Things Are Not Always Greener On the Other Side of the Mountain

By Barbara J. Wall

"Things are not always greener on the other side of the mountain, Nancy!" She questioned, "What do you mean?"

Nancy was about to leave her husband. She'd been looking for a place to live that would be suitable for herself and three small children, but couldn't find anything that was affordable.

After several years of marriage she'd become disenchanted with the problems that occur while trying to raise three children, and the humdrum of the everyday pace of keeping the family together.

She became bored and felt unloved, and this led to resentment compounded by the lack of communication.

At this time in her life she was vulnerable and became attracted to another man.

Before the other man came into her life, she was a spiritual, church-going young woman.

Nancy is the same age as my youngest daughter. I ached for her and could see that she was having a real struggle within, and wanted so much to help her.

I shared with her my own story of divorce and how it affected my children and their welfare both physically and emotionally. I began to encourage her, praying for her. At first she only listened, but soon she rejoined her weekly Bible study group in the church where she's a member. Nancy and her husband decided to go to a Christian marriage counselor.

The Lord is working in her life. Her friends in her church she'd long since abandoned are coming to her door, visiting, and praying with her.

Her children by this time are giving her some problems. They needed both of their parents. Nancy's now spending a great deal of her time away from home, with her work, and her new friend. Her children are feeling insecure.

The Lord's still taking care of her, and helping her over the rough spots.

Nancy told her friend that she wouldn't be seeing him anymore, that she'd decided to stay with her husband and that her children needed her. At first he accepted her decision, but later revealed that he loved her and would fight for that love. She is torn now, for she has feelings for this new friend.

I tried to point out the difficulties entailed in trying to raise her children without her husband, both in a monetary way and the emotional strain it would bring to her and the children. Her husband held a good position and they owned their own home. The new friend wouldn't be able to provide for her and her small family.

I told her, "Nancy, the price is too high. You won't be able to do it. You won't be able to live with that decision; your conscience won't let you do it; you'll always feel guilty." By this time I had come to know her pretty well.

She gave serious thought to our conversation, and on our next visit she confessed that she knew in her heart she couldn't leave her husband and put her children through the trauma of a divorce and separation from their father.

During all this time she continued her Bible studies. She and her husband are communicating at last and the counseling sessions are going well. Many of their problems are working themselves out.

She gave up her job and decided to spend as much time as possible with her family to help repair some of the damage already done in her absence with the children.

Nancy came to realize how important her husband and her children were to her before it was too late. She's so thankful to God that He was there for her and kept her from doing anything she'd later come to regret.

There are so many of us who didn't see the warning signs, or listen to those who gave us some good advice, trying to keep us from ruining our lives and turning the lives of our children into turmoil.

The real problem begins when you take your eyes off Jesus and look around, wanting something better. ➔

ABOUT THE COVER

Mt. McKinley in Alaska is the tallest peak in North America, reaching up to the sky for 20,320 feet. Because of cloud conditions it isn't easy to get good pictures of this imposing mountain.

However, Gary Lackie, Anchorage, has done that in the cover picture. He is a camera foreman at a printing plant and has been taking pictures for 35 years. For this picture he used his Canon F-1N Camera loaded with Kodachrome 64 film.

Never on Sunday?

One of your readers (Letters, June 16) suggests that our method of selecting administrators is "seriously flawed" and proposes a number of changes — including scheduling committee meetings for weekends to accommodate those whose employment might otherwise be in jeopardy.

Some Adventists work on Sunday. How would she accommodate us?

Thoughts on Sports

I must comment on the letter written by Michael Halley in the July 7 GLEANER . . . His letter leads us to believe that the only way to witness to an athlete is to engage in a sport with him. Can we then assume that the only way to reach a boxer is to fight him?

Jesus is our supreme example. I don't think that Jesus would have played a game of one-on-one to expound the Scriptures concerning Himself nor do I think that He would have hit a home run to get their attention.

I ask Mr. Halley, what kind of witness would these people see if he were to play evangelistic baseball on the Sabbath while the rest of us are sitting in the pews? They would see an Adventist that regards the Sabbath to be as holy as any other day . . .

A Positive Benefit

After reading Hank Severeid's inspirational article (June 2, GLEANER) I kept asking myself why the repeated emphasis on the unfairness of his dilemma of being severely handicapped. During 24 years of my being handicapped with rheumatoid arthritis the question of fairness or unfairness has not received much attention. It is a situation that just is.

After thinking about his article, it has occurred to me that he experiences a deeply spiritual kind of acceptance.

This reminds me of the Scriptures that say, he who does not take up his cross daily and follow me is not worthy of me. I believe this means that we are to accept whatever small part of humanity's suffering we are called upon to bear and to trust Him to make it possible for us to do so . . .

I have observed people spending most of their life trying to explain their cross, trying to get rid of it, or trying to conceal it. This shows distrust of our Savior and we thus dishonor Him.

Mr. Severeid has borne his cross with dignity and honor and has done an enormous favor for all of us who are handicapped by making it apparent that integration of the handicapped is a positive benefit to the church.

Group Think?

In reply to the article "Group Think" of June 16, could I receive some opinions for the opposite side of this action? If it is belittling and termed a disease to be like sheep following a course of disaster, how would you react when the group is asked to go along with the Holy Spirit and that unity was necessary in the decision being made?

If a person does not become paralyzed and is not swept along by the emotion and resists the comfort of the group, then he can become an outcast, a radical and in the process of alienation be considered a disruptive influence. Today can we actually make a decision that God has given us as individuals and what price must we pay and how do we deal with the psychological effects and social considerations in reacting to voice opinions?

A Public "Amen"

The carefully worded and insightful letter of Sandra A. Haynes (June 16 GLEANER) deserves a public "amen." Our need to examine issues and make decisions on the basis of logic cannot be too strongly urged, particularly now as we approach the final showdown with the deceiver of nations. The dominant voice with its convinced and convincing inflection, the silent approving listeners, the speaker's solid-citizen image may be the enemy's agents to make truth appear to be part of the lunatic fringe. "Which of the scribes and teachers have believed on Him?" they asked of our Lord.

Charlie Brown said it well: "You aren't always right, Lucy! You aren't always right. YOU JUST SOUND RIGHT!"

With our eternal prospects and those of our loved ones and a world in the balance, we cannot afford to be swayed by our innate need for group acceptance, while we also keep in mind the minus value of dissent for its own sake. How much we need the Spirit's wisdom to occupy a responsible position in these perplexing times.

Thanks to the Gleaner

. . . I'd like to add that the GLEANER was instrumental in bringing me back into the church after 18 years. I was raised an Adventist but drifted away from my beliefs when I was 16 years old. I continued to receive the GLEANER all these years because of retaining my membership in the Spokane Valley Church where I grew up.

The past two years I really began reading the GLEANER with more interest. In 1985 we experienced a crisis in our family and I relied heavily upon prayer for guidance and strength. I received many answers to my prayers. In March of this year I began attending our Moses Lake Church and was re-baptized on May 10, the Great Commitment Celebration Sabbath.

I am so thankful for God's patience and forgiveness and for His plan of salvation.

Good Counsel Given

I applaud Alden Thompson for his counsel regarding our usage of Ellen White's writings. Formerly when I was a student at the Adventist Theological Seminary at Andrews University, I was blessed with the opportunity to work at the Ellen G. White Research Center, a branch office of the White Estate.

During the two years I worked at this center I had the experience of meeting people who had either lost their faith in Ellen White due to someone's misuse of her writings, or else they had such strong faith that they used her writings in an extreme and unreasonable way. Thompson is correct in saying to simply quote Ellen White as an authority or support for a certain action while not showing the reasonableness or the Biblical principles behind the counsel is wrong.

Mrs. White spoke of this problem when she said: "Lay Sister White right to one side: lay her to one side. Don't you ever quote my words again as long as you live, until you obey the Bible. When you take the Bible and make that your food, and your meat, and your drink, and make that the elements of your character, when you can do that you will know better how to receive some counsel from God . . ." Spalding-Magan Mss. Collection, p. 167.

I thank God that I was educated at Walla Walla College under such able and dedicated teachers as Alden Thompson . . .

Washington Members Hold 100th Anniversary Camp Meeting

Jeannie Nephew holds the torch of liberty as part of a special freedom feature during the visit of Ralph Munro, Washington state secretary of state, to the Washington camp meeting.

By Dennis N. Carlson

As international attention was focused on death in Auburn, Wash., because of cyanide-laced capsules, more than 6,000 Adventists converged on Auburn Adventist Academy to celebrate life and the heritage of a century of Adventist camp meetings in western Washington.

The more than 2,000 who lived on campus during the last week of June seemed insulated from the effects of bad news in the surrounding community. Wilbur and Dorothy Nelson of Weimar Institute brought Health Expo with them to the encampment.

Twenty feet of informational backdrop formed a booth for each of the eight elements of good health. The hundreds of visitors to Health Expo, which occupied nearly half of Rainier Auditorium, could take in health lectures given by students of Weimar College or have their lung capacity, blood chemistry, blood pressure and stress level tested, or submit to a glaucoma test for eyesight.

A specially written history of the Washington Conference was included in the program booklet, which featured on the cover a reproduction of a large group photograph of the Adventist camp meeting in Auburn about 1912.

They were there in 1919 when the cornerstone was laid for Auburn Adventist Academy. Standing: Frank Myers (left) and Wyldes Munroe. Seated: Wallace Dickjose, Clella Munroe and Alice Kegley.

Ruth McCoy of Port Angeles was surprised to find herself in the old panorama photo as a 14-year-old seated with family and friends. She was interviewed during the heritage program on June 28, along with several octogenarians.

Emceed by Lenard Jaecks, Washington Conference executive secretary, the heritage program featured the Sunset Lake staff and campers from the music camp in a choir. Dressed in pioneer styles, the choir was accompanied by an old pump organ. Other students from the music camp formed an orchestra for the occasion.

More than 1,200 adults attended the 15 classes offered with subjects ranging from estate planning, preparation for the end of time, health maintenance, to ministry for the deaf and parenting.

Theodore Carcich, Washington Conference president from 1950 to 1957, was an evening speaker. He sounded a major emphasis for the encampment when he reminded his audience that "in unity there is strength."

Committee Decides Not To Recommend President

By Morten Juberg

In an unprecedented action for the North Pacific Union Conference, the nominating committee for the coming constituency session has voted not to recommend the name of Richard D. Fearing as president for the next five years.

As mandated by the new constitution voted last year, the nominating committee met in Portland, Ore., July 7 to evaluate the three officers: Fearing, Secretary H. J. Harris, and Treasurer Robert Rawson.

The committee was composed of the present executive committee with the departmental directors removed. Taking their places were lay members and pastors.

Under the direction of North American Division President Charles Bradford, the committee voted to recommend the reelection of Harris and Rawson to delegates at the constituency session slated for College Place, Wash., Sept. 5-7.

A search committee composed of a representative from each of the six conferences in the Union was selected to come up with names for a new president. The nominating committee will meet again in College Place, Wash., on Sept. 5 to finalize their decision on a recommendation for a new president for the North Pacific Union Conference. This will then be considered by the delegates during the session on Sept. 7.

Members of the search committee include: Charles Bradford, chairman; Dr. H. J. Bergman, vice chairman; E. A. Roberts, secretary; Herman Bauman, Bruce Johnston, Connie Lysinger, Steve McPherson and Elmer Unterseher.

Morten Juberg is editor of the GLEANER.

New Idea in Evangelism

A new phase in evangelism was featured recently during a series of meetings. In Billings a special session was scheduled for the young people who came each evening. Jackie Auckland, the leader of the group, was assisted by Patti Wilson and Daphne Burson. The children enjoyed coming each evening as they knew they would have something very special for them. They were given Bible studies and also made various crafts during the course of the meetings to take home and show to their parents. As many as 25 children came many of the nights.

Seventy-six teachers and families from 27 schools met at the regional events for an update of conference news, an introduction to the new physical education manual, and an introduction to the new Bible Labs Manual for Adventist educators.

"The Bible Labs Manual is a 'how-to' manual prepared after two additional years of concentrated experience in the conference under the direction of David Gillham, Tom Lee and Ed Norton, along with the area Bible Labs coordinators," explained Merkel.

At each of the area meetings teacher service pins were awarded according to years of service in Adventist education.

Pathfinder Program Is A Blessing to Edmonds Church

By Verna Dahlbeck

Today we live in a world which has many attractions for our youth, many of which are destructive of their moral and spiritual values. These are present in the home, school and community.

The church has an unusual privilege and responsibility for the training of these youth. That is found in the Pathfinder program, among others.

The expansion of the youths' minds into fields which they haven't known existed can be of inestimable value to some of them as they grow older. The interests which are developed have led to rewarding careers.

Their social and cultural horizons are expanded by interacting with those of different ethnic and national origins. At Edmonds, a valuable cross-cultural experience was made possible when the African Children's Choir toured the United States and were guests of the Edmonds Church. The Pathfinders had a hand in making them feel welcome. The young folks learned much about each other's country and customs.

The activities which they engage in to raise funds for special outings teach them about organization of time and money and the value of working for a specific goal.

Our Pathfinder leaders are an important part of the development of the characters of our youth. The dedication of these people is not surpassed by those of any other organization in our church. The time, energy and money they give are above monetary value.

Jim Wedel was an example of this total dedication to our young people. He was a Pathfinder leader of the Shoreline and Edmonds youth for about 13 years. This came to an end only by his death on April 25, 1986. He was warned that his health would be in jeopardy if he went to Camp Hale for the Camporee last July, but he said that "the youth must have their chance to attend such a gathering."

The elevation and strenuous activity were too much for his health. He contracted pneumonia, which resulted in congestive heart failure. He fought failing health for nine months before succumbing.

This is an unusual case, but such dedication to our young people is prevalent among those who are part of the training program of our future leaders. The amount of hours which are spent in developing leadership qualities and various skills are enormous. The youth lead out in church services, put on lovely ethnic dinners, do community service projects to help the elderly and shut-ins, become experienced in survival techniques and camping, enter into parades, etc. The honors program develops a wide range of interests. The Pathfinder ages are from 10 to 15.

We as a church collectively and individually are so privileged to be a supportive part of the tremendous outreach to our youth. Let us continue to encourage and support our young people and our leaders.

Poulsbo Seminar

Sandy Delano (left) and Barbara Rinhardt study the Scriptures at a seminar on the Book of Daniel conducted recently by Pastor Terry Mason of the Poulsbo Adventist Church. While the program called for 10 sessions, six additional presentations were added to cover some of the topics in more detail, and to correlate the facts learned from Daniel with truths presented in the Book of Revelation. Of the 40 people who attended the seminar, two have made their decision to be baptized. A seminar based on the Book of Revelation is planned for this fall.

Two Baptisms Add Nine To Bellingham Church

Two recent baptisms in Bellingham added eight new members to the church, and an additional one was taken into fellowship on profession of faith.

Jon Jonsson had grown up in the Adventist church in Iceland, but had drifted away after coming to America. He decided to attend the "Life in Christ" evangelistic series conducted in the Bellingham Church during March by Arnold Scherencel. After a few nights, Jon had almost decided to stop attending, but the Lord impressed Rod Scherencel, the singing evangelist, to drop by just at the right time to encourage Jon to keep coming. Jon was one of the first to come forward to commit his life to Christ. He was baptized by the local pastor, Arnold White.

Five of the seven young people who attended a combination baptismal class and cooking classes conducted by Pastor Arnold and Mildred White of the Bellingham Church, gathered on the front porch of the White's home.

Also baptized was Janice Graham. Her sister, Linda Garnick, had studied the Bible with her for a period of several months. The evangelistic series brought her to a decision.

Nizza Ewing, who formerly lived in the Philippines, and Sue Hilleary were also baptized with Jonsson and Miss Graham.

At the second baptism, on the day of the Great Commitment Celebration, five young people were baptized by the pastor. They were: Charles Carter, Mark Garnick, Brady Rowe, Ronald Tilliman and Melanie Mitter. These were among seven who had participated in baptismal classes at the pastor's home.

Construction Completed On Addition to Medford Church

Work has been completed on a new addition to the Medford Church which houses the Community Services Center on the lower level and a large multipurpose room on the upper floor.

For many years the active Community Services ladies have been housed in what has been called "the catacombs," a windowless suite of rooms in the basement of the church.

The new center incorporates every convenience that a Dorcas lady could wish for. Included in the facility are ample wardrobe racks and cupboards for storage of clothing to be given away. There is office space, a place for sorting clothing, a section for sewing machines, and a kitchenette for the ladies who work in the center.

Ethelene Corwin, center director, and Florence Moore, secretary, are proud of the careful detail and planning that went into the construction. Debbie West, a member of the Building Committee, said the architect's plans were augmented by suggestions from those who work in the center.

"Many of the ladies had ideas as to how their work could be made more convenient," Mrs. West said. "These ideas which had been tested by practical experience were included in the planning."

The upper floor houses the Fireside Room, which has an official seating capacity of 308. It takes its name from the attractive stone fireplace. A church member arranged with the Forest Service for a permit to get rock from a quarry. Others donated the use of a truck so the cost of the materials was negligible.

An adjoining small room seating 34 is used for board meetings and other similar smaller functions.

Furnishings for the Fireside Room include tables, chairs, dishes, and silverware for 200 people. An unusual method was used to provide the kitchen appliances, cutlery, silverware, and dishes.

"The church family gave a shower for the kitchen needs," Mrs. West noted. "We received almost everything to supply a convenient kitchen, as well as cash to purchase other needed materials."

The same idea also was used to furnish the kitchenette in the Community Services Center.

Everything in the Fireside kitchen seems to come in twos: two refrigerators, two microwave ovens, two ranges and two sinks. In addition for use in cooking schools, there is a kitchen cart which can be used where needed for demonstrations. There is even a cabinet dedicated to needs for wedding receptions including linens, punch bowls and cups, and crystal candelabra.

The cost of the complete center was $250,000, though as Alvy Bowman, Building Committee chairman noted the architect's estimate was $100,000 more. "We were blessed with a great deal of volunteer labor and donations for the project," he said.

Funds for the operation of the Community Services Center come from the church budget and are augmented by the sale of quilts the ladies make. The Fireside Room is used for church family nurture activities and outreach programs of the church including cooking and stress-control classes and the Breath-Free Stop-Smoking Program.

The Fireside Room has been in use for some months since it was completed first. The Dorcas ladies expect to move into their new facility shortly.

This recently completed addition to the Medford Church houses the Community Services Center on the lower floor and the Fireside Room on the upper floor, which is used for outreach programs of the church.

Grand Ronde School to Have Additional Room

After years of dreaming, months of planning, and weeks of preparing, the time of the official groundbreaking had come. The little one-room, 15-student country school in Grand Ronde, Ore., is going to be extended by one and a half times its size. This addition will give an extra room for school functions, a kitchen area, additional bathrooms, foyer, and storage. Overall it will enhance the program of the school and church.

Keith Zaugg is not only a capable teacher but also a professional builder, for he used to work in the construction business. All his extra time goes into his "hobby," and some so-called "retired" men are there almost every day of the week. "We hope to have our addition program finished by Christmas," Kaugg says. He is anxious to get more room for the students — especially for the rainy season.

ADRA Assignment Took Beaverton Man to Sudan

Curiosity, says Terry Gobel, a 1985 graduate of Walla Walla College and Beaverton Church member, prompted him last year to interview the mission recruiter who "ended up by giving him a dangerous assignment."

After mountains of paperwork and many delays, Terry arrived in Khartoum, Sudan, on March 11. As a staff member of Advent-

Students Work on Quilt

The 31 students of the third and fourth grades of Livingstone Junior Academy presented a quilt which they had made to the Salem Adventist Community Services Center. Their teacher, Bonnie Lorado, directed the project.

Fabric crayon was used and each student painted a picture of their own choice. The students had been studying the life of Dorcas. The project took about a month to complete. The ladies from the South Salem Church did the quilting.

Girls Honored at Milo

A big moment for the young ladies at the recent mother-daughter brunch at Milo Adventist Academy came when Helen Dufur, girls' dean, and Evelyn Jones, assistant girls' dean, presented Miss Mitchell Hall for 1985-86. Based on votes by the girls, the honor went to Bonnie Glantz. First and second runners-up were Tami Hanson and Shelly Marsa. Other titles were awarded to Amber Bramlett, Miss Spiritual; Cindy Garboden, Miss Intellectual; Melissa Shoghi, Miss Athletic; Michelle Bojorcas and Sara Archer, tied for Miss Outgoing; Carrie Haley, Miss Flirt; Bonnie Glantz, Miss Thoughtful; and Jennifer Alspaugh, Miss Well Dressed.

ist Development and Relief Agency (ADRA), Terry was prepared to assess the needs of and supervise a settlement program for the nomads who had lost their herds of sheep, cattle, and camels as a result of droughts of recent years.

But on arrival he was asked to head the Mother-Child Health Program. "We preplaced 600 metric tons of sorghum and set up a training program to help the Sudanese health clinic staff members do health screening and supplemental feeding," reported Terry.

El Sadie El Mahadi, the democratic candidate for prime minister, granted an interview with Dave Taylor, ADRA's Sudan director, his assistant Glenn Mitchell, Nagi Ayoub, Sudanese assistant, and Terry. They were able to present ADRA's non-partisan record of assistance and their plans for the future. They were thankful for this contact, for El Sadie El Mahadi later won the election.

Shortly after the United States bombed portions of Libya, and the attempted assassination of the communications officer for the American Embassy in Khartoum, the U.S. State Department advised all Americans to leave Sudan. Hundreds of Libyan para-military personnel were said to be infiltrating Sudan, and riots and anti-American sentiment abounded. Terry and most of the State Department personnel elected to be evacuated. They were taken to Nairobi for a few days and then sent on to Washington, D.C. Here Terry worked a few weeks at ADRA's international headquarters. He then returned to Aloha, Ore., where he awaits reassignment.

And what about the work in Sudan? Dave Taylor and Glenn Mitchell, with the aid of other staff members both foreign and Sudanese, are carrying on ADRA's program as planned.

Cans Count Too

Brian Hardin's Investment project serves a dual purpose — environmental cleanup and dollars for Sabbath school Investment.

Brian, six-year-old son of Mike and Carol Hardin, Brewster, started can collecting last year and turned in $25. He's off to a good start this year and gladly ropes in assistants from grandparents to playmates. He sometimes talks his parents into wagon-walking with him for a family project including sharp-eyed, two-year-old Joey and big (eight) brother Jeff.

Besides the private cleanup campaign, Brian hopes to top last year's total . . . and he's sure he can.

Nine Members Added To Linwood Church

During a time when Brenda Torrey was really searching, a flier arrived in the mail. It described a Revelation Seminar to be held at the Central Adventist Church in Spokane. Although attending church from another denomination, Brenda and her husband Ken signed up for the seminar.

"Revelation was heavy," Brenda says, "and really puts fear into you." But studies with Bible Worker Barbara Folkenberg taught her the love of Christ and brought inner peace. "I wanted the Bible to be the center focus and have Bible backup for what I believe. I feel in my heart I found the church that teaches truth."

Brenda attended the recent Prophecy Seminar at Linwood Church, and then recently she was baptized. Meanwhile, Ken studied with Clayton Childs, Personal Ministries director for the Upper Columbia Conference and a member at Linwood. On his birthday, Ken was baptized at the Linwood Church.

A group of young people studying with Pastor Gayle Norton also were baptized: Barbara Horner, Reggie Harris, Kenny Rudy, and Kristi Holman. Kristi's love for Christ led her father, Al Uribe, to rededicate his life and be baptized. Two others who joined Linwood Church that Sabbath by baptism were Charles Hackensmith, who recently celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday, and Debbie Griffith.

Baptisms at Central Valley

Five young people were baptized who had attended Central Valley Junior Academy during the 1985-86 school year, confirming the belief that Christian education pays.

Each Friday throughout the school year, Pastor Don Wilson of the Granger Church and pastor Bryce Newell of the Toppenish-Wapato churches met with the students, instructing and counseling them in the love of Jesus. This experience, combined with the influence of Christian, dedicated principal and teachers, by God's help made this school year a success.

Those baptized by Pastor Wilson and who joined the Granger Church are Perry Wenzel and his twin sisters Heidi and Heather Wenzel. Pastor Don Wilson is standing behind them.

The President's Report

In Pursuit of Promises

"Be strong, and of good courage."
"I can do all things through Christ."
"Lo, I come quickly."

This amalgam of Biblical ideas fuels the drive, goals, and life of the Seventh-day Adventist Christian. It is the backdrop to all our family and church affairs. It is the reason for on-going spiritual decisions that lead to revival and reformation — a burning hope and steady desire to see Christ and be with Him.

The past five years have probably been the most difficult in the history of the church. Perhaps the period could be likened to a combination of theological and organizational struggles from 1900 - 1910 and the Great Depression of 1930 - 1935. In spite of many diversions, the church has triumphed through adversity. Multiplied thousands have been baptized into our 400 churches and companies in the Pacific Northwest — into Christ and His way of life. New churches, companies, groups, and schools have been formed.

We set a number of objectives in early 1981. Some are completed, some are in process, some have been modified by circumstances, and others were simply not reached. Most important, the vision of 67,000 believers in our Union Conference has not been dimmed. The church is resurgent and the pace toward a "finished work" is quickened and the pathway enlarged.

Evangelism — the preaching of the gospel in the setting of Revelation 14 — is the priority of our Union Conference. Three evangelistic teams are assisting the conferences in their HARVEST 90 objectives. The Northwest Ministries Training Center in Kent, Wash., is completing its fifth year of successful operations. There are approximately 400 credentialed Lay Bible Ministers and Lay Preachers reaching souls for Christ.

The Pacific Northwest is widely known for its special ministries. Perhaps our geography and topography lend themselves to pioneering and adventure. Literally thousands of benighted souls are learning of the compassion of Christ through ministries that have brought a "breakthrough" to special groups of people with urgent needs — a modern-day fulfillment of Acts 10:38.

Our ethnic work has taken quantum leaps. Housing these new groups is a problem that we are tackling immediately. Approximately one dozen new medical and dental practitioners join us each year. Our hospitals, though struggling with a low census, form the vanguard of early witness of the Advent message to thousands.

Our school system remains the genius of the Advent Movement. In spite of declining enrollments and increasing costs, the Union Conference has 155 schools (K-graduate) in operation. The term "Endowment Fund" (a funding process which has rarely been used by Seventh-day Adventists) is rapidly coming into vogue in order to stabilize or reduce educational costs. The Seventh-day Adventist "church school" is one of the last bastions of sanity and Christian common sense in a rapidly deteriorating world where moral values are being discarded.

So, what does it all mean? It means HARVEST 90, a plan of Bible study, prayer, fellowship, worship, and witness that (we hope) will see 15,000 individuals take their stand for Christ and His last message to earth by the end of 1990. It means knowing, understanding, and trusting in the promise of Christ's return. It means turning aside from liberalizing tendencies that are creeping into a "church that has been here too long" and maintaining a simplicity of lifestyle that marks the witness of a true Adventist Christian.

Oh, Lord Jesus, may you return to earth in glory ere another quinquennium comes to pass!

The Secretary's Report

North Pacific Reaches 80th Birthday

For 80 years now, the North Pacific Union Conference has held regular constituency sessions. Some of the sessions have been spread over three-year periods, some over four-year periods, and now they are regularly held every five years.

The period of review for the 1986 quinquennium covers the last five years beginning in 1981 through 1986. The North Pacific Union Conference is made up of the five states of Alaska, Idaho, Montana, Oregon and Washington which, in turn, make up the six conferences in this union; namely Alaska, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, Upper Columbia and Washington.

When one looks at the statistics it is easy to notice that there has been growth in each of our conferences and across the union. None of us is satisfied, however, with what has been accomplished. We are grateful for the growth that we have had. Were it not for our faithful members, our hard-working pastors and conference leaders in administrative and departmental positions, plus the blessing of the Lord, the picture would be much less pleasing.

During the past five years 12,150 were added to the church by baptism and profession of faith. Our union had 29,132 members transfer in from other conferences outside the North Pacific Union and 28,291 transfer out giving us a transfer gain of 841. During the same period 4,994 were removed from church membership records by apostasy or as missing, and another 3,253 through death.

The shocking fact is that the number of persons lost from the church by a decision on their part is greater than the membership of the Idaho Conference. We have lost them from the church, but more importantly, their salvation could be in jeopardy. This brings sadness to our hearts.

The total membership in the North Pacific Union Conference as of Dec. 31, 1985, was 66,940 and the total membership at the beginning of the quinquennium was 62,196, or a gain of 4,744 which is a growth of 7.6 percent.

Our fastest-growing church work in the Northwest is among the ethnic segment of our population, with the greatest growth coming from our Spanish-speaking friends. Elder Ed White has ably headed this work. To more effectively reach these dear people evangelistically, the Union Executive Committee in 1982 called Elder Robert Goransson as a Spanish evangelist. His work has been successful. In those four years 283 persons were baptized. In 1981 we had 4 Spanish-speaking churches and now there are 5, plus 13 new companies or groups.

New Churches

During the past quinquennium 54 new churches have been built. These churches now stand as beautiful invitations to all who pass by to come in and worship with us. The new churches are made possible to a large extent by the North Pacific Union because of the Revolving Fund. This fund is made up of money which church members place in the fund, for which they receive 7 percent interest. The money is then loaned to qualifying churches at a rate of 7½ percent — just enough of an increase to cover our administrative costs. In every case, the loan rate is appreciatively lower than the going community rate at banks and lending agencies.

New Congregations

Truth is ever on the march here in the Northwest and we are happy to announce the addition of 26 new congregations who are letting their light shine in areas where there was no organized work. New churches have been established in the

Arlene Canty,
Membership Records

conferences as follows: Alaska, 8; Idaho, 4; Montana, 1; Oregon, 6; Upper Columbia, 4; and Washington, 3.

New Office Building

During the previous quinquennium, new office buildings were erected in Oregon, Upper Columbia and Washington, with improvements and enlargements taking place in Montana and in Alaska. These facilities are still beautifully representing the denomination and serving our people very well. Now, the Alaska Conference has built a new office building which also is meeting the needs of that growing conference. It is complete with several rooms for itinerant workers and staff, which are rented out at reduced rates, thus saving an appreciable amount in motel accommodations at the time of workers' meetings, etc.

Christian Education

Christian education is still almost a doctrine among us, and a major portion of our funds are spent on providing an education to all levels of our youth from grade school through the university. During the past five years, $5,156,000 was appropriated to assist conferences and schools from K-16. As our tithe has increased, so has total contributions to education proportionately. Constant endeavors are being made to keep educational costs down while at the same time keeping quality education available for every student in our school system. Newly established schools during the past five years here in the North Pacific Union Conference are: Alaska, 2; Idaho, 4; Montana, 2; Oregon, 4; Upper Columbia, 10; and Washington, 3.

Medical Work

Hospitals, physicians, nurses, dentists, paramedical personnel and many kinds of support personnel make up a sizable portion of the work of the church here in the Northwest. With hospitals in Portland, Walla Walla, Tillamook, and with hospitals under contract management in Prineville and Pendleton under the administration of Adventist System West, the church is making a significant contribution to society. In addition to serving medical and dental needs of communities where we have a hospital, work opportunities for nearly every age are much more possible. They provide professional opportunities for a large number of young people desiring to establish themselves after going through our school system.

A strong medical recruitment program is being carried on in an endeavor to provide qualified medical personnel to serve our medical facilities and to serve our communities and churches. Presently there are 658 physicians and dentists serving in the Northwest, plus many, many other paramedical personnel who are serving their church well in terms of leadership and positive influence. The distribution of doctors in our conferences is as follows: Alaska, 19; Idaho, 28; Montana, 27; Oregon, 275; Upper Columbia, 205; and Washington, 104.

Staff Reduction

In a constant endeavor to reduce office staff at the Union level, while at the same time meet needs of conferences, academies, our college, our schools, and our churches and their staffs, there has been a conscious attempt to cut back. A special Restructure Study Committee was established early in the quinquennium to assess what was absolutely needed and what could be discontinued on the Union level without great loss to the fields and to the work. As a result, 11 salaries have been discontinued. This was accomplished by completely discontinuing some services (tax consultant, ABC consultant, and campus ministries) and doubling responsibilities of other staff members. In addition to this, a Commission on Governance was formed which took a look at total church operations and certain recommendations were made which basically follow the findings and recommendations for the Restructure Study Committee. It was a "fine-tooth" process that proved helpful. Laymen from all parts of the Union were heavily involved in the fact-finding and recommending process. As a result, many thousands of dollars have been cut from salaries and related expenses and the money has been made available to other levels of the church work, particularly evangelism. At the same time the progress of the work has not been hindered.

We have deep appreciation to our God for His blessings and guidance of His work in the North Pacific Union Conference. We are also indebted to our lay people across the Union, the individual conferences, the pastors, teachers, and support personnel who have served and contributed so much to God's work. May we continue to unitedly represent Him until Christ returns.

Financial Statements

To the Constituency of the North Pacific Union Conference
of Seventh-day Adventists
Portland, Oregon

We have examined the balance sheets of the Tithe and Specific Purposes Funds of the North Pacific Union Conference of Seventh-day Adventists as of December 31, 1985, 1984, 1983, 1982, and 1981, and the related statements of income and expense and changes in fund balances for the years then ended. Our examinations were made in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted by the Seventh-day Adventists denomination and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records, such tests for compliance with denominational policies, and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

As discussed in Note 7, the underlying loans backing up the notes receivable from the North Pacific Union Conference Association have been included in an application for reorganization under Chapter 11 of the Federal Bankruptcy Law filed in July, 1981. Management and legal counsel are unable to estimate what amount of the notes receivable will ultimately be collected.

Noni Dart, standing, has been the Secretary to the Treasurer with Lorna Hallsted, who is taking her place.

In our opinion, as auditors of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, subject to the effects on the financial statements of such adjustments, if any, that might have been required had the outcome of the uncertainty referred to in the previous paragraph been known, the financial statements referred to above present fairly the financial position of the North Pacific Union Conference of Seventh-day Adventists as of December 31, 1985, 1984, 1983, 1982 and 1981, and the results of its operations and changes in its fund balances for the years then ended, in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted by the Seventh-day Adventist denomination applied on a consistent basis. Further in our opinion, the financial operations were in conformity in all material respects with applicable policies of the Seventh-day Adventist denomination.

North Pacific Union Conference of Seventh-day Adventists
Notes to Financial Statements
December 31, 1985, 1984, 1983, 1982, 1981

FOOTNOTE 1: Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

A. Designation of Funds

The accounting records of the North Pacific Union Conference are divided into two funds, the Tithe Fund and the Specific Purposes Fund. The Tithe Fund is used for tithe income and its related expenditures. The Specific Purposes Fund is used for non-tithe projects and certain tithe activities that require separate accounting.

B. Revenue Recognition

The accounting records are maintained on the accrual basis of accounting.

C. Marketable Securities

Marketable securities are recorded at cost or market, whichever is lower, for the portfolio as a whole. If market is less than cost, a charge for the decrease in value is made to operating with an increase to an allowance account for the unrealized loss on marketable securities.

D. Equipment and Depreciation

Furniture and equipment are stated at cost less accumulated depreciation computed on the straight-line method. Furniture and equipment are depreciated over their estimated useful lives from 5-20 years, in accordance with General Conference guidelines.

E. Inventories

Department and supply inventories are stated at the lower of cost (primarily first-in/first-out) or market.

FOOTNOTE 2: Certificates of Deposit — First Los Angeles Bank

Included in the cash amount on the Specific Purposes Fund balance sheet at December 31, 1982 and 1981, were two $100,000 6-month certificates of deposit issued by the First Los Angeles Bank which matured on August 31, 1981. Attempts by management to cash in these CD's at maturity were unsuccessful. The bank held the position that these were given as compensating balances for loans the bank made to Dr. D. J. Davenport. During 1983 an agreement was reached whereby the North Pacific Union Conference released the First Los Angeles Bank from any further liabilities to them, if any, and they, in turn, released to the North Pacific Union Conference the principal portion of the certificates of deposit in the amount of $200,000, without interest. These funds were received in May 1983. Prior accrued interest for 1981 in the amount of $25,236 was written off to bad debt expense as of December 31, 1982. No interest was accrued for 1982.

FOOTNOTE 7: Notes Receivable — North Pacific Union Conference Association — (Davenport)

Davenport related notes receivable are amounts which in prior years were advanced to the North Pacific Union Conference Association, who in turn placed these funds with Dr. D. J. Davenport. The balances of these loans are listed in Footnote 6. In July of 1981 these loans were included in an application for reorganization under Chapter 11 of the Federal Bankruptcy Law by Dr. D. J. Davenport. Management and legal counsel are unable to determine the exact amount of the notes receivable that will ultimately be collected. An allowance for bad debts was set up for these notes of $411,838 in 1982. During 1985 the uncollected balance of the following notes were written off and charged against this allowance:

Chatsworth	$ 6,671
Petosky	45,554
Accrued Interest	95,337
Total	$147,562

In addition, the allowance was reduced by $53,046, to make the allowance equal the amounts still receivable. By recording an allowance, the North Pacific Union Conference does not relinquish any claims to funds which might rightfully be theirs.

FOOTNOTE 11: Retirement Plan

The North Pacific Union Conference of Seventh-day Adventists participates in a non-contributory defined benefit pension plan known as the Seventh-day Adventist Retirement Plan. This plan, which covers substantially all employees, is administered by the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists in Washington, D.C., and is exempt from the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (ERISA) as a plan of a church related agency. Contributions to the plan, which are based on 8½% of the tithe income in 1985, 8% in 1984, and 8% in 1983, 1982 and 1981, were $292,000, $278,901, $256,272, and $252,083 for the years ended December 31, 1985, 1984, 1983, 1982, and 1981 respectively.

It is not reasonably possible to determine the actuarial present value of accumulated benefits or plan net assets for employees of the North Pacific Union Conference apart from other plan participants. However, based on the latest actuarial valuation for the plan as a whole, the actuarially computed value of vested benefits exceeds the estimated market value of plan assets.

FOOTNOTE 12: Income Tax Status

The North Pacific Union Conference of Seventh-day Adventists is a religious non-profit organization and is exempt from Federal, State and local income taxes under provisions of Section 501(C)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

Davenport Loans and Recovery as of July 7

At the time of Dr. Davenport's filing for reorganization under Chapter XI of the Bankruptcy Act on July 21, 1981, the loans to Dr. Davenport by entities in the North Pacific Union totaled $7,037,409 with unpaid interest of $1,431,609. In addition, trustor's unsecured notes and their interest in trust deeds were acquired in the settlement of claims totaling $1,567,200. The estimated value of the collateral as of July 21, 1981, was $1,793,188.

The entities in the North Pacific Union have received bankruptcy dividends totaling $3,254,077 which equals 35 percent dividend of their unsecured claim in the Bankruptcy Court. In addition, the entities have received $2,664,483 from insurance, $508,500 from a General Conference appropriation, and $929,963 from the liquidation of collateral. The estimated value of the collateral yet to liquidate is $1,279,963.

Other costs incurred are legal services $150,882 for the Union and interest on borrowed funds $590,910.

We are sorry for the errors that caused this loss, but we are grateful that the loss was not as large as originally estimated. We thank the Lord for His help in recovering the funds we have. Also, we thank Him for keeping His hand over us as we worked through this difficult period. We will receive another bankruptcy dividend, but cannot estimate the amount or when it will be declared. We will report the amount of any future bankruptcy dividends as they are received. With this report we will close the chapter on the Davenport loan program, but may we never forget the lessons learned.

The following chart recaps the loans and recovery by entity.

A fully detailed report on the Davenport loans and recovery may be obtained by writing: Treasury Dept., North Pacific Union Conference, Box 16677, Portland, OR 97216.

The Association Report

Financial Statements

To the Constituency of the
North Pacific Union Conference
Association of Seventh-day Adventists
Portland, Oregon

We have examined the combined balance sheets of the North Pacific Union Conference Association of Seventh-day Adventists as of December 31, 1985, 1984, 1983, 1982, and 1981, and the related statements of income and expense and changes in fund balances for the years then ended. Our examinations were made in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted by the Seventh-day Adventist denomination and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records, such tests for compliance with denominational policies, and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

As discussed in Note 9, funds were loaned to Dr. D. J. Davenport through a collateral pooling arrangement with other entities. These funds were included in a bankruptcy action initiated in July of 1981. Because of the uncertainties which surround these investments, management and legal counsel are unable to ascertain the exact amount that will be recovered on these loans.

Denominational policy indicates that the lending of money to a third person who regularly has business transactions with a denominational organization has the potentiality of being considered a conflict of interest. During 1981 the North Pacific Union Conference Association in-house counsel had personal funds loaned to D. J. Davenport at the same time Association funds were loaned to D. J. Davenport.

In our opinion, as auditors of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, subject to the effects on the financial statements of such adjustments, if any, as might have been required had the outcome of the uncertainties referred to in the above paragraph been known, the financial statements referred to above present fairly the financial position of the North Pacific Union Conference Association of Seventh-day Adventists, as of December 31, 1985, 1984, 1983, 1982, and 1981, and the results of its operations and changes in its Fund Balances for the years then ended, in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted by the Seventh-day Adventist denomination applied on a consistent basis, except for the changes, with which we concur, in the presentation of the annuity payable balances, and certain securities as described in Notes 19, 20, 5, and 6, respectively. Further in our opinion, the financial operations were in conformity in all material respects with the applicable policies of the Seventh-day Adventist denomination except as noted in the third paragraph of the year 1981.

North Pacific Union Conference Association of Seventh-day Adventists
Notes to Financial Statement
December 31, 1985, 1984, 1983, 1982, 1981

FOOTNOTE 1: Significant Accounting Policies

A. Revenue Recognition

The accounting records are maintained on an accrual basis of accounting.

B. Fixed Assets

Fixed assets are recorded at cost. Depreciation is computed using the straight-line method. Estimated lives for land improvements is from 3-20 years and buildings from 30-75 years. Depreciation is charged to the Current Fund and funded in the Plant Fund.

C. Securities — Current Fund

Marketable securities are recorded at cost or market, whichever is lower, based on the portfolio as a whole. If market is less than cost, a charge for the decrease in value is made to an expense account and a credit is made to the Allowance for Decline in Marketable Securities, which is offset against the cost of the securities.

D. Securities — Annuities Fund

Marketable securities are recorded at fair market value at the date of transfer to the fund. No adjustment is made for market fluctuation.

E. Trusts

The North Pacific Union Conference Association of Seventh-day Adventists administers a number of revocable trusts as permitted by trust laws and Internal Revenue Service regulations. Since these trusts are confidential in nature, no complete financial statements of these trusts are presented.

E. Real Estate Investments

Real Estate Investments are recorded at fair market value at the date of transfer to fund. No depreciation is computed.

FOOTNOTE 2: Description of Funds

The combined financial statements presented in this report include all of the funds of the Association, excluding the individual trust funds and the Revolving Fund. These funds consist of the Current, Plant, Pooled Investment, Annuity and Agency Fund. The funds are described below.

A. Current Fund

The current Fund is an accounting entity for the general operating purposes of the Association. The cost of the Association personnel is not borne by the Association, but is a part of the North Pacific Union Conference operating expense. The expenses of the Current Fund are for direct costs, which ordinarily are not passed on to any of the trust areas where the Association functions as a charitable trustee.

B. Plant Fund

The Plant Fund is an accounting entity for the fixed assets of the Association which includes the funded depreciation, land, land improvements, and buildings. The Unexpended Plant funds are available for the purchase of new fixed assets or the renewal or replacement of fixed assets. The fixed assets are usually provided by the Conference and donated to the Association which holds title to them. These fixed assets are then rented back to the Conference and the income from rent appears as a part of the operation of the Current Fund.

C. Pooled Investment Fund

The Pooled Investment Fund is an accounting entity of the Association in its non-trustee capacity, which is regulated by the investment policy of the denomination. The monies in this fund have been borrowed on a demand note basis from individual revocable trusts where permitted by the trust agreement. Since January 1, 1979, no additional monies have been borrowed from individual revocable trusts. The assets of this fund are committed to earn sufficient return to meet the pay-out obligation of these demand notes. As a part of this guarantee, the Association has agreed to account for and maintain these assets in the specific fund mentioned and to pledge all assets of this fund as collateral for these demand notes.

There is no provision for the inter-fund borrowing of monies from this fund. Denominational policy requires that these funds not be used for operating purposes of the Association or Conference until the trusts which have loaned monies to the fund mature and make legal distribution of assets to the church.

During 1982 all the monies borrowed from revocable trusts were repaid and the fund was closed.

D. Annuity Fund

The Annuity Fund is used to account for assets received through charitable gift annuities. These assets are converted to produce sufficient income to fund the life income payments to the annuitant. The annuity payments required under the annuity agreement are guaranteed by the local institution which will receive the funds upon maturity. By denominational policy, all funds received are to be held until maturity. No portion of such funds may be used except to meet regular annuity payments when they exceed the earnings from the investment of annuity funds. All assets and liabilities of the Annuity Fund are shown as Other Assets and Liabilities. All income and expense is shown as Non-Operating.

E. Agency Fund

The Association is using this fund to account for the pooling of funds from various church entities for investing in larger amounts. Most of the fund is loaned to the Collateral Pool or in specific facilities with D. J. Davenport. The Association charges no fees nor retains any increase from the operations of this fund, other than if it has placed some of its own monies into this fund, in which case it receives its proportionate share. All assets and liabilities are shown as Other Assets and Liabilities. All income and expense is shown as Non-Operating.

The ITEL Corporation filed on January 22, 1981, an application for reorganization under Chapter 11 of the Federal Bankruptcy Law.

In October 1983, the North Pacific Union Conference Association received 555 shares of common stock, 51 shares of preferred stock, $5,800 of 10% notes, $6,400 of 14% notes, and $18,854 in cash. These securities were all liquidated at a loss of $9,708 to the Annuity Fund in 1983.

FOOTNOTE 5: K. D. Gilbert, Inc.

In December 1978, 40 shares of K. D. Gilbert, Inc. stock was donated to the Association. This stock was recorded in the accounting records at a nominal value of $1.00 as was denominational practice at that time. Since this stock was in a closely held corporation it was not listed on any exchange, and was hard to evaluate. During 1983 the value of the stock was adjusted to equal $63,600 which was the approximate value at the date of the gift, less an allowance for decline in value of $10,199 to reduce the value to an estimated value of $53,400 at August 31, 1982.

FOOTNOTE 6: Canyon Silver Mines Stock

In 1973, 300,000 shares of Canyon Silver Mines, Inc. stock was donated to the Association. This stock was recorded in the accounting records at a nominal value of $1.00 as was denominational practice at that time, and because of certain restrictions which existed on the sale of the stock. Since then the restrictions have been lifted, and the stock can be sold on the Spokane exchange at any time. In 1982 the remaining 215,000 shares of Canyon Silver Mines stock on hand at December 31, 1982, were adjusted to the fair market value of 50 cents per share instead of the $1.00 nominal value.

FOOTNOTE 9: Accounts and Notes Receivable — Davenport

Included in the notes receivable are amounts which represent funds loaned to D. J. Davenport through a pooling arrangement called the Collateral Pool. On July 22, 1981, D. J. Davenport filed application for reorganization under Chapter 11 of the Federal Bankruptcy Act. Since then the trustee for the Bankruptcy Estate has abandoned any claim on the assets held as security in the Collateral Pool. The Association has been receiving rental income and/or mortgage payments on the Collateral pool assets. The D. J. Davenport Bankruptcy accounts receivable is the unsecured claims portion of the Collateral Pool. Management estimates that all of the Collateral Pool notes receivable which was backed by first and second trust deeds will ultimately be collected.

Also included was a promissory note acquired by gift that was written off in 1985 after receiving a 25 percent recovery from bankruptcy dividends. Any further bankruptcy dividends will be reported in the Current Fund.

Subsequent to Dec. 31, 1985, the Association and the other entities in the Collateral Pool agreed to discount the second trust deeds $115,387 for an early payoff, giving a net proceeds of $540,500.

FOOTNOTE 10: Davenport Bankruptcy Claims

The Davenport Bankruptcy Claims represent unsecured notes purchased from trustors and church entities (Notes 11, 12) as a result of claims made against the Association. This is part of the Association's claim in the bankruptcy court.

The amounts received from bankruptcy dividends have reduced these notes receivable from the Davenport

Bankruptcy Claims to the allowance for uncollectible amounts set up for the claims, and the Association wrote off the $1,970,068 balance against the allowance account in 1985. Management anticipates additional dividends, but they are unable to determine the amount or when the next dividend will be received.

FOOTNOTE 11: Litigation

The North Pacific Union Conference Association was named in five lawsuits as a result of D. J. Davenport filing application for reorganization under Chapter 11 of the Federal Bankruptcy Act. These lawsuits alleged violation in trustor/trustee relationships, fraud and security violations as pertained to certain loans made to D. J. Davenport. The Association has settled out of court all of the lawsuits during 1982, 1983 and 1984.

In addition, two trustors agreed to have the General Conference Steering Committee through arbitration determine the amount of their claims against the Association. The Association during 1983 settled these claims in accordance with the Arbitration Committee's decision.

The total expense incurred by the Association to settle claims involving trustor loans and to buy out trustor loans was as follows: 1985 — $12,450; 1984 — $33,353; 1983 — $57,400; and 1982 — $1,753,327, for a total expense of $1,856,530.

FOOTNOTE 12: Claims by Church Entities

Various church entities have made claims against the North Pacific Union Conference Association regarding funds which were pooled for loans to D. J. Davenport through the Collateral Pool. The total amount of these claims is $2,794,397. Management has taken a position that the Collateral Pool was a joint venture and therefore the claims are unfounded.

In May of 1985, the Association voted to allocate $412,817 from the insurance recovery, $356,813 from the General Conference appropriation, and to pay $66,863 for management loss to the Collateral Pool in settlement of the dispute with the other entities in the pool. The other entities approved the allocation and each received their pro-rata share during 1985.

The Washington County, Oregon, and the Albany County, Wyoming, properties were transferred from the Agency Fund in preparation for the new accounting system beginning January 1, 1986. The Washington County property belongs to Home Health Education Service. The Albany County property was a gift given to the Association in 1979 part of which is restricted. The Sandoval County, New Mexico property was transferred to the Alaska Corporation of SDA. The Waxahachie, Texas property was formerly a second trust deed in the Collateral Pool. The Association foreclosed on this property in 1985 and received title. The Fontana property is being reduced by dividends received from the Davenport Bankruptcy estate.

Subsequent to December 31, 1985, the Fairview property was sold for $500, and the Washington County property was sold for $46,500 with the net proceeds being paid to the Home Health Education Service. Subsequent to December 31, 1985, the Association and the other entities in the Collateral Pool agreed to sell the Waxahachie and the Hanford properties for $38,300 and $18,000 respectively less closing costs.

The loans payable to the General Conference and North Pacific Union Conference represent monies borrowed to pay claims resulting from the D. J. Davenport loans and their portion of the unsecured claim. During February 1983, the Association received an advance against insurance for $361,000 to settle lawsuits mentioned in Footnotes 11, 12. In 1982 management set up $1,000,000 receivable from insurance of which $639,000 is in accounts receivable at December 31, 1983. Management believes that through the liquidation of assets received from the bankruptcy estate and from bankruptcy dividends sufficient funds will be received to repay the North Pacific Union Conference loans.

Beginning with the year 1984 the annuity liability reflects the present value of the annuities taking into consideration the interest rate and the life expectancy of the annuitants. Prior to 1984, the annuity liability was stated as the equivalent of total assets.

Since the majority of annuities held by the Association are for the benefit of other entities and since the annuity liability is stated at its present value, for 1985 and 1984, the fund balance for the other entities is shown as deferred income until the annuity matures.

The Association Report

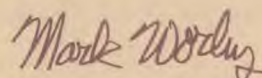

Revolving Fund

To the Members of the Constituency of the North Pacific Union Conference
Association of Seventh-day Adventists
Portland, Oregon

We have examined the balance sheets of the Revolving Fund of the North Pacific Union Conference Association of Seventh-day Adventists as of December 31, 1985, 1984, 1983, 1982 and 1981, and the related statements of income and expense and changes in fund balances for the years then ended. Our examinations were made in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted by the Seventh-day Adventist denomination and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, as auditors of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, the financial statements referred to above present fairly the financial position of the Revolving Fund of the North Pacific Union Conference Association of Seventh-day Adventists as of December 31, 1985, 1984, 1983, 1982 and 1981, and the results of its operations and changes in its fund balances for the years then ended, in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted by the Seventh-day Adventist denomination applied on a consistent basis. Further in our opinion, the financial operations were in conformity in all material respects with applicable policies of the Seventh-day Adventist denomination.

FOOTNOTE 1: Significant Accounting Policies

Revenue Recognition

The accounting records are maintained on the accrual basis of accounting.

FOOTNOTE 2: Description of Fund

The Revolving Fund began in February 1978, and is used to make loans to churches and schools. Notes are issued to church members investing in the Fund and these notes are redeemable 90 days after demand. These funds are loaned to churches and schools at one-half of one percent over the interest rate paid the investor. The church and school loans are repaid over a maximum of 60 months. This fund is registered with the State of Oregon and in addition is authorized in the states of Alaska, Idaho, Montana and Washington.

A Sinking Fund is provided in accordance with General Conference policy. Each conference contributes from non-tithe funds the equivalent of one-fourth of one percent of the tithe.

FOOTNOTE 3: Investment with First Los Angeles Bank (1981 and 1982)

On March 5, 1981, a $100,000 certificate of deposit was purchased for the Sinking Fund from the First Los Angeles Bank, at an interest rate of 15.3 percent with a fixed maturity date of August 31, 1981. The First Los Angeles Bank alleged that this amount constituted a compensating balance for loans made to D. J. Davenport in the amount of $1,200,000. This is the amount of the claim the First Los Angeles Bank made against the North Pacific Union Conference Association and North Pacific Union Conference. On May 2, 1983, an agreement was signed by the First Los Angeles Bank and North Pacific Union Conference Association by which the bank agreed to return the principal of $100,000 without interest as a settlement in full of all claims the First Los Angeles Bank may or may not have had against the Association and its officers and directors. The $100,000 was received on May 24, 1983.

No detailed examination of the accounting records of any trusts that are administered by the North Pacific Union Conference Association of Seventh-day Adventists in its trustee capacity was made during 1985, 1984, 1983, 1982 and 1981. Therefore, we do not express an opinion on the trust accounts.

Trust Services

Many Changes Mark Progress

The North Pacific Union Conference Association is the legal body of the North Pacific Union Conference. The Association is a special arm of the church established to hold title to properties, administer financial affairs related to owned assets and to be the legal umbrella under which Trust Services functions.

During the past quinquennium, the North Pacific Union Conference Association and Trust Services continued to conduct association business, manage trust affairs and settle matured estates. Much of the business of the Association and Trust Services was routine. However, with the Davenport bankruptcy, it was also an eventful and anxious five years. A detailed report on that issue is being prepared by the Association Treasurer and is included in this report.

Bylaw Changes

The events of the past five years prompted a serious study of the Articles of Incorporation and the Bylaws of the Association. There was a general update of both in 1981 and specific amendments to the Bylaws in the years that followed. Some amendments concerned:

- the acquisition and disposition of property
- the procedure for amending bylaws
- the membership of the Board of Trustees
- defining of a quorum
- the duties and functions of the President and Treasurer
- a redefining of areas of authority
- the dissolving of the Corporation Executive Committee and replacement by an interim

Changes in Policy and Procedure

On September 3, 1981, the Board of Trustees and North Pacific Union Conference Executive Committee adopted a policy to dramatically reduce the amount of trustee expense and liability of the North Pacific Union Conference Association. This policy calls for as many revocable trusts as possible to be converted to wills.

In 1981 we managed 206 revocable trusts on the union level. Today, we manage 125, and 55 of these are in process of being converted to wills. Chart #1 at the end of this report shows the reduction Unionwide in revocable trusts and the increase in wills during the past five years. Irrevocable trusts are still written and managed by the NPUCA. At present, we manage 64 irrevocable trusts on the Union level.

In 1984, an audit of the trust program was performed by the firm of Ernst & Whinney. We have been endeavoring, where feasible, to refine our program in harmony with their recommendations. Two major items are the hiring of an internal trust auditor and the development of a procedures manual.

In addition, the General Conference has voted a comprehensive continuing education program for all Trust Services personnel. Each individual is required initially to pass a test, then complete a specified number of hours of study each year to be certified.

Also, each conference must meet certain requirements to be accredited and receive approval to operate a trust program. We are happy to report that every individual working in Trust Services both in the Union and local conferences has met the requirements and will receive certificates at the 1986 National Trust Services Workshop.

Trust Accounting

Since 1980, the NPUCA has been responsible for the trust accounting for the Washington Conference. Recently, the trust accounts for the Montana Conference have been added. Thanks to the capable personnel in the NPUCA accounting office, we have been able to offer this valuable assistance to Washington and Montana

Trust Funds

Chart I at the end of this report reveals that the number of trusts written is decreasing and the number of wills increasing. This is because of our emphasis of wills over revocable trusts. However, there is still a heavy trustee responsibility with the remaining 2,548 revocable trusts throughout the Union. A sizable portion of the estimated $130 million dollars of trust assets is designated to come to the church at maturity. In addition, the NPUCA administers irrevocable trust and annuities.

Chart II reveals the distribution to the church from matured trusts, bequests and gifts during the past five years. This is an accumulative report for the entire Union.

Personnel Changes

Retirement and transfers have caused a number of changes in Trust personnel in the local fields and Union Conference office staff. Charles O'Dell transferred to Loma Linda University in 1984 and was succeeded by Bernard Cook as Trust director. One year later Cook retired and was succeeded by Leonard Ayers, the present director of Trust Services.

Londa Raines, secretary to the Trust director, moved with her husband to Tacoma, Washington. Her position was filled by Connie Bird. Bess

Handling the secretarial work in the Association are Connie Bird, seated, Yvonne Ames, left, and Diana Copeland.

Bresee, secretary, retired this year, and because of increasing workload in accounting, JoAnn House was hired full time and Diana Copeland part time in this department.

We believe that the Lord continues to guide His work in the Association. Our staff is efficient and dedicated to the task and we believe our trustors to be loyal and understanding of the complexities of today's challenges. The dedication and contribution of each Board of Trustees and Executive Committee member has been greatly appreciated.

Film Library

Visual aids are a way of life in this generation. They serve a real purpose in the learning process of life as well as the field of entertainment.

Because of this and other factors, the North Pacific Union has established a Film Library containing about 750 films of a wide variety.

Most frequent users of our films are schools. From nine to 10 months out of the year, Mrs. Marcia Stanton, who processes the orders, cleans and repairs the films, is kept busy keeping up with the requests which flow in from all around the Union.

There are many excellent films on the market to meet the needs of our young people these days, and with the purchase plan we follow of buying the films and then renting them at cost to our schools, they meet a growing need for our schools and yet are a financial bargain if we compare our rental rates to those in the public domain.

In addition to our schools, there are films for family entertainment, for Pathfinders, Five-Day Plans, evangelism needs, lay witnessing, and summer youth camps and youth needs.

Each film, when it is returned to us, is cleaned and checked for repair needs and is shelved and made ready for use again. The charges on our films are designed to make the department basically self-supporting and yet a much more economical source for our churches, schools, youth clubs and groups and for the church at large.

Project PATCH

Brand-new to the world church and of course to the North Pacific Union is a program called "Project PATCH." It is an acronym for Planned Assistance for Troubled Children, a Caring Ministry for youth and their parents.

Like it or not, children in Adventist homes are experiencing abuse, neglect, delinquency, negligence, and betrayal of many of the things we take for granted in our church.

Because there are a number of young people with an Adventist background who do not come to the attention of the courts and Children's Services Divisions every year, it is the desire of the Union leadership to provide a referral system to these agencies who process such children, so that children with an Adventist background may have an opportunity to be placed in an environment of the same religion.

- PATCH is a referral service designed to benefit and assist existing agencies in placement of children.
- PATCH is a resource center for families seeking appropriate counseling.
- PATCH has a 24-hour hotline designed to help children in a crisis.
- PATCH will not protect a child who has committed a crime, or any parent who has committed a crime against a child.

Paul and Sue Campanello,
Assistant Directors, Project
PATCH

- PATCH will assist families in placement of children in appropriate foster homes on a temporary basis whenever it is able to. It does not and cannot meet every need, but it has already proved to be a significant help to many young people as well as parents.
- PATCH is self-funded from direct, tax-deductible contributions of many people and sources. No denominational monies are involved in salaries or kindred expenses.
- PATCH is lay oriented and directed. Its executive and full boards are chaired by lay persons who are especially trained, talented and gifted in those areas directly related to youth and their problems.

To date, at least 335 young people from every walk of life, and almost every fiscal level, have been helped by Project PATCH. Problems such as runaways, physical and sexual abuse, thievery, drinking, divorce-related problems, and the list goes on and on and on, have been helped through the ministry of Project PATCH. Of the 335 young people helped, 80 of them have been placed in Adventist foster homes.

We are indebted to Pastor and Mrs. Tom Sanford for their commitment to our youth and this program. Theirs is a special ministry and we thank them for sharing it with our youth.

Members serving on the boards are: Project PATCH Executive Committee: Sam LeFore, Chairman; Mrs. Fern Ringering, Mrs. Shirley Smith, John Todorovich, Jack Harris, Tom Sanford, and Attorney Gary Bertoni.

Project PATCH Administrative Committee: Sam LeFore, Chairman; Tom Sanford, Jack Harris, Glen Chinn, Mrs. Rita Clay, Dr. Howard Ferguson, Dr. Howard Osborne, Mrs. Mary Paulson, Mrs. Fern Ringering, John Todorovich, Attorney Gary Bertoni, Mrs. Bryce Young, and Mrs. LeEllen Bradshaw.

Loss Control

A few years ago the majority of our church membership was not familiar with the function of the Loss Control Department. Today this is not the case.

Loss Control is a vital part of the daily operation of our church program beginning with the grass roots of the local church, to every level of administrative responsibility. When accidents occur, whether it be injury, loss of life, or property, if negligence can be proven it can be costly to the denomination as well as to the individual involved. Following are a few highlights of the past five years within this department:

1. From 1981 through 1986 the North Pacific Union Conference and local conferences have received credits amounting to approximately $1,154,924. This was reflected in large discounts on insurance premiums.
2. There has been a continual decrease in accidents in our schools, youth camps and church related activities in general.
3. Our churches, schools and youth camps are reflecting much safer conditions due to greater interest being generated by leaders in safety precautions.
4. Safety records are filed with the General Conference, union and local conferences, churches and school offices, which would prove invaluable should the church be required to defend itself within the courts.

Loss Control touches every aspect of the church operation and is successful because of people who are willing to become involved in correcting a questionable situation. It is people working together to make our facilities safe places in which to carry on God's work.

God desires our best in every activity, and there is no excuse for deliberate negligence regarding the safety of our membership or the public at large.

Adventist Laymen's Services and Industries

The Adventist-Layman's Services and Industries of the North Pacific Union is a growing organization. It is comprised of Adventist business and professional people in a wide variety of services and industries. It offers an unusual kind of fellowship to our people who make their living in the business world, and its laymen have long since indicated their strong interest in the work of the church.

Part of the ASI membership application has space for them to indicate their plans to be active in soul winning and in witnessing as they work. Each year when we have our meetings for the Northwest chapter, there are thrilling stories and accounts of those who have been won to the Lord through their witnessing activities. So it is working, and they are winning.

ASI was first organized in 1947 under the sponsorship of the General Conference. The national chapter chooses its own officers and leaders, as well as their own General Conference Executive Committee. He serves as secretary and treasurer of the organization, but the national president and associate officers are laymen in various kinds of business.

Each year the Northwest Chapter has a meeting in the Northwest. One year it is held at Camp MiVoden and the next year it is held at Gladstone Campground. The members come together for professional classes and lectures in some business-related area. On Sabbath they gather from every direction for the inspiration and fellowship that mean much. They enjoy the kindred spirit with those who share the burdens of life in the business world.

Giving strong leadership for our Northwest Chapter is Irwin Rogers, Northwest Chapter president. He is an insurance broker whose business is in Boise, Idaho. Working with him are his fellow officers, vice president James Brock, automobile dealer and car rental agency in Caldwell, Idaho; serving as secretary to the chapter is Mrs. Shirley Morehouse, of Olympia, Wash.; and the treasurer is Ron Oliver of Vancouver, Wash.

Joe Hansen served as the NPUC ASI chapter secretary until his retirement and now resides in the Portland area.

The Northwest is represented on the national level with Mrs. Mary Paulson of Springfield, Ore., serving on the national committee, as well as Henry Martin of Grants Pass, Ore. Mrs. Paulson is the owner/operator of nursing homes and retirement centers, and Martin is an automobile dealer. Both of these members are active in soul winning and in every work of the church in a positive and supportive way. They are but two of many who make up the 100 members in our chapter here in the Northwest.

Each of our conferences here in the North Pacific Union has its own ASI secretary and we are happy to introduce them to you, for they represent your conferences very well. They are: Alaska, Frank Stokes; Idaho, Reuben Beck; Montana, John Rasmussen; Ore., Dean Van Tassel; Upper Columbia, Ted Lutts; Washington, Roy Wesson.

Eugene Lambert,
Data Center Director

Union Services

Computer Services

With the encouragement of Max C. Torkelsen, then secretary of the North Pacific Union Conference, the Data Processing Center was launched in July 1973, and has completed 13 years of service. Eugene Lambert is the director, and Ivalee Clark the secretary. They are still "going strong" although the staff has increased considerably since the beginning days.

Data Processing exists to provide information on a timely basis to assist management in the decision-making process. It thus supports the ministry of the church and hastens the return of our Lord. Vital statistics that once filled volumes of books now can be stored on small disks and be brought to life immediately by the magic of the computer.

High-tech equipment is sophisticated and changes rapidly. The first unit was an IBM System-3 Model 10, and the first application was membership records. Payroll, general ledgers, secondary school scheduling, grades, labor, and billing followed. By 1980 an IBM System-34 was needed, and the staff now stood at seven. The year 1981 saw another System-34 which replaced the System-3. A year ago the two System-34s were replaced with one IBM System-36 768K main memory and 600-million-character disk. This new system is faster than the two 34s combined!

The number of programs has taken quantum leaps. There are now 2,900 written programs and 500 utility programs, which is nearly triple that of six or seven years ago. There are now 59 separate pieces of equipment connected with the Data Processing Center ranging from the main System-36 to local printers. The 1985 year-end work saw 50,000 pages printed and 2 million lines in about four weeks. However, rearranged work assignments and streamlined data flow have allowed a staff reduction.

Special features include a church treasurers' system which runs on microcomputers and is used by 50 churches in North America, and a new general ledger system for conferences, secondary schools, and corporations to meet new recommendations from the General Conference. Processing is being done for five conferences, nine academies, three elementary schools (five others are on a new microcomputer billing system), and Trust Services for the Southwestern Union on a contract basis.

The Data Processing Center has a flexibility of response that can serve a pastor, evangelist, administrator, teacher, or department leader. We can pinpoint different church groups for information and promotion. Operating statements for an academy or conference can be produced immediately. Age groupings in a certain conference can be ascertained. Thirty churches are using labels for their newsletters.

Evangelists use consolidated listings of client churches to determine who is a guest and who is not during a crusade. Overdue accounts receivable can be determined as often as posting is completed. The list goes on and on. We receive nearly 200 requests annually for special services.

As we mentioned before, a major portion of our systems analysis and programming time for the past two years has been the development of the new accounting system as recommended by the General Conference Auditing Department.

Ministerial Association

We begin our report by acknowledging the previous leadership and influence of William McVay, who for several years led out in this department and served it well as a department director, evangelist, teacher, and a pastor's pastor. We appreciate his contribution to the work.

We in the Ministerial Association count it a privilege to work with and for our ordained pastors in the North Pacific Union. In addition to the ordained pastors, we have licensed ministers, credentialed missionaries, licensed missionaries and other regular workers in various categories.

A good percentage of my time is spent with pastors in one capacity or another, counseling, preaching services, evangelistic meetings, various seminars, and providing helpful information to pastors through our publication "Harvest Northwest."

The North Pacific Union is blessed with exceptionally fine evangelists who are under the direction of the Ministerial Association. They are available for evangelistic services throughout the North Pacific Union.

Robert Goransson has been most successful in working with our Hispanic populace. As a result of his work, 300 individuals have been baptized since he joined our team. He has held series in Oregon, Idaho, Upper Columbia, and Alaska. He has been a blessing everywhere he has gone. As a result of his work, not only have there been numerous baptisms, but churches have been raised up and congregations have been spiritually fed and trained to be better witnesses. He and his wife Mary Kay work together as a team, and they are loved wherever they go.

Evangelist and Mrs. Leighton Holley joined us in 1985. Already their work has made a positive impact in the Northwest. They have held evangelistic series in Medford, Ore., in Puyallup, and in Wenatchee, Wash. Souls have been baptized as a result of their evangelism. In almost all of his series, he conducts revival/training sessions prior to his evangelism. He involves area pastors and churches in the series, thus broadening the evangelistic potential and inspiration. They will continue to be a blessing to us here in the Northwest.

Joining us in 1986 are Clif and Mary Walter and Bernie and Carol Paulson. They have previously served in the Oregon Conference, where they were an excellent blessing in each series. Already their schedule is full for the next two years as they plan their program. They, too, will be training pastors and laymen in a witnessing concept and will endeavor to bring a revival message to our people as well as the three angels' messages to those not yet of our faith.

Continuing education for our pastors is a high priority item for those of us in the Ministerial Association. On a regular basis, Andrews University classes are conducted on the Walla Walla College campus by Andrews professors, all of whom are organized and scheduled by the NPUC Ministerial Association. It is our aim to keep the pastor abreast of the times and to help him scholastically, professionally, and spiritually in the performance of his calling.

Northwest Ministries Training Center

Jay Gallimore,
Northwest Ministries
Training Center
Director

Heading up a vital training center for ministerial interns is Jay Gallimore, pastor in Kent, Wash. He doubles as pastor and teacher/trainer for the Northwest Ministries Training Center. Each year for three months theology students returning to the Northwest from Andrews University are in his class studying evangelism, with major emphasis being given to a "hands-on" relationship as opposed to the theoretical. It has proven successful and helpful to the many students who have attended the center so far.

Each of the conferences in our union has a capable ministerial secretary, and the work in their conferences is blessed by their ministry and leadership. They are as follows: Alaska, Stephen McPherson; Idaho, Paul Nelson; Montana, Herman Bauman; Oregon, Garrie Williams; Upper Columbia, Bryce Pascoe; Washington, Lenard Jaecks.

Office of General Counsel

It has been said that the role and function of a Union Conference falls within two general categories: (1) direct management of certain church activities within its region, and (2) consultant to and resource center for the component local conferences and other affiliated or church-operated institutions within its territory. The Office of General Counsel parallels those categories by:

Category One. Serving as legal advisor, counselor and attorney for the Union Corporation and Conference in areas pertaining to its direct administration and responsibility. Those areas consist primarily of the Departments of Trust Services, Public Affairs (Religious Liberty), Education, and Home Health Education Services (Publication). Within this category, Legal Counsel devotes most of its time to the Corporation and Trust Services Department, for it is within these areas the church assumes significant fiduciary responsibilities and commits itself to legal obligations more in the nature of secular and business organizations.

Category Two. Serving as legal consultant and resource to the local conferences and affiliated institutions of the conferences and union. Recognizing the need for the services of an attorney to advise the local field in matters of legal concern which in most instances could not be afforded at the local conference level, the Union Executive Committee officially recognized this category as a responsibility of the Office of General Counsel. It should be noted that in serving in this capacity, General Counsel does not assume the role as a local conference's or institution's attorney, particularly in matters of litigation; however, by being called upon to render opinions and advice concerning potential legal problems, the local conference, church or school may reduce or in many instances avoid the expense of retaining the services of an attorney. Upon the request of the local field, General Counsel will render advice through the medium of memorandums, telephone conferences, and if the need calls for it, personal conferences. Services rendered in this category have ranged from serving as liaison between the local conference and trial attorney on major litigation, to advising local pastors and school principals on matters pertaining to the legal aspects of church discipline and employment. This office is expending approximately one-half of its time providing services within this category.

Like many other organizations, the Church finds itself vulnerable to the rising tide of litigation and legal complexities. The Office of General Counsel provides an effective and ongoing means by which to minimize legal risks and distractions while permitting the Church to press forward in fulfilling its mission in the North Pacific region.

Church Ministries

A New Department

At the General Conference Session in New Orleans in 1985, a new department to the church was born. After much discussion and debate, a department called Church Ministries was formed.

Basically, it was planned to save salaries and kindred expenses at the upper levels of the church, beginning at the General Conference level. Not only did the plan encompass cutting salaries and personnel, but it was felt there would be better communication between the existing and resulting departments so as to reduce overlapping of departments, their function, programs, materials and effectiveness.

Here in the North Pacific Union the union secretary has been named the Church Ministries director. Working with him are Allan Williamson in the Youth Department, Curtis Miller in the Sabbath School and Personal Ministries Departments, and Leonard Ayers in the Stewardship Department.

At the present time in our union, the plan seems to be functioning well. Some modifications will occur as time, circumstance, and leadership change, and as we proceed. It is too early in the history of the department to present anything in the way of cost savings, accomplishments, or anything else of a substantive measure. We can only state that it has not been more expensive, and the department directors are enjoying working together in a harmonious climate.

Church Ministries

Sabbath School and Personal Ministries

With active member participation, the local Sabbath school can be the heartbeat of the church. Certainly it should be the growing edge of activity of the church by virtue of the number of members involved, for every church member should be a member of the Sabbath school. However, a person need not be a baptized church member to be a member of Sabbath school. In many areas of the Adventist world, because of our soul-winning projects, Sabbath school membership far exceeds church membership. In the Pacific Northwest in the previous five years, Sabbath school membership has increased to 52,220 members.

Ideally, every church member should be an involved lay member, potentially making Personal Ministries the working arm of the church, for its channels lay workers into every other department or activity of the church.

The daily Sabbath School Lesson Quarterly fosters the main organized personal Bible study plan in the life of the Adventist Christian. During the decade of the '80s the lesson quarterly will fairly well take us on a systematic study of the entire Bible. This study prepares us for eternity, and we will continue studying the wonders of salvation throughout eternity.

The Personal Ministries Department actively and practically utilizes this personal Bible study plan by using it as the springboard to service through personal evangelism in the Lay Bible Ministry Program. Lay Bible Ministers are trained in many local churches and in each of our conferences which conduct regular seminars in witnessing theory, practical hands-on home visitation and actual giving of Bible studies.

In order to qualify for a Lay Bible Ministry certificate, a candidate must be recommended by the local church, complete a training course, and lead a person to Christ. Since 1980, approximately 2,800 persons in the North Pacific Union have been trained and many have brought new members to our ranks through baptism. Adventist Lay Bible Ministers in the Northwest give an average of 90 Bible studies per day, which has helped raise up 38 new congregations during the past five years.

While there are many areas of growing Adventist population in our witnessing territory, there are others where no Adventists live. Alaska may have its O'Malley Church; it also has Rampart. Idaho is blessed with the Caldwell congregation in Treasure Valley; but there is also Challis. Montana's Bozeman Church in the Gallatin Valley has grown through the years; but what about the vast open environs of that place called Judith Gap?

In southern Oregon, the Grants Pass Church reaches toward 1,000 members, while in Upper Columbia the Village Church in College Place pushes toward 2,000; but what of Blachly and Lind? Washington has its Auburn City Church, but is also has a void around Darrington at the end of the highway. As the Sabbath school heart beats, the Personal Ministries arm must move and the witness work must be finished.

And finished it will be — by Sabbath school workers such as Millie McCann and Laura Nowlin in Choteau, Montana; Community Services workers Elmer and Lila Brody in Wenatchee, Washington; and Lyle and Louella Van Tassel in Bend, Oregon. There are conductors of Vacation Bible Schools like Cheryl Foland in Eagle, Idaho; and Julie Brown in Anchorage and Deborah Moore in Kenai, Alaska. And thank God for lay Bible Ministers such as Renni Fritz of Edmonds, Washington; Roger Dondino of Beaverton, Oregon; Bill Montgomery of Missoula, Montana; and Paul Massey's prison ministry at Walla Walla, Washington. These and countless others in Sabbath school and Personal Ministries units around our union help bring our Lord's coming nearer.

Darlene Clark,
Secretary

The main promoters of Sabbath School and Personal Ministries work in our union are the faithful local conference departmental directors and their hard-working office secretaries. We pay a tribute of appreciation for service to: Glenn Gingery, Frank Stokes, Kim Schroeder, Letah Warner, and Joyce Allison of Alaska; Jim Gray, Jean Guille and Elsie Albertsen of Idaho; Paul Nelson, Vernon Bretsch, Marvin Wray and Fred Beavon of Montana; Ron Watts, Dean Van Tassel, George White, Pat Horton, Doris Thurman, and Laurie Lafave of Oregon; Eston Allen, Clayton Childs, Sharon Fellows, Jean Wagner, Marjorie Jensen and Linda Medcalf of Upper Columbia; Loren Nelson, Russell Johnson, Debbie Gardner and Cindy Steinherst of Washington; and Darlene Clark of the North Pacific Union.

Youth and Young Adult Ministries

How important is Youth and Young Adult ministry in the Northwest? In the inspired words penned in Messages to Young People, page 204, by Ellen G. White, we read: "Satan knows there is no other class that can do as much good as young men and young women who are consecrated to God. The youth, if right, can sway a mighty influence." The ministry to our youth, and the ministry from our youth, can be a mighty influence in the sharing of the gospel to others.

Junior Youth

Pathfinders — Non-Adventist Recruitment

During the past five years, nearly a thousand non-Adventist Pathfinders have been inducted into our Pathfinder clubs in the North Pacific Union. This is part of the missionary outreach of our Pathfinding youth work. Parents of these new Pathfinders are favorably impressed with the Christian lifestyle their young people are learning. Reports of Bible studies and baptisms of both Pathfinders and parents are now being received. This outreach is made possible by the S.H.A.R.E. program sponsored by the NPUC Youth Ministries, which subsidizes each club for each new non-SDA Pathfinder which is recruited.

Union and Division Camporees

The Tygh Valley NPUC Pathfinder Camporee and the Camp Hale North American Division Pathfinder Camporee were two special events. More than 3,500 NPUC Pathfinders and staff attended the Union Camporee in 1982, and more than 1,800 NPUC Pathfinders and staff were part of the 17,000 Pathfinders from all across North America in attendance at the North American Division Camporee held in Colorado last summer.

Christian fellowship, exciting and challenging events, and campfire programs help make a camporee special, but the greatest memory from these two camporees will be the commitment to Christ, and the decisions for baptism that were made by hundreds of Pathfinders.

Pathfinder Witnessing

Pathfinders continue to be active in community service projects. These include collecting food and clothing for the needy in a "Treat Instead of Trick" program in October; beautifying cemetery grounds as a service to a small community; and improving the appearance of state highways by collecting and bagging litter. Many Pathfinder clubs have received special commendations from city officials. Pathfinders have also been involved in personal evangelism. Approximately 50 Pathfinders had a part in holding Voice of Junior Youth evangelistic meetings.

Pathfinder Leadership Training

Pathfinder Staff Training Courses are held annually in the local conferences. In 1982, the second Unionwide Pathfinder Coordinators' and Leaders' Conference was held to assist in leadership training.

A real credit for the success of Pathfinder program goes to the dedicated area coordinators and hundreds of local club leaders throughout the great Northwest. In the last five years, 174 clubs were started.

Bible camps and Leadership Retreat weekends are also part of the training for our junior-teen Pathfinder staff.

Summer Camps

Our youth camps have played an important part in soul-winning among our young people. There have been 4,500 campers who have made their decision for Christ and/or baptism in the last five years. This is youth evangelism of the highest order!

The Northwest's young people appreciate the beautiful camp facilities that have been made possible by the support of our administrators and lay people. These camps provide our youth a sanctuary where they can get away from the busy sounds of the city and spend some quiet time in contemplation and meditation in God's great book of Nature. For, after all, the salvation of our own young people is the primary purpose of our camping program.

Senior Youth

Summer Scholarship Program

More than 150 senior youth are involved each summer in the Scholarship Training Program. The majority of these youth work as staff members at our summer youth camps in the Union. These dedicated and energetic Christians counsel and direct the activities of the camp. They demonstrate a real love and concern for the campers, and act as spiritual leaders. They play an important part in helping hundreds of boys and girls to make a decision for Christ at camp.

Summer Ministries

Some of our senior youth work with our local churches as assistant pastors, Bible workers, Vacation Bible School teachers, and assistant health coordinators. These young people preach, give Bible studies, hold Revelation Seminars, and help lead out in Breathe-Free Programs and cooking schools. The result of their hard work is hundreds of personal contacts for the church, some resulting in baptisms.

Family Life Ministries

An emerging consciousness of the need for special work for families in our church has surfaced during the last several years. In the North Pacific Union, individuals, couples and groups are deeply involved in various kinds of family ministries. Family Life Seminars and workshops are held annually in many of our conferences. In these conferences, each church has a Family Life director, as well as a church Family Life Council. Home and family was a favorite subject of Ellen G. White, and her quotations are indicative of her view of the strategic importance of the Christian home: "Far more powerful than any sermon that can be preached is the influence of a true home upon human hearts and lives." Ministry of Healing, page 352.

The Great Commitment Celebration

The Great Commitment Celebration Sabbath in May has become a tradition in the Northwest. On this special Sabbath, youth and adults celebrate by renewing their dedication to Christ through commitment or recommitment. The entire church family rejoices together as many are baptized on this Sabbath. Special sermons are preached and fellowship socials are planned. There have been more than 5,000 young people, age 30 and under, who were baptized during the past five years.

Secular Campus Ministry

A Secular Campus Ministry was held the summer of 1984 at Auburn Academy for the 16 secular campus pastors of the NPUC, along with interested lay persons and university students. An active Secular Campus Ministry has been functioning on the campuses of the University of Washington and Washington State University.

Studio 7 is a vegetarian restaurant on the Pullman campus, which serves 30-50 persons a day, and has been successful in creating an interest in other Health Awareness Programs. The Adventist Church is committed to witnessing to the secular campus community in the Northwest.

Academy Leadership and Bible Conferences

Each Fall, the academy student leaders are given the opportunity to develop their expertise through practical leadership training. The purpose of the Bible Conference is to inspire the academy students and encourage them to be spiritual leaders on their respective campuses.

"Movie Movie"

In 1981, the NAD Youth Ministries Department requested Jere Patzer, then NPUC Youth director, to form a Study Commission on the topic of our church's position toward theater attendance, television and other leisure time activities. As a result of this Commission, made up of conference, college and academy administrators, along with students, parents, pastors and a psychiatrist, the film "Movie Movie" was produced. This film, along with study guides, is available through the NPUC Film Library. The Commission also formed an excellent Statement of Purpose as a guideline for Christian entertainment.

Youth Leadership Training

Several conferences sponsor Youth Leader Seminars and Workshops for their Adventist youth (AY) and Sabbath School Youth Division leaders.

Bible Conferences planned to meet the needs of SDA youth and young adults studying on secular high school, college and university campuses have proved very successful.

Walla Walla College Campus Ministry

It is the privilege of this office to work closely with the dedicated student leaders of WWC, along with their chaplain, Winston DeHaven, and to have a part in subsidizing their ministries. An outstanding program of on-campus activities and community involvement has been developed through the years.

Adventist Youth Taskforce

During the past five years, senior youth have served this church as assistant deans, outreach coordinators, hospital chaplains, youth pastors, assistant youth directors, and in other important capacities. The college chaplain's office works closely with the local conferences in helping them select well-qualified individuals for these key positions.

National Service Organization

There are currently 57 military personnel from the Northwest stationed around the world. An additional 69 servicepersons from outside the Northwest are stationed in our area. The General Conference NSO Headquarters has more than 1,000 names on their Adventist military list, and they are constantly searching for addresses of others who are in the service so that church papers, books and tapes can be sent to them. The NPUC, along with the local conference and church, provide a Servicemen's Kit for each SDA serviceperson. These kits include a Bible, Steps to Christ, a Bible text-finder, and leaflets on Adventist beliefs and teachings. We need to pray for those in the military. The isolation from fellow church members, the loneliness, the pressures, and frequent Sabbath problems, along with the temptations of military life, are challenges to a Christian's faith. The NSO provides counseling and encouragement as part of the ministry of the Caring Church.

Pan American Youth Congress

On December 13, 1984, 300 NPUC senior youth and their sponsors flew to Mexico City to attend the Pan American Youth Congress. Other delegates attending the congress were from Inter-America and South America, and although they could not understand one another's language, the smiles and waves proved that these are the universal language of the world.

On Sabbath morning, after the stirring sermon by Dick Barron, delegates responded to a call for dedication and recommitment to Christ. The NPUC delegation watched as one of its own sponsors took his wife by the hand, and made his way straight to the front, indicating his desire to unite with the Adventist Church. His family had been praying for him for 25 years, and the thrill of that moment is one the NPUC delegation will never forget.

Shortly after returning from the congress, he was baptized in his home church, surrounded by family and friends. The Pan American Youth Congress was worth all the time, money and effort that went into making it possible. The inspiration the youth received as they saw the challenges and needs of the world church was one that they will continue to remember as they prepare for a place in God's service.

Appreciation must be given to Jackie Beck, who coordinated the NPUC Youth Department during the seven-month interim between Youth directors, including the organization of the Pan American Youth Congress. Her willingness to work long hours and care for the needs of the sponsors and youth will always be remembered.

In November of 1985, the NPUC Youth Department hosted a Pan American Youth Congress Reunion at Gladstone Convention Center. The close bond of fellowship was still evident as 100 young people worshiped together on Sabbath, sharing memories and showing slides of what had impressed them most in their "trip of a lifetime." Their commitment to work for God and serve the needs of the world church was still very much alive in their hearts.

The NPUC Youth Ministries Department wishes to express appreciation to the great team of local conference Youth directors who have distinguished themselves as specialists in Youth Ministry. Without their leadership and dedication, this report would not be possible.

Also important are the Pathfinder coordinators, directors and staff who have given countless hours of service; and supporting them are the senior youth leaders, Sabbath school teachers, Family Life directors, camp rangers and cooks, as well as pastors. The list goes on — each person with a commitment — a strong commitment put into action, that the youth are the future of the church, and that they can be a mighty influence for Christ.

Church Ministries

Health and Temperance

The Pacific Northwest is a leader in Health Education programs for the North American Division. Local conference Health directors are constantly seeking new methods of reaching the people of their areas with the good news of better living. Each year, thousands of people in communities throughout the Northwest come into contact with the Adventist Church through the various Health and Temperance programs. By meeting the felt needs of people in its community, the Caring Church can gain their confidence and establish an ongoing relationship. This was the method of Christ while He was ministering to others.

"Christ's method alone will give true success in reaching the people. The Savior mingled with men as one who desired their good. He showed His sympathy for them, ministered to their needs, and won their confidence. Then He bade them, 'Follow Me.' "

Ministry of Healing, p. 143

The Breathe-Free Plan

The Breathe-Free Plan is the latest approach in strengthening the right arm of the Adventist Church. This is the new name of the officially updated Five-Day Plan, approved by the General Conference. It incorporates recent advances in motivation research for even greater effectiveness, and includes a built-in spiritual dimension.

More than 100 persons in the NPUC have already received the training for this program, and plans are to hold more training sessions which will make this new approach available to the entire Northwest.

During the last five years, there have been 1,695 Five-Day Plans to Stop Smoking. Our conferences are active in helping people to stop smoking during the Great American Smokeout, which is held each year in the United States.

Live-In

Vegetarian cooking, exercise classes and spiritual dependence, as well as the opportunity to quit smoking, are some of the benefits of the Live-In Program, which is sponsored by several of our conferences. Persons attending this week-long program have expressed appreciation for the positive change in lifestyle which they have experienced. Credit should be given to Frank Baker, Oregon Conference Health director, for his pioneering of the Live-In concept, and other health programs which have proved successful in the Northwest.

Youth Training for Better Living

Junior Adventist Youth for Better Living (JABL) is an organization which promotes health awareness for our elementary students. In the Washington Conference, the seventh- and eighth-graders attend a "Youth for Better Living Camp." This four-day program features seminars on peer pressure, drug awareness, physical exercise and speech presentations. Upon returning to their schools, the students share the knowledge they have learned with the other classes. They also present these programs in the public schools of their area.

Winner magazine is published especially for elementary-age youth. Its purpose is to safeguard our young people by making them aware of the dangers of chemical dependency. Teaching guides and curriculum outlines are available for the teacher.

Pathfinders also promote Health as part of their fairs and camporees.

Preventative Narcotics Education

Dutch Savage and Dr. Curtis Hesse hold Preventative Narcotics Education classes in Adventist schools, as well as other parochial and public schools. During the last three years, they have spoken in more than 300 public schools. They also have had the opportunity to speak in other denominational churches. After preaching about the love of Christ in the morning, they hold a Narcotics Education Seminar in the afternoon.

Recently, Listen magazine was distributed to more than 1,300 public, private and parochial schools in the State of Oregon Chapter of the American Lung Association.

Master of Public Health

The third four-year MPH class for the NPUC began in January of 1984. This classwork is designed with the professional in mind who already has a career, but is interested in supplementing it with a degree in Health. Classes are taught four times a year, for an average of three days (Sunday through Wednesday). This degree provides information on how one may best maintain a healthful lifestyle, as well as focus on the broader aspects of promoting public health. Approximately 30 students are enrolled in this current class.

Subsidy Program

The S.H.A.R.E. program for subsidizing outreach programs in Healthful Living has proved successful during this quinquennium. A popular program is a One-Day Fair which can include up to 15 or more different types of health testing stations. Blood pressure, hemoglobin, diabetes, hearing and oral cancer screening are some of the tests that are provided. Information is also available on drugs, stress and nutrition. Follow-up programs include Heartbeat, Breathe-Free, Stress Control (150 in the last five years), and Vegetarian Cooking Classes. A subsidy of $100 is given for the operation of this One-Day Fair and its follow-up programs.

Churches who have a booth in a county fair, with follow-up programs, may receive a $30 subsidy. Any church which offers to its community a health program for the first time (or for the first time after five years), may once per year receive a $25 subsidy. And any church which conducts a series of four different types of health programs in a sequence, ending with a reaping evangelistic activity, will be granted a subsidy of $125, after the close of the activities. Requests for these subsidies must be made through the local conference Health Department within three months after the close of the program.

Continuing Education Classes

A vegetarian Cuisine Instructor Training Course was held at Walla Walla College in 1983. This program, coordinated by the NPUC Health Department, was taught by Marilyn (Neumiller) Renk of the Health Education Department of Portland Adventist Medical Center. Eighty nutrition instructors from the NPUC took this class.

In 1984, a Vegetarian Nutrition Instructor's Course was held at Gladstone Convention Center, with Mrs. Renk and Dr. John Scharffenberg as instructors, and Frank Baker as the program coordinator. Sixty nutrition instructors completed this course. The nutrition instructors for both courses received General Conference certification.

These and other nutrition instructors, have conducted more than 615 nutrition classes in the NPUC during the last five years.

Additional Programs

Collegiate Adventist Youth for Better Living (CABL), is an active organization at Walla Walla College which sponsors on-campus and off-campus Health Awareness programs.

Adventist Youth for Better Living (AYBL), provides an opportunity for academy students to become involved in teaching the dangers of drug and alcohol abuse on their campuses, as well as in area high schools.

Our Adventist hospitals continue to be leaders in Health Education programs that meet the needs of the community.

Health vans provide medical check-up testing at county fairs, shopping malls and other key locations.

Appreciation

Our thanks to the local conference Health/Temperance directors for their fine leadership during this past quinquennium. Under their direction, along with the teamwork of hundreds of dedicated lay health educators, and the blessing of God, this report has been made possible.

Stewardship

During the past quinquennium, there have been four directors of Stewardship serving the North Pacific Union Conference; Joe Hansen, Charles O'Dell, Jack Harris and Leonard Ayers. Retirement, personnel transfer and realignment of responsibility resulted in a more-than-average turnover in five years. It has been the responsibility and privilege of these individuals to coordinate the Stewardship emphasis throughout the Union and to assist the local conference leaders in continuing education and development programs.

Many education series and programs have been conducted by the Stewardship directors of the Union and conferences: Dennis Carlson in Washington; Carleton Jackson, Stanley Folkenberg and David Parks in Upper Columbia; Fred Beavon in Montana; Leon Cornforth in Idaho; William Woodruff and Richard Beck in Alaska. Dean Van Tassel has led the way in Oregon in promoting the General Conference Personal Giving Plan.

The Personal Giving Plan

The major change of emphasis, during the past five years, has been the introduction of the General Conference Personal Giving Plan. Oregon, Alaska and Idaho have led the way, with many churches in Upper Columbia also adopting the plan. Twenty years ago, when Stewardship became a department rather than a fund-raising service, we began to emphasize planned systematic giving to a planned church budget. It was recognized that the real need was a heart change, and this would supply the dedication of time, talents and treasure to the Lord's work. Through the years, the concept of one gift to all the needs of the local church, and that given systematically, has proven a blessing to the giver as well as the local church. The Personal Giving Plan expands this concept to include the conference and world field.

Connie Bird,
Secretary

Many offering appeals have been reduced to four planned gifts: (1) local church, (2) local conference, (3) world budget, and (4) miscellaneous offerings and special projects. The Personal Giving Plan has proven to be a blessing where adopted and practiced by the membership.

At the 1985 Stewardship Workshop, the Stewardship directors of the North Pacific Union Conference voted to work toward establishing the plan in every church in the Union. It was recognized that for the plan to be a continuing success, initially every member would need to understand what was being proposed. Also, there would need to be continuing education and reports of success and failure so lessons could be learned and lifestyles changed. Churches would need to revise their approach to finance and appeals for funds to encourage planned systematic giving.

More Than Finance

God established the plan of benevolence to recreate the individual physically, mentally and spiritually into the image that was lost through sin.

This must always be the primary objective of every department of the church. We are aware of this fact taught in Scripture and Spirit of Prophecy; unfortunately at times, the emphasis is placed on the need for funds to the detriment of spiritual growth. It is the concern of the Stewardship directors of the North Pacific Union Conference that the need of the heart be primary; then the need of the treasury will be an automatic by-product.

There has been a reorganization of the department structure. Now stewardship is a part of Church Ministries. Working closer together it is anticipated that the spiritual and physical needs of the church can be better served in years to come.

Communication

Write the Vision and Make It Plain

The instruction given to the prophet Habakkuk has been the watchword for the communication work in the Northwest: "Write the vision, and make it plain upon tables, that he may run that readeth it." Hab. 2:2.

The function of the Communication Department is to give coverage to the vision, in this case the work and beliefs of the Adventist Church in the North Pacific Union. This is accomplished in many ways:

1. Supplying communication secretaries in the local churches, on a regular basis, with material through a monthly bulletin giving suggestions for news coverage of the local congregation.
2. The publicizing of special events in local conferences, such as conferencewide rallies and camp meetings, church dedications and other happenings of major significance.
3. Cooperation with local conferences in special ventures such as evangelism and Adventist Awareness campaigns.
4. The production of multimedia programs for conference and union constituency sessions as well as for special projects.
5. The establishment of Multivisual Productions to produce video programs.
6. The conducting of workshops and seminars for training communication secretaries and those interested in writing. Three extended writing seminars have been held in connection with camp meetings.

Genevieve Gyes, left, is secretary in the Communication Department, while Pam Booth takes care of GLEANER advertising and address changes.

Communication Secretaries

The accompanying chart shows the heavy involvement of the church communication secretaries in dissemination of the news of their local congregation to area media.

To purchase such coverage, even at minimal rates, would bring the costs into the millions of dollars. The work of these local church workers is greatly appreciated.

In addition to coverage of news for newspapers, radio, and television, the communication secretaries also supply news for the Gleaner.

Gleaner

An important function of the Union Communication Department is the editing of the biweekly journal the Gleaner. With a circulation of 36,000, it goes into every Adventist home in the Northwest, and an additional 1,800 subscriptions go to many who reside outside the union territory.

Writers' Groups

As an outgrowth of previous writing classes at camp meetings, three writers' organizations meet on a regular basis for instruction and inspiration. The groups are located in Portland, Ore.; the Seattle, Wash., area; and in College Place, Wash.

Edwin Schwisow,
Assistant Director

Department Function

Unlike the other departments of the church, the Communication Department is a service organization, seeking to provide information and publicity for every segment of the North Pacific Union. Its usefulness comes in its cooperation with other departments.

Like every part of the church with which it cooperates, this department is dedicated to one task — to have a part in giving the gospel to its audiences and to "write the vision."

Education

Something Better Is the Watchword

“Something better” is the watchword of education . . .” Ed., 296.

The “Mission Statement” for Adventist education in North America states that “The church’s belief regarding Christian education is based on the Scriptures and the writings of Ellen G. White which have provided the church with a distinct philosophy of education.”

Here in the NPUC Office of Education we concur with that statement and its continued assertion that “the aim of SDA education is the redemption of each student.” Therefore, it is essential that the Adventist school provide opportunities for students to develop a personal relationship with Christ as well as to develop their academic, physical, and social skills.

We believe it is our challenge here at the NPUC Office of Education to provide leadership for this to happen through a variety of resources and support services in the areas of curriculum development, administrative policies, financial planning, in-service workshops, and publications to meet the needs of “Today’s Christian Education.”

Educational Leadership

Is committed to the watchword of Adventist education — “Something Better.”

Educational leaders in the NPUC Office of Education are committed to providing leadership

Erma Lee,
Associate,

that will enable Adventist education to make a significant impact on the lives of the children and youth of this Union.

During the past quinquennium your education staff has:

- Coordinated and chaired a number of NAD and NPUC curriculum development workshops
- Provided leadership for a variety of forums such as
 - Futures Committee on Secondary Education
 - Education Taskforce
 - Joint Commission on Education K-16, NAD
 - Education Councils
 - School Commissions
 - School Administrators’ Councils
 - Superintendents’ Meetings
 - K-12 Curriculum Committees
 - Subject Area Conferences and Seminars
 - Union-wide Teachers’ Convention
 - And a host of others — all geared to enhance the work of the teacher and to provide support services and learning materials.
- We have not yet arrived. The schools today are facing a variety of problems. Lower enrollments, stifling costs, and increasing numbers of children with special educational or emotional needs, are just a few. However, we still have reason to be optimistic as we realize that our schools are still our best hope for the future.

Teachers

Are most significant in assuring "Something Better" in Adventist education.

The largest group of church employees in the Northwest is the educators in our schools. There are 575 certificated teachers serving in the K-12 education ministry. Add to this the large number of classified staff, and you have hundreds of individuals actively working in some meaningful and important way in the K-12 educational enterprise of the church within our Union territory.

An important function of the Union Office is the teacher certification process. Adventist teachers, in addition to meeting state teacher certification standards, must meet denominational standards. This process requires each teacher to have a minimum number of credits in Bible, prophetic guidance, and philosophy of Adventist education, as well as other unique aspects of our educational philosophy. During the past quinquennium the certification registrar's records have been placed on the computer to help facilitate this detailed task.

Judy Harp,
Secretary

The North American Division has designated the next five years as the Quinquennium of the Teacher. Emphasis during this period will be on:

- Giving teachers proper recognition
- Planning teacher development programs
- Enhancing job satisfaction by improved working relationships

Curriculum Development

Building blocks for "Something Better."

An important and critical ingredient of building strong academics is the availability of Christ-centered, educationally sound curriculum materials. The NPUC Office of Education has provided leadership in this area through curriculum development workshops, textbook adoption committees, subject area conferences, teachers' convention, curriculum committees, experimental and pilot projects, school evaluations, assistance in teacher supervision, and the production of a wide variety of curriculum resource materials as shown below.

Finances

An important additive in the quest for "Something Better."

The North Pacific Union believes in Christian education. It has developed a plan of financing for K-12 programs that is unequalled in North America. During the past five years the NAD and the NPUC have returned to the conferences and institutions a total of $5,156,000 for K-12 education programs. The following graph shows the way these funds were administered and distributed through the Office of Education as authorized by the Board of Education.

100% = $5,156,000

Students

They are the reason we continue the search for "Something Better."

A recent study (1985) of SDAs in another union focused on the effect of SDA education and baptisms as well as drop-out rate. The following graphs are quite explicit as to the findings.

It should be noted that while the membership drop-out rate for those who had at least 12 grades of SDA education was only two percent, it doesn't reflect the inactive members whose names are still on the church books. This, of course, would also be true of the other categories as well. Nevertheless, the message is clear: The best thing we can do for our children and youth is to give them an Adventist Christian education.

Ethnic Work Shows Growth

"Surely there is no enchantment against Jacob, neither is there any divination against Israel: according to this time it shall be said of Jacob and of Israel, what hath God wrought!" Numbers 23:23.

Using the experience from the above text, we too may exclaim "What hath God wrought!" In spite of the fact that the workers of iniquity are out to curse and thwart the advancement of God's cause, great strides have taken place during the past five years in our ethnic churches. The major steps that have taken place are:

ETHNIC CHURCH MEMBERSHIP The membership stands at 2,697 as of March 31, 1986, as compared to 1,701 at the end of 1981. This represents an increase of 996 members or approximately a 58½ percent growth.

Tithe

The tithe income jointly during the past five years has seen a steady increase, with the exception of a $10,000 drop in 1985. On the average each group shows an increase.

For the quinquennium 1981-1985 $4,013,184.79 was remitted. Adding the first quarter of 1986 in the amount of $236,501.20 brings the total to $4,249,685.99. These funds represent 90 percent of the average and below-average wage earner. They reflect also the faithfulness of the church members.

Literature Evangelists

There are five minority literature evangelists serving on a full- or part-time basis in the North Pacific Union. Most of these are in the Washington Conference.

Church Building

During the quinquennium three Black churches have been built, either fully or in part. Another church has sold its former building and plans to build within the next year. Two Korean churches have been purchased and now have representative church homes. Our great burden and concern now is to see that our Spanish and Vietnamese congregations have nice, functional church homes of their own. This is an urgent need within our union, and definite plans and monies need to be made available to make this a reality.

Convocations

The constituents of the Black and Spanish churches have been edified and blessed by the annual convocations. This year celebrates the ninth official convocation for the Blacks and the fifth for the Spanish.

Goransson Evangelistic Thrust

Bob and Mary Goransson joined the North Pacific Union team in January 1982. Their dedication and hard work have been rewarded by 300 souls being baptized. Quite naturally, the pastors have given good support everywhere this team has gone. At this time the Goransson team has held evangelistic meetings in every conference in the North Pacific Union except Washington Conference.

Future Projects

We exclaim in amazement and with delight, "What hath God wrought!" We are thrilled at the accomplishments, but the work is not finished. Our thoughts are those of the Apostle Paul, "Not as we had already attained, either were already perfect. . . . But this one thing we do, and that is press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." Phil. 3:12-14.

In Oregon there are approximately —

- 15,000 Asians
- 50,000 Blacks
- 20,000 American Indians
- 35,000 Spanish

In Washington there are approximately —

- 141,000 Asians
- 124,000 Blacks
- 65,000 American Indians
- 128,000 Spanish

I do not have the figures for Idaho, but we know there is a large number of Spanish individuals in that state. Alaska also has a large number of Blacks and various Indian tribes or cultures.

The fields are white and ready for harvest. I am positive that our ethnic workers are ready for the challenge.

A Sacred Work

"A Work Ordained of God — God has ordained the canvassing work as a means of presenting before the people the light contained in our books, and canvassers should be impressed with the importance of bringing before the world as fast as possible the books necessary for their spiritual education and enlightenment."

Colporteur Ministry — E. G. White

This is the commission that has been given to us as a church.

During the past quinquennium, there have been several major changes within the department which have improved the evangelistic thrust throughout the field.

First, per North Pacific Union Conference Executive Committee action of November 12, 1981, the Union Publishing Department was reorganized. It was voted to return the publishing department to the local conference level as of January 1, 1982, with local conference publishing directors and publishing committees. The N.P.U.C. Publishing Department and H.H.E.S. will continue to administer the LE benefits and commissions, process the contracts, ship the books to the customers, and supply training and selling materials to the literature evangelists.

Second, several changes took place in our Adventist Book Centers. The Alaska book store was moved to the new conference office with nearly double the square footage for display. The Idaho and Montana book stores are now under the management of Pacific Press. Third, the Pacific Press moved into the North Pacific Union Territory. It has been to our advantage to have the Pacific Press in Nampa, Idaho. This gives the N.P.U.C. Publishing Department a positive working relationship with the Press.

Trade Literature

The importance of the Adventist Books Centers (ABCs) is clearly stated in the Testimonies, Volume 6, page 316:

"In enlightening and confirming souls in the truth the publications will do a far greater work than can be accomplished by the ministry of the world alone."

The Adventist Book Centers were designed to serve the church with Adventist literature. Our Adventist Book Centers are lights in the cities where they operate, not only to the members of this church, but for those who walk in off the street as well. They offer opportunities for those who attend the camp meetings to purchase our literature at reduced prices. The bookmobile program brings our books directly to the members of the church who are not able to get to the conference office or to camp meeting for the purchase of our literature.

Adventist Book Center sales for the 1981 through 1985 quinquennium were $20,222,885.73 compared with 1976 through 1980 a figure of $15,533,891.00. This was an increase of 30 percent.

1. Group Canvass Program. The conference publishing director works with local conference administration in regard to the evangelistic meetings that are planned throughout the year. Group canvasses are organized prior to the meetings, which gives the literature evangelist the opportunity to visit and invite many of the families in the local area. Customers who have paid their account in full are also contacted by phone; and if there is an interest, they receive a personal visit and are invited to the meetings. The personal touch of our publishing ministry has resulted in baptisms totalling 507 souls during the past five-year period.

2. The Follow-Up Program. During the past two years, Lew Blumenberg has had the responsibility to develop soul-winning programs that include literature evangelists and leaders. These programs are focused on how to evaluate and lead a prospect to Bible Studies. By request from the local conference, he has taken part in Revelation Seminars resulting in more than 60 baptisms.

3. The Student Program. The student sales for the 1981 through 1985 quinquennium were $473,543 compared with 1976 through 1980 figures of $243,998 for an increase of 94 percent. The students have benefited by receiving scholarship funds, experience in meeting people one-to-one, learning sales techniques that help people make right decisions, and most important, the satisfaction of placing our publications in the home.

4. Total Sales. Subscription Literature Sales for 1981 through 1985 quinquennium were $7,418,493.45 compared with 1976 through 1980 figure of $5,345,609.89 for an increase of 39 percent. Increased sales indicate that more non-

Adventist homes have access to our literature. The following report also indicates the dedicated missionary zeal of our literature evangelists:

Free Literature Distribution	479,565
Bible School Enrollments	58,234
Interested Persons	4,067
Former SDAs Contacted	3,075
Homes Prayers Offered	1,669
Bible Studies Given	8,388
Baptisms	507

Home Health Education Service

Home Health Education Service is a service organization for the literature evangelists. It is vital to our overall publishing program. All sales are processed at the H.H.E.S., and the books are shipped direct from the H.H.E.S. office to the customer. With the cooperation of our literature evangelists writing good business, and the consistent collection plan, we are able to receive in cash, each month, more than 15 percent of our total accounts receivable.

With this cash flow, we have been able to pay our literature evangelists a large percentage of benefits during this past quinquennium. We are grateful for the staff at our H.H.E.S. who are dedicated to the same commission as our ABC managers, publishing leaders, and literature evangelists, which is to present before the people the light contained in our books.

We want to express our sincere appreciation to our H.H.E.S. Board and to the church administration for the support they have given.

Public Affairs & Religious Liberty

Wave the Banner of Religious Freedom

Those of us in the Department of Public Affairs and Religious Liberty here in the North Pacific Union work with a sense that we are cooperating with the four angels of Revelation 7 as we seek to do our part to "hold the four winds" of strife until the gospel story has gone to the whole world. Our aim is to continue to keep a high profile relative to the importance of personal religious freedom — the right to believe, practice and preach as we believe God directs us to do.

The past five years have been busy ones, and this report will deal briefly with some of the activities in which we have been engaged.

Our organizational structure continues to be centered in the North Pacific Union office as it has been for the past 13 years. There are no religious liberty employees in the local conferences. The department has a director and associate in the Union who cover the religious liberty work in the five states of the Union.

Each state capitol has a legislative liaison who may be an active or retired conference worker or a retired layman. Legislative needs are spotted by these men and dealt with by either the director or his associate, in cooperation with the legislative liaisons.

The Liberty magazine campaign, employment problems of the church members, unemployment compensation, state board Sabbath problems for dental and optometric students and others, Ingathering difficulties, restrictions on literature evangelists — these are some of the areas in which this department has taken action. Let us take a brief look at some of the happenings.

Glenn Patterson,
Associate Director

Liberty Magazine Campaign—The past five campaigns — 1982 through 1986 — have seen a total of $764,286.70 given by our faithful church members to send Liberty magazine to thought leaders here in the Northwest and other parts of North America. In per capita giving for this cause the North Pacific Union has led the North American Division, not only for the past five campaigns, but for at least the past 13 years. Note the conference breakdown for the past five years:

Alaska	$ 24,964.16
Idaho	56,564.41
Montana	50,880.18
Oregon	271,122.45
Upper Columbia	207,459.44
Washington	153,296.06
Total	$764,286.70

The total for the past 13 years is $1,781,072.57. We praise God for His blessings.

Legislation. Looking at the past 13 years, without trying to pinpoint specific dates, many legislative issues have been dealt with. In the Northwest state legislatures the following issues related to private and religious schools were dealt with: public funding, state control of curriculum, teacher certification, licensing and regulation, menu for food programs, hiring of homosexuals, state land use laws, and public transportation.

Issues relative to public schools included a minute of silence for prayer and the evolution-creation controversy.

Four Sunday closing laws were repealed.

The enactment of conscience clause laws, for those whose conscience would not allow support of or membership in labor unions, continued to spread. These were first enacted in Oregon and Washington in 1971. They spread to Montana and Alaska in the later '70s.

Taxes. Taxing of the property of religious organizations, sales tax and religious organizations were issues.

Outreach of the Church. Restriction placed by city statutes on Ingathering and the activities of literature evangelists required the education of city attorneys and city councils. We prevailed.

Employment Problems. As a result of the conscience clauses relative to labor unions, and particularly the 1980 passage of the same provision by Congress for the National Labor Relations Act, our church members have had very little problem in the past five years. The labor unions are following the provisions of the law, and our members are paying the equivalent of their union dues to a charity.

Sabbath problems have accelerated and been more difficult to solve in recent years. Seniority provisions in labor union contracts, the recession, and the U.S. Supreme Court ruling concerning this matter have increased the difficulty. And yet, God has blessed us with many successes. The new Equal Employment Opportunity Commission Guidelines on Discrimination because of Religion, issued in 1980, have been a real help during the past five years in solving Sabbath problems.

A number of unemployment compensation problems have surfaced because of employment loss due to the Sabbath. Generally, we have been successful in getting good rulings which give our people unemployment compensation.

Paula Ieen,
Secretary

In 1984, in cooperation with the General Conference Religious Liberty Department, our North Pacific Union constituency wrote letters, sent telegrams and made phone calls to their U.S. congressmen and senators voicing opposition to the sending of an ambassador to the Vatican. We did not succeed — the ambassador was sent.

Space does not allow for more. What a privilege we all have to be involved together in doing God's work in these final days of earth's history.

Ample Space for Dorcas Work

Shown are a few of the ladies who are especially thankful for our new fellowship building because of the two large, light rooms devoted to the Community Services projects. You have probably never seen a nicer facility devoted to Dorcas work. Our menfolks have built beautiful cupboards, and more cupboards. An all new, well-equipped laundry and clothes racks with plenty of sorting tables and counters are behind the office and receiving room.

Another room has floor-to-ceiling cupboards and bins along one side of it and counters holding five sewing machines along the opposite side, under the windows. There is still plenty of room for setting up two quilting frames that are kept busy every Dorcas day.

We are wishing to extend a very special thank you to our leader Mrs. Vera Ruud (fifth from the left in this picture) and her husband Lester for the many, many hours of work they have put into this project in the Walla Walla City Church.

Communication Secretary

Ephrata Youth Baptism

A special youth commitment day was set aside during the recent Abundant Life Seminar with Evangelist Jim Reinking. Three young persons took that opportunity to take their stand for Jesus Christ through baptism. From the left are Evangelist Reinking, David Brown, Eric and Allison Husted and Pastor Gary Fogelquist.

Milton-Stateline School Has Temperance Month

The Milton-Stateline School designated the month of March as "Temperance Emphasis Month." Each week the students viewed temperance films dealing with the hazards of smoking, drinking alcohol, and using drugs. Some of the grades learned more about the harmful effects of drugs when an Oregon state patrolman visited and presented factual information, followed by a question and answer period.

Teachers used the science periods to study the importance of learning to make wise decisions to insure good physical, mental, and spiritual health. The month-long emphasis culminated with a temperance poster contest.

Parents and friends came to the school gymnasium, where the posters were hung on the wall according to grades, and did the judging. First-, second-, and third-place winners were awarded cash prizes in each grade, with a grand prize awarded for grades 1-4, and one for grades 5-8. Top entrants from grades 4 through 8 were sent in to the American Lung Association of Oregon 1986 SMOKEARAMA contest.

Local winners were: Grade 1 — Israel Rush (1st), Matthew Mellish (2nd), Nathaniel Bollinger (2nd), Kimberly Robinson (3rd); Grade 2 — Steven Krumbah (1st), Jonathan Wells (2nd), Kandis White (3rd); Grade 3 — Gary Dunks (1st), Shon Darcy (2nd), Brandon Hallsted (3rd); Grade 4 — Kimberly Greiner (1st), Sam Kuzma (2nd), Greg Oetman (3rd); Grand Prize for Grades 1-4 was tied — Kristi Brown (grade 2) and Nicole Darcy (grade 3); Grade 5 — Matthew Biloff (1st), Justin Still (2nd), Matthew Eberhardt (2nd), Denise Brown (3rd); Grade 6 — Kimberly Whidden (1st), Misti Collett (2nd), Dawnen Woody (3rd), Sally Gross (3rd); Grade 7 — Bill Bingman (1st), David Thompson (2nd); Grade 8 — Ed Thompson (1st); Grand Prize for Grades 5-8 — Karalee Wagner (grade 5).

WALLA WALLA COLLEGE

College Announces Plans For Summer Graduation

Summer graduation exercises will be held at Walla Walla College on August 8 and 9 at the College Church.

Senior consecration will begin at 8 p.m. on Friday, August 8. The baccalaureate will be at 11 a.m., Saturday, August 9, with commencement at 9 p.m.

Sharon Cole, a Walla Walla resident, has been elected class president. She is a bioengineering and French major. Katrina Green, a business administration major from Portland, Ore., is vice president. Lance Coleman, a nursing major from Seattle, Wash., is vice president for the Portland campus. Cynthia McCreery, a home economics major from College Place, Wash., is secretary. Secretary for the Portland campus is nursing major Jane Fearing, from Boring, Ore. Greg Dorland, an engineering major from Centralia, Wash., is class treasurer. Morna Golke, an English major from River Hills, Manitoba, is chaplain.

Ron Manuel, associate professor of business, and Karen Tetz, instructor of nursing, are the class sponsors.

Enrollment for the summer has increased over last year in the early report from the summer session office. According to Melvin Lang, director of summer school, as of June 30, 352 students were enrolled in the different programs. Last year there were only 341 at the same time.

Teachers' programs have seen a rise in enrollment also from 61 in 1985 to 84 this year. "There are more students at the marine station and at the Portland campus this summer than last," said Lang.

White Estate Presents Seminar at WWC

Approximately 65 students attended a two-week seminar on Ellen White held June 16-26 at Walla Walla College.

Three representatives from the Ellen G. White Estate in Washington, D.C., taught the class titled "Contemporary Issues in Prophetic Guidance." The teaching team was headed by Estate Secretary Robert Olson, who was aided by Associate Secretaries Roger Coon and George Rice.

"The response to the class was favorable," said Olson. According to Olson, the class was directed primarily to ministers and teachers, with 36 ministers and 17 teachers from the North Pacific Union Conference enrolled in the class.

The seminar addressed several issues pertaining to White and her ministry, including literary borrowing, verbal and thought inspiration, the investigative judgment and White's impact on the church.

Olson pointed out two objectives of the class. First, they wanted class members to understand who Ellen White was and how she ministered. Second, they wanted to build the confidence of ministers and teachers in the role of Ellen White in the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

George Caviness, professor emeritus of modern languages at WWC, believes the White Estate team accomplished its goals. "They established that Mrs. White is a very important element in the world today," he said.

The college was the team's first stop on a study tour which will take them to Pacific Union College, Andrews University and Atlantic Union College before the summer is over.

According to Caviness, students responded enthusiastically to the class. "I feel a little sorry for the pastors and teachers who didn't make it. They missed a good class," he says. "Their efforts show that the White Estate is keeping up with the current needs of the church membership."

GENERAL NEWS

Signs of the Times Gets Citation for Excellence

The Lawrence Ragan Communications Company of Chicago, Ill., which conducts nationwide workshops in writing, editing, photography, design, typography, and speechwriting, has included several pages about Signs of the Times in its new book, 34 Distinguished Organizational Publications, written by Edmund Arnold.

Arnold sends this personal note: "I do hope that kind fate will cause our paths to cross one of these days, so that I can personally extend my compliments to everyone who is involved in producing Signs of the Times. It is just a superlative job."

In commenting on the magazine, the author notes: "Signs is a monthly with a circulation of 400,000, making it among the top 10 in circulation among church publications." It is "a Seventh-day Adventist institution."

After noting the design and editorial copy, he concludes: "Writing is of a high professional quality. Information is factual and any argument is left to signed columnists. While there's no question this is a magazine published by religious people, it is not stridently partisan. The reader's intelligence is complemented by the attitude that a thinking person, given the facts, subjected to the gentlest persuasion, will — and indeed must — make his or her own decision."

"Signs is a credit to the Adventist Church, to religious journalism, and, in fact, to American journalism in general!"

Human Relations Stories Wanted for Publication

The General Conference Office of Human Relations is seeking articles of a quality that would make them publishable in such denominational journals as Adventist Review, Ministry, Insight, Guide, and the Union conference papers.

The Office of Human Relations covers relationships within a church setting — rather than husband-wife, parent-child, etc. — and includes areas such as racial and ethnic relationships in the church, the role of women in the church, full inclusion of the handicapped in the church, and denominational employer-employee relationships. Both the local church and larger denominational entities are proper subjects of consideration.

Articles should promote increased fellowship of church members with others. They should aim to establish better relationships among various groups in the church. They should seek to improve our understanding and appreciation of cultural, racial, and gender differences. They should affirm the full dignity and work of all persons by creation and redemption.

If a manuscript is accepted by the Office of Human Relations and published in a denominational journal, the Office of Human Relations will pay a $125 honorarium upon publication. Such honorarium will be in addition to any payments made by the journal involved.

Send manuscripts with suggestion of journal to:

The Center for Human Relations
141 Seminary Hall
Andrews University
Berrien Springs, MI 49104

Authors' guidelines for a particular journal may be secured from the Center for Human Relations upon request.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Roseburg Concert

The Heralds Quartet will present a concert in Roseburg on Wednesday, August 13, at 7:30 p.m. The program is free and records and tapes will be available for purchase. The Roseburg Church is located at 1109 N.W. Garden Valley Blvd.

The quartet is scheduled to perform at the Portland Rockwood Church, 1910 S.E. 182nd Ave., at 7:30 p.m., Monday, August 19.

Rockwood Retreat

The Portland Rockwood Church will hold a weekend spiritual retreat Friday, August 15, through Sunday, August 17, at Salmon Falls Bible Camp, Washougal, Wash.

Featured Sabbath speaker will be Don Jacobsen, Oregon Conference president. There will be a question and answer forum in the afternoon. Cabins and dormitory rooms will be available.

The last day to register is Monday, August 11. For information and to register, contact Shirley Jordan at (503) 667-0230 or the church office, (503) 661-4100.

MFI Project

Maranatha Members and other interested persons: Help build a new Community Services center in The Dalles, Oregon, August 31 through September 7. Adequate room for your camper or R.V. For more information, contact Dean Campbell, president of the Oregon Chapter, (503) 476-1975.

Singles Camp Meeting

Come to the ASM mini camp meeting at Auburn Adventist Academy, August 10-16. Speakers include Dr. Robert Zamora, John Lorntz, Dr. Lyle Cornforth, Al Reimche, and Garland Day. Tuesday and Wednesday are free days to attend Expo '86 in Vancouver, B.C. For further information and to register, contact Lorene Soderstrom, 5261 Sonora Way, Carmichael, CA 95608; phone (916) 967-6178 evenings only.

Volunteers Needed

A work bee to complete the home of Dave and Cheryl Holloway has been slated for Aug. 10-15. The Holloways are self-supporting workers in Browning, Mont., helping to start work among the Blackfeet Indians.

The home has a double function. It serves as the Holloway residence, but it will also be a native meeting house. Skills of various kinds are needed to finish the interior of the structure. If you are willing to help, contact the Montana Conference, phone (406) 587-3101.

Marriage Retreat

A Hope for the Family Marriage Retreat is planned for Sept. 26 and 27 at a beautiful location in a magnificent, dense, cedar forest near Mt. Hood. Each couple will enjoy their own motel-type room with linens provided. Family-style, home-cooked vegetarian meals will be served.

The seminar is short, precise and informative — presented by Pastor Harvey and Kathy Corwin of Portland's Mt. Tabor Church.

The retreat is designed for couples who wish their marriage relationship to grow positively. The Corwins call it "a second honeymoon forest hideaway experience."

For information and reservations, call (503) 233-7606 or 653-0752 before Sept. 1, the deadline for registration.

Adventist Singles

A fun fellowship campout at Ritter Hot Springs, Ore., is planned for Sept. 5-7. This is a rustic old stage-coach town. There are rooms available in the old hotel on a first-come reservation basis. There are also facilities for campers and plenty of room for tents, too. Bring your swimsuits, sleeping bags, walking shoes, musical instruments and binoculars (this is a good place for bird watchers). We will have a good speaker, so come and enjoy.

The Springs are located on the middle fork of the John Day River about 90 miles south of Pendleton, Ore., between Dale and Long Creek. Take Highway 395, turn west at Ritter Junction, and go about 10 miles.

For information on fees and reservations, please contact: Olive Allison, 716 S.E. 4th Street, College Place, WA 99324; telephone (509) 529-2917. Reservation must be made by August 20, 1985.

Spokane Festival Run

The Spokane South Hill Church invites all walkers, runners and wheelchair contestants to join their third annual Spokane Fall Festival Run August 17, 9 a.m., at Manito Park. Registration for the three-mile run will be from 7-8:30 a.m. The registration fee is $6 and all contestants will receive a T-shirt. (Apply by mail or phone by August 11 to receive your T-shirt on the day of the race.) Plan to stay for the health festival activities at the gazebo after the race. There is something for everyone: health information booth; blood pressure and health fitness screening; relaxing entertainment; juice and snack bar and a poster contest for children aged 7-12. The festival will last until 2 p.m.

You may pick up race applications at the following Spokane locations: Better Living Center; The Athletes Foot;

Sunset Sports; La Chapina; Family Fitness Centers (now called Strohs); Club East; Club South; Club North; Spa Lady.

For information call Kathy Marson, (509) 927-0766.

Campion Alumni

The Campion Academy alumni weekend will be Oct. 24-26 at the academy. All persons who graduated from Campion, attended or who are interested in the school are invited to the weekend activities. Information regarding addresses of alumni will be appreciated. Jane Turner Sandquist, Alumni Association president

Singles Activities

The Portland Chapter of Adventist Singles Ministries is sponsoring the following upcoming activities:

August 8-10: Campout at Cove Palisades, Oregon (Prineville Reservoir), Group Site A. Modest charge. Everyone responsible for own food, tents, etc. No motor homes. Plan for a potluck on Sabbath. Call (503) 682-7258 for further information.

August 16: Potluck at Tabernacle Church, 26 SW Condor Way, Portland, at 1 p.m.

August 17: Swimming party and barbecue at Lorenzo Ghiglieri's home, 20 NW Hartley, Gresham. Bring a dish for a potluck and something to barbecue if you wish. Children are welcome only if parents supervise them at all times. Hours: 11:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m., with dinner between 2:00 and 3:00 p.m.

Snoqualmie Seminar

Paul Grove, retired professor of theology at Walla Walla College, will be presenting a seminar on Ellen White and Inspiration at the Snoqualmie Valley Church, 35909 Fish Hatchery Road, Fall City, Wash., on Sabbath, Sept. 6. Titles of the lectures include: 10 a.m. — "Understanding Inspiration", 11 a.m. — "A Lesser Light", 2 p.m. — "Update on Ellen White."

A potluck lunch will be served after the 11 a.m. service.

Pendleton Homecoming

The Pendleton, Ore., Adventist Church would like to invite former members, all alumni and friends and families to the homecoming weekend, Aug. 16. Dr. Charles Edwards will be the guest speaker for the worship services and there will be an afternoon musical program following the fellowship dinner.

Idaho Retreat

"Held in His Hand" is the theme for the Idaho Conference Christian Women's Retreat to be held at Camp Ida-Haven, Sept. 19-21. The weekend of fellowship, Christian growth discussions, Bible study and relaxation in nature will be highlighted by featured speaker Barbara Nelson.

All women, whether Adventist or other religious persuasions, who have a desire to know Jesus Christ better are welcome.

Church to be Organized

On Sabbath, August 23, during regular church services, the Amboy Adventist Company, Amboy, Wash., will have their status changed to that of a church. Officials from the Oregon Conference will be there to dedicate the newly remodeled church building. The Amboy members especially want to thank all who so generously helped with the remodeling project and invite them to join in the celebration! A fellowship dinner will follow.

Notice

Official notice is hereby given that the Twenty-Second regular constituency meeting of the North Pacific Union Conference of Seventh-day Adventists will be held in the Walla Walla Valley Academy auditorium, 300 Hussey Street, College Place, Wash., beginning September 7, 1986, at 9:00 a.m. The purpose of the constituency meeting is to present reports covering the five-year period ending Dec. 31, 1985, to elect or confirm officers, boards, and committees for the ensuing quinquennial period, to consider and act upon recommended changes to the constitution, and to transact such other business as may properly come before the constituents.

The present constitution provides that the voters of this conference shall be the duly appointed delegates from the local conferences within the Union, and certain ex officio and other delegates. Registration of delegates is scheduled to take place at the Walla Walla Valley Academy auditorium from 7:30 to 9:00 a.m., September 7, 1986, and the first meeting of the Union Conference session is called to convene at 9:00 a.m. September 7, 1986. All duly accredited delegates are urged to be in attendance at that time.

PEOPLE IN TRANSITION

WWC

Sergio Hernandez has been named dean of enrollment management for Walla Walla College.

Hernandez, whose previous title was director of admissions and financial aid, will now be responsible for recruitment, admissions, financial aid and retention.

The change will primarily affect retention efforts for students who are currently attending WWC. This will now be coordinated through the office of enrollment management, previously called the admissions office.

Hernandez, who started working for the college in September 1982, holds an Education Specialist degree from Wichita State University in Kansas.

Lori C. Lewis, previously an instructor in the Walla Walla College English department, became the director of WWC's office of college relations on July 1.

Lewis, who has taught both English and journalism classes at the college for the past two years, sees the job as an "opportunity to promote the many good qualities of WWC."

Lewis holds a master's degree with specialized study in English and American literature from Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Mich., as well as a bachelor of arts degree in English from Atlantic Union College, South Lancaster, Mass.

She has taught on both the high school and college levels. Her interest in public relations was sparked while working as assistant editor of the Atlantic Union College alumni journal.

Walt Meske will be joining the Walla Walla College administration on Aug. 11, as vice president for student affairs. Meske was appointed by President H. J. Bergman, pending approval by the college's board of trustees.

Meske is not new to WWC, having served previously as assistant to the president in development, associate dean, and finally, dean of men.

During his absence, he has been principal of both Gem State Academy in Caldwell, Idaho, and Walla Walla Valley Academy in College Place. He has also served as chaplain at Portland Adventist Medical Center in Portland, Ore.

Walt Meske

While here as dean of men, Meske improved both the interior and exterior of Sittner Hall, the men's dormitory, while also reviving "Omicron Pi Sigma," the men's club.

Meske holds a master of arts degree with a concentration in elementary and secondary educational administration from Whitworth College in Spokane, Wash. He also graduated from WWC with a bachelor of arts degree in elementary and secondary education.

Announcing the Conflict of the Ages set at 1971 prices!

Not since 1971 has the classic Conflict of the Ages five-volume, hardbound set by Ellen White been priced so low! Only U.S. $29.95/Cdn. $41.95! An incredible price! Why this special? Because the publisher, Pacific Press, believes every Adventist home in North America should have at least one of these sets. Perfect for college students and school libraries too.

This important set contains Patriarchs and Prophets, Prophets and Kings, The Desire of Ages, The Acts of the Apostles, and The Great Controversy.

This incredibly low price of just U.S. $29.95/Cdn. $41.95 lasts until December 31, 1986 only.

Don't miss the bargain of the year! See your ABC today. Or you can order toll free by calling 1-800-253-3000; in Alaska and Hawaii call 1-800-253-3002. MasterCard and VISA orders only. Price is sure to be at least U.S. $20 a set higher in 1987.

The Conflict of the Ages set is a Pacific Press product.

LECKINGTON—G. Donald Leckington was born Nov. 20, 1920, in Cloquet, Minn., and died May 28, 1986, in Veneta, Ore. He is survived by his wife Ruth, Veneta, two daughters: Janice Weathers, Medford, Ore., and Gayle Cross, Oakland, Calif.; a step-son, Lyle Hammer, Seattle, Wash.; three brothers: Charles, Albany, Ore.; Henry, Cloquet, and Harold, Tillamook, Ruth Barber and Lorraine Prohaska, both of Portland, Ore.

PERSON-TO-PERSON

Advertisements for this section are accepted from North Pacific Union Conference single adults only. Each ad must be accompanied by a letter from an NPUC Adventist pastor indicating that the person is an NPUC member in good standing.

The charge for each ad is $14 per insertion for 50 words or less, 50¢ for each additional word. Payment must accompany the ad. There is no billing.

If you wish to respond to an advertisement, the following rules apply: You must be an NPUC member in good standing and must attach a letter from your pastor indicating this. These letters are kept on file. If a person has advertised or responded to an ad in the past, it isn't necessary to send an additional pastoral letter of approval.

The GLEANER assumes no responsibility as to the marital status of respondents or advertisers except that they are North Pacific Union Conference members in good standing.

Put your letter to the individual in a stamped, sealed envelope and place the identification number on the outside. Put this letter in another envelope and mail it to Person to Person, GLEANER, Box 16677, Portland, OR 97216.

Please put your FULL NAME and RETURN ADDRESS on ALL envelopes you send to us. We do not forward unmarked mail.

Middle-aged man seeking slender lady any age to 45, children okay, who loves the Lord and desires an honest, loving, caring husband and enjoy cozy cabin home in isolated area with small SDA group to be established before Sunday Keeping Law. Please include photo, phone number, address. Replies answered. (21, 4)

#432
Neat, fun-loving, retired lady, 5'5", 125 lbs., who enjoys pretty things, music, flowers, nature, picnics, seeks a healthy, kind, compatible, intelligent, gentleman with similar interests and a sense of humor. (4)

#433
I am an affable sort in my early 30s dwelling in the I-5 corridor. Because the beauty remaining in this world fascinates me, I enjoy sharing vigorous outdoor activities, traveling, taking pictures and making music. My aim is to be "him that gloriet," of whom Jeremiah wrote. Being rather naive about things like marriage or raising children, I desire to take on challenges of family life one-at-a-time. Only ladies with a high need for affection, stability and appreciation, please. (4)

#434
Twenty-four-year-old female, weight proportioned to height, seeks friendship with man 24-31 who loves the Lord as I do. Enjoy hiking, music, spending time with friends and being out in nature. (4)

#435
Professional, 48 years old, 5'4½", 128 lbs., Christian lady seeks friendship of dedicated, Christian man. Interests and hobbies: reading and studying God's word, Spirit of Prophecy, healthful lifestyle (vegetarianism) practices, domestic arts, travel, hiking, camping, music, kind, tender, affection, and people. (4)
