

NEW CIVILIAN CHAPLAIN FOR SERVICEMEN'S CENTER

To arrive May 15 as civilian chaplain at Fort Lewis is Elder Robert Babcock who replaces Elder Reo Clyde. The Clydes are en route to Saigon after three years at the Northwest military center.

Following service in the US Air Force during World War II, Elder Babcock graduated from La Sierra College in 1952. He entered denominational work in Arizona, serving in different pastorates until 1957 when the family moved to Hawaii.

In Hawaii Elder Babcock was pastor three years on the Island of Kauai, three years on the Island of Maui, and the past six years as chaplain of Castle Memorial Hospital in Kailua.

Mrs. Babcock is the former Ota Lee Selby of Keene, Texas. Their oldest son, Robert Lee, is married and attending Loma Linda University at La Sierra where both he and his wife are physical education majors. Sixteen-year-old George attends Thunderbird Academy.

Elder and Mrs. Clyde pioneered the work of a Servicemen's Center in Tacoma. Recognizing the need, the North Pacific Union Conference purchased a large home on an acre of ground in a Y-shaped corner lot at 6718 Alfareta Avenue SW. It provides, in addition to a spacious three-bedroom home for the chaplain, two family rooms for recreation and two bedrooms for bunking eight occupants. Of course, on occasions many others were stretched out in sleeping bags on the floor. Customarily, the Clydes entertained 50 servicemen on a weekend.

To Elder Clyde must be attributed much of the organization of last year's Medical Cadet Camp at Fort Lewis, the first ever to be held on a military installation. Working with Elder Ed Webb, then Union MV secretary, Elder Clyde provided meaningful training under simulated combat conditions.

Prayers of the church family are solicited for both the Clydes and the Babcocks as they take up new responsibilities for Adventist young men in service.

The administration wishes to express its gratitude to the retiring board members for the outstanding help and spirit of cooperation evidenced in the last term. The former board members were: Elder R. C. Remboldt, Mr. I. E. Gray, Elder J. O. Brown, Mr. Carl Campbell, Elder R. E. Eckerman, Elder R. D. Fearing, Mr. Charles Fry, Elder H. F. Hannah, Elder R. W. Martin, Dr. Stanley Wilkinson, Mr. I. E. Burke, Dr. John Potts, Mr. Charles Nagele and Dr. William Shephard.

Many difficult decisions have been reached in past years and undoubtedly many more lie ahead. We of the General Hospital are quite confident as we face the future that we have a well-qualified, dedicated, God-fearing group of men to lead the institution.

of stewardship emphasis in the Ketchikan church.

An itinerary that gave him the opportunity to speak in two other churches in southeastern Alaska made it possible for him to spend some time with our members in Alaska's "First City."

There was a great deal of interest among his listeners as Elder Rees talked about such things as "disinterested benevolence," "systematic giving" and "equal giving - equal sacrifice." He made very clear the advantages that can come to all who take God as their full partner in everything.

At the close of his series, Elder Rees explained the "combined church and school budget" method of giving. The church unanimously voted to accept this new type of financial structure.

When the program was over, comments like: "This is the most helpful thing I have ever heard," "I wish I would have known these principles years ago," and, "This really makes giving a pleasure," were heard.

The Ketchikan church has already been blessed in many ways by the ministry of Elder Rees. The members are eagerly awaiting his return follow-up visit this fall.

Youth Congress is a gathering of youth—such an army of youth rightly training for the soon finishing of the work. Inspiring them are other young people and a little older youth. (1) Among them were Pauline Goddard, dubbed by the New York press “The Angel of 42nd Street” because of her work for the inhibited and derelicts and delinquents on the streets of Times Square. Elder Brass interviewed her, then (2) and (3) she interviewed two Northwest young men whose lives were influenced by hers in other places—in San Diego and in Florida when they lived there. (4) At Sabbath school Pauline told Elder John Loor, pastor of the Collegedale, Tennessee, church how she was diverted from her education at Southern Missionary College during a summer of literature evangelism. So involved did she become in soul-winning that she never made it back to college—just kept on with her literature ministry. (5) Don Pate and Lynda Ashlock told Elder Loor of Columbia Academy student involvement in a local effort, in community service, and in visitation. (6) and (7) Other academy and Walla Walla College students expressed enthusiasm for the faith-shared activities of their schools. (8) Sabbath school lessons of devotion to redeeming grace received appeals from Elder Loor, and (9) Elder E. R. Walde, Union Conference president, pointed out the opportunities and privileges of each youth ‘rightly trained’ in contemporary methods of reaching men’s hearts to indeed finish the work and hasten the coming of a crucified and risen Saviour. (10) Mrs. Lois Clendenon of Osburn, Idaho, told how the Spirit of Prophecy counsels encouraged her in work-finishing projects—and received a $50 check from the Pacific Press and Representative Andy Running for the best entry from the Northwest. (11) Elder Running told, too, of the dedication of one youth who was healed and felt his life was spared for a special place in the Lord’s service. The story told in Dick Barron’s biography, COMES THE WHIRLWIND, was first introduced at the Youth Congress.

Love Patches

"Sewing Love Patches," is what the ladies of the Village Dorcas Society in College Place, Washington, call quilt making. And it took a lot of love and a lot of patches to make four hundred forty-one quilts last year. This year's goal is to make even more.

"How do we do it?"

We have an enthusiastic "Quilt Lady," as she is called, who has charge of the quilt department. Her enthusiasm is catching, so she has many helpers. There are three quilt frames where the ladies tie from six to fifteen quilts a week. A number of sewing machines are busy sewing blocks or binding quilts. Other ladies are whipping down the bindings or cutting blocks.

Several dear, little, old ladies, all of them past their threescore and ten, come hobbling in week after week and ask, "Do you have something I can do?"

Of course, there is work for every one. So with poor eyesight and crippled hands they rip garments to be cut into blocks, or unravel yarn, to be used in tying the quilts. Another cuts the heels and toes from the nylon hose, as the hose make excellent linings for washable quilts. These quilts are appreciated so much by mothers of large families whose quilts have to be laundered often.

Many, who cannot come to the Dorcas home to work, cut blocks and piece quilt tops in their homes. Even one elderly man cuts the blocks while his wife sews them into quilt tops.

One of our dear ladies, who is ninety-three, binds a quilt in her home every week. One week we did not send her a quilt for we had heard that she was not feeling well. She sent word to us, "Don't do that again. As long as the Lord gives me strength, I want to do that much for Him."

What do we do with that many quilts?

Many are given locally to needy families. Some have gone to our mission school in Alaska. Others are sent to Indian schools in the various states. Missionaries take quilts with them to the different mission fields. Many have been sent to a hospital in Mexico. Boxes of them go to Watsonville to be used in world-wide service, and of course, we keep a good supply on hand for any emergencies.

May all of those who have been so faithful in sewing "Love Patches" hear the "Well done" from the lips of the Master.

Wide Awake for Christ

Recently Pastor Willfred Degeraty received a phone call from a businessman in the Osburn-St. Maries District. This man and his wife have been attending the Adventist church although are not yet members themselves. On the phone he informed the pastor that he had been trying to talk religion to one of his business colleagues in the community but was not doing as good a job as he thought the pastor could do. An appointment was made with his colleague, and for three and one-half hours the pastor introduced Christ to the spiritually hungry man.

In talking with Pastor Degeraty he said, "I am of Lutheran background but feel that my church pastor isn't meeting my needs. He preaches philosophy and junk. My religious life seems void of something deeper. I've been to every church in this town (which, by the way, doesn't have a Seventh-day Adventist church in it) and I find the same thing in each church. They aren't preaching the Bible. Then I was told that if the Adventist preacher couldn't help me no one could."

What an opportunity to present Christ and Him crucified. Pastor Degeraty is personally studying with this man using "The Bible Says" lessons. Truly this is a great day for Seventh-day Adventists to be wide awake for Christ.

LEON CORNFORTH

Note: Now the businessman with whom Pastor Degeraty is studying has indicated that he wants to join our church.

Meet Miles Matthews!

Brother Miles Matthews was baptized in Aberdeen following the Hiner evangelistic series. Last December, when the Lord Jesus was invited to come into his heart, Miles had a great burden to witness to others; so, on March 17, he began canvassing in the Grays Harbor area. With great enthusiasm he went from door to door, putting in extra-long hours, and in just five weeks delivered over $2,000 worth of our good books.

He thanks God for his faithful wife, who stood by him these many years, and also for Pastor Parks, who stopped by and befriended him from time to time.

Brother Matthews gave up a good position as an X-ray technician at the Community Hospital to become a literature evangelist. What have you done for your Master?

The invitation to make the right choice now has an increasing note of urgency about it as this earth nears the end of time.

Skokomish Dental Clinic

Thanks to the donation of a complete second dental unit and supplies by a retired non-Adventist Shelton dentist, two SDA dentists were able to hold clinic for the Skokomish Indian community, treating over 15 patients, on Hood Canal near Shelton, Washington, Sunday, April 20.

Limited free dental service has been afforded once a month on Sunday afternoons by cooperating missionary-minded dentists for over a year and a half at the newly built Skokomish Health Center, but it was not till Sunday that two dentists could work simultaneously.

Honored at a special Health Club meeting at the clinic at 4 p.m. Sunday were Harry Deegan, D.M.D., donor of the equipment, and his wife. He had officiated twenty years before on the State Board of examiners for the two Adventist dentists helping that day.

Speeches were given by Joe Andrews, Indian leader of the Health Club; Doctors Jack Elvin, D.M.D., of Enumclaw, who donated the first dental unit to get the clinic started; and G. T. Chuljian, D.M.D., of Port Townsend. A group of students from Auburn Academy under the chaperonage of Mr. Wesley Parker, sang and spoke on temperance. A girls' trio composed of Denise Altman, Pam White and Kari Usko, sang several numbers, accompanied on the guitar and piano by John McGhee. Nancy Beck and John McGhee spoke on "Why I Do Not Smoke."

Other speakers were: Elders W. L. Murrill, president of the Washington Conference; Robert Burt, newly appointed Shelton pastor; and William McGhee, president of the L. D. McGhee Foundation, Inc., which furnished and equipped the building on the Lower Skokomish School grounds.

A film, "Becky," was shown.

Next dental clinic was announced for June 15.

As a result of the health thrust on the reservation, a Bible study group has been meeting for the past nine months at the home of Joe Andrews

Dr. Chace drew upon a rich background of personal preparation and experience to point out the real Christian and the Christ-like way of life. His theme, stated briefly, proposed that the

HISTORY

Nestled on a plateau between two rivers, Auburn Academy, a co-educational secondary boarding school was placed amid a dense forest in 1919 when it opened its doors as Western Washington Missionary Academy. Although a fire leveled the all-purpose building in 1921, the school continued to grow.

In 1930, the school's name officially was changed to Auburn Academy. Despite the depression years of the thirties, the school flourished under a balanced program of worship, study and work. Enrollment fluctuated during the forties with an upsurge following the end of World War II.

The furniture factory, a major source of labor for the students, burned in 1942. It was rebuilt and burned again in 1951. In January, 1967, Harris Pine Mills assumed management of the factory.

A major construction effort to rebuild Auburn Academy was begun in 1962. A modern, well-planned campus is the result.

The administration building, Scriven Hall, includes eleven classrooms, teacher and administrative offices and a library.

The dormitory, Witzel Hall, is the residence of the boys. Two dormitories, Nelson Hall and Gibson Hall, have been remodeled to accommodate the girls.

The cafeteria, Rudolph Hall, was completed in 1963. Rainier Auditorium, seating over 4,000 was constructed in 1958 and helps meet the recreational and educational needs. The music department is housed in the old administration building, and the industrial arts department has expanded into the service building. Plans for new buildings for these departments are being formulated. A shower-locker addition to the gymnasium is under construction. The ASAA Improvement Project for this school year is a swimming pool.

From the mid-fifties to the present, enrollment has fluctuated be-distinction of being the largest secondary boarding school operated by the General Conference in North America.

a dam on the South Umpqua River in southern Oregon would take little precedence. The engineer suggested that it could be as much as 17-27 years.

If and when the dam is finally built, it will create a lake about sixteen miles long which would cover the bottom farm land of the school but would leave the buildings intact.

Because of the element of uncertainty, the Conference officials and the administration of the school have placed it entirely in the hands of the Lord and are planning to "occupy until the Lord comes."

Big Lake Camp Sessions

Preliminary preparations assure a most pleasurable and spiritual week for your youth at Big Lake Camp at one of the up-coming summer sessions July 27 to August 31.

For the first time in Conference history, qualified paid college counselors will be on hand throughout the summer as well as the regular ministerial force. Because these youth must have employment for the entire summer period, camps will necessarily be co-ed—providing an even wider range of recreational activities and cultural training.

Fees set for camp attendance are only $25 per camper, covering meals, lodging, class and crafts expenses, and insurance. A $5 discount will be provided each additional member of the same family.

Because accommodations are limited to 160 per week, early reservation is important. Mail inquiries and $5 deposit to the MV Department, 605 SE 39th Avenue, Portland 97214.

Five camps are scheduled: Adventurers, aged nine, July 27-August 3; Teens, 14-16, August 3-10; Earliteens, 12, 13, August 10-17; Juniors, aged 11, August 17-24; and ten-year-old Juniors, August 24-31.

Will Milo Be Flooded Out?

No other academy of the nine in the North Pacific Union Conference has the distinction of being in such a precarious position. As I travel through the Oregon Conference and other parts of the Union, I am confronted with this question. In order to put minds at ease I have chosen to share with the readers of the GLEANER the facts, as I understand them.

M. L. MOOERS

Let me say first, that only God understands and knows what Milo's future will really be, but as one called to administer Milo's program I have tried to inform myself as to the problems the school faces. One of these is a lake.

An invitation was extended to me by the secretary of the South Umpqua Water Conservation Committee studying the proposed dam on the South Umpqua River. I was able to spend an hour in private conversation with the engineer who has made the study and developed the plans. He informed me that the plans for an earth-fill dam located a mile above Days Creek, Oregon, would be submitted to Congress this year.

I might say here, they did try to save Milo Academy by locating the dam above the school but could find no suitable site. The engineer indicated that if Congress approved the plans this year it would be at least seven years before we would have to discontinue operation. On the other hand, with a new government administration and heavy military expenditures in Vietnam it would be a good guess that

Meadow Glade Church News

Changing eating habits, learning calorie values of food, and stressing healthful living have done wonders for about 50 people who attended the weight control and physical fitness classes at the Battle Ground Service Center last month.

Conducted by Dr. Harry Park, Alvin McDowell, and Dr. Donald Coy, and two nurses each evening, the last night of the lecture-film-exercise demonstrations included a low-calorie sample meal served by the ladies of Dorcas.

Other plans of the Meadow Glade church show its second No Smoking Clinic this year scheduled for May 4-8 at the Service Center in Battle Ground, with Dr. Harry Park, Pastor Clyde Mundy, and Alvin McDowell coordinating the lectures. The February clinic was very successful, with about 25 people licking the smoking habit.

Twenty-four persons were baptized at the recent evangelistic meetings. Elder Duane Corwin of Vancouver had illustrated lectures each evening, and Pastor Clyde Mundy directed the music. Students from Columbia Academy helped with the ushering and the responses.

Elder Glenn Coon was also a guest speaker for a week of evening meetings as well as at the Academy during the day in April. The church has been blessed richly with spiritual emphasis this spring, and seeks now to put in practice before the community what has been learned.

MRS. LEONA ATKINS

News in Brief . . .

★ Three literature evangelists during the week of April 19 distributed 180 pieces of literature, signed eight for the Bible Course and gave seven Bible studies—in addition to placing in excess of $400 worth of literature per man. They were Ralph Gore, Albany; Clyde Payne, Gresham; and Gaylord Wimer, Gaston. They join the four other full-time workers and 12 part-time in soliciting your prayers for their influence.

★ Viola Huffman of Riddle has joined the Conference office family as secretary to Elder W. V. Clements in the Sabbath school department. Viola graduated from Milo Academy and Walla Walla College. Since that time she has served as a secretary at Glendale Adventist Hospital and United Medical Laboratories.

★ Clyde Payne is Oregon's first literature evangelist to have a $1,000 week.

Last month in a 60-hour week and 32 exhibitions, he totaled $1,386.40 in sales written up. More importantly, he gave away 882 pieces of literature, enrolled 28 in the Bible course, had prayer with 30 families, and conducted seven Bible studies.

★ Newly recruited Dave Brown, Ashland literature evangelist, has been blessed each week with nearly $500. And he gave 332 tracts, and 74 correspondence enrollments were made!

Idaho Camp Meeting 1969

"Consider Him" will be the over-all theme for camp meeting 1969 at Gem State Academy, Caldwell, Idaho, from June 12 through June 21.

Every morning at 6:30 the day will begin with the devotional. We are most fortunate to have Elder T. E. Unruh take charge of all the early morning meetings. He is a man of wide experience in the service of God. The devotionals will be under the theme "Adventures in Fellowship."

Plan now to spend all the time you possibly can at camp meeting this year. It will be good for all of us.

Idaho Listens

The challenge of the Listen Campaign has been met in the Idaho Conference in a grand finale! Better living for our friends and neighbors is a fervent wish of all our Conference members, and they have answered this need by responding with 1,652 Listen subscriptions. This figure represents a gain of nearly 1,000 subscriptions over last year's total!

Three churches—New Plymouth, Boise, and Eagle—have far exceeded their goal. We pay tribute to their pastors, F. S. Fowler, J. D. Nichol, and D. J. Masterjohn, as well as the temperance secretaries of these churches, Leo Reeve, Irwin Rogers, and Robert Hoag, for their outstanding leadership.

As was our Master's example, He first attended people's physical problems, and then when their hearts were open, pointed them heavenward.

It is our prayer that the Holy Spirit will attend those receiving these Listen gifts, and on that golden shore we shall learn the full extent of their witnessing.

La Grande Field School

For many months preparations have been going on for the La Grande Field School to be held in the new church in June. Elder Harold Turner, coordinator of evangelism for the North Pacific Union Conference, has organized some fine visitation teams that are working each week.

We are happy to announce that Elder Fred Hardin has moved to La Grande as pastor. He will help prepare for the evangelistic program and be song leader for the campaign. Elder and Mrs. Hardin will be in La Grande for a follow-through after the public meetings.

The Hardins spent many years in overseas service in Ceylon and Pakistan. Before their last overseas term they served in the Montavilla church in the Oregon Conference.

We welcome Elder and Mrs. Hardin to the Idaho Conference working staff.

Salmon News Briefs

★ The Salmon church has begun a church improvement campaign expected to take three months to complete. Major items include fireproofing the furnace room, installing railing, painting inside and out, constructing more storage shelves, and changing some doors to comply with local fire code.

★ At recent meetings, the women of the church chose six non-meat recipes suitable for Lenten dishes to serve to the interested community. The public service project was featured in four Salmon grocery stores, with even men showing keen interest. Recipes and a "Lenten Protein" fact sheet were eagerly taken.

★ Since last fall, one of the church members has been asked to sing four times to local civic groups.

★ It was recently disclosed that during the past year the Dorcas Society gave out 3,402 articles locally as well as packing 300 boxes containing 13,300 items for shipment to Watsonville, California. These and other voluntary activities took nearly 1,300 hours of work.

★ The pastor's wife was recently asked by the public school system to be pre-school PTA chairman for the coming school year.

★ The weekly Story Hour coinciding with the adult prayer meeting is drawing nearly as many non-church member children as church members' children.

Church Member Speaks To Local Organization

Recently a Salmon church member was asked to speak to the members of the Forest Service Auxiliary and guests from the American Legion Auxiliary concerning the church's disaster aid program.

The invitation came because of the church's help last September when one of the local residents was reported lost during a bow and arrow hunting trip in a treacherous portion of the Lemhi Mountain range.

At that time the church drew heavily from its own financial fund as well as co-ordinating scores of gifts of food and money from individuals, civic groups, and local merchants. In addition, many of the men of the church gave a day or more of their time to assist in the organized rock-by-rock search for the still-missing hunter. (Snowstorms halted the search until spring.)

During the ten-minute talk to the twenty Auxiliary women, attention was called to the world program of disaster aid carried on by the Adventist Church. After citing specific instances of well-publicized national disasters with a brief comment on local, Conference, and national aid available through the church, mention was made of the mobile kitchens used by Oregon and Washington, as well as to the lack of such in Idaho.

Immediately during the question-and-answer period the women wanted to know what was needed and how they could help.

Profiting from the last experience it was felt quick-energy food and hot or cool drinks, depending on the weather, were in constant demand. Needed for stocking a mobile kitchen would be large, heavy-duty, non-plastic containers. For other types of disaster aid a supply of blankets would be helpful. Considering local terrain, 4-wheel drive vehicles are at times a necessity. Nine such vehicles are available among local Adventist church members for use as needed.

Keen interest, with a readiness to help, was shown among the women. Because of the possible floods due to heavy snows and early break-up in the Salmon area this year, many wanted to know just what the local Adventist church could and would do and what additional help would be available through church channels.

The most frequently heard comment among the women was, "We didn't realize you did all of this."

Week of Prayer Speaker

Elder and Mrs. William Mansker led out in the program for Spring Week of Prayer at Mount Ellis Academy, April 13-19. Mrs. Mansker assisted in girls' counseling.

Elder Mansker is leader of the Sioux Falls, South Dakota, district and is a member of both the South Dakota and Northern Union Conference committees.

His themes for the devotional week were, "Do You Want to Go?" for the morning meetings and "Who Am I?" for the evening studies.

Elder and Mrs. William Mansker.

Friday evening he presented an evangelistic sermon, "The Seven Seals of Revelation."

Sabbath for church service the title of his message was, "I'll Go Where You Want Me to Go."

He also had a counseling schedule for those who wanted to have a personal word with him or Mrs. Mansker, met with students at the dormitories on alternate evenings, and visited classes. Mrs. Mansker talked to the Theology Club Sabbath morning, April 19, relating their experiences in founding a girls' school at the Changamwe Mission in Mombasa, Africa.

Courtesy Court

The Kalispell Seventh-day Adventist church school conducted their annual Courtesy King and Queen coronation ceremony at the school on Valentine's Day.

The Courtesy King and Queen and their court were chosen by vote of the students. Tied for Courtesy Kings were Jessie Brown and Lewis Shaw; Courtesy Queen was Glenda Brown; second place medal recipients were David Brown and Rebecca Dennison, and third place pin winners were Garr Brown and Laura Shaw.

The church school students under the direction of their teacher, Miss Donna Lee Seright, presented the program on courtesy before the coronation. Using the theme, "No Man Is an Island—Entire of Itself" from John Donne's meditation XVII, the youngsters recited poems, gave readings and sang songs illustrating that the actions of all concern each of us. This lesson was well offered in the singing of "No Man Is an Island" by the fifteen church school students.

MRS. EILEEN GILDER

These Kalispell church young people combined their efforts with the church school students in Ingathering to raise $1,354.22. Dwight Shaw (in school sweater, second from right) brought in $200 of that amount.

The three singing bands of the Kalispell church school with the solicitors in the front row. David Brown (left in front row) raised $103.55 in individual soliciting besides his singing band participation.

Kalispell Ingathering

The fifteen Kalispell church school students were organized into three singing bands under the direction of Mrs. John Gilder and Donna Lee Seright, church school teacher.

The students' own winter clothing was brightened by red and white neck scarves made by Mrs. Gilder with the addition of holiday corsages for the girls and red and white ear muffs or stocking caps for all.

Greeting those people who were home with "We Wish You a Merry Christmas," the singing bands continued with verses from a number of Christmas carols. Expressions of appreciation and friendly smiles were numerous from the generous donors.

When other young people of the church who were inspired by Miss Seright, also the Sabbath School Youth Department leader, gathered, the singing bands were enlarged to four or five groups. These fine, cooperative youngsters were blessed with contributions amounting to $842.88 as a result of their caroling.

Soliciting alone at other times, church school students raised $208.40 in addition to the singing band total. Seventh-grader David Brown was credited with $103.55 of that amount. Other Kalispell young people raised $309.19 in individual soliciting with a junior in high school, Dwight Shaw, a faithful ingatherer for years who reached the $200 mark.

The adults organized singing bands also under the direction of Pastor Wayne E. Moore, who, along with their regular soliciting and the $1,354.22 total of the church young people, helped to amass Kalispell's largest Ingathering total ever—$2,686.57. The Kalispell church prays that the work of God will go forth mightily in this valley and in other fields of endeavor as well.

The Budget

A Christian education is an investment that will reap lifelong benefits. It requires an investment of time, effort, and financial resources. Since the benefits of this type of education accrue not only to this life, but also to the life to come, it is an investment that is well worth the effort.

In order to plan effectively for college it is essential to have information relative to cost. In planning for attendance at Walla Walla College, the following financial information is given as a basis for realistic budgeting for the 1969-70 school year.

Tuition and Fees (16 hours)

$480 per quarter

Room Rental $115 per quarter

Board (monthly minimum)

$37 for women

$48 for men

Books and supplies may be purchased at the College Store. Allow $75-$100 per year for these items. Allowance must be made for personal needs and transportation. These will vary with the student, depending upon his spending habits and the distance from his home to the campus.

Following articles will explain the various forms of aid available at Walla Walla College including: student labor, scholarships, grants in aid, deferred payment plans and loans.

Vietnamese Church Project Assured

Two Walla Walla College students, veterans of the Vietnam conflict, not only spearheaded an ASWWC Christmas gift for a church in Vietnam, but later visited churches under the auspices of the College MV society where offerings augmented the funds.

Bob Davidson and Bert Jager told the story of the gospel in Vietnam to Adventist believers in the Idaho, Upper Columbia and Oregon conferences. A total of $2,053.35 is now held in a separate College Church savings account for a Vietnamese church, according to Elder C. O. Smith, College Church accountant.

Says Davidson: "We not only want to give thanks to churches and individuals, including some parents of students, but also to students at WWC for the $1,400 Christmas gift without which we could not have accomplished the goal of enough to build a church in Vietnam."

Jager has been selected as student missionary to carry out the building enterprise. As details develop, GLEANER readers will be kept informed.

School of Nursing Student Missionary

Judy Hamilton, WWC School of Nursing junior, has been selected as the Clinical Division student missionary to Indonesia this summer.

For approximately three months in Bandung, Java's second largest city, the student nurse will assist with the student nurse program at the 100-bed Kinah Sakit Adventist Hospital, take an active part in the program of the church, and help with clinics on the island.

Especially significant is selection of a hospital and School of Nursing where Miss Wilma L. Leazer, dean, WWC's School of Nursing, was director of the school and of nursing service from 1953-60. In fact, Miss Leazer arrived to direct the School of Nursing program in the Bandung hospital when the first class was arriving.

Miss Lois Wilson, formerly at the Portland Adventist Hospital, is currently in charge of nursing service and education at the hospital in Bandung.

University Band Plays Professor's Arrangement

An arrangement of Verdi's "Te Deum" by Lloyd Leno, assistant professor of music, was performed by the University of Arizona Symphonic Band in an April 10 concert on that university campus.

Professor Leno is a candidate for the degree of doctor of musical arts at the U. of A., currently there on a 15-month study leave. His arrangement was a transcription for band with two antiphonal brass choirs. A critique in a Tucson newspaper noted that "the brass choirs carried off the honors" and that "Leno preserved the reverent mood of the original work."

Staff Attend Conventions

Dr. John F. Stout, associate professor of biology, was a guest lecturer at Washington State University, lecturing at a graduate seminar and at an evening colloquium April 22.

Professional meetings took WWC faculty members off-campus during April. Attending the national Organization of American Historians convention in Philadelphia was Dr. Robert Henderson, chairman, department of history; the American Association of College Registrars and Admission Officers convention in Dallas, Texas, and a gathering of SDA registrars and admission officers, Miss Orpha Osborne, registrar; National Council of Teachers of Mathematics convention in Minneapolis, Melvin Lang, associate professor of mathematics; Pacific Northwest College English Teachers' regional conference in Tacoma, Gary Wiss, assistant professor of English.

Members of the department of education faculty in Portland for the national meeting of the Department of Audio-Visual Instruction of the NEA were Dr. E. S. Chace, chairman; R. E. Stahlnecker, associate professor and director of audio-visual services, and Marvin Pinder, audio-visual superintendent.
