Important to Parents, Children and Youth

In a most wonderful manner the Lord has prepared the way for the education of our children and young people, by bringing into existence schools under should take advantage of these opportunities for the training of our children for the service of God, it is now.

The Pacific Union College will open for another year's work on September 8, and I am glad to say that the prospect for a large attendance and a good this school made all that God intended that it should be, and I would urge all our people in California and Nevada, north of the Tehachapi Mountains to take advantage of the opportunities this school offers for all students under the eleventh grade. All students up to our own control, with teachers and faculties which are thoroughly acquainted with the message for this time, and who believe it with all their hearts. We ought to be profoundly thankful for this wonderful provision of God's grace. If there ever was a time when we school the coming year is brighter than ever before.

The Lodi Academy will open its fall term September 29. I am glad also to report that the prospect before the Academy for another year is most excellent. I am especially anxious to see and including the twelfth grade in the Northern California Conference, are urged to attend the Lodi Academy.

This is a little different plan from what we first thought of adopting, but we have concluded to follow it on account of the large number who will go to the college, for all of whom we fear we shall not have adequate accommodation.

Permit me to urge the fathers and mothers who feel that they must have their children home with them this year, to seriously consider the question, and if possible, arrange for them to attend school this year. Soon our children will need the experience they will get in our schools. They will need the instruction, "line upon line, precept upon precept," which they can get in no other place, to enable them to stand in the troublous times that are just before them.

Young men and young women, who do not appreciate the value of such a training as they may receive in our schools, should now consider this matter seriously, and without further delay turn their faces toward these institutions. God is calling for you to prepare to meet Him, and to have such a training that you will be able to help others to prepare for the glorious day of the coming of our Lord.

E. E. ANDROSS.

Lodi Academy

Lodi Academy is an institution that has been built up by Seventh-day Adventists for the special purpose of preparing young men and women for the work of giving the third angel's message. That this object has been realized to a large degree in the past, is attested by the many from its halls who are engaged in work in the mission fields of the world, and also by the large number who are working in the home field in conference and educational lines. Many also who have finished courses in the academy are now attending its college, Pacific Union.

The academy is under the control of the Pacific Union Educational Board, and is affiliated with Pacific Union College. It is the plan and expectation of the management and faculty that the missionary idea will strengthen in the future work of the institution.

The condition of things on this earth is such that we are compelled to believe that we are nearing the end of the last chapter in the world's history. In view of this, it seems imperative that all our young people who should, or who expect to, bear a part in the message, should be in our schools receiving the necessary training. We urge the parents to do all that is possible to have the young people attend the academy, where all possible will be done for the advancement in spiritual, intellectual and physical lines.

Who Should Come

It has been recommended by the Pacific Union Educational Board that all ninth- and tenth-grade boarding students north of the Tehachapi Mountains, and students up to and including the twelfth grade from the Northern California Conference, go to Lodi.

What to Bring

Each student should come provided with the following: One pillow, blankets, sheets, pillow cases, bedspread, table napkins, napkin ring, six towels, toilet soap, brush and comb, tooth brush, table cover, scissors, thimble, needles, thread, curtains for windows five feet high, such floor covering as may be desired, slippers for indoor use, water-proof coats, umbrella, rubbers, woolen hose and underwear for winter use, work dresses, and aprons for the girls, and overalls for the boys.

The academy has a strong faculty for academic work, having sixteen teachers, five of whom have had considerable experience in teaching in our colleges.

Faculty

J. H. Paap, principal, mathematics.
Elder E. E. Gardner, Bible and history.

Geo. McCready Price, science and Latin.

W. B. Taylor, preceptor, assistant Bible and carpentry.

Fred T. Oakes, commercial studies.

L. E. Westermeyer, German.

Mrs. E. E. Gardner, preceptress, English.

Mrs. J. H. Paap, pianoforte and art.

Mrs. W. B. Taylor, vocal music, organ, etc.

Miss B. Haines, matron, domestic science.

Miss Hilda Paap, violin.

Miss Lydia Figuhr, simple treatments.

Mrs. Hawkins, sewing.

G. B. Morrison, grammar grades.

Miss B. Barbee, intermediate grades.

Stella Voris, primary grades.

Calendars

Those who desire further information about Lodi Academy, may receive a calendar and have questions answered by addressing J. H. Paap, Lodi Academy, Lodi, Cal.

Time of Opening

Because so many of the students who will attend Lodi Academy will be working in the fruit through the month of September, it has been thought advisable to change the date of opening from September 15, to September 29, 1914.

August 28.

Pacific Union College

After spending the summer in the interest of the college at the several camp-meetings and among the churches, it seems good to be at home again and to witness the preparations now in progress for the reception and accommodation of the large overflow of students who have already applied for admission this year. Already the applications for rooms far exceeds the capacity of the dormitories and cottages now on the grounds, and other buildings are being provided as rapidly as facilities and help within our reach will admit.

Four new cottages are nearing completion, two others are being started, and before we are done, we expect that ten will be required in order that we may house even a few of the many young married couples who are on their way to the school.

Supplementing our efforts in this direction, the brethren in this vicinity are opening their doors for the accommodation of families arriving or soon to arrive, and I hear that there is little space now to be had in this direction.

A building is also being erected for a general store and post-office, on the second floor of which ten rooms had been planned for the overflow from the young men's dormitory: but finding this inadequate, the board has been compelled to add another story to the building. But since this will not be ready at the opening of school, the faculty have arranged to use the lower floor—the space reserved for store and post-office—partitioning rooms by canvass walls for the use of young men until the second floor is made ready. And, while this may cause a little inconvenience for a few weeks, it is far better than for the school to be languishing for want of patronage. Also let me add that there has been no urgent effort on our part in the soliciting of students. On the contrary, we have had to hold off a large number of applicants who, in our judgment, should go elsewhere and direct them to their proper schools. The only explanation I can give for the great tide flowing this way is that the Lord is working for us. And this almost makes us tremble, for we know that we are unworthy of so great prosperity.

Probably the secret of this movement is in the fact that the college is located in the country, and that it can furnish so much industrial work and training.

Last year the students in attendance here were credited with $17,000 for work done in payment of tuition, board and room.

In closing, I should perhaps mention the fact that we have secured as teacher of vocal music, the services of Miss Ada Hartley, a person in every way qualified to fill the place in a most satisfactory manner. This fact is mentioned because at the time of the election of teachers this department was not filled, and no mention of this department or teacher appears in the calendar.

carry out the above instruction from the Spirit of Prophecy. This message to unify and systematize our educational work came to us a little over ten years ago, and we can already see that it has been a "sad mistake" for us "to fail to consider thoroughly the purpose for which each of our schools is established." Failure to consider has robbed our educational work of that unity and strength which are so essential to growth and development.

But the faithful and careful consider-signed by our loyal-hearted brethren and sisters.

The college and two academies in the union have agreed upon a distribution of work to be carried by each school. Fernando Academy and Lodi Academy are to confine their efforts largely to academic courses (grades nine to twelve); while Pacific Union College is to confine its work largely to ministerial, normal, pre-medical and collegiate courses. Because of the proximity of Lodi Academy to Pacific Union College,

Unity and Strength

"It would be a sad mistake for us to fail to consider thoroughly the purpose for which each of our schools is established. This is a matter that should be faithfully considered by our responsible men in each union conference. All the different educational interests should be given careful consideration, and then each school should place its work on a proper basis."

For the past two years special efforts have been put forth in this union to ation given during the past two years has already brought a degree of unity and strength into the educational work of this union conference that is encouraging to those who are endeavoring to work in harmony with the counsel the Lord has given. All the local conferences of the union at their recent annual camp-meetings have heartily approved of the actions taken at the last session of the Pacific Union Conference, looking forward to the unification of the educational work, and to its financial relief by liquidating its obligations and providing the much needed facilities. Our people are responding nobly, and already (in three months' time) nearly one-third of the relief fund ($150,000) has been assured by notes both institutions have their work represented in one calendar, and are managed by one board. The Fernando Academy board has issued a separate calendar, but is carrying forward the work in unison with the general plan adopted for the union. The Arizona Conference school at Phoenix is carrying ten grades of work, and it is planned that Nevada and Utah shall each be provided with schools for handling ten grades as soon as each constituency can support and maintain such a school.

Our college and the academies are provided with strong school faculties to give instruction to our youth. Within the union are enough young men and women to fill these schools full and to overflowing. We have met a good response from our young people at the camp-meetings,—and many are planning to attend one of our schools,—but let us not only encourage, but let us urge all to hasten the work of preparation, for the time is short. "Run, speak to this young man" for "the King's business requires haste."

M. E. CADY.

The Summer School

The first summer school conducted by Pacific Union College has just closed with an enrollment of nearly fifty students. The attendants for the most part were those who either have taught, or plan to teach, in our church schools the coming year.

All present entered into the work with a hearty spirit; and many at the close of the session expressed their appreciation for the practical, helpful instruction received. Some who have taught in our church schools for years, and who hold professional certificates, pronounced this summer school the best they have yet attended, and are planning to be present at the summer school sessions until they get all the work offered by the Pacific Union College normal department. No teacher should stop short of securing the very best training and preparation possible for his work.

The work in primary and grammar grade methods was eagerly received, but the manual training classes—card-board construction, mechanical drawing and wood work—were, perhaps, most appreciated, as these subjects have rarely been offered in our summer schools.

During the last week an educational council meeting was held, at which the principals of the higher schools and educational superintendents were present to lay plans for the educational work throughout the union. The actions passed by this council were brought before the teachers attending the summer school for their consideration. These actions will appear in a near issue of the RECORDER, and it is hoped that all our educators in this union will faithfully endeavor to carry forward their work in harmony with the plans outlined by the educational council.

Conference Notes

A good work is being done with the European war literature.

The tent meeting at Lodi continues with good interest. Elder Fero has charge of this effort.

The church at Modesto have sold their old building which will be moved off the lot. They plan to build a larger church.

A small Sabbath-school of sixteen members has been organized at Gustine where Elder E. E. Gardner has been laboring.

Already some funds are coming in on the emergency fund. We hope for a liberal gift from all our people. Those who did not give Sabbath, August 29, we hope will do so at once. Surely we ought to give a thank offering—thankful that we are not in the midst of war.

Paradise Valley Sanitarium Notes

Elder E. A. Southerland of Madison, Tenn., visited us just prior to the camp-meeting.

Dr. Orpha Santee returns to Loma Linda next week. Her work at the sanitarium has been much appreciated.

Some time before our good camp-meeting, Elder Meade MacGuire paid the sanitarium a visit. His services, both public and private, were helpful and much appreciated.

The climate here is certainly ideal. The average temperature during the summer is sixty-eight degrees, and sixty degrees in the winter months. We are in plain view of the old Pacific nearly five miles away.

We are glad to state that nearly one-half of the sanitarium family of workers enjoyed the privileges of the camp-meeting at Alhambra. Some returned before its close that others might have the benefit of some of the meetings.

The sanitarium has had a prosperous year, all things considered. Four hundred ninety-two patients have entered during the past year, with an average daily attendance of thirty-five, and an average length of stay of thirty-one days. We desire to be in such close touch with the Saviour that we may be His helping hand in this precious missionary field which is constantly changing.

MISSIONARY

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

Friday was spent in Whittier—a little Quaker city in the foothills east of Los Angeles. There I met Brother and Sister Tilden who were formerly connected with the book work in North Carolina. Although not in the best of health, yet with the missionary spirit burning brightly in the hearts of both, Sister Tilden remarked, "We feel that we must go among the homes of the people at this time." (Jesus used that word "must" in His first recorded utterance, you remember.) Enough literature was ordered by Brother and Sister Tilden to supply the 1500 homes of Whittier. Four other Adventist families reside in this fine little town, and they will assist in meeting the expense of the material ordered. Pray that the Spirit of God may bless and water the seed that will be sown by these faithful hands.

Last Wednesday was an unusually busy day with the literature. More than 360 pounds of magazines and papers were shipped away to our faithful volunteer distributors in different parts of Southern California. It certainly gladdens our hearts to see the "speaking leaves" going out in ever-increasing quantities. A good brother called at the office on his way to the Yosemite Valley and took along 100 magazines to scatter through the country. Another wanted literature for the beach where he expected to spend a week. He carried away a heavy load and a happy heart. A third came to tell us that he was off to the mountains for a much needed rest. "But let me have some material to scatter among the campers up there." He went his way with a suit case nearly full of papers and tracts. Then Brother S. H. Carnahan called en route to Cuba. He also took some.

The other day one of the workers in the Los Angeles vegetarian cafeteria told us that all of the forty copies of the Signs placed on the tables last week had been carried away by interested readers. "Have you an extra copy of this war number of the Signs?" "I am impressed with what your folks are writing on the war question." Such expressions are heard daily by the cashiers in the cafeteria. The workers there have just ordered fifty extra copies of the last issue to supply the many calls. To-day the opportunities for making the message known to men and women are actually crowding upon us. Brother Fulton has just purchased 5000 of the new temperance tracts for the cafeteria patrons to carry away with them. Every business house and office controlled by our people should be a distributing center—a publishing house for our silent messengers. And now, as never before, every Adventist home should be a publishing house for the King's business.

Canvassing Notes

Brother Battin has been delivering in Solano County recently, and writes that everything went but one order for Spanish "Practical Guide."

Brother George Greer, who has been canvassing in Humboldt County, writes just after making a delivery of "Great Controversy" that he delivered every book excepting one cloth binding, but sold two extra leather, so came out on the right side.

The students that have been in the field with our literature during the vacation weeks are now making their deliveries, and many of them are meeting with remarkable success in this part of their work. The same One who helped them in securing the orders is with them in their delivering, and certainly with the rapid unfolding of events in the world, the books will be eagerly read by those that are inquiring, "What do these things mean?"

Miss Willeta Maxon of San Francisco has been able to get into the field there in the city a few hours of late. After her first experience she wrote: "I have had some good times. The very first house I entered was that of a Catholic lady who was wondering what all this war and strife could mean. We had a good talk and she took a cloth binding 'Great Controversy.' She said that she believed the Lord had sent me there, and wouldn't let me go until I had promised to come again." The Lord is stirring many people up to ask the same question, "What do these things mean?" The Lord will hold us responsible to do our duty now.

The following note is taken from the North Pacific Union Gleaner: "One of our agents called at a home the other day and canvassed a lady for the book he was selling. She said, 'Is that printed by the Pacific Press Publishing Association?' When informed that it was, she remarked she had bought a book each year for the past five years, and each one was put out by that house. Our good canvasser soon convinced her that she needed his book also. This makes six of our books in her library. She evidently likes good books in her home." Such experiences as the above demonstrate the fact that agents for God do not "burn" territory, but rather, they water it. Our books are selling as never before. Now is the harvest time for this work. Scores should be entering the field in the Pacific Union Conference this fall while people are so stirred over what is transpiring around us. There is territory for every consecrated worker who, in answer to the call of God, says, "Here am I, send me."

C. E. WEAKS,
General Missionary Agent.

"The Night Cometh"

Every week that passes reveals a more serious condition of affairs existing in Europe, and threatens to involve a larger number of the nations of earth in the awful conflict now being waged in that war-stricken land. Surely this should cause every believer in this message to seriously consider whether or not he is prepared for the end, that we have long been expecting, and that now we see approaching so rapidly.

If we well review the instruction given us through the Spirit of Prophecy regarding the times in which we are living, we must be profoundly convinced that all that has been given us is now being fulfilled. We are not to console ourselves with the thought that we are far from the scenes of trouble now taking place in Europe, and that there is no danger of our being involved, or having to face the same conditions that exist in that land.

Volume 1 of the Testimonies, page 363, tells us that "everything" is preparing for the great day of God. Time will last but little longer, until the inhabitants of the earth have filled up the cup of their iniquity, and then the wrath of God, which has so long slumbered, will awake, and this land of light will drink the cup of His unmingled wrath. The desolating power of God is upon the earth to rend and destroy. The inhabitants of the earth are appointed to the sword, to famine and to pestilence."

It is surely time we were preparing to move to a better land than this. We should now reconsecrate ourselves to God, and take up our neglected duties in the matter of warning the world of the soon-coming judgments.

"In the time of distress and perplexity of nations there will be many who have not given themselves wholly to the corrupting influences of the world and the service of Satan, who will humble themselves before God, and turn to Him with their whole heart, and find acceptance and pardon." Vol. 1, p. 396.

Again we read: "I was shown God's people waiting for some change to take place,—a compelling power to take hold of them. But they will be disappointed, for they are wrong. They must act; they must take hold of the work themselves, and earnestly cry to God for a true knowledge of themselves. The scenes which are passing before us are of sufficient magnitude to cause us to arouse, and urge the truth home to the hearts of all who will listen. The harvest of the earth is nearly ripe." Vol. 1, p. 261.

Shall we not awake out of sleep, and quickly prepare for the end? Let us now scatter the truth in the form of the printed page "like the leaves of autumn." Let us visit the homes of our neighbors and friends and talk to them about the things that are transpiring, and then show them from the Scriptures what it all means, and how to prepare to meet the Saviour as He comes in glory. E. E. ANDROSS.

Lessons from the Southern California Camp-Meeting

Tremendous interest was manifested all through the meetings, owing to the war situation in Europe and its bearing on Armageddon, and the Sunday rest bill and the anti-liquor amendment to be voted on November 3. Naturally enough, the resolutions adopted and plans submitted call for action along these lines. The following lines from Volume 5, page 452, summarize the sentiment of our leaders and people:

"Those who have been warned of the events before them are not to sit in calm expectation of the coming storm, comforting themselves that the Lord will shelter His faithful ones in the day of trouble. We are to be as men waiting for their Lord, not in idle expectancy, but in earnest work, with unwavering faith. It is no time to allow our minds to be engrossed with things of minor importance."

In one meeting the people paid for about 125,000 of our new temperance tracts, and since the campaign was opened they have paid for double that number. The slogan of the temperance campaign is that we may restore those who err in vision, who stumble in judgment, who are out of the way through strong drink (Isa. 28: 7); and preach the gospel to them for a witness. The religious liberty campaign which is to be conducted in conjunction with the temperance work will be along similar, though broader lines, and our people realize that they must do this work practically without any assistance from the outside.

With such powerful stimuli it will not be surprising to note that the sales at the book tent total $2362.71 in value. In addition to this amount a large number of persons arranged to call at the Los Angeles office after camp-meeting and get supplies, as they could not conveniently carry them in from Alhambra. The actual cash receipts were $2031.16, charges and pledges making up the balance. These figures do not include charges and payments on regular accounts. And all this we believe is but the opening gun of one of the greatest campaigns of education ever waged in Southern California.

We learned to appreciate as never before the necessity for careful planning in advance for the book tent, and we believe this to be true whether the camp-meeting be large or small. If the literature is given its proper consideration by the conference committee and the program committee as well as by the tract society and the publishing house, we are sure the sales will be proportionately increased, and more souls reached.

We learned that if literature sales are properly conducted, even in the big tent in meetings where the general public is present, no exceptions will be taken. We believe the eleven-o'clock hour is better than the earlier hours, because the attendance and interest are better, and inasmuch as the mass of the people must be depended on to circulate the literature, we think the best possible time should be given for submitting it to them.

We learned better than we had known it before that the great problem of this denomination is not to develop an organization or to inaugurate new lines of work—all this has been done under the leadership of God Himself. The work remaining for our conference officers and leaders seems to resolve itself into the education of the great bulk of our people, and to lead them on to the finishing of the work. And let it be said to the everlasting credit of Seventh-day Adventists as a body, that they are willing to spend and be spent in the closing work. CLYDE LOWRY,

Sec'y. S. Cal. Tract Society.

Question: "Shall we vote for prohibition?"

Answer, by Mrs. E. G. White:
"Yes, to a man, everywhere."

"But they also have erred through wine, and through strong drink are out of the way; the priest and the prophet have erred through strong drink, they are swallowed up of wine, they are out of the way through strong drink, they err in vision, they stumble in judgment."

Be Intemperate

Somewhere in the scriptures of Paul we are exhorted to be temperate in all things. But if ever there was a time when there seemed an excuse for intemperance, it is the present—not intemperance in eating and drinking, for such would be just as disastrous if not more so, than formerly. Never were sober judgments and clear perceptions more needed than now with the great prohibition battle before us within the next sixty days. If we have considered ourselves temperate heretofore in the use of the means at our command with which to fight this demon monster, we should now double our energy, and become intemperate in the same righteous cause.

Recent word has come to the effect that the liquor interests are practically abandoning their fight against prohibition in Washington, Oregon, Idaho and other sections, and are centering their whole effort this year upon California. A million dollars from outside the State, so the reports say, are being expended by the liquor and wine associations in literature and advertising and other campaign material.

But our own side is also well prepared for the struggle. We may not have as much money at our disposal, but we have the God of heaven on our side, and a large quantity of the best literature ever prepared to combat this great curse of drink. Our greatest need at the present time is men, women and children who will be intemperate in their activity to educate the people by placing this excellent literature in their hands.—Will you, you, YOU, yes, YOU yourself, be one to help?

"Soon we shall see the result of this terrible evil (intemperance) as we do not see it now. Who will put forth an effort to stay the work of destruction? As yet the contest has hardly begun. Let an army be formed to stop the sale of drugged liquors that are making men mad. Let the danger from the liquor traffic be made plain, and a public sentiment be created that shall demand its prohibition. Let the drink-maddened men be given an opportunity to escape from their thralldom. Let the voice, of the nation demand of its lawmakers that a stop be put to this infamous traffic."—Ministry of Healing, page 346.

der the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 1914

Elder E. E. Andross has been called East on urgent business. He will no doubt stop at the Utah camp-meeting and conference on his return trip.

A joint meeting of the board of the Loma Linda College of Medical Evangelists and the Pacific Union Conference committee was held at Loma Linda the fore part of last week.

Recently Brother L. M. Bowen has returned to the Pacific Coast and has again connected with the St. Helena Sanitarium as business manager. For a number of months, Brother Bowen has been acting as business manager of the Washington, D. C., Sanitarium at Takoma Park.

Elder J. O. Corliss went last week to Mountain View to superintend the publication of literature for use in the religious liberty campaign which must be waged between this time and the third of November, when the barbers' Sunday amendment will be voted upon under the initiative. Every Seventh-day Adventist should hold himself in readiness to help in scattering, "like the leaves of autumn," the papers and leaflets that are provided. Now is the time to strike for liberty in California. Be ready when the word is given to advance.

Brother J. R. Ferren of the California Bible House writes that the Oakland office is a busy place these days and that the tracts, papers and magazines are "going out splendidly." Brother Ferren is secretary of the publicity department of the "dry" federation, in that section of the State. We can easily imagine that he is working "overtime" and happy in it all. And he is not alone in that experience. We also gather from Brother Ferren's good letter that the tent meetings in East Oakland are well attended. From 200 to 400 have been present each night.

Those who are planning to attend Lodi Academy this year should note carefully the announcement appearing elsewhere in this issue of the RECORDER. Owing to the fact that so many of the pupils in the valleys who will attend this school are employed in the fruit throughout the month of September, it has been decided to postpone the opening of the Lodi Academy until September 29. An effort is being made to materially strengthen the school this year, and it is hoped that a large number of students will avail themselves of this opportunity of securing an education and training for service in the Master's vineyard. Any wishing to know more of Lodi Academy should correspond with Prof. J. H. Paap, principal, Lodi, Cal.

There is an old adage which says that "Actions speak louder than words." In many instances this is undoubtedly true. As a people, Seventh-day Adventists are generally known to be strongly in favor of temperance and the prohibition of the liquor traffic. But we are now coming to a time when the proverb quoted can be applied more literally. Our words should ever be strong on the side of right; but when it comes really to ridding the country of the vile curse of intemperance, it will require more than plaintive preaching and passion practice. Every Christian should consider it his duty to fight strenuously until the very last against this stubborn foe of mankind. The test of strength in the struggle for freedom from this terrible blight in California this year will come on November 3, 1914. Every follower of Christ who is an American citizen should be ready to cast his vote in favor of the prohibition amendment which is NUMBER 2 on the ballot. But remember: none will be eligible to vote who has not registered since January 1, 1914, and before October 3. Now is the time to begin to make "ACTIONS SPEAK."

Fire Insurance

In order to better systemize the insurance on our sanitariums, schools and other institutions, the Pacific Union Conference, through its secretary, Brother Claude Conard, has recently secured an agency in several of the strongest fire insurance companies.

It may be that some of our people out in the conference would be glad to place their insurance on dwellings, churches, etc., through the union conference thus securing protection in what is considered by them strong companies, and at the same time bringing to the conference treasury a small revenue in premium commissions.

Those interested in this matter are requested to correspond with Brother Claude Conard, Box 146, Glendale, Cal.
E. E. ANDROSS.

Lodi Academy

We are looking forward with much interest to the opening of Lodi Academy this year. We are hoping for a larger attendance than ever. A united effort is being put forth throughout the union conference north of the Tehachapi Mountains to get every young man and every young woman into the Pacific Union College and its affiliated institution—the Lodi Academy. No pains have been spared in the selecting of a good strong faculty for the academy. We have reason to believe that the work which will be done in this school will be par excellence. Being so closely connected with the college, an effort will be made to give strong academic work, looking forward to the students taking advanced work at the college.

The postponing of the opening until September 29, I am sure will be a great accommodation to many who are now working in the fruit. We believe this will make it possible for more to attend.

We are looking for all our old students to return, and are glad to report that new ones are making arrangements with us. We hope our churches will interest themselves in encouraging their young people, who should be in this school, to come. Some want to come, but are not financially able. Are there not those who would like to help such in getting a preparation for service in the Master's cause?

Let us all pray and work for the upbuilding of our schools.

C. L. TAGGART.

Lodi Academy Postpones Opening Date

The time for opening Lodi Academy has been postponed to September 29. The prospects are that this will be one of its most prosperous school years.
