Highway Deaths Increasing Due to Drivers Who Drink

Here is the problem. California highway deaths during the last three years were: 1966—4,830; 1967—4,833; 1968—4,847. This amounts to one death every hour and forty-nine minutes.

What do the facts show? Six separate research studies establish that 49 to 60 per cent of these traffic deaths were caused by drinking drivers.

Who are the victims? Non-drinkers, little children, or maybe a loved one. These 4,847 in 1968 are not just statistics. They are people.

Who pays for these accidents? Someone has to pay. Check your last insurance premium to find out who it was. How do we cope with the problem?

Implied Consent

Step One: Implied Consent requires that any driver who is arrested for a violation must submit to a chemical test (usually breath) if the officer had a "reasonable doubt" about his sobriety. After years of hard work, Wilbur Korfhage, our legislative advocate in Sacramento, employed with the Council on Alcohol Problems, was successful, with the support of church members and others writing thousands of letters, in getting the Implied Consent Law passed in September, 1966. Since then, 6,810 drunk drivers per month have lost their licenses and have been removed from the highways. Step One has been a great success.

Step Two: Presumptive Level Assembly Bill 105. If this bill pending in Sacramento becomes law, it would greatly strengthen Step One by defining the precise point of the chemical test at which everybody is considered to be "under the influence." The National Highway Safety Act recommends that this level be set at 0.10 per cent.

One-drink Definition

How much is 0.10 per cent? Here is a key to determine this level: One "drink" is defined as one ounce of hard liquor, four ounces of wine, or 10 ounces of beer. Therefore a person has 0.10 per cent of alcohol in his blood within two hours after drinking on an empty stomach, based on this table:

Body Weight	Number of Drinks
160	3½

So the passage of Assembly Bill A.B. 105 would be a tremendous step forward in arresting the offenders. What can one person do to pass A.B. 105?

OPTICAL TELESCOPE GIVEN TO COLLEGE

Admiration for the work of some jungle-based Seventh-day Adventist missionaries in South America, plus respect for the professional competence of a physicist of that faith, has resulted in a Methodist couple's donating a $150,000 optical telescope to Pacific Union College.

The Board of Trustees of Pacific Union College has officially accepted a 20" telescope given by Bradley H. and Lorraine Reeder Young, a San Francisco Bay Area aerospace engineer and his wife, College President Floyd O. Rittenhouse announced.

"This splendid contribution to the advancement of scientific inquiry on our campus represents the most valuable single gift ever received by the college from either private individual or organization," he added.

Six tons of telescopes, mounts, cameras, clocks, and assorted optical equipment have been delivered to the physics department where they will be stored temporarily until construction of the observatory building is begun, according to Dr. Dowell Martz, physics department chairman and personal friend of the donors.

"This unusual telescope can be operated either as a Newtonian or a Cassegrain instrument, and possesses a superlative degree of refinement not ordinarily found in telescopes available for college instruction," Dr. Martz stated.

The final touches in polishing the large 20" mirror were made by the late Don Hendrix, who did the final polishing and figuring on both the 120" Lick Observatory and the 200" Hale Mt. Palomar instruments, at that time, the two largest in the world.

The gift telescope, in storage for the past decade, was constructed over a period of four years under the direction of Mr. Young while serving as consultant for the Brazilian Air Ministry and director of one of the four major divisions of the Brazilian Aeronautics Technical Center, Rio de Janeiro.

During his 20 years in South America, eight of which were spent in Peru as chief engineer of Pan American-Grace Airways, Bradley Young helped Brazilian astronomers build their nation's largest telescope. He was the only American ever to receive the Medal of Merit "Santos Dumont" from the President of Brazil for Distinguished service rendered to the Brazilian Government.

New Observatory

The creation of the new observatory at Pacific Union College will result in the Youngs being the only people with two observatories on two continents established in their name, it is believed.

In addition to one year spent with the Rand Corporation at Santa Monica, Mr. Young has served as an engineer with the Lockheed Missile and Space Company, Sunnyvale, for the past 10 years. He holds three degrees from the California Institute of Technology.

In addition to his interest in astronomy, Mr. Young built a full-size replica of Santos Dumont's first airplane—one of the first

Challenge Is Presented at Important Central Meeting

In a spirit of mutual dedication to advancing the work of God in their field, nearly 580 delegates gathered at Soquel on Sunday morning, March 9, for the 1969 biennial Constituency Meeting of the Central California Conference.

The session opened with a brief but stirring message by Elder Walter R. Beach, world secretary of the Seventh-day Adventist faith. "The love of Christ leaves us no choice but to go and tell men everywhere that when anyone is united to Christ there is a new world for that person," Elder Beach said. "The world must know—it must be told—that when man comes to Christ, a new order has begun."

Before reviewing a complete report of conference activities for the past two years, Conference President Max C. Torkelsen presented a fervent appeal to spread the Advent hope to every person in the territory of the Central California Conference.

"The climate is right, the time is here," declared Elder Torkelsen. "Let us plan today for an expanded work on an accelerated pace that elevates the Lord Jesus Christ to His rightful position in the Central California Conference."

Then delegates reviewed a massive presentation relating to the conference which included the following facts:

1. Membership reached 17,848 at the end of the 1967-68 biennium, with 2,231 baptisms recorded during the two-year period.

2. Tithes for the two-year period were $7,863,194 and Sabbath School offerings totaled $939,065.

3. There were 102 Vacation Bible Schools held in the biennium; 2,256 youngsters attended the conference's camp at Wawona; some 60,000 subscriptions were received to the Signs of the Times; 1,783,688 pieces of Christian literature were distributed. . .

4. It cost $510 per year to educate children in the conference's elementary and junior high schools; 66 evangelistic cru-

Personal Opinion Telegrams May Mean Priority Attention

RECORDER readers wishing to contact state and federal officials regarding various matters of special interest may want to consider the use of "Personal Opinion" telegrams.

These telegrams are charged at a special low rate. A message of 15 words (the body of the telegram) may be sent to any elected state official for 95¢. A similar message may be sent to any elected U.S. official for $1. The address to which the message is going and the signature of the sender are added free of charge.

When issues generate thousands of letters from constituents, telegrams sometimes receive priority attention by elected officials.

Gift of Telescope

ever to fly. It is now housed in Sao Paulo museum.

Mrs. Young is the daughter of Ross and Anna Reeder, formerly of Calistoga. As a child she lived in the Upper Napa Valley near the site of the new observatory at Angwin which will bear the Youngs' name.

A graduate of University of California, Los Angeles and holding a master's degree in fine arts from Columbia University, Lorraine Young was active in philanthropy in South America. She did interior decorating, purchasing of furniture and materials, and supervision of installation in the earthquake-damaged British-American Hospital in Lima. Shortly after U.S. entry into World War II, she undertook similar responsibilities with a local USO center there.

Additionally, Mrs. Young played "Santa Claus" to some 600 Peruvian families each Christmas, providing the children with toys, candy, and cookies which they would otherwise not have received.

Interest in Telescope

A number of educational institutions and organizations, including Stanford University, the University of California's Lick Observatory, the Peninsula Astronomical Society, and the University of Hawaii, expressed an interest in acquiring the Youngs' 20-inch optical telescope when it became known in mid-1968 that it might be available.

Asked why they decided to give this valuable instrument to Pacific Union College, when they, themselves are not Seventh-day Adventists, Mrs. Young replied:

"It's something we wanted to do for a number of years. Our choice of Pacific Union College was influenced by several factors:

"First, we were particularly impressed during numerous trips throughout South America, especially in the Peruvian Andes to the headwaters of the Amazon on their far side, with the selfless dedication of Seventh-day Adventist missionaries. There they were, a million miles from nowhere, healing the sick, helping the indigenous people how to make bricks and to become better farmers, giving the poorer people a better way of life, and making them more useful and productive citizens.

Dr. Dowell Martz

"And, secondly, we were strongly influenced by our respect for the professional competence of Dr. Dowell Martz, who has established a substantial reputation as a scientist, and by our admiration of him as an individual.

"In association with Drs. Robert Leighton and Gary Neugebauer at Cal Tech, a sky survey in the 2.0 to 2.5 micron infrared region was completed by Dr. Martz, revealing a class of low-temperature stellar bodies not previously known to science.

"While working at the Mr. Wilson Palomar Observatory, he carried out extensive research in collaboration with Drs. James Westphal and Bruce Murray on photometric measurements of radiation in the infrared spectrum. This team produced thermal maps of the surface of the moon and Venus.

"We felt that Dr. Martz and Pacific Union College would put this instrument to very good use both in scientific research and in the teaching of college physics and astronomy," she concluded.

Church Members May Attend Medical School in Mexico

In recent correspondence with a fifth-year medical student at the Universidad Autonoma de Guadalajara, Mexico, he tells of the fine favor with which the medical school holds our Seventh-day Adventist students.

Recently he was informed by the officers of the school that they would like to encourage more Seventh-day Adventists to take advantage of the opportunity for a medical training in their medical school. They particularly indicated that older students were appreciated.

sades were held in the biennium; and the 35 literature evangelists of the conference sold $878,691 worth of books and other literature.

Throughout the day the entire delegate assembly, with the exception of those elected to serve on Nominating, Constitution and Bylaws, and Credentials and Licenses committees, met as a Plans Committee to discuss major matters affecting the conference.

After thorough discussion the delegates voted to make a study of selling the Soquel camp meeting property and relocating the convocation facilities on the large campus of Monterey Bay Academy. In future months the findings of those authorized to make this study will be presented to the constituency of the conference.

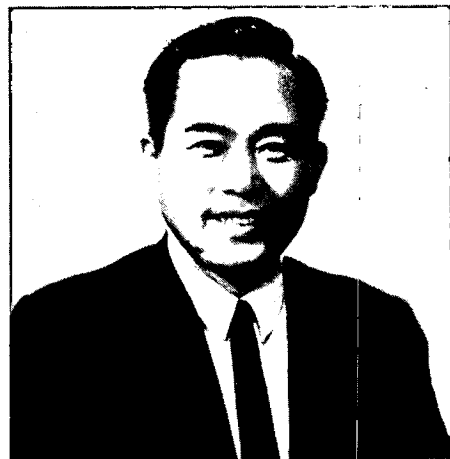

At the end of a highly interesting day, delegates voted to return Elder Torkelsen and his entire staff of associates to their positions of leadership for the next two years.

With Elder Torkelsen's challenge to accelerate the work of God in their communities ringing in their ears, the constituency delegates and members of the Central California Conference face a busy and inspiring future.

Evangelistic Series to Be Given in Japanese Tongue

Saturday night, April 5, will mark the opening of an evangelistic series in the Japanese language in Honolulu. Elder Saburo Arakaki from Okinawa will be spending approximately eight weeks in the Hawaiian Islands, leading out in this evangelistic drive.

The two opening meetings will be held in the McKinley High School Auditorium on South King Street; and then the meetings will follow on Wednesday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights in the Hawaiian Mission Elementary School auditorium on Makiki Street.

Associated with Elder Arakaki will be Elder Harold Kono, pastor of the Honolulu Japanese church on Manoa Road, and Elder Victor Inoue, associate pastor. A large committee is at work taking care of the many details involved in connection with this forthcoming evangelistic effort.

It is anticipated that a large group of people will attend the two opening sessions in McKinley High Auditorium on Saturday night, April 5, and Sunday night, April 6. At these two meetings Elder Arakaki will give the background of his conversion to Christianity from Buddhism.

We believe that this all-out effort to reach the Japanese community in Honolulu will be productive in seeing many new members coming into our churches. We encourage all of our people on the island of Oahu to give these meetings thorough and diligent support.

According to recent statistics, there are approximately 208,000 people of Japanese ancestry in Hawaii, and many of these we have faith to believe will become mighty advocates and followers of truth.

Pray for this evangelistic endeavor to reach many of these fine citizens of Hawaii.

INDIAN WOMEN WILL SOON BE SEWING ON MACHINES

Five hundred sewing machines! All lined up at the Mission Station in Monument Valley, Utah, waiting to be assembled and converted to treadle machines for the Indians of that area.

Mr. James Shafer of Ojai, California, is going to Monument Valley to donate his time and labor for this project. However, he takes no credit to himself. "It is a co-ordinated effort," he said, "The machines were donated to help the Indians become more self-sufficient. Drs. Miles Scott and Lloyd Baum have worked hard to organize the entire matter. I'll just convert the machines to treadle machines as the Indians have no electricity. I'll stay as long as I am needed."

Mr. Shafer has spent the past several weeks working with Pastor Stephen B. Olney at the Seventh-day Adventist Emergency Relief Center since the recent flood in the Ojai area.

Telecast Viewers Request Many Books, Bible Lessons

Just about six weeks ago it started, and now over 15,000 people are in attendance! From all parts of the Bay Area, from rich and poor, from the top of San Francisco's Nob Hill to the slums of our towns, people are learning of the blessed hope of Adventism.

The evangelist is Elder George Vandeman of Washington, D.C. The program is "It Is Written" as televised over Channels 38 and 44. Covering every part of our greater San Francisco Bay area, it has a tremendous potential for winning the honest in heart for God.

Through the miracle of television, over 725,000 homes, or approximately 2,175,000 people, are potential viewers of this exquisite presentation of the gospel story. Think of the possibilities of Adventist evangelism in every city, village, apartment, and country lane in this great Bay area; people hearing and seeing an Adventist minister with the message! What an opportunity.

Requests for Books

Up to the present, over 500 families have phoned or written for books offered on the telecast. Requests are coming in at the rate of 100 per week. Already some of these have written for a second book, and several have requested the Bible lessons. This evangelistic thrust will continue to grow as God's blessing is added and as each one of us does his part.

But, you say, what is my part? Three very important things just now. Here they are: First, pray earnestly and fervently for God to bless those who tune in and, more, that God will impress people to watch the telecasts. Second, do your utmost by telephone, by word of mouth, by distributing handbills, and in any and every way, publicize the telecasts to help build our listening audiences. And third, remember to keep up your pledges and financial support to help cover the costs of this mighty work of faith!

In our next report we shall include revealing excerpts from letters sent in by viewers. Watch for it.

Important Decisions Made at Recent Conference Meet

Some 577 delegates from the 90 churches and institutions of the conference met at Soquel on March 9 to conduct the biennial business of the church.

The well-planned and conducted meeting began promptly at 9:55 a.m. Elder W. R. Beach, General Conference secretary, gave the devotional.

Elder M. C. Torkelsen was re-elected president and other administrative and departmental officers were re-elected for another 2 years.

Those elected to the conference Executive Committee were: Max C. Torkelsen, chairman; Earl W. Amundson, R. L. Stretter, Dr. William Abildgaard, J. O. Basaaz, L. F. Bohner, Clarence Earring, Ted Eberlein, George Krueger, Irwin Lehman, Douglas Marchus, Dr. Marvin Moore, T. J. Mostert, Gilbert Plubell, Joseph Ozan, H. A. Sundean, E. A. White, Richard White, and Dr. David Zinke.

One interesting change in usual procedure was making all delegates, not serving on some small committee, members of the Plans Committee. Four roving microphones allowed many delegates to speak of conference business items such as the moving of the Soquel campgrounds to Monterey Bay Academy; educational policies and plans; financial business; departmental programs; etc. This proved to be a very profitable experiment.

The session closed as each of the eight conference regions caucused to discuss the work in their respective region. The objective was to define a three-point program to finish the work of God in these regions.

All left with new confidence to rally to a stronger program geared to a finished work.

It is Written!

One of God's miracles, David Harris, attends the Bishop, California church school. In a cast from head to toe, on his stomach, lying on a rolled-up sleeping bag, David does his schoolwork.

A Miracle Is Performed as the Life of a Youth Is Spared

It was a beautiful Sabbath afternoon in July, 1968 when Fred Harris of Bishop, California decided to take his children out for a ride in their dune-buggy; out into the mountains to observe some of God's other book, the book of nature.

Little David, eight years old, secured his safety belt for the long ride. Suddenly, without warning, the extra long tail of the belt, which was around David, entangled in the drive shaft which was visible through the open floor. Tighter and tighter it pulled around David, severing his waist and cutting him in two, before his father could stop the vehicle.

It was a long, long trip back to the hospital with David's older sister holding him in her arms to keep him still as possible. Not much hope was given David as surgeons performed an emergency operation to repair the severed muscles, tissues and nerves, and damaged lower abdomen. All that held David together was his spinal cord, two main blood vessels, kidney tubes and a little skin.

Mrs. Harris, who was taking additional educational courses at the Loma Linda University, was notified. Prayers were on the lips of all the church members and hospital staff. Special prayer sessions were held at the Nevada-Utah campmeeting. Many sleepless nights for the immediate family followed. A 24-hour vigilance kept members of David's family by his side. Church members volunteered their services for the extended period.

Finally the crisis was over. God spared David's life. He has since undergone additional major surgery and is still in a cast from head-to-toe. Every day he is brought to school by his mother, teacher of grades one through four of the Bishop Seventh-day Adventist church school.

David's cheery smile and optimistic attitude as he performs his daily classwork from his bed on wheels truly gives one an inspiration and great faith for one knows that God still performs miracles. (Doctors have told the Harries that, to their knowledge, this is the first case of this type that has survived.)

Students' Lives Enriched by the Dormitory Life at SPA

"Students should be taught they are not independent atoms, but that each one is a thread that is to unite with other threads in composing a fabric. In no department can this be more effectually given than in the school home.

"Students at San Pasqual Academy are daily surrounded by opportunities which, if improved, will greatly aid in developing the social traits of their characters. Those who shut themselves up within themselves, who are unwilling to be drawn upon to bless others by friendly associations, lose many blessings; for by mutual contact minds receive polishing and refinement; by social intercourse, acquaintances are formed and friendships contracted which result in a unity of heart and an atmosphere of love which is pleasing in the sight of heaven." Testimonies, Vol. 6, p. 172.

The right principles of Christian living should unconsciously become a part of the student. He is forming habits of regularity, promptness, order, and neatness. He is learning to obey, to control himself, that later he may be able to direct others.

He is coming into close and intimate association with other lives which leave imprints upon his own. He is learning how to live with others and is forming friendships which are not only of his greatest blessing during his school days but which, in the after years, will enrich and ennoble his life.

The advantages of dormitory life, therefore, might be summarized under the following headings:

1. The student learns to get along with his peers under all types of conditions.
2. The student is in a situation where new friendships must develop. He no longer can remain alone and withdrawn from his environment.
3. The student learns to take more responsibility for himself by caring for his personal needs as well as the responsibilities of work, study, and commitments requiring daily attention.
4. The student is under a uniform and united program which brings to him consistency and an environment geared entirely to his needs, and interests.
5. The student learns to appreciate a routine program and the regularity of his responsibilities.
6. The dormitory student receives leadership appointments through clubs in the dormi-

Pathfinder Leaders Hold a Very Important Convention

Pathfinding in Southeastern California experienced new heights on the weekend of February 14-16. The setting was Pine Springs Ranch and the occasion was the 1969 Pathfinder Convention.

The Convention began with the seating of the delegates in response to the theme of "Molding Youth to Remold the World." A kaleidoscope of the filmed high lights of 1968 was narrated by Elder W. E. Dopp; followed by the keynote speaker, Elder Charles Edwards, MV secretary for Northern California. Opening night of the convention was concluded around the fireplace in singing and expression of our gratefulness and joy through the reciting of favorite texts and testimonies.

Sabbath morning brought fresh communion with God in the Sabbath School program conducted by the La Sierra Pathfinder Club. Elder Don Nelson climaxed the morning services with a stirring message of the challenge of molding our youth to remold the world.

Nature Activities

Nature activities took prominence during the afternoon program as Pathfinder leaders scouted the Pine Springs terrain in search of everything from plant life and animal tracks to birds. After identifying our discoveries, we returned to the lodge for a singspiration followed by another of the weekend high lights—the tribute service.

During this service, 33 leaders were honored for 10 or more years of leadership in Pathfinders. The conclusion of this service was a thrill for every leader as Norm Chudleigh was honored. The program was narrated by Elder Dopp and was entitled "Pathfinding Is Your Life." It portrayed Norm's conversion and how it was influenced by Pathfinding. Slides of his early years in Pathfinders prior to his baptism and up to the current time were shown in conjunction with the introduction of individuals who influenced Norm and whom Norm's leadership has influenced. "Pathfinding Is Your Life" aptly illustrated the soul-winning power of the Pathfinder organization.

Sunday morning the program turned to training with a series of informative workshops. They were as follows: Indian Lore, conducted by Betty Davenport; Camping and Field Trips, conducted by Jim Yoder; Recreation, conducted by Art Bell; and Pathfinder Soul Winning, conducted by Des Cummings, Jr.

The convention was concluded with a western-style banquet; highlighted by the investiture of three Master Guides and the presentation of an award for 40 years of Youth Leadership to Mrs. Betty Davenport. The leaders responded to this award with a standing ovation for Mrs. Davenport.

The Holy Spirit hovered close to each heart as Jake Duran, youth evangelism coordinator for the Washington Conference, concluded the convention on a high spiritual note, calling for greater witnessing through Pathfinders in 1969.

Subject of Grace Is Theme of New Book by H. W. Lowe

"Where sin abounded, grace did much more abound." Romans 5:20 Translated into overall-and-gingham-apron religion, this assurance silences forever the cry of despair: "Heaven is not for me." It says to the tempted and distraught, God's "grace is sufficient for thee."

But more than that, comprehension of the subject of grace provides students of Scriptures with a key that opens many doors of fruitful and exciting discovery.

Some content themselves to merely stand at the threshold of understanding, defining grace in the old classic way as "unmerited favor," and thinking when they have said that, they have said it all. No, they have hardly begun to disclose and bring out for inspection the treasures of truth related to the word "grace." Broad and many-sided is the subject, radiant with meaning no matter which facet might be viewed.

It leads one to know God better. It clears up puzzling questions about predestination, perfection, and the covenants. It puts one on solid footing Scripturally in understanding and explaining controversial subjects like the relationship of law to salvation.

No wonder two great facts emerge from a New Testament study of this subject: "All is of grace, and grace is for all."

This theme will unfold to the delight of the student as he pursues the fourteen chapters of the new deluxe paperback Redeeming Grace, by Harry W. Lowe, available at your Book and Bible House for $1.95 (plus tax and postage). Sabbath School members will find it a particularly useful tool in studying the lessons on grace during the second quarter of 1969.
