From the Teacher's Side

By Sandy Finch

Throughout the past few months I've read several articles in various church journals about the value of a Christian education. These articles stressed the benefits of a Christian education for the students, the parents, and the church. But these articles didn't mention much about "what's in it?" for the teachers. After reading these education articles, I'd think about a conversation I had with a friend near the first of the summer.

We were discussing my first year of teaching, which had just ended the week before, when my friend leaned forward and with a searching look asked me, "Was it worth it?" Without hesitation, I emphatically responded, "Yes!" as a warm, happy feeling flooded through me accompanied by a kaleidoscope of memories: the first day of school when 20 students and I became the Care Bear Family . . . sharing hugs and handshakes at the end of each day . . . celebrating a special theme day each month and developing a tradition of bobbing for something like apples, oranges, corn on the cob, or boiled eggs . . . students coming to my home to celebrate their birthdays . . . the surprise birthday party for me complete with Care Bear-shaped cake and ice cream and the gift of a Care Bear quilt made by the students.

But the memories didn't stop there. Instead, sharing the most important part of my life came into center focus with memories of: holding hands in a circle and singing "Family" and Side by Side" as a part of worship every morning . . . sharing prayer requests and rejoicing in the answers for everything from pet cats and rabbits to parents needing a job . . . writing and performing our own play about Elijah . . . shopping during Christmas time at Waremart with all 20 students to purchase food for our gift to a family instead of buying presents for each other . . . regularly and enthusiastically performing sacred singing programs at Camlu Retirement Center and the constituent churches . . . hearing a student say at our Passover Celebration, "It's like teacher is Jesus and we're the disciples" . . . reading in a student's journal, "When I grow up, I want to be a teacher like you so I can teach children about Jesus."

These memories left no doubt in my mind. My first year of teaching was worth far more than the cost of my $40,000 WWC education and all the long hours spent at school without overtime pay because I gained a supportive, loving classroom family and that relationship was priceless!

Our relationship still continues even though I no longer teach those children. But beyond this family relationship on earth, the real "what's in it?" for me as a Christian teacher is knowing that those 20 students are truly members of my family for eternity because we share the same Father, God, and the same Big Brother, Jesus, and we plan to be together in heaven. Therefore in my opinion, the greatest fringe benefit of teaching in a Christian school is getting a head start on the family reunion God's planning for all of us in heaven.

P.S. A note to my school family present and future: When you look for my house in heaven, look for a huge mansion because I plan on having a room for each one of you!

About the Cover

Photographer Gary Lackie, Anchorage, Alaska, writes the cover was taken in Denali Park in the mountains above Polychrome Pass.

"I had spent most of the day hiking two other mountain ridges looking for sheep, bear and caribou. I hadn't seen any and I returned to the road and saw this caribou on a mountainside not far way. I climbed up and spent several hours taking pictures. He didn't seem to mind and I was able to get within 25 feet of him. I used to put my camera away when it rained, but you can miss a lot of good pictures that way."

Lackie, who is a foreman in a printing plant, uses a motordrive Canon FIN with Kodachrome 64 film.

A Response

In response to a letter criticizing church members in the Walla Walla Valley, may I present a few facts.

Regarding not being "involved in civic affairs," here are a few points:

1) College Place has always reached its United Way goal, and gone over, too. One person has served on its campaign team for 27 years, on its Board of Directors and as its president.

2) College Place meets goals for the Heart, Cancer and other drives.

3) College Place City Council and mayors strongly supported the Valley Transit bus system from its beginning and has two members on its Board now. (A thankless job if ever there was one.)

4) Our Helpline serves many community needs. (One Walla Walla citizen said it was the best thing our church ever did.)

5) College Place cooperates in a Dress a Living Doll effort and for toys at Christmas. (One of our members has been treasurer for their group in Walla Walla for many years.)

6) College Place residents support the Walla Walla Rescue Mission with food and other items.

7) Although College Place is about 60 percent non-Adventist, it supports the Walla Walla Symphony with 1/5 to 1/4 of its musicians and some officers of the organization.

8) College Place has an efficient volunteer ambulance service and fire department which answer calls for anyone in distress.

Walla Walla General Hospital is not the only denominationally operated hospital in the area and it has filled a need in the community for many years. Hundreds are grateful for the services and dedication of its staff who care for all regardless of race, sex or religion.

Our Community Service organizations give out hundreds of items of clothing and other necessities each year regardless of denominational connections.

Catch the Caboose?

There is no person named Sara Lyn Swaig. Her letter published in the Sept. 16 GLEANER has drawn a heavy response. Swaig, whatever she is, is a complete fabrication.

We were deceived.

We accepted the letter in good faith since it gave a Walla Walla street address. However, investigation has shown that the address is that of a Walla Walla Protestant church, whose pastor gave permission for the address to be used.

There is further information that we choose not to reveal. The case is closed.

We stand at the railroad tracks, egg on our face, waving goodbye to the caboose that never was.

VBS Materials

Another Vacation Bible School is over and again the same thought plagues me. How can I get a collection of inexpensive craft ideas for next year's program? Surely with all the VBS programs held in the Pacific Northwest there must be a wealth of ideas available.

I would be interested in compiling such a collection if interested persons would just type or print out the instructions and maybe include a sketch to go along with each craft. I would like to get this put together as soon as possible so we can start collecting needed items ahead of time.

If others are interested in this project they could write to me at: Bobbie Oetman, Route 1, Box 185C, Walla Walla, WA 99362.

I would be happy to share copies of this compilation with others for the cost it will involve to put it together.

Counting Mosquitoes

I've enjoyed reading the GLEANER since I learned to read. Love the cover pictures and enjoy the whole magazine, except bitter letters.

Did you count the mosquitoes on the lawn — April 1, 1985?

And on Aug. 5, 1985, the little "tree toad" didn't have to jump. He has feet to climb with. Thanks!

A Student Speaks

The sad but true decision to close Laurelwood Academy was made final on Aug. 18. Up until then there were still several students from Laurelwood who hadn't made a decision to go to school elsewhere, because prayers of faith and hope to keep Laurelwood open were continuous. Students, after realizing the fact that Laurelwood would definitely have closed doors for the 1985-86 school year, knew that they would have to go elsewhere. Not an easy realization, nor an easy decision to make. . . .

I, being an ex-student of Laurelwood Academy, want everyone to know that we are all having a hard time. Adjustments to fit in to a new school are hard to make.

Because we learned the Laurelwood spirit while we attended school there, we all have hope and faith that God will help us when the lonely times come.

We miss Laurelwood. The new schools are sometimes difficult changes from what we are used to, so I ask each reader to please remember us in your everyday prayers and in the prayers of your churches. We would appreciate it, and we do need them.

From the Editor

Ingathering, 1985-86

Even in this age when inflated dollar figures are referred to casually, the sum of $8 million isn't something to be taken lightly, especially in church work.

That's the amount members in North America raised for the 1984 Ingathering Campaign. One might have expected a substantial drop nationwide in this endeavor. However, the loss between 1984 and 1983 was only $32,463.

Ingathering is still going strong and is a viable program that results in hundreds of personal contacts each year. Many respond to the invitation to receive Bible studies.

North Pacific members are urged to have a part again this fall in this important continuing program of the church.

Davenport Recovery Program Continues

Funds continue to return from the Davenport Loan Program. Distribution to the various entities in the Union Conference is being made as quickly as possible.

Since last November $1,016,252.03 has been received. The detail is as follows:

Bankruptcy dividend	$678,667.51
Insurance	162,588.28
Collections on collateral	155,380.58
Interest (less expenses)	19,615.66

These figures do not include what local conferences may have received directly.

Our previous report indicated returns of $4,179,295.77. It is estimated that we will collect $1,144,000 on remaining collateral. We also anticipate another bankruptcy dividend but we do not have an accurate estimate at this time.

A comprehensive report will be ready by mid-summer 1986.

In the morning, at 1 1/4 hours before sunrise, in the southern skies, look for Mars (ENE — nearly 1/4 way up), Venus (ESE — near horizon), Halley's Comet (WSW — 1/2 way up), Aldebaran (WSW — 1/3 way up), Rigel (SW — 1/4 way up), Betelgeuse (SW — 1/2 way up) (both of Orion), Sirius (SSW — 1/4 way up), Castor and Pollux (SW to SSW — 3/4 way up), Procyon (SSW — 1/2 way up), Regulus (SE — more than 1/2 way up) and Spica (ESE — just coming up). In the northern skies, look for Capella (WNW — 2/3 way up), Arcturus (ENE — well above the horizon), the Dippers and Cassiopeia.

In the evening, in the southern skies, both Saturn and Mercury are in the skies for a short time but it may not get dark enough to see either. At 1 1/4 hours after sunset, in the southern skies, look for Jupiter (S — 1/4 way up), Vega (W — 2/3 way up), Altair (SSW — 1/2 way up), Deneb (W — near sky center) and Fomalhaut (SSE — near horizon). In the northern skies look for Capella (NE — above the horizon), Arcturus (WNW — near horizon), the Dippers and Cassiopeia.

On Nov. 9, Mars is near the moon. On Nov. 11, Venus is near the moon. On Nov. 14 Mercury is near the moon.

Miracles Attend Reopening Of Eugene, Ore., Center

By Jay E. Prall

The newly rebuilt Eugene Community Services Center was recently dedicated.

The garments and shoes were all placed on the racks with care, in knowledge that soon the community would be there.

It was the grand reopening of the Eugene Community Services Center. Just nine months earlier the center had been put out of commission by an arsonist's torch.

"I'll never forget that night," recounts Eugene Pastor Robert Heisler. "About 1 a.m. on Jan. 2 (1985) I received a call from the fire department informing me that a fire was raging out of control at the center."

A clothing drop chute into the locked building had provided the path for the arsonist's work. Though the building was gutted, a tongue-and-groove cedar ceiling had helped contain the fire and prevent the building from burning to the ground.

The smoky scene meant a new crisis for the church family and the temporary loss of a community resource. In 1984 more than 12,000 pieces of clothing and food worth $6,500 had been distributed to the community. An average caseload of 70 to 125 families had been handled each week.

Though the physical plant had been destroyed, the center's outreach could not be aborted. Temporary quarters had to be secured immediately.

What followed was a series of miracles.

"I had just looked at one property, but it was too small," recalls Heisler. "As I stood outside wondering what the solution might be, I noticed a realtor's sign on an adjacent property."

A quick survey of the exterior and a peek through the unoccupied building's windows confirmed that the property had possibilities.

A three-month lease was eventually signed, and insurance monies paid by the church's Risk Management Services made the temporary facility a reality. As the lease expired, finances again became an issue. The first miracle came when the building's owner offered the next three months rent-free.

Meanwhile, a contractor had been selected to rebuild the center's fire-ravaged hulk. Though not a Seventh-day Adventist, Richard Vejnaska, owner of Richard's Remodeling & Repairing, was aware of the denomination. Richard and his wife Sherryann had found a copy of Your Bible and You in a motel room on their honeymoon trip several years earlier.

"I was so impressed with the book that I ordered 100 copies so I could give them to family and friends," explained Vejnaska. "I carried the books on the front seat of my truck."

But another miracle was imminent. "I completed a building project for a customer," remembers Vejnaska. "Much to my surprise, the client gave me a large tip — something that had never happened to me before or since." That tip completely paid for the 100 books.

Norman Parmenter, a commercial painter and a member of the Eugene Church, suggested to Vejnaska that he submit a bid for the rebuilding project. The bid was accepted and Richard Vejnaska was once again rubbing shoulders with Seventh-day Adventists. "It's amazing how the Lord brings people together," muses Vejnaska.

Vejnaska, other builders, church leaders, community members, and representatives from the Eugene and Santa Clara congregations gathered September 29 at the rebuilt Community Services Center to enjoy the beauty of the refurbished center, to sing a praise to God "from whom all blessings flow," and to dedicate the facility once again to a ministry that reaches out without discrimination to those in need.

The center now features administrative offices, a large workroom, and racks of clothes and shelves of shoes that are just as professionally organized as in any department store. A small activity room has been created for children who visit the center with a parent. "We want to provide a 'hassle-free' shopping atmosphere for the parent," explains Marjorie Pfannmuller, the center's director.

The garments and shoes were all placed on the racks with care for the dedication of the recently rebuilt Eugene Community Services Center.

The staff includes a diverse group of people including 91-year-old Linda Boniface. During the current school year, several students from Emerald Junior Academy are also being included in the staffing plans. The center thrives on the efforts of many hands.

The miracles did not end with the rebuilding of the center, explains Santa Clara Pastor Richard Hall. A new home close to the rebuilt Community Services Center was being sought for the center's food distribution program, which is still housed at the temporary site.

In August the owners of adjacent properties were contacted regarding their willingness to sell. The owner of one lot noted that his property had been appraised at $23,000 but that he would sell it for $20,000. The church submitted a counter offer of $15,000 cash, but the offer was turned down. Due to the death of the owner's wife, the whole issue was temporarily put on hold.

Just before the opening of the rebuilt Community Services Center, however, Pastor Heisler received a call from the owner. The owner proposed to sell the property for $15,000 plus closing costs. Another miracle had taken place.

Eugene's Community Services Center has gone from tragedy to triumph. And from the crisis of the fire, new friendships and opportunities have been forged. Once again the community will find love and a caring church in action.

In one of the client interview rooms that relationship is spelled out on a familiar poster: "We may not have much, but we've got each other." →

Adventists Take Action To Relieve Suffering in Mexico

By Shirley Burton

Two staffers from the White Memorial Medical Center (WMMC) accompanied a ton-and-a-half shipment of medical supplies from six southern California hospitals to Mexico City from Los Angeles on Sept. 27. Arrangements were made by ADRA's

Shirley Burton writes from the General Conference Communication Department.

Haroldo Seidl, who had been there earlier in the week.

Their first-hand reports of the devastation, death, rescue, courage and determination now give us a picture of how we can help.

Pastor Seidl, Gracie Schaeffler, vice president for patient care at WMMC, and Eunice Diaz, director of health promotion, have confirmed six Adventist deaths (including the lay youth leader in Ciudad Guzman), with another seven missing. Three are still hospitalized.

Eliasib Sanchez Jimenez, president of the Central Mexican Conference, and Antonio Estrada, director of ACFE, Mexico's version of ADRA, have themselves been involved in the hand-to-hand digging. Seventy church members joined them for more than a week — and another 230 senior Pathfinders on Sabbath and Sunday. In 10 days of clean-up, they logged 38,000 hours.

A literature evangelist who left his wife at the Juarez Hospital (the one we've been seeing in television news) at 5 a.m. the morning of the quake for delivery of their firstborn, doesn't know if the delivery was ever completed.

A lady who has inherited her sister's two children to raise with her own has no house. Another elderly Adventist has lost all their belongings in Guzman.

Meanwhile, conference and ACFE officials have distributed one hundred thousand pesos (U.S. $300) to at least five families to help them get started again. Beginning Sept. 29, they assumed responsibility for feeding 1,000 families (about 5,000 persons) for the next six weeks. Estimated cost of this project, Pastor Sanchez says, is U.S. $63,000.

The second major ACFE project is the rebuilding of 50 homes in Ciudad Guzman, where 80 percent of the single-family housing was destroyed. (In Mexico City housing losses were in high-rises and multistory buildings.) Projected costs for this project are $5,000 each, according to Pastor Sanchez. Mario Ochoa, ADRA's acting director, would like to increase this to at least 100 homes. Volunteer Maranatha builders sent someone to explore their participation in the home rebuilding.

What has not yet been addressed is that when food bags run out, there will be at least 10,000 people without jobs. That's a devastation they are also thinking about.

The Inter-American Division has sent $15,000 to add to the Mexican Union's $5,000. Euro-Africa has voted $25,000. Pacific Union Conference congregations and hospitals have donated more than $100,000 cash. WMMC also offered a $10,000 challenge during a telethon of the Spanish International Network (SIN) which netted more than $5 million for all relief efforts just from the U.S. ADRA's board has voted $61,000 for immediate relief.

In addition, the six hospitals of AHS/West in Southern California donated the medicines from their own warehouse stocks.

(Adventist hospitals were mobilized after Mayor Tom Bradley of Los Angeles called Paul Tharp, vice president for marketing and public relations at WMMC, suggesting that Adventists were the ones who could do this. Mayor Bradley had himself been inspired

Healing in the Midst Of Tragedy

When the earthquake struck Mexico City on Thursday, Sept. 19, Lorena Maribel Sanchez Reyes, an 18-year-old Seventh-day Adventist, was in school with her two brothers.

As her school building crumbled about her, she was pinned beneath debris, a cross beam crushing her legs.

She wasn't rescued until nearly three days later (her two brothers had been rescued after 30 hours), and her crushed legs needed to be amputated. The following Sabbath, Sept. 28, she was visited in the hospital, where she was recovering, by Gracie Schaeffler, vice president of White

Memorial Medical Center in Los Angeles.

Schaeffler had come to Mexico with 3,100 pounds of medical supplies from her hospital and five other Southern California Adventist hospitals (Loma Linda University Medical Center, Glendale Adventist Medical Center, Paradise Valley Adventist Hospital, Simi Valley Adventist Hospital and Anacapa Adventist Hospital). Those supplies were to aid the relief efforts of the Adventist Development and Relief Agency (ADRA), and were just part of the aid that was to come directly from Adventist hospitals in the western United States and Adventist Health System/West (AHS/West).

Lorena Maribel Sanchez Reyes, victim of the Mexico earthquake, is visited on Sabbath, Sept. 28, by Gracie Schaeffler, vice president of White Memorial Medical Center, Los Angeles. Reyes, a Seventh-day Adventist, had been trapped beneath a cross beam of her school building for 66 hours before she was rescued; both of her legs had to be amputated following her rescue.

by a phone call from millionaire Armand Hammer, who said he would make his private planes available for the medicine flight. As it happened, however, his own planes were busy by the time the 3,000 pounds of medical supplies could be packaged, so Western Airlines provided free transportation.)

On Sunday, Sept. 29, WMMC held a Los Angeles News Conference for their staffers who had just returned from Mexico City with messages from Adventist leaders.

None of the 20 churches in Mexico City was damaged, nor were the rented quarters where the other 40 congregations meet. However, the Adventist church in Guzman was heavily damaged, according to the conference president.

What most impressed representatives from WMMC is "the courage of our members, as well as their attitudes. They say, 'We've lost everything except family,'" Grace says.

And she's impressed that they haven't lost their love for Jesus.

"I was fascinated by their total trust in God," Grace says. "Their less sophisticated, childlike trust, their advice not to challenge God, and their Christian love reminded me how much some of us have forgotten."

Baby Saved in Near-Fatal Accident

By Dennis Carlson

It was an ordinary day, an ordinary event, that was to turn into panic and shock, then relief and gratitude for Kellie Moore, a new member of the Kirkland Church. Kellie and her two sons, Nicholas, age 3, and Jeffrey, age 2½ months, were given a ride by another family member to pick up a pickup truck following service.

"The truck was parked on a slight incline, and we parked next to it, about five feet away," recalls Kellie. She continues, "My boys and I got out of the car and went over to the truck. I sat Jeffrey down between the truck and myself, about a foot or two away from the side of the truck door."

She got her keys out, helped Nicholas get into the cab, turned to speak to her sister-in-law, Ronda, who had driven her to pick up the truck, and at that moment Nicholas accidentally released the emergency brake on the truck. As the truck started to roll backward, the wheels turned to the right, and the left front tire was headed right straight for little Jeffrey strapped in his infant seat on the ground near the door on the driver's side of the truck.

The panic-crazed mother lunged for the emergency brake, and when the truck came to a stop, the wheel was right on top of little Jeffrey. "All I could see of him was his left shoulder and the back of his head. He was motionless, and I panicked. I was frantically emptying my purse in the parking lot, looking for my keys — I couldn't remember where I had put them after unlocking the truck door. As I was screaming for my keys and for my baby, Ronda yelled for help. Out of nowhere a tall man appeared and told Ronda to stand by Jeffrey, and for me to get into the truck and push the clutch pedal to the floor."

"In my confusion, I forgot to release the brake, but the man had the strength to push the truck forward about two feet, skidding the two rear wheels," recalled Kellie in amazement. She continued, "I was in such a state of shock that I couldn't even hear Jeffrey cry. But those around me were assuring me that he was. The man who had helped us stayed until emergency aid arrived." He had heard the frantic calls from the gas station nearby.

Jeffrey was taken quickly to the nearest hospital, where X-rays were taken. Miraculously he had no broken bones, even though his feet, which had taken most of the weight of the truck, were swollen about three times their normal size. He had bumps and bruises on his head and other parts of his body that had been squeezed by the side of the tire.

"With the entire weight of the truck on Jeffrey's feet, and the infant seat crushed beyond repair, I was amazed that there was no permanent damage to his feet."

Kellie and her husband Dan who is also a member of the Kirkland Church, can testify to the providence of God's protection for their little son on that day. "The power of God is always with us, and I never really felt it in me until this happened," Kellie testified. "To the man that helped me, I am forever thankful. To God, who saved my child, I am forever devoted," she concluded.

Kellie Moore with her two sons, infant Jeffrey and 3-year-old Nicholas.

Hispanic Group Organizes In Milton-Freewater, Ore.

By Ed Schwisow

The organization of the Milton-Freewater, Ore., Hispanic Company on Sept. 7 marked a new milestone in the rapid advance of Spanish-language evangelism in the Walla Walla Valley.

According to Jere Patzer, executive secretary of the Upper Columbia Conference, who officiated at the organization, the advance of Hispanic evangelism in the region is a bright spot of accomplishment in recent years. Patzer believes that the Milton-Freewater Hispanic Company will soon show the additional growth necessary to launch into full church status.

Located five miles south of the Washington-Oregon border in northeastern Oregon, Milton-Freewater is the seat of one of the oldest Northwestern English-speaking churches. The Hispanic company now meets in the youth chapel of the parent church, some 12 miles south of Walla Walla College.

As a group, the Hispanic members have been meeting for two years under the direction of Pastor Charles Brown and Hispanic leader Eddie Allen. Pastor Allen recently completed his coursework in theology at Walla Walla College and has been asked by the Upper Columbia Conference to continue as the company pastor.

The new company numbers more than 30 members, and charts its beginnings to personal and public evangelism conducted by Eman Collins, pastor of the Walla Walla Hispanic Church, and Robert Goransson,

Ed Schwisow is assistant editor of the GLEANER.

Four ministers took part in the organization of the Milton-Freewater Company. Charles Brown, pastor of the Milton-Freewater English Church; Jere Patzer, Upper Columbia Conference executive secretary; Eman Collins, pastor of the Walla Walla Hispanic Church; and Eddie Allen, pastor of the new company, took active roles in the special Sabbath celebration.

North Pacific Union Conference bilingual evangelist, two years ago.

During this time, dedicated lay members from the Walla Walla Valley churches joined in to befriend and guide those who showed an interest in the church. This group included Dr. Dan Palmer, Bernice Larrabee, Florence Palmer, Julia Overstreet, Lorena Cantrell, Maureen Carpenter and Lula Marsh.

Many of the 27 new members who joined the church during that crusade attend the Walla Walla Hispanic Church, but several now worship in the Milton-Freewater Company, closer to their homes.

In recent months, Revelation Seminars, coupled with health evangelism, have brought additional members into the Milton-Freewater Hispanic congregation.

practice in Milton-Freewater, joined with Pastor Allen in presenting the recent meetings. Fleck, who spent many years of his childhood and youth in Central America, gave his health lectures in Spanish.

The members of the Milton-Freewater Company find their primary ministry among the hundreds of Spanish-speaking families in the southern portion of the Walla Walla Valley. Many of these families are involved in seasonal agricultural work, and often live in work-camp communities. Others, however, are well established in the area, and make their full-time homes in the valley.

TODAY'S CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

'Mrs. Gardner, Will You Sign My Yearbook?'

By Susan Gardner

"Mrs. Gardner, could you write in my yearbook now?" I heard as I kept my eyes on the stack of tests I was grading. My right hand continued moving as I reached out with my left to receive the annual.

"Uh-huh," I said vaguely, for I hated to take my mind off my work. I had so much to do, but I finally looked up to see Jenny, truly wanting my farewell message in her annual before she left the academy.

"Will you sign mine, too, Jenny, while I sign yours?" I said.

She smiled and took the book to a desk not too far from mine.

I found the page with my picture and began with "Jenny, this year in English and Speech has been really something, hasn't it?"

That was an understatement, and if Jenny only knew the things I knew about the year. My ballpoint stopped writing as I looked out my classroom window at the field where a couple of boys were lazily throwing a football. Classes were over, seniors were practicing for graduation, lockers were being emptied of textbooks and personal treasures. Teachers were tired, sitting behind mountains of notebooks and tests to be graded, textbooks to be reshelfed, and paperwork to complete before leaving for the summer.

Momentarily, my mind drifted to memories of the past school year.

There were the problems my students had come to me with. Some of the problems

"The exciting thing for me as a Christian teacher is being in this place with young people like you who are growing in the Lord," wrote Mrs. Gardner as she reminisced while writing in Jenny's yearbook.

were about school. One of my favorite students — always dependable, bright, and reasonable — had academic and personal problems. She had been so discouraged as we talked, cried, and prayed together.

A quiet, sensitive senior was caught at the crossroads of a serious relationship. The two loved each other. How, then, could they stop physically? We talked and shared about this very real and very personal temptation to Adventist young people.

I returned to the moment at hand and began to write. "We've had a lot of fun times this year, haven't we? I hope you've enjoyed them as much as I have, Jenny," I wrote.

"There were the picnics, the banquets, the ski day, the speech class play, the senior trip to Cannon Beach, the talent program, and the basketball games, among other activities. There were the good times of fellowship and growth for all of us — students and teachers alike — that brought us closer together. Happy memories!"

"Don't forget . . ." I began to write as I remembered the personal high points of the year for me.

My thoughts turned to a Friday evening in February. A senior had stopped by on his way to a friend's for supper. As I put the cooked broccoli, green peppers, and onions into the soup kettle, I chatted with him. I could tell he wanted to tell me something.

"I've come to a decision. I wanted you to be one of the first to know. I'm going to be baptized."

His look of anticipation broke into a grin as I let out a whoop and grabbed him to give him a hug. Three years of praying, loving and nurturing were coming to fruition. I couldn't have been happier watching this muscular young man, shy but determined, giving his life to Jesus one Sabbath in May. Athlete, leader, friend — this young life was offered in service. As I stood in the large congregation, I couldn't stop the tears of joy. What an important witness to his friends and teachers. What a day of celebration!

I remembered the worship during the senior trip. When we joined hands for the last song, we found it hard to stifle the sadness in our hearts. As we knelt for prayer, each person added their personal prayer, and then the tears came. We weren't trying to be emotional — we just loved each other and our Lord.

I started to write again.

"Jenny, remember the week of prayer we had for the fourth-, fifth- and sixth-graders? We gave, but I think we were given to even more."

I remembered the faces of those elementary children as they watched the "big kids" — academy seniors — share their knowledge of Jesus. I felt the closeness of the ring of 30 seniors, 45 elementary students, and three teachers as we circled the chapel singing "Side by Side" at the top of our lungs.

"So, Jenny, you're graduating. I'll miss you. Don't forget this school, or your teachers, or the education we've tried to give you. Thanks for blessing my life this year. The exciting thing for me as a Christian teacher is being in this place with young people like you who are growing in the Lord. Come back and see me. I'm interested in what happens to you. God bless. Your teacher and friend, Mrs. G."

Seattle Hosts Major Risk Management Conference

By Dennis Carlson

Safety on the job is a deep concern of all employers, including Seventh-day Adventist churches, schools, hospitals, youth camps and other institutions. To coordinate this concern throughout the Seventh-day Adventist denomination, the General Conference Risk Management Services provides information, training and various insurance services for Adventist-owned facilities.

Loss Control directors and other leaders from Adventist conferences, colleges and universities, secondary and elementary schools, major medical institutions and other Adventist-owned entities met recently in Seattle for the annual Risk Management Conference. Emceed by outgoing communication director for Risk Management Services Jay Prall, the 135 attendees from all across the United States and Canada spent three full days dealing with the issues of risk management within the church.

Loss Control directors can be found in Seventh-day Adventist churches, schools, even Pathfinder clubs, as well as in the conferences and institutions of our church. These individuals watch carefully for safety hazards and promote a high degree of awareness of the factors of safety in the workplace.

A morning-long presentation at the Seattle conference by Attorney Robert Dalley of San Bernardino, focused on Workmen's Compensation issues facing Adventist employers. Robert G. Brand of Protection Consultants focused his presentation on the components of an effective safety program, and ways of handling the event of an accident on the job.

Health care benefits were the subject of the lecture by Adrian Zytoskee, Ph.D., corporate director of health promotion for Adventist Health Systems/West. He also emphasized the need for a strong program for promoting wellness, as well as preventing accident.

Against the background of several recent airline tragedies, the Risk Management Conference was transferred for one afternoon to the Boeing 747 and 767 assembly plant in Everett to tour the facility and to listen to the risk manager for Boeing, Walter Woodard.

Robert M. Kern, who represented Pacific Southwest Airlines in a case involving the fatal mid-air collision of a small private aircraft and a PSA jet over San Diego recently, shared with the attendees the issues of aviation liability, noting that the Adventist Church operates and owns a large number of aircraft and maintains airport and heliport landing sights at church-owned locations. Many Adventist employees are also pilots who fly occasionally on church business.

The escalating cost of all types of insurance that church-owned entities must carry was a major concern of all the Adventist leaders who were in attendance at the Risk Management Conference. The combination of the losses from the recent airline tragedies, natural disasters, the Union Carbide plant disaster in India, and the quickness of individuals who have been hurt to sue has fostered an atmosphere of alarm. Since what happens in the world affects the church, the loss control leaders mulled over ways to protect our church from catastrophic loss.

The spouses of the conference attendees met to listen to presentations on personal and home safety, health for success, and dress for success.

Sightseeing in the Pacific Northwest was also on the schedule for all of those who came for this conference. A trip to Victoria, British Columbia, and individual and guided tours of the Seattle area were blessed with both sunshine and rain. 🌧️

Australia's Aboriginal Work

Three and a half years ago an estimated 400 Australian aborigines attended Adventist churches. Today, after a concerted effort to reach out to these original Australians, the number has risen to nearly 3,000.

Aboriginal groups now meet in some 50 places across Australia, and four groups have their own churches. In addition, many aborigines have been assimilated into white congregations.

Fourteen Congregations

Filipino radio technician and part-time farmer Nicanor Borong has a passion for the gospel that has led to the establishment of 14 congregations with a total of some 600 members.

Baptized in 1951, Borong has faced religious bigotry and family opposition as he shares the good news. Yet his non-working hours from dawn until dusk are spent preparing people for baptism.

Currently, Borong is working to establish his 15th congregation.

Australian Youth Forfeits $50,000

Australian Adventist high school student Andrews Matthes, who recently won an Australia-wide Prince Charles look-alike competition, has surrendered his title and a $50,000 film contract because of Sabbath conflicts.

First prize was a three-week vacation in London and a $50,000 contract with Paramount Studios in Hollywood.

When a director from Paramount phoned to say that it was impossible to film totally outside Sabbath hours, Matthes, not willing to compromise his beliefs, surrendered the prize. The contest's runner-up has now taken his place.

Project: Steps to Christ

More than two million homes across the United States have had a chance to learn about salvation because of Project: Steps to Christ, a lay volunteer outreach dedicated to sharing the good news of salvation in the nation's approximately 82 million homes.

In Project: Steps to Christ, the initial contact with every home in a ZIP code area is through a packet containing the book Steps to Christ and invitations to listen to various Adventist radio and television programs, to request Bible studies, and to order additional free books, 10 of which are authored by Ellen G. White. Response has been positive.

Church May Be Re-Established

The way seems open for the Adventist Church to be re-established officially in Africa's Congo-Brazzaville, following meetings between church and government leaders in May and June. The Adventist Church, along with more than 30 other Christian and non-Christian religious bodies, has been banned since 1978. However, when church leaders met recently with various government officials, they reported positive contacts and suggest the church will be re-established when the matter is presented before the full council of government ministers.

The 1985 Seventh-day Adventist Yearbook lists three churches and 141 members in the country.

3,117 Baptized in Kisii Series

More than 3,100 people were baptized as a result of an evangelistic campaign in Kisii conducted by East African Union Ministerial director R. P. Stafford in April.

The Kenya National News Service reported the campaign's first baptismal service, giving it major television and radio coverage that evening.

Two recent newcomers to minister to the Korean congregations in Oregon Conference are Inkon Kim, Portland, and Sung Woo Park, Vancouver, Wash.

The Inkon Kim Family

Inkon Kim comes from Chicago, where he was pastor of the Chicago Korean Church. He and his wife Dorothy, who is an R.N., have two children. Their daughter, Esther Kwi Young, attends Andrews University and son Danny is a student at Portland Adventist Academy.

Sung Woo Park was recently pastor of the Edmonton, Alberta, Korean Church. His wife Young Soon is a dental technician. Their children are Carolyn, a student at Loma Linda University, La Sierra campus; Stella, a student at Pacific Union College; and Ben, who is attending Portland Adventist Academy.

IDAHO

Leon Cornforth has been named Idaho Conference executive secretary. This responsibility has been added to assignments in trust services, stewardship and church ministries which he has held in the Idaho Conference for some time.

Cornforth, a native of Aberdeen, Idaho, began full-time work for the church at Gem State Academy in 1949 as dean of men. Three years later, he was called into pastoral ministry.

In 1957, he was asked to direct the Lay Activities, Public Relations, Radio-TV and Temperance Departments for the Idaho Conference, assignments he carried for six years until he was called to the Upper Columbia Conference to direct Public Relations, Lay Activities and Religious Liberty Departments.

After eight years in Spokane, Wash., Cornforth and his wife Betty were called to the Georgia-Cumberland Conference in Atlanta where Leon directed the Lay Activities Department.

Cornforth later held similar responsibilities at the Arizona Conference in Phoenix before accepting a call as associate manager of the Pacific Press Periodical Department, a post he held until 1980.

That year he returned to Boise as the conference trust services and stewardship director. The church ministries assignment was added earlier this year. He carries these responsibilities in addition to his expanded administrative role.

Don Gray when he recently accepted a call to the Michigan Conference to direct the Personal Ministries and Sabbath School Departments there. During his years in Idaho, Gray also directed the conference ministerial association, a responsibility now assumed by Paul Nelson, Idaho Conference president.

During his five years in the Idaho Conference, Gray also directed a multimedia production ministry in conjunction with his responsibilities in evangelism and the ministerial association. Gray continues his production work in his new Michigan Conference assignment.

Nampa, Idaho, to speak with our members during Sabbath school. It was a privilege to hear firsthand experiences from Africa, and to meet someone to whom the church has been sending magazines, clothing and other help.

The occasion served as a reunion for the two visiting pastors because they had served with the Nampa pastor in Uganda in the 1960s. Alidekki had been an elementary school principal; Pifer, the field president; and Sequeira was Education, Home Missionary and Youth director.

Jenny Sequeira, the pastor's daughter and currently a student at Gem State Adventist Academy, was especially happy to meet with Alidekki. She was born in Uganda and has a special bond with the Ugandan people.

After Alidekki returned to his homeland there was a coup by the army. The government was overthrown and a new group of leaders took office. Some of our mission stations were located in areas where guerrillas attacked and looted our schools. Grace Robinson, a self-supporting missionary from America, was led to safety by her fellow-teachers. These African members appreciated the willing spirit of service shown by their "white-teacher" and took special care of her.

After having met with Pastor Christian Alidekki, the situation in the mission countries has more meaning to many members in Idaho.

Authors Stringfellow Speak To Payette Congregation

Widely publicized authors, Bill and Delores Stringfellow of Clermont, Fla.,

were recent guest speakers at the Payette Church. Bill spoke during the 11 o'clock worship hour. Delores (Dee) told her story of being married to an alcoholic that evening during the vesper hour.

Bill authored volumes I and II of All in the Name of the Lord. Dee's book of personal experiences is titled I Can Handle It. The two co-authored a self-help volume called You Can Go Up.

Stringfellow describes his book, All in the Name of the Lord, as a documented story of a worldwide hoax defrauding millions, and he urges people to discover that "swindle of swindles."

Bill and Delores Stringfellow, authors and speakers, come to Payette Church.

On a 13th Sabbath, when justly proud parents and grandparents have the joy of seeing the progress young Sabbath school members have made, this kindergarten class, under the leadership of Lyndell Anderson, presented an outstanding program. Each little one recited a favorite memory verse, all joined in singing "Jesus Loves Me" and other songs, and said the Lord's Prayer in unison. Awards were presented to those who had a perfect attendance record in Baker.

Sabbath school officers have been installed for a new church year; and many new challenges face us, among them, and most immediately, a new roof for our sanctuary.

Taking a glance back at the past quarter, we remember the return of Pastor and Mrs. Unterseher from General Conference and the full and interesting report they brought us. We recall the departure and safe return of our Pathfinders from Camp Hale, Colo., who, on two recent occasions, shared their experiences with us through slides and video. Pathfinder director Valerie Tachenko narrated events vividly, with input from her assistant, Faith Kenney, counselors, volunteers and the pathfinders themselves. We felt, almost, as if we were there.

Ingathering Contacts Lead to Two Baptisms in Payette, Idaho, Church

By Joyce D. Klocko

What greater joy than to see persons one has studied with for a long time make their decisions to join the church! That was the kind of thrill Mary Jane Zollbrecht and I felt after studying many times with Glenda Burrell and later with her mother, Hattie Doersch.

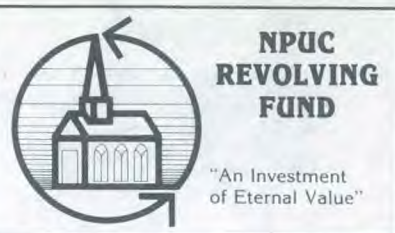

Here's how the Lord worked it out. Near Christmas time in '83, carolers had left Ingathering pamphlets with a card inside each one, offering free Bible study guides. Along with others in her Payette, Idaho, neighborhood, Glenda was impressed to send in her card.

Before long about a dozen cards requesting the free guides had accumulated at the church, and several calls were made to follow up the requests. Anxious to see more action in this matter, Mary Jane Zollbrecht picked up the bundle, and called me. "Come with me," she said. "Let's check these out."

Mother and daughter, Hattie Doersch and Glenda Burrell, extreme right, with Pastor Henry Zollbrecht, left, and the ladies who studied with them, Mary Jane Zollbrecht and Joyce D. Klocko.

As a result of our visits, we began studies in several homes and continued with five persons in three separate studies. We prayed together a great deal for the working of the Holy Spirit and encouraged each other during difficult times. We worked hard to keep our appointments and to gain decisions for Christ.

During a recent study, Hattie exclaimed through tears of conviction that she indeed wanted to follow all she had learned, but, she asked, "How do I prepare to join your church?" Mary Jane suggested that her pastor/husband could discuss this matter with her.

Meanwhile daughter Glenda had studied for far longer than her Mom and she, too, was ready to make the stand. In fact, it was due to Glenda's influence that her mother and a friend joined in the studies at Glenda's house. Glenda had willingly permitted us to begin the lessons all over again in order to accommodate first the friend and later, her mother.

It was a sad study one evening when it was learned that the friend would have to move to another state due to her job. Mother and daughter, however, studied on and also attended a Revelation Seminar and began coming to church.

When the day came for the two to join the church, Glenda's Adventist sister and other relatives from Hayfork, Calif., were in attendance. It is hard to describe the joy we felt when the decisions were sealed. How thankful we all were for the many answered prayers and for God's leading in the details.

When I suggested to Glenda, "Maybe you can go with me to give our next studies," the new convert's eyes glowed with excitement. "I think that would be nice!" she said.

Out-of-Doors Services Held By Custer Church Members

Custer Church members recently enjoyed a special out-of-doors service. Richard W. Knapp, pastor of the Livingston and Big Timber, Mont., churches, came by special invitation for a baby dedication and two baptisms. Services were held outdoors along the banks of the Yellowstone River.

Levi Watson, son of Mark and Shirley Strobbe Watson, was dedicated to the Lord, and Joe Kempf III and Travis Kempf were baptized. They are the sons of Joe Jr. and Karen Kempf. It was extra-special to have Pastor Knapp perform these ceremonies. He was the Billings-Custer-Hardin district pastor 21 years ago when he baptized Joe Kempf Jr. and Melvin Lich, the current elders at Custer. He also baptized Shirley Strobbe Watson while he was district pastor.

Portland Tabernacle Church Reviews 70 Years Progress

On Sabbath, Sept. 27, Portland's Tabernacle Church celebrated its 70th Anniversary with an attendance of about 800 persons.

C. Gerry Fisher, a former tabernacle Church pastor who now makes his home in Denver, Colo., gave the morning sermon. Ed Beck, Oregon Conference president, and Ralph Wyman of Grants Pass, Ore., also took part in the service. Lloyd Summers, a former associate pastor at the church, conducted the general Sabbath school lesson study.

The Tabernacle Orchestra presented worship in music during the morning services, along with the String Quartet, with Bess Bresee, Jim Hardin and Edwin and Harvey Teale in music appreciation.

For the evening vesper services a special feature was given by former pastor, Harvey Corwin (Mt. Tabor). Pastor John Clarkson, associate pastor, gave recognition to charter members and the many long-time members of 50 to 60 years. Anita Hawley reviewed the church's history. Singing was led by Pastor Wyman and guest singers were Pastor Joedy Melashenko (Hazel Dell) and family. This was truly an inspirational evening!

There is a lot of history behind this church. In 1915, a group organized under Pastor M. H. St. John, and services were held in the old Pythian Hall downtown. A tent was used on the corner of Southwest 13th and Morrison and meetings were held there. The first seven record books were lost through the years, but records have been kept from September 1930, to the present.

Growing Pains

In 1984 a $200,000 addition went up to house the much needed and expanded fellowship hall on the ground floor, as well as adding two more classrooms. The entire top floor is now known as the Tabernacle Gym with monthly programs of aerobics, basketball and volleyball. The kitchen was expanded with two large double ovens and a 16-ft. cooler, serving tables and new, round tables with padded chairs. The fireplace and leather loungers add to the zesty flavor of this special room.

The church has had its growing pains with a membership truly tri-county, presenting a special set of problems so different from the community church, or the smaller rural church. However, today, definite growth plans are under way. Two well-attended Revelation Seminars are being held in the spring and fall, along with other community interest programs.

Beginnings

Despite the fact that fire swept the west side of Portland in 1873, destroying all the wooden buildings in 22 blocks of the core city and left citizens apprehensive, Portland continued to grow through the use of the inexpensive and readily available products of the forest. Designers were adept with their Douglas Fir structures, as a sketch of the Tabernacle Church at S.W. 6th and Montgomery St. illustrates.

First the home of a Presbyterian congregation, the church was opened for services on July 18, 1884. In 1917 the Presbyterians moved out and the Adventists finally bought the property in 1926.

The building stood until October 1961, when Blue Cross of Oregon demolished it to make a site for its headquarters. That office building occupies the block but is known as the Water Service Building, having been purchased from Blue Cross by the City Bureau of Water Works in the late 1960s.

South Salem Celebrates Baptism, Pastoral Arrival

The baptism of Harriet Muniguia on her pastor's first Sabbath at his new parish in South Salem added a special blessing to the occasion.

Harriet says she has found peace in the Seventh-day Adventist beliefs, much more so than she had ever experienced in the church in which she has been an active member for years. "It was like the unfolding of a flower," she says.

A recent severe illness has made Harriet even more aware of the wonderful healing and cleansing power of Christ. Her daughter, Maria Adamson, was baptized into the Adventist church about five years ago. She had been praying for and working with her mother ever since. On the day of the baptism Maria's happiness equaled that of her mother.

This enhanced Pastor Dan McCulloch's and his family's first Sabbath at South Salem. Following his first worship talk, he and his family quickly became friends of everyone at a fellowship potluck dinner. They came from the Myrtle Creek/Winston district. Dan's exuberance as a Christian is infectious, and the members hope they can "catch" his spirit and carry it into the surrounding neighborhood.

NARRATES GOSPEL OF JOHN. Retired English teacher Ruth Phelps, 77, right, dramatically narrated the entire Gospel of John by memory to an attentive audience at the Canyonville Church recently. With pathos and deep feeling she took the audience through the 21 chapters of John in a moving two-hour presentation that kept listeners in their seats enthralled.

The following day, Sabbath, she presented her original production "Scenes From the Life of Ellen White," a 90-minute presentation, based on material from the early, middle and later years of Ellen White's life. Present for both sessions was Canyonville member Ellen Gilbert Kennedy, a grandniece of Ellen White, who knew Mrs. White as a youngster, prior to her death in 1915. Mrs. Kennedy also taught in her younger years. The two found they had much in common as they reminisced of the past.

Portland Graduate Ranks High in Scholarship Tests

Janesta Noland, a 1985 graduate of Portland Adventist Academy, has been named a semifinalist in the National Merit Scholarship Competition. Noland is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Carter Noland of Clackamas, Ore. She is now eligible to compete for $21 million of Merit Scholarship money to be awarded next spring.

More than one million juniors attending U.S. secondary schools take the qualifying test. The top scorers in each state, or less than half of one percent of each state's high school graduating class, are included in the group of semifinalists nationwide.

Noland completed her high school education in three years and graduated with honors with a GPA of 4.00. She was active in sports, music, and leadership positions while in academy. She is attending Pacific Union College this fall, planning a career in medicine.

This is the second semifinalist Portland Adventist Academy has had in as many years.

MILWAUKIE BAPTISM. Milwaukie Church members witnessed a special baptism at the time of an evening concert by the Heritage Singers. Pastor Dave Snyder, with the help of three strong men, baptized Frank Maas.

Frank, now a quadriplegic as a result of a 120-foot fall from a tree, played for the Heritage Singers several years ago. There were no dry eyes in the church as this very moving, sacred rite was performed.

For the past year-and-a-half the church has prayed for Frank as he has fought battle after battle for his life. (An article in the GLEANER some time back told of the miracle of Frank's surviving the fall.) During this time God has answered many prayers for his physical needs. He now drives his own car, though he needs help getting in and out of it. He is trying to raise money for a van which would eliminate the need for even this help.

But the greatest blessing of all is that God reached Frank with His love. To hear him talk, one would think he is a fully capable person without a problem in life. The glow on his face and the praise in his voice are an inspiration to all who know him. "I just praise the Lord for being with me like I have asked Him to. I pray that His love will flow through me so that others can get a blessing from my experience. I believe that's why I am alive."

Norton Completes Doctoral Study on Christian Service

Ed Norton, a Bible Labs coordinator in the Washington Conference, recently received a Doctor of Education degree from Andrews University School of Graduate Studies.

His dissertation was on the subject of the philosophy and practice of Christian service in Adventist schools. Based on his own convictions and research, as well as a lengthy questionnaire sent to all the academies of North America, the nearly 400-page tome outlines the theoretical basis for Christian service, and also lists ways to make it happen in Adventist schools.

Known in the Washington Conference as Bible Labs, Christian service is being taught and practiced extensively in Washington Conference schools.

Ed Norton has been one of two Bible Labs coordinators in the Washington Conference to help promote and establish this permanent curriculum in the 28 church schools and Auburn Academy.

"A new model for Christian education is needed. Not the traditional liberal arts subject-oriented model, but a Christ-centered, Bible-based, service-structured model," states Norton in the conclusion of his dissertation.

Having been a teacher himself during the past 30 years, Norton emphasizes: "The principles of Christian education can only be made alive through a teacher who has an experiential relation with God and who is living a life of selfless service to others."

Norton has been a teacher at Buena Vista Elementary School, Auburn Adventist Academy and Portland Adventist Academy; he was Professor of Theology for four years at River Platte College in Argentina, and taught for the Religion Department at Walla Walla College in the nursing program on the Portland campus.

Norton has also served as an administrator. He was for five years principal of Portland Adventist Academy, and for four years principal of Milo Adventist Academy. Based on that administrative experience, he can state that "The alteration of the traditional subject-oriented schedule to include service learning (or Bible Labs) is one of the most difficult tasks with which the administrator and curriculum committee are faced. However, a commitment to the Christian educational philosophy and tactful perseverance will eventually prove successful."

Yakima Students Earn Tuition in Summer Work

An unusual work program promoted in the Yakima area has given tuition assistance to some students at Yakima Adventist Junior Academy for the 1985-86 school year.

Tom Riley, Walla Walla College student, supervised 11 students, ages 12-16, in the work program for 10 weeks. He found the jobs by personal contact as well as inserting "ads" in the Penny Press.

Work of all kinds came in — fence painting, window washing, yard cleanup, house painting, and lots of weeding. Cutting the huge church lawn was also done each week.

Tom did not believe in "all work, no play." He, with the help of church members, provided recreational features several times a week, after the work day. The last day of the summer program ended with a picnic supper, bringing parents and workers together for a social time and games.

In appraising the program, Collette Pekar, pastoral director, felt it had proved a success and recommended a similar plan be followed next summer.

Jog-a-Thon

Beginning early Thursday morning, Sept. 26, the students from Mountain View Adventist School in Cashmere climbed, crawled, walked, and ran on a 20-mile Jog-a-Thon up Ingalls Pass near Blewett Pass.

Volunteers Aid Building Of Countryside School

Twenty-two volunteers from Maranatha Flights International joined local members in the construction of a school for the Spokane Countryside School.

Previously housed in the basement of the church, the students and their teacher Ray Hall will soon move into the commodious two-story structure.

Two classrooms are located on the first floor and the daylight basement houses two additional rooms. Ray Powell, a Toppenish, Wash., contractor, supervised the building construction.

Countryside Pastor Loren Fenton said the construction of the school resulted in much publicity. Two Spokane television stations carried extensive coverage about the volunteer building project.

It didn't take long for volunteers to get a fast start on the construction of the Countryside School.

Construction superintendent Ray Powell checks the fit of a rafter on the new school.

Countryside principal Ray Hall adds his labor to the construction of the school.

BABY DEDICATION. Four babies were dedicated recently in the Deer Park Church. They include the daughters of Tim and Ann Rogers, Dan and Bev Roberts, Mark and Wendy Herbes and Perry and Judy Bryant.

Participating in the ceremony were the church elders and the pastor. From the left are Cliff Turner, Pastor Ewart Brown, Ron West, and Jim Vickeray.

Brewster Has Large Class Of First-Grade Students

Teacher Maribeth Burns greeted 10 eager-beaver first graders when classes opened at the Brewster Adventist School. Topping the record for starters in the local school, the class made up almost one-quarter of the nine-grade enrollment of 39.

Two new teachers joined the staff this summer.

Principal Ron Eckert, a 1967 Walla Walla College graduate, teaches grades seven through nine. He and wife Carol, who also attended WWC, have two daughters, Ronaldyn and Julene, both seniors at Columbia Academy.

Bob Finkbiner, a 1976 WWC graduate, teaches the intermediate grades. His wife Cynthia graduated from the WWC School of Nursing. Their children, Lanaya, 7, and Broc, 8, are in Mrs. Burns' room.

Mrs. Burns, married to commercial fisherman Ed, taught here the past two years. Their children are Edee, 13, and David 11.

New teachers at the Brewster school include, from the left, Principal Ron Eckert, Maribeth Burns and Robert Finkbiner.

Ten new first-graders at the Brewster School make up almost one-quarter of the total enrollment.

General News

After the "wettest wet season" in years (14 inches during August alone), the local Jim Neighbors Equipment Company unloaded a D-8 Caterpillar bulldozer at the access road entrance to the new Adventist World Radio — Asia property on Facpi Point Sept. 11. A week and intermittent showers later, about 500 feet of the roadway had been compacted and rolled into shape. Payloaders began dumping crushed coral, Guam's special brand of "gravel," for roadmaking, anticipating completion of the 2,368-foot access from Guam Highway 2 to the transmitter and broadcast center site on Mt. Lamlam by early October.

It Is Written Telecast To Air Special Features

"The Godfather's Revenge" is one of three new television shows presented by It Is Written this November. Scheduled for release Sunday, Nov. 3, "Godfather" describes the revenge of Mafia bosses on the families of those who expose their crimes. Speaker/director George Vandeman uses this story to illustrate what lies behind Satan's war against God's people. "But," he concludes, "we're not just helpless victims in this war. We have a powerful weapon with which to fight back."

On Sunday, Nov. 10, the telecast presents a special nature documentary, "The Tiniest Wonder." The fascinating and sometimes unpredictable world of ants is explored by Pastor Vandeman, a long-time nature lover who describes these tiny wonders as "incurably cooperative creatures." Beautiful color film footage highlights this unique half-hour program ideal for family viewing.

Senator Edward Kennedy declared recently that "this nation is becoming an arsenal of criminal activity." As George Vandeman describes it, "Fifty million handguns are the smoking symbol of our violence, the silent measure of our fear. Today's exploding permissiveness and crime epidemic have created whole new industries built on fear. New York City's afraid. L.A.'s afraid. Chicago's afraid. Everybody's afraid." Pastor Vandeman looks for the answers in "Hope in an Age of Terror," Sunday, Nov. 17.

Church members are encouraged to invite their friends and neighbors to enjoy these special It Is Written telecasts with them. Check local listings for the time and channel in your area.

Walla Walla College

Turpel Asked to Direct College Advancement

W. Paul Turpel, currently director of alumni and acting director of development for Walla Walla College, has been named the college's new vice president for college advancement by WWC President H. J. Bergman, pending final approval by the board of trustees.

The title is new and replaces the vice president for development. According to Bergman, the new position will be "responsible for programs involved in advancing the interests of the college."

Turpel, who will assume his new responsibilities immediately, said he is excited about the new position. "At this point we are hoping to be able to enter a major capital campaign in the next 24 months."

Before coming to WWC in July 1984, Turpel spent 25 years in marketing at Pacific Press Publishing Association, currently in Boise, Idaho. The last seven years he served as marketing manager for the press.

Bergman said Turpel was chosen for the job because of his familiarity with the WWC program. "His experience in marketing, development, and alumni gives him a good background for spearheading advancement projects in the future," Bergman added. Turpel was one of nearly 30 people whose names were submitted and considered by the president's cabinet.

Turpel, an alumnus of WWC, graduated in 1955 with a bachelor of arts degree in business administration.

Richard Beck, previously the college's vice president for development, joined the Alaska Conference of Seventh-day Adventists as treasurer in July.

Portland Adventists on TV

The Portland, Ore., University Park Church embarks on a bold, new venture beginning Nov. 4, with the airing of its new television series, IN-CITE, in the Portland area.

Hosted by Pastor Bruce Campbell Moyer and produced and directed by Associate Pastor Garrett Caldwell, the program will focus on a number of helping agencies and people in the metropolitan area. It will be aired over cable television on Channel 7, Sundays at 3 p.m., Mondays at 8:30 p.m., and Thursdays at 8 p.m. Numerous members of the University Park Church are involved in helping produce and film these programs through the Portland Cable Access Facility.

Other programs with different formats are also being considered and are in the process of development at this time.

Portland-area Adventists are encouraged to invite their friends to watch this program which is designed to be of general interest to a variety of age groups.

AAA Church Dedication

The Auburn Adventist Academy Church dedication will be held Nov. 23 at 3 p.m. The 11 o'clock service will also honor the dedication. The church was a conference-wide project constructed in 1980.

Give Yourself A Hand.

Starting out in any profession can be tough... and working for the church is no exception.

But maybe we can make it a little easier. By joining Adventist Youth Taskforce, you can get "hands-on" experience in practically any of the hundreds of available denominational professions. And while we're helping you learn, you'll be using your special strengths and skills to help your church in some much needed areas.

So if you're between 16 and 31 years old and feel the need to do something positive in your life, consider sharing three to fifteen months with Taskforce.

For more information about Taskforce, contact your conference youth director, campus chaplain, or your pastor.

Send information on these individuals to Pastor Rick Quast, Lacey Seventh-day Adventist Church, P.O. Box 3622, Lacey, WA 98503.

Special TV Program

"The Tiniest Wonder," a special nature presentation, will be broadcast nationwide Sunday, Nov. 10, on It Is Written. Parents of school-age children will want to enjoy this educational half hour together as a family.

This unique telecast explores the fascinating world of:

- Savu ants of the Amazon that clean and cultivate the luxuriant forest floor in an efficient "cycle of life."

- Weaver ants that join their bodies together into chains which swing, Tarzan-style, from leaf to leaf in their nest-building.

- An ant colony's suicide mission that conquers a pool of water and a barrier of glue to reach the coveted chocolate cake — and win a $100 bet!

- The self-sacrificing sentry ants that actually cause their own bodies to explode, sending a chemical alarm to warn other ants of danger.

Rare film footage prepared by producer David Jones provides a colorful close-up glimpse into the creative and complex ant kingdom.

Books Wanted

Hood View Organ Concert

Third in the fall-winter series of monthly vesper music programs at the Hood View Church, Boring, Ore., will be an organ concert at 4 p.m., Sabbath, Nov. 16, featuring Marla Unterseher. She is a senior music major and I Cantori Singers accompanist at Walla Walla College.

Marla grew up in Forest Grove and other Oregon cities where her father was pastor. For several years, beginning when she was in the sixth grade, she was accompanist for the Hood View Jr. Academy choir. She has studied music with Lois Hall in Portland, Frank Kravig and Dr. Bratt in Idaho, Dr. Melvin West at Union College in Nebraska, and now with Dr. Janet Satre of Spokane.

Marla will present some familiar hymn arrangements and music by composers Bach, Durufle, Buxtehude, Schroeder and Franck on the three-manual, digital computer Allen organ.

Come early for congregational singing.

Anniversary Noted

Mr. and Mrs. Peter William Borris celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Dec. 18, 1984, in Sun City, Ariz. They were married in La Grange, Ill.

The Borrises built and started Eden Valley Institute, Loveland, Colo., and have owned and operated nursing homes in Colorado and Oregon.

They have four children, Barbara Hutchinson, Fort Lupton, Colo.; Charles, Eugene, Ore.; Deborah Wilson, Cottage Grove, Ore.; and Marlene Schrock.

Ann and Peter William Borris

Weekend Reunion

Friends and relatives of Ray and Vera Michel joined to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary in Seattle the weekend of June 15. Their children, Davis and Laurel Michel, Alvin and Verla Kwiram, and Lyla Neumann, hosted a weekend family reunion and anniversary celebration in honor of their parents. Also honoring the Michels were Greek foster daughters Alik Grivas-Snow and Demetra Andreasen.

Married Aug. 25, 1935, in Buhl, Idaho, the Michels spent their early years together at Walla Walla College. Michel was employed several years in the Washington Conference. The family moved to Portland in 1952, where together they started and ran several successful businesses including United Medical Labs.

How Do You Reach 1.8 MILLION PEOPLE WITH THE GOSPEL EVERY WEEK?

Just ask the Seventh-day Adventists of Denver. They'll be accomplishing this feat during the entire first quarter of 1986 through advertising.

Early in 1985, the pastors, church boards, and area church members voted to conduct a fascinating 13-week advertising thrust into Greater Denver. The Denver churches will be using newspaper ads, radio and television spots to tell their story.

When the Seventh-day Adventist Churches of Spokane conducted a similar campaign recently, more than 800 non-members telephoned their reservations for the Revelation Seminar meetings which followed the awareness advertising.

According to Mike Jones of the Pihas, Schmidt, Westerdahl advertising agency of Portland, Oregon, "This is what can happen when our pastors and our people, rather than working separately, unite together to accomplish a common objective."

For further information about how your church or churches can reach out to your immediate world through Adventist Awareness Advertising, call or write Mike Jones at PSW.

Lesson Help Book First Quarter 1986

This book is a section-by-section study of the book of Ephesians. Written by Dr. Mario Veloso, Prison Papers is designed to accompany the Sabbath School lessons for the first quarter of 1986.

The epistle to the Ephesians was written by the apostle Paul while under house arrest about A.D. 62. Written to Ephesian believers to foster unity among them, the letter contains valuable counsel for the Christian church today.

Prison Papers From a Captive Ambassador is available in English or Spanish for only US $5.95/ Cdn $7.95 at your Adventist Book Center or from Pacific Press Publishing Association, Box 7000, Boise, Idaho 83707.

"I keep in touch."

"I'm a busy person. I have a big family to care for, and another demanding job at the office! So I'm particular about the way I spend my precious spare time. Reading the Adventist Review is a priority, however. I want to know what's going on in the church and what other Adventists are thinking. I also like to keep track of old friends. The Review does all this for me—better than any other magazine could.

"Spiritually, the Review really nourishes me. The articles inspire me and make me think. And the

Person-to-Person

Advertisements for this section are accepted from North Pacific Union Conference single adults only. Each ad must be accompanied by a letter from an NPUC Adventist pastor indicating that the person is an NPUC member in good standing.

The charge for each ad is $14 per insertion for 50 words or less, 50¢ for each additional word. Payment must accompany the ad. There is no billing.

If you wish to respond to an advertisement, the following rules apply: You must be an NPUC member in good standing and must attach a letter from your pastor indicating this. These letters are kept on file. If a person has advertised or responded to an ad in the past, it isn't necessary to send an additional pastoral letter of approval.

The GLEANER assumes no responsibility as to the marital status of respondents or advertisers except that they are North Pacific Union Conference members in good standing.

Put your letter to the individual in a stamped, sealed envelope and place the identification number on the outside. Put this letter in another envelope and mail it to Person to Person, GLEANER, Box 16677, Portland, OR 97216.

Please put your FULL NAME and RETURN ADDRESS on ALL envelopes you send to us. We do not forward unmarked mail.

#384

Creative, homeloving, businesswoman, mid-30s, affectionate, incurable romantic, reasonably pulchritudinous seeks "gentle" man of sufficient means with life focus on home, family and church. Photo appreciated, extra bonus points for good sense of humor. (4)

#385

Are there any active ladies living near Puget Sound who enjoy backpacking, mountain climbing, x-c skiing, etc.? An active SWM age 61 is hoping to meet someone with like interests including making a happy home. Letter and recent photo appreciated. (4)

#386

Neat-looking, trim, redheaded, brown-eyed, young-at-55, lady in Eastern Oregon. Loves gospel western music, country living, the outdoors and the unlimited good news of the gospel. Would like to meet handsome, attractive, unselfish, loving and lovable dedicated Christian man. Please send recent photo. (4)

A Very Special Christmas Gift

During the holiday season wouldn't it be nice to share some Christian warmth and friendship with your acquaintances by giving them a subscription to Signs of the Times?

For only US $6.99 you can send the loving gift of Signs of the Times to those you care about.

Designed and written for the non-Adventist, Signs presents the saving message of Jesus Christ in a way that is both appealing and understandable.

To make this offer even more special, Signs of the Times will send, in your name, a beautifully designed card to the person receiving the magazine telling them of your caring gift.

But there's more. If you place your order by January 6, 1986, Signs will send, at no extra charge, to gift subscription recipients, an inspiring full color gift book called Thoughts in Springtime. If you act now, we'll include this fascinating book, along with the one-year gift subscription for Signs of the Times, for only US $6.99.

To send your gift subscription, fill out the order form and mail with check or money order for the exact amount to:

Signs Christmas Desk, P.O. Box 7000, Boise, Idaho 83707 or give this order to your church personal ministries secretary or your Adventist Book Center.
