The Tale Of Two Churches

BY C. L. TORREY, Treasurer, General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists

One Sabbath I was asked to speak at a certain church in a medium-sized town. It had taken me considerable time to find the church, as it was located on a narrow side street surrounded by old dwelling houses. After parking my car, I stood and looked at the church building. It had not been painted for many years. Some of the boards had rotted and doubtless the decay had penetrated quite deeply.

I started to walk up the front steps. Some of the boards were loose and it was really quite unsafe.

I walked on into the church and sat down on a shabby looking seat. The rostrum was unkempt. The interior badly needed redecorating. I thought, "What would a little paint do to this place!" No interest seemed to have been taken in this church by the elder or deacon.

After the service I discussed the condition of the church with the elder and the deacon. They readily agreed that the church needed to be repaired and repainted. But they said, "The people of the church are poor and the conference has given us no money for this work; therefore, we can do nothing. Someday the conference officers will realize that something must be done and funds will be provided, then we will repair and paint it."

So often we find this attitude where church leaders and members are concerned. It had never occurred to the elder and the deacon to place the burden upon the church members to beautify the house of God. When I suggested to these leaders that the men of the church, some of whom were good carpenters, might donate their time to repair the church, and an offering be taken for the purpose of buying paint, it seemed to be a brand new thought to them. They had been looking to the conference for the money instead of to themselves, and in the meantime they were apparently satisfied to sit with their hands folded and wait it out.

I then inquired if they had insured their church against fire. The answer was in the negative.

The pitiful condition of the church had its detrimental reaction upon the church members. They did not like to invite people to their church to worship until the conference repaired and painted it, so no new members had been added for a long time. It might have been so different if the members of the church had taken a financial interest in keeping the house of God in good repair and beautiful.

Later on I had occasion to attend church in another town. What a different situation! This church was also surrounded by older dwellings, some of which were unkept, so that the church so beautifully painted stood as a light in the midst of its surroundings. As I walked up the front steps, all in good repair, a lady with a big smile extended her hand in welcome and invited me to join in worshipping in her church.

As I walked inside, I noticed that everything was order and harmony. The members were a happy group. And why not? How could they be otherwise? The rostrum was neat and clean; the interior had been beautifully decorated. Truly this was God's house and the strains of the first hymn were good to hear as the voices of members poured out their joy and praise to God for His goodness and love.

The members of this church love to invite their friends and neighbors to attend the church service and as a result there were many new members praising God for showing them the light of truth.

The messenger of the Lord has said, "To the humble, believing soul, the house of God on earth is the gate of heaven. The song of praise, the prayer, the words spoken by Christ's representatives, are God's appointed agencies to prepare a people for the church above, for that loftier worship into which there can enter nothing that defileth." Testimonies, vol. 5, p. 491.

The financial responsibility of keeping our churches in good repair belongs to the members of the church. They can find happiness and satisfaction in making their church a place where the angels and the Holy Spirit will love to visit with them. Surely these holy, heavenly agencies cannot be happy in anything less than the best.

God loves His church—every member of it. "Enfeebled and defective, needing constantly to be warned and counseled, the church is nevertheless the object of Christ's supreme regard." Testimonies, vol. 7, p. 16.

We should feel it our duty and privilege and indeed a pleasure to share in the responsibility of keeping our churches in good repair for our heavenly guests and also to attract strangers who may join in worshipping with us.

Youth Congress Souvenir Kit

Souvenirs of the North American youth congress held in Atlantic City in June are available. Included in the envelope will be the congress program, special editions of The Youth's Instructor and Singing Youth, congress stickers, and many other interesting items.

You may not have been able to attend, but you can catch the flavor and inspiration of the congress by sending $2 to the Missionary Volunteer Department, General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, 6840 Eastern Avenue, N. W., Washington 12, D. C. Ask for the Youth Congress Souvenir Kit.

Union College Graduates Are Class Officers at CME

Three graduates of Union College have been elected to serve as officers for the senior class in medicine at the College of Medical Evangelists for the 1960-1961 school year.

The three young men, Carl L. Bauer of La Center, Washington; Kenneth L. Dedeker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dedeker of Hastings, Minnesota; and Phillip Henry Reiswig, son of Mrs. Isaac Reiswig of Manfred, North Dakota; all received their undergraduate degrees from

MAPLEWOOD ACADEMY

Every day mail coming to Maplewood Academy is filled with interest for it contains applications from young people to attend this fine school. We are happy that young people who have been desirous of a Christian education for years can find it possible to come when the doors open September 4 and 5 for the registration.

Lyle Anderson

Lyle Anderson, who is a native of Minnesota, is coming to Maplewood Academy as the head of the music department. We are happy for this for we know that he will have an outstanding music department. This has been true in other academies where he has served. With him will be Lane Schmidt, whose father was the Minneapolis Auditorium Church pastor several years ago. Mr. Schmidt graduated from Maplewood Academy and is glad to return to this fine school again this time as a teacher. With these two men and Mrs. Wiede-mann, who will teach piano and organ, we believe the music department will be an unusually strong one.

We could speak long and enthusiastically for the outstanding staff of teachers. Each will contribute to the development of Christian character and will lend their influence toward making Maplewood a school of which the young people from Minnesota can be proud.

We encourage our faithful believers throughout Minnesota to help us contact all of the youth of Minnesota who are of academy age by filling out the information in the enclosed box and sending it to Maplewood Academy.

The Church That Was Not Seen

There is a lovely gleaming white stucco church on the corner of Euclid and Main in the heart of the city of Albert Lea. An attractive new church sign gives the necessary information and welcomes visitors. A reworked lawn is a carpet of green, highlighted by new landscaping. The church has been there for over twenty-five years. A year ago it needed redecorating badly and its drab appearance needed to be changed. Now, what a change!

The pastor, Herman Guy, now entering mission service among the Inca Indians, church officers with a vision, and energetic church members united and went into action. New window frames replaced the old ones that were decaying. Old shrubbery and vines were removed. Paint brushes were used. A new sign was made. New shrubs were planted. Rolls of sod were laid in the front and around the corner where jaywalkers had trampled the lawn into clay. It was a church at work.

The other day, Kenneth Lee, a literature evangelist, also an elder of the Albert Lea church, was working on the sign. A passer-by observed, "I have never seen this church before. When did you build this new building?"

"It has been here for twenty-five years," was Brother Lee's answer. "We have just redecorated it."

This man had gone by that corner for years, but never noticed the church until somebody got busy. Is your church so attractive and well cared for that people notice it? Churches are to be seen if they are to be heard.

Our God and Our Possessions

The words of Jesus found in Luke 12:15-21 are very worthy of consideration now when it appears likely that we will have a bountiful harvest in many sections of the field.

When the rich man didn't have room for his grain, he could have sold it and used the money for missionary work. Instead of doing that, however, he laid selfish plans for the piling up of more earthly riches.

In the parable God spoke some very stern words to the rich man. Notice especially verse 20: "But God said unto him, Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee: then whose shall those things be, which thou hast provided?"

The 21st verse makes it plain that anyone who lays up treasures for himself without laying up treasures in heaven is a fool. The word of the Lord isn't very helpful unless we apply it to ourselves. Are we laying up treasures for ourselves? Am I a fool? Are you a fool?

Possibly I should state that it isn't uncommon for Seventh-day Adventists in North Dakota to go in debt for one quarter of land after another, or one expensive piece of machinery after another. As long as they are paying on debts they reason that they aren't expected to pay tithe or to invest liberally in soul-winning projects. Personally, I feel that their condition is just as serious as the condition of the rich man in the parable.

Satan will attempt to find some pious-looking way to get us to steal from the Lord. We may reason that God doesn't require us to pay tithe when we are in debt and that God doesn't require us to give liberal offerings when we are in debt. Remember that God isn't guessing. God knows a fool from a wise man.

Jesus Will Protect Us

The following paragraph from a letter which we received from a lady in Fargo is another proof of the way God is using and has used IT IS WRITTEN and the various other evangelistic tools:

"Now I have completed all of the lessons that you have sent to me from IT IS WRITTEN. It was very interesting indeed. I have just completed eight lessons from the Voice of Prophecy and I find them just as interesting. Oh, how the prophecies fit right in to our every day life. It is frightening to know how Satan has us all spinning at the edge of a whirlpool of destruction. I am not going to be full of fear about it as I have found out that Jesus will protect us if we but ask in His name."

Pray for the above lady and for scores of others like her. You sacrificed to pay for Signs; subscriptions which are being sent to the It Is WRITTEN names. Thank you for sacrificing. Pray that the Signs will be effective and that souls will be won.

Napoleon Celebration

July, 1920 marked the beginning of the organized work in the town of Napoleon, a community in the fertile farming area of south central North Dakota. This occasion will be commemorated by special services on Sabbath, July 30. The writer will be present for the morning service after which a potluck dinner will be served. K. D. Johnson, conference president, will be in charge of a special afternoon service convening at 2:30 p. m. A new face has been put on the old church building as a result of a special and extensive remodeling project which has just been completed. It is hoped that all who have an interest in the work in Napoleon will attend and will especially plan to be there for the 40th anniversary service in the afternoon.

Norman Doss and Family

The following paragraph from a letter which I received from Norman Doss will be of interest:

"We wish to thank you for the kind hospitality shown us during our days at the North Dakota camp meeting. The inspiration of the many good messages will remain with us as we review the notes taken. It was surely encouraging, after having spent several years in your conference, to see how many people came out to enjoy camp meeting this year.

"The news from Africa is not too good. We are getting anxious to return to Nyasaland for problems are mounting there, although we do not expect things to take the course they are now taking in the Congo. The British have done a little better job of training Africans for government positions than have the Belgians.

"Florence and Gordon join me in sending warm greetings to you and Mrs. Johnson and the conference family in North Dakota. From all appearances, it cannot be long until Jesus returns and we long for the time when Christ's reign of peace will begin. Our prayers will continue to ascend for the believers in North Dakota."

Please continue to pray for the Doss family and let us continue to pray for and sacrifice for the work in Nyasaland and in all the world.

✱ M. L. Hale, our secretary-treasurer, had the pleasure of preaching the last sermon in the Watertown Church on the last Sabbath, July 9, before the final move of the conference office equipment, and Book and Bible House operations from Watertown to Pierre. This move was affected July 12. The new address for our entire staff is 217 North Grand, Pierre, South Dakota, Telephone Capital 4-7205.

✱ O. T. Garner preached in the Bison church on Sabbath, July 9. He says we have a fine group of people in the Bison church and he enjoyed his visit very much.

✱ J. W. Fisk spoke in the Mobridge church the second Sabbath in July.

✱ The Whitsett Evangelistic Crusade in Sioux Falls continues with increased interest. We rejoice in this thought and request your prayers for these meetings.

Once Again

The General Conference Home Missionary Department publishes a little bulletin known as "Ingathering Tidings." These bulletins are mailed to the conference officers and the one dated June 30 has in it some very good news. I quote from a paragraph in a little article by R. R. Figuhr, president of the General Conference, "Once again we rejoice over a great Ingathering victory. Each year's achievement exceeds the accomplishments of the year before. This year Ingathering was the highest ever." Over $5,161,000 was raised, surely this is marvelous.

I am happy to tell the conference workers and lay-members in our churches in South Dakota that we stand second from the top of all the conferences in the Northern Union on per capita Ingathering raised in the 1960 Ingathering campaign. I wish to commend everyone for their good work. I know we are happy that the mission fields can be benefited and souls won to the truth from the effort put forth in the Ingathering campaign this year. Thank you one and all.

Why Can't You?

Let me tell you of one church in the conference that is really working on BLUEPRINT EVANGELISM! I found it on a recent Sabbath visit to Centerville. It was most inspiring when the missionary leader asked for a report from the members in the 10-minute period at the end of the Sabbath school. With a membership of 49, this church took as a goal 36 enrollments for Voice of Prophecy for the month. Sister Johnson, their wide-awake and zealous missionary leader, has set a worthy example by working hard on this project herself. One of the members informed me that Sister Johnson has personally enrolled 66 persons of the 174 enrollments that this church has obtained thus far this year.

For May 39 enrollments were brought in, June netted 42, and in July, with only two Sabbaths passed, already 48 enrollments have come in! Everyone of the Pathfinders are participating, too. Two boys under Pathfinder age have each brought in two enrollments. Sister Johnson writes, "We feel that as we work together as co-laborers with our Saviour things are going to happen in Centerville. We covet your prayers as we share our faith."

Here is a church that is really working on BLUEPRINT EVANGELISM! What is your church doing? Is every member bringing in at least one enrollment each month? Centerville is—Why can't you?

for the fall Supreme Court session. About these we have preached for years, that they would be among the final acts before the close of probation.

Now then, what are we doing about it? How are your missionary activities coming along? How is your missionary spirit? Are you winning souls?

The time has come when we should expect to see great things being done in our churches. Mrs. White has told us that we shall soon see more than a thousand join the church in a day, most of whom will trace their first convictions to the reading of our literature, Evangelism, p. 693.

Read II Corinthians 9:6. "But this say I. He which soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly, and he which soweth bountifully shall reap also bountifully." Now look at this from our literature viewpoint. Look at the fields that have the largest baptisms. These fields are giving away 5 to 6 missionary books per member (this year Planet In Rebellion) while we here in Iowa are giving away less than one per member. Some fields have spent $10 more per member on missionary literature than we here in Iowa (this does not include books sold by colporteurs). Could it be that we are reaping sparingly because we are sowing sparingly?

Let's get to work and sow bountifully this year. We have one of the best missionary books we have ever had, Planet In Rebellion. If you have read it I know you will agree. If you haven't read it I challenge you to read it and let me know if you agree or not. Priced only $1.00, plus 15 cents postage. Ten or more postpaid.

WHERE AND HOW TO USE PLANET IN REBELLION

1. All non-Adventist relatives.
2. All non-Adventist employees (giving to employees creates good will and most expect a gift once in a while).
3. All business or service personnel with whom you deal regularly (the milkman, garbage man, service station attendant, grocer, county agents, elevator man). Simply leave the book with a note, or say, "Because I have appreciated all you have done for me I thought you might enjoy this little book which I have enjoyed."

4. Any contact with people who show interest in religious matters.

5. Libraries, reading rooms, motels, hotels, barber shops, beauty shops, or any place where people spend some time with little to do.

6. Your pastors at camp meeting told me that they could use many more than they have been able to get or have been given to them. Won't you help to furnish these Planet In Rebellion for him?

7. Use book for surveys as follows: take ten books each on Sabbath afternoon. Knock on the doors and tell the people the following: "The Southern Publishing Association has just brought out a new book, Planet In Rebellion, we would like to leave a copy with you for two weeks for you to read and afterwards fill out this survey (show slip) giving us your honest opinion of the book. Thank you very much, and we'll be back in two weeks." Two weeks later pick up the book (or if they want it let them keep it), then tell them, "Because you have been so kind to do this for us, we would like to give you a free Bible course. You can have the materials come to your home by mail, or if you prefer someone with color picture, to illustrate the lessons, we will come to your home once a week." If you do not have this equipment in the church just say, "Someone will come to your home each week to study along with you."

PUBLISHING DEPARTMENT NEWS

Northern Union

W. L. CROFTON, Publishing Department Secretary

ONE HUNDRED TO ONE

By L. H. NETTEBURG, Secretary Treasurer, Northern Union

An oft-repeated statement has been "one hundred where there now is one." This reference to the tremendous opportunity for more literature evangelists is found on page 7 and also on page 79 of the book, Colporteur Evangelist. Does this mean full-time colporteurs? Yes, I am sure it does mean full time but it does not eliminate the part-time worker who can do much good in the distribution of message-filled pages with a systematic part-time method.

L. H. Netteburg

How true it is that small drops of rain produce the great rivers of the land. In the Review and Herald of November 12, 1903 we are told: "Let every believer scatter broadcast tracts and leaflets and books containing the message for this time. We need colporteurs who will go forth to circulate our publications everywhere." This seems to place the injunction on all of us. It seems that we should all spend a certain amount of time in passing out truth-filled literature.

The distribution of our literature is "missionary work of the highest order." And there are rewards, brethren: rewards now and in the future. Now, by seeing the interest developed and baptized in the remnant church of God. Now, by the peace and satisfaction that comes with a knowledge that each one is doing his part to hasten our Lord's return. Now, by knowing that if faithful time is put in a good income can be derived from this colporteur work. In checking the report for the first two months of 1960 we note that the colporteur force in the Northern Union has averaged approximately 100 hours per month per colporteur. For this 100 hours per month the average sale has approximated $9.00 per hour. If you desire to know what that amounts to in terms of real income to the colporteur contact your local publishing department secretary.

WORLD REPORT

In the world field we now have 43 publishing houses producing our literature in 218 languages. Total sales of these publishing houses now exceed $21,000,000 each year.

$10,000 GROUP

The number of literature evangelists who deliver $10,000 each year is growing. In 1959 there were 116 literature evangelists in North America who exceeded this amount. The highest delivery was made by literature evangelist L. E. Pittman of Arkansas-Louisiana. His total delivery record was $44,376.10.

1000 STUDENTS

In North America a thousand students will be working as student literature evangelists during the summer of 1960. We expect that they will deliver over a million dollars' worth of literature.

1959 DELIVERY RECORD

North American literature evangelists delivered $6,299,648.00 worth of literature.
