

VOL. 66 ANGWIN, CALIFORNIA, OCTOBER 10, 1966 NO. 13

October 15 Is Community Relations Day

"No, you cannot solicit in this city! We have organizations all over town with their hands out for money. What right have you here, anyway? You do not even have a church in town."

The city manager turned his back, leaving Bill Smith standing puzzled. Bill could not understand. Why this refusal?

Only a few months earlier he had quickly organized members of his church in a small town ten miles away and they had rushed emergency supplies to flood victims in this very city. Members had worked 'round the clock to provide help for families hit by the surging waters. What could be wrong? Didn't the city officials know of our work and our concern for citizens of their town?

Bill contacted the district pastor. "Pastor, what is wrong?" he asked. "Why do you suppose we were refused a solicitation permit?"

"I don't know," Pastor Jameson replied, "but we must find the reason and remedy the situation soon."

At a committee meeting called to discuss the problem Pastor Jameson said, "Since Bill phoned late yesterday I have been doing a little detective work. I've unearthed some rather important facts."

Work Not Identified

"I went to town this morning and talked to the president of First National Bank. During our conversation I asked how the families from the flood area were getting along. I told him our church had more than a passing interest in these people since supplying them with emergency food, clothing, and shelter during the first few days of the flood. The banker was surprised to know that we had helped the flood victims. 'How could this be?' I wondered."

"As I thought about it, I remembered that our small trucks used to deliver supplies were unmarked—belonging to individual members of the church who had volunteered their use. The big conference van had a Civil Defense emblem on it but the name Seventh-day Adventist was in small letters on the door of the tractor. Our members had no uniforms. They wore regular work clothes. There was no way to identify them."

"I went to the newspaper office and checked reports on the flood. Red Cross, National Guard, and other units were mentioned frequently. In a story on page three, the name Seventh-day Adventist appeared once. But the photos were all of the Red Cross and other groups. In one picture an unmarked Adventist truck appeared in the background, but the truck was not mentioned in the caption."

Meets Newspaper Editor

"I am sorry to say I had never taken time to meet the editor of the newspaper. Today I went in to see him, identified myself, and told him something of what we are doing in the area. The subject of the flood came up. He was vaguely aware of help we had given, but had no clear understanding of the work we had done. 'Are you new in this area?' he wanted to know. I had to confess that I had lived in the vicinity for two and a half years."

"Merchants in the town knew that several Adventist families lived nearby. One or two knew an Adventist personally. But most had no idea how many Adventists lived in town and patronized their stores."

"People on the street were the same way. They didn't know our work because we didn't identify ourselves."

"Community Relations Day is October 15 this year. I have asked our press secretary to join us this evening. She has a kit from the General Conference Bureau of Public Relations to help us plan for Community Relations Day. I have asked her to help us in planning this important day. But here is a list of 'musts' we should start with:

"1. List our church in the telephone directory."

"2. Erect highway signs on the main roads entering our town."

"3. Make certain that our church is listed among the community churches on the church page of the newspaper each week."

"4. List our church on the hotel and motel bulletin board directories."

"5. Send releases to the newspaper and our local radio station about church activities. Try to have something each week."

"6. Replace the church yard sign and touch up the landscaping around the church."

"7. I am accepting an invitation to join the local ministerial association."

"There are many other things that we must do in the future, but if we can make a start I am sure that we will soon be known and respected in this area. Possibly then we can reapply for a solicitation permit."

YOUR HELPING HAND IS NEEDED

By ROBERT H. PIERSON, President,
General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists.

Seventh-day Adventists as a church have been spared one of the greatest scourges of our time. While millions of others in virtually every country of the world are enmeshed in this tragedy, we as a people are free from its ravages. No other church today is equipped to do what ours can to help smokers.

R. H. Pierson

No other faith has the publications program ours does to help smokers quit and to discourage non-smokers from starting. No other denomination has films like ours to help smokers. We have such tobacco films as "One in 20,000" which has helped thousands to quit smoking and thousands more never to start.

Our alcohol films, our books, periodicals, and leaflets are filling a tremendous part as "helping hands" in this hour when we are told by the pen of inspiration that as a people we should stand in the forefront of this great battle against intemperance.

Special October "Listen"

The General Conference temperance department, along with its message of prevention, is developing methods for helping the intemperate. Listen magazine for October is a single-theme issue devoted to helping the alcoholic. Several conferences in North America are using this special issue in their fall visitation program.

This Listen contains, among other things, excellent suggestions on how to work with alcoholics, a graphic portrayal showing how alcoholism develops gradually in a person's life, a personal story of one individual finding God because a friend extended a helping hand, and tangible ideas on how to control weight healthfully.

Through the years our church has emphasized a message of temperance education to help prevent people from falling victims to drink and other dangerous habits. This approach is important, perhaps the most important. However, work for the intemperate must not be neglected.

"Missionary work does not consist merely of preaching. It includes personal labor for those who have abused their health and have placed themselves where they have not moral power to control their appetites and passions. These souls are to be labored for as those more favorably situated. Our world is full of suffering ones."—Evangelism, p. 265.

Great Challenge

The task before us is huge. The challenge is great. This church has an unprecedented opportunity to save lives and souls by supporting our temperance work today.

Our Lord has told us: "Say not ye, There are yet four months, and then cometh the harvest? behold, I say unto you, Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields; for they are white already to harvest."—John 4:35.

We are ready to move forward, but we need "Your Helping Hand." We now hasten to finish the task our Lord assigned us in the lingering twilight of earth's history.

Won't you give a little more than you have ever given before on World Temperance Sabbath, October 22, for the temperance phase of the third angel's message. May God bless you as you share "Your Helping Hand."

"As we do our part faithfully, the Lord will bless our efforts to the saving of many precious souls."—Temperance, p. 251. May "Your Helping Hand" dig deeply into your pocket on October 22, and may this offering be the largest in our history, with God's help.

New Features and Old Make the "Review" a Must

When a new editor is elected, magazine subscribers sometimes wonder how this will affect the journal. Through the years they have come to appreciate and depend on the magazine. They consider it almost as a familiar friend.

With the coming of a new editor, they wonder if the magazine will retain the personality that has made it much loved; they wonder if it will continue its well-established policies and purposes.

For twenty-one years F. D. Nichol was editor of the Review. Now he is gone. But the Review continues. It is not a "new" magazine. It is still the magazine that every Adventist should read. It is still "the good old Review." It continues to fill its unique role of binding together the hearts of Adventists all over the world.

But let us remember that we do not honor the memory of those who have gone before us by merely maintaining the status quo. Those who have helped build up the cause of God in all lines—and who have passed to their rest—would want their successors to keep building, and to continue to make progress.

New Features

Thus, while retaining all the features of the Review that have endeared the paper to the hearts of our believers everywhere, we are planning to add new features. We have already begun to do this.

The first issue each month carries the feature Heart-to-Heart, a message from the president of the General Conference, Robert H. Pierson. Midway through each month there appears the column Dateline—Washington, a roundup of happenings at the General Conference headquarters. This feature is authored by Arthur H. Roth, assistant to the General Conference president.

And every week we are publishing typical letters written to the Review editors on various topics. This feature is entitled Letters From Readers. Already our subscribers have expressed unqualified appreciation for this helpful and interesting feature. It is good for readers to share their ideas through their church paper.

Other new features will be introduced into the paper from time to time. All this is in addition to established features such as The Art of Living When You're Young, the Fellowship of Prayer, News of Note, From Home Base to Front Line . . .

Balanced Menu

Besides these features, a whole section of general articles each week spreads out before our readers a balanced, nourishing menu of spiritual food that builds one up in the most holy faith. Among the good things that will appear in 1967 will be a

Millet Meetings Bear Fruit at the Cambrian Park Church

Evangelist J. J. Millet recently conducted a four-week series of revival meetings at the new Cambrian Park Church. He stressed the plan of salvation and the rebellion that is going on in the hearts of men today; that salvation is "falling in love with a person whose name is Jesus Christ"; the meaning of immortality; and many other Bible truths in such a way that we realize beyond a doubt that we are living in the last days of this world's history.

On August 6 ten people were received into the church by baptism and one on profession of faith as a result of these meetings. Several others are studying and are looking forward to a future baptism.

Each evening prior to the sermon Elder Millet showed colored slides of various places in the Holy Land, including the Mount of Olives, Pool of Bethesda, Mount Sinai, Lazarus' tomb, the ruins of a number of ancient cities, and many other places of interest. Because of his vast knowledge and research, stirring messages for our times have been given during this series of meetings.

Elder Millet is now holding a similar series of meetings in Chowchilla and we pray that God's blessings will attend him there.

Annual Temperance Offering Will Be Received October 22

How would you like a part in sponsoring our new program of "Better Living" in Russia? Or of knowing you helped in making over a million new friends for the church right here in our own country?

The annual Temperance Offering on October 22 will help in our world-wide program. With new concepts have come new and thrilling opportunities.

Fifty percent of the offering will stay in our conference to aid in the program of films, Five-Day plans, radio programs, academy and elementary school activities, Better Living classes, and programs for public schools. Never were opportunities so great. Dare we suggest something bigger than ever for a bold step forward in medical evangelism?

Today we sent a telegram with orders for the "new concept" supplies. The Western Union girl took the message without comment until the order read "12 sets of film on How to Stop Smoking." At this point she interrupted our secretary with "I want to see that!" Oneita Matthews took her name and address.

"We are now to unify, and by true medical missionary work prepare the way of our Coming King." L. E. FLETCHER

A group of mentally exceptional children of the Taft public school under the guidance of their teacher, Mrs. Pearl Douglas (PR secretary for the Taft church), collected 108 packages of used Christmas cards and $120 in cash for postage to mail the cards to Ceylon to be used for missionary purposes. Members of the Taft Adventist congregation and community organizations all assisted in this unusual project, and the local newspaper gave publicity to the work.—Mrs. Pearl Douglas.

Junior Investment Projects at Nelmyron Pines Church

E. S. Hewitt, Investment leader of the Nelmyron Pines church, some time ago distributed a package of radish seed to each member of the Junior Division. This resulted in vegetable gardens for Investment.

Wayne Young—and it is not a radish, but a beet!

how the Lord blessed his garden. To date he has sold vegetables and had other activities to the amount of $11. A visitor gave Wayne $1 for this beautiful beet after showing it in Sabbath school.

We hope that this will encourage more Juniors to work hard on their Investment projects. The Nelmyron Pines church for several years has gone way over its goal, and, sometimes, two to three hundred percent. Their church is unanimous in their work for missions through the Investment program.

CLYDE C. GROOMER, Secy.,
Sabbath School Department.

OAKDALE CHURCH.—After nearly ten years of faithful planning, giving, and work, the members in Oakdale have this beautiful church plant, complete with youth chapel and classroom facilities, now in use, fully paid for, and awaiting the dedication service on December 10. The total cost was $77,000, plus much donated labor. It was begun September 1, 1965, and the sanctuary seats 350. Our congratulations to Elder Don Duncan and his faithful group for bringing this project to a successful finish. And with them, we would remember the former pastors and others who have kept this good work going through the years.—E. R. Walde.

Youth Go and Tell

Typical of youth everywhere in Northern California are those of the 490-member Pleasant Hill Church who are enthusiastic over the Go and Tell program which has just been introduced to them.

Youth in Pleasant Hill see in the Go and Tell program a wonderful opportunity to present 24 Bible studies in the most unique way ever developed, and hope to present hundreds of Bibles and lessons to interested fellow youth and friends.

The Pleasant Hill Church pastor has compiled an extensive list of interested people which comprises a ready-made audience, and to these many of the youth will make their way to deliver a Bible and the first two lessons. A follow-up program, which will take the youth to the various homes each week to pick up and deliver lessons, will surely add many souls to the Pleasant Hill Church.

Why not join these dedicated youth and enjoy the thrill of winning someone too!

J. H. HARRIS, Director.

STATE FAIR BOOTH.—The 1966 booth at the California State Fair is now history. The booth featured the theme of the Second Coming of Christ. In the doorway of the church was placed a copy of the painting that was used so effectively at the World's Fair in New York City. Approximately 10,000 pieces of literature were given away telling of the theme of our Saviour. The thousands who passed by and the management of the State Fair expressed appreciation for the dignity and good taste of our exhibit. We only hope that the theme at this year's fair booth has stimulated a desire in someone's heart to know Him better and to prepare to meet Him.—S. R. Jayne, Secretary, PR Department.

"The Greatest Ever"

"The greatest ever" was a statement made by one of the workers in the Temperance Booth at the California State Fair in Sacramento August 31 to September 11.

We did our best this year to inform the public of the evils of tobacco, as well as trying to let them know that the Seventh-day Adventist Church is interested in them.

We showed the short version of "Cancer by the Carton," using only the portion of the operation which took about eight minutes to view. Along with this film, we used the display called "The Other Side of the Coin." This shows a large picture of lung cancer and emphysema.

After the showing of the film we talked to the crowd of people who had gathered, and demonstrated to them (through the use of the life-size manikin of a twelve-year-old boy—known as "Smoking Sam") the effects of tobacco on the body. On the first weekend we talked to about 6,000 people.

We appreciated the help we received from the church members in the city of Sacramento who manned our booth, and from Weiland Henry, III, who operated the film projector and demonstrated the workings of "Smoking Sam."

Over 25,000 pieces of literature were given to the people as they came in to look at the booth. Many stopped to ask questions and very earnestly inquired about how to stop smoking.

One of the concessionaires came by when he saw the crowd at our booth and asked, "Do you always get an audience like this?" He said he wished he could draw the crowd we did in order to sell his wares. However, we were not selling—we were giving away life, health, and money in their pockets!

We pray that the Lord's blessing will attend the literature received there, that many souls might be saved from the evils of the world, and in turn realize that the Seventh-day Adventist Church is a church that cares about every individual.

GEORGE V. YOST, Secretary, Temperance & Medical Depts.

Elder J. W. Allison, Jr. welcomes Aisaia O. Esiouye as a member of the University Church.

medicine at Pepperdine College under the sponsorship of his father and a mission of a different denomination.

On a Sabbath morning he missed a bus which he usually took in front of the University Church. He saw the members going in and was impressed to visit the worship service in which he heard some startling facts which were new to him about the change of the Sabbath.

A college religion professor assured him that what Elder Allison had said was true. After further study he accepted our teachings and was baptized. He is anxious to continue his studies and become a worker in the Remnant Church, but he now expects opposition from his family back home.

Let Us Dedicate Our Possessions to the Finishing of the Work

"Then whose shall those things be?"

A thought-provoking question indeed! It was directed to the man in the parable whose diligent labors had been abundantly blessed. He had plowed, disced, harrowed, and seeded his vast acres. God had sent the sunshine and the rain and caused the seeded grain to grow.

The result was a bountiful harvest—vastly in excess of his own immediate needs. The harvest exceeded his own expectations. To conserve his crops it became necessary to tear down his old barns and build greater ones. All his efforts were commendable. And yet, God called him a fool!

A fool! We ask, Why? Surely not because he was rich and successful; not because his labors produced an abundant harvest; not because he tore down the old barns and built greater ones to care for his crops. No, his temporal prosperity did not make him a fool. Why then a fool?

Uncertainty of Life

He was a foolish man because he failed to take into account the uncertainty of life. He lost sight of eternity. In all of his planning his thought was only of himself and of the present. He failed to sense that he held God's goods in trust as a steward. For himself he had "much goods laid up for many years." But he cherished no regard for the destitute and the impoverished. They were none of his concern. The burden for the advancement of God's cause did not press heavily upon his heart.

To him the "kingdom of God" was not the "pearl of great price" worth sacrificing for. Had he shared his blessings another season would have brought another harvest. But now the solemn dictum went forth—"this night shall thy soul be required of thee: then whose shall those things be, which thou hast provided?"

God's Stewards

The Master makes the application: "So is he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God." Really, "a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of things which he possesseth." Such things as God's children are blessed with they hold in trust. They are God's stewards.

"Spiritual prosperity is closely bound up with Christian liberality. The followers of Christ should rejoice in the privilege of revealing in their lives the beneficence of their Redeemer. As they give to the Lord, they have the assurance that their treasure is going before them to the heavenly courts. Would men make their property secure? Let them place it in the hands that bear the marks of the crucifixion. Would they enjoy their substance? Let them use it to bless the needy and suffering. Would they increase their possessions? Let them heed the divine injunction, 'Honor the Lord with thy substance, and with the first-fruits of all thine increase: so shall thy barns be filled with plenty and thy presses burst out with new wine.' Let them seek to retain their possessions for selfish purposes, and it will be to their eternal loss."—Acts of the Apostles, pp. 344, 345.

While our possessions still have value, let us dedicate a generous portion to the finishing of God's work. The Southeastern California Association offers a variety of investment plans. Information is available upon request.

Ministry of Christian Stewardship.

Navajo Mission School Has Its First Fair Booth in September

September 15, 1966, marked another first for the Navajo Mission School at Holbrook, for on this day, when the Navajo County Fair opened, the school had its first booth. The theme of the booth was to explain the purpose of Seventh-day Adventist education.

Spotlighted at the back of the booth was "Our aim: The development of POWER—mental, physical, spiritual and emotional." Each phase of this aim was illustrated with numerous enlarged photographs of the various school activities—from the making of wholesome bread to missionary calls on the reservation. These pictures attracted much attention, brought into the booth many visitors, and evoked many comments. Miss "Navajo County" was profuse in her praise of both the booth and the work done by the Mission School. Many expressed amazement that the emphasis of the school covered such a broad scope.

To add to the Indian theme, baskets, rugs, and pictures had been used for decoration. Also two manikins were dressed as Navajo and Hopi women. So real did these look that on several occasions people mistook them for being alive. This humorous situation broke down barriers of reserve, and paved the way for the staff member or student to talk freely concerning Seventh-day Adventists. Many intelligent and interesting questions were asked, and were prayerfully answered.

One aim of the project was to obtain names and addresses for missionary work. To make this easier, a drawing was held with four volumes of the book A Century of Miracles offered as prizes. The staff and students are making personal calls to present the prizes. It is hoped that this person-to-person contact may lead to further interest in the truths that Seventh-day Adventists believe. Imagine the surprised pleasure of all to learn that 577 persons had entered the drawing. The mission staff banded together to buy enough copies to give each of the remaining 573 persons a copy of The Marked Bible. These full message booklets shall soon be on their way with a prayer that the honest seeker after God may search for the Truth.

The free Bible Course of the Voice of Prophecy was also offered and more than a hundred persons signed up for this. There were also requests for Bibles and the lay activities director of the conference has made available the "Bible Speaks" lessons and Bibles. It is hoped that these persons will accept the lessons and earn their Bibles by becoming involved in the study of the course, under the supervision of staff and older students.

The booth was manned at all times by staff members and students. It was a wonderful experience for these older students to represent their church and school. Many of them had to answer questions concerning the standards of Seventh-day Adventists. Many of these students have expressed their appreciation for the opportunity to witness for Christ this way.

Although the fair has just closed, already the staff is planning for an even greater effort next year; ideas for improvement are being filed away so as not to be forgotten. Even though this year the booth was in the experimental stage, staff and students feel the satisfaction of results beyond the fondest hope. It is felt that the public relations thus afforded the school have enhanced in the minds of the hundreds that visited the booth the contribution that Navajo Mission School makes to the community.

Truly God blessed the effort. May He also bless the thousands of pieces of literature distributed and the personal contacts to His glory.

New Teachers for Hawaiian Mission Elementary Schools

This has been a year of change in our elementary educational program. Because a number of teachers have completed their term of service, it was necessary to make these replacements.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Widstrand have spent the last five years teaching in Alaska. He has taken over teaching responsibilities in the school at Kapaa, Kauai. Mr. Widstrand received his education at Walla Walla College and has taken additional work at the Universities of Wyoming and Alaska. He brings with him a rich background of teaching experience.

Mr. and Mrs. Dillard Greenwood, recent students at Pacific Union College, have located on the Island of Molokai. Mr. Greenwood has had one year of teaching experience at Redwood Empire Junior Academy in Santa Rosa. His wife, Nova, is teaching in the lower grades as he teaches in the upper grades.

Miss Mary Grove comes to us from Takoma Park, Maryland. Miss Grove has taken her educational work at Southern Missionary College, Columbia Union College, and University of Maryland. She has spent the last two years teaching in the Korean Union Mission.

We bid a fond "aloha" to these new teachers to the Hawaiian Mission field and know full well that they will bring strength to our educational program in Hawaii.

Camp Meeting on Molokai

Camp meeting on one of the islands of Hawaii is a never-to-be-forgotten experience for those who attend. Members from the Island of Lanai flew over to the Island of Molokai to fellowship with the members there.

Hawaiian Mission president, Elder A. G. Streifling, at the opening meeting Friday evening brought out the importance of not only fellowshiping together here on this earth, but to fellowship with God as His children.

Elder Clarence Kott, Pacific Union Sabbath school secretary, inspired each hearer on Sabbath to be alive, to be alert, and to be a witness in the age in which we live.

Immediately following church service, a joyful event was witnessed by the members of these two islands. Four young people from Molokai and one from Lanai joined God's remnant church by being baptized by our mission president. The baptism was a combined result of the efforts of our Molokai Mission School, Christian parents and adults, and the recent evangelistic meetings held by the pastor, Balbino Rabanal.

After dinner eyes lighted up and hearts began to beat faster as the program "Tell All Hawaii" was presented during the afternoon service by the mission personnel. There was a positive feeling of all present to go forward in this day to present Christ to all on the Islands of Molokai and Lanai. The desire of the members of these two islands is to visit every home, to contact everyone and tell them of the soon return of Jesus Christ.

After vespers, "alohas," and "mahalos," the camp meeting on Molokai came to a close.

God Blesses in Makawao, Maui, Evangelism Series

For four months the members of the Kahului Seventh-day Adventist church had been preparing the soil by making nearly 1,000 personal calls at the homes in Makawao. Under the leadership of Mr.

Wilfred Robello stands ready to welcome all coming to the big tent in Makawao, Maui.

William Hoomalu, director, and Wilfred and Howard Robello, assistant directors of lay activities, the church and community were prepared.

Nightly attendance at evangelistic meetings averaged 59 with 20 non-members for the three-week campaign beginning August 21. Meetings were held six nights each week. On Saturday night, September 10, as the appeal was given for complete surrender, the Holy Spirit moved on the hearts of the praying congregation and seven persons came forward to stand with God's commandment-keeping people.

The music was furnished by Adele Cabos at the organ and Clinton Cabos, soloist and song leader. The members of the Kahului church are to be congratulated for their faithful support of this adventure in evangelism. A baptism is being planned for the near future.

series on Christian perfection, a series on the Holy Spirit, a series on Grace, several articles on communion with God, several on the distinctiveness of the Advent Movement and Message.

We believe that the coming year will witness both revival and reformation in the church. We believe further that one of the best ways for every member to participate in this experience, and keep abreast of church progress all over the world, is to read the official organ of the denomination, the Review and Herald.

The special campaign price of $4.75 is now in effect. Now is the time for every Adventist to make sure that he gets the Review in 1967. Perpetual subscribers will be billed by their Book and Bible House at this campaign rate. All others should order through their church missionary secretary, indicating whether the subscription is new or a renewal.

Do it now. Let us enjoy together the good things that are coming in the Review in 1967.

LA SIERRA COLLEGE

La Sierra College Enrollment Reaches All-time High Figure

The office of admissions has released the information that, as of the close of business September 27, 2,160 students had applied for admission to La Sierra College. Of these, 2,057 have been accepted.

The registrar's office reports that over 1,550 students have registered for on-campus classes and that counting 56 nursing students on the Los Angeles and National City campuses and 44 on the Year Abroad, a grand total of 1,650 has been reached. It is expected that the semester total will be well in excess of 1,700 since several students have not completed the full registration procedure and are, therefore, not counted in the total figure.

Three Teachers Receive Doctorates

George Platner, education, has completed the requirements for the Doctor of Education degree; Peter Strutz, behavioral science, has finished the work for the Doctor of Philosophy degree; and Gary Ross, history, has been awarded the Doctor of Philosophy degree. These three men and five other teachers who have completed their doctorates within the last year or so were all honored at an academic buffet dinner September 13 with Dean Richard B. Lewis acting as master of ceremonies.

Other honorees besides those named were Doctors Magi, Widmer, Moore, Dick, and Walters. The college now has 42 faculty and staff members holding the doctor's degree. Three of these, Dr. Perry Beach, Dr. Stanley Bull, and Dr. Ralph Koorennny, are on leave in France, Lebanon, and Ethiopia, respectively.

High-rise Dormitory Progress Noted

The new high-rise men's dormitory is beginning to alter the skyline of the campus, since it is now up to the fourth floor. Prefabricated siding is being erected on schedule and noticeable changes may be seen from week to week. After an initial onset of some labor difficulty shortly after the excavation was begun, the building is now rapidly progressing on schedule and present plans call for its completion in the summer of 1967.

LSC Faculty News Notes

DR. ELMER WIDMER, biology, was the recent recipient of a Louisiana State University fellowship in Tropical Medicine. On July 5 Doctor Widmer left for South America, Panama, and Trinidad with a group of research and teaching scientists to observe tropical diseases at first hand and study possible methods of treatment. Doctor Widmer was able to visit several Seventh-day Adventist mission installations on this two-month trip, and on one occasion he spoke to the students of our Colombia-Venezuela College during their worship service. The LSU fellowship is financed by the United States Public Health Service.

PROF. ALFRED WALTERS, music, appeared this summer as conductor of the General Conference Symphony Orchestra. The General Conference Commemoration Record will have Professor Walters conducting the orchestra's strings in Grieg's "The Last Spring."

Professor Walters was privileged this summer to study chamber music with the members of the Guarneri String Quartet. The sessions were held during the month of August and were under the general sponsorship of New York State University. In addition to the chamber music study, he also studied violin privately with Arnold Steinhardt, first violinist of the Guarneri Quartet.

PROF. JOHN T. HAMILTON, director of public affairs, was accepted as a guest-auditor in choral music at King's College, Cambridge University, during the first two weeks in August. While at Cambridge, Professor Hamilton was the guest of Mr. David Willcocks, Fellow of King's, and conductor of the famed King's College Choir. Later in the month he attended the Three Choirs Festival at Worcester Cathedral, Worcester, England.

MISS JOANN ROBBINS, music, attended the Institute of Choral Music at Oakland University, Rochester, Michigan, from June 26 to July 10. While at the university's Meadowbrook School of Music, Miss Robbins was privileged to study with and observe several outstanding choral and symphonic conductors. She also was featured as a performer in a program presented by visiting students of the Institute.

Claremont Church Organist Is Carillonist at UC, Riverside

A sixteenth century musical art—carillon playing—is making a comeback in the Space Age, according to Lowell Smith, newly appointed carillonist at the University of California at Riverside, who is also minister of music at the Claremont Seventh-day Adventist Church in southern California.

At UCR Mr. Smith will be in charge of the largest carillon in California, which, with its forty-eight bell, four-octave range, is one of the largest in the nation. He recently returned to the United States from a year in Holland as a Fulbright scholar, studying at the Stichting Nederlandse Beiaardschool (Netherlands Carillon School Foundation) in Amersfoort.

Mr. Smith is a member of one of the smallest professional groups in America. So far as is known, only six individuals in this country are full-time carillonists, and the American Guild of Carillonists lists a membership of just over seventy musicians.

Carillons achieved their greatest popularity in the sixteenth, seventeenth, and eighteenth centuries. This was particularly true in the low countries of northern Europe: Holland, Belgium, France, and England.

"Carillons had both religious and secular significance for the towns and villages of those days," Mr. Smith indicates. "Even today, in Holland, there is hardly a town of any respectable size that does not have bells of some sort."

Faith for Today Viewers Get Lessons for Church Study Group

Recently a letter from two Faith for Today viewers, husband and wife, of Mabel, Minnesota, indicated what may happen when the program is viewed and then the Bible course taken. A portion of the letter is as follows:

Our little Methodist Church in Mabel, Minnesota, is trying to form an active study group.

At the last meeting, we told those present of your correspondence course which we find so beneficial. Our friends are interested to know if it is possible to order twenty copies of the complete course and what the charge

A Popular Book Is Released in Revised Second Edition

A Century of Miracles, the picture-story book that so beautifully portrays the dynamic scope of the Seventh-day Adventist movement, has been released in a second edition by Pacific Press.

The edition includes new pictures, updated facts and figures that reflect the church's large growth since the first edition of three years ago, and new stories featuring recent events.

And perhaps best of all, the revised edition sells at a reduced price. You can buy it for just $3.50. Lower prices are available to churches for bulk purchases used for Ingathering follow-up.

A Century of Miracles is an important book for Adventists. First, it gives us a chance to acquaint non-Adventist friends and business associates with the church's ambitious program and the impact of its success. Secondly, it lets Adventists themselves more fully understand the scope of the work.

Author Richard H. Utt uses 175 pictures, many in color, and written text to tell fascinating stories of the church's world-wide institutions, colorful church members, and adventuresome missionaries. Institutions like the Monument Valley Mission, church members like International Bible Contest winner Graham Mitchell, and programs like the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking.

Many churches are using A Century of Miracles for Ingathering follow-up. It makes an excellent choice. Businessmen and others who contribute liberally to Ingathering appreciate receiving a book which reveals the impressive international work of Adventists, some of which is supported by their Ingathering contributions.

Another opportunity for acquainting people with the work of Adventists is to leave A Century of Miracles with doctors and lawyers for use in their waiting rooms. Your doctor or lawyer will appreciate the gift and his clients will enjoy the reading. Many Adventists have even presented A Century of Miracles to governors, mayors, and other civil servants. And last of all, don't forget yourself. You and your family will especially enjoy learning about the accomplishments of fellow believers throughout the world.

To order, just contact your church missionary secretary or visit your Book and Bible House.
