New Film Promotes Soul Winning

A new 16 mm film entitled Seedtime and Harvest, produced by the Lay Activities/Personal Ministries Department, has now been released for the world field. The film is accompanied by a small manual which is used in conjunction with the film to lead the local church into a discussion of three main issues: (1) The Principles of Growth, (2) Territorial Assignment, and (3) Time Commitment.

In harmony with the Caring Church theme of the 80's, Seedtime and Harvest, leads the membership to consider the steps in successful soul winning for the Lord. During 25 minutes of inspirational narration the audience is led to experience new meaning and application to Jesus' parables about seed sowing, plant nurture, and harvesting. Church members are asked to consider which awareness activities, entry events, or soul preparation activities would be most appropriate for their church, their skills, their community. Then it moves on to ask them to consider what seed-sowing activities could be tried in their area. Following that, it moves into nurturing activities for the new interests and for those who are baptized.

Is it necessary that soil preparation, seed sowing, and plant nurture be planned for, or do these events just happen? These questions plus many more are cared for in a beautiful manner by the film under the first section, Principles of Growth.

The next section covers Territorial Assignment. Territorial Assignment is a part of the fabric of our society. Every nation is sensitive to the exact location of its borders and guards its sovereign territory. Modern business functions by assigning specific territory to its sales and delivery personnel. Every homeowner is aware of the exact location of his property boundaries. The same principle applies to the church. The gospel commission has led to territorial assignment at every level of denominational work. The ultimate objective is to take the gospel to everyone everywhere. We have done well at the division, union, and conference levels, but churches often do not know their territory. Then when we move one step further, the personal member in most cases has no understanding that a specific territory belongs to him.

It is an interesting fact that territory is the final issue in the proclamation of the gospel. "And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come." Matthew 24:14.

The third section of the film has to do with Time Commitment. Every goal that you set in this life requires time commitment. If you want to learn to swim, fly a plane, play the piano, become a dentist, get a college education, a time commitment is involved. If we want to win souls for the Lord, it will also take a time commitment. But, of course, we're all so busy, how can we do any more? That is the point. That is the very reason that a time commitment must be made, so that a proper portion of our time can be given to the Lord's work.

The film is now available in English, and within the very near future will be available in Spanish, French, and Portuguese. Other languages will be dubbed in as the world church asks for them. The film is obtainable from the local conference Personal Ministries secretary for use in your church.

As the Lord promised Noah, while the earth remains, seed-time and harvest shall not cease.

African Children Need Clothes

The Adventist Development and Relief Agency (ADRA) plans to collect children's clothes from Adventist Community centers across North America. The Agency is also looking for tents and trucks, and well-diggers who are able to serve in Ethiopia. "The situation is desperate," said Lee Grady, director of material resources for ADRA. "Over 500 children die in Africa every hour."

Church members in Michigan and Northern California conferences have collected enough clothes for 80,000 Ethiopian children. The members from Chico, California, notably gathered 105 boxes of clothing.

This is the initial response of Adventist Community Services to the call by the United Nations Secretary General, Javier de Cuellar for all charitable organizations to participate in a large scale clothing drive for African children. Five million African children are expected to die of starvation this year, most of whom have little, if any, clothing.

Voice of Prophecy Offers Soul-Winning Supplies

Church members' outreach to their neighbors will be aided by several items available from the Voice of Prophecy.

The national radio log lists 250 stations carrying the daily broadcast and nearly 500 for the Sunday broadcast. This pocket-size booklet is especially useful when traveling or when writing to friends in another state.

This year's enrollment card features on the cover a photo of a father helping his little girl tie her shoelaces, along with the headline, "You Can Learn at Any Age." Inside, the reader is promised, "answers to life's most important questions" about such topics as suffering, life after death, Bible prophecies, and healthful living. The card offers the New Life Bible Guides for adults, as well as other series for juniors and youth.

The Soul-Winning Kit includes several copies of the first lesson in the New Life series, a radio log, a "God Loves You" pin to wear as a conversation starter, and some hints on how to effectively present the lessons to friends or even strangers.

"We hope every Adventist member is actively witnessing to those they meet in their daily living," says H. M. S. Richards, Jr. "And we want to make available practical items to use. Every day, we receive letters from persons who have found new meaning for their lives because someone invited them to listen to a broadcast or enroll in a Bible course."

Radio logs, enrollment cards, and Soul-Winning Kits are available by writing: Voice of Prophecy, Box 55, Los Angeles, CA 90053.

HANDCRAFTED CLOCK — Clare Bishop (right), stewardship director at the Voice of Prophecy, presents H.M.S. Richards, Jr., a handcrafted clock featuring the logo of the radiobroadcast. To emphasize the worldwide scope of the VOP, Elder Bishop made the clock from 21 kinds of wood from various continents and islands. Visitors will see the clock in the lobby of VOP headquarters in Newbury Park, California. Elder Bishop's hobby is making intricate clock designs and furniture from exotic woods.

Faith For Today Honors Ben Leach

On July 9, Dan Matthews, executive director of Faith For Today, presented a plaque to Ben Leach, president of the Southwestern Union. The award was in gratitude "for his timely, supportive efforts in behalf of the international television outreach of Faith For Today." Leach is a member of the board of directors of Faith For Today.

The presentation was made at a special dinner in Fort Worth in honor of the union president, attended by church, business and civic leaders of the area.

Seminary Students Get Field Experience

Pastoral Formation is not just another classroom experience at the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary at Andrews University. It is a new and challenging approach to ministerial training, according to Clarence Gruesbeck, associate professor of church ministry and director of the program.

Each student is assigned to a "growth-action group" which is made up of the students assigned to a particular church, the pastor of that church and a faculty advisor. This group meets every Monday morning from September until May for Bible study, prayer, and discussion of ways to better serve the church both now and in the future.

"First-year students are engaged in inreach types of activities," Gruesbeck said. These are programs and events meant to reach or involve church members." The students are required to attend as many different committee meetings as possible and any other church functions they can to learn how the church operates internally," Gruesbeck pointed out.

"Second-year students work in outreach types of activities," he said. Examples of outreach activities are evangelistic meetings, Revelation seminars, Five-day plans, community needs surveys, Bible studies, and other programs designed to reach out and share the Good News of the gospel and the message of Jesus' soon coming.

Thirteen students and Elder Don Driver of the Berrien Springs Village Church are working toward establishing a new church in St. Joseph, Michigan. They began last fall by going door-to-door searching for people interested in Bible studies.

Then in January, six simultaneous Revelation Seminars were held. The response was terrific.

The seminars began with a total attendance of more than 100. When the seminars were over, the first week of May, more than 125 had completed the entire course. These people are being nurtured in their newfound faith by the students who are conducting Daniel Seminars. All the students have shown a great level of dedication throughout the entire year.

Pastoral Formation is training student pastors in the day-to-day workings of the church on every level. "Our goal is to send out competently trained workers. Of course, there is always more to learn," Gruesbeck said. "That is what makes ministry so exciting."

FFT Special Will Show in New Orleans

Family relationships are on the line in a one-hour special Faith For Today will air in New Orleans, Saturday, August 25 at 7:00 p.m. on WVUE.

So Near, So Far is the story of two families that finally face up to long-time misunderstandings and learn what it takes to forgive and forget.

The purpose of the prime-time special, according to Dan Matthews, FFT director/speaker, is to access the large general television audience in a major market. The program will air on channel 8, the ABC network station with an average daily audience of 324,000.

"In other major cities this program has drawn an audience five to seven times that of the typical religious program," adds Matthews. "Using a story format draws in many of the 94 percent of the television audience who do not usually watch religious television."

The complete package includes a number of Seventh-day Adventist image spots and two Christian Record Braille Foundation commercials. There will also be four commercials offering the viewer a free book entitled, How You Can Live With Stress. Viewers will have the option of calling a toll-free number or writing for the book offer. As an additional follow-up, viewers will be invited over the phone and through a flyer in the book to attend stress management seminars arranged by area Adventist churches.

Southwestern Names Two Vice Presidents

New vice presidents for academic and financial affairs were named at Southwestern Adventist College May 24, by the board of trustees meeting in special session.

The new officer for academic affairs is Harold Wright, 41, assistant professor of physics since 1981. He replaces Gerald Colvin, who is returning to classroom teaching.

The new officer for financial affairs is David M. Hope, 48, student finance manager and associate vice president since 1982. He replaces Marvin Anderson, Southwestern's new president.

In announcing the choices, the board chairman, B. E. Leach, said "We feel very fortunate to secure the services of these two outstanding men. The future has never looked so bright at Southwestern Adventist College."

Wright came to Southwestern in 1978 as dean of men after ten years as a senior nuclear physicist at the White Sands Missile Range in New Mexico. As vice president, he will also hold the title of dean of students. He will carry the responsibility for the instructional program of the college, serve as executive officer in the absence of the president, make recommendations for faculty appointments and promotions, and serve as chairman of a number of committees.

A native of Luling, Texas, Hope has served at the college since 1963, first as head of the custodial department, and since 1967 as student aid director, then as assistant and associate vice president. In his new position, he will be chief business officer of the college, carrying out the financial policies, administering the physical assets and all income and expenditure, and controlling all business activities.

Born in Paradise Valley, California, Wright holds the doctor of philosophy degree in astrophysics from Texas Christian University. His dissertation, "Gravity in One Dimension: A Dynamical and Statistical Study," has been published in Physical Review, the journal of the American Physical Society, and was read by Wright last summer at the 15th International Conference of Statistical Physics and Thermodynamics in Edinburgh, Scotland.

He also holds the bachelor of science degree in physics from La Sierra College, Riverside, California. He is a member of Sigma Xi Research Society, the American Association of Physics Teachers, and the American Association of Administration Science. While living in New Mexico, he was a member of the Texico Conference committee. He is also leader and banjo player in Southwestern's Bluegrass band, Cottonwood.

Hope holds the master of education degree in student personnel services from Texas Christian University, and the bachelor of business administration from Texas Wesleyan College. He is also a Southwestern alumnus, having received the associate degree in 1965 when the school was still a junior college.

Wright is married to the former Cheryl Woertz, a fourth-grade teacher at Keene Adventist Elementary School. They have two sons.

Hope is married to the former Marjorie Vinyard, a first-grade teacher at Mound Elementary School in Burleson. They have four daughters.

Chemistry Professor Honored

Barbara Crutch Jones, associate professor of chemistry at Southwestern Adventist College, has been named a Piper Professor for 1984 by the Minnie Stevens Piper Foundation of San Antonio.

The prestigious award was announced May 1 by Donald McAdams, (then) college president. The award has been given annually since 1958 to ten top professors at accredited colleges and universities in Texas.

It carries with it a $2,500 honorarium, a gold commemorative pin, and a certificate attesting to the selection.

According to the Piper Foundation, the selection committee "seeks out the well-rounded, outgoing teacher, devoted to the profession, who has made special impact on his students and the community."

In announcing the award, Dr. McAdams, said that "Dr. Jones has brought great honor to Southwestern Adventist College as the institution's first Piper Professor."

In his nomination, Gerald Colvin, vice-president for academic affairs, rated her "superior as a teacher and scholar, and very superior in her contributions made to the achievement of the purposes of the institution."

Before coming to Southwestern in 1977, she served as assistant director of the American Foundation for Negro Affairs, where she managed a program of tutorials and preceptorships for black high school students, preparing them to pursue medicine as a career. "The program is an attempt to alleviate the shortage of black doctors," she explains. "At the same time, there is a great desire to improve the quality of health care in the minority communities."

Prior to her work with the AFNA, she served as a chemistry instructor in the New Orleans school system; and as a research biochemist for the Dow Chemical Company, Tuskegee Institute, the District of Columbia, and Alabama A & M College.

She holds the doctor of philosophy degree in biochemistry from Howard

Computer Project Launched at OAA

An Ozark Adventist Academy, Student Association-sponsored fund raising campaign, has made possible the recent addition of a computer laboratory for the use of the OAA students. Purchased were five Radio Shack, Model IV, TRS-80, double-disk drive computers and one Epson FX-80 printer. Additional equipment is anticipated.

The computer equipment will make possible the addition of a computer programming class to the curriculum, and word processing functions to the existing secretarial science program. Accounting classes will benefit by the addition of automated accounting to supplement standard normal procedures. While the initial computer usage will emphasize programming, word processing, and accounting, later uses could include computer assisted instruction, remedial training, or course enrichment. The computers can also be connected to telephone lines, allowing access to other data bases.

The fund raising campaign consisted largely of letter writing by students to alumni, family members, and friends. Students were assigned to groups according to each student's home state. The groups then competed throughout the campaign for most letters written and for most funds raised.

The Louisiana team took top place, earning $67.89 per capita, Arkansas village students placed second with Arkansas dorm, Oklahoma and Texas following. Top individual fund raisers were Duane Grove, who raised over $1,500 and qualified for a ski trip or the cash equivalent; Shelley Melton, who raised over $1,000; and Perry Pollman and Jana Sasser with over $750 each. Students who earned $100 or more for the campaign were given a trip to Woodland Hills Mall in Tulsa, while those who had earned $250 or more received the trip plus a dinner at Chi-Chi's Restaurant. Other prizes were awarded throughout the campaign.

The campaign which netted over $11,000 before expenses, was led by Perry Pollman, Student Association president, with assistance from a steering committee consisting of Pollman, Gary Sudds, principal; Kenneth Jameson, business manager; Kenneth Finnell, math teacher; and Raymond Davis, Student Association sponsor. Leadership was also given by the S.A. officers and student group leaders.

The student group leaders were as follows: Louisiana, Tamara Koehn and Scott Sanchez; Arkansas Dorm, Judi Sykes and Perry Pollman; Arkansas Village, Robin Engel and Kevin Abrahamson; Oklahoma, Stephanie Holton and Aaron Moses; Texas, Tammy Pitre and Philip Taglavore.

This project is viewed by the students and faculty as only the beginning of what could be a more extensive program of computer technology to prepare the students for new work and college entrance requirements.

According to Perry Pollman, "The students hope that their efforts and the generous contributions of alumni, family members, and friends will motivate additional contributions of funds and equip this critical technology program." A complementary fund drive by the OAA Alumni Association will provide additional equipment.

Student Association Sponsor.

Dallas Fellowship Opens New Church

The need of a second church in Dallas has been the topic of discussion for years, because of the rapid growth of the metropolitan area. A group of the City Temple members, with a taste for adventure, decided to accept the challenge. The Dallas Fellowship church was organized March 21, 1981. Three years passed quickly, filled with disappointments, heartache and a constant change of address. But the group was growing, raising funds, and increasing in faith.

A milestone was reached when a desirable parcel of land was purchased. The Denominational builders, the Nebraska constructors, came and joined hands with conference administration and the Dallas Fellowship building committee.

The building completed, the pastor, L. D. Henderson, and the congregation gathered with guests for a grand opening on May 6, 1984. W. C. Jones, Southwest Region Conference president, delivered the message. Helen Turner, conference treasurer, appealed for gifts, and M. M. Young, conference secretary, offered prayer. Other guests for the occasion included: E. W. Shepherd from the Southwestern Union Conference; three former pastors, J.M. Phipps of Atlanta, Georgia, J. R. Ellis of Houston, Texas, and J. W. Thomas of Muskogee, Oklahoma.

The new sanctuary has a blue color scheme, including blue cushioned pews. Other features of the building are: air conditioning, a fellowship hall, a mothers' room, pastor's study, secretary-treasurer's office, kitchen, four classrooms, and two vestibules.

Oakwood Starts Work-Education Plan

There will be a colorful new look at Oakwood this fall. The Board of Trustees in its May 22-24 session voted that work become a formal part of the curriculum. This work-education plan is a bold and imaginative attempt by Oakwood to fully embrace the counsel of Ellen White regarding the place of labor in Christian education while at the same time helping to hold costs to a reasonable limit.

In the words of E. G. White,

Every student should devote a portion of each day to active labor. Thus habits of industry would be formed and a spirit of self-reliance encouraged, while the youth would be shielded from many evil and degrading practices that are so often the result of idleness. And this is all in keeping with the primary object of education, for in encouraging activity, diligence, and purity, we are coming into harmony with the Creator. Patriarchs and Prophets, p. 601.

Thus, Oakwood College students will be required to complete at least one-half hour of work-education credit each quarter with a maximum of three credit hours allowable per year.

Under this new program, students who work on campus will not be compensated by the hour, but will be given scholarships of $500-$1,000 per year.

In summary, the program is outlined as follows:

Weekly Work Hours	Annual Award	Curriculum Credits
Work Module I 12-15 hours	$1,000/year	1 hour per Quarter
Work Module II 8 hours	$ 500/year	½ hr. per Quarter
Work Module III 4 hours	—	½ hr. per Quarter
Work Module IV Life Experience	—	½-1 hr. per Quarter
Work Module V	—	½-1 hr. per Quarter
Work Module V	—	½-1 hr. per Quarter
Off-Campus Labor	—	—

Students who work off campus may receive academic credit (up to one hour per quarter) with supervised coordination between their employer and the college. Students who enroll with a work history or special skills may fulfill all or a portion of their work-education requirements by applying for (and receiving) "life-experience" credits. (See summary outline below.)

All students entering Oakwood under the 1984-85 bulletin will be required to complete a minimum of six work-education hours for graduation. Current Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors will be required to complete one-half credit hour for each of their remaining quarters. There is no registration fee for these work-education hours and they can be added to the regular 16 hour full-time class load. This allows the student to acquire up to three credit hours each year without cost and at the same time complete his/her graduation requirements in the regular four-year period. Individuals who are approved to work more than 15 hours will be paid hourly wages for the additional time.

All new students for the 1984-85 school year will receive job assignments by mail before arrival in September. Returning students should report to the College work coordinator for assignment.

The faculty, the board, and administrators will spend much of the summer preparing for implementation of the new plan and anticipate huge benefits both for the student and the institute.

Please address all questions and requests to Johnny Johnson, work-education coordinator, Oakwood College, Huntsville, AL 35896.

Even if it were certain that one would never need to resort to manual labor for his support, still he should be taught to work. Without physical exercise, no one can have a sound constitution and vigorous health; and the discipline of well-regulated labor is no less essential to the securing of a strong and active mind and a noble character.

Brownsville to Open New School

Brownsville church members are making plans to open a church school this fall. They have been working transforming the Sabbath School rooms into a school room. One member has a construction company, and has made some beautiful book shelves. The Laredo church donated 250 books, and many others have donated books and equipment.

A church spokesman writes, "Our goal can be summed up in the following quotation, 'Higher than the highest human thought can reach is God's ideal for His children. Godliness-godlikeness is the goal to be reached.'"

Anyone who wants to move to Brownsville, and who has children may now consider moving for they can be admitted to Brownsville Adventist School.

Adventists Help in Cooking School

The Marion County Extension Service presented to the public a cooking school recently on planning and preparing low-cost meals. The cooking school team at the Jefferson Adventist Academy Church was asked to participate in the program.

Ida Robinson, county agent, spoke on basic food needs and cutting costs with homemade mixes. A Jefferson High School teacher presented cutting costs by meat extenders. The Adventist cooking team brought to the group of 20 non-Adventist guests, cutting cost by meat substitutes. Sylvia Downs demonstrated the making of gluten steaks and patties from black eyed peas.

Mary E. Day presented the nutritional value and low cost of soybeans and legumes, seeds and sprouts in the diet. Nuts were also included, even though not as cheap, but because of their nutritional value, are worth the extra cost.

Recipes were handed out, and many non-Adventist people raised questions regard a vegetarian diet and its advantages over meat-eating. The group felt the witnessing was worth the effort.

TEXAS EVANGELISM OFFERINGS HELP FUND THE 1,000 DAYS OF REAPING CRUSADES

- SUGGESTED INDIVIDUAL GIVING FOR EVANGELISM IS ONE PERCENT OF INCOME, (with $100 income, the tithe would be $10, and evangelism $1)
- All evangelism funds are to be remitted to the Texas Conference Office monthly. One fourth of one percent will be used conference-wide.
- All funds above 1/4% will be returned as a dividend check for local church evangelism. (It's like putting money in the bank for future evangelistic needs.) One appeal and one offering raises evangelistic dollars for church and conference. TRY IT, YOU'LL LIKE IT!

THANKS TO YOU, THE PLAN IS WORKING. TEXAS IS A NATIONAL LEADER IN CHURCH GROWTH!

- Fifty-seven new congregations have been established in the past five years.
- Over 1600 souls were won to Christ in 1981 and almost 2,000 baptisms in 1982.

Jefferson Academy Invites Students

Jefferson Adventist Academy is located in the rural secluded East Texas pine forest just six miles north of beautiful Lake of the Pines, where students spend many Sabbath afternoons walking on nature trails or sitting on the lake banks or watching colorful sailboats gliding over the water.

George Parry, academy principal, and all the faculty are looking forward to an excellent school year this fall as plans are made how they can best encourage the students physically, mentally and spiritually.

The scholastic program available at the Jefferson Adventist Academy, if followed, assures the student of meeting graduation requirements, and is State approved.

The yellow brickwork on the front and campus-side of the new administration building has been completed, and the opposite side is almost finished. "It is very impressive the way the new brickwork ties together the old classrooms, the new classrooms, and the new administration building into one," is the comment made by several.

The days are very warm now, and the swimming pool has been painted and is ready and inviting, thanks to Claude Visser, boy's dean.

The campus trees have been trimmed and are waving their fresh green boughs invitingly for you to come to JAA. They add beauty to the academy campus. The birds have never sung sweeter, nor the crickets and frogs croaked louder. The deer peacefully graze at the edges of the woods, as the sun sinks in the west each evening. All is calm and quiet and at peace with God.

This invitation is extended to you, the student, to come, or to you parents to send your precious children to JAA this fall term, August 19, 1984, to enjoy this restful setting and prepare themselves for service to the Master.

Communication Secretary.

Jerry Beem, associate education superintendent of the Texas Conference, spoke at the recent graduation exercise at the New Hope Elementary School. Six of the eight graduates had attended that school all eight years.

The class recently visited Jefferson Academy in preparation for school this fall. They made an educational trip to the World's Fair at New Orleans.

BAPTISM OF 105-YEAR-OLD

Rita Alacala, age 105, was baptized June 15 into the El Paso Five Points Church. She is in good physical and mental health.

Pastor Eduardo Valdes poses with Rita Alacala and her grandchildren, all of whom are members of the Seventh-day Adventist church or are looking forward to baptism soon.

Roswell Holds Vacation Bible School

Over 50 children attended vacation Bible school in Roswell and enjoyed the spiritual blessings, and the involvement in the crafts classes. Friendship was initiated with the pastor of another local church, who brought his son to the classes.

The vacation Bible school has been a source of encouragement and inspiration to the Roswell churches.

Carlyle Raymond, Pastor.

Meetings Held in Sweetwater

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Murrill, Charlye and Billie Smith and Pastor Larry Belknap teamed up with Elder Dale Tunnell for an evangelistic thrust at Sweetwater, Texas, during June.

To date, two have joined the church and eight more have given their lives to the Lord, having made decisions to keep the Sabbath and live a temperate life with God. Fifteen persons are regularly attending the Revelation Seminar, which is being held as a method of following up the evangelistic series.

These are important outreach endeavors for the small church in Sweetwater.

Dale Tunnell,
Ministerial Director.

45 Attend Junior Camp

Enthusiasm overflowed as young people from all parts of the conference met together near Tres Rios, New Mexico, the last week in June for the annual camp.

Dale Tunnell, youth director, was assisted by Bud and Jody McReynolds of Amarillo who served as boy's and girl's directors. Faye Wintermeyer and Mrs. Ralph Novy from Corrales, New Mexico, were in charge of food preparation. Others who helped with classes, crafts, stories, or served as counselors included Pastors Wallace Sullivan and Luis Rojas; Penny and Terri McReynolds; Margo Hobbs; Julie Lane; Trevor Lawhead; George Gutierrez; Frank Moya; and Mary Dunkin.

The Lonely Years

Arthur White, grandson of Ellen White, enjoyed a high day recently when he autographed copies of volume 3 of his Ellen G. White autobiographies for Review and Herald employees, who were among the first to get a glimpse of The Lonely Years. That same day Elder White delivered the manuscript for volume 1, leaving only volume 2 remaining to be written. Volumes 3, 4, 5, and 6 are on the market. According to Ray Woolsey, associate book editor, one of these manuscripts takes a year to complete (allowing time also for members of the White Estate to review the material).

The Lonely Years begins with the death of Mrs. White's husband, James, and goes on to include her travels in Europe and the 1888 Minneapolis Conference. The denomination is fortunate to be able to draw from Elder White's personal acquaintance of Mrs. White, allowing us to review the development of our church through her eyes.

Minute Manna for Marrieds

by CLAIRE EVA

A service provided by: Home and Family Service, General Conference

Something Different

There's something different about our marriage that I hadn't noticed before. Let me explain.

In the last minute rush of leaving the house for school and work this morning, my daughter reminded me that I needed to write an excuse for her flu filled days of absence. My husband, Will, put the last spoon in the dishwasher as I grinned and grabbed his pen from his shirt pocket to write the note.

Later, on the way to school, Will noticed that I had forgotten to give him back his pen. "I don't have my pen!" he complained, "And I don't like to say it, but this happens more often than I would like!"

I defended, "Don't you realize I feel bad enough without your having to say anything more!" I knew the kids and I had violated his right to his pen too many times.

But what about that something different?

Not so very long ago, such an occurrence might have cooled the waters for a couple of hours or more (I sadly confess) — but not this day. Within minutes, seconds really, Will reached over and touched my hand. A new kind of love overlooked the insignificance of the moment. The subject was dropped and forgotten.

It's difficult to say what is making the difference. Perhaps in our midsentence we realize that life is too short to focus on the little botherations. Perhaps forgiveness and acceptance have eeked into the corners of our daily ins and outs. Whatever it is, it is all of grace. And thankfully, for all of us, grace never runs out.

Claire and her pastor-husband, Will, have been married 17 years and have a son and a daughter to complete their family. Claire works as an editor for Home and Family Service.

Upcoming programs and events that may be of interest to Record readers are announced here in brief. Additional information is available as indicated in each item.

R & H offers Computer Games

For years the Review and Herald has provided Sabbath reading and a line of Bible games for Adventist youth. Now modern technology presents another format for these concepts in personal computer software. Soon young computer enthusiasts will have a variety of challenging Sabbath activities to enjoy.

Review computer Bible games are being developed for the Commodore 64, Apple IIe, and Radio Shack's TRS 80. The techniques used in developing these Bible games allow the computer programmer to make the games interactive and challenging. According to Gail Hunt, research and development director, "Random selection will allow the player to play a different version of the game each time. This takes the games beyond the memorization of answers to make learning about the Scriptures an interesting adventure."

The Review will market nine computer games this year. These games may be purchased through Adventist Book Centers after October 15.

a heart-to-heart chat with your union conference president

Where There's A Will

People do what they want to do. There is a host of excuses for not getting done the things we ought to do. But have you considered why so many people keep getting exactly what they want? I'm going to tell you the truth in living color! Take TV. Who can afford a TV? Who has the money? Everybody (nearly) has a TV. They cost from $200 to $2,000. Probably 40 or 50 percent of the people living in the United States can easily afford one or more TV's. But what about the others — those who can't afford one? The answer is simple. TV is, in the minds of most people, a must. So they set their hearts and minds on acquiring one of those one-eyed monsters and before you know it, they have one whether they can afford it or not. They "just couldn't live without a TV." It is an absolute must. So they do without, they sacrifice, they may even half starve, but they have a TV. The same can be said of the telephone.

When people really have a will to do something, they find a way. Doesn't the old adage say, "Where there's a will, there's a way?" It's true.

I used to (as a young man) sell books and pictures down in the coal mining sections of West Virginia. I was always amazed to see some of the luxuries in some of those very poor homes (no more than hovels). Occasionally there was parked outside a shiny new car — sometimes a Buick or even a Cadillac! How could they do it? It was their number one priority. They put everything they had into that shiny hunk of metal with a powerful engine under the hood. It took precedence over everything else. All those beautiful cars are now in the junkyard — long gone. If these people had spent the same money for the education of one of their youngsters, they might have something to be proud of today.

"Once to every man and nation comes the moment to decide," said James Russell Lowell. While a person or a nation may have two or three chances to decide, there is still truth in that statement. Now is the time when many young people in families will be making fateful decisions that will affect their lives for time and eternity. The big question in the month of August in Adventist homes is "Will our children be in the Lord's schools?"

When my son, Benjie, was three or four years of age, he showed signs of stubbornness. Helen and I could not understand where he got a trait like that! We were both so very reasonable! Well, on one occasion I gave him a strict order to come into the house (at once). He stood there in defiance and blurted out, "I will if I don't want to!" He didn't know it, but he uttered a great truth. He didn't want to, but he was soon in that house!

Now for some straight talk. There is nothing — absolutely — nothing — more important than our children and our young people. We are responsible for them and their future in this life and eternally. Their fate is largely in our hands. God holds us responsible for them. Never forget that.

Send those great young people of yours out into the schools of the world and the chances are about 90 percent that they will go to the world. Send them to our Christian schools, all the way K-16 and the chances are just as strong that they will stay in the church. How can you make a wrong decision here? You can't — you just can't.

Another thing, send them to one of the world's colleges during what I call "the marrying age" (age 18 to 25) and they will make lasting friendships and will probably wind up marrying one of the sons or daughters of the world. Do you want that? What to do? Make a decision based on principle and the doors will begin to open.

Southwestern Adventist College lowered tuition this year. Our tuition (due to good management and good industries and a gas well) is about $1,400 less than our other colleges. We still have the excellence, just less cost. We have a top work program. Jobs are available and we have the Youth Action Line. Call Elder Richard Bendall or me at 817/295-0476. You can do it. This will be one of the best decisions you will ever make. Call now. "Where there's a will, there's a way." It's up to you.

Yours for saving all our youth,

B. E. Leach.
