaching experience, is under appointment to teach at Ile Ife, Nigeria. Mrs. Tooley, who will also teach at the same school, is receiving the B.S. degree with a major in elementary teaching in the same graduation exercises.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hooper, both experienced teachers, will receive M.A. degrees in education together. Both are on the faculty of Jefferson Academy, Jefferson, Texas.

Donald Rafuse and Robert Wasmer will be going on for graduate study after receiving M.A. degrees in biology, Wasmer at Oregon State University, and Rafuse at Washington State University.
