1969 MISSIONARY
BOOK OF THE YEAR

MARCH 24, 1969

Vol. 64, No. 12

THIS IS MAN

A large, abstract illustration dominates the cover. It features a dark, swirling background with a bright, circular, swirling light tunnel in the center. A silhouette of a person stands within this tunnel, facing away from the viewer. The colors transition from dark blue and black at the edges to bright yellow and green in the center of the tunnel.

asked to do preliminary work on the manuscript. Countless conversations took place between author and editors, between editors and printers, between artists and editors. A small development committee did the basic planning for the book. These people considered every aspect imaginable: How many pages would it have? Should it be hardbound? Paperback? Should the cover be realistic or symbolic? What colors would be the most appealing, attract the most attention? Even an item as seemingly insignificant as the placement of letters on the cover demanded a 45-minute discussion.

Since our age is an age of intense visual awareness, the selection of artists to illustrate THOUGH THE WINDS BLOW became an all-important consideration. James Converse, a well-known free-lance artist of Columbus, Ohio, designed the cover and did five original paintings to illustrate stories from the text. Paintings by Jim Padgett and Robert Ayres round out the inside illustrations.

As the book moved nearer completion, sales personnel set up a basic advertising program for it. By this time the manuscript had been copy edited and set into type. Elder Pierson received galley proofs which he corrected and returned to the editor. Then layout artists went to work cutting and pasting galleys into pages, exactly as specified in the original plan. The artists' original paintings were photographed and an intricate process of color separation prepared them for printing.

Then the book itself went to press. After printing, it was folded into signatures, bound and packaged, ready for shipment.

Is that the end of the story? No, it is merely the very important first installment. For all the consecrated, concentrated planning and production will be of absolutely no value until THOUGH THE WINDS BLOW reaches the world.

The publishers consider this particular Missionary Book to be of such significance that they have decided to try an important experiment in communication. For the first time in denominational history, the Missionary Book of the Year has become the subject of a special art film program. A script that is both symbolic and specific presents in graphic detail the dilemma of contemporary man. Unusual color photography and a unique stereophonic sound track combine to make this program a distinctive mind opener for every church member. Book and Bible House managers will cooperate with church pastors and conference lay activities leaders to give this program unprecedented circulation throughout North America during 1969.

THOUGH THE WINDS BLOW, and the program that has been built around it, will make it possible for the church to reach a new frontier in evangelistic communication. It's time for every church member to expand his own consciousness, to commit himself to the challenge of reaching TODAY'S souls with TODAY'S methods.

Or, in the words of Christopher Morley, "When you sell a man a book, you don't sell him just twelve ounces of paper and ink and glue—you sell him a whole new life."

Fifty Years With the 'Review and Herald'

By HARRY MOYLE TIPPETT

Associate Book Editor, Review and Herald Publishing Association

On a recent Friday evening I took time to read the then current issue of the Review and Herald from cover to cover. It was a most rewarding experience. My bedside prayer was more fervent because of the mental and spiritual glow my two or three hours with "the General Church paper of the Seventh-day Adventists" had given me.

Add one minute for each 13 miles west.
Subtract one minute for each 13 miles east.

While reading its various articles, editorials, field reports, and news items, I was carried back fifty years in memory to those lonesome Sabbath afternoons when as an isolated new believer in the truth of the Second Advent of Christ I would be comforted and inspired by reading in the Advent Review and Sabbath Herald the story of the advance of the message in all the world.

The lead article in the recent issue recalled the romance of our first mission ship, The Pitcairn, and our pioneer work in California and the South Pacific. I smiled with happy reminiscences as I thought of the author, Walter R. Beach, now secretary of the General Conference, off on another extended global trip, this time to counsel with and cheer our leaders in the lands "down under." A half century ago Walter and I sat in the same Greek class at Walla Walla College under Winifred Holmden. Adlai Esteb, and other present leaders of the Advent Movement, also were members of that class.

How up to date our present Review is was revealed in that inspiring appeal by John Hancock, one of our General Conference youth leaders, in his article titled "Bring Us Together," based on the placarded plea of a teen-age girl during the recent presidential campaign of President Richard Nixon. It was a vibrant, ringing message to the church to heed one of the last counsels of the messenger of the Lord to His people, "Press together, press together."

I read with absorbing interest the article by Dr. Siegfried Horn telling of our Adventist expedition exploring and excavating ancient Heshbon, capital of old Sihon of the Amorites. The "fish-pools of Heshbon," spoken of romantically by Solomon, have disappeared in the dust of many centuries, but how thrilling to think that Adventist picks and shovels are uncovering hundreds of artifacts of that vanished generation. The history of our mission's beginnings still fascinates our readers, as may be implied by the article on "The Solusi Property" by Elder Arthur White. His grandmother, Sister E. G. White, once admonished us that our spiritual safety lay in not forgetting the way the Lord has led us, and Elder White's frequent reminders of our denominational roots are heartening.

How Miriam Wood manages to write her sprightly column, "The Art of Living When You're Young," while teaching full time in a secondary school system is astonishing. Living as she does in a milieu of youth she gives practical counsel to all age groups.

Every current Tuesday morning the editorial office staff of both book and periodical departments gather in the board room for worship and to hear some of the many letters requesting prayer by burdened and distraught believers from all over the land. Earnest prayers go up from this group for these suppliants and all in the Fellowship of Prayer. It binds the whole family of communicants in the blessed hope in loving sympathy and intercession for one another.

And this reminds me of the new feature of the current Review, Letters to the Editor. This department follows the modern trend in opening our church journal to the views and comments of readers on issues and matters of particular discussion in the church. The exchange of views is often refreshing. Disagreement in a Christian climate often stimulates inquiry and a more careful examination of principles.

Nothing in our present Review accentuates the difference between 1969 and 1919 more than its editorial section. In the issue under survey there was a twosome by K.H.W. and F.D.Y. on space travel, arising largely out of the phenomenal Apollo 8 journey around the moon during our Christmas season, when the listening world heard a portion of the creation story read by the astronauts from the vast reaches of outer space. I remember fifty years ago they were talking fervently but rather vaguely about Orion. But the vocabulary of our space age had not been invented—"orbits," "sputniks," "moon flights," "space capsules," "splash-downs," "weightlessness."

Imagine a column in the Review a half century ago slanted to men only. But here is one now conducted by Elder Roland Hegstad, trenchant editor of Liberty magazine.

How dramatic is the new color photography of the church paper compared with the columns largely unadorned years ago! What brightening of our anticipation for its weekly visits! Has a new church been built in the Arctic circle? We see it. Have the nationals of Rhodesia established a school in Mashonaland? We view their shining faces. Have new workers been ordained in India and "the islands of the sea"? They walk before you in these pages.

The reports from the various unions moved me mightily. As a green, unschooled youth in Butte, Montana, I found reports such as these from every part of the world most thrilling. We would sing in our small Sabbath school, "Help us bring them in from the fields of sin," and I would go home and read in the Review that souls were really being brought in all over the world, and would be comforted.

I am reminded of what our beloved Elder Spicer often used to say, "If I hadn't joined the Advent Movement fifty years ago, I'd join it today." And I am sure that is the testimony of all who, like me, have enjoyed a lifetime of Adventist adventure and inspiration through the pages of the Review.

LOMA LINDA UNIVERSITY HAS A UNIQUE AND VITAL MISSION

NEAL C. WILSON

President, North American Division

A century and more ago the leaders of an emerging, little-known religious group committed themselves to a new, daring course of action. Though numbering only a few thousand they purposed to use a new emphasis in achieving their church's audacious goal, which was the carrying of the gospel to men and women of every nation on earth. These forward-looking leaders were officers of the recently organized Seventh-day Adventist Church. The new challenge: To identify, understand, and meet health as well as spiritual needs of people everywhere.

This ambitious emphasis seemed to be compatible with their faith in Jesus Christ, who they said, spent more time healing than preaching. It soon became a vital part of their Christian service—a ministry that was to make them known throughout the world and was to revolutionize health and eating habits of people in many nations.

Seventh-day Adventists continue to carry Christ's gospel to the world. Thousands of ministers, physicians, evangelists, nurses, teachers, administrators and technicians work in a hundred nations blending professional skills with brotherly love and Christian compassion. They find deep satisfaction and fulfillment working side by side in a healing, redemptive mission.

Loma Linda University is the educational hub for a world-wide complex of healing institutions. Under the guidance of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, it combines the pursuit of knowledge with professional training in an atmosphere of inquiry and service.

Every other year Seventh-day Adventists throughout the North American Division join hands in supporting this fine institution. I hope your gift on April 12 will reflect your true appreciation of its unique and vital role.

'Let Me Assure You'

The vast majority of books on the Christian faith today do not recognize Scripture as an authoritative and infallible revelation of God. And many of those which claim to, rather than attract, turn thinking people away from God. Well-reasoned books are needed to interpret Scripture.

Let Me Assure You by Edward W. H. Vick is such a book. Ministers and laymen will find here a stimulating, thought-stirring, clear statement of Seventh-day Adventist beliefs. In it Dr. Vick, pastor of the Church in Oxford, England, systematically examines the doctrines of grace, the atonement, the experience of salvation, the covenants and the law, the church and eschatology.

Dr. Vick's work is systematic. He relates each doctrine to a central theme like branches growing out of a tree trunk. That central theme, the trunk, is faith in Christ Jesus, the Center of faith.

He bases the doctrine of baptism, for example, on more than just a few key texts. He relates it organically to faith in Christ Jesus, person to Person, the baptism of the believer to the baptism of the One believed in. Questions which the key-text method finds almost impossible to answer, he can thus answer simply and convincingly.

Notice, for example, how, through his systematic method, Dr. Vick handles this objection: "Christ had no sin to be forgiven. Why did He need to be baptized?" He outlines three points: By His baptism, Jesus identified Himself with sinful people and with sin. By His baptism, He accepted the beginning of His mission as servant. By his baptism, He signified the "course and character" of that mission (suffering, death, resurrection and ascension).

Christ's baptism is the definitive baptism. All other baptisms have meaning only in relation to His (not vice versa). Thus the question—"Why did a sinless Christ need to be baptized?"—misses the whole point of the meaning of baptism. Baptism is not a sacrament or rite which forgives sins. Only God Himself forgives sins.

For Jesus, baptism symbolized an identification with sin and sinners. Thus, for us, it symbolizes an identification with Him, an admission that He is right, that we are sinners.

For Jesus, baptism symbolized the beginning of His work as a servant; for us, as servants in Him, admission into His church.

For Jesus, baptism symbolized his future suffering, death, resurrection and ascension; for us the same—only in Him and thereby successful.

Dr. Vick's treatment of all the doctrines is similar—relating each of them to Christ the Center of faith, thus showing the Advent faith in its true light, intelligible, reasonable and whole.

Let Me Assure You is a Dimension softback published by the Pacific Press, available from your conference Book and Bible House. The price is $1.95, plus postage and tax where applicable.

Five-Minute Broadcast

The Voice of Prophecy has recently completed production of a new series of five-minute broadcasts to be used as public service radio programs. Entitled, "The Living Word—Five Minutes with H. M. S. Richards and His Bible," the program begins with the reading of a text, after which Pastor Richards draws on his experience as a student of the Scriptures and world traveler to amplify and shed light upon what he has just read. Listeners are thereupon invited to send for more information on the study of the Bible, thus leading to an introduction to the Bible correspondence school.

Described by Wayne Hooper, Voice of Prophecy programming director, as "a dynamic capsule of inspiration," the program is being made available on a loan basis free of charge to anyone who might have access to sustaining or sponsored radio time. The 52 completed broadcasts, a year's supply, come in magnetic tape form, with six programs on each seven-inch reel, which should be returned to The Voice of Prophecy when they are no longer needed. They may be purchased for personal use at a cost of $2.25 per six-program reel also.

Requests for further information regarding "The Living Word" broadcast should be addressed to The Voice of Prophecy Recording Company, Box 1511, Glendale, California 91209.

Academy Temperance Oratorical Contest

The North Pacific Union Temperance Weekend was held at Gem State Academy, February 28 and March 1.

Young people and their sponsors from eight of the nine academies in the Union were in attendance. On Friday night Elder Don MacIvor, temperance secretary in the Montana Conference, spoke to the young people assembled at the vesper hour. On Sabbath morning Elder Bob Lodahl, temperance secretary for the Upper Columbia Conference, spoke at the church service encouraging everyone to place full confidence in the leadership of God for their lives.

On Sabbath afternoon the youth representatives and their sponsors gave a report on the temperance program in their academies, and challenged the congregation to do more in this area. Report after report told of calls from public schools and other agencies who desire to know more about how to live better. The program was under the direction of Elder Frank Baker, temperance secretary for the Oregon Conference.

The highlight of the weekend was Saturday night. This is the meeting that eight young people had been planning and working toward for many, many weeks—the speech contest. The judges for the evening consisted of a former LDS bishop, the Narcotics Education Director for the State of Idaho, a physician, a minister and the head of a college speech department.

Those participating in the contest were:

- Gale Anderson
—Auburn Academy
- Don Pate
—Columbia Academy
- Melva Lou Johnson
—Gem State Academy
- Leotis Brunniger
—Laurelwood Academy
- Lu Wana Woodruff
—Milo Academy
- Jo Schnibbe
—Portland Union Academy
- Candy Zolber
—Upper Columbia Academy
- Linda Black
—Walla Walla Valley Academy

The speeches were all outstanding but one person had to be chosen to represent them at the North Pacific Union Youth Congress in Portland on April 4. The judges placed their magic wand on Don Pate, a senior at Columbia Academy. The Union plaque will hang in Columbia Academy until the next contest when they will have the opportunity to retain it.

Gem State Academy Music Department presented an outstanding music program during the halftime and while the judges were deliberating.

The 1970 temperance weekend will be held at Mt. Ellis Academy. It is not too early for students to begin planning for next year.

Deans' Conference to Convene at AU

A professional work conference for residence hall deans will be conducted at Andrews University, June 15 to July 16, for persons interested in residence hall supervision and for college, academy, and nursing school deans. The conference will emphasize dynamic leadership for effective learning experiences in the Seventh-day Adventist residence halls, according to Dr. Mercedes H. Dyer, director of the conference.

The conference is for the inspiration and educational stimulation of residence hall deans as they meet together to evaluate and study the new problems continually arising in the administration and supervision of residence halls in an era of rapidly changing values and standards of conduct in society.

Activities will include guest lecturers, discussion and dialogue on current issues and problems, interest group discussions, demonstrations and experience activities, participation in individual and group counseling of students, and individual study.

Persons who qualify for entrance to the School of Graduate Studies may earn five quarter credits toward an M.A. degree; persons who do not qualify for credit may audit the course.

For registration blanks and further information concerning the institute, write to Dr. J. G. Smoot, Dean, School of Graduate Studies, Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Michigan 49104. All applications should be mailed not later than May 1, 1969.

Graduate Workshop in Community Nutrition Education

A graduate workshop in community nutrition education will be conducted at Andrews University, July 16 to 25, for ADA dietitians and other individuals who have had an advanced credit nutrition course and/or have made special arrangement.

The purpose of the workshop is to study methods of training lay men and women of ability and education to conduct cooking schools and to develop a curriculum for such a course of training to be conducted by dietitians and nutritionists for ministers' wives, teachers, nurses, and other qualified individuals.

The first three days will include a nutrition seminar and an intensive study of methods followed by a week-long demonstration training course for laymen. Sessions will be conducted each day for evaluation and construction of the curriculum for this course.

Persons who qualify for admission to the School of Graduate Studies are eligible to earn two quarter credits in the graduate school. Church leaders and other professional people who complete the demonstration training course will receive a Lay Nutrition Instructor's Certificate from the General Conference Medical Department, according to Mrs. Alice G. Marsh, director of the workshop. All who enroll in this lay course must have a recommendation as a church leader by a conference president.

For further information concerning the workshop, demonstration training course, and registration blanks, write to the Dean, School of Graduate Studies, Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Michigan 49104.

Andrews University Writers' Workshop

A two-week Workshop for Writers will be conducted at Andrews University July 7 to 18 as part of the expanding journalism program at the university.

A professional staff of five visiting magazine and book editors and freelance writers will provide instruction and individual counseling during the workshop, the first of its kind to be held at an Adventist college or university. The workshop will be directed by Dr. C. A. Oliphant, associate professor of journalism at Andrews.

Included on the staff will be Mrs. Norma Youngberg, now of Glendale, California; Richard Utt, Mountain View, California; Cecil R. Coffey, Hendersonville, North Carolina; Kenneth Holland, Nashville, Tennessee; and F. Donald Yost, Washington, D.C.

Mrs. Youngberg is the author of more than a dozen successful books, including Creative Techniques for Christian Writers, published in 1968, and a three-volume textbook on writing called Storycraft, which is widely used in numerous schools and colleges. Mrs. Youngberg has taught writing for more than ten years in the adult education program at San Jose, California.

Elder Utt is book editor at Pacific Press Publishing Association, Mountain View, California, and the author of several books and sources of magazine articles.

Mr. Coffey, now a freelance writer, is the author of several books, including one entitled The Wider Circle, which has sold nearly 50,000 copies. He has sold articles to Reader's Digest and other nationally circulated magazines and is a former book editor and magazine editorial director.

Elder Holland, editor of These Times magazine, which has a monthly circulation of approximately 280,000, is also the author of several books.

Elder Yost, associate editor of the Review and Herald, general publication of the Seventh-day Adventist denomination, is author of the new book Writing for Adventist Magazines, published in 1968.

The theme of the workshop will be developing a professional approach to writing, according to Dr. Oliphant. Objectives of the workshop, he says, will be "to create an atmosphere in which writers can learn more about their craft by working at it intensively under the guidance of highly qualified professionals who know both writing and editing."

The workshop will also provide opportunity for writers to exchange ideas with one another and with editors looking for manuscripts, Dr. Oliphant states.

Lectures, editorial conferences between writers and editors, round table discussions among writers, manuscript clinics and manuscript work sessions will comprise the workshop, Dr. Oliphant says.

He states that each writer accepted for the two-week workshop will be required to submit in advance a manuscript on which he is currently working for evaluation of the workshop staff. During the workshop the writer will work on his manuscript under the personal guidance of one of the staff members.

Four hours of graduate credit will be offered for the workshop, or it can be audited for no credit, according to Dr. Oliphant.

Cost of the workshop will be $100 for tuition and fees. Food and housing will be available on campus at nominal cost.

Several $150 scholarships will be available for qualified students. Registration blanks and further information about the workshop and the scholarships can be obtained by writing to the Graduate School, Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Michigan 49014; or to Dr. C. A. Oliphant in the Journalism Department at the university.

If discrimination in TV viewing sometimes presents a problem in your family, we have a brand-new idea for you. You'll want to get acquainted with a new series of records entitled The Bible in Living Sound. At the present time, there are 40 LP records available in this series, which cover the Old Testament from creation to Queen Esther. Each story is beautifully narrated and accompanied with dramatic sound effects and musical background. Every episode has an exciting, realistic, "you-are-there" quality. Think how much a few of these excellent records would add to your family worship, or to your Sabbath school or Vacation Bible School classes! You can purchase a sample album for $1.00, and each record thereafter costs only $2.95. The Bible in Living Sound is produced by Chapel Records.

The Reviewer

Did you know that there is one new book published in the United States every fifteen minutes? Put them all together, and it adds up to a whopping 30,000 new titles each year.

Southern Publishing Association can take credit for half an hour of publishing time this month with two new titles we think you'll enjoy. The first is an inexpensive ($1.25) paperback for primaries entitled Bilibili and the Kangaroos. Author Pearle Peden describes the adventures of an energetic little Australian bush boy and a group of kangaroo hunters. The little folks will be fascinated with stories about "Old Boomer," the leader of the kangaroo mob, and with Bilibili's efforts to capture a joey (baby kangaroo) for a pet. The book is cleverly illustrated by Joe Maniscalco.

Next on the new book list is Magnificent Missionary, by Virgil Robinson. This is a very personal biographical account of Dwight L. Moody. The stories about his poverty-plagued childhood and the early days of his evangelism are filled with drama and humor. Moody and his musical partner established evangelistic traditions and principles which are still significant to Christian ministers of many denominations today. The whole family will en-

MONTANA

VOP Crusade in Kalispell

On January 18, with Montana weather at its worst, the Voice of Prophecy crusade began in Kalispell with Elder J. Reynolds Hoffman, North Pacific Union Conference evangelist, presenting the messages of God, assisted by the pastor. Meetings were held in the Sons of Norway Hall.

Attendance was gratifying from the start, and continued to hold surprisingly well considering the blizzard conditions that prevailed for about two weeks. Only one meeting was cancelled because of impossible streets and roads, but people continued to come not only from Kalispell but from Whitefish, Columbia Falls and Hungry Horse. Particularly noticeable was the percentage of young people in attendance.

Response to the meetings was enthusiastic and earnest as Elder Hoffman unfolded present truth. The Holy Spirit was present to bring conviction in a marked way. The church members themselves were faithful in supporting the meetings and were, in turn, greatly blessed.

A five-day stop-smoking clinic was conducted in connection with the meetings the second week. This brought a retired career Marine who had not come before. He and his wife, a devout Christian of another faith, gained mastery over tobacco. They attended the meetings until the close and were baptized on March 8.

In the third week of the crusade, a young couple attended for the first time as the result of hearing a spot announcement on the radio. After attending three meetings—and without prompting from us—they discarded their tobacco although they knew nothing of Seventh-day Adventists but what they had heard in three meetings. They have not missed a meeting since starting and were baptized in the first baptism on February 22. They are not the only ones who are thrilled with the change that has come into their lives in so short a time. God is wonderful!

Every baptism is a victory over the enemy, whether the person is young or old; and we think what obstacles must be overcome by the Holy Spirit to bring about the changes necessary for abandonment of long-established habits and ideas. What a victory, however, when a youth gives his life to God for service! Most of those baptized on February 22, March 1, and March 8 were young people under thirty years of age. May their youthful energies be dedicated to the greatest challenge ever presented to any generation—the finishing of God's work in the earth.

In the first week of the crusade, fire destroyed the Kalispell church building. The congregation accepted the offer of the Methodist church to use their facilities until a new edifice can be ready to use. In addition to Sabbath services, we have used the Methodist church for evening meetings after moving from the lodge hall where the meetings began.

The enlarged membership provides an incentive for a building program; and with the spring will come the work of construction.

The work of God in Kalispell promises to move onward. God is blessing, and there are a number of good folk attending church and studying the message who have not yet been baptized. The work of Elder Hoffman in Kalispell will be long remembered and only in eternity will we fully appreciate the results of the seven weeks he spent with us.

Amateur Hour Winners

The annual Amateur Hour, sponsored by the Mount Ellis Academy boys' club, The Mountaineers, was presented on Saturday evening, March 8. Club President Oscar Ragenovich introduced his fellow officers and welcomed the guests attending. Mr. Preston Hoskin, of the Montana Conference stewardship office, was master of ceremonies, and Mr. Dana Duncan, an accomplished trumpeter, was the guest artist. As a special feature, Mr. Glenn Salisbury, music director of the academy, presented the Gallatin Valley church school Cibiata Choir in three numbers.

Winners for the three sections of the program were: Louella Harris

Gift Bible Evangelism In Sutherlin

Laymen at Sutherlin know that a consistent follow-up of Gift Bible Evangelism pays off with an abundant harvest.

Four months before a reaping series was planned for the church, evangelist Edwin G. Brown and Pastor Victor Pastor Gery P. Friesen and the Tabernacle church family are conducting a new community service in Portland. For those who "Wanta Stop Smoking," Pastor Friesen has taped daily messages of the famous 5-Day Plan. Next time you see that phone number, 254-6561, know that it is the church's working plan for those who really seek help. Better yet, display a bumper strip on your car and distribute a card reminder to those with whom you work. Donald Baartz is the new public relations secretary.

Twenty-two were added to the church at Sutherlin, a tribute to dedicated laymen and Pastor and Mrs. V. J. Rice and Evangelist and Mrs. E. G. Brown.

J. Rice made a challenge to "Laymen Finishing the Work." "In the great judgment day," Elder Brown read from Christ's Object Lessons, p. 365, "those who carry no responsibility will be placed by the Judge of the earth with those who did evil."

More than 40 responded to the altar call for service, pledging that they would take two Bibles and the accompanying lessons and follow faithfully through the series of meetings. In all, 82 Gift Bibles and lessons were placed, and the Gift Bible secretary of the church encouraged members to faithfulness in their commitment.

Pastor Rice's preparation and laymen's groundwork resulted in 22 baptisms the first week and others are continuing to study—and this in a community of 2,500!

Already the Lord is adding His blessing to the 1969 United Soulwinning Advance. Have you made your commitment to go and/or tell of Jesus' saving power and love?

Danger of Hesitating And Doubting

"As the prophet (Jonah) thought of the difficulties and seeming impossibilities of this commission, he was tempted to question the wisdom of the call. . . . While he hesitated, still doubting, Satan overwhelmed him with discouragement. . . . In the charge given him, Jonah had been entrusted with a heavy responsibility; yet He who had bidden him go was able to sustain His servant and grant him success."—Prophets and Kings, p. 266.

Don Owen

The last three years before I entered the canvassing work I felled timber for one of Harris Pine's loggers. I enjoyed working in the out-of-doors, and made an adequate living for my family in spite of the fact that I was off work for about four months each winter. However, I had a desire to be in the Lord's work and had often thought of canvassing. After fracturing an arm and then a leg within two years, I felt that the time had come to leave the logging work, so I made application to become a literature evangelist.

Longview, Washington, March 5, 1969—"I want to thank God for all He has done for me. I prayed for guidance and some way to learn more about His Word as I can't understand a lot I read in the Bible. We just became Christians a year ago. . . . Then we were transferred out here where we knew nobody, so we needed a lot of help from the Lord. I can truthfully say God answers prayer. I received your first lessons through the mail a few days after I began praying for this need. I have really gotten a blessing from them."

Friend in Christ

While my leg was healing, I took the course in Christian salesmanship offered by the Home Study Institute, and before I moved to my first canvassing territory I sold all my logging equipment. I wanted to make it hard for myself to go back to my old job if discouragement should come at times. After spending six years in the Lord's work, I can truthfully say that I am not sorry for the decision I made. The Lord has always supplied us with the necessities of life, and we have been able to keep our three boys in church school. I have spent over 11,000 hours in the canvassing work; and with the Lord's blessing, have been able to deliver a little over $50,000 worth of truth-filled literature. More important than this, I have had many thrilling experiences and have had the privilege of offering prayer in many homes. I have seen 12 persons baptized into the Seventh-day Adventist Church as the result of my work.

Evangelism in Orofino and Grangeville Districts

Pastors Gerald Schulze and Paul Cole of Orofino and Grangeville are combining their talents for three evangelistic thrusts this spring. They are currently involved in a twenty-night series of meetings at Kooskia, Idaho. A number of high-school-age-and-above youth have been attending, as well as other interests.

On March 23, they will begin a series in the Grangeville, Idaho, Seventh-day Adventist church. Then on April 26, they will open meetings in Pierce, Idaho. Both series of meetings will be 20 nights in length. The pastors and

Oroville Meetings Come to Successful Close

Thanksgiving and praise to God signaled the close of the evangelistic meetings in Oroville, Washington, on Friday evening, February 28. Blessings far beyond everyone's expectations marked the series from beginning to end. Even though the weather had been severe and unpredictable up to the time for the services to begin on Saturday night, February 15, it proved to be very mild for the entire two-week period. The attendance, which appeared to be somewhat small the first night, grew throughout the series until it had doubled on the closing night. The interest also grew and then remained constant with approximately twenty souls indicating their desire to keep the Sabbath or to continue their study of the truths of God's Word.

To some not acquainted with this small community, it might appear that such results are not exceptional, but the loyal and dedicated members of the local congregation confess that God did richly bless in this endeavor. His Spirit definitely moved upon the

Malamulo Mission Children Appreciate Supplies

The 1967-68 sixth grade students at Milton-Stateline School, with the help of their teacher, Miss Nancy Johnson, shipped four bags to the Malamulo Mission in Africa and just received the following letter of appreciation:

"We want to thank you so much for all the gifts you sent for the children of Malamulo. The children all ask me to write and thank you very much. They all say, 'Zikoma Chomberi.' The parcels take a long time in coming but finally all arrived. We took the books, crayons, scissors, pencils, and coloring books down to the elementary school and gave each child some crayons and each teacher several coloring books for use for tracing or giving to children page by page or how they saw fit, and all reading material we put in the library.

"We are enclosing a picture of the sixth grade class here holding the crayons and coloring books they received. Many of the children have never owned crayons. If you look carefully you may see some of the clothing you sent on the children.

"God bless you as you continue the good work and may some of you grow up to be missionaries and help these folk who need to know more of Jesus and need more of this world's goods, also. Thank you again."

Friends of Dorcas in Chewelah

The severe winter in northern Washington has made it possible for the Chewelah church to discover two loyal friends of the Dorcas Society. They are Mrs. Eva Holford and Mrs. Alice Bundy.

Mrs. Eva Holford (left) and Mrs. Alice Bundy of the Chewelah Dorcas.

Their services include assistance in making quilt tops as well as supervising the Dorcas store when the regular members were unable to attend.

A surprise party was held on March 9 to honor these wonderful friends of Dorcas. It was pointed out that twice this winter Mrs. Alice Bundy had averted disaster by checking the church's property. Once the thermostat failed to operate during a cold spell which could have frozen the plumbing in the church. On another occasion the thermostat again failed and the building became so hot that even the doorknob was warm to the touch.

The meeting conducted in honor of these "friends of Dorcas" made it possible to express appreciation and present each with gifts along with a carnation corsage.

Debra Meacham Winner of Betty Crocker Contest

Debra Meacham, named 1969 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow for Auburn Academy, was selected on the basis of her score in a written knowledge and aptitude test on homemaking.

Debra, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Meacham, Seattle, is eligible for state and national scholarships. She received a specially designed silver charm from General Mills, sponsor of the Betty Crocker Search.

A state Homemaker of Tomorrow and runner-up will be selected from state school winners. The winner will receive a $1,500 college scholarship. Her school will be awarded a complete set of Encyclopedia Britannica. The runner-up will earn a $500 educational grant.

In April, the first-place winners from fifty states and District of Columbia, each accompanied by a school advisor, will be guests on an expense-paid tour of Washington, D.C., and colonial Williamsburg, Virginia. When the Betty Crocker All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow is named, her scholarship becomes $5,000, with three runners-up being granted $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000 scholarships, respectively.

The contest began in 1954-55 to emphasize the importance of homemaking as a career. An enrollment of 630,564 senior girls have participated from 15,116 schools. Total enrollment since 1954 exceeds six million and more than $1.5 million has been granted in scholarships.

Music Is a Release of Energy; Training of Talent!

If you were to ask a student of Auburn Academy what his favorite class or activity is, he might likely say, "I enjoy my music lesson best of anything!"

More than 200 academy students are enjoying some sort of music lesson or membership in a musical organization. Mr. James Hanson coaches 50 students in private voice lessons. He directs a select 32-member singing group called "The Sylvan Chorus" and a 106-voice choir.

There are 80 instrumental artists in the Academy concert band, directed by Don Latsha, who gives 35 private instrument lessons and directs a 30-member orchestra.

Mr. Robert Bockman instructs over 60 piano and organ students.

The Sylvan Chorus spends many hours memorizing music to be presented at concerts throughout western Washington. During the first half of the school year the group gave concerts in Tacoma, Seattle, Puyallup and Auburn.

It participated in a local choir Christmas concert at Green River Community College.

The group has accepted second semester invitations to Olympia, Port Angeles and Bremerton.

In April it will be performing in the Portland Coliseum at the Seventh-day Adventist Youth Congress for the North Pacific Union. During April it will present a home concert.

The band and orchestra have given concerts in western Washington during the first semester and have a full schedule for the remaining months of the school year.

February 5-8, 16 orchestra members and 10 voice students traveled to Walla Walla College to take part in a music clinic. Nine Seventh-day Adventist academies from the Northwest were represented.

IDAHO

'Ida-Haven Reflections'

Camp Ida-Haven is located in a delightful area that makes nature study possibilities unlimited! There is a tremendous variety of plant growth as well as animal life for campers to observe and study. To complete this picture I would like to tell you that we have a nice Nature Center building, but this I cannot do. With the natural assets that we have at camp, we NEED a center to work, and study, and display specimens which campers and staff members have collected.

There are cabins that should be replaced soon. Many of the buildings have given adequate service for years, but now have served about their limit! We must expand.

The cost of these improvements will need to be studied very carefully. I am certain that many would be willing to assist in this worthy project. Can we count on you? Your gifts, large or small, will be most gratefully appreciated.

March 29 is the Sabbath for our Camp Ida-Haven offering. If you could plan on a good offering of $2 per member, the fine plans mentioned above would become more of a reality.

Academy MV Project

Gem State Academy students have decided to buy a 16-cubic-foot refrigerator for Ecuador Mission Academy as a project of the Missionary Volunteer Society.

The refrigerator will enable the school to keep emergency medicines such as tetanus antitoxin and snake antivenin on hand, as well as to provide students with such rare food items as Jello, margarine, and even ice cream.

A refrigerator is considered a "super luxury" item in Ecuador, according to Nathan M. Merkel, principal of the mission academy. Owners display their refrigerator in the living room rather than in the kitchen, he said.

A set of slides showing the school was sent to Gem State at the request of Pastor Dale R. Ringering. Merkel and Ringering were college classmates of the class of 1950 at Walla Walla College.

Cost of the project is approximately $300 with parts assembled in Ecuador. Students will be working toward raising the money during the last weeks of the school year.

Last year the Missionary Volunteer Society of Gem State Academy sent a contribution toward the building of a Servicemen's Center in Okinawa.

Engineers Honor Professor Cross

Professor E. F. Cross, chairman, department of engineering, met with more than 20 engineering department graduates and their wives on his recent trip to Los Angeles where he served on an evaluation panel for National Science Foundation.

Group meetings in the San Francisco and the Los Angeles areas were held to honor Professor Cross, who in 1947 organized and has since headed the department of engineering leading to the B.S. in Engineering degree. Majors are offered in Civil Engineering, Electrical Engineering, and Mechanical Engineering.

Among the alumni attending were former WWC faculty and staff members: Ed Larson, Harold Benson, and Oran and Bonnie McNiel.

Spring Quarter Events

Important dates on the WWC social calendar for the spring quarter include a variety of events.

The WWC Alumni Association benefit program, "Wanderlust," heads the list with an April 12, Saturday night date.

Other April events include the United States Air Force Band, April 14, Monday evening; and the AGA Hour of Charm and Mother-Daughter Brunch, April 26 and 27.

A May 3 travelogue, "Castles in Snow," is a WWC lyceum event, and "Spring Holiday," annual spring musical event is scheduled for May 10.

Culminating the year's activities is commencement weekend, May 30 to June 1. Consecration Service is at 8 p.m., May 30; Baccalaureate at 11 a.m., May 31; Nurses' Capping at 4 p.m., May 31; and Commencement at 10 a.m., June 1.

Alumni events commencement weekend, with the Class of 1944 as honor guests, include a Sabbath evening vespers and business meeting, May 31, and a no-host breakfast Sunday morning, June 1.

More Acceptances

Brian Benjamin, pre-dental student from Glendale, California, and Randall Schuler, senior biology major from Ardmore, Oklahoma, received acceptances this week from the School of Dentistry, Loma Linda University.

Four acceptances previously announced had gone to Steve Campbell, James Hein, Ed Wolske and Ron Zirkle.

Fellowship Is Awarded

The first Charles E. Weniger Fellowship awarded by Andrews University, a $1,500 scholarship grant, was given to William Wohlers, a WWC senior religion and history major.

Wohlers plans graduate study in history as a Weniger Fellow at Andrews with advanced study after completion of the master's requirements.

While maintaining a high scholastic record, Wohlers has been a former College Church Sabbath school superintendent, and is presently one of the associate MV leaders. A graduate of Walla Walla Valley Academy, Wohlers has also been active in student government.

To finance his undergraduate work, he has worked at the College Press. He will be graduated from WWC with majors in religion, history and a minor in biblical languages.

Weddings

February 2, the home of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Smith of Milton-Freewater, Oregon, was the scene of a beautiful wedding in which their daughter, Carole Sue Smith, became the bride of Edward Douglas Sproed. The young couple will be making their home in Pendleton, Oregon. Elder E. D. C. Richardson officiated.

The Stateline Seventh-day Adventist church was the scene of a candlelight wedding on January 18, during which Patricia Williams and Alvin Soper were united in holy wedlock. They are making their home in Pendleton, Oregon. Elder E. D. C. Richardson officiated.

Bonnie Emmerson of Maudlow, Montana, and Bill Fields of Ellensburg, Washington, exchanged wedding vows on February 23 in the Campus Hill Church, Loma Linda, California. Chaplain Charles Teel, supervisor of chaplains at Loma Linda University Hospital, officiated. The Fieldses are at home in Stoneham, Massachusetts, where Bill is director of the dietary department at the New England Memorial Hospital.

WALLA

See You at Youth Congress

We have long been told that the medical work will be the closing facet of the work of the Lord just prior to His coming. I wonder if we have told our young people enough about this great need and the fact that this need could be met should they desire to enter into training for the medical profession.

This year at the North Pacific Union Youth Congress in Portland, the Walla Walla General Hospital will be in attendance with a large and beautiful booth on health careers. Both administrators and other key personnel from the General Hospital will be there throughout Youth Congress to counsel not only with young people concerning the prospects of joining the health team, but also those who are already health workers and the possibilities of employment.

Do come to Youth Congress, and when you do, come to see us at the Walla Walla General Hospital booth in the Georgia Pacific Room.

Assistant Administrator

Attention, Spokane

An important adjunct of any hospital staff is its auxiliary and volunteer workers. This is no exception at the Walla Walla General Hospital and its fine auxiliary organization. Continuous appeals are made not only for more volunteers, but for more good and used or new merchandise.

There will be a delegation from Walla Walla General Hospital in the Spokane area on March 25 for a hospital board meeting. If there is anything in the way of merchandise, other than that which we would ordinarily give through the Dorcas Society, such as furniture, knickknacks, toys, etc., that you would like to donate to the hospital Thrift Shoppe for resale, please make arrangements to drop this material off at the Conference office in Spokane, W. 1025 Indiana, so that these can be picked up March 25.

Business is good at present and merchandise is sorely needed, so we pray that you will help us with your donation.

Which came first, Brunch or the Brunchburger?

WORTHINGTON

Worthington Foods, Inc., Worthington, Ohio 43085
Tomorrow's Foods Today!

We admit it. We didn't invent Brunch, and it came first.

But we did invent the Brunchburger and it's about the tastiest idea in brunches since toast. You take Prosage—usually served at breakfast—spark it up in the kind of burger usually served at lunch, and wow! You've got Brunchburgers. And that's something that really wakes up sleepy appetites.

PROSAGE BRUNCHBURGERS

Into a large bowl crumble, until mealy, 1 package of Prosage. Then add the following ingredients.

- | | |
|---|-----------------------------|
| 1 large minced green pepper | dash of paprika |
| 1 small jar diced pimiento | liberal dash of garlic salt |
| 1 egg | ¼ teaspoon oregano |
| 1 4-oz. package of grated Mozzarella cheese | |

Mix together well and form into patties. Fry in vegetable oil until golden brown. Serve on well toasted, buttered onion buns. Yield, 9 burgers.
