Pacific Press Dream Becomes Centennial; Pages and Records Preach in 29 Languages

"Born in Sacrifice; Growing with Dedication." That's the Pacific Press Publishing Association, Mountain View, California.

May's Constituency Quadrennial was also the celebration of a centennial, for 100 years ago PPPA was little more than a dream. But the dream of James and Ellen White for a missionary journal, the Signs, found a birthing from their own funds through a secular printer.

It was the appeal at an October Yountville camp meeting for only 500 members on the West Coast to give $7,000 to start an Adventist publishing firm which gave the growing nourishment for the fledgling journal. When the offering was tallied, there was not only enough for the publishing plant but also to print the journal for some issues; for the ginghamed ladies and bowlered gentlemen gave nearly $20,000 toward printing the message.

The time will come, said Ellen White, when "more than 1,000 will soon be converted in one day, most of whom will trace their first convictions to the reading of our publications." Evangelism 693.

For the first 30 years of its history, the PPPA worked from an Oakland plant. In 1904 the operation moved to a "rural" location, 35 miles south of San Francisco at Mountain View. In 1906 an earthquake and two fires interrupted the work, but rebuilding brought a new commitment to the publication of missionary journals.

That new beginning was made from charred stencil proofs of the subscription list for Our Little Friend, the Signs and the Sabbath School Quarterly. In addition, someone had providentially taken home two copies of Our Little Friend for two consecutive weeks. Photographed and printed elsewhere, these issues provided a continual operation.

By 1907, retail book sales topped $200,000 for the first time. God blessed the last quadrennial with sales just under $48 million, more than $10 million last year alone.

Today the PPPA publishes in 29 languages, covering a territory from the Aleutian Islands to the tip of South America—two and a half of the world's divisions of church work: South and Inter-America and the western half of North America but including all of Canada.

Inter-America reports that 3,500 were baptized last year as a direct consequence of publications and literature evangelism. Eleven periodicals are printed in Spanish including the Sabbath School Quarterly and one children's magazine. Already on the market are 130 different book titles in Spanish, and 40 more are in production.

The 100-year-old Signs of the Times now gives the gospel in 16 languages. Oznake, the Ukrainian edition, is in its 45th year of publication. El Centinela's circulation has reached 190,000 monthly.

High on the prayer list of the periodical department is that both the Signs and Listen might soon enjoy a monthly circulation of one million copies.

Today's five tons of printing hauled daily to the Oakland post office uses modern conveyor belts, whereas the horse and buggy were formerly able to do the job.

W. J. Blacker (r) and W. L. Muir were reelected manager and secretary-treasurer of the Pacific Press for the next quadrennium.

SO YOU WILL KNOW

BIBLE CONFERENCE: A Bible Conference was conducted at Pacific Union College for representatives from the Pacific, North Pacific and Canadian unions, June 17-25. Most of the about 600 in attendance were pastors. What is a Bible Conference? It is a session in which the great truths of God's Word are studied. At this council at PUC, chosen leaders presented papers on assigned subjects. Opportunity was given for discussion in smaller groups and by panels, with emphasis on in-depth study of basic truths—not speculation on subjects little understood.

This was the first such conference in more than 20 years, and was developed under the leadership of the Bible Research Committee of the General Conference.

What was its purpose?

1. To inspire ministers of the Word to bring a greater emphasis in the preaching of the Word.
2. To keep this church body united in proclaiming Truth.
3. To challenge pulpit men to spend more time in study and meditation on the Bible.
4. To bring inspiration and challenge to those who preach the Word.

The faith we hold centers in the Word. Any endeavor that emphasizes this fact merits our support and effort. My observations regarding this recent Bible Conference led me to evaluate it as a most worthy and helpful session for Bible-centered pastors.

Cordially yours,

Students Raise $78,000 for FFT Valentine Gift

Unselfishly giving of themselves—that is what thousands of Seventh-day Adventist church school students have been doing for the past 13 years through the annual Faith for Today Valentine Offering Campaign.

When the campaign was first initiated in 1961, students raised $1,300. Today, at the end of the 1974 campaign, the total is $78,000!

This year's campaign funds earmarked for children's programming brought a total of more than $22,500 from students in the Pacific Union. Sacramento Union Academy Elementary School was the winner of the largest gift award in the total of $3,312.43. The sixth-grade class alone raised over $1,800!

Hawaiian Mission Elementary School was the first runner up for the largest gift award. Their total was $2,500.

Kim Knox of the Sacramento Union Academy Elementary School was the first runner up for the largest individual gift award. Kim raised $352! Tina Nelson, also of Sacramento, was the second runner up with a gift of $257.

Casa Grande Plans Building Program

The Casa Grande Company has taken a most important step in faith. Believing that the work of the Three Angels' message could best be hastened by having a permanent base from which to work, they have initiated a building program.

With the counsel of the conference committee, the company has purchased property and is now planning the first stage of construction. The first stage will be a multi-purpose building which will be used both as a church school and as a church sanctuary.

Believing that this is God's work, the 14 members have pledged to give additional tithe and also they are hoping to raise $4,000 to begin construction as they are planning to open the school in the fall.

If you are looking for a smaller community with a dedicated membership and an active church that knows the meaning of faith, consider Casa Grande.

Conference Moves into New Headquarters

Arizona's office staff began moving into new conference offices June 19 from the old location which has served up to and beyond the call of duty for so many years. Present facilities on East Thomas Road will be completely vacated, with the exception of some stored materials by the end of June. The new location is 322 N. 44th St. in Phoenix. A four-acre tract was purchased subject to rezoning in January, 1973.

Housed in the south portion of the complex is the Adventist Book Center, with a large display room just over 1500 sq. ft. in size. It has three offices, as well as a sales counter and a large reach-through freezer and refrigerator which is serviced from the back through a walk-through entrance. The conference office building is the north building. Upon entering the lobby, the memorial chapel is on the right.

Deeper into the lobby on the right is where you will be greeted by the receptionist.

In the center of the building lengthwise a garden area, with green shrubs, plants, some floral, ground cover, a waterfall and two ponds will speak of God's beauty. On either side of the garden area are aisles, where secretaries are stationed, and to the other side of them are 10 offices, both administrative and departmental. The building is approximately 15,200 sq. ft. in size. A garage will be yet constructed on the back of the property behind the Adventist Book Center in order to store vehicles, and serve as storage space. This will give an additional 5,000 sq. ft.

Across from the receptionist will be a lovely glass case. It will house artifacts particularly unique to Arizona. If any of you have Indian relics, pottery, etc., or other items that will give a special touch of Arizona to our Office, we would be happy to give consideration to receiving them as gifts or to display them for a period of time. They should be brought to the attention of Secretary-Treasurer T. H. Bledsoe.

"To God be the glory, great things He hath done!"

May Was a Month of First's for Camelback

May was an outstanding month for the Camelback Church in spiritual growth and development.

First of all, it was the highest month in tithe to date this year, $16,249. It was also the highest May we have had in the giving to our local Consolidated Budget, $4,015 and $8,537. was turned in for the New Sanctuary Fund.

Of greater blessing than these, Elder Everett Duncan, evangelism coordinator for Faith for Today, spent May 10 through 19, with us in a reaping series of evangelistic meetings. Twenty-four were baptized, making this the largest single baptism in the history of our church. His meetings were well received and the attendance never dropped under 225 nightly. Most evenings the attendance was well above that figure.

A number of the baptisms came as a result of the local Bible Correspondence School conducted by the lay activities department of the church for the past eight months. Six Neighborhood Bible Clubs have been in progress this past fall and winter months with between 80 and 100 non-Adventist children in attendance each week. Some parents were in the baptism as a result of this witness.

The personal testimony of the membership is greatly appreciated and so far this year 28 have joined Camelback Church by baptism or profession of faith.

We are anticipating 250 boys and girls in our Vacation Bible School and are now preparing for Elder L. E. Tucker from the Quiet Hour broadcast who will be conducting a major series of meetings in October for the City of Scottsdale.

We solicit your prayers for those who have recently been baptized, for our Vacation Bible School, and forthcoming major effort in the resort City of Scottsdale.

Heatherbelle Dustman Receives Award

Mrs. Heatherbelle Dustman, district representative of the Christian Record Braille Foundation has received the Nicholas J. Zieser Award from the National Federation of the Blind of Arizona for her volunteer work with and for the blind. Blind Herman Cordasco from Mesa presented the award.

Mrs. Dustman was invited to the state Convention of the National Federation of the Blind and urged to come even though they knew she never attends meetings on her Sabbath. They urged her, however to come even if she couldn't stay and to open their meeting with prayer. She was grateful to be asked to do this and to her happy surprise the blind people had this rare award given to her.

They chose the outline of the State of Arizona to denote that all over the state blind people appreciate the services of the Christian Record Braille Foundation. This is an award that

PRAYER FOR THE FOURTH OF JULY

God bless our native land!
May Heaven's protecting hand still guard our shore.
May peace her power extend,
Foe be transformed to friend,
And all our rights depend on war no more.
May just and righteous laws
Uphold the public cause, and bless our name.
Home of the brave and free,
Stronghold of liberty,
We pray that still on thee may rest no stain.
And not this land alone,
But be Thy mercies known from shore to shore;
O, that all men would see
That they should brothers be,
And form one family the wide world o'er!

VBS's Plan for 6,000 Youth

Vacation Bible School's will be full tilt in Central this summer. Approximately 70 Vacation Bible Schools will be held. This will represent some 6,000 boys and girls of which over 60 percent will be from non-Adventist homes.

This year, Vacation Bible School lessons are on the subject of creation. At the Soquel workshop in April, Louis Goodgame, a public-school teacher in Crescent City, and Nancy Stake, a homemaker from Los Gatos, presented a 45-minute program on scientific creation. The following is a quotation from some of the material.

"Since over 50 percent of the children in public schools do not attend any church or Sunday School, they are denied any contact with Creation, while daily being exposed and subtly indoctrinated with evolutionary concepts. Subsequently, evolution is considered a scientific fact whereas Creation is viewed as a myth. Presenting scientific evidence for Creation will re-establish credence in the Biblical account of the origin of life. This valuable information will enable the child to consider both sides and reason in his own mind what to believe, as well as provide him with 'ammunition' to use when encountering evolution enthusiasts. Scientific creation is not contrary to the Biblical account, nor does it overshadow it. It is simply evidence in nature on which to base our faith in a Creator, for nature truly studied agrees with its Creator and His written word.

"The Vacation Bible School teacher could stress that just as a watch was designed for a specific purpose, so does nature reveal that the world could not have evolved by chance. Stories about the special intricacies of the ant, the beetle, the spider, the dolphin, the fly's eye, and finally Man, would reinforce this concept of plan, order, balance and design—God in control."

What a wonderful opportunity we have to present Creation as taught in the Bible to boys and girls this summer. We appreciate the hundreds of faithful church members, including teen-agers, who are working in the Vacation Bible School program.

Surely this is the Lord's work and it is a wonderful way to evangelize the boys and girls. It is still not too late for you to plan a Vacation Bible School. You may wish to hold a Neighborhood Vacation Bible School just for the boys and girls on your block. If you are interested in such a program, please contact the Sabbath school department.

Lawrence Fernandez Honored at Kaneohe

Sabbath, June 15, was a special day in the life of Lawrence

L. Fernandez

Fernandez Sr. when he was chosen from among many wonderful fathers to be "Father of the year" at the Kaneohe Seventh-day Adventist church. Mr. Fernandez was honored, not only for his deeds as a father, but for his work for God, his family and the Seventh-day Adventist churches for many years. He accepted the Adventist message after reading the Signs of the Times, and was baptized in the Honolulu Central church by Elder George Taylor over 25 years ago.

A church was needed in the Kaneohe area, so Brother Fernandez transferred to that church. Being a carpenter by profession, he devoted many long hours in planning and in the actual construction of the building. He also assisted in the construction of the Kailua, Hauula and Waianae churches.

The local church in Kaneohe has benefited from the presence of the Fernandez family, as Mr. Fernandez has held many positions of responsibility in the church. His three children, Lawrence Jr., Sandra and Elden, have been educated in Seventh-day Adventist schools. His sister, Katherine Pacheko of San Leandro, was able to be present for this special occasion.

Judith Mori, Kaneohe
Com. Secretary.

Conference Aids Santa Clara Indians

An urgent request came to our office recently to aid the Indians in Santa Clara County. School children needed clothing and shoes. Many of the Indians were at the point of starvation. The Community Services (Dorcas Societies) of Area 2 were asked to gather clothing, shoes, canned foods and staples within a two-week period.

Many boxes of clothing and bedding were brought to the office and the writer traveled in the Community Services van to pick up items. Two van loads of food, clothing and bedding were delivered to the home of the President of the American Indian Indian Council of Santa Clara County. Within four days, everything that had been gathered had been distributed to individual families. Some of the churches were not able to supply much clothing, but they supported this worthy project with checks to purchase needed items. The money donated by the churches was used to buy shoes for those who had no shoes at all, and necessary clothing.

Inner City Coordinator W. C. Webb presented Mr. Woodard, president of the American Indian Council of Santa Clara County, with a check for $200.

Over 1,000 garments, 100 pairs of shoes, blankets, sheets, bed spreads, toys and literature were given away. These dear people have a continuing need. Our office will conduct an ongoing effort to fill these needs.

We appreciate your continued support. We solicit your prayers that our contributions will be the means of saving some precious souls as well as supplying a physical need.

W. C. Webb,
Inner Cities Services.

Northern Holds Nutrition Schools for Blacks

Members of the Black churches in Northern California recognize a special need for nutritional and better living information among the Black community.

Consider these facts from Ebony magazine (June 1973): "Hypertension is the chief cause of death among Black adults in America, reaching astronomical heights when Blacks are between the ages of 40 and 49."

Hypertension kills Black males 15.5 times more frequently than white males, 17 times more Black females than white females. Forty percent of Black people over 40 have it—one in every four Black persons has it (compared with one in every seven white Americans).

Hypertension is defined as blood pressure of 140/90 or higher, and causes: (a) hardening of arteries in the heart, brain, and limbs; (b) permanent loss of vision; (c) senility of old age; (d) inducement of strokes, heart attacks, heart failure, and kidney disease. The greatest threats for Blacks is stroke and kidney disease.

Why are Blacks so vulnerable to hypertension? Causative factors are heredity, obesity and diet, and stress.

Dr. Elijah Saunders, chief cardiologist at Provident Hospital in Baltimore, Maryland, declares: "If a person likes highly salted food, there is a good chance he will aggravate hypertension, since there is a positive correlation between salt intake and hypertension."

Suggesting that a heavy or exclusive diet of "soul food" with its high salt content may be literally suicidal, Dr. Saunders advises Black people to eat selectively and to severely limit their intake of spicy barbecue sauces, heavily salted greens, bacon, salt pork, and ham hocks, all of which are "soul-food" specialties.

Another important and obvious factor in the high rate of hypertension among Black Americans is stress—sociological rage, sustained emotional stress, economic worries, daily battles for self-respect. Inward stresses from generation to generation may have induced hypertension in the Black person, Ebony observes.

Jack Slater gives these steps on How to Stay Alive with Hypertension: (1) stop smoking, (2) reduce to normal weight, (3) limit salt intake, (4) exercise regularly, (5) avoid extreme anxiety and emotional stress, and (6) follow prescribed drug program religiously.

Cooking schools can help meet Steps 2 and 3, and reduce this toll of disease. They can also instruct on how to get more for one's food dollar. In this area, it is hoped that garden clubs can also be started soon in Northern.

To meet these educational views, cooking schools have been held at two of Northern's Black churches: Elmhurst and Market Street. The report on Market Street's will be out soon. Mrs. Edie Logan, wife of an Adventist dentist in Sunnyvale, was the instructor at the four-night course in the Elmhurst Church. Average attendance was 85, approximately one-third of whom were non-Adventists. Quotations from E. G. White were received with appreciation and excitement.

Pastor H. E. Nembhard and church members gave excellent support, and feel this helped prepare the way for Mission '74. Arrow of Prophecy, a film depicting SDA beliefs, was shown at the close of the course.

Mark Williams Joins Lodi Fairmont Staff

Mark Williams, former assistant pastor of Lodi Fairmont Church, was recently appointed as the first pastor of the newly organized Citrus Heights Church.

Pastor Williams graduated from Pacific Union College in 1970 and earned his master's degree in theology from Andrews University in 1973. His wife, Paula, is a dental hygienist.

Citrus Heights started as a Branch Sabbath School two years ago in an area between the Carmichael and Orangevale churches. In February, Elders Clif Walter and Bernie Paulson held a series of meetings in the area and many were baptized with a number of interested follow-ups.

On March 2, Elder H. C. Retzer, president of Northern, organized the group with 66 char-

11 RLAA Students Baptized

Approximately 400 students, parents and faculty members of Rio Lindo Adventist Academy met at a quiet place on the Russian River and witnessed the rebirth of 11 students in baptism on Sabbath, May 25. Mr. Robert McManaman led the group in song and Elder Gordon Bietz gave a pre-baptismal sermon and performed the baptism.

"This is a great way to worship God, and the Sabbath is made plainer by this service," voiced a student.

Rio Students Receive Awards

Ninety-one awards were accepted by Rio students during the yearly awards' ceremony, May 28. Doug Tilstra, son of Dr. and Mrs. John Tilstra of Arcata, received a thunderous applause for his nomination as an Outstanding Teenager of America.

Six girls and one boy received nurse assistant's pins and certificates for completing 180 hours of observation, study and practicum at the Healdsburg General Hospital and Good Hope Nursing Home. They reached into the realm of a larger hospital via a tour of Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital and its various facilities.

Twenty-eight students accepted public acknowledgment of their meriting of state scholarships.

PVH Plans Series of Five-Day Plans

This year, approximately 355,000 people will die of cancer—75,000 from lung cancer largely caused by smoking.

Throughout Southeastern, churches and hospitals are conducting Stop-Smoking Clinics to give tangible help to those wanting to stop the cigarette habit. Paradise Valley Hospital is holding a Five-Day Plan each month this summer under the direction of Chaplain William Robinson.

Chula Vista's mayor, Tom Hamilton, attended the hospital's Stop-Smoking clinic earlier this year and came back to encourage some of the potential nonsmoking converts.

Excellent press coverage was given by the San Diego Star News and a couple of the paper's editors stopped smoking after participating in the program.

"For each person, the decision to attend the clinic was promoted by a different motive," explained Chaplain Robinson. "Sometimes, parents bring teen-agers to sessions as a means to help prevent future smokers."

One man said, "I'm not really here for myself. I asked my grandson what he wanted for his birthday and he said, 'For you to stop smoking.' I'm here for him."

A woman commented that her 4-year-old daughter has continually asked her to kick the habit and seems to be biding her time to see how mother fares on the program.

The program will be scheduled throughout the fall and winter on an intermittent basis.

An exhibit at the County Fair in Del Mar this year features the Five-Day Plan and visitors can sign up for the next plan at Paradise Valley Hospital.

Conference Plans Sustantee's Retreat

Plans are far enough along that announcement can be made of the Sustantee's Retreat. This retreat, sponsored by the Conference, will be held at Pine Springs Ranch from September 17 to 19.

Two days will be spent in recreation, nature study, devotional meetings and hearing reports from the Bible Conference.

Since space at the Ranch is limited, the Retreat is limited to those who are on General Conference Sustentation or persons who have worked for the denomination a minimum of 15 years. You must also be residing in the Southeastern California Conference at the present time. Lodging will be furnished free and the only charge will be $10 for the seven meals that will be served.

If you are interested in this Retreat, please write for a reservation blank to the address below. Do not send the $10 until you receive the reservation blank and return it to us. Write Sustantee Retreat, P.O. Box 7584, Riverside, CA 92503.

Students Meet for Training Sessions

Literature evangelists spent June 9-11 on the La Sierra Campus of Loma Linda University attending a seminar in which instruction was given on the Community Crusade Against Drugs that will be conducted this summer.

Dr. Frank Fowler from the School of Health gave several lectures on the misuse of drugs and drug dependency. Other lecturers were Elder A. R. Reiswig, Elder John Bernet and departmental publishing leaders from the conference.

Over 80 young people will be engaged in this program throughout the conference. They will not only be working for scholarships, but they will be distributing Steps to Christ, enrolling youth in The Voice of Prophecy Wayout program, and inviting people to attend local Five-Day Plans.

Jack Duerksen Begins at Escondido

We want to introduce Pastor and Mrs. Jack Duerksen who are associated with Elder Scott in the Escondido Church.

Jack and Deanna Rae Duerksen

Brother Duerksen received his B.A. degree from Loma Linda University in 1973. Mrs. Duerksen, the former Deanna Rae Howard, is also a graduate of Loma Linda University and teaches English and physical education.

Pastor Duerksen held a number of positions of responsible leadership while in college and we are sure these same qualities of leadership will be a real asset to him in his ministry.

Mesa Grande Initiates New Program

Each year, millions of boys and girls enter school for the first time and, by their presence, say to the teacher and the system—"Ready or not, here I come." But, unlike the game of hide and seek, it's not a question of whether the staff is ready but whether the students are ready.

There is a movement in this country that is gaining more and more momentum—to start children in school at an earlier age and teach them to read, write and do other manipulation skills.

The School Board of the new Mesa Grande Junior Academy of Calimesa, feels this is contrary to the counsel of Mrs. White in the Spirit of Prophecy and will be initiating a new program at the school beginning in September that it feels will be a solution to this problem. The Board has voted the following:

1. That the school will offer an expanded pre-school program as follows:

- a. Those entering at age 5 by September 2 will be enrolled in the kindergarten program.

- b. Those entering at age 6 by September 2 will be enrolled in the pre-first program.

The student who enters school at age 7 will be placed in the first grade.

2. That no reading or math be taught on a formal or required basis until the third grade.

Activities to be stressed include communication skills, listening skills, social skills, motor and perceptual skills, vocabulary, learning motivation, thinking skills, creativity, independent work habits, self-management and value training.

Information may be obtained by writing to Mr. Jonathan Mills, Principal, Mesa Grande Seventh-day Adventist Junior Academy, P.O. Box 647, Calimesa, CA 92320.

Erwin Mack, left, presented to Karen Wills a symbolic key to the electric cart given to her by the students. Karen's husband, Bob, is on the right.

Students Complete Project X

At the end of the recent school term, Fairview Junior Academy gave an electric cart to one of the school's staff members who is physically handicapped.

As a gift from students in grades 7, 8, 9 and 10, the cart was presented on their behalf by Mr. Erwin Mack, Bible teacher and principal-elect, to Mrs. Karen Wills who is the school's office secretary. Mrs. Wills, whose husband, Bob, is math-teacher and vice-principal of Fairview, is partially paralyzed as the result of an automobile accident.

The idea of the gift began to take shape shortly after school began last fall as the result of Mr. Will's inquiry as to the availability of such a vehicle. Junior high students soon took up the cause, which became known as Project X in order to keep it a secret from Mrs. Wills.

That the project remained unknown to Mrs. Wills was attested to by the expression of genuine surprise registered by Mrs. Wills when the cart was presented to her during an informal gathering of the students on the school's quadrangle at the close of the lunch period, June 4. Mrs. Wills thought the fire drill had been called only to give out the yearbooks which were distributed later that afternoon.

Since the adoption of Project X last fall, students and teachers under the leadership of Mr. Mack have contributed time and money to make the project a reality. The Westinghouse Electric Corporation, whose Redland's plant produces electric carts, cooperated generously to keep the cost to a minimum.

As a result of Project X, Mrs. Wills, who lives only a few blocks from the school, will be able to commute to and from her work; and she will enjoy a degree of independence in shopping that has been denied her for several years.

Youth Train for Small-literature Sales

Some 64 students and leaders met at the Vallejo Drive youth chapel June 10 and 11 for a two-day intensive training school for Community Crusade Against Drugs. Elder Franklin Hudgins, communication secretary of the Conference, and Elder John Todorovich, pastor of the Vallejo Drive Church, were the devotional speakers.

Following each devotional period, the students divided into groups of four for prayer bands. Elder John Bernet, associate publishing secretary of the Pacific Union, helped lead the first day's training.

Others who helped were Dr. Ed Anderson, associate educational secretary; Elder A. R.

Reiswig, publishing secretary; and Ron Woodruff from Home Health Education Service—all from the Pacific Union Office. Elder Norman Matiko, director of field services for The Voice of Prophecy, challenged the young people with his stirring stories and enthusiastic presentation.

One young boy couldn't wait for the first day in the field but went right after the meeting and sold his first "magabook" to a man who gave him $10. We plan to get a newsletter out to our students each week. These young people connected with this Community Crusade Against Drugs will appreciate your prayers.

Members of the Community Crusade Against Drugs will be climbing stairs all summer to search out those interested in joining their crusade.

In A Nutshell

SEVEN STUDENTS AT OUR ANTELOPE VALLEY SCHOOL participated in a special bike-a-thon with their teacher, Mr. Gary Herr.

The bike-a-thon raised $200 for a microscope for the floating school of the Lake Titicaca Mission in Peru; choir robes; some for the music department at AVAS; and some to improve their own school rooms.

ANDY FERRIER, internationally known concert accordionist, will present a sacred concert in the Sanctuary of the White Memorial church, Saturday, July 13, at 7 p.m.

PROGRESS ON THE CONFERENCE-WIDE missionary magazine evangelism project is stalled out at 33%. The churches are some 7,000 subscriptions behind last year at this time. Eight churches have reached or exceeded their objectives. This leaves the others to close the gap on the 56,000 goal. The subscription cost will double after July 1.

Update . . . from the president

On June 15, the new La Puente Spanish Company was organized with 84 members and many friends present. Pastor Eliseo Orozco is the leader of this new company.

At Newbury Park Adventist Academy, 14 students have been baptized during the '73-'74 school year. Eight of these came from non-Adventist homes. There is an excellent interest in the conversion of students on the campus at Newbury.

Elder Edmund Jones has accepted appointment to serve as pastor of the Lancaster Church.

Tithe for May is another record when compared to other years. The Lord is blessing his people and there is a heartening spirit of faithfulness in tithes and offerings to God. Thank you each one, for your part in the success of His work.

FELLOWSHIP PROJECT. The American College of Hospital Administrators recently accepted the Fellowship project of Mr. Robert Morris, president, White Memorial Medical Center, and recommended that the Board of Governors approve his advancement in Fellowship.

Conferral of Fellowship will take place at the 40th Convocation Ceremonies Sunday afternoon, August 11, 1974, in Chicago, Illinois. Mr. Morris is shown formally opening the $3.5 million Rehabilitation Center.

Teachers Visit Adventists Attending Public Schools

During the opening week of the home visitation program,

Cecil Roy

21 conference teachers joined with church pastors to visit over 600 Seventh-day Adventist families in our conference this summer. Their goal was to encourage those families to enroll their youngsters in Adventist schools this September.

The overall conference enrollment has shown a steady incline over the past six years. However, the office of education is concerned with the unusually large number of church members whose children still attend public schools, says Associate Superintendent Cecil Roy.

In treating the importance of Christian education, the Spirit of Prophecy is emphatic: "All our youth should be permitted to have the blessings and privileges of a Christian education, for who can determine which one of a family will prove to be efficient in the work of God? Nothing is of greater importance than the education of our young people." Counsels to Parents, Teachers and Students, p. 44.

Stewards Present Nutrition School

Requests for copies of nutrition material continue to be received by Mrs. Lois Stewart, months after completion of her nutrition school last winter.

The twin approach to good health, through nutrition, presented by Mrs. Stewart, and through a knowledge of physiology, presented by Dr. Henry Stewart, was well received by an audience of about 75.

Opposition to Adventist health principles was strong 18 years ago when the Stewarts began work in Carson City. It is a tribute to consistent witnessing and the softening influence of the Holy Spirit that the original request for this series of meetings came from the medical profession. It was planned by the In-Service Education Department of the Carson-Tahoe Hospital, but was open to the public.

Mrs. Stewart presented factual material for the general audience, more technical material for the medical personnel attending, demonstrations and meals prepared from samples generously donated by Loma Linda Foods. Nursing and paramedical personnel on duty during the lecture period were served samples at the conclusion of each evening's program.

Owners of the two local health food stores who each donated a door prize, reported selling out of items suggested in the vegetarian menus provided. Copies of the Life and Health issue on vegetarianism were made available to those who were interested.

As a community service and directly attributable to the cooking school, Mrs. Stewart was requested to provide a recipe and to demonstrate bread making, and Mrs. Barbara Herlan, who assisted her, was asked to set three dining table arrangements for the local library's open house.

Academic Skills Seminar Slated

"So students will be able to move ahead in a college program with confidence" is why LLU is offering a three-week Academic Skills Seminar, according to Dr. Fritz Guy, coordinator. So as not to interfere with summer schedules, the seminar will begin after Labor Day.

LLU Hosts Seminar in Christian Service

A how-to-and-here-are-the-materials seminar for inner city work finished last week on the La Sierra Campus. Of the 125 who registered for the eight-day (from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.) course, all but 30 were laymen.

In addition to lecture-type presentations on such topics as history of poverty and the Old Testament and poverty, participants spent much of their time in one of six specialty groups. These included recreation and culture, health care, and the family, Bible and welfare worker. In the latter group, topics presented included "Broadening definitions of evangelism" and "Creative programs for the family."

"In this seminar, we were working not just for inspiration but also for action," points out Dr. Vernon Koenig, dean of LLU Extension. Dr. Koenig and Elder Ed White, coordinator of inner city work for Southeast-

Running from Sept. 3 to 27, the seminar will offer an individualized program of audiovisual materials and expert instruction in four areas: better and faster reading, basic mathematics, English composition and efficient learning habits.

Stressing the importance of the latter, Harold Sharpnack, vocational counselor, says that on the average, college students spend only 12 minutes in actual study each hour they are in the library. "We'll show students how to get the very most out of their time," he promises.

Participants in the seminar will be able to tailor a program that will exactly fit their individual needs. For example, if a student wants to spend the entire three weeks on improving his reading speed, he will be able to do so.

While the seminar is primarily for skills improvement, an added benefit is that up to six units of college credit can be earned in that three weeks.

Application blanks and more information are available from Dr. Guy's office, College of Arts and Sciences, La Sierra Campus, LLU, Riverside, CA 92505, (714) 785-2122. Those interested should contact his office as soon as possible.

He reminded his audience that 70 percent of children living in inner city areas do not get adequate breakfasts: "So every day, feed everybody before you start teaching math. Now, how are you going to do this? Here is the name of the man in Sacramento who is responsible for all food-help programs in the state of California. . . ."

Similar seminars will be held in the coming months as well as another one next summer. Additional information is available from LLU Extension, Riverside, CA 92505, (714) 785-2214.

Concerts Planned for July 8 and 9

Those interested in top-notch musical performances will want to keep Monday, July 8, and Thursday, August 8, free to attend two concerts in the Alumni Pavilion on the La Sierra Campus.

Conductor for the July 8 concert will be Herbert Blomstedt, director of the Royal Danish Radio Symphony and a faculty conductor at the Royal Academy of Music in Sweden. Mr. Blomstedt is now holding its fourth annual institute of Orchestral Conducting and Symphonic Performance on the La Sierra Campus. This year the institute has 19 students from as far away as Korea. The climax of the intensive two-week course will be this performance by the Institute's orchestra.

A choral performance will be on August 8. The 60-voice choir will be under the direction of David Willcocks, director of the Royal College of Music, and one of Great Britain's ranking musicians. His institute in choral technique and performance will run from July 29 to August 9.

Tickets for the Orchestra are now available at the College Market in La Sierra and the University Market in Loma Linda. They are free, but those wanting the best seats in the reserved sections should get them soon. Tickets for the August 8 concert will be available at the same places two weeks before that performance. Both concerts will start at 8 p.m.

PPPA Centennial

God has also blessed the work of the book department. While in 1906 the Press had only one new title, during the next 40 years an average of seven books annually appeared.

Now, however, the book department is trying to keep pace with the paperback revolution. The 50th Destiny series book is in preparation, 20th Panda, 17th Dimension; and two more series—Agape for young adults and Redwood in the newsstand format—are becoming known. In all, the plant has averaged one new book per week during the past quadrennium.

In other areas, the Pacific Press is the major service to the church in the design and production of learning materials for church-operated schools. At Chapel/Bridge Records, outreaches have been made in the supply of records to Christian radio stations, and some music is being published.

Margaret Wright, at 74 a retired proofreader, and Ernest Lloyd, "Mr. Little Friend" at 94, directed in the music of the Centennial Constituency of the Pacific Press.

Through the years the Pacific Press has been added to at least 30 times, not including inside remodeling. Parts of the old plant are surrounded by the new. Service buildings are scattered over 16 acres—close to seven of them under roof.

Despite the short supply of raw materials and escalating costs, the Pacific Press is pledged to its ministry; because writing, editing and publishing are more than an occupation for the 330 in the plant family.

Manager-elect W. J. Blacker reechoes the words of Martin Luther whose conviction was that "printing is the latest and greatest gift by which God enables us to advance the things of the gospel." Through the medium of the printed page from the Pacific Press, Jesus Christ must be presented to multitudes as Creator, Redeemer and coming King."
