

What Shall We Do?

Today, well over two thousand missionaries serve the cause of the Advent Movement overseas. These are courageous, self-sacrificing men and women, your sons and daughters, your friends, your classmates, your fellow believers, and they are making reports that surpass anything in our history of missions. We rejoice over this fine progress, but the very success for which we praise God brings to us very serious problems. A great influx of new believers or wide-opening doors of opportunity bring from our leaders everywhere the cry, "What shall we do?" The demand in almost any mission field usually exceeds by far the meager supply of men and means, of schools, hospitals, and even church buildings. And perhaps nothing distresses the missionary more than seeing long-hoped-for opportunities opening up and finding himself unable to take advantage of them. Missionaries often say that it isn't what they do that wears them out, it's what they can't do.

This note from a personal letter written a few days ago by Elder Carl Currie, president of the Southeast Asia Union, is typical of the way our missionary leaders are pouring out their hearts these days. He writes:

"I wish there were a way that we could help our people in America see the needs and visualize the opportunities that are before us in many parts of this division. Doors of opportunity are wide open, and yet because of a lack of funds we are unable to move ahead. Our Brunei-Sarawak Mission (in Borneo) could be without question the fastest-growing work in the Far Eastern Division. We have nearly 3,000 members in that one mission, and we only have a makeshift training school for that whole field. . . . In Vietnam where the doors of opportunity are wide open we now have buildings for a training school but have never been given so much as one dollar for a budget for that training school. In that whole mission we have two national workers who are pastors in churches outside Saigon, and yet in many places the people are crying for us to come and teach them. The Voice of Prophecy has reached out, but we have been unable to follow up. It makes one's heart ache to see the opportunities and to be unable to follow them up as we should. We have made a start and have a group of twenty workers in training, but that is only a beginning, and how to take on these twenty workers when they are finished next year I do not know."

A missionary in Korea wrote me a few weeks ago that Elder C. H. Davis, the union president, was "going around wringing his hands" over the dilemma they face in that country, asking continually, "What shall we do?" Brother Davis himself writes: "I hardly know where to begin in telling you some of the amazing things that God is bringing to pass in the Korean Union Mission." He reports that

Sabbath school members in the union are increasing at the rate of over 500 per week. More new members were added during the first six months of this year than they had altogether for the first fifty years of work in that country. Their membership in the Sabbath schools will go well over the 50,000 mark by the end of the year. Many of their schools have been meeting out of doors for lack of buildings to contain them. Others have secured surplus army tents. But the winters in Korea are severe and they fear that they may lose many of these seekers who already "have one foot in the church." Baptisms are keeping pace with this great increase in Sabbath school members, and this calls for more workers, more schools for the children of these families, and more facilities in our training school to prepare workers. Brother Davis continues:

"No matter which way we turn the work is prospering beyond anything I have ever seen. Visiting brethren ask how we account for it. There is no formula other than that the Holy Spirit is being poured out. There is unity of effort and a mutual love among the members, and a strong program of evangelism is being carried forward. . . . A great lay workers' program is in action; many of the lay workers are going far afield to spread the blessed truth. Hundreds of lay workers have taken hold of the work and are helping to bring the people into the churches. Some of the baptisms are almost entirely the result of lay workers' efforts."

Elder Francis D. Nichol, editor of the Review and Herald, reporting in the Sligo church on his 50,000 mile trip to most of our mission fields, told us of similar situations in many parts of the world, and everywhere he, too, heard the cry from perplexed missionaries and church leaders, "What shall we do?" There were somber notes in his report, however, as he told of opportunities that have ceased knocking, of countries from which we have been excluded and others where our workers carry on in fear of having all work stopped at any time, "because," said Elder Nichol, "of the baleful influences that are at work all over the earth." "Beloved," he continued out of a very full heart, "before the final hand strikes and we are driven out of more countries, I think we should pour in the missionaries and the means to finish the work of God there for Him."

Without doubt no man has ever brought to headquarters such an intimate and all-inclusive report as that presented by Elder Nichol after his intensive tour of four months that took him into practically all our mission fields. His skill in expression based on a similar skill in analysis, accurately brings to us the needs in the field and the heart cries of our missionaries. Listen to the climax of his thrilling report given in Washington last Sabbath (October 17):

"Call the Witnesses"—November 8.

"Our Holy Priest"—November 15.

"Let the youth be taught to take eternity into their reckoning."

"Brethren, the work is bursting out on every side with ardent, fervent, sacrificial missionaries. What are we going to do to support them? I say when these offerings come and we draw near to the end of the year and the Week of Sacrifice Offering—sacrifice! Beloved, we don't know anything about sacrifice in America. We don't know anything about poverty over here in America. Go abroad and see it! It's a different kind of world from what it is here. All I do is appeal to you here, to give some meditative thought, some prayer before God as to how you can enlarge your offering and enable us to finish this work of God in all the earth. I leave with you a picture in your mind, a picture of a mountain side out from Bulawayo, and looking down over there to where our first mission station is at old Solusi, there on the mountain side, sheer rock over it, and cut into the top of it there is a grave, the grave of Cecil Rhodes, Empire Builder for Britain—one of Britain's most loyal, ardent men, trying to push out the borders of the great British Empire. As he moved about over the Rhodesias there and saw the opportunities and realized that because of his own ill health his life might soon be cut short, he said always, 'So much to do, so little time to do it.' And with his last gasp—he died as a relatively young man—he said, 'So much to do, so little done.' Looking down, I say, on our first great mission spot, symbol of all the mission stations we've opened ever since, he gave us a slogan to use till the end of time: 'So much to do, so little time to do it.'

"Ah, may God forbid that when we come to the last day of preaching the gospel, we won't have to say, 'So much to do, so little done.' Go home, beloved, and plan to do something substantially larger for the mission offerings than you've ever done before, that we may work for God, work while it is day, 'for the night cometh when no man can work.'"

FRANCIS R. MILLARD, Associate Secretary, General Conference.

Too Evil to Mingle With Christians?

Can a person sink too low to fellowship with Christians—even if she has repented bitterly and is striving to live for Christ? Who should decide such a question—the church?—the individual?

A Faith for Today Bible school student decided the problem herself, after receiving Jesus Christ into her heart. Just the other day she accepted the Sabbath truth.

"I am keeping this Sabbath by writing to you and giving thanks, reading my Bible and studying. Is this wrong? I don't feel as if I am good enough to go to church and mingle with people who have not been touched by sin as I have been. Perhaps you will understand how I feel if I explain that I was a drug addict. I sank as low as a woman can, accepting all that goes with that kind of a life. I even threatened to murder, but, thank God, I have never done that, at least. With God's permission I will try harder to be a true child of God."

And with this letter pervaded by the spirit of humility came an offering to help the television work carry the message to other discouraged hearts. Money was scarce, now that this poor woman had turned away from her former method of earning a livelihood, but she shared what she had.

Week of Sacrifice Offering November 14

How comforting are Jesus' words to all of us, "Him that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out." May we rejoice that the Adventist telecast can carry this reassuring message past all barriers even to those who feel themselves too evil to mingle with Christians.

FAITH FOR TODAY.

History Made in Denver

A momentous meeting was held in Denver, Colorado, August 20 to 24 with all of the radio-television secretaries on the North American Division. They met for the first time to chart a course, to face the challenge, and to map out a constructive program which will find its way all through the church for the forwarding of the gospel. The radio-television department is a relatively new department in the church, but the marching orders were given and constructive plans were laid in order to meet the tremendous challenge of bursting population. With every challenge God has an answer. The answer is the modern methods of communications today of radio and television.

The purpose of the convention included: How to get more out of our existing national radio and television programs and how to encourage and bring out maximum results for the work of local broadcasters in various parts of the field. Considerable study was given to the challenge of securing listeners and viewers. Where we have one we could very easily have ten if we would but organize ourselves to the missionary task of informing the communities, inviting the people. Where we have one enrollment now we could have ten times as many and with the result of ten times as many baptisms in the church. To help bring this about, action was taken to encourage the appointment of radio-television secretaries in each of our local churches in North America, whose work it will be to encourage the lay members of our churches to go out on an active enrollment program. Last year within the Pacific Union with 480 baptized through The Voice of Prophecy contact, the average of enrollments secured was one half of an application per member, per year. This seems infinitesimally small. What would happen if every church member, filled with the love of God and a burning passion for his fellow man, were to secure one application per month. We would have more than 11,000 baptisms each year, or if we were able to secure five applications per month—57,600 baptisms. Signing up five people—just think what a tremendous baptismal potential there exists. The same story is true in other parts of the country.

Radio-TV evangelism today is one of the most promising potentially successful means of obtaining baptisms known. Considerable discussion was given to the matter of the follow-up program of names of interests, station contacts, and many other equally interesting items.

The council was under the direction of Elders E. R. Walde and J. E. Chase from the General Conference Radio-TV department as well as other General Conference representatives. You will be hearing more and more about radio-television evangelism through your conference. Let us respond to the challenge. Time is running out and there are so many people to be reached. God has given us the methods. May we prove faithful to our responsibilities.

ASI Convention Held at Loma Linda

The Association for Self-supporting Institutions of the General Conference held its annual meeting at Loma Linda, California, on the campus of the Medical College September 15 to 17. In addition to the Self-supporting units throughout the Pacific Union, headed by Dr. William Shephard, representatives from similar institutions from across the country were in attendance for the three-day meeting.

Special speakers during this session were Elder Arthur L. White of the Ellen G. White Publications; the General Conference secretary, W. R. Beach; and from the College of Medical Evangelists, Dr. M. G. Hardinge.

During this meeting Dr. L. A. Senseman, president; Dr. M. C. Horning, vice president; and Elder Wesley Amundsen, secretary, were re-elected for another term.

The primary purpose of this meeting was to coordinate and to study the possibilities of utilizing private activities as a missionary opportunity. Study was given as to how the operating of rest homes, small hospitals, etc., might utilize to the fullest the spreading of the gospel and how to make these institutions more soul-winning conscious.

Chaplain-Administrator Workshop

The chaplains, their associates, Bible instructors, and the hospital administrators of the institutions of the Pacific Union Conference met at the Glendale Sanitarium September 30 and October 1 and discussed the expanding concept of the chaplain's function in SDA hospitals and sanitariums.

This profitable two-day meeting was attended by six administrators, seven chaplains, and ten associates and Bible instructors, representing seven medical institutions. The chairman for Wednesday was Dr. A. L. Bietz, dean of theology at the College of Medical Evangelists.

"It is the purpose of this gathering," stated Dr. Bietz, "to create a more active interaction between those who have spiritual responsibility in our hospitals, and to develop that dynamic participation and sharing each with the other that creates a flame of motivation and inspiration which captivates us, and we go back to our work inspired."

W. D. Walton, administrator of the St. Helena Sanitarium, challenged the group during the devotional period to build their lives like great cathedrals which would inspire others to start the journey to the kingdom.

The keynote address for the first day's discussion provoked everyone to rethink the objectives and motives which implement his task. This was delivered by the secretary-treasurer of the Pacific Union Conference, W. J. Blacker.

Thursday morning Chaplain W. B. Bristow of the Glendale Sanitarium was the chairman. He presented the Glendale administrator, Mr. G. B. Nelson, for the devotional message. Dedication to the whole concept of man, as against narrow and specific problem areas, must be the duty of the chaplain or gospel worker today. He continued, "The chaplain and his associates are an integral part of the medical team, the forces of which must be synthesized and fused into an effective power for the well-being of the patient."

President R. R. Bietz of the Southern California Conference, in a discussion-provoking address, indicated the many functions through which the chaplain does his work. "He is at times," said Elder Bietz, "an administrator, pastor, preacher, educator, public relations representative, and a creative planner for the future. This does away entirely with the old concept of the chaplaincy as a job for retired and superannuated preachers. Accepting that the task has many broad and complex functions, perhaps the most important of all is the face-to-face, person-to-person relationship," stated Elder Bietz.

The seven institutions were represented by twenty-three individuals who shared experiences and concepts of that soul-saving work which is significantly peculiar to the sick room. Each gave freely for the benefit of all, making this two-day council a must for 1960. The suggested dates are September 28 and 29, and the place, the Loma Linda Sanitarium.

The need for better trained and better informed personnel prompted the group also to suggest that study be given to a hospital internship with clinical training for our prospective ministers, or for ministers who may feel a need for this type of training.

This Chaplain-Administrator Workshop opened up many avenues of service and indicated many methods, techniques, and procedures by which this service can be done. Everyone went home inspired by this two-day fellowship, realizing more than before that theirs is a very special and important task.

Director of Health Education,

Questions for You and Me

Question I:

Do you and I want the Lord's work to go forward and soon be finished?

Question II:

Do you and I want the missionaries to go to the mission fields, and do we want them to stay in the field or come home?

Question III:

We ask the missionaries to go, and we ask them to spend the best years of their lives in foreign service. Do we owe them our financial backing and support?

Question IV:

If you and I were in their places, what would we expect of the folks back home?

Question V:

Do we owe them something? Are we not indebted to them for doing what we want them to do and what we have asked them to do?

Question VI:

Do you think our missionaries are making a sacrifice?

Question VII:

What should you and I do in the Week of Sacrifice Offering November 14?

Question VIII:

Our Lord gave His life for the millions who do not know what we know. Are my heart and your hearts tied up with His in a great work?

Question IX:

How much have we spent for non-essentials and pleasure?

Question X:

How much should I give in the Week of Sacrifice Offering Sabbath, November 14?

year. The Oakhurst school was re-opened after being closed for a period of several years. The Opening Report for the 1959-60 school year indicates that 2,076 pupils are enrolled in grades one to eight, and 111 in grades nine and ten in our junior academies. This represents a combined increase of 202 pupils over the previous year. The present staff have an average of eight and one-half years of teaching experience.

The five senior academies operated by the conference have enrolled 709 pupils. The great army of approximately 2,900 young people who are attending our elementary and secondary schools here in the Central California Conference alone represent a mighty potential for the advancement of God's work on earth. During the past school year 212 students were baptized. Parents and other adults need to constantly keep before their young people the great objectives of Christian education—soul saving and service training. It is imperative through precept and example that high standards be maintained in the home and church as well as in the school. The supreme need of our youth is to become acquainted with Christ in a personal way. Herein lies the challenge of the church, the home, and the school. It is our sincere prayer that none of us will fail our youth through lack of dedication and enthusiasm concerning our faith in the purposes for which our denominational schools were divinely established.

E. F. HEIM,

Earn Souls and Money

Children between the ages of seven and ninety-seven can participate in the honorable work of selling our journals. "Blessed, soul-saving Bible truths are published in our papers. There are many who can help in the work of selling our periodicals." C.M., p. 145.

"We have been asleep, as it were, regarding the work that may be accomplished by the circulation of well-prepared literature. Let us now, by the wise use of periodicals and books, preach the word with determined energy . . ." Ibid., p. 145.

"When His laborers do the very best they can, God does for them that which they cannot do themselves; . . . There must be activity united with firm trust in God." Ibid., p. 147.

Our journals are more beautifully prepared today than ever before. They have tremendous sales appeal. Over 10,000 copies have been sold in Central California during the past three months, either in subscriptions or single copies.

Prices range from twenty-five to fifty cents per copy. The seller keeps fifty per cent of this for himself. Hundreds of boys and girls and youth earn their way to summer camp, pay tuition, earn money for bicycles, clothing, etc., by selling our journals. Just now, the Review and Herald Publishing Association is giving a watch to any child or youth who sells $40 worth of the Life and Health journal (eight one-year subscriptions, or eighty single copies).

Now please, children, youth, and adults, read again the three statements from the Spirit of prophecy, and if you then desire to know more about the magazine ministry, please send me a postal card, stating your interest, name, age, address, and phone number.

All those at Ventura Estates are very happy in their new environment and praising God for what the constituency of our conference has done in providing a home for them.

Fall Week of Prayer

Dr. W. F. Specht, chairman of the department of theology and religion at La Sierra College, will conduct the Fall Week of Prayer at the Glendale City church, November 7 to 14, inclusive. "Modern Messages From the Old Testament" will be the subject of his series, according to Elder F. F. Bush, pastor of the church. On Sabbaths November 7 and 14, Dr. Specht will speak at the regular church services at 10:45 a.m. Messages on the intervening six days, November 8 to 13, will be at 7:45 p.m. Music for the devotional series is being planned by Gladys S. Rue, minister of music.

Elder Charles Hall, associate pastor of the church, will lead in the regular Review and Herald readings for the Week of Prayer. These will be studied in Faith Chapel at seven each evening, just preceding Dr. Specht's meetings.

Sabbath School Workshop Success

Sabbath school workshops for evangelical teaching are appreciated as this letter will tell you. If you have missed, plan now to attend the next Sabbath School Exchange Klub meetings December 5 and December 12. Great things are now being planned. The Sabbath school is the "diamond mine" of the church.

Dear Elder Kott and All Sabbath School Assistants at the Workshop:

It is Friday morning! Work is screaming from all corners as you can well imagine after having been gone for four days. However, before another moment passes, we must pause to express our appreciation for the four most delightful, enlightening, stimulating, profitable, and productive four days we have ever spent.

It is difficult to find words to convey the deep appreciation we actually feel within ourselves. We sense the hours and hours of labor, concern, anxiety, and loss of sleep, as well as the money that has gone into this endeavor to make it such a huge success. But there has been a tremendous spirit of cooperation also or the workshop would never have reaped the results obtained.

Everything—the delicious food, the splendid presentations, the thought-provoking devotionals, the cooperative workshops, the wonderful supervision of the children, and last but not least, the atmosphere of the peaceful surroundings—blended together to form a harmonious whole. Consequently, it was possible for all to glean so much of the worth while to take home to pass on to the future generation.

We do thank you one and all so very, very much for everything. May the Lord continue to bless you all in His service, is our prayer.

Sincerely yours.

Vacation Bible School

Did you have a Vacation Bible school? If you didn't have one this past summer you missed a tremendous evangelism potential. You should see and hear the responses of those who did put enthusiasm into it. We are delighted with out pastor interest.

The accompanying pictures show some special activities put on by Pastor Merrill Enright. One picture shows his car, with a large Vacation Bible School banner on it and loud speakers, going down the streets of his city inviting boys and girls to COME. With him are some of the junior members of his church handing out balloons and invitations to some neighborhood children. Surely this is cooperative "share your faith" evangelism in which the entire church can participate. The other picture shows Pastor Enright spelling out VBS with his attending boys and girls.

It isn't too early to plan your Vacation Bible school for 1960. Select someone to be the leader and begin now saving items for your crafts, studying to make it truly soul winning.

To those forty-two Sabbath schools that had Vacation Bible schools this past summer—it shouldn't be over. What about all those children—some 2,500 to 3,000 of them who came this summer. Are you doing something to keep in touch with them? Are you enrolling them in your church school, the Voice of Prophecy Bible Course, the Pathfinders, a Branch Sunday school? We lose tremendously by starting but not following through. Pastors, Bible instructors, Sabbath school officers, and teachers, Vacation Bible school workers all, let's put forth converted efforts to "go out and bring them in."

CLARENCE C. KOTT,
Sabbath School Department.

Arizona Youth Congress

Elder Andrew Fearing, associate secretary of the General Conference Ministerial Association, will be the featured speaker for our second Arizona state-wide Youth Congress.

Elder Fearing is well known in the Arizona area, as he was one of the speakers at our camp meeting a few years ago. I know that our constituency will look forward with a great deal of anticipation to this outstanding event of 1959.

Elder Miller Brockett, Pacific Union Conference youth leader, and his associate, Elder Harry Garlick, will also be with us to bring a very special program Saturday night.

Other guests will include Elder D. E. Venden, president of the Central California Conference. The Venden brothers held a major evangelistic campaign in the Phoenix area a few years ago and so they, too, will be renewing old friendships at the time of this Youth Congress.

Our congress this year will be held at the Central Methodist church located at 1875 N. Central Avenue, on November 21. We are inviting all our constituency along with all of the workers in the Arizona Conference to be present with us at this outstanding spiritual feast for our young people.

Remember the date and the place—November 21, Central Methodist church, 1875 N. Central Avenue.

Conference Features Elder Nichol

A special treat awaited the ministers, elementary teachers, and colporteurs of the Hawaiian Mission when they gathered for their two-and-a-half-day conference at Camp Erdman, Oahu, October 5 to 7. It was the firsthand report of Elder F. D. Nichol's adventurous, round-the-world trip which he was just finishing.

Elder Nichol, editor of the Review and Herald, received serious injuries in England as the result of an automobile accident. This necessitated his using a wheel chair for part of his trip and crutches for the remainder of the journey, but he kept on with his itinerary and hardly missed a day. His keen observance of Adventist work in different parts of the earth including Russia and some of her satellite nations—in the context of the world conditions of today—provided a most interesting and encouraging yet challenging account. The burden of his presentation was that the church must arise quickly to finish the task that Christ has given her. Citing specific examples from both primitive and civilized lands, he declared, "Missions pay!"

Elder D. E. Dirksen, secretary of the home missionary department of the Pacific Union Conference, brought spiritual food to the workers in his devotional talks and gave practical suggestions for strengthening the soul-winning activities of the churches.

The elementary teachers had special help from Miss Else Nelson, associate in the department of education of the Pacific Union. She assisted with the Teachers' Convention held prior to and in conjunction with the ministers' meetings and then visited the seven church schools on the five islands of the state.

Miss Dorothea Van Gundy, nutritionist for the International Nutrition Research Foundation, Arlington, California, gave healthful pointers to all. She also quoted results of recent research which points out the physical advantage which Adventist children have as a result of following the health principles taught in the Bible and the Spirit of prophecy.

The 140 persons in attendance at the camp look back to the event as a time of spiritual refreshing, professional growth, and real Christian fellowship.

Elder D. E. Dirksen Visits Hawaii

Elder D. E. Dirksen, home missionary secretary for Pacific Union Conference, recently spent three weeks in Hawaii visiting the churches and encouraging the members to make their Christianity of a practical nature. Elder Dirksen stressed the importance of making our contacts with people Christ-like in every detail. A very busy itinerary was scheduled which required a sermon almost every night and at least two or three every Sabbath, but Elder Dirksen was eager to meet every appointment. The constituency appreciated the sermons and inspiration which he brought.

At each church laymen were interviewed by their pastor concerning their soul-winning activities, and the stories which were told would bring a thrill to your heart. Hawaii has men and women who are actively witnessing for the Master and effectively winning people for God's kingdom. In one church the pastor was interviewing a new member, and he explained that the layman who was instrumental in winning this individual was not able to be present this particular day. He was visiting another church witnessing the one hundred and seventh person being baptized through his work as a Bible teacher.

My dear fellow church member, it is your privilege to hasten the coming of Jesus in the clouds of heaven by faithful witnessing. Contacts for Christ mean souls saved for His kingdom. May the Holy Spirit stir your heart to put your talents to work and to assist in this great work of preparing a people for heaven.

The Voice of Prophecy Group in Oakland

To a minister, or to any Christian as a matter of fact, it is thrilling to watch men and women with their children walking through the wide open doors, being welcomed by the hostesses, and then ushered into their seats in a place where the Word of God and His special message for these last days is to be presented. It is even more thrilling when the busy and efficient ushers come and say: "It is filling up fast. Soon there will be no more room. Some late-comers will be disappointed as they will have to stand or go back home."

This was experienced in the Oakland City Auditorium as H. M. S. Richards and his Voice of Prophecy group were nearing the end of the eleven nightly meetings conducted in this place. Yes, the auditorium, which seats two thousand people, was not large enough the last two nights of the meetings.

The church members in the Bay Area had been looking forward to these meetings. They conducted surveys, distributed specially prepared Voice of Prophecy logs, and extended personal invitations. The ministers and the Bible instructors had met frequently to lay plans for this special event.

It was a wonderful experience for the workers of this area to join hands with H. M. S. Richards, J. O. Iversen, the King's Herald, Del Delker, and Brad Braley during this time. This is not only a talented group, but a most enjoyable one with which to visit. The Voice of Prophecy group is a hard-working one, but is always early for every appointment.

We were also fortunate to have the help of Miss Mary Walsh of the Pacific Union to help in the personal ministry carried on at the time of these meetings.

The interest created by The Voice of Prophecy meetings is being developed by Ralph Larson, conference evangelist, and Charles Todd, singing evangelist, supported by the pastors and Bible instructors of the Bay Area. The spirit of unity and cooperation among these workers has been wonderful, and we are sure the Lord will richly bless their efforts.

There is a great deal of work to be done in following up the requests on the part of several hundred non-Adventists for the gift book entitled What Jesus Said, the 180 persons who signed cards in the prayer room, and the many who, on the last night, requested further studies and the privilege of joining the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

The Northern California Conference administration gave every support financially, as well as by their personal presence throughout the campaign, and continue to do so in support of the work being carried on by Elder Larson and those associated with him.

Visitation at Rio Lindo

Over six hundred pastors, church leaders, and members from all parts of the Northern California Conference were present at Rio Lindo Academy, located near Healdsburg, California,

The investment is mounting with each passing day. Our brethren are endeavoring to plan and build wisely and well, and at the same time keep costs restrained.

Everyone was convinced as he left this beautiful setting on the banks of the Russian River beneath the backdrop of forest-covered Fitch mountain that here is a most worthy project that will serve to fill a great need; one in which they are proud and happy to be having a faithful part as they lend their moral support and give liberally of their means.

The Northern California Conference was represented at the National Convention of the American Temperance Society held in Denver, Colorado, from October 5 to 10 by sixteen delegates and two conference temperance secretaries, Elders Charles Seitz and James Harris. Northern California had the largest number of delegates present, and it also stands first in the total number of American Temperance Society memberships in the nation. An intensive instructional program was carried on during the six days of meetings, and we anticipate a tremendous temperance program in the churches from which the delegates came, as well as in the entire conference.

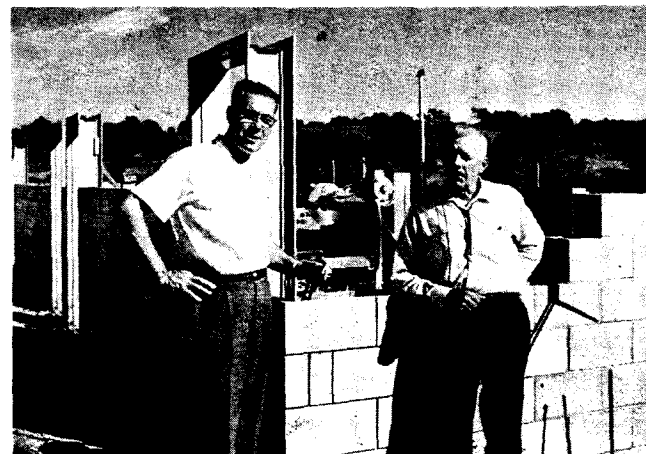

for the visitation day service on Sunday, October 11.

It was most heartening to everyone to see the fine progress being made on the new academy buildings. The spacious gymnasium is already serving nicely as a shelter for equipment and supplies. The walls for the boys' dormitory are half way up, and excavation is under way for the foundation of the girls' dormitory.

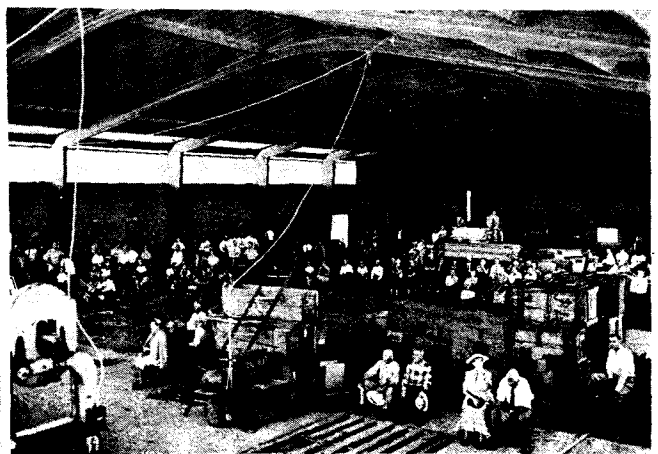

There was the hum of activity every place—the deep-throated cough of the bulldozers moving mountains of earth, the clatter of the rock crusher trying frantically to keep up with the endless demand, trucks hauling, craftsmen plying their skills—all leaving a tremendous impact of daily achievement.

Thus, Elder Carl Becker, conference president, pointed out, schools are built. A beautiful plant is taking shape to be dedicated to the youth of this great field—a haven of refuge in this evil hour. It is a marvelous monument being erected to the sacrificing parents and friends of Northern California who love the youth of the church and want to provide for them the best in character-forming Christian education.

E. A. Schmidt (left), treasurer of the Northern California Conference, discusses building plans with Ed Whalin of Oakland.

Are Sabbath Schools Outmoded?

"The most wasted hour in the week," was the way a prominent writer in a national magazine recently characterized the hour spent in Sunday schools by Americans who go to Sunday school. Perhaps we should restudy the place of our Sabbath schools in modern life. Let us ask ourselves if the hours we spend in Sabbath schools each week are hours well invested, or whether they, too, are wasted.

To Seventh-day Adventists, the precious hours spent in the Sabbath school are among the most inspiring moments in the week. This is as it should be, for the Sabbath schools are an integral and important part of the life of every Seventh-day Adventist. The Sabbath schools have sparked the missionary program of the church and have brought a continuous stream of light and life to its members the world around. Only eternity will reveal the tremendous impact of the Sabbath schools both on the lives of those who attend and on the communities in which they carry on their program.

We decidedly disagree that the hours spent in Sabbath school are wasted hours. We believe they are bright spots in the week, when the members fellowship in prayer, in singing, in inspiration, and in Bible study. We believe, further, that the greatest days of the Sabbath schools are just ahead of us. As the members rally together and make the Sabbath school a living, vibrant hub of missionary activity, then the Sabbath school will even more fully come into its own.

Every member of the church should be an active member of the Sabbath school, supporting the program with their interest, their prayers, their talents, and their offerings. Those who cannot attend regularly, because of age, or infirmity, should be enrolled in the extension division. Those who miss Sabbath school weekly, or who attend only sporadically—how much they miss! Like Thomas of old, who missed the visit of his risen Saviour because he was not meeting with his brethren, those who miss Sabbath school will miss the blessing of God, so greatly needed today!

No, the Sabbath school has not been outgrown or outmoded. The plan for the Sabbath school was born in the mind of infinite wisdom, and God does not institute second-rate plans. As we all rally around the Sabbath schools, even more loyally and carefully than ever before, we shall, under God, be hastening the day when the church will arise and shine, for the glory of the Lord will be risen upon her, and the work will soon be finished in all the earth.

B. W. MATTISON, Secretary,

Open House for Redlands' Newest School

A highlight in Christian education was marked October 4 at an open house for the new Redlands school at 130 Tennessee Street. Ninety-five children and their teachers began classes in the modern, well-designed building shown in the accompanying picture.

Built under the auspices of the Redlands Seventh-day Adventist church, this school offers to residents of the area a type of education that emphasizes Christian citizenship and character training as a basis of student control and development. Chairman Doyle Rutherford and his building committee spent many hours planning the new project. This five-room, practical yet economic building was designed and erected by the Ruckle builders of Loma Linda.

During the entire project, Elder John Pelt, Jr., chairman of the school board and local church pastor, with the church membership succeeded in solving the problems concerning finance and operation of this well-equipped school.

The following teachers are employed for this school year: Miss Faye Haupt, grades 1 and 2; Miss Marilyn Biggs, grades 3 and 4; Miss Myrna Stephenson, grades 5 and 6; and Ernest H. Mattison, principal and teacher of grades 7 and 8.

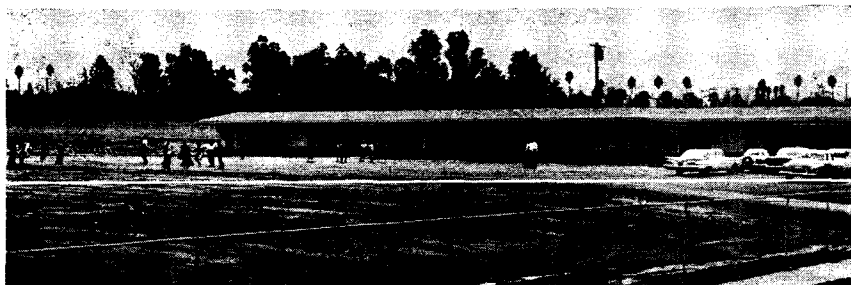

There is still room in some of the classrooms for students from homes that desire this type of training. Any parent or friend in the Redlands area interested is invited to visit the school or call PYramid 3-1000 for added information.

Audubon Screen Tour

The days of early exploration and discovery are gone, but for each of us the thrill of exploration and rediscovery of the things in nature will never end. Maybe we can't make the trips we'd like to explore the Caribbean islands and the Florida peninsula, or to see the Texas coastal wildlife or that of Alaska, but with Laurel Reynolds featured by the Audubon Screen Tours at Fullerton, we may do all this in her color film, "The New World Rediscovered."

For the fifth year, the Fullerton Pathfinder Club is sponsoring the Audubon Screen Tours in cooperation with the National Audubon Society.

On November 16, Laurel Reynolds will show her film at 7:45 p.m. in the Wilshire School Auditorium, Harvard and Whiting, in Fullerton.

Come and share this evening of travel and exploration with the Pathfinders at Fullerton. Individual season tickets, $3. Family season, $6. Single admission: 90 cents for adults and 50 cents for children.

Evangelistic Meetings in La Sierra

Sabbath afternoon, October 17, concluded two weeks of meetings conducted in the La Sierra church by Andrew C. Fearing, associate secretary of the Ministerial department of the General Conference. The unique feature of these meetings was that they were presented in such a way as to bring revival to Seventh-day Adventists and evangelism to those who were not church members.

As a result of these meetings forty individuals came forward to join with the Adventist Church. Baptismal classes have been formed in the new welfare building to further instruct these new converts in the Adventist beliefs. One class will be conducted by Mr. George Akers, dean of students at La Sierra College, and Mr. William Nelson, principal of La Sierra Academy. This class will be held over a six-week period for those who have been previously acquainted with our message. Another class for those who have had no other contact with our church will be taught by Elder Reuben Hilde, Bible instructor at La Sierra Academy. A third class, conducted by the minister of youth for juniors from the ages of twelve to fourteen, is already filled to capacity.

If you know of anyone living in the La Sierra area who is interested in our message, please write to La Sierra Seventh-day Adventist Church, Pierce at Sierra Vista, Arlington, California.

As a result of these spirit-filled meetings, members have been added to other churches in the area. A word of thanks is offered to the pastors of the Corona, Mira Loma, Riverside, and Arlington churches; also to Mrs. Maxine Morrison, Bible instructor; John Van Denburgh, director of music; and instrumentalists, vocalists, ushers and usherettes, who so generously gave of their time to make this series of meetings a real success.

Salt Lake School Attendance Increases

The great Salt Lake City metropolitan area, with a population of more than a half million people and still growing rapidly, has not long been an easy place to win converts. While the people here are the finest, yet the work in the past has been slow and difficult. Some families are confronted with prejudice where the parents are divided on religion, and as a consequence their children have been obliged to attend public schools. Much patience and effectual working of God's Spirit have been necessary to break down any noticeable amount of that prejudice, but now there is evidence all around that many adults are developing respect for and are showing interest in God's true message.

The opening enrollment of our church school this year is a thirty-four per cent increase over last year's total enrollment, and additional students are coming all the time. We have strengthened our teaching staff by adding to it. A school bus now brings students from Bountiful and Kearns. A new school building with a beautiful new gymnasium is just being completed in a fine residential part of the area and is now in use. There is a good school spirit, and courage is strong.

Unitedly, our people here say that this is but a beginning. There is a very strong feeling that our church school will do much to cement the members into a working force that through the grace and blessing of God will offer strong witnessing for the Master in this beautiful valley.

PAUL E. LIMERICK, Principal.

Lake Tahoe Missionary Volunteer Society

At Lake Tahoe during the summer months, when many young people were home from boarding academy and college and a number of others came to the lake for a summer's work, a good Missionary Volunteer Society was organized.

We chose to have our programs Sabbath evening at seven o'clock. We felt this was a good time to combine our meetings with sundown worship. We always enjoyed starting with a rousing song service led by Neal Spiva accompanied by Terry Sherman at the piano. Varied special music was presented by Carole Murray, Connie Sherman, Jackie Sherman, Larry Winn, Maureen Murphy, Ronald Patterson, Donna Rabun, John Layer, and a few others. Visiting speakers added variety to the programs. Elder H. E. Douglass, professor of religion at Pacific Union College, gave an interesting illustrated talk on his trip to Egypt; the Pinecrest summer camp leaders supplied us with a program; Mrs. McKee, delegate to the alcohol education school at Loma Linda, talked concerning the effects of alcohol on the body; and among many other helpful programs two were produced by the Missionary Volunteer Society as a group: "The Prodigal Son" arranged by Danette Nevis, and a symposium on "Christian Education."

We are thankful to report a very successful Missionary Volunteer Society this last summer with the help of the local young people, the visiting friends, the parents and others in the church, along with our new pastor and his wife, Elder and Mrs. F. H. Rahm.

R. W. Frost, MV Leader.

New Industrial Education Lab Developed

A new laboratory facility for diesel engines and industrial electricity was developed recently at Pacific Union College under the direction of Gerald Hetzer and J. E. Craver of the industrial education department staff with the help of a crew of selected industrial education majors.

The installation includes two 240 horsepower diesel engines complete with all the peripheral equipment for starting and cooling. Each engine drives a 185 KVA generator which connects with a master distribution panel to provide stand-by electric power for critical areas of the campus as well as providing valuable demonstration equipment.

In addition to the two large diesel units, the lab will also be equipped with approximately ten other power units, some diesel and some gasoline driven. These will be used in the advanced courses in power mechanics.

According to Dr. R. E. Fisher, head of the industrial education department, this equipment will help provide training for young men in the areas of mechanics and electricity to prepare them for institutional employ within the denomination, and also to better fill key mission posts where skill of this nature is vital to the progress of missions.

Teaching Spotlighted in Education Day Activities

Teaching as a profession was spotlighted in Education Day activities held here October 26 and 27 under the direction of L. W. Normington, chairman of the education department.

Designed to give prospective teachers an opportunity to talk with superintendents and principals about job opportunities and professional training, the annual conference brought to the campus educational superintendents and supervisors of the Pacific Union Conference and academy principals of the Northern and Central California conferences.

At a specially scheduled faculty meeting field representatives and college professors discussed "The Liberal Arts College and the Teacher Shortage." A symposium under the chairmanship of W. O. Baldwin, associate educational secretary of the Pacific Union Conference, presented the topic "What's Ahead in Teaching."

Guest speaker for the college convocation was L. R. Rasmussen, educational secretary of the Pacific Union Conference.

Of particular interest to the students was the career interview periods, coordinated this year by Alice Neilsen, professor of elementary education.

First Capping Service Held For Two-year Nurses

Twenty-six freshman nursing students received their caps in the first capping service of the Pacific Union College department of nursing Saturday evening, October 31, at 6:15 p.m.

Wearing their new blue and white striped uniforms for the first time, the nurses received their caps from members of the sophomore class and then lighted their candles in the traditional candle-lighting ceremony. The part of Florence Nightingale was carried by Naomi Zalabak, a senior nursing student of the St. Helena Sanitarium and Hospital. She is a member of the last class to graduate from the St. Helena School of Nursing.

Special music was given by members of the sophomore class and the dedicatory prayer was offered by Elder H. E. Douglass of the college department of religion.

These freshman students began their clinical work last week at the St. Helena Sanitarium and Hospital.

David Livingstone

The new book, Livingstone, Trail Blazer for God, is one of the best biographies released in some time. It is an Author's Award book and meets all the requirements of a good biography. Take a colorful figure like Dr. Livingstone, add the prowess of two excellent authors, and you have a book worth reading. Leslie and Madge Morrill made a faithful study of all material available in Scotland, England, and America before undertaking the tremendous task of telling again the story of the life of this man of God.

Today exploration is common, but on May 31, 1854, when Dr. Livingstone and his men walked into the town of Loanda on the Atlantic Coast of Africa, having come through the interior jungles on a six-month trek, constantly beset by barbarous tribes, wild animals, and illness, the world acclaimed the feat as miraculous, and it was. Truly the Lord was guiding that man. Livingstone did not explore merely for exploration's sake; everywhere he went he preached to the people and cared for the sick. His burning desire was to see the dark continent opened to more missionaries and teachers. He yearned for freedom from slavery for the black people. To serve humanity was the motive that spurred him on. It was said that "Fire, water,
