Dear Members of the North Pacific Union:

Ingathering time is here. We in North America have great opportunities to contact our neighbors and friends in the community in a spiritual appeal. There never was a time when such unlimited openings present themselves to the S. D. A. Church to advance God's cause.

We were thrilled at the recent Autumn Council, as the report was given, of the progress of our world work during the past year. New members streaming from every direction of the compass totaling 156,464 have joined the Remnant Church during the last year.

There is a guiding Providence that has not only blessed in the past, but will direct in the future as plans are implemented to hasten the giving of God's last message to the world. Unprecedented events and unusual conditions around us indicate the urgency of our mission. This hour calls for unparalleled support by every church member in prayer and in service.

The Fall Council has voted the largest mission budget in our denominational history. This new Ingathering Appeal gives every member a part in raising $7,000,000 to send streams of gospel light around the world. Your dedication and spirited participation is needed. Our missionaries are counting on you!

Very cordially yours,

INGATHERING '70

The everlasting gospel is reaching out to the remote areas of the world. God's people are on the move. This is the time to attempt greater things for the Lord and His work. Ingathering has one ultimate objective which is sharing the light of salvation in Jesus Christ. Let every church member "consecrate his service this day unto the Lord."

This is the first Union report of $38,109 to open our new Ingathering appeal. From this beginning we want to advance week by week to attain victory by Christmastime. Challenge every church member to watch for souls and raise a $25 Vanguard goal. Let the battle cry be "Every church over the line by victory time!"

Special Bulletin on Monosodium Glutamate

WORTHINGTON, OHIO (November 4)—Worthington Foods, Inc. has observed closely the current controversy concerning the flavor enhancer known as monosodium glutamate. This substance, which is derived from vegetable protein, has been used freely in the Orient for nearly a hundred years and in the United States for many decades. We continue to believe that the product, as used in our foods, is harmless.

However, since use of this substance is being questioned, we have discontinued adding monosodium glutamate to Worthington products until such a time as scientific evidence proves it safe beyond any reasonable doubt. Because it will take a few months to obtain new labels, the products on your grocer's shelves may continue for a time to list MSG as an ingredient.

Worthington Foods is preparing a full discussion on this subject in the forthcoming issue of our publication, Tomorrow's Foods for Today's Homemaker. If you would like a copy, please write to Editor, Tomorrow's Foods, Worthington Foods, Inc., Worthington, Ohio 43085.

VOP Forms New Evangelistic Association

A new era in Voice of Prophecy soul-winning began recently with the first meeting at broadcast headquarters in Glendale, California, of the Voice of Prophecy Evangelistic Association, an organization designed to rapidly accelerate the "reaping" of Voice of Prophecy interests.

In attendance at the session were H. M. S. Richards, Jr., broadcast director and speaker, who heads the new association; Voice of Prophecy departmental heads who will have field evangelism responsibilities for the new unit; Gordon and Phyllis Henderson, crusade musicians; and Elders Daniel R. Guild and Fordyce Detamore, newly elected evangelists of the association.

"The Voice of Prophecy Evangelistic Association has been formed to provide reaping crusades in cities throughout America where the Voice of Prophecy Daily Broadcast has been held for either six months or one year," Pastor Richards said in explaining the association's purpose.

"Nearly 30 requests for such crusades are now on file at The Voice of Prophecy. Only through strong organization which seeks the most effective use of available personnel can this growing number of requests be answered. In the VOPEA we aim to provide this strong, effective organization whose only purpose is to win souls to Christ."

To meet the increase in crusade requests, Pastor Guild joins the Evangelistic Association having just returned to the United States from his missionary position as president of the Southeast Asia Union Mission of the Far Eastern Division. During the initial gathering of the association members, Elder Guild was assigned to crusades in Southern California and Jackson, Tennessee.

Also joining the Evangelistic Association is Elder Fordyce Detamore, one of the denomination's best-known evangelists. At the recent meeting he was scheduled to lead Voice of Prophecy Bible Crusades in Gentry, Arkansas; Enid, Oklahoma; Des Moines, Iowa; Eureka and Oakland, California; and Seattle, Washington.

Although heavily loaded with broadcast tasks, Pastor Richards was assigned at the meeting to 1970 crusades in Fresno, California, and Hutchinson, Kansas. Gordon and Phyllis Henderson were assigned to the Richards crusades, with additional service for the other evangelists as scheduling permits.

Other members of the Voice of Prophecy music team—the King's Heralds, Del Delker, Brad Braley, Wayne Hooper—were appointed to assist local musicians in most of the crusades.

During the session additional requests for Voice of Prophecy crusades were studied, as was a list of outstanding evangelists of the denomination desiring to join the newly formed Evangelistic Association.

Crusade promotion techniques, budgets, youth outreach through the crusades, and official assignment of association member responsibilities were also considered during the afternoon-long session.

"The future of The Voice of Prophecy Evangelistic Association is bright indeed," asserted Pastor Richards. "God is impressing His people to prepare the soil through the Daily Broadcast, and the requests for new crusades to reap the interests generated are coming almost every week to Glendale.

"The possibilities for the Voice of Prophecy Evangelistic Association are limited only by the degree of faith we at Voice of Prophecy headquarters, and faithful co-worker members in the field, exercise. And here at headquarters," the radio speaker said, "our faith is very great!"

Youth Magazine Name Sought

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Editors of the new Seventh-day Adventist youth magazine have announced a "Help the Happening" contest.

Aimed at finding a name for the new magazine, the contest invites suggestions from anyone between the ages of 16 and 30. One name to an entry blank is permitted. Contest closes December 15.

Describing the new magazine as a "bold weekly magazine for Seventh-day Adventist youth," the editor urges contestants to think in terms of a name that will fit the bright new format and content of the publication.

The person submitting the name selected will receive a first prize of $100. Second and third prizes of $50 and $25 will also be awarded. In event of a tie, the entry bearing the earliest postmark will receive the award, so an early response is indicated.

Contestants may use either cards provided by youth leaders of the church or entry blanks published in church periodicals. Entries should be mailed to Help the Happening, Review and Herald Publishing Association, Washington, D.C. 20012.

Planning for the new publication is progressing with the first issue scheduled for May, 1970.

The editors urge young writers to submit manuscripts or articles and story queries. "It's a senior youth publication," they say, "and we want thinking young people to consider this a platform from which they can share their thoughts and experiences and research. Articles may be secular or religious, but all must be written from the standpoint of Biblical Christianity."

Broadcast Pioneer Receives Pastor's Manual

Forty years ago H. M. S. Richards began his work as a radio broadcaster. Within a few years this local pastor became the inspiration for broadcasters not only in North America but around the world. His kindly encouragement led overseas countries to commence with their own programs.

For the pastor, too, he had words of help. Though the Voice of Prophecy now has a coverage of more than 1700 programs each week, Pastor Richards has always sought to have the local pastor involve himself in broadcasting.

When the General Conference Radio-Television Department asked J. Orville Iversen to write a manual on broadcasting for the local pastor, it was only natural that it should be dedicated to H. M. S. Richards. As Pastor Iversen said so succinctly, "Who else?"

The manual, So You're Going on the Air, printed by the Review and Herald, seeks to take the pastor step by step from the first nervous beginnings to successful broadcasting. Included are the actual scripts of a number of our most successful programs.

Pastor Richards commented on the book as follows: "This book was needed. It is the first up-to-date full coverage of radio and television procedure in the proclamation of the Word by Seventh-day Adventists. The author had had years of practical experience in this field, sustained by an interest and dedication that has never flagged. He was the one to write it."

Pastor Iversen has served the church as a broadcaster for many years and has worked as a departmental leader in the General Conference. At present he coordinates the production of radio and television releases and audio-visual presentations by the departments of the General Conference. His experience is revealed in So You're Going on the Air. Every pastor will benefit from the practical nature of the book.

The Reviewer

Christmas casts its magic spell over the land, and sometimes we're tempted to get lost in the wonderment of this special season. But however enchanted we become, we must some time consider how best to commemorate the season for those wonderful people on our Christmas list. Good books and records offer a type of lasting pleasure which will be appreciated by all your friends.

For good listening any time, we recommend "God Whispered to Me," a new album of gospel favorites sung by Larry Blackwell. This outstanding baritone singer is well known to television viewers in southern Ohio, where he has been the featured soloist for several years on the TV show, "At Home With Brother James." The Blendwrights, who back him musically on the show, are featured in two selections on the album.

Especially at Christmastime, your family and friends will enjoy an album of seasonal music by Brad and Olive Braley. "Silent Night" includes such favorites as "What Child Is This?" and the "Christmas Rhapsody." The Braleys are well known throughout the country for their unique piano and organ interpretations. Mrs. Braley's use of the electronic piano adds a new dimension to this album.

For the young folks on your gift list, pick up a copy of Secret in the Hayloft (3.95) by Josephine Cunningham Edwards. This new book from Southern Publishing Association is an outstanding collection of different stories for juniors, told in that inimitable Edwards style.

Want your friends to remember you with pleasure all during 1970? How about sending a subscription to one of our fine (but inexpensive) magazines? Adventist Home is perfect for young marrieds and parents. And Still Waters will start the day out right for anyone on your list.

For those small, last-minute remembrances, why not pick up several copies of Though the Winds Blow at your Book and Bible House? It's still on special for only $1.00 a copy, and it's a welcome way to let people know you're thinking of them.

Be merry!

HOSPITAL

Red Cross Blood Drive

On November 28, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., the semi-annual blood drive will be held at the Portland Adventist Hospital's Education Center. Last year there were more than sixty donors. It is hoped that the hospital can surpass this record by giving more than one hundred pints of blood this year.

A blood donation can be a vital thing, especially if you are on the receiving end. And statistically speaking, the chances of your having to need a blood transfusion are not as farfetched as you might wish them.

Although most people have blood to share, many are not blood donors because they have not experienced the need for blood or they are apprehensive about the needle. However, millions of individuals are living today because of donors who have overcome their fears and realized the importance of giving blood.

Blood donations are an absolute necessity for life. To fully meet the needs of physicians and surgeons in our community, blood of every group and type must be available at all times. Donors often respond when there is a special need or emergency, but the Red Cross depends much more on donors who are willing to give to meet day-by-day blood needs. The blood bank must rely on a constant stream of donors to keep a "river of blood" flowing each day.

Blood donors are special people. The balance between supply, demand, and human life depends on blood donors. What about you? Your concern can be a vital thing.

Marvin Reeder at Portland Adventist Hospital

Marvin Reeder, associate public relations secretary for the General Conference, visited Portland Adventist Hospital on October 23.

Elder Reeder was here to discuss the importance of public relations and how we can have better public relations. On Thursday morning he taped a twenty-minute television program which was aired in association with the REPORT and MEMO programs. Throughout the day he visited with personnel from the admitting office, personnel office, laboratory, physical therapy, x ray, shop, and pharmacy.

During the noon monthly administrative council, Elder Reeder explained the need for good public relations and what it takes from each of us to have good public relations. On Friday, October 24, Elder Reeder discussed with the hospital's House Committee public relations and its problems in a hospital setting. This was the first time that anyone from the General Conference Public Relations Department had visited the hospital for day-long seminars; and it was noted that more of this type of work should be done to make us aware of the importance of public relations in other areas of community service.

Marshall-Agnetta Farewell

On October 15 a farewell party was held for Ralph Marshall, Portland Adventist Hospital patients' business manager, and Vincent Agnetta, personnel director. Both Marshall and Agnetta have been at the hospital for more than five years and are well known by the employees. During the farewell, Assistant Administrator Don Ammon presented Marshall and Agnetta with matching leather golf bags and wood head covers. Mrs. Agnetta received an oven toaster and Mrs. Marshall a candy dish. Mrs. Agnetta was a charge nurse on 5-East, and Mrs. Marshall worked in the film library at the North Pacific Union Conference office.

Marshall has accepted a call to St. Helena Sanitarium and Hospital at Sanitarium, California, as patients' business manager. The Agnettas have gone to Glendale Adventist Hospital, Glendale, California, where he heads the purchasing department.

J. O. EMMERSON

100 Percent Involved

Total involvement by 100 percent increase in effectiveness is the current theme at the University Park Seventh-day Adventist church.

Motivation for this ambitious ideal comes through the inspired counsel found in Christian Service: "The great outpouring of the Spirit of God, which lightens the whole earth with His glory, will not come until we have enlightened people that know by experience what it means to be laborers together with God." (Page 253) Additional direction for the implementation of the plan was found on page 72. "The formation of small companies as a basis of Christian effort has been presented to me by One who cannot err."

The Sabbath school class is the "small company" through which to experience greater participation. A special plan has been devised to involve adult class members, kindergartners, and all those in between. The church's soul-winning activities, campaigns, distribution of literature, and study plans are all conducted through the class context.

The Sabbath school teacher is therefore the one who coordinates all church functions. This class leader not only supervises class discussion, but is also concerned with the spiritual welfare of his members and directs their activities in the church. Instead of the pastor and a small group of church leaders endeavoring to move the whole church, there are many leaders coordinating a united program for 2, 10, or 15 members.

Each Sabbath morning class leaders assemble to receive last-minute instructions from the pastor relative to the activity or program that will be presented on that day. Some time is spent in a final evaluation of the subject matter for class discussion.

As a class meets, special assignments are distributed, plans presented, and projects considered. This class time helps bring into focus the purpose of Bible study and an acquisition of information that enables one to serve acceptably. The lesson discussion then becomes a natural extension of man's need and willingness to serve.

"There is no limit to the usefulness of one who by putting self aside, makes room for the working of the Holy Spirit upon his heart."—Desire of Ages, p. 251.

Which Career?

One day each year at Milo Academy is devoted to in-depth evaluations of a variety of professional careers. Career Day was coordinated by John Christiansen, chairman of Counseling and Guidance.

The purpose of the special day is to encourage academy seniors to select a field of service to which they are best adapted and prepare for it with an appropriate college curriculum.

Lectures, demonstrations, and dialogues were shared by highly qualified personnel in medicine, education, trades, ministry, and science.

Careers in forestry were presented by Wallace Rainsberry, district engineer at the Tiller Ranger Station. Dentistry was presented by Dr. Leland Van Allen of Roseburg with Dr. Arthur Miller sharing information as a medical doctor. Dr. C. W. Campbell represented chiropractic medicine. The above-mentioned medical personnel all practice in Roseburg.

Elder Vernon Flory, personnel director at Portland Adventist Hospital, introduced a registered nurse, a licensed practical nurse, a representative of the hospital business office, plant service, and radiology.

Walla Walla General Hospital sent medical technologist Charles Ritchie and Robin Baker, physical therapist.

Walla Walla College representatives included teachers in engineering, secretarial science, business administration, education, mathematics, and library careers. Elder W. D. Blehm presented information concerning the Seventh-day Adventist ministry.

Pray that these young people will make right choices at this strategic time to enable them to serve well wherever God opens the way.

BERNADINE MOOERS

Laurelwood Senior Class Presentation Speaker

Dr. George Akers, academic dean, Walla Walla College, will be guest speaker for Laurelwood senior class presentation Saturday night, December 6.

Dr. Akers will also speak Sabbath morning at the worship hour. Prior to his Walla Walla College post, Dr. Akers was director of secondary education at Andrews University School of Graduate Studies.

Teachers' Convocation

Teachers from Oregon's forty-one elementary and 10-grade schools met for their annual convention at Gladstone Park, September 28-30. These teachers, 182 in number, came to this session for information and inspiration renewal. The program consisted of presentations by professionals in the fields of methods, materials, and communications.

The Oregon teacher family is led by Educational Superintendent H. D. Schwartz and associates F. D. Wilbur and Mrs. Lorraine Miller. Also present for the convention were Dr. T. W. Walters and V. A. Fullerton of the North Pacific Union Department of Education.

Besides the timely devotional presentations by local and union conference personnel, other guests from out of state brought appropriate information. Dr. Claude Cunningham, guidance and evaluation consultant for California Test Bureau, explained the value of the California Test of Basic Skills and Mental Maturity. These tests are now being used in Oregon schools. Miss Shirley Burton, director of public relations for the Pacific Union, discussed the importance of improving communications in all areas of educational service. Good public relations are prerequisite to a successful conveyance of information to young and old. Professor Larry Lewis and Mrs. Lucile Jones came from Walla Walla College to suggest more positive approaches in teaching classes in family life. New materials were presented to help establish this important subject in its proper light.

Audio-visual equipment demonstrations revealed new teaching aids to enable the instructor to illustrate his materials in a graphic and attractive fashion.

A highlight of the session came on Monday evening with the awarding of service pins. This recognition goes to teachers who have accomplished varying numbers of years in denominational education.

Receiving pins representing five years of service were: Larry Halleson, Portland Elementary; Bonnie Stuiwenga, Oceanlake; Elaine Bruington, Meadow Glade; Shirley Updegrave, Beaverton; Lilliebelle Harm, Cedar Creek; Aimee McHenry, Bandon; Orpha Atkins, Portland Elementary; Marion Dornbush, Albany; Marie Sharon, Salem; and Roman Hintz, Pleasant Hill.

Recognition for 10 years of denominational teaching was given John Dawes, Salem; Earl Black, Albany; Alfred Smith, Coos Bay; Richard Withers, The Dalles; Vera Olmsted, Longview; Harriet Lockwood, Longview; Luella Ogden, Grants Pass; Velma Gladden, Laurelwood; Eleanore Berndt, Oregon City; Bertha Gray, Pleasant Hill; Dorothy Noyes, Laurelwood; Zelda Mooney, Medford; and Amanda Wadsworth, The Dalles.

Pins rewarding 15 years of service were presented to Evelyn McMurray, Vancouver; Elverna Schornstein, Canyonville; Bernice Hanson, Medford; Doris Miles, Canyonville; Ruth Blixt, Molalla; Thelma Smelser, Hood River; Harriet Turvey, Roseburg; and LaVelle Walberg, Bend.

Twenty-year service pins were awarded to Palmer Robson, Portland Junior High; Lloyd Blom, Scappoose; William Garrison, principal, Tualatin Valley Junior Academy; Lorraine Miller, elementary supervisor, Oregon Conference; Alice Nelson, Madras; Faith Campbell, Salem; and Roberta Terrill, McMinnville.

Mabel Colvin, Tualatin Valley Junior Academy, and Wallace Haraden, Roseburg, were awarded with pins recognizing 25 years of educational service.

Pins representing 30 years' contribution to the progressive field of education were awarded to Elder Fred D. Wilbur, Oregon Conference assistant educational supervisor, and Bonnie Johnson of Medford.

To emphasize the spiritual nature of the church school teaching profession, Elder Don Gray, Oregon evangelism coordinator, challenged the teachers to introduce their students to Jesus Christ. He presented the Missionary Volunteer One-to-One approach, using the "Five Spiritual Facts" as a potential aid in the accomplishment of the Christian teacher's goal.

This dedicated army of teachers is charged with the responsibility of guiding our children in early teens. Let us all, as a conference constituency, resolve to hold up their hands as they oversee the struggle for youthful attention. May our intercessory prayers include a special remembrance for Seventh-day Adventist church school teachers.

Dr. Oosterval Speaker at Laurelwood

Dr. Gottfried Oosterval, professor of religion and missions at Andrews University, will be a guest on the Laurelwood campus, December 12 and 13. Dr. Oosterval will speak at the 7:30 p.m. vespers in the gymnasium on Friday. His Sabbath presentations will be given at the hour of divine worship and during a special 4:00 p.m. meeting.

Dr. Oosterval is a native of Rotterdam, Holland. He attended the John Calvin College in Holland and later the University of Utrecht. Upon completion of his work at the University of Utrecht, he was awarded the Doctor of Philosophy degree in anthropology and the Doctor of Literature degree in comparative religion and theology.

The Seventh-day Adventist Church has had the benefit of Dr. Oosterval's ministry since 1955. He has taught at Netherlands Junior College, the Royal Tropical Institute, and the University of the Philippines. He was president of the West Indian Training College, Sukarnapura, Indonesia, from 1960 to 1963, and dean of the College of Liberal Arts, Philippine Union College, 1964 to 1966.

Dr. Oosterval is becoming well known among Northwest Adventists. He has presented his dynamic appeal to congregations in Eugene, Oregon, and at Walla Walla College. You are cordially invited to share this treat with Laurelwood students and staff.

When a Roman Catholic nun presented lessons 1 and 2 for correction, she displayed a book which she had used as supplementary reading. It was God Speaks to Modern Man, opened to the page illustrating the image of Daniel 2. Where did she get it? One of the Sisters loaned it to her.

On the next visit there were two Sisters present. The second, the owner of the book, God Speaks to Modern Man. Where did she get it? Since her childhood her parents had doctored with a Seventh-day Adventist physician. He had maintained an interest in the family, even remembering

The Sisters found supplemental reading for the lessons on heaven in another book from the Christian physician. The Catholic Sister gave the Adventist visitor four typewritten pages copied from a publication of the Southern Publishing Association, Today's Amazing Universe, by Phillip L. Knox. The nuns were delighted with the description of the open space in Orion.

Describing her reaction to the Bible lessons offered by the It Is Written telecast, one of these Catholic Sisters said in a letter: "I must tell you, dear Pastor, that this is a joyful experience in my life, not because I haven't read the Scriptures, but because of the way it is presented. I am sure I am benefiting by it. A thousand thanks to you, Pastor."

Each one who has contributed to the television ministry by your offerings or by your prayers has had a part in making such experiences as this possible. Let us continue to give and to pray and to go forth with Bibles and lessons in Oregon's United Soulwinning Advande.

IDAHO

Associate Pastor

The Payette-Weiser-Vale district welcomes Associate Pastor and Mrs. Dennis Evans.

The Evanses arrived shortly after the first of September and have been active in the district work since their arrival.

Both attended Walla Walla College where Pastor Evans received his B.A. degree in theology last June. They were married September 7 at The Dalles, Oregon.

Pastor Evans, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Evans of Hood River, Oregon, takes speaking appointments in the three churches, helps with the building program in which the district is presently engaged and is available for pastoral calls.

Mrs. Evans is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnie Eilertsen of The Dalles, Oregon. She spent a recent school year in Norway, can speak the Norwegian language and knit beautiful Scandinavian ski sweaters and socks. Her musical ability and friendly personality make her a great asset to her husband's work.

Boise Investment

It was Sunday evening.

"Be there at 5:30," the bulletin had said. But the hands of the clock pointed to six before I could get away from the house.

As I drove up to the Boise Valley elementary school I noticed cars were parked all around the building. Opening the door I thought for a moment that I must be in the wrong place. The room was a beehive of activity and color was splashed everywhere.

A dozen booths had been constructed along both sides of the large auditorium. Corner posts were made from carpet tubes gleaned from the furniture store and wrapped barber style with white end remnants from the newspaper office and blue crepe paper from the dime store. Awnings had been erected overhead with more blue and white paper.

To my left three booths were decorated in fall colors and supervised by members from the children's divisions. The tables were loaded with pies, cakes, and salads. Along the back of the hall a table held bowls of sparkling punch and nearby stood a fat machine busily freezing homemade ice cream. In the kitchen several ladies in gorgeous chef's caps and aprons were fixing a large supply of those mouth-watering shamburgers. Chairs filled the remaining portion of the gym floor and most of them were occupied with people holding plates of food. Supper was in full swing.

Meanwhile, homemade and home-grown items from cellar to attic, fabric remnants and soap, were being sold from the booths. No one had been left out—there was even a booth with darts and balloons for the younger set.

At eight o'clock the auction began.

At 8:30, before the little folks had to be taken home and tucked in, the guest artist was brought on. If you have never watched Dan Knauff don fluorescent gloves and juggle multicolored balls behind blacklights in a dark room, you have missed something.

The house lights were switched back on and the Investment sale continued.

Pathfinders Offer Bibles

Added to the annual Halloween food gathering project this year was a new feature of offering a free gift Bible to each home contacted.

Ten thousand orange and black cards were printed and most of them were given out by Pathfinders. Some were used by those who stayed home to feed the hobgoblins who came to the door. A card in each sack and at each door where these were used has netted 122 requests for Bibles and study guides in the 20 churches where these were used.

The plan is that the young people of the churches will now follow up these requests. We recognize that not all will follow through the course, but there are bound to be many who will; and, no doubt, some will be brought to a fuller understanding of the will of God for their lives as a result of this new idea in evangelism.

Outdoorsmen Meet

The 1969 Annual Awards Dinner of the Blue Mountain Outdoor Club was held Sunday evening, November 2, in the Alaska Room of Kellogg Hall, Walla Walla College. After the meal a business meeting was held and the club officers for the new year were announced.

A special citation was given to Bill Witzleben of Portland, Oregon, designating him as the outstanding climber of the year. This honor was based on his thoughtful consideration of other people as well as the number of peaks climbed. An appropriate lapel pin accompanied the citation.

Dr. Ernest Booth presented an interesting travelogue on his recent trip along the Trans-Canada Highway. Certainly there is much beauty remaining in this old world. To see God in His handiwork is to deepen our love for the Creator and give true meaning to life.

All are cordially invited to participate in the activities of the Blue Mountain Outdoor Club during the coming year, which may include not only climbing but bird watching, star gazing, flowers, and hiking as well as other areas of interest.

Adding a new dimension to worship services on the Upper Columbia Academy campus is this new Rodgers church organ, installed in time for Amateur Hour weekend November 1. The $6,500 instrument features a solid-state console with five speaking channels of 500 watts, wide-range tone cabinets, and double-touch preset action. The organ replaces an old-model Hammond, which was inadequate for the size of the gymnasium and badly in need of repairs. Miss Eloise Sager, organ and piano teacher, is pictured above at the new organ.

the miserable attempt to reconstruct the broken pieces of one's life. His early education then was not from the classroom, but from a syringe inserted into the bloodstream. He is attempting to find life again—he and countless others like him need our prayers.

The true Christian life has its built-in adventures, thrills, and contentments, far exceeding those momentary exhibarations accompanied with a bitter aftermath, found through the world of drugs, with psychedelic lights and sounds. We, by adoption, are children of the heavenly Father, and the present as well as the future may be, by the grace of God, a rich heritage we may rightfully claim.

Listening Stations Added at Walla Walla Valley Academy

WWVA listening stations.

An acute need has finally been met for the teaching of foreign language and music appreciation; with the addition of five listening stations adjacent to the language classrooms.

Roberts equipment has been installed with tape decks in each station equipped with sound on sound playback and recording. These stations do not comprise a language lab, but rather they are listening stations for out-of-classroom learning.

Green River Pathfinders

Washington Conference Pathfinder clubs are off to an enthusiastic start. The Green River Valley Club is an example of a very active club. These Auburn juniors are emphasizing progressive classwork such as cookouts, Sabbath nature games, ten-mile hikes and edible wild plant parties.

Nearly every Pathfinder in the club pitched in with the "Food for the Needy" Halloween campaign. Nineteen bands collected 3,000 items to be packed by the Dorcas Society in baskets for delivery by the club. All those who took part in the Halloween campaign enjoyed a Saturday night party. The club had favorable publicity from the local newspaper and radio station.

The Green River Valley club is selling wood from the nearby furniture factory at Auburn Academy, and using the money for the building up of their club. In one week they delivered 15 loads of this wood.

Clubs throughout the Conference are working hard to perfect basic skills. At the annual spring investiture, honors will be awarded the Pathfinders

Outdoor Club Banquet

Two hundred outdoorsmen crowded into the all-purpose room of the Volunteer Park church for the annual Washington Conference Outdoor Club banquet November 2. Elder Joe Blahovich, pastor of the Volunteer Park church and very accomplished chef, served as cook for the record-breaking gathering of outdoor enthusiasts.

Mrs. Ginger Dunn, club president, invited Mr. and Mrs. Dale Dean to be featured guests of the banquet program. Mr. Dean was one of the men responsible for the capture of Namu, and has recently been involved with several other killer whale experiments and captures. He showed his very exciting close-up movies of the antics of this most ferocious of mammals.

Live music was presented throughout the banquet by Mr. Gordon Hood, Mr. Floyd Young, and Mr. Phil Hill, Auburn Academy student and violinist. Displays in the hall by the climbing committee and the photography club captured a great deal of attention.

Every church member of the Washington Conference is automatically a member of the Washington Outdoor Club, with all the privileges of involvement in the club activities. Those interested in Christian fellowship in the great out-of-doors can subscribe to the Outdoorsman through the Conference MV Department, Box 1585, Seattle 98103. The club is very active and provides a variety of outdoor activities throughout western Washington. The Outdoor Club is sponsored through the Conference MV Department.

Rotary Club Scholarship

A scholarship often makes the difference between an interrupted college course and continuing education. Philip Eagon, WWC senior history major and elementary education minor, knows how helpful a scholarship grant can be for he is the recipient of a $750 scholarship from the Walla Walla Rotary Club. The financial help will be paid in three sums, $250 each quarter.

A Walla Walla resident and graduate of local schools, Eagon is married to the former Renee Peterson. The couple have a two-year-old son. Both work during summers and the school year and look forward to the time Eagon can begin a teaching career.

Gruesbeck on Faculty

Kenneth Gruesbeck, graduate of Columbia Union College, Washington, D.C., and a professional printer, joined the Walla Walla College faculty this month to teach printing and lithography in the trade-technical school. He succeeds the late Claude Barrett.

Production manager of the College Press for the past five years, Mr. Gruesbeck had previous experience as manager of the Forest Lake Academy Press, Orlando, Florida; and as superintendent of the Southwestern Union College Press, Keene, Texas.

Forum Scholarship

Darlene Kelly, junior School of Nursing student from Bakersfield, California, is the recipient of the first scholarship given by the Walla Walla Adventist Forum, WWC's chapter of the Association of Adventist Forums.

The $300 scholarship, to be paid $100

Dr. George Wood (left), president of the Walla Walla Rotary Club which included WWC in its scholarship program by a gift of $750, is shown with Philip Eagon, recipient of the scholarship grant for a local student, and President Robert L. Reynolds, who is also a member of the Rotary Club.

a quarter, was designated "for a student of a racial minority who is a citizen of the United States and who has financial need," according to Professor Glenn Spring, chairman of the Forum scholarship committee.

Miss Kelly completed the licensed nurse training at Bakersfield and received the associate nurse's degree from LSC, LLU. She is now studying for the B.S. degree with a major in nursing from Walla Walla College.

Forum members are hoping that increasing interest of members and non-members in the scholarship program may make possible the giving of more and larger scholarship grants for the education of racial minority students at WWC.

Butterfat Mark Is Established

A new junior two-year division butterfat record has been established by a cow in the Walla Walla College dairy herd, according to word from the Holstein-Friesian Association.

Wawaco Gentleman Prospect 6590182 set the record of 4.3 per cent butterfat in 298 days of twice daily milkings. In the 17,230 pounds of milk, butterfat content was 744 pounds.

The same animal also ranked second in the all-time junior two-year division butterfat record in the state of Washington.

William Koenig is the WWC dairy farm superintendent. John Crosby is feeder of the herd, and Robert McChesney is superintendent of the milking.

Lucile Hall Jones in 'Who's Who in American Women'

Among those listed in Who's Who in American Women, 1970-71, is Lucile

Lucile Jones, state of Washington, to serve on the State Advisory Committee on Health Programs which will meet in Olympia, November 20 and 21.

Mrs. Jones received her B.S. degree in Nursing Education from Columbia Union College, Takoma Park, Maryland; her degree in Health Education from Oregon State University; and the M.A. degree in Education from WWC. She taught at three colleges before coming, with her husband, Dr. Carl T. Jones, professor of chemistry and chairman of the department, to WWC. These included Philippine Union College at Manila, P.I.

The WWC faculty member's master's degree thesis, "A School Health Program Evaluation Scale," is published in an appendix to the standard textbook, The School Health Program, by Carl L. Anderson. Mrs. Jones has lectured widely in her field of specialization.

In a relaxed mood between classes Professor Glenn Spring, chairman of the scholarship committee of The Walla Walla Adventist Forum, visited with Darlene Kelly, who has been selected as the first minority group student to receive the Forum's scholarship grant.
