December 1, 1965

Elder L. C. Evans, president of the Southwestern Union Conference, has announced this week that the denomination's top executive and Autumn Council action has voted the largest budget in the history of the church.

L. C. Evans

Elder Evans reported that the 1966 budget for the church's world program had been set at $39,445,732.00.

This passes by $4,699,731.00 the budget that was voted last year. Of this large amount, $24,904,000.00 is slated for the denomination's overseas mission work which is carried on at the present time in 189 countries.

Among items listed on the budget was $80,000.00 for a servicemen's center in Washington, D.C. Many of the Adventist servicemen are stationed at Washington during some part of their military service because of their close association with the medical branch of the armed services. Financial support was also given to many projects of the Southwestern Union as well as the other nine unions located in North America.

Other items listed ranged all the way from $200.00 for classroom equipment in the Gitwe, Africa, mission school to $73,800.00 toward a new hospital building in Ethiopia.

Other actions of the five-day council saw a stepped-up program of recruitment for nurses and other medical personnel to staff the Adventists' worldwide chain of hospitals and clinics. The council was fully aware that if the denomination was to retain a high percentage of Adventist personnel on its medical staffs, a definite program of promotion and recruitment would need to be carried out. The Autumn Council action looks to the appointment of special recruitment officers on both the union and General Conference level.

Plans were laid looking to the expansion of vocational and technical training on the junior college level on denominational campuses. To provide such training, the possibility of expanding some of the church's larger academies to junior colleges will be studied.

The council re-emphasized its stand on equality of the races with dialogues and pulpit exchanges being added to the existing integration program of the church.

Strong support was given to the denomination's monthly and bi-monthly journals that are doing an effective job in disseminating vital information to both members of the church as well as non-Adventists.

Some 100 officials of the church from across the United States and Canada attended the five-day annual business meeting in Washington, D.C., at the church's world headquarters, during October 18 - 22.

Basic and Advanced Instruction Given to Pathfinder Leaders in Joint Program

Four conferences of the Southwestern Union joined together in a full weekend of instruction for Pathfinder leaders at Lone Star Youth Camp, October 22 - 24.

Seventy-five youth leaders from Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Louisiana received excellent instruction from authorities in nature, crafts, and training techniques, and at the same time enjoyed a full weekend of relaxation and outdoor life in the youth camp facilities of the Texas Conference.

Although programs of this type are held periodically in individual conferences, this was the first time in several years that several conferences could come together in a mutually sponsored training program under the direction of their conference missionary volunteer leaders.

The Pathfinder program is part of the youth training received by Adventist youth, and it is designed to foster a spirit of social life based upon nature, crafts, and outdoor activities for the young people of our churches. This work is most important in a day of a high-crime rate and juvenile delinquency. The missionary volunteer team of the Southwestern Union is dedicated to the salvation of young people and is constantly working at ways to keep a living Christian experience alive in the hearts of the youth today.

Construction Continues on Southwestern Union College Science Building

Construction work at the new science building, located on the campus of Southwestern Union College, continues at a fast pace. Here Elder L. C. Evans, president of the Southwestern Union; and Elder J. N. Morgan, director of public relations, view one of the large concrete columns that has just been poured which will help support the massive structure.

Although the work on the new science building had been delayed temporarily, due to construction difficulties, a full crew of workmen are now busily engaged in erecting the foundation and preparation of the first floor. Here Andy Lindelow, construction worker, explains to Elder L. C. Evans, president of the Southwestern Union, some of the intricate details in operation of large earth-moving equipment at the site of the construction. This new building will add to the growing number of modern buildings on the campus of Southwestern Union College and upgrade its facilities for a continual expansion of its educational program.

College, Keene, Texas, and Union College, Lincoln, Nebraska, Brother Reed received his degree in business administration in 1956 and has been employed most recently in Midland, Texas, as an accountant for the Texaco Corporation.

A native of Dallas, Texas, he is married to the former Nettie Muse, of Lubbock, and they have two children, Dana and Donna.

We welcome Brother Reed and his family to Richardson and to the responsibility that he carries with Home Health Education Service that now handles customer accounts that exceed 10,000 customers. The Home Health Education Service is set up to service the literature evangelists of the Southwestern Union, making it possible for them to have a more stable financing system for the sale of Christian literature and gives the customer the opportunity for time payment plan which greatly enhances the sale of good books in larger quantities. LLU Enrollment Reaches All-Time High; Southwestern Union Well Represented Thirty-five Southwestern Union Conference students are among the total fall enrollment of 1,146 at Loma Linda University.

The union total includes students from Arkansas-Louisiana Conference, four; Oklahoma Conference, six; Southwest Region Conference, one; and Texas Conference, 24.

Registrar Herbert A. Walls says the figure is the highest ever recorded at first-semester registration for the school.

"Enrollment has jumped 50 per cent since 1955," he reports. "Seventy-six of the students counted this year are in undergraduate professional curriculums that weren't even established ten years ago — dental hygiene, occupational therapy, and medical record administration."

A breakdown of the current figure for total enrollment shows 342 in the School of Medicine, largest of the university schools, and 221 in the School of Dentistry. In the Graduate School 116 students are enrolled, including candidates for Master of Arts, Master of Science, and Doctor of Philosophy degrees in liberal arts, basic science, and professional fields.

Eleven students have entered the graduate-level program for dietetics internship offered by the School of Nutrition and Dietetics, and 14 have begun work for certificates in the Radiologic Technology Curriculum.

Enrolled in programs leading to the four-year Bachelor of Science degree are 50 women in the Dental Hygiene Curriculum, eight in the Medical Record Administration Curriculum, 18 in the Occupational Therapy Curriculum, 19 in the School of Medical Technology, 195 in the School of Nursing, 85 in the School of Physical Therapy, and 67 "special" and unclassified students.

Loma Linda University has no freshmen in its undergraduate schools. Students entering any of the bachelor's-degree programs must first have completed prescribed studies at another college or university, the registrar continues.

Fulfillment of these requirements varies from one to three years, depending upon the school being entered at Loma Linda. Thus, for example, students of nursing, having completed one year of college studies, enter Loma Linda University as sophomores, and students of medical record administration, with three required college years behind them, enter at Loma Linda as undergraduate seniors, Mr. Walls explains.

Nine hundred of the university students are registered on the home campus at Loma Linda. Of the others, 25 are serving senior medical clerkships at Riverside County General Hospital, Riverside, California, and the rest are in various study programs at Los Angeles. Loma Linda University maintained a campus and teaching hospital in Los Angeles until December 1963, and continues to offer educational programs there through affiliations with White Memorial Medical Center and Los Angeles County General Hospital.

Southwestern Union Pathfinder Training Camp

1. A young Pathfinder in attendance at the Pathfinder training program at Lone Star Youth Camp is amazed at the large bull snake displayed by one of the instructors during a nature session at the camp. Specimens of many types of animal life were available for study during this weekend of activities.

2. Elder W. D. Welch, missionary volunteer leader of the Arkansas-Louisiana Conference, is thoroughly occupied with the instruction that is being received by a group of Pathfinder leader trainees in the outdoor amphitheater at Lone Star Camp. Although an instructor himself, Elder Welch, along with the other MV secretaries, had opportunity to sit in on various classes and gave valuable assistance.

3. Elder W. E. Burns, missionary volunteer secretary of the Texas Conference, listens to youth leaders give identification of birds located in North America. Color charts of animal life for most species were used as teaching aids.

4. Three of the four MV men in a moment of relaxation look over a nature specimen just brought into the Lone Star outdoor pavilion. Looking at the creature in the jar are Elder W. D. Welch, of Arkansas-Louisiana; Elder Frank Sherrill, missionary volunteer secretary of the Southwestern Union; and Elder William Burton, missionary volunteer secretary of the Texico Conference. Also joining in the activities of the weekend was Elder E. D. Clifford, missionary volunteer secretary of the Oklahoma Conference.

5. Mr. Delano Gilliam, church school teacher of Gentry, Arkansas, instructs a group of Pathfinder leaders in the proper method of mounting insects. Lone Star Youth Camp offers a wide variety of wildlife and many of these insects were captured in a nature walk providing materials for the group to work with.

6. Here a large number of the trainees receive nature instruction and are viewing specimens of wildlife under the direction of Mr. Delano Gilliam of Gentry. The group was divided into two sections that included the basic training for Pathfinder leadership and advanced instruction in methods and activities for Pathfinder clubs.

"THESE TIMES," "MESSAGE"

1965... Best Year in History

R. J. CHRISTIAN, Manager, Periodical Department,
Southern Publishing Association.

Congratulations! My heart is full of joy and gladness today as I give a little summary of the results of our Message and These Times circulation for 1965. Prepare your hearts for great rejoicing.

R. J. Christian

Our Message subscription list for September stood at 40,650, and single copy sales amounted to 61,331, giving us a total circulation for the month of 101,981. This represents a subscription gain over last year of 4,557, single copy gain of 21,659, or a total gain for the year of 26,216. We wish to congratulate every regional conference on this outstanding achievement.

For These Times our subscription list stood at 183,591, single copy sales the month of September 63,111, giving us a circulation for the month of 246,702. This represents a subscription gain over last year (1964) of 31,633, a single copy gain of 24,326, or a total gain for the year of 55,959. This represents a great deal of sacrifice and dedication on the part of our church members in the Canadian, Atlantic, Columbia, Lake, Southern, and Southwestern Unions.

The subscription list of the two journals stands at an all-time high of 224,241, and the total gain in subscriptions and single copies is 82,175. The total circulation for the month of both Message and These Times, subscriptions and single copies, was 348,683.

Now just for a moment consider this. If four on the average read each one of these journals, we had a readership for the month that is almost startling — a record number of 1,394,732 were exposed to these blessed truths through these two great missionary journals.

On behalf of Brother Crofton, my associate, and on behalf of this your publishing house, let me congratulate each of you and thank you for your unstinted support. In return, we pledge you that the church shall through these two journals find substantial and unswerving loyalty to the truths that have made us the people we are. Surely hundreds of thousands are receiving the message in printed form through these two missionary journals.

Congressman McCormack Welcomes Pastor Fagal to Washington, D.C.

Speaker of the United States House of Representatives John McCormack welcomed Faith for Today's Pastor W. A. Fagal to Washington, D. C., recently at the time evangelistic meetings were conducted at the Sligo church. McCormack, who visited briefly with the television pastor in his House office, has made the following statement about the Faith for Today telecast: "America has been well served by the religious telecast program, Faith for Today. I am glad to join the many viewers and well-wishers of the program in congratulating the Seventh-day Adventist Church, which sponsors the program and Pastor and Mrs. W. A. Fagal, whose dedicated labors have been devoted to the planning and conducting of the program.

"In keeping with the best tradition of the radio and television industries, this program has been presented as a public service by numerous television stations; and the sponsors and conductors have been careful to maintain a broad religious appeal, designed for people of all faiths. I am grateful for the contribution Faith for Today is making in America, in strengthening family life, in combating juvenile delinquency, and in helping to build the moral character of our young people. May this valuable service long continue."

Gordon F. Dalrymple, Editor,
Publications, Faith for Today.

Southwestern Union Students Capped at Hinsdale Sanitarium

Four nursing students from the Southwestern Union were capped at Hinsdale Sanitarium, Hinsdale, Illinois, on October 10, 1965. From left to right, Cheryl Dean, Cathy Bledsoe, Patsy Wertz, and Diane Schneider. Cheryl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Dean of Rogers, Arkansas; Cathy is the daughter of Mrs. J. S. Bledsoe, Silsbee, Texas; Patsy is the daughter of Pastor and Mrs. R. G. Wertz, Siloam Springs, Arkansas; and Diane is the daughter of Pastor and Mrs. V. O. Schneider, Corpus Christi, Texas. Cheryl attended Andrews University last year; the other three attended Southwestern Union College. They will graduate in 1967. Parents in attendance at the ceremony were: Mrs. A. R. Dean, Pastor and Mrs. R. G. Wertz, and Pastor and Mrs. V. O. Schneider.

Five Generations Attend West Helena Meetings

The five-generation Jones family attended the West Helena evangelistic effort. Mr. J. R. Jones, now 89, became a Seventh-day Adventist in 1905 and has lived in Arkansas since 1917. Mr. Jones, though a farmer much of his life, colporteur during the years 1908 and 1909 walking and selling large books for $1.00!

Brother Jones canvassed a man plotting in the field. "He acted very interested until I called for the order," explained Mr. Jones, "then he looked me straight in the eyes and said, 'My friend, I don't know that there is a God.'

"I went blank," said Mr. Jones, "I don't remember any more of the conversation but he invited me to dinner. After dinner I did get the order for Bible Footlights. After he read it he had me send a copy to his daughter in Chicago. He accepted the entire message and so did his daughter. Later the daughter married a Seventh-day Adventist and they were sent to South America as missionaries."

Brother and Sister Jones and Brother and Sister O. W. King, Sr., are members of the West Helena church.

West Helena Meetings

The 15-night spring effort in West Helena, Arkansas, yielded six decisions and these four were baptized April 10. Many of the church members traveled as many as 50 miles each night bringing with them a carload of visitors. One or two nights the roads were icy, yet they came. Pastor T. J. Mostert, Jr., directed the music, and his wife, Pauline, played the piano, and A. C. Carlson preached.

Pictured to the right are the first four persons baptized as a result of the evangelistic meetings held in West Helena.

★ Pastor Michael Petricko reports: "The idea of having an end-of-the-month target for baptisms WORKS. Two more were baptized on October 31 at Pecan Park. Five were baptized on September 25. We are using the plan of having the laymen who had a part in bringing the message to the new convert present the candidate to the church congregation and tell briefly of this soul-winning experience. This brings a wonderful, heart-warming response from the people.

★ Pastor Keith Morey and Dr. Herbert Westphal have just completed a successful 5-day clinic in Beeville for those who desire to stop smoking. Pastor Morey reports that "more than fifty per cent of those in attendance were successful in ridding themselves from the chains of tobacco. The people present were a good representation of the businessmen of the area. Not only has the 5-day Plan been a physical blessing to those who participated, but some have already indicated that this experience of overcoming tobacco is an inspiration to make a sincere search for Bible truth. One man said, 'I've heard a lot of stories about you Adventists, but now I know for myself, you help people, and I'm surely glad you are here in Beeville.'"

MV Society Sponsors Music Festival

Many people were heard saying, "It was the most wonderful afternoon!" "The best Sabbath I've enjoyed in a long time;" "Excellent program!" and "Didn't the various groups do a fine job?" These comments, along with others, were referring to the Youth Music Festival held November 6 in the Fort Worth First church sponsored by the MV Society.

The wonderful response given by our schools in this area was very much appreciated. The many hours of hard work on the part of the choir directors, along with the cooperation of the principals and the parents made the program a huge success. A crowd of over 1,100 people filled the church to capacity. Participating groups were from Dallas, Grand Prairie, Weatherford, Keene elementary, and Fort Worth Junior Academy serving Arlington and Handley. Brother W. A. Schram and the Keene Junior Band gave an excellent performance.

We were indeed happy to have Elder Frank Sherrill give a timely message keyed especially to the youth. Elder Theodore Carcich of the General Conference was a welcome visitor and consented to speak to our youth. He challenged the young people to arise and go forth to finish the work.

As the hours of the Sabbath drew to a close one could tell from the happy faces and the good fellowship that it had been good to be there.

MRS. MILFORD O. BROWN,
MV Leader,
Fort Worth First Church.

Introducing . . .

Carol B. Chanslor, ministerial intern, the assistant pastor of the San Antonio Laurel Heights church.

Carol B. Chanslor

Coming from Andrews University, where he spent the past year in study at the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary, Pastor Chanslor is now into his second evangelistic crusade since arriving in Texas in September.

Brother Chanslor was born in Texas, completed his high school studies in Albuquerque, New Mexico, and attended La Sierra College four years receiving his Bachelor of Arts degree in religion in 1964.

While a student Brother Chanslor served as an assistant pastor of the Westminster church in Southeastern California and of the Urbandale church in Battle Creek, Michigan.

Carol Chanslor has already given evidence of his call to the ministry and his love for souls in his faithful ministry in the San Antonio Laurel Heights and Kerrville churches.

The Texas Conference is happy to have Brother Chanslor as one of our fine new workers.

ville, Texas, were the results of a two-week revival conducted by evangelist Bob Thrower, October 2-16. Assisting Pastor Thrower were Pastors A. C. Rawson and C. B. Chanslor. Members from the Laurel Heights Seventh-day Adventist Church in San Antonio provided the special music.

The twenty-six members were faithful in attendance and showed their interest by providing a three-page list of interested friends and neighbors for the evangelist and his assistants to visit. Here was certainly an excellent example of lay evangelism. Only by sharing their faith at work and around the neighborhoods was this list made possible. At the present, five families are being prepared for future church membership. Sabbath dinners consisting of the best in Adventist food were served at the church for the team and especially for the non-members in attendance.

Pastor Thrower's enthusiasm and dynamics certainly kindled new spark and zest in the Kerrville church and they wish to thank all who had a part in making their revival a success.

CAROL B. CHANSLOR,
Associate Pastor.

Brother Clute is not adverse to hard work, for he found this essential in earning three colporteur scholarships in the Upper Columbia Conference. Adding cream to his experience was the teaching of church school in Indiana and North Carolina.

His wife, Sharon, while an LPN, claims that her duties are a full-time wife and mother, caring for Dorrea Lynn, two years; and Thomas Mich-

New Book Announcement

Presidents L. C. Evans and G. H. Rustad are intensely interested in a new publication, Seeking His Lost Sheep, by Fordyce W. Detamore. Probably in every Adventist's heart is an aching for some former Seventh-day Adventist. The problem arises — how can backsliders be reclaimed? How can we avoid enhancing bitterness?

You will find these answers while your love for lost souls increases as you read Fordyce W. Detamore's new book, Seeking His Lost Sheep. Out of his years of experience he tells us how to meet the backslider on his own ground. He sends us to our knees to rekindle that "bring-them-back" flame for loved ones and friends.

Chapel Records Releases Monty Jones Album

Singing evangelist Monty Jones turns his talents to record-making in "I'm Looking Today for Him," a new Chapel Records release.

In a lofty tenor voice, he sings his love for Jesus. The tenderness of the title song, his lilting, joyful treatment of "My Song," the sincerity with which he delivers "Now I Belong to Jesus," and his ability to capture the drama of Christ's sacrifice in "Neath the Old Olive Tree" add up to an inspirational listening experience.

Jones is accompanied throughout the album by his wife, Donna Leach-Jones, at the organ. The singer tastefully blends his guitar with the organ accompaniment in the introduction to "Oh, Jesus, I Have Promised."

Jones began his musical career at the age of thirteen playing guitars with dance bands. But when he was converted to Adventism five years later, Jones decided to dedicate his talents to the service of God. He graduated in 1957 from Pacific Union College, Angwin, California, with a degree in theology.

Jones has for the last six years served as an evangelist first in Oregon and now in Indiana, where he is associated with evangelist Clifton

The Question Clinic

Question: My child seems to be tired so much of the time. I am careful not to give her too much to do, for when she comes home from school she seems to be exhausted. I usually let her rest until supper time. She gets plenty of sleep every night too.

PARENT 1: It isn't normal for a child to be tired a great deal of the time. I would have the doctor give her an examination. If the child suddenly develops a tired feeling without any apparent reason, she could be coming down with the measles, the mumps, or something. If the tired feeling lasts over a period of weeks, a thorough medical checkup certainly would be in order.

PARENT 2: Give her some work to do. If she isn't sick, inaction will make her tired. Children who watch TV for hours and feel abused when asked to do some little chore are the ones who are tired, not the ones who are doing something worthwhile. Work is essential for physical, mental, and spiritual life. Work that tired feeling out of her.

PARENT 3: I would certainly look into her moral habits. The book, Child Guidance, says, "Idleness leads to the indulgence of corrupt habits. Industry does not weary and exhaust one-fifth part as much as the pernicious habit of self-abuse." (page 462)

Question: My fourteen-year-old son seems to be so cross these days. When I speak to him I have to be so careful not to "light a fuse." Often I will go ahead and do the little chore myself rather than "disturb" him. I don't mind doing these things, but I am wondering whether he should be so cross.

PARENT 1: Put him to work. Even the best of teen-agers get cross when they have nothing to do but watch TV. No red-blooded youngster can be happy when he is idle a great deal of the time. He needs and wants to take responsibility. The happy boy is the one with a worthwhile job and the cheerful girl is the one who is busy. Of course, even a good thing can be overdone and some people do overwork, but in this day and age those cases are rare. Notice when you will, the fellow on a tractor is usually much happier than the fellow on a motorcycle.

Say That Again

"If we teach our children to be industrious, half the danger is over, for idleness leads into all manner of temptation to sin." Child Guidance, page 189.

PARENT 2: I have noticed that when my teen-agers are up later than usual for any reason they are likely to be cross the next day. Loss of sleep does affect their disposition. That is why I insist on their going to bed at a reasonable hour every night. From experience they have learned that when they are cross, they are sent to bed earlier. Usually a simple reminder like, "Well, it looks as if someone is going to bed earlier tonight," tends to sweeten them up immediately.

PARENT 3: Teen-agers want to know the "shortcuts" to success and I think that we as parents should show them to the very best of our ability. A cross person doesn't get his way as often as one with a sweet disposition. One kind word accomplishes more than 100 cross ones. A smile persuades another better than a fist. You see teen-agers are now in the habit-making age, and forming the habit of being cross is in reality weakening one's ability. Smiling and speaking in a pleasant tone of voice are signs of strength and power.

Question: Should a child obey instantly or is it normal for him to finish what he is doing before he does what you have asked him to do? My child does not plan to disobey. He intends to do exactly what I have asked him, but it takes him so long. Am I impatient?

PARENT 1: I find that if I stop and look right at him after I have told him to do something, it is more effective than anything else. He knows that I expect him to do what I have asked him to do. Expectancy is the key.

PARENT 2: I think it is only fair that the child not only hears but that he understands what he is to do. I try to make my requests few and state them simply. I find that it is much better to make one request and see that it is obeyed than to make two or three requests and only one of them is carried out. I also find it helps if he looks me in the eye when I tell him what to do.

PARENT 3: When my child does not come the first time I call, I go after him and lead him by the hand into the house without saying a word. Then I tell him to sit right there until he can come when he is called. A few times like that was all he needed.

Tiny Thinkers

The teachers had gone to teachers' institute. A little first grader explaining why he was out of school said, "The teachers have gone on an innocent toot."

OBITUARIES

ANGLIN, Wilford A., was born December 17, 1925, in Ninnekah, Oklahoma, and was reared in Chickasha. He was found dead in his motel room in the town of Ozona, Texas, on October 28, 1965, where he had delivered $1,200 worth of our precious literature during "Big Week."

"Red," as he liked to be called, upon hearing the Adventist message was opposed to it, but when he finally did accept it, put his whole heart and efforts into the Master's service. He entered the literature ministry in the Oklahoma Conference August 5, 1961, and was successful right from the start. March 9, 1964, he accepted the challenge of being the assistant publishing secretary for the Texico Conference of Seventh-day Adventists. He was a sincere Christian, and was loved and respected by all who knew him. Truly, he fell asleep in Jesus during active duty.

Survivors are: his wife, Winnie, of the home in Midland, Texas; one son, Larry D. of the home; two daughters: Sherry, a student at Sandia View Academy, and Deborah of the home; his mother, Mrs. Vernie Anglin, Oklahoma City; four brothers: Bill and Winford, both of Oklahoma City; Roy of Freeport, Texas; and Kenneth, who is stationed with the Army in Japan; one half-brother, Floyd Anglin, of California; three sisters: Mrs. Odessa Franklin, Blanchard, Oklahoma;

Mrs. Vergie Cavin, Chickasha; and Mrs. Faye Brookshire, Chickasha; and one half-sister, Mrs. Lillie Bowring, Lexington.

Funeral services were held November 1, 1965, in Chickasha, Oklahoma, with interment in the Fairlawn Cemetery.

H. W. Pritchard.

BUNCH, Maggie, daughter of James and Florence McKenna, was born on October 27, 1907, in Fargo, Oklahoma, and passed to her rest on October 29, 1965, in the same community at the age of 58.

On March 24, 1926, Maggie became the bride of Robert L. Bunch. The young couple made their new home near Fargo. To this union were born a son and a daughter.

The year 1944 found the Bunch family attending evangelistic meetings in near-by Woodward. Late in 1944, as the result of these meetings, Maggie was baptized into the Seventh-day Adventist Church by Elder Arthur Kiesz. She remained faithful to that communion until her death.

Sister Bunch will be remembered as a loving mother and good wife.

She leaves the following people to cherish her memory: her faithful husband, Robert; one daughter, Correne, of the home; one son, Melvin, of Woodward; one grandson, Ronnie, of Woodward; three sisters: Edith Rankin, Hutchinson, Kansas; Blanche Murray, Waynoka, Oklahoma, and Lillian Hartness, Hutchinson, Kansas; four brothers: John McKenna, Montazuma, Kansas; Andrew McKenna, Hutchinson, Kansas; Ted McKenna, Alex, Oklahoma, and Kermit McKenna, Butler, Oklahoma; and a host of other relatives and friends.

Gary D. Grimes.

GEORGE, Samuel E., was born on February 24, 1886, in Hastings, Nebraska, and died October 20, 1965. During his early life he lived with his parents in Hastings, and it was here that he married Lidia Meier on May 23, 1909.

In 1911 they moved to the Okeene area and for the past 52 years have lived five miles south and three miles west of Okeene. Two children were born into this family: Delbert E., of Colorado Springs, where he is with the weather bureau; and Mrs. Violetta Plue, Berrien Springs, Michigan, where she is teaching.

Sam George was converted in his youth and became a member of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. He has served the church in several offices, and at the time of his death he was the church treasurer.

Survivors are: his wife of the home; his son and daughter; three grandchildren; and three sisters: Mary Oblander, Okeene, Oklahoma; Sarah Smith and Priscilla George, Wichita, Kansas.

OWEN, Anna nee Fast, was born on August 4, 1892, at Pierre, South Dakota, and passed this life October 26, 1965, at Shawnee, Oklahoma, after a brief illness. At the age of eight she with her parents, Abraham and Anna Fast, moved to Hitchcock, Oklahoma. On March 21, 1908, she was united in marriage to Frank Herriman and to this union one son and three daughters were born. In November of 1945 she married O. S. Owen and moved to Enid, Oklahoma. Several years ago, Mr. Owen preceded her in death.

In 1934 Sister Owen accepted Christ as her personal Saviour and through baptism became a member of the South-ard Seventh-day Adventist Church. Last February Sister Owen moved from Enid to Shawnee and became a member of the local Seventh-day Adventist Church of which she was a faithful member at the time of her death. Because of her active labors and faithfulness in church work, she will be greatly missed. She rests from her labor, but her influence will continue to live on.

Survivors are: one son, Clifford Herriman, Pendleton, Oregon; three daughters: Mrs. Mayme Stuteville, Parsons, Kansas; Mrs. Zada Van Cleave, Aberdeen, Washington; and Mrs. Edythe Phipps, Kansas City, Kansas; two brothers: John G. Fast, Bentonville, Arkansas; and Edwin A. Fast, Watonga, Oklahoma; eleven grandchildren, and eleven great-grandchildren.

Interment was in Fairview Cemetery, Shawnee, Oklahoma. James Hold.

TANNER, Margaret, was born August 5, 1877, and passed to her rest August 21, 1965. She was laid to rest in the church cemetery of the Bonnerdale, Arkansas Seventh-day Adventist Church. Surviving are three sons: Milton, James, and Minton; two daughters: Mrs. Aldrich and Mrs. Johnson; 18 grandchildren, 39 great-grandchildren, and two great-great-grandchildren. Sister Tanner was a faithful member serving in many offices in the church. She awaits the second coming of the great Lifegiver. Elder V. O. Schneider ministered at the service.

V. G. Green.

WEIS, Ezra, the son of George and Mary Weis, was born in Kansas, September 26, 1889, and passed away in Oklahoma, November 9, 1965, at the age of 76 years.

Mr. Weis lived in Hitchcock all his life. On November 25, 1954, he was married to Sarah Bernhardt. They made their home in Hitchcock and have been in the general store there for many years.

He was a member of the Hitchcock Seventh-day Adventist Church as long as there was a church organization there. At the time of his death, he was a member of the East Cooper church. Through the years he has served in different church offices, being elder for many years. He also served the community in which he lived as mayor of Hitchcock.

He is survived by his wife, Sarah, of the home; one brother, George Weis of Enid, Oklahoma; one stepdaughter, Betty Bernhardt of Enid; and many other relatives and friends.
