Council on Alcohol Problems
Elects Secretary

Elder Frank Baker, conference youth and temperance director, was elected secretary of the Board of Directors of Oregon Council on Alcohol Problems at their February meeting.

Long-time supporters of state temperance organizations, Adventist conference temperance men make Listen and other denominational periodicals available for statewide usage in this way. Cooperation is also given in education for healthful living. Many other churches are also a part of the group.

President Andrew Hanners is currently seeking a fund raiser-lecturer for the organization. There will be no Sabbath problems, and the salary is negotiable. Contact Mr. Hanners at 1704 NE 32nd, Portland 97212, if you would like to dedicate your service to this area of health education.

In Conference Schools . . .

◆ Students in Vester Alden's grades 5-8 at Scappoose are active in Pathfinder activities, as well as Gift Bible and TV Bible Class promotion.

Oregon Conference Church
Officers' Meetings Completed

Within the last few weeks six regional church officers' meetings were conducted by Oregon Conference departmental personnel. The officers of the church were invited to attend the banquet and meeting held in the various localities throughout the Conference. Following a devotional and a presentation of progress of the work in the Conference, the officers were challenged to become involved in a discussion of how the church might be more effective in its witness. There was a free and open discussion regarding the entire function of the church, from the Conference level to the local congregation.

With few exceptions, each of the 102 organized churches in the Oregon Conference were represented by key leadership. These various church officers became deeply involved in a discussion regarding the effectiveness that has marked the efforts of the church to reach their communities.

Following a general discussion of the challenge of leadership, the various church officers gathered together in their respective church groups, and committed themselves to a more effective leadership. Among the suggestions that were drawn up as guide lines there was emphasized by the officers the necessity of an intensive program during 1969 to reach those who no longer fellowship with us in the regular Sabbath services. There was also pointed up the necessity of encouraging a large percentage of our church members to attend Sabbath school regularly and to study the Word of God daily. There was general agreement that there must be a more dynamic and effective witness on the part of each member of the church. Many of the

NORTH PACIFIC YOUTH CONGRESS

Continuing plans for the North Pacific Union Youth Congress in Portland's Memorial Coliseum are being made by the new director of youth activities, Gerald D. Bras.

Born in Lonepine, Montana, where his parents still live, Elder Bras is returning with youthful enthusiasm to lead Northwest youth in meaningful experiences and Christian witness. He entered denominational work, following his 1954 graduation from Walla Walla College, as a teacher at Glendive, Montana. Later he was a pastor-teacher at Beach, North Dakota.

Since those teaching years, he has emphasized youth work through Missionary Volunteering as well as in the classroom in the North Dakota and Minnesota Conferences as MV and educational secretary; in Fresno, California, where he was school principal; and in the Potomac Conference at Staunton, Virginia, where he was MV secretary.

Elder Bras is developing further the plans laid by Elder Ed Webb who has since transferred to the Lake Union with headquarters in Berrien Springs, Michigan.

Both Elder and Mrs. (the former Beverly Jean Jones of Pocatello, Idaho) Bras are looking forward to meeting Northwest youth April 3-5. Daughter Vicki, an academy sophomore, will be with them, but Donna is a senior at Shenandoah Valley Academy, Virginia.

churches took as a very definite objective the involvement of a large percentage of their congregation in presenting our truths, and many of the churches accepted a specific goal for baptisms.

Those attending the 1969 church officers' meetings seemed to sense that we have come to an hour in the history of the world when the church of Christ must indeed preach with power the message for this day. Let us all unite with the leadership of our church that there might be an outpouring of the Holy Spirit to make us effective instruments in preaching this gospel to all the world, that the coming of Christ might be hastened.

Businessmen Entertained at Battle Ground Welfare Center

A break-through in community relations was experienced at Battle Ground when a businessmen' luncheon was sponsored by the Meadow Glade church at the new community service center in January to give an opportunity of becoming better acquainted with the purpose of the center.

Ministers of all faiths, school superintendents and principals, county commissioner, mayor, chamber of commerce directors, doctors, store managers and men in all walks of life toured the center, watching the ladies at their tasks. Then they were seated at tables laden with food "out of this world" and "the best tasting food" and "another helping of those 'meat balls,' please." Some of those in attendance had wanted to come in before but were too timid, they confided.

During the luncheon Elders D. E. Caslow, William Clements, and Marcus Payne and Pastor Clyde Mundy gave short talks on the purpose of such a center and the tie-in with the community. Dr. Harry Park gave a summary of what had been done and plans for the year which include: a No-Smoking Clinic (just concluded), a weight control clinic, civil defense lectures, first aid classes, basic nutritional course, lectures on budgeting of home finances, heart and dental clinics.

Many favorable comments were heard, such as, "After all, the Adventists are a very important part of our community," and one minister told his wife it was "fantastic what goes on there." They plan to bring their boxes of used clothing from the church to this center for distribution. Pastor Mundy stated that the ladies have already been repaid for their efforts by all the comments they have heard.

This year the ladies volunteered to solicit in the March of Dimes campaign. Eighteen ladies participated with the 30 of Battle Ground. The lady in charge said this is the first year Meadow Glade ladies had helped and noted that the total raised was twice as much as before.

People are getting a "different look" at the folks of Meadow Glade. We want them to know that we care.

Tape Recorder Aids Ingathering

Weather for Ingathering in the month of December was most uncomfortable. Light snow several times made night walking disagreeable and at times dangerously slippery. Sleety rain and some freezing also complicated the caroling program.

However, Brother Ed Brown of Cottage Grove went out on each of the evenings appointed for the work in the city; and with his small group of helpers, who included several older women, and his little Sony tape recorder, managed to bring in over $150 to apply on the church goal. One lady solicited,

W. E. Brown's unique idea of using his under-arm tape recorder for Ingathering made his band of five people successful in reaching their goal.

there were usually three who sang along with the recorded music, and the people who listened were influenced to contribute to the program.

Brother Brown, leaving nothing to chance, had invited a group of the church people to gather on Sabbath afternoon and sing some of the old favorite Christmas carols which he had good success in recording, so he was prepared for the work when the season began. Once, when the little band were working near another group a man with a good voice joined the Brown company and added his baritone to the singing, and the lady of the house being visited marveled at the amazing volume of so small a group of singers. The little recorder was doing its part faithfully!

At another place the people inquired how this small company could have a piano for their accompaniment!

On Christmas Eve, Brother Brown was joined by a few others including some of the school children, and in spite of the snow and the cold, a good offering was secured.

Some of the primary and junior age children joined in the work almost every night of the caroling program and quite a number of them passed their personal campaign goals. It appeared that the Lord especially blessed all those who braved the discomforts of the wintry weather to take part in the work. No unusual amount of illness resulted from the frequent exposure and the late hours.

The church was thankful to report the local goal was successfully reached.

News in Brief . . .

★ United Medical Laboratories Concert Chorale under the direction of Melvin W. Davis presented sacred and secular concerts in Salem, Corvallis, and Laurelwood this past weekend.

★ Larry Stevens, director of student finance at Oregon Technical Institute in Klamath Falls, served as master of ceremonies for the annual Portland area Amateur Hour, March 1.

★ Mrs. Edith Darnell, Cottage Grove press secretary, on a hunch, shared a story on Dr. Marlowe Schaffner with the Portland Oregonian last month—and had it printed nearly word for word. Dr. Schaffner is the new administrator of Kettering Hospital.

★ Mrs. Lorraine Miller, conference elementary supervisor, has been named to the Seventh-day Adventist Board of Regents for the next three-year term. She recently returned from a week of committee meetings in Washington, D. C.

★ Two pastors making an outreach in community action have been named to posts in the local Kiwanis clubs. Harold Kurtz is president of the Kelso, Washington, club, while Lester Storz is secretary in Dallas.

★ Shirley Burton, conference public relations secretary, has been selected for inclusion in the current issue of Personalities of the West and Midwest—Outstanding and Distinguished, published by the News Publishing Company of Raleigh, North Carolina.

★ Pastor Harry Sharp and Press Secretary Joan Stevens were quick to seize upon an idea promoted by the Klamath Falls Herald and News to promote in a public way funds for Biafra. Initiated by the Mormon wife of the newspaper business manager through Mrs. Robert Graham, wife of our church elder, the fund is to be specified for four welfare groups: the Red Cross, World Council of Churches, the Catholic Church, or the Seventh-day Adventist Church! In order to point up what Adventists are actually doing, Mrs. Stevens submitted a story with up-to-the-minute reports from the Review and Herald. A follow-up story also mentioned what Adventists had done in a previous offering. Mormons themselves have no mission program in Biafra.

★ "Merry Hearts and Medicine" was the subject of Dr. Glen Edgerton at Hood View's Home and School during their special "Bring Us Together" emphasis upon health. Elder Leonard Ayres, conference stewardship secretary, spoke about ownership, continuing Hood View's lecture series. His title was "Money That's Enough."

★ Trust is the subject under study at the Hood View midweek study March 5. Elder Tom Ashlock, union conference Sabbath school and public relations secretary, has chosen "What Do You Mean?" as his title.

At Conference Academies . . .

◆ Milo's annual Alumni Association meeting is set for the weekend of March 14, 15. Sabbath programs will feature alumni. Saturday night's plans also include a banquet. Watch for more details.

◆ Columbia students have just completed their student-directed week of spiritual emphasis. Speakers included a sophomore, Sherrie Holt; juniors, Greg Middlestetter, Amy Sapp, and Marlene Berry; and seniors, Max McBurnett, Alden Olmsted, Jerry Bradford, Patty Clendenon, Brenda Wernick, Geri Kay Heinrich, and David Sturgess.

◆ Portland Union students who are members at Sunnyside are conducting a March Voice of Youth series in a former Lutheran church on property purchased by the North Pacific Union at 103rd and NE Davis. Speakers include Linda Rippey, Rolland Royce, Greg Cason, and Dan Agnetta. Adult assistance is being provided by Youth Pastor Paul Horton, Marlene Yarozecki, and Ashley Schmiedeskamp.

◆ Columbia's new store is in operation with Gary Eckert, manager.

◆ Concerts by Columbia's musical organizations are set for March. The band program will be March 15 and the choir, March 29.

◆ The Walla Walla College Chorale under the direction of William Murphy sang at Columbia's student prayer week late in February.

◆ Milo's junior benefit, March 1, included a full day's activities with an eschatology pageant in the afternoon and the evening film, "A Man Called Peter."

Wintertime Evangelism

Snow, snow, and more snow! In fact, snow was falling nearly every evening during the evangelistic series held in January at the Volunteer Park church in Seattle by the Hiner-Parks-Paulson Evangelistic Team. But this did not seem to hamper the individuals who really wanted to come to the meetings for many of them could be counted on to show up every evening regardless of the weather.

Pastor J. S. Blahovich and Mrs. Ernestine Belts, Bible instructor at the church, literally went the second mile in making the series a success. They not only participated with the evangelistic team in a heavy visiting schedule over snow-clogged highways and streets but also spent many hours personally providing transportation to the meetings for interested individuals.

Ellen White says that great success will attend the efforts in spreading the gospel when the church members "are prepared to sustain the minister by their prayers and labors." Many of the Volunteer Park laymen certainly did their part by their faithful performance of assigned duties in connection with the series. One couple drove seventy-five extra miles each evening in order to be present to help with the meetings.

We give God the glory for the fifteen precious souls that have been baptized in the Seattle churches thus far and for the many others that are continuing to study in anticipation of this step in the near future.

but arrived to find fire trucks there and their church a smoking ruin. They accepted the invitation of the pastor of the First Christian Church and worshipped at his church a few blocks away. And there they worshipped for two years. Two years later they moved into a new church on a hill near Volunteer Park. Four years later, February 22, 1969, through the Lord's blessing, they were able to dedicate the Volunteer Park church debt free.

The present pastor, Elder Joseph Blahovich, and his committee planned a program which included a pictorial history of the construction of the church, given Friday night, February 21, by Elder Stanley Hiten, the former pastor; an 11:00 o'clock preaching service Sabbath morning, February 22, by Elder Hiten; and a dedication service Sabbath afternoon at 3:00 p.m. Our North Pacific Union Conference president, Elder Elmer Walde; Washington Conference president, Elder W. L. Murrill; and Washington Conference treasurer, B. L. Cook; participated in the dedication, and the congregation enjoyed a visit with Elder and Mrs. Hiten, conference officials and other guests.

SAMV Sponsors Lovyl and Mary Hagle

The Seattle Area MV Society will sponsor Lovyl and Mary Hagle Sabbath afternoon, March 15, at 3:30 in the Mountlake Terrace School.

Mr. Hagle is the president of a firm in Portland. He and his wife spent much of their time traveling in the United States and Canada, developing special picture and sound programs on themes of nature. His is not an ordinary slide program. The unique presentation involves new and intricate electronic equipment and two Leitz auditorium projectors, making it an outstanding show of beautiful colored slides of nature in all her glory. Background music of birds singing, by Ralph Platt, adds an inspiring mood to the narration.

Mr. Hagle's programs, especially this one entitled "God, the Artist," have gained much acclaim in other parts of the country where they have been presented.

The Mountlake Terrace School is located at 21705 58th Avenue West in Mountlake Terrace; this is just one block east of the freeway (Interstate 5).

LIFE AT ITS BEST

the door of the heart is frequently opened wide in times of sickness.

3. We might say that it is a great public relations agent for the church. It tells the story of unselfish medical service and highly spiritually motivated service that is sometimes uncommon.

4. The medical ministry of the church affords opportunities for the young people of the church to receive professional training in a variety of lines. They can build lives into productive avenues of service to humanity and to worship God by serving mankind.

Here is an excerpt from a letter addressed to the employees at the Walla Walla General Hospital recently, from Chaplain T. M. Cole:

"This is a wonderful family of workers to which to belong. As I visit the patients I get some very interesting reactions. The wonderful part is that they are nearly all favorable. One businessman said, 'Chaplain Cole, sit down. I want to talk with you.' Then he told me what wonderful girls we have here. He said he would like to hire help like them, but he could not find them. He said that they go far beyond the call of duty.

"One nurse was going off duty when he called but she said she would come back when she signed out. She did, and it took her about half an hour to do what he wanted. She was not paid for that time. She did it just because she was dedicated to help others.

"Another man said that his room was next to the nurse's station and he could hear them talking together, but he never heard an unkind word. They all seemed to love one another."

I will quote from a letter which a lady wrote to the Chaplain's office after she reached home. "I was happy that the Holy Spirit guided me to the Walla Walla General Hospital. . . . In a way I did not like leaving the hospital. . . . I thank all for the personal service throughout the whole hospital. Many did not see me in person, but they all had a part in assisting in my recovery. The dietitian, June Bishop—I don't know what others think, but I loved all my meals. She can prepare my meals anytime."

I want to quote from Ministry of Healing, page 221: "Nurses, and all who have to do with the sickroom, should be cheerful, calm, and self-possessed. All hurry, excitement, or confusion should be avoided."

May I now say a brief word to the student who is thinking of a life's vocation or career? Wouldn't you like to be a part of this tremendous work? It is more fun if you like your work!

May I say a word to our constituency? Please support our Christian physicians and our medical institutions so that their work will be strengthened.

Faith for Today

Valentine's Day held little meaning for students of the Boise Valley elementary school, they were too busy serving hot lunches. As a result of six days' effort they were able to raise $215 for Faith for Today telecast.

Boise Five-Day Plan

Elder Fowler and Dr. Mack have completed another Five-day Plan to Stop Smoking. Thirty-three people signed up and the program was eighty-one percent successful.

Another clinic is scheduled for early May. Now is the time to watch for those who may be interested and turn their names in to Elder Fowler.

These programs are very effective and only in the resurrection will we really know how much good the classes have done.

Faith for Today Offering

The students in the Anchorage Seventh-day Adventist church school enthusiastically responded to the challenge of raising money for the Faith for Today offering. Many and varied were the projects undertaken to earn money. While some were selling cookies or washing dishes, others were shoveling snow from sidewalks and driveways, and cleaning offices. Some sacrificially parted with their allowance.

Since the offering was to be taken close to Valentine's Day, an unusual device was used in the lower grades. A heart was placed on the bulletin board for each child with his picture and name on it. Each day as the children eagerly returned with their hard-earned money the amount was recorded on their "heart." During the first week these children raised over half the entire school goal of $200.

Mr. Roland Franklin and the boys and girls in grades 1-4 each wrote a letter to Elder Fagal indicating the projects they were undertaking to earn money for the Faith for Today offering. They also wished him a happy birthday. Elder Fagal wrote a personal letter of thanks to the class commending them for their work and help.

Mr. David Escobar, the principal, reported that they had reached their goal of $200. The school celebrated by hav-

Walla Walla College

Chorale Concerts

The 75-voice WWC Chorale and its conductor, Professor William Murphy, returned February 23 from a weekend of sacred concerts at Columbia Academy, the two SDA Tacoma churches, and Auburn Academy with appreciation for the gracious hospitality extended them and the excellent audiences attending the concerts. Equally important to a successful tour were the diligent work by the Chorale and the high quality of the performances.

William Murphy

The unusual feature of the tour arranged by Professor Donald Eichner, tour director, was the opportunity to sing in the rotunda of the Capitol building in Olympia with Governor Dan Evans, senators, and guests as an audience. Meeting the Governor, hearing him speak briefly and asking questions was the students' privilege.

Small ensembles appearing in programs were a ladies' trio and a male quartet. Chris Bishop, Roseburg, Oregon; Linda Hardin, College Place; and Candy Jordan, Winona, Washington; are trio members. A male quartet included Bill Lindeman, Ketchikan, Alaska; Jim Newell, Eagle Creek, Oregon; Wendell Downs, Auburn, Washington; and Fred Cornell, College Place. Asta Sakala, Kelowna, B.C., Canada, is accompanist.

Pastor Leaving

Elder Richard D. Fearing, pastor of the College church and chaplain of the College since 1963, has accepted a position as president of the West Virginia Conference with headquarters at Parkersburg and will be assuming his duties about the first of April.

Expressions of appreciation from Dr. George Bowers, head elder; Dr. Carl T. Jones, head deacon; and Miss Alice Hassing, church clerk; emphasized the pastor's skill in administration and church finance, his meaningful messages, his ability to delegate authority, to work with others, and his thoughtfulness of those ill and shut in.

"My new duties will include general oversight of the work of the 27 Adventist churches in West Virginia and in two counties in Maryland, including the program of Christian education," says Pastor Fearing, whose interest extends to the entire family.

During his more than five-year tenure as pastor of the College church, the church membership has grown from 1,250 to 1,550. In 1964 the College church was dedicated, and continuing expansion and improvements have been made in the total church plant with extensive landscaping and parking areas added.

The College church is one of five which supported construction of a new plant for WWVA, completed in 1966. The church also shared in construction of a four-room addition to the Clara E. Rogers Elementary School last year.

In his new post Pastor Fearing will be a member of the board of the Columbia Union Conference, and of the Columbia Union College board, Washington, D.C., the college from which he received his baccalaureate degree. He received the M.A. degree from Andrews University and had done summer doctoral study at New York University. Ministerial experience before coming west included pastorates in Pennsylvania and Illinois, and evangelism in Pennsylvania, Minnesota and Indiana.

Walla Walla College Choir drew a huge audience when they presented a concert in the rotunda of the state capitol in Olympia. The beautiful singing beneath the acoustically perfect capitol dome of the legislative building attracted many persons from nearby offices. Among the listeners were Sen. Hubert F. Donohue (left) of Dayton and Sen. Martin J. Durkan (center), Issaquah, chairman of the Senate Ways and Means committee. They are shown with Professor William B. Murphy, choir director, who brought his outstanding choir to the legislature during a tour of western Washington.

WALLA  WALLA
GENERAL HOSPITAL

Life at Its Best

"Good Enough" is not enough today! This slogan reflects the attitude of the medical ministry of the dedicated and motivated SDA hospital worker. This "jewel" is the reason that the SDA medical institutions are capable of rendering four primary services:

1. The medical ministry helps the membership understand the laws of health, therefore enjoy better health. We feel that good health gives clearer minds, keener intellects and stronger bodies.

2. Our medical ministry by the hospital group can build the church by bringing in the love of God, demonstrated in human service and compassion. It can be an influence on the lives of the sick to whom care is rendered. This is particularly effective as
