Our Need

When my wife and I arrived in the New Hebrides our hearts were heavy because in this scattered group of islands the Seventh-day Adventist mission did not have a hospital, but our hearts were a little heavier when we entered our district and found that we could not hoast a clinic.

With the other missionaries we voiced our needs that somewhere in this group we should have a hospital. Our plea went to the Central Pacific Union Mission, and now our hearts are rejoicing that on this coming Thirteenth Sabbath we shall receive part of the overflow for the erection of a hospital.

How greatly it is needed. When our little mission vessel Ka Seli makes its quarterly trip around the district men and women of every denomination line the shores waiting for medicine. They believe that our medicine has some special power and as the ship approaches you can see mothers washing their youngsters in the salt water.

On Paama my wife and I have worked constantly for three hours giving injections of Acetylarsen and then if time permits we have dressed yaws, ulcers, and tended their various illnesses. In many instances we have taken men and women to hospital or back to district headquarters with us so that we can give them further treatment.

During the time the Ka Seli is anchored at Port Stanley, men and women come to us from the neighboring islands, bypassing the government medical outstation. I think of one such instance of a husband and wife bringing their child from Leviam on the west coast of Malekula over the rugged and steep mountains to the east coast, by-passing the government outstation and walking another seven miles to us. At first we had penicillin to treat the lad, but the next time we had none and had to turn them away. Again I think of the woman who lived one mile from the outstation but who decided to come to us because the medicine has power. Her legs and arms were covered with ulcers, and to keep the flies away she had wrapped banana leaf around each individual ulcer. A few weeks of treatment and we could see an improvement, a month and they were on the way to being healed. Yes, there is power in our medicine.

Inland from the north coast of Malekula are the Big Nambus. These people have defied all attempts at civilization. One village in particular is Amok, not only has it defied civilization but they still hold to their heathen practices in the face of almost forty years' contact with our mission. The right arm of the message is our only means of contact and in the long run will be the main entering wedge to bring the gospel to them.

We have asked the paramount chief to build us a house half-way between his village and the coast. This house will be central to all the villages and will help us in contacting them all. This was a dream of Pastor Thompson's and we hope it will eventuate. We visited one of these small villages and were told we were the first missionaries to come there since Pastor Engelbretch fourteen years ago. This more than emphasizes the need of a central house where all can have a regular contact with the gospel through the agency of the medical work.

We need a hospital, so much so that before we received the good news of the Thirteenth Sabbath overflow the natives of our district planned to work a plantation and give all proceeds towards the erection of a small hospital. This would mean they would receive no wages. They are willing to sacrifice that they might have a hospital. Are we? Do remember the New Hebrides Hospital with your prayers and with generous gifts on March 31.

Signs Reclaims Entire Family

It happened in a lovely community nestled among the rolling hills on the shores of the Hudson River in New York State; however, it could happen anywhere.

But here is the story as related by Elder J. A. Toop, home missionary secretary of the Greater New York Conference:

"Mrs. Bella Rhynus had a special burden on her heart for a friendly family by the name of Fox of Poughkeepsie, New York, who twenty years previously had drifted away from the truth. Sister Rhynus was earnestly praying for this family and during the Signs crusade felt impressed to send them the Signs. In answer to her prayer the Spirit of God had been working on the heart of Mr. Fox, and he was burdened for himself and his family.

"Then one day he found a copy of Signs of the Times in the mail box. It was like a visit from a familiar friend. Later Mrs. Fox called Sister Rhynus and asked if she could borrow a copy of Great Controversy, and again a wonderful friendship was renewed.

"A little later Mrs. Fox saw an announcement in the newspaper that Elder J. A. Toop, from the Greater New York Conference, would speak in the church that Sabbath. She said to her husband, 'William, if you are ever going to make the start back to the Adventist Church this would be an opportune time.' That Sabbath Brother Fox brought great rejoicing to the congregation when he made known his decision to return to the church.

"Said Sister Rhynus, I could not have been happier if I had seen an angel in the church that very moment."

"Now three of the children of the Fox family have been baptized, and Bruce, who was home on vacation from Gettysburg College, Pennsylvania, eagerly read the Signs, exclaiming periodically, 'That's the greatest.' After making a trip to South Lancaster with the pastor he decided to transfer to Atlantic Union College. He and his wife are now in charge of the Glens Falls, New York, church school."

Thus Signs continues its ministry not only in bringing the light of the glorious faith and blessed hope to hearts that have never previously responded to its fascinating message, but also in rekindling a flame of devotion to the faith that can provide certainty and security in a world of uncertainty and insecurity.

While you are planning your sponsorship to "erect a pulpit" for Adventism in the homes of those for whom your hearts are burdened, may we suggest that you include relatives and friends who may have drifted away from church fellowship. Then while its weekly visits continue, pray earnestly for the mighty movings of the Spirit of God to bring conviction that will result in a restoration of devotion and fellowship in the journey to the kingdom.

Remember that this weekly pulpit in any home represents a missionary investment for you of only 3½ cents per week, or $1.70 for an entire year.

"Today's Food"

Church members who are on the mailing list of the Pacific Union Recorder will receive a brand new two-color, 8-page magazine, "Today's Food." Issued under the sponsorship of the Pacific Union Association of Seventh-day Adventists, the publication is being edited by the International Nutrition Research Foundation in Arlington, California, and is being mailed without charge.

The quarterly magazine seeks to portray the fundamental objectives of healthful nutrition, show the simplicity of maintaining a healthful dietary balance without the use of animal proteins, and give factual glimpses of the research being done in the field of nutrition which supports our denominational health principles.

Of general interest to readers in the first issue are new recipes—"Meatless Meals with Taste Appeal" by Nutritionist Dorothea Van Gundy, "Marketing Tips: how to get your money's worth," and a surprising statement concerning Mosaical laws by President Eisenhower's heart specialist, Dr. Paul Dudley White.

To aid in the educational program, housewives who receive the magazine are invited to write to Miss Van Gundy about their problems in food preparation, food combinations, or nutrition.

Did You Know?

Did you know that Thunderbird Academy has the largest enrollment in the history of the school?

Did you know that 41 young people are working in the wood products department, and that we need many more?

Did you know that after spring vacation we are beginning flight instruction at the academy?

Did you know that Mr. C. B. Harris, of Prescott, is going to be our flight instructor, and that he has had many years of experience in this work?

Did you know that in a few more weeks we expect to start a course in airplane mechanics and ground school?

Did you know that we are employing Mr. Charles L. Bailey of Arlington, California, to come and instruct in our aeronautics program?

Did you know that we have 65 acres of oats planted in the beginning of our agricultural program?

Did you know that we are enlarging the laundry and dry cleaning operations, and have employed Mr. Walter Lemke to help in this department as route man, and that he is bringing in considerable work to us each day?

Did you know that we have all the work that any conscientious boy or girl can do here to help defray school expenses?

Did you know that it is now possible for any hard working young man or through school by working here the year around?

Did you know that the Senior class had their Senior Day in the Los Angeles area, and also the College Day at La Sierra, and have just returned after having a most enjoyable time?

Did you know that it is planned to have an Academy Day on Monday, April 16, and that all young people in the eighth grade or above, who are interested in attending Thunderbird Academy next year, are invited to be the guests of the academy?

Yes, there are many things taking place at Thunderbird Academy, and many more things are being planned for the coming school year. Prospects are for a still larger enrollment. It is time now to start planning for next year. Many letters of inquiry are coming in each week, asking for information about the school. We will be able to use a large number of young people to work here this summer, probably 50 to 60. Soon it will be time for you to send in an application for summer employment, if you are interested. We can use several older young people to work in our wood products, in order to keep up with our business.

Yes, Thunderbird Academy is going forward. Much is being accomplished. If you are interested, feel free to write to Thunderbird Academy, Box 967,

Aiea Baptism

The peace and quiet of a vesper service marked the setting of a baptism at Aiea church on Friday evening, March 9. For the first time, the Aiea church members did not have to use the facilities of a sister church for this important service. A portable nylon baptistry has been made and proved very satisfactory at this initial use. Future enlargement plans call for a permanent built-in baptistry which will then replace this temporary one.

The baptism of Mr. Elias Kanuha

and Mrs. Dolores Morales again demonstrated that it is usually the working together of many missionary endeavors of the church that result in new mem-and Brother William Hoomalu of Maui studied with Mrs. Morales during a visit to their island. Brother Kanuha became a faithful attendant at Aiea's MV layman's effort last fall. Already before his baptism he had begun to take a leading part in a new layman's Sunday night series. The Voice of Prophecy department also took a leading part as both Miss Deborah Peile and Elder Ernest Broder gave much attention and instruction to these new members.

Kekaha Home and School Program

The boys and girls of the Kekaha Mission School participated in the Home and School program held recently at the school. With most of the parents of the children and members and friends of the church present, the children presented a varied and interesting program.

The program included a dialogue by Esther Ann and Edward Andres; and a recitation by Leialoha Niheu, Leah and Aaron Hookano, Wanda Lee Kapahu, Kaleo Hookano, Esther Ann Andres, and Edwin Dela Cruz.

Stories of the Bible were told by Isaac and Edward Andres, Grace Anne Kiyabu, and Helene Kapahu. Interesting experiments in chemistry were demonstrated by Maggie Andres and Pauline Kekahu.

The program was under the direction of Miss Yoshiko Taba.

Elder C. L. Bauer, president of the Pacific Union Conference and Mrs. Bauer recently arrived from Glendale and will be spending several days in the islands.

Elder Bauer brought the message during the Sabbath morning service at the Honolulu Central church and the following Wednesday night met with the members at Kaimuki in their prayer meeting.

Thursday morning, March 15, Elder and Mrs. Bauer with Elder Cree Sandefur, Hawaiian Mission president, left for Hilo for their first stop in visiting the workers and members on the neighboring islands.

Elder Bauer will also meet with the mission committee and academy board while he is here.

We extend to Elder and Mrs. Bauer and heart and party in this island field.

Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Fowler from Pacific Union College arrived in Honolulu March 11. Dr. Fowler conducted the Week of Prayer at the Hawaiian Mission Academy. Upon the completion of the Week of Prayer he and Mrs. Fowler visited some of our schools and churches on the other islands.

Television in Central California

We can all agree that television will no doubt contribute to the cause of many losing eternal life. When we think of the millions of television sets in as many homes, it is not difficult to realize that the enemy of God and souls is working overtime to seek those whom he may devour, because he knows that he has but a short time. Granting all that, we must still face the fact that there are honest souls who sit glued to their television sets who will never come in contact with the truth of God unless it is brought to them. And we must do everything possible to bring it to them.

The General Conference has given prayerful consideration as to what might further be done to use the television medium to help finish the work. Elder George Vandeman has spent many weeks preparing telecasts, with accompanying Bible lessons and printed sermons for follow-up.

This conference will have the first showing of the 13 programs that are ready. Elder Vandeman will be with us to organize and promote the program and we are asking the conference workers and all the members of the churches in the territory covered, to cooperate and work to make it a success. We really want to test the possibilities of such a program. I might mention that the General Conference and our Pacific Union brethren are anxious for this program to be given every possible advantage so that we all might be able to realize what can be done with this "one more way" of giving the last warning message to a dying world. Let us pray that God will add His blessing to all of our efforts to finish the work so that Iesus can come.

Health Education at Feather River Sanitarium

Miss Eva Beeler, R.N., Northern California health education director, recently held a series of cooking classes for the Feather River Sanitarium and Hospital workers and their families. Miss Avis Dixon, dietitian from the St. Helena Sanitarium and Hospital, assisted in these classes. Evening cooking classes were well attended, increasing each night. Many of our staff doctors contributed willingly, giving data con-cerning food factors, the digestive system, and answering many questions from the workers. Those who attended expressed their appreciation for the opportunity of being able to learn how to cook food in a nutritious, palatable way, and to learn many fundamental facts about the mineral, vitamin, and other contents of foods. Recipes were given away, which were demonstrated during the classes:

Afternoon classes were conducted each day also, as a teacher-training course for those who are willing to devote some of their time to teaching others how to cook. We have had many inquiries from patients regarding different types of diets and the preparation of our vegetable protein dishes and other foods. The workers having received instruction from these classes will eventually become qualified to instruct patients in their homes.

Mrs. Dean Hoiland and Mrs Merritt Horning are conducting cooking classes for patients at the present time, as a result of the instructors' course. There are four or five workers in each of two groups, who help Mrs. Hoiland and Mrs. Horning in their demonstrations and lectures, one group alternating with the other. Interest and enthusiasm among our patients seem to be mounting. They are eager to learn how to cook healthful vegetarian dishes, as they have found for themselves that they are tasty and satisfying.

We thank Miss Beeler and Miss Dixon for the time and effort they put forth to put on a program which has developed into a new service for our patients.

The Sanitarium health education department feels that they have a more rounded program, now that nutrition classes have been added to hydrotherapy and nursing classes, as well as Red Cross Home nursing and first aid classes. Health panels are being conducted in nearby churches by our staff doctors and nurses. We have been invited by patients who teach in public schools to give health talks in their rooms to their pupils. We are glad that the Lord is opening the way for us to share our health message with our neighboring communities. Those wishing to know more about our health program may write for our monthly News Letter. Please pray that we may accomplish a still greater work in the future, and that many souls will be won to the truth through our efforts.

Mid-year School Report

Reports coming to us from all parts of the conference show the continued growth in our schools. The enrollment in grades one to eight now stands at 2,590 pupils, an increase of 129 since the opening of school. There is also a slight increase in grades nine and ten, bringing the total to 172 students in the ten intermediate schools of the conference.

We are sorry that illness of the teacher and the recent floods forced us to close two of our schools, leaving us with forty-two elementary schools at the present time

Prospects for the coming year point to another record enrollment, with well over 300 pupils in each of the first eight grades. This presents a real problem in facilities and schoolrooms, but even more so in securing enough qualified teachers. It has been estimated that if our schools in this union conference were to keep pace with the increased enrollment, we would have to build over two classrooms every month for the next four years. We will need to find one new teacher every two weeks for the next four years just to take care of the newcomers, to say nothing of those needed as replacements.

The tragedy is that our colleges are turning out only a fraction of the teachers needed. It is our earnest hope and prayer that many of our youth will see the need and accept the challenge of Christian education and respond to the call of this most rewarding profession.

Auburn-Meadow Vista Cooking School

The Auburn-Meadow Vista churches were glad when the date February 5-8 was set for cooking school.

The Auburn Lumber Company offered their General Electric display room for the classes. With the room went a new electric stove, an electric dishwasher, a disposal unit; a washing machine, plenty of cabinet space, an icebox, and an abundant supply of hot and cold water. Sunday was a busy day with all equipment unpacked, washed and put away, and the food prepared for the first lesson, "What's in Your Market Basket?"

About one hundred people were there for the class. Miss Beeler, with her assistant Miss Irene Bowes, gave an excellent demonstration on getting your money's worth, both in food value and dollars and cents.

Monday night the topic was "Vitamins and Minerals," a lesson on using vegetables. Many may be eaten raw, none should be overcooked, all should be as fresh as possible.

The third lesson was on homemade bread and the use of grains and cereals. Wednesday night was "Proteins," discussing the vegetarian foods which have a good supply.

The attendance increased until on the last night all available seats were filled. Prizes were given at each class, always some article of good food.

The counsel Miss Beeler gave was practical and sensible, and appreciated. I shall remember her statement, "Read the labels always, whether it is sugar, salt, or flour. Be sure what you buy is good food and your money's worth."

Our thanks to Miss Beeler and Miss

Bowes for the cooking class.

Camp Meeting Draws Near

Your camp meeting will be held this year at Lynwood June 14-24. Committees have been working for several weeks planning for these important meetings.

Several improvements are being made that will help to make your stay pleasant. Forty additional trailer house places have been added, with complete electrical and water connections. In order to give better distribution of lights and electrical power to the entire camp, underground power lines are being installed. Parking facilities are being improved. All in all we are looking forof God's people, and we are praying for the blessings of the Lord.

Many have written in for tents and trailer reservations. We have sent the supplies and order blanks to your church pastor and church treasurer. Please see them to get your order blank or complete the following form to arrange for your camp meeting needs.

Please send all camp meeting orders to the conference office. Brother R. G. Lewis will again be in charge of handling these reservations. We shall be very happy to hear from you early.

Camp Meeting Cafeteria Plans

We are happy to advise that Brother and Sister Val Logan will again be on hand to direct the food service in the cafeteria. We certainly have appreciated their faithfulness, and we look forward to good service again this year in this department of the camp meeting.

In order to formulate plans, they would be happy to hear from their many friends and former workers who have assisted in the kitchen and dining room and who would like to help again this

"New plans now in operation and developing make the literature ministry more attractive to our lay members as a successful avenue through which they can have a part in winning souls," declares Elder Herbert Wiles, publishing secretary. Elder Wiles indicates that, though the first month of 1956 showed fewer sales than in 1955, the conference's faithful literature evangelists have now exceeded sales totals for this time last year, with "the future looking brighter each day."

Churches throughout Southern California Conference are currently obtaining signatures on Local Option petitions which can change California's liquor licensing laws if the proposition is successful. Conference temperance officials warn that names on the petition forms must be complete. Women signers must indicate Miss or Mrs. before their names and married women must use their own first names rather than those of their husbands. Men signers must indicate at least one of their given names in a full manner-two initials nullify the signature. In short, sign the petition exactly as your name is registered to vote.

Los Angeles Union School

It was most interesting to behold the Los Angeles Union school bus drivers as they rolled their busses from street to street to receive the waiting students. At each stop the little passengers were not in the usual denims and plaids, but in their nicest suits. You ask the reason? Los Angeles Union school was doing its share to make the recent Christian Home Week's program a success.

Each bus transported the students to a different constituent church where a special Sabbath morning program had been arranged. As a result of this venture, approximately 65 non-Seventh-day Adventist children and parents joined in worship on that Sabbath. It is hoped that when the great roll is called and Los Angeles Union school will be asked to account for its "beautiful flock," many of those who attended on this occasion will be present.

Planning Vacation?

Be sure when you plan for your summer's vacation, that you remember the children, making sure they are in their camp during the session for their age group. No other activity throughout the year is focused entirely on the Junior Youth and his spiritual needs! Here are the dates for the camps this summer:

Nursing Education

Just returned from Hawaii to assist during the Spring and Summer quarters, Ethel Walder McKeague, head of P.U.C. Nursing Education, announces that eight graduate nurses have registered for courses in nursing education. One class will feature instruction in the supervision of schools of nursing.

Mrs. McKeague will hold regular counseling sessions with pre-nursing students and conduct classes in the history of nursing. College students training as elementary or as secondary gradeschool teachers will receive instruction to assist them in health teaching and in the preparation of school health programs.

Interior Design Major

A four-year course offering a major in Interior Design will be given at P.U.C., beginning with the next school year. This new major is in addition to two majors previously offered by the Home Economics department, one leading to work in the field of home economics teaching, and the other dietetics. This course, to include training in interior designing, will carry with it a B.S. degree in Home Economics. By choice of electives offered, the student may prepare either for teaching in the field of interior design, or go into it as a professional worker.

Four departments of the college are cooperating in this course to give the student a strong background of general education and the required professional training. Classes in the Art, Industrial Arts, Home Economics, and Agricultural departments will cover subjects such as colors, furnishings, floor and wall coverings, textiles, light fixtures, windows, draperies, color schemes, living indoors and outdoors, and landscape design. Students will be taught to develop ideas and to sketch and present them. They will learn business organization and management, and in laboratory and actual practice receive the equivalent of an 'on the job training.'

Mrs. Chester Westphal, graduate of Walla Walla College, who for eight years managed her own studio of interior design in Washington, D.C., will give special direction and instruction to students in this course. She studied under Ethel Lewis, well-known interior designer, writer, and textbook author, and has been successful as a professional worker in this field. One of her contracts while in Washington was the interior designing for the Army and Navy Country Club.

Besides what this work offers in business and professional advantages, Mrs. Westphal is especially enthusiastic because of the many openings it gives for witnessing for the truth and engaging in personal evangelism.

Educational Council

Miss Alice Neilsen, head of the department of elementary education at P.U.C., is representing the college at the Seventh-day Adventist North American Division Éducational Council held in Kansas City, Missouri, March 25 to 28. Attendance at this meeting includes all of the union conference educational secretaries and conference educational superintendents in the United States and Canada, and heads of elementary education from Adventist senior colleges.

Awarded Doctor's Degree

Miss Alice L. Holst, head of the P.U.C. Secretarial Science department, has just received the official letter from Teachers College, Columbia University, New York City, stating that she has been awarded the degree of Doctor of Education in Business Education, with a specialty in the Teaching of Secretarial Subjects.

In Miss Holst's thesis she developed a self-teaching manual for college students by which they can learn to take effective class notes, using an alphabetic system of shorthand for the most common words.

Master's degree in Business Education was granted Miss Holst by Columbia University in 1947. Since that time she has attended summer sessions and last year was in residence at Columbia for one semester, during which time she completed her classwork, wrote and defended her thesis, and passed her oral and written examinations. Last summer Miss Holst's major professor at Columbia spent two weeks at Angwin so she could assist him in the preparation of a book.
