

Where Your Heart Is

With the summer come vacation plans. Some think of a new boat, others plan a trip to Europe or some spot of hustle and bustle. All this is in an effort to ease the tensions of our modern world. In spite of all of man's efforts, tensions continue to mount.

Jesus suggested the need of rest when he said, "Come ye yourselves apart into a desert place, and rest a while." Then He told us where to find rest when He said, "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

Extensive vacation plans are not necessary for the release of tensions. A more modest program in the environment of Christ is more apt to give the desired results. This will leave the bank account in better position for you to be a generous giver to the Midsummer Offering on July 11.

Review Editor Going Abroad

On June 11 Elder F. D. Nichol, editor of the Review and Herald, will leave on a four-month trip over the world to visit our denominational headquarters and mission stations.

Each week, while he is on this journey, he will write for the Review an extended letter, telling of what he has seen and heard and experienced at each place that he has visited. He will be touching at most of our main offices in Europe. He will also visit some of the iron-curtain countries. He will go from there to Turkey, to the Middle East, to Egypt, Ethiopia, and on down to South Africa. Then he will journey eastward from Bombay to Bangkok, to Singapore, to the Indonesian countries of Sumatra, Java, and Borneo. From there he will go to the Philippines, Hong Kong, Japan, and then back to the United States.

Elder Nichol's letters to the Review will provide a picture of our mission

School Industries Preserved

The defeat of a vicious bill recently in committee at Sacramento demonstrates the protecting hand of God over our schools. A large printing business in San Diego initiated legislation that would have destroyed the book bindery at the San Pasqual Academy. The academy had been awarded a contract by the city library, which, of course, began the difficulty at the local press in the city. One labor union assisted in the campaign against our press.

Representatives from our various schools in California met in Sacramento two different times and, after prayer for Divine guidance, gave careful consideration as to just how to approach the problem. A hearing before the committee was called and our men met only to find that for some unknown reason it was postponed for a week. We could see the hand of God in this, for it gave us time to contact others who would also be affected by the bill.

The State University at Berkeley was contacted, and the head of the university was present at the hearing, doing much to defeat the bill.

At the hearing, the opposition was weak and confused in its testimony. Three labor unions came out strong against the bill even after they had committed themselves in favor of it. Surely the entire proceedings gave us new courage in God's directing power. We feel work an important part of our school program, and without it true education cannot be attained. It must not be curtailed in any way. Our school industries are not making money, and certainly they are not in competition with city business, for the church must heavily subsidize every school that our youth may receive the kind of education that will fit them for heaven. This is the program of God, and when by faith we enter the plan of God, success is assured.

There is one very important lesson in this: God does not use only one person to preserve truth. It takes many men, each in his particular field, to present the facts that sway the minds of legislators. The academy principal, Elder W. T. Weaver, gave a marvelous presentation before the committee, using material and suggestions from our other school representatives. He, being directly concerned, was used by God. Our objective was not to defeat a particular bill, but to present TRUTH to men of importance, and we feel certain that the important people who filled the room received the force of the message.

Medical Cadet Corps Bivouac

The event was nothing new—just the annual Medical Cadet Corps Bivouac for the Pacific Union Conference, but the activities and the training program were elaborate, for it was to be held in connection with a demonstration given by the Army's 12th Evacuation Hospital.

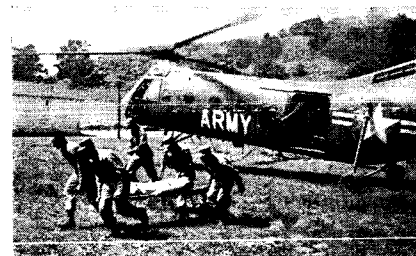

It all actually began months before the Medical Cadet Corps arrived at the Central California camp meeting grounds near Soquel where the bivouac was held, for it took months of planning, organizing, and training the cadets in their local corps for this encampment. Contacts had to be made with the Army 12th Evacuation Hospital at Ford Ord, California, and a liaison had to be set up between the Medical Cadets and the Army. Then on D-day minus two about 25 army vehicles of different kinds, from the army jeep to the large army truck, arrived at the campgrounds, carrying the needed supplies to put the 12th Evacuation Hospital into operation for the training benefit of the Medical Cadet Corps. As the trucks and jeeps came to a stop, 96 enlisted army personnel and five officers began unloading the equipment, and before the day was over a complete army evacuation hospital was ready to go.

An evacuation hospital such as the 12th Evacuation Hospital when completely set up is a 400-bed hospital. However, for this maneuver they did not set up all of the 400 beds, but they did set up 12 of their large hospital tents. And these tents housed complete surgical, X-ray, dental, pharmacy, and ward units. In time of war these mobile hospitals provide facilities for major medical and surgical procedures in the care and treatment of casualties. Many a Seventh-day Adventist young man has served in these evacuation hospitals in World War II and in the Korean conflict, and many are serving in such units today. One such Seventh-day Adventist young man was serving in the 12th Evacuation Hospital during the maneuver. With the threat of war so vivid, it means many more of our young men will be serving as medical soldiers in the days to come. Therefore, to have the army set up an evacuation hospital and demonstrate its functions for the Seventh-day Adventist Medical Cadets was a training feature that could not be equaled in any other way. It is gratifying to know that the military is in accord with our training to the extent of aiding us with such an outstanding exhibit. We are grateful indeed. Not only did the army go all out in setting up a magnificent hospital display and demonstration for our Seventh-day Adventist young men, but also the 33rd Transportation Battalion brought in one of their large army helicopters, capable of carrying 22 men or 12 stretcher cases. It was quite an experience for the cadets to see this magnificent flying ambulance hover the camp and then settle lightly to the earth where it would be impossible to land even the smallest of conventional aircraft.

By sundown Friday night the army had moved out, Old Glory had been lowered, and Friday night vesper was given by Elder W. J. Blacker, Pacific Union Conference secretary-treasurer. Because the temptations in the service are so great along the lines of intemperance, the Friday night meeting was dedicated to the subject of temperance. Elder Miller Brockett, Pacific Union Conference Missionary Volunteer, War Service Commission, and Temperance secretary, was in charge of this program. He brought with him Miss Lauralee

Surgical demonstration at the bivouac.

Trainor from Lynwood Academy, winner of the Temperance Oratorical contest, and a temperance team from Fresno Academy. Before the evening was over, temperance had been covered very thoroughly and in an appealing way.

It was inspiring Sabbath morning to see 250 Medical Cadets march to Sabbath school and church with their Bibles under their arms. Sabbath school was conducted by the cadets, and the music for the service was given by the Mountain View Academy Medical Cadet Corps band. The message of the 11 o'clock hour was a challenge not only to live a Christian life while in the service, but to not be afraid to speak about Christ to others. This stirring message was delivered by Chaplain Earl T. Lee (Captain), U.S.A.

Sabbath afternoon time was allowed for the cadets to ask questions relating to their relationship to their country and to their God. To answer these questions there were a number of War Service Commission secretaries present, plus Chaplain Lee and four Seventh-day Adventist servicemen who are stationed at Fort Ord, and Elder A. G. Munson, civilian chaplain for the Fort Ord area.

All the hours, except the Sabbath hours, were spent in long, hard training periods that covered such subjects as: Atomic warfare, battle formations, interior guard duty, organization and functions of the medical service, transportation of the sick and wounded, pentomic army organization, and medical effects of nerve gas. These were carried out in the classroom by lectures and army training films. Also, many of the subjects were carried out in a very practical and realistic way in the field. An example of this realistic training was the last training period, for as it came to its end, the cadets were all crying. They had just walked out of the tear gas chamber, holding their gas masks in their hands.

The bivouac ended Sunday afternoon, with the cadets tired and weary from the stiff pace of the four days, but they also felt a little bit wiser, for they now knew what their part would be as Christian soldiers on an atomic battlefield of the future.

Chaplains Banquet

Eight army Protestant chaplains from Fort Ord accepted Elder Albert Munson's invitation to attend a farewell banquet in honor of Chaplain Earl Lee, Seventh-day Adventist army chaplain who has been stationed at Fort Ord for a period of about two years. Chaplain Lee is now being transferred to duty in Germany.

Elder Albert Munson, our civilian chaplain for the Fort Ord area, laid all the plans for this outstanding banquet which was held in the spacious dining room of the Monterey Bay Academy. The meal was served elegantly by some of the academy students. The program was well planned with musical numbers from the academy's musical group called the "Baker's Dozen," and also vocal solos by Elder Ray Turner, singing evangelist. It was certain the army chaplains were inspired by these musical numbers.

The speaker for the evening was

Elder Neal C. Wilson from the Central California Conference. Elder Wilson has just recently returned from 15 years of service in the Middle East. Therefore, his lecture and movies were very timely and interesting to these army chaplains, for the military is very much concerned about this area of the world.

There were actually two reasons for this banquet. First, it was, of course, a farewell to Chaplain Lee who has been such a blessing to our young men stationed at Fort Ord. Chaplain Lee will be greatly missed, but we knew when he arrived at Fort Ord that he would not be with us for very long, for the army is like the great Advent movement—it is always moving! Our loss will, of course, be a gain for our service men stationed in Germany.

The other reason for this banquet was to draw into closer fellowship with the Protestant chaplains of Fort Ord, for we will be needing their support more than ever now that Chaplain Lee has gone. The relationship that we have with these men is very good, thanks to the splendid, faithful work of Elder Munson who is dedicated to the task of standing as liaison between our Seventh-day Adventist service men and the army.

Elder Munson and his good wife have been stationed at Fort Ord for about eight years. Their home has always been open to our service men stationed there. Because of their faithful service many a young man has been salvaged and brought back to the church. Others who were faithful have been encouraged and helped. There have been some problems that our men encountered at Fort Ord, but again Elder Munson was always ready to help and to iron out the difficulties. May the Lord continually bless Elder Munson and his wife as they carry on this important task.

When the banquet came to an end the chaplains seemed very much impressed, and it would appear that we definitely have their support and that they will do everything they can for our young men who find themselves in the service of their country. Throughout the banquet there was a feeling of true Christian fellowship, and as the chaplains left to return to their base, it was felt they realized more than ever that Seventh-day Adventist young men are not looking for favors from the government but just understanding for their beliefs.

Faith for Today Wins Family

Reports of souls won to the truth as the result of the telecasts of Faith for Today and the earnest follow-up work of ministers and laity always bring encouragement. The following letter, recently received from Pastor R. J. Ritchie of Windsor, Ontario, brings a thrilling experience which we wish to share.

"Some months ago I received the names of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. and visited them shortly after receiving this information. I was delighted to find an ardent open-minded Christian in Mrs. C. and a keen Bible student in her husband. Bible studies followed, and now I can report that they and their older son have been baptized.

"An interesting feature about this experience is that just prior to their being baptized, they suggested that I ascertain whether or not the husband's mother, who lives more than 100 miles away, had taken the Faith for Today Bible course also, for the family had encouraged her to do so. They invited her to visit them for a few days, and I called at the home the evening she arrived. Wondering what the family would like to study that night, I turned to the mother and asked, 'What do you believe happens to a man when he dies?' To this she promptly replied, 'He remains in a totally unconscious condition until the resurrection.' When I expressed surprise at the correctness of her answer, I discovered that she had fully completed the Faith for Today course! At the conclusion of a six-week's series of lectures in which we were currently engaged this mother also took her stand in baptism.

"In my 30 years of ministry I can truthfully say I have never seen new converts so rapidly and wholeheartedly take hold of the truth as has this family. Our entire congregation feels as though the individuals of this family have been long-standing members of the church. The husband and wife have already raised approximately $250 in the In-gathering campaign."

Last year almost 1,500 precious souls like these wrote to the Faith for Today office to inform us that they had fully decided to follow Jesus all the way and were looking forward to baptism and church membership. The majority of these have now been baptized. However, past accomplishments are never enough, for we want to see the tempo of the work increase until finally the message swells into a loud cry which heralds the coming of the Lord. Please join us in prayer each day for the work of Faith for Today.

W. A. FAGAL.

Family Accepts Message

In a recent letter, Pastor C. R. Jepson of Zanesville, Ohio, tells the Voice of Prophecy staff the following interesting experience of a fine family won to the message:

"In our last series in Portsmouth, Ohio, 61 took their stand, and 30 were baptized. There was a gentleman living on a rural route out of Lucasville, Ohio, who I believe was one of your students, and he was just waiting for us to come to town. He attended every night, and when I made the first call for surrender he was out of his seat, down the aisle, and sitting in one of the front pews before I could get down from the rostrum. About five minutes later, his wife and daughter came to join him. This is a lovely family, and a wonderful addition to the Portsmouth church.

"In later meetings, during calls for surrender, this brother couldn't keep his seat, but went quietly around among his friends in the audience, trying to get them to come forward and take their stand. It almost made me want to cry as I saw him work. He told me afterward that he 'just couldn't stand it' to see his friends sitting there during the call and not responding."

Across the nation, other whole families are turning to the Lord in this way, through the cooperative efforts of our faithful evangelists, The Voice of Prophecy broadcasts and Bible schools, and those who so loyally support these effective methods of evangelism by their attendance at public meetings, by their prayers and personal work, and by their financial gifts.

Our radio staff often pray for our evangelists, and for the Voice of Prophecy listeners and Bible-course students to whom we send personal letters inviting them to attend evangelistic campaigns whenever they may be held in their respective localities, anywhere in the United States and Canada. Baptism at San Pasqual Academy

Some of the fruits of Christian education were reaped on Sabbath, May 9, when seven San Pasqual Academy students took their stand for Christ and were baptized. After they took their vows before the church, Principal W. T. Weaver welcomed the seven young people into church fellowship. While the choir sang appropriate songs beside the outdoor baptistry, the writer led these young people into this solemn testimony of their faith.

An interest in your family prayers is needed and will be greatly appreciated.

Missionary-minded Music Lovers, Come

Many people in Southeastern California have been thrilled to hear the tenor voice of Neville Ottley. Now Mr. Ottley, his wife, and four children are planning to leave California to return as workers to their native land of Trinidad. There Mr. and Mrs. Ottley will take up teaching responsibilities at our Caribbean college. They have responded to the Lord's call to return to their homeland.

Mr. Ottley has been affiliated with the Ace Drill Bushing Company as an industrial engineer for over seven years. During this time he has served the churches of the surrounding communities as a speaker, and as a member of a choral group organized among the employees and directed by Leonard Moore. This group is composed of 26 mixed voices and has become officially known as the Ace Choral Ensemble. The ensemble has appeared in many of the churches in this area, and it has always felt privileged to have Mr. Ottley as a member. He has been featured as a soloist in many of the ensemble's special programs.

The Ace Choral Ensemble is planning to help the Ottleys as much as possible before they leave. The plan is to present an evening of enjoyable sacred and secular choral music, and featuring as a guest artist Brenda Weibel, violinist and winner of the 1959 Redlands Bowl Auditions. Mr. Ottley will sing two solos, "It Was for Me" and "I Love Life." Among the choral selections to be sung are Norman Luboff's arrangement of "All Through the Night," with Miss Weibel playing a violin obbligato, and Nelson's "Oh, Lord, Ruler of the Universe."

The Neville Ottley Benefit Program will be held in the Hole Memorial Auditorium at La Sierra College, 8:30 p.m., June 20.

Invest in Youth Evangelism at Wawona

A mountain to scale, a hidden secret of nature to learn, a new discovery of life, a new skill to master, a larger circle of friends to make, and above all, a closer walk with Christ, the great Master Guide—these are but a few of the experiences that await the summer campers at Wawona.

Each boy and girl of the church should be at camp this summer. But will they be? Have you, as a parent and church member planned with your youth for their attendance? Have you thought of Wawona as youth evangelism? Camp is a place where thrill and skill are combined to provide an atmosphere of camper-staff confidence which will lead to spiritual growth and lifelong decisions for good.

If you have no children of your own to send to camp, help a neighborhood child to know a better way of life by inviting him and helping him to attend

Changes in Personnel

Elder W. H. England has worked long and faithful hours in the Book and Bible House, often burning the lights after closing hours. It was felt that we should invite him to pastor the Globe-Coolidge district where his work would be less confining and strenuous. He will continue to live in Phoenix. We are sure that these two churches will greatly appreciate his leadership. His spiritual care and his devotion to duty will do much for the work in these places.

Another vacancy was made when Mrs. Lena Day had to resign her work to care for her aged mother who resides in Texas. Her adeptness in handling the accounting and bookkeeping equipment in the conference office and Book and Bible House and her services as a skilled secretary have been greatly missed. To partially care for these vacancies the conference has asked Elder Henry T. Bergh, along with his other duties, to shoulder the responsibility of Book and Bible House secretary. Robert Reiber, who has been the accountant and teacher at our Navajo Mission School at Holbrook for the past two years, has been asked to join us as accountant and assistant in the Book and Bible House.

We welcome Brother and Sister Reiber and their two children to our conference family.

These changes went into effect June 1. We ask an interest in your prayers for these men as they take up their various duties.

MEXICAN YOUTH WALK THROUGH WIRE FENCE each day at the international boundary to attend the Seventh-day Adventist mission school at Calexico. The 253 students come largely from Catholic homes. These youth from Old Mexico pay a small sum to attend the mission school and have come unsolicited to seek the teaching offered at this institution.

OPPORTUNITY IS LIMITED by crowded classrooms, inadequate facilities, inadequate library, and outmoded buildings. Students here are students and instructors compelled to study outdoors. Plans are under way to erect the first unit of the school plant by the opening of school next September.

The Calexico mission school with 253 students is one of the most unique operations in the Southeastern California Conference. While this enterprise is Seventh-day Adventist operated, 95 per cent of the youth enrolled come from non-Protestant homes. Most of these children of Old Mexico voluntarily cross the International Border daily to seek the education offered by this denomination.

Between 75 and 100 students were refused admission to the school in 1958, due to inadequate school facilities.

This is a foreign mission project in the truest sense, and new school buildings are imperative at once. The hand of God pointed

News From Miranda in the Redwoods

The newly formed Christian Men's Club of the Miranda church in the Redwoods is meeting with success in its attempt to contact business and professional men in the community by inviting them to the monthly meetings held in the new church school auditorium. On March 15 Attorney Ralph Baker of Oakland addressed the group with a dynamic presentation of facts concerning the constitutionality of Sunday laws. Those present were made to realize that "the price of liberty is eternal vigilance."

For the April meeting the men invited Elder Lester L. Bennett of Eureka to speak on the nation's newest state, Hawaii, where he held appointment prior to coming to serve the Eureka church. It is hoped that Christian fellowship enjoyed in this friendly contact with the church will prepare the way for further Bible study with these neighbors and business acquaintances.

Recent contact with the owner of a prominently located building has resulted in the Dorcas society's having the use of the building rent free for the summer for welfare purposes and a summer-long rummage sale. Until the building is rented or sold, the ladies may use it as their welfare center.

The Home and School Association presented Carl V. Lansing, M.D., of San Bernardino in a benefit concert on April 4. The school has enjoyed much good publicity in connection with the concert, which is much appreciated. Dr. Lansing, a prominent Seventh-day Adventist physician and surgeon, is well known for his opera and oratorio performances.

The 120 members of the Miranda church of the Redwoods cordially invite you to fellowship with them when in their area, a wonderful place in which to spend your summer vacation. It is conveniently located on U.S. Highway 101, its attractive sign in prominent view of motorists driving through Miranda.

Cooking School in Sonoma County

A most interesting and very practical cooking school was recently held in the auditorium of the Redwood Empire Junior Academy at Santa Rosa. Leading in the series of two-hour evening classes, Miss Eva Beeler, R.N., Health Education director for the conference, ably presented the following lessons in "Applied Nutrition": 1. It's a Sweet World—Deserts, 2. Vitamins and Minerals, 3. Staff of Life—Cereals, and 4. Proteins.

The local coordinator of this district-wide project was Mrs. Evelyn Lane, of Sebastopol; also giving invaluable assistance was Kenneth Wong, M.D., of Santa Rosa. Each afternoon a busy group of women gave faithful help so that a wide variety of the recipes which Ground-breaking ceremonies for the St. Helena church were held on April 22 with more than 150 people in attendance. Wielding the shovels are Elder S. T. Borg, pastor of the St. Helena church, Elder J. I. Robison, Harley Morrison, and Lloyd Landis. Brother Landis designed the building and will also superintend the construction. Others on the program were Horace Jenkins, Paul R. Alexander, Elder H. M. Blunden who told of the "Expanding Work of Seventh-day Adventists," and Dr. John E. Weaver who answered the question "Why Churches?" A trumpet trio furnished the music. The beautiful property for the church is located on Main Street. There is a little less than two acres in the plot, making it possible to have complete off-street parking.

Vern Manthe did a fine job as song leader and in arranging for special music which was enjoyed by all. Our young people served as ushers.

The wide platform was arranged attractively with the newest in kitchen appliances and furniture supplied through the courtesy of the Santa Rosa Emporium Company. Sincere appreciation is also extended to the Loma Linda Food Company for liberally supplying the school with free food samples and door prizes.

That this course was enthusiastically received by the constituency is evidenced by the fact that 140 attended regularly, coming in from Petaluma, Healdsburg, Sebastopol, and Santa Rosa. Many guests were also present, eager for the opportunity to become better acquainted with health principles as taught by the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

At the close of the final class, March 25, a hearty round of applause was given for Miss Beeler and the many others who worked together so diligently to make this school such a success.

Precious Fruit for the Master

"... And the Lord added to the church... such as should be saved." Acts 2:47.

The eight smiling individuals pictured here were added to the Oak Park church by baptism on Sabbath, March 28, in Sacramento. These precious souls are the fruit of our baptismal class begun in January and climaxed by a three-week series of Sunday and Wednesday night meetings held in the church by the pastor, March 8 to 25. All of our distinctive doctrines were covered. These meetings were loyally supported by our members, not only by their faithful attendance and prayers, but also by inviting and bringing to the services many friends and relatives. Attendance was good. Opening night found 20 non-Adventists present and many of these attended the whole series. Copies of The Marked Bible were given to 40

"Great Judgment Day" was presented and a call was made, all those pictured came forward with many others and made their decision for the Lord Jesus. Other interests are being followed up and another baptism is planned soon. Won't you pray for these dear ones as they step forward to "walk in the newness of life"?

Aloha to the Larson Family

After about 12 years of service in Hawaii, Elder Ralph Larson and his family have returned to the mainland. He will be doing evangelistic work in the Northern California Conference. During the last two and one-half years, Elder Larson has been engaged in full-time evangelistic work in the island field, uniting his ministry with the district pastors in conducting public meetings in every area in which we have churches, with one exception. The Lord abundantly blessed the preaching of His Word. Hundreds of souls have been led to unite with the commandment-keeping church. Seeds of truth have been sown in the hearts of many who, as yet, have not fully surrendered to what they believe within their hearts is God's truth. It is only reasonable to believe that many of these souls will in the future make their peace with God and join His remnant church.

I am sure that I speak for the island field when I suggest that we wish for the Larson family the Lord's richest blessings in their new field of labor. They will be greatly missed in Hawaii.

For the present, the emphasis in public evangelism will center with the pastors and local church membership. During the next several months we trust there will be a large harvest of souls through this type of evangelism. Some time in the future, as finances and circumstances may permit, we hope to again be able to have a full-time evangelist in the island field.

Evangelism in Molokai

On April 12 the members of the Molokai church united with the pastor in a three-week evangelistic meeting in Kaunakakai. The church response was most commendable. The Home Missionary leader served as associate with the pastor, and the members managed the various other responsibilities.

Although there was strong opposition from the other churches, the Lord blessed us with a fine audience each evening. When the call was made to unite with the church, 24 individuals stepped forward. As a result, the pastor is holding a baptismal class each week at the church, along with several Bible studies in the homes of those who were not prepared to respond to the main call. We solicit your prayers so these will have the courage to take the next step of baptism.

CLIFFORD J. RASMUSSEN, Pastor.

Staff Additions Announced

R. L. Britain, a former academy dean, has accepted a call to serve as assistant dean of men. Mr. Britain has had several years' experience as a dean and is currently teaching at Sunnydale Academy, Centralia, Missouri.

Replacing Ingrid Johnson, who is returning to her Alma Mater, Emmanuel Missionary College, to teach physical education, is Betty Clary of Eugene, Oregon. Miss Clary will teach the ladies' physical education classes.

Ira Arashiro will join the nursing education department in the fall to teach in the areas of medical-surgical nursing. Miss Arashiro, who holds a master's degree in nursing education, is currently studying at the University of Chicago for a master's degree in nursing administration.

Fern Christensen who has been school nurse for a number of years will join the nursing education department as an instructor. School nurse will be Mrs. Allan Munroe, wife of Dr. Munroe who is joining the staff as health coordinator and school physician.

Joining the staff as assistant librarian is C. H. Casey, currently on the staff of Oshawa Missionary College. Mr. Casey is replacing Dudley Inngs who will return to school in the fall to work on his master's degree.

President R. W. Fowler indicated that only three major positions had to be filled because of vacancies occurring in the college staff this year. Other additions have been necessitated by the development of the new two-year nursing program and the leave granted R. L. Reynolds, dean of men, to continue work on his doctor's degree. Herman Johnson, assistant dean of men, will serve as dean of men next year.

Linear Accelerator Project Progresses

Two new developments have been announced that should speed up research on PUC's $100,000 linear accelerator project, which, according to I. R. Neilsen, head of the physics department, is progressing as scheduled.

Dr. Vernon Winn of the chemistry department has received a National Science Foundation Fellowship which will enable him to spend ten weeks at the University of Notre Dame to study the radiation chemistry research project, using the linear accelerator as the source of electrons. At the same time, Dr. Neilsen will spend several weeks during the latter part of June at Yale University doing research work at the Josiah Willard Gibbs Research Laboratory. He will then return to PUC and devote full time this summer to the accelerator project. Dr. Neilsen indicated that actual research should begin by the end of the summer.

The design and construction of the linear accelerator and the research to be conducted upon its completion is being supported by a research grant for "Mechanisms of Reactions Induced by High Energy Pulsed Radiation" from the National Institutes of Health.

Doctor of Musical Arts Granted Melvin S. Hill

Following examinations in May, Melvin S. Hill, assistant professor of music and director of the college band, was granted the Doctor of Musical Arts degree from the University of Southern California. He is the third faculty member to receive the doctor's degree this year.

For his thesis, Dr. Hill did a study of the history of music education in Seventh-day Adventist western colleges.

Two Nursing Programs at PUC

With the beginning of the new two-year nursing at the college this year some have thought that prenursing is no longer offered. However, PUC still offers the prenursing program.

This past year 30 students were accepted into the two-year program. There were about 55 prenursing students. Of these, the majority completing their requirements have been accepted by California Seventh-day Adventist schools of nursing. Ruth Monroe, director of nursing education, indicates that enrollment in prenursing was not affected this year by the beginning of the two-year plan.

Inquiries about either of the nursing curricula may be directed to: The Registrar, Pacific Union College, Angwin, California.
