

Farewell to the Clevelands

By J. M. NERNESS

These are packing days for the Cleveland family. About the time this issue of the Messenger reaches you the Clevelands will be preparing to leave the

Pastor C. C. Cleveland

Malayan Union Mission for Indonesia where Pastor Cleveland will serve as president.

During the Division Council held here in Singapore during January 1955, the invitation to assume the leadership of the large Indonesian field was given to Pastor Cleveland. After care ul and prayful consideration he accepted the call. Since then he has spent a number of weeks visiting his new field of labor but has continued faithfully to carry on his work as treasurer of the Malayan Union Mission in addition to the work and problems of his new field.

In April 1947 Pastor and Mrs. Cleveland, with their two sons, Edgar and Sydney, arrived in Singapore, to begin what has become the longest term of service for any Malayan Union Mission secretarytreasurer.

During these eight years of service, we have been lead to appreciate the family as good neighbors as well as to recognize their devotion to the best interests of God's cause. Pastor Cleveland brought a wealth of technical information which was so necessary in restoring a strong financial structure for our work in the postwar years. As a counsellor, too, I have greatly appreciated his fellowship and know that I express the sincere good wishes of every believer when I wish them in your behalf, Heaven's richest blessings as they take up their new responsibilities in Indonesia.

God Hears Our Prayers

BY K. S. WONG

"The very hairs of your head are all numbered." Matt. 10:30. During the recent civil war starting at mid-night on March 29, the roaring of big guns awoke the people in Cholon from their peaceful sleep. Five times my family and I knelt down and prayed most earnestly to God to protect the lives of our brethren and sisters, as well as our buildings. The shooting went on until morning. After breakfast, Ong Yau Kvon, the local elder of the Chinese church, and I took a car to our mission headquarters, about 6 miles away, to attend the committee on the building of the Saigon Mission Hospital. Pastor Nerness, the Malayan Union Mission president, was in Saigon at this time, and he was grateful to know that our brethren and sisters were all safe.

The danger was not yet over. The black clouds of civil war were hanging over our heads. At any moment the storm might strike. However, I went out to work daily as usual but prayed earnestly to God for the forgiveness of my sins so that if I should lose my life here during my travels, I might wake up on that great resurrection morning when all the righteous shall meet their Lord.

On April 28, at noon, while I was riding on a bus after leaving the mission headquarters, there was sudden shooting along the roadside, and the bullets were flying wildly about. At this critical moment, the bus came to a stop and all the passengers quickly laid down on the floor awaiting their fate. I closed my eyes and asked for God's protection. After 15 minutes, when the shooting had quieted somewhat, the bus driver took us home by another route. My wife and children were thankful to the Lord for His protection over me. After lunch, shooting started up again on every side. Our whole family prayed several times and God did hear our prayers. About 40 rounds of bullets penetrated a house about 15 yards from ours, doing a lot of damage. The hotel on the opposite side was also hit in the shooting, but our house, as well as Brother Tan Sian Hung's escaped the shooting.

On Sabbath, April 30, the shooting stopped for a time, and all our congregation came to worship the Lord to whom they were very grate ul. Pastor Wallace and Pastor Storz made a special visit to ascertain our safety. We studied our Sabbath school lesson "Triumphant in Sufferings" with a deeper meaning that day. The congregation was reminded of many sweet promises of God, and urged to be ready when more fearful sufferings come to us in the near future, and was assured of the final victory of God's people. One of our sisters gave a testimony of how her grandson's life had been spared during the last war because of her prayers.

Remember us here in Saigon, in your prayers.

Onward and Forward in Ceylon

By L. F. HARDIN, President of the Ceylon Union

The second quarter 13th Sabbath overflow offering is to come to Southern Asia, and in particular to Ceylon, for the building of the new school building at the Lakpahana Training Institute. It was my privilege to come to Ceylon in 1947. I wish it were possible to tell you about the many needs out here, but our greatest need is the building up of our school. The work in Ceylon is beginning to move much more rapidly and souls are being won from Buddhism. This is a Buddhist country and it bas been very difficult to interest these people in Christianity. Now many are studying and coming to know our doctrines and gradually they are beginning to turn to the remnant church and be baptised.

At the close of the year 1954, it was my privilege at one of the baptismal services to baptize three Buddhist young people. One of these, a young man, had been a Buddbist priest for ten years in the Buddhist temple in the city of Matara at the southernmost part of the Island. It was a real thrill to see this young man take bis stand for Christ. Because of the opposition by the Buddbist people in the neighborhood against the priest when he left his robes and and temple, it was necessary to have the baptism in another city some twenty miles away. The baptism was held just outside the city in a quiet little rockencircled bay in the sea. All three of these young people are enthusiastic about the message and want to join in the work of giving the gospel to others, that the coming of Christ may be hastened. Although they have completed their schooling, they want to study in our school to prepare themselves for service in the Lord's work.

Many of you have already heard something about our Union school. For three years now our school has been carrying on in temporary grass hut quarters. It has not been a desirable or coveted way to conduct a school. But when there are no proper buildings, the school must continue on as best it can until funds are provided for better facilities. However, during these three years in grass huts and without adequate equipment to run a school smoothly, the students and teachers have shown an excellent spirit. There are many things that can happen in temporary buildings. One day the dining room roof blew off in a storm. It was raining very hard and the water just literally poured in. The students and teachers quickly went to work and put on a new cadjan roof. (This roof is made from the leaves of the coconut tree). Once the temporary chapel was blown over until it was nearly flat on the ground. All rallied around and lifted and shoved until it was straightened up again; and with a few more bamboos, ropes and leaves, it was made secure for a little longer time. We hope it will stand until new permanent buildings can be built. For the past two years students and teachers have been longing for the new buildings to be built. But unfortunately there has not been enough money to build, so they have had to wait.

In spite of the many hardships, the activities of the school go on. Just recently the students in the school organized a club called "The Young Farmer's Club." This is similar to the 4H Club in the States. They have been helped by the Agricultural Department of Ceylon. The Agricultural Department has taken a great interest in our school, for the work we are doing in this line is what the government would like for its schools to do. The officers in the Agriculture Department of the government are happy that we have led out in such a program as this. Many fruit trees have been planted on the school estate. A large section of the paddy (rice) field has been taken over by the students. Formally this paddy field was cultivated by the village farmers on lease. By receiving aid and instruction from the agriculture department, the Young Farmer's Club has introduced the Japanese method of planting and raising paddy This method is supposed to produce about 50% more yield of rice per acre. We have several other inindustries, such as poultry, carpentry, cattle raising, and coconut farming. The students learn to use their hands in a practical work as well as their brains, for greater service in the Lord's work.

For the second quarter of 1955, the 13th Sabbath over "ow offering is to come to Southern Asia. The major portion of this offering is to come to Ceylon for the building up of this school. With the hope of a good over "ow, plans have been made to educate and train our young people in a greater way for service in the Lord's vineyard.

As you give your dimes, quarters, and dollars for the second ouarter, will you not remember our need here in the island of Ceylon? Will you give most liberally that our school may be built and finished, so that we may continue to train our young people for service, and the kingdom of God? Give of your means to make this an abundant overflow offering for Ceylon. We are depending on you to make possible the building of our school. Will you make it possible? Give of your best to the Master.

Christianity should shine through us like sunshine through a pane of glass. We should make it shire so clearly that people will say, "What a beau 'iful 'day'"—not "What a beautiful pane of glass."— DEMOCRACY-IN-ACTION.

Colporteur Evangelism in Cambodia

Ву Н. К. Show

"As God blesses the minister and the evaugelist in their earnest efforts to place the truth before the people, so He will bless the faithful canvasser." Test., Vol. 6, page 340.

When Brother Tran Tran went to the city of Phnom Penh in Cambodia two years ago, he went expecting to be part of a soul-winning campaign. It soon developed that he would have to be the whole campaign since permission to hold meetings was withheld, and the evangelist, who was to lead out in the meetings, did not go to Phnom Fenh. There was no church in the city, and so Brother Tran had only his talents as a colporteur and the promises of God to depend on.

Determined to do his best, he started out with his literature. After some time he was able to report that some of the people whom he had contacted were interested in studying the Bible. A little later he had two branch Sabbath schools operating and was conducting a baptismal class. Finally he had the joy of seeing the first fruits of his labor in this strong Buddhist country. Pastor Wong Kiat Sam made the long trip from Saigon to baptize Brother Tran's first three converts. Six more are planning on baptism in the near future.

Brother Tran has had no evangelistic training other than that which he has received as a literature evangelist, but he believes this statement found in Colporteur Evangelist, page 19. "As the canvasser visits the peorle in their bomes, he will often have opportunity to read to them from the Bible or from books that teach the truth. When he discovers those who are searching for the truth, he can hold Bible readings with them. These Bible readings are just what the people need. God will use in His service those who show a deep interest in perishing souls. Through them He will impart light to those who are ready to receive instruction."

Baptisms in Penang

BY CHONG TAT KONG

March 12 and May 7, 1955, were red letter days for the Penang English-speaking church. Eight candidates, three girls, two young men, and three boys were baptized by Pastor Ritz on these two dates. Three of them come from Adventist families, one was a former Roman Catholic, and the others were either Buddhists or not related to any religiousaffiliations. These young people were led by the Holy Spirit to accept Jesus as their personal Saviour and to forsake the transient pleasures of this world. Two of them were attached to the Penang Mission Hospital. Some of them had to meet trials in their home with regard to eating unclean food, and buying things for their parents on the Sabbath day. But the determined stand taken by our new-found brothers in Christ Jesus won the admiration of one and all.

The members of the church are not only active in literature evangelism and enrolling their friends and neighbors in the Voice of Prophecy Bible Correspondence Course, but a number of them are giving Bible studies whenever the opportunity arises. All eight persons here mentioned were students of the Voice of Prophecy.

The Spirit of the Lord is working in the hearts of the people here in Penang. There are now a number of interested persons studying the Word of God earnestly in preparation for baptism in the near future. Brethren and Sisters, kindly remember in your prayers those who have been baptized and those who are seeking to know and do God's will. Also remember the Lord's work that is being carried on here in Penang.

Obituary of "Grandmother" Chan

By J. L. POGUE

Sister Chan Thiam Hee, better known to us all as "Grandmother" Chan, was born in South China, November 19, 1861, and passed to her rest on March 31, 1955.

Sister Chan came to Malaya 53 years ago with her husband who was to work here as a Pastor for the Presbyterian Mission. I astor and Mrs. Chan became acquainted with Pastor Jones, the first Seventh-day Adventist missionary to Singapore, soon after he arrived here. They spent many hours studying the Word of God together, and as a result Brother and Sister Chan embraced the Sabbath truth and were bartized into the Seventh-day Adventist church in 1908.

Soon after this Brother and Sister Chan entered into service with the Seventh-day Adventist Mission. Sister Chan ever stood beside her husband to encourage him in his work for God. They were outstanding parents and leave a monument for God, not only in the churches they toiled to build, but in their children. grandchildren and great grandchildren. Pastor Chan was the first Seventh-day Adventist ordained Chinese minister in South East Asia; together with his wife he went to Jesselton and Sandakan in North Borneo where they worked and organized two churches. Brother and Sister Chan felt a great burden for their relatives and friends back in Thong Kan in Swatow. They left Malaya and Borneo for a time and went to work among their own people. In Thong Kan they raised up a large church to the glory of God. Their work here was a service of love as they were self-supporting workers. Later they returned to Kuching, Sarawak, where they helped to organize a church.

To the family of Fastor and Mrs. Chan Thiam Hee, six children were born, two sons and four daughters. Pastor Chan, one son and one daughter, preceded Grandmother Chan, in death. Three daughters, Mrs. C. M. Lee, Mrs. Amy Tan, Mrs. S. H. Tan, one son, Chan Chye Teck, 41 grandchildren, 30 great grandchildren scattered in Malaya. Hong Kong, Indonesia, Kashmir and the United States, besides a host of friends, mourn the passing of Grandmother Chan.

Through life, as she toiled with her good husband we can be assured that the recording angel did not pass by this Mother in Israel. She now rests, awaiting the sure and certain call of the life giver.

> "Weep not that their toils are over, Weep not that their race is run. God grant that we may rest as calmly When our work, like theirs, is done. Till then, we would yield with gladness Our treasures to Him to keep. And rejoice in the sweet assurance, He giveth His loved ones sleep."

Malayan Seminary Week of Prayer

BY R. H. WENTLAND

"God became so real to me!" "For the first time in my life I saw myself as God must see me." "He made religion so practical!" "So wonderful!" "Pastor Anderson's messages were just what I needed." Such were the spontaneous testimonies regarding the effective week of prayer recently conducted by Elder R. A. Anderson at the Malayan Union Seminary.

Every morning during the week of prayer, the chapel was crowded to more than capacity. Extra benches and seats were brought in to accommodate the students of standards five through nine, as well as the college students. All were very prompt to find a place in the chapel for they wanted to catch every word that would be spoken. Preceding the messages, various students rendered vocal numbers; and the thoughts and exhortations which followed were received with rapt attention by all from the youngest to the eldest. Needless to say, the sermons were timely and were illustrated most effectively. The Holy Spirit was present in abundant measure and its tender voice and pleadings spoke to the hearts of those who were there. Many caught a vision of God and the sweetness and the importance of placing Him foremost in their aims and purposes in life.

This week of prayer was different from the usual pattern followed in week of prayer meetings in such schools as this. Since Elder Anderson could only spend a week in his packed itinerary for a stop over in Singapore, it was felt that he should devote the evenings to holding a eity wide Revival for the Seventh-day Adventist churches. He preached in the spacious Balestier Road church every night during that week and the dormitory students attended there.

We were sorry the week went by with such rapidity and regretted deeply that we would hear no more of Pastor Anderson's stirring sermons. In the final morning sermon given before the entire student body, an appeal was made for those who wished to accept Christ as their personal Saviour to come forward. What a thrill it was to count the names of twentyeight young people who signed for entrance into the baptismal class. These young people are now studying, preparing for baptism. Let us remember to pray for these as well as all the students of this institution, that the standard of God might be held high and that many will inherit eternal life through the influence of this school.

Two former Malayan Seminary students, Eric Ngo and Benaiah Lucas, left for the United States on April 28, to further their education. They both shall be greatly missed by their families and many friends. Their absence will also be felt in both the church and the school where they both made outstanding contributions.

Our sincere good wishes go with these two young men as they prepare for greater service for their Master in the field of medicine. May-June, 1955

The Work Moves Ever Onward

By J. T. POHAN

No doubt most, if not all, of our people have heard or read about the providential openings for our work in the Kudat area during the last few years. It is only natural for one to wonder why no baptisms have been reported thus far. The reason is that the Rungus people, illiterate, and without any Christian background, take much longer to fully understand our message. However, over a year ago, we had the joy of seeing the first group of twelve souls baptized in Marambangon village. The baptism was performed by the writer in a little pool with plenty of leeches. Among the candidates was a former witch who seriously remarked after over half an hour in the water without having a single leech on any of us, "Surely this is God's doings, even the leeches kept away from us though we were in the water so long!"

After my return from attending the last General Conference Session, I again had the privilege of itinerating in the Rungus area. Upon arrival in Marabao village, the first thing I was asked to do was to fulfill my promise to baptize over two dozen candidates. After thorough examination only twelve were found to be well enough prepared. The rest were asked to wait and study a little longer.

On a bright Sabbath morning, the candidates were quietly led to a little creek where they were buried with their Lord in the watery grave. Hundreds, including church members and visitors, came to witness the scene, and were much impressed. At the close of the service many more pledged to take their stand at the next baptism which will be sometime in June.

The following day I proceeded to Parapat village where we have interested families. One of these is the chief of the village. He pledged to bring along with himself into the message the adjacent villages which were assigned by the government to the Basel Mission. True, we have been asked to keep away from these villages, but who can stop the onward march of this message all over this country?

After one night in Parayat, I continued my trip to Tamberulan village where 60 people were anxiously waiting to see me again after an absence of ten months. There is only one baptized member here, and he serves as the leader for the group. But next June a number of these people will be baptized.

In spite of the efforts of the enemy to hamper the progress of the work here, two witch doctors with their families, have recently surrendered their charms and idols to me, and have decided to crst their lot with God's people. In this village as in other villages, our people meet in the humble home of their chief. With increasing members, a larger place of worship is needed. Building materials are being collected and we hope that soon we will have a proper house of worship which will be a real memorial to the power of the gospel.

On my return trip, a man and his wife who for some time have been attending our Sabbath school, begged me to stop at their village for a short while to help remove their charms and idols. This I did with pleasure. While this was being dove, the neighhors stood watching, wondering what would happen to the man and his wife who had invited a stranger to move away the homes of the spirits. When a fortnight had passed and no mishap had befallen the courageous couple, several other families in the same village decided to become Christians, also.

So the battle goes on here in Marudu, North Borreo. With our Captain before us we are victoriously marching with the message to the very gate of the enemy, bringing home with us trophies of the cross in the form of precious souls for His glorious kingdom.

Borneo Barriers Breaking

BY A. MOUNTAIN

For the first time we bave been permitted to visit our people in forbidden territory. It came about in this manner. Some months ago we received a letter from the Resident regarding what he termed "an overlapping" of mission work in the Ulu Tuaran, which is regarded as an S.D.A. section, and where we have been operating for over fifteen years. Surprised, 1 wrote the Resident asking for more informationwho was doing the overlapping, etc. And I seized upon the opportunity to inquire as to what sections of North Borneo had been alloted exclusively to which missions. He replied that no mission had a monopoly anywhere, but was evasive regarding the overlapping. This reply was a still greater surprise, for in actual practice certain missions are given specific territory in which to work and other societies are very definitely excluded. But, in his letter he asked for information as to where we had work in the Ula Tuaran and where we expected to expand.

We supplied this information, mentioning that a few Roman Catholic families had come into one place in recent years; but that they were quite welcome, and were living peaceably among our people as Christians should. The Resident's policy of segregating the missions, is that differing religious opinions may engender feuds among these erst-while headhunters. We have contended that this is pure assumption, unsupported by facts or experience; there is no record of any such feuds having occurred anywhere; on the contrary, in the older settled parts of the country, all denominations are mixed up and getting along fine with each other and with Muslims and infidels.

Anyway the Resident called a conference of the Catholic Bishop and a local priest, two Borneo Evangelical missionaries, myself, the Tuaran Distriet officer and himself. The District Officer, usually called the D.O. had gone to a great deal of trouble to prepare coloured maps showing the existing mission work in this area. The Bishop noted that there were just two colours, apparently indicating that his missions were evcladed. He immediately protested stating that the government might have the power, but not the right, to refuse them access to their communicants. He demanded the privilege of visiting them anywhere to administer the sacraments of the church, bless their crops, etc. The Resident hastened to assure him that this right was recognized by the government; but that this conference was concerned only with territories in which the various missions might carry on active propaganda, as distinguished from mere visiting. This was a most surprising admission, especially in view of the way the government has been restricting and curtailing our mission work.

As soon as opportunity afforded I presented our denominational views in the matter of religious liberty. I stated that no set of men had the right to impose their religious opinions on any other set of men; that the government had no right to insist that people in one section of the country must submit to be taught by the Catholics, another section by the Adventists, an another by some other denomination. I called the present regulations "an outmoded negation of the principals of religious liberty such as existed in no other part of the British Empire, except Sarawak," Where upon the Bishop interjected, "And it is fast breaking down there." I continued. "What training have these District Officers that qualifies them to handle religious matters? They should be free to devote their time to civil affairs for which they are eminently fitted. Think of all the unnecessary work that these restrictions on mission activities imposes upon them. You, yourself, (to the Resident) could live a gentleman's life if you were relieved of all these problems such as we are discussing today! The greatest menace to this country is communism. The strongest bulwark that can be raised against it is Christianity. Instead of putting all kinds of impediments in the way of missonary work, the government should encourage it by every available means." As soon as I sat down the Bishop stood and forcefully backed up everything I had said. The other missionaries followed suit. One asked if the present government policy could he considered democratic!

About a year ago a little Catholic chapel had been built just inside our territory. The Resident turned to me and asked, "How about the Catholics coming into your place at . . . ?" I replied, "As far as we are concerned they are quite welcome; and of what concern should it be to the government what religion a person holds as long as they are good citizens?" He countered, "Then suppose we let them all come in?" I replied, "Quite alright—provided we have the same privilege elsewhere." "So you would rather have it free for all" he asked. We all replied with one accord, "Yes." "Well", be said, "that is not for me to decide; I just have to a ply the law." I said, "We understand that, but we hope you will present our convictions to the government." He replied, "I certainly will. I certainly will."

Now we come to the point of this story. In another section the territory allotted to us is bounded by a river. But we have never yet heard of a river that could keep this message out. Our faithful laymen have been crossing this river and visiting the people until we have about 120 adherents in six different villages. None of our workers have been permitted to visit them. In fact one of these laymen was threatened with deportation by the D.O. if he went teaching our message there. We decided that the time had come to challenge this attitude on the part of the D.O., and to put the Resident's word to the test. We wrote the D.O. to the effect that we were planning to visit in that area, and wished to include these villages in our itinerary. That although we understood these villages were outside of our boundary, we also understood that the government did grant the privilege of visiting members in such places, and we trusted that he would have no objection.

The day before we were to leave on this trip we went to Jesselton, and in the mail was the reply from the D.O. which read in part, "Inasmuch as I have no knowledge that you have adherents in these villages, I cannot give you permission to visit them"; and suggesting that if we still wished to go we should see the Resident about it. We went right to the Resident's office. However, the Resident we had spoken with before had just gone on leave, and this was the new man's first day in office. I handed him the letter and told him my story, suggesting that if I gave the D.O. the "knowledge" he lacked he should be willing to give me the desired permission. To this the Resident assented, and also agreed to phone the D.O. that I would call on him personally the next day.

Next morning tound us bumping along in a jeep headed for Kot Belud. At Tenghilan we stoped to pick up our Missionary secretary, Fastor Siagian, and had him bring along the haptisual record for that district. While waiting at the D.O.'s office, we went through these quickly, and prepared a new list of the villages we proposed to visit, with the number of adherents in each place, including the village of Tempasok, not given in my letter. By the time the D.O. came into the office the list was ready to show him, with the baptismal blanks; so that he could see we had people in those places—and were not trying to put anything over on him. He gave us his consent, and we promised to give him a report of our trip later on.

The first village was on our side of the river. There we spent the Sabbath. Over 80 people attended the meetings in a private home. These were mostly the result of the work of one of our lay members, and many of them were from across the river. Sunday we again checked over a piece of land that we had in mind for a church site. The village headwan, not an S.D.A., came with us as we staked out the land and cut boundaries through the undergrowth enclosing about an acre of land. Then we made out the application forms and turned them in to the District Office the following day. We visited a large village across the river that night, and held a meeting in the home of one of the believers. Next day we reached the largest village of all, Tempasok, a real stronghold of heathenism-the name not listed in my letter. It is a famous place, mentioned in most books on Borneo. We did not actually see the village, but cut across the hills behind it to the isolated home of a believer.

The country around Tempasok is different from anything else we have seen in North Borneo. The hills are grassy instead of jungle-clad, affording fine grazing for thousands of water buffalo and ponies; and, where the hills end, rich rice fields begin, stretching away to the sea five miles distant. That night we held a meeting for our people and those friendly toward our message. Just as I finished speaking, a number of neighbors came in; so we had Pastor Siagian preach; and by the time he had finished, another lot came in and sat down on the foor to listen; so our evangelist, Brother Buja carried on. It was most encouraging. People were hungry for the truth. Next morning while Mrs. Mountain was busy treating the sick before leaving, someone said, "Here comes the D.O.! and an omino's silence ensued. I immediately pictured what had happened. The D.O.'s assistants are Muslims who do not want the people to accept the gospel. Evidently a courier had galloped off early that morning to report our arrival to the D.O. I realized that "We wrestle not against tesh and blood . . . but against wieked spirits"; and Satan was not allowing us to enter his domains without a fight. I breathed a prayer for guidance; and calmed my mind for whatever turn affairs might take. Then I heard him calling for Pastor Mountain. I went out to see him and two native chiefs on horseback and two village headmen on foot.

I said, "Good morning Mr. . . " He replied, "Good morning Pastor Mountain. I've come to find out what you are doing here without my permission?" I replied quietly "We have your permission." "No", he said, "Tempasok is not listed in your letter." "That is so", I replied. "But your auswer to that letter did not give us permission to visit anywhere. We showed you another list, which included Tempasok; and you gave us your verbal permission to visit those places." He looked incredulous; so I called Mrs. Mountain to try to locate that sheet of paper. In a minute she had brought it to us, and I handed it to him pointing out the name, Tempasok. Rouvd No. I ours; but plenty of fight left.

"It is reported to me that you have been proselyting in Tempasok." "Nonsense", I replied. "We haven't even seen the village yet. We arrived at this house at 4 p.m. yesterday and have not left the place. We had a meeting here last night. My wife is now treating a few sick, and as soon as she has finished, we leave." Round no. 2 ours; but fight not finished.

"It is reported to me that you require the people to join your mission before you will give them any medicine." I laughed outright, and exclaimed incredulously, "You don't believe that, do you!" He gave a half-hearted "no", as though he wished he could believe it; and Mrs. Mountain tact'ully remarked, "It is not quite that easy to become a Seventh-day Adventist, Mr. . . . "And I continued, "No, indeed! Our people do not smoke, drink, or chew betel nut. Men do not give up these life-long habits without being thoroughly convinced of our teachings; and that takes time. They usually study about a year before being baptized and joining the church." "Oh, alright!" he concluded; and, to his men, "Which way do we go now ?" and they were off. Round no. 3 ours, and fight ended by technical knock-out.

The whole trip was a triumph for the truth. Our people were delighted to see us, and were greatly encouraged and strengthened in the faith. The pagans were suprised, and came to see what it was all about, and were favorably impressed. As we were leaving many of them would say, "Now that we have become acquainted, we like you people very much; please come again." We were away ten days, walking from village to village, teaching them every evening, sleeping in their homes, and treating their sick every morning before proceeding on our way.

After returning home we wrote a brief report to the D.O., giving the names of the villages visited (We did not go to all on the lists for the people came to meet us at more convenient places.) the number of adherents checked in each place, and number of sick treated, adding—

"It was a great pleasure, as well as a duty, to visit these people and encourage them in the Christian line; and we thank you for the courtesy of making this trip possible. . . I think we have discovered the origin of that foolish report you heard about people having to join the mission before we would treat them for any sickness. We record the name, sex, age, symptoms and medication of each patient. This is good ethics and a safe guard to ourselves. We treat them as they come without knowing whether or not they are church members. Doubtless some ignorant person concluded that we were writing their names on our church records as joining the mission. As stated before to you at Tempasok, it is not quite that easy to become a Seventh-day Adventist."

Thus we have made the first real break in the barriers with which Satan has long been restricting our work here. We plan on similiar visits to other places in the near future. We are also working on a memorial to the government urging the abolition of these outmoded restraints on mission work; so that the message of Christ's soon coming may go freely to every tribe and people of North Borneo.

Village With a Hundred Lepers

By R. M. MILNE

No, we didn't see all of them, for the chief had failed to get the word that we were coming, so many were off to their far-away fields. It didn't take long to announce that the doctor and teacher had come. In fact, at the sound of the truck, children came running, two hundred fifty or more of them; and of course their parents came too.

Once a week the mission and hospital staff at Ubol, near the Cambodian border in eastern Thailand, try to visit a village. This one was easy to reach in comparison with some. It was only seven kilometers off the highway with but one river to ford; through the jungle by cart trail with ups and downs, and sand, that only a four-wheel drive handled by an expert could traverse.

It was a busy morning in the hospital that Sunday, but before lunch was over Brother R. C. Hall was ready with his Willys. By three o'clock we were at the village, with our equipment—3 stools, a box, a charcoal stove, a couple baskets of water, and finally a few sheets of paper to wrap pills in. In a shady corner, Dr. G. L. Juler soon had things going. One after another they came; twenty-nine men, thirty-two women, and five babies, with difficiency diseases, worms, ringworms, eye infections, and leprosy. Doctor Juler kept five of us more than busy, but darkness came too soon and we had to stop. While medical aid was being given, Brother Pruie told how God made the world we live in, how man had to give up his beautiful home, and how he may get it all back. It was a new story to them, and they wanted to see each picture in the picture roll and to hear each story.

Of course we promised to come back again as soon as we could. Most of those treated had some money for the injections and pills, and this we gladly received (in all about US$15.00) for every dollar received means more medicine available for others.

There are thousands of villages large and small waiting for healing and light. How can they hear of Jesus when men and means are so limited?!

A Week-end in Bangkok

By W. N. ANDREWS

The compound which houses the Bangkok Sanitarium and Hospital and the Church School is always a busy place. In a city like Bangkok, where the work of both institutions is so definitely of a missionary nature, there is naturally a great deal of concern and interest on the part of the mission workers. for the welfare of students and non-Christian workers. But seldom has that interest and the work that it inspires, seen such fine fruition as was revealed during the week-end of March 5, 6.

The week had been spent in a serious and profitable Week of Prayer, conducted in the Hospital by Fastor R. J. Spangler, Division Ministerial Secretary, and in the school by Pastor Spangler, assisted by Pastor W. N. Andrews of the Malayan Union MV Dept. It was most refreshing, during the week, to participate in the serious prayer bands held by the hospital and mission staff, and to realize how great an interest these workers have in the spiritual growth of the students.

The victories of the week were visible to all on Sabbath morning. Pastor Spangler preached at the morning service, and invited those who wanted to know about Christianity to raise their hands. Theresponse was so fine that a special meeting was arranged for the afternoon, at which time thirty names were received of those who indicated a desire tostudy and prepare for bartism. The morning service was climaxed with a bartismal service when eight young people, from both the school and the hospital, were received into the church. What joy radiated from the faces of those who had labored and prayed long for just such victories as were evident that morning.

Sunday night was the climax of much work on the part of many of the students at the church school. Mrs. Milne and her teachers had planned a campfire investiture service, an innovation in Bargkok. The fire surely gave added insuiration, so long as a suitable distance was maintained! The master of ceremonies was Ei Wu, teacher in the fifth and sixth grades, and retiring Mission MV secretary. He gave fine leadership to the program. The recitation of Bible passages by the pre-Friend classes, and the numbers by the rhythm band, under the direction of Mrs. Irene Jepson, prepared the way for the display by the regular classes of what they had learned.

Special mention should be made of Micky Ning and John Lee, who showed particular ability in the knot-tying race. There was one candidate for the Guide pin, Johnson Wu, who demonstrated his efficiency in bandaging, as well as revealing a good memory by reciting Ps. 19 and 1 Cor. 13. Interesting book reviews by two of the Friends sparked an interest in the MV Book Club selections.

It was especially fitting to have two Master Guides in uniform, Alphonso Mamora and Quang Nguyen to assist in the actual investiture service. As Pastor Andrews presented the pins to the Friends and the one Guide, Mrs. Milne arranged the appropriate class scarf about their necks. They made a beautiful sight, standing near the fire with the bright scarves. After the prayer of dedication, a large number of reading course certificates were presented, and the inspiring investiture service came to a close.

Pray for the work in this center. In few places have I seen such a vital interest and so much work on the part of all for the salvation of those who are under the care of the workers here in both the school and the hospital. This week demonstrated what can be done, under the blessing of God.

A Boon to Every Alert Adventist

That Volume IV of The Prophetic Faith of Our Fathers by L. E. Froom has just been released by the publishers, will be hailed as good news by a large number of our laymen, as well as by all workers. It is now available. The production of this four-volume set constitutes the most extensive research project in our denominational history. It required twenty years to complete it, and necessitated three extensive trips to Europe to compass the old world archives and great book collections, as well as combing all the leading libraries of North America. Even Mexico and South America yielded their quota.

Many thousands of dollars were invested by the General Conference in securing the seven or eight thousand "source" documents—originals, photostats, and microfilm copies—which constitute the matchless Ādvent Source Collection. These are the priceless documents upon which the Prophetic Faith set is based. And many additional thousands of dollars were added by the publishers, and the General Conference, in order to bring th's great project to completion. But the results to date have already fully justified the investment.

These volumes correct the popular misconceptions concerning Adventism. They lift our whole movement—and its fundamental teachings on the seco d advent, eschatology, the prophecies, the Sabbath and Sanctuary truths, and the Spirit of Prophecy— to a new level, and establish their historic soundness and certainty as never before. They remove us from the category of the cults, and establish us as the continuators and ebampions of the soundest and most orthodox interpretations of the Early Church and Frotestant Reformation expositors. They show that we are their spiritual descendants, and const tute the presentday heralds of the truths they once held.

They provide the appealing approach to each leading religious group—Protestant, Cathol'c, and Jew for all major contributions in our interpretation were ant'cipated and introduced by former leaders in these categories.

They provide a particularly favorable approach to all Protestant bodies. for each major group, Lutheran, Reformed, Anglican, Presbyterian, Baptist, Congregational. Method'st, Christian, Disciple—once held what we now hold on many vital interpretations. We are thus able to emphasize points of agreement with their spiritual forefathers, before noting present-day differences caused by modern departures.

They are already in the hands of hundreds of key non-Adventist religious and educational leaders, both in the Old World and in the New, and are now in over 1,000 of the leading university, seminary. college, public, and special private libraries of North America, Great Britain, Europe, and other lands.

They are impressively illustrated with facsimile reproductions of title pages and key extracts from these older expositors, with original portraits of famous interpreters, scenes of historic episodes and dramatic moments specifically painted for this set. They are also an ornament to any Ibrary, as they are attractively bound in green Fabrikoid. Every progressive Adventist needs them.

Published bi-monthly as the official organ of the Malayan Union Mission of Seventh-day Adventists. 399 Upper Serangoon Road, Singapore 13, Asia.

By Paying Tithe We Acknowledge All Things Belong to Him

"Of the tree of knowledge of good and evil they were not to eat. This tree God reserved as a constant reminder of His ownership of all. Thus He gave them opportunity to demonstrate their faith and trust in Him by their perfect obedience to His requirements.

"So it is with God's claims upon us. He places His treasures in the hands of men, but requires that one-tenth shall be faithfully laid aside for His work. He requires this portion to be placed in His treasury. It is to be rendered to Him as His own; it is sacred, and is to be used for sacred purposes, for the support of those who carry the message of salvation to all parts of the world. He reserves this portion that means may ever be flowing into His treasurehouse, and that the light of truth may be carried to those who are nigh and those who are afar off. By faithfully obeying this requirement, we acknowledge that all pelongs to God." 6T 386.
