Wave of the Future

One of the greatest surprises in the broadcasting industry has been the resurgence of FM radio broadcasting as opposed to the long-established AM method of signal transmission.

It was long felt that the development of television had doomed all radio to a most insignificant place, and FM radio to oblivion. In fact, there was a time, very recently, when electronic manufacturers actually ceased production of FM transmitters.

But radio has learned to adapt itself to the new situation, and with the popularity of the pocket and portable and car radio, broadcasting by radio has regained a strong "place in the sun." Most remarkable of all is the way in which interest in "Hi-fi" and "stereo" recordings and equipment has resurrected FM broadcasting.

FM broadcasting has distinct advantages over AM broadcasting, being static free, providing a more solid and steady signal in its primary area, and offering a better instrument for the transmission of quality programming. The result is that FM broadcasting is confidently predicted to pass AM broadcasting in its share of the market, and is shortly to become the major and preferred method for radio broadcasting.

WSMC-FM — INAUGURATION

March 21, 1967, was the day on which years and months and weeks of increasingly frantic effort climaxed in the beginning of program testing of WSMC-FM at 80,000 stereo watts on the campus of Southern Missionary College.

The inauguration of the enlarged station brought to the campus Congressman Bill Brock of Tennessee's Third District.
His speech combined with shorter presentations—by the chairman of the Board of Trustees of Southern Missionary College and by the associate secretary of the Radio and Television Department of the General Conference, Elder
W. R. L. Scragg—to highlight the occasion.

In addition, the inaugural ceremonies brought representatives of the Committee of 100, of the broadcasting industry, of the business and professional leadership of greater Chattanooga, and reporters and cameramen from the communications media to this significant event at Collegedale.

FROM SMALL BEGINNINGS

All worthy endeavors tend to have humble beginnings and frequently are the outgrowth of the vision and effort of men who dare to dream and work for the seeming impossible.

The story of the growth of WSMC-FM conforms to such a pattern. Beginning with a few carrier wires strung around the campus and to a few faculty homes, the station went to a 10-watt educational FM status in 1959-60.

At times, station officers were appointed by the Student Association when there was no actual station on the air. But these individuals kept the dream ever before the college, and

WSMC-FM — Friend Winner

Who could ask for a more effective friend winner than a stereo-FM radio station that is free from commercials, that offers a variety of good quality, enjoyable music, and has the youthful personality of student programmers and announcers!

"WE love you! Programs of good music are wonderful!"
—Graysville, Tenn.

"Please put me on your mailing list . . ."
—Non-Adventist minister, Calhoun, Ga.

". . . I am, indeed, enjoying your signal."
—College professor, Auburn, Ala.

". . . You come in loud and clear."
—Druggist, Murphy, N. C.

These are just samples of the hundreds of letters, cards, and phone calls that are coming to WSMC-FM, friend winner for the Southern Union.

ultimately their faith and enthusiasm have been rewarded. The full roster of the pioneers is not available, but such students as Everett Erskine, Fred Eberhardt, Edgel Phillips, Berry Cobb, John LeBaron, John Vogt, Dana Ulloth, and Nolan Darnell played prominent roles in the early development of the station. Technical and engineering help were generously provided by Dr. Ray Hefferlin, head of the SMC Physics Department, and by the late B. B. Barnes, Adventist broadcasting engineer prominent in Chattanooga stations.

The more recent history of WSMC-FM is dominated by the names of the active and creative student managers of the station: Ed Mottschiedler, 1962-63; Des Cummings, 1963-64; Edgel Phillips, 1964-65; Allen Steele, 1965-67 (1st Semester); Jack Boyson, 1966-67 (2nd Semester); and manager-designate for 1967-68, Curtis Carlson.

While the radio station began primarily as an enterprise of the Student Association (to whom all credit must be given for the early vision and effort), its operation soon required the use of the space and equipment of the growing Communications Department of the college, and an ultimate and effective fusion of the two lines of endeavor brought today's modern station into existence.

In the more recent development of the station, members of the staff of the Communications Department have played significant roles. Dr. Gordon M. Hyde, as head of the Communications Department, has given general oversight to the development since 1956. Professor William H. Taylor, currently director of college relations and a teacher in journalism and public relations, was station sponsor in the critical year, 1959-60, when the first FCC license was obtained, and he has been a staunch supporter of every phase of the station's growth. For the past three years of the station's most rapid and significant growth, Mr. James C. Hannum has been a teacher of speech and radio in the Communications Department, and has served as director of broadcasting. More than to any other one person, WSMC-

FM owes its present excellent status to the unflagging efforts of Mr. Hannum.

Closely associated with Mr. Hannum for the past year, in particular, has been Mr. Bob McReynolds, chief engineer for WSMC-FM. The successful installation of the Collins 10 kw transmitter and the hooking up of the remote control equipment are a tribute to Mr. McReynolds' professional services.

The evangelistic potential of WSMC-FM is different from anything that has been tried in the Southern Union to date. While the greater portion of the station's programming is devoted to a variety of good music, news, and educational information, almost one-third of aired time is devoted to religious broadcasting of one kind or another.

Each day the Voice of Prophecy broadcast is aired, and the appealing Time for Singing program, also produced by the Voice. The weekly program from Faith for Today is aired, and the weekly children's program, Your Story Hour, produced in Michigan. The Collegedale church's worship service is aired regularly.

In addition to these Adventist programs, the station carries some selected religious programs from other denominations. Such programs are generally of a devotional nature and non-doctrinal in the main.

The church has long searched for better ways of reaching the educated and professional classes of the general public. Since these classes are the very ones who most appreciate stereo-FM educational programming, WSMC-FM offers a ready-made approach to the finest type of citizen in the South.

It is the strong conviction of the Communications Department of Southern Missionary College that WSMC-FM

A STILL GREATER DREAM

The faculty and students connected with WSMC-FM share a dream. The Communications Department of the college looks to the future. Even though today the signal of this station covers only a small portion of the total area of the Southern Union Conference, many people dream of a day when every corner of the territory can be reached.

This dream of a network of stations to cover the Southern Union is not an impossibility. With financing and some quick and intelligent action, a constant impact of friendliness could be made on the entire Southern Union by Adventist educational FM stations.

A powerful station in Orlando, Florida, and another near Nashville, Tennessee, would go far toward the realization of the goal. FM channels are being snatched up. Plans for future expansion must be made now.

CONSTITUENT SUPPORT —

There are three definite ways by which the effectiveness of the station can and must be increased, and every member of the Southern Union can assist in at least one of these:

1. Tell the millions who live within reach of the station's signal that it is on the air.
2. Help make it possible for the station to begin broadcasting at an early morning hour each day, rather than at 2:30 p.m.
3. Pray that the programming of the station shall steadily increase in its effectiveness in winning friends for Southern Missionary College and for the church which supports the college.

TRY THE FOLLOWING FOR BETTER LONG DISTANCE RECEPTION

1. If your radio is portable or a table model—try turning the radio in various directions, moving to various locations in room, adjust ac cord (coil-stretch straight, etc.) or vary the angle and direction of the whip antenna of a portable.
2. Attach your TV rabbit ears or outside TV antenna to the external antenna taps of your radio or stereo and rotate antenna to a point where WSMC signal is loudest.
3. Have installed a commercial FM directional antenna on a mast 20' or so above your house. (The higher the better. If 20' is good 50' would be much better.) $50 spent here will go a long way toward better reception. See your local (reputable and knowledgeable) TV or Hi-Fi dealer. A good antenna in your attic is a step in the right direction.
4. It is recognized that component type receivers such as Sherwood, Fisher, etc. (with proper antenna) pull in distant signals much better than the console type Hi-Fi-FM system (Magnavox, RCA, Zenith, etc.)

ALABAMA MISSISSIPPI

Investiture Service

JMV Investiture is a time of excitement for boys and girls in the church schools. During the year, they have been reading books, committing Bible texts to memory, tying knots, learning first-aid, taking hikes and filling numerous other requirements.

The school is the scene of as much activity as is found at Cape Kennedy just before "Blast Off." "I've gotta get ready for Investiture," is a common comment.

You can tell from smiles that parents and friends are proud of the youth and their accomplishments. These achievements fill youthful days with fun and prepare them for service in later life.

Mrs. Judith Butzman, teacher in Florence, Mississippi, wrote the following poem, which narrated the Investiture there.

INVESTITURE

Although we are very small, Our Master we will please,

And always work for Jesus when we become BUSY BEES.

Jesus is our Brightest Sun and our Morning Star,

We will reflect His glory when SUNBEAMS we are.

BUILDERS for Jesus we want to be,

Because He died to save us, and set us free.

Soon I will be invested as a FRIEND,

I want to serve my Master until the end.

Time is soon approaching when sin will be no more.

As COMPANIONS we will help others reach heaven's shore.

EXPLORERS brave we'll be and Satan we won't fear,

Jesus leads the way, He's our GUIDE so dear.

Blindfolded, Linda Aldridge tied the ten knots required for Investiture requirements. Mr. Jim Aldridge has just approved the bowline which Linda has made.

Missionary Activity in De Funiak Springs, Florida

At the western edge of the little city of DeFuniak Springs, Florida, in Northwest Florida, located along U. S. Highway 90, is a neat Seventh-day Adventist Church. Though it is small, it is in a prominent location and is well known to the inhabitants of the area. The congregation was raised up about twelve years ago as the result of a very successful evangelistic effort conducted by Elder H. V. Leggett, who was at that time pastor of the Panama City, Florida, district. A number of the members moved away and some have died, and the congregation today consists of the proverbial "faithful few." However, each week they can be found meeting and worshiping together.

On Sabbath, May 20, it was different, however. The Sabbath service is usually conducted in the afternoon, but on this date at 9:30 a.m. Sabbath school was held, and at 11:00 a.m., the preaching service, with over 70 worshippers present. Members from other Seventh-day Adventist churches in the area had driven in to participate in a missionary project. The program was organized under the leadership of Pastor P. E. Anderson of the Panama City church. Members from the Dothan, Alabama, and Pensacola, Florida, districts also participated.

The Sabbath school lesson was taught that day by Elder A. J. Hess, secretary-treasurer of the Alabama-Mississippi Conference, and the eleven o'clock service by Elder W. D. Wampler, conference president. Following the worship service, those present went to a nearby park for the noon meal. At 1:30 they returned to the church where Pastor Anderson explained the missionary activity of the afternoon, assigned territory and gave supplies to each individual participating. Some 40 persons went out two-by-two to call upon homes of people in a Bible survey program and to enroll folk in Bible School lessons.

After one hour of work, everyone returned to the church to tell experiences. Enthusiasm ran high as person after person stood and told what a good time they had and what wonderful contacts they had been able to make and the interest they discovered in the Seventh-day Adventist message.

Everyone felt that this was a highly-successful program; many were eager to continue their visitation, and those from surrounding churches are determined to start the same project.

This is just another step in preparing the city for evangelistic meetings which will be conducted later.

W. D. Wampler, President

News Briefs

▶ Thirty-seven individuals have been baptized as a result of evangelistic meetings conducted in the Mobile, Alabama, church by Elders W. D. Brass, W. G. Zima and A. V. Voorheis. Elder Zima is pastor of the Mobile district and Elder Voorheis of the nearby Prichard district. Several other persons are taking Bible studies, and there will be additional baptismal services.

▶ Academy Days at Bass Memorial Academy, May 7 and 8, brought nearly 100 visiting young people to the school campus. Many of these youth will undoubtedly be enrolled as students next fall. Each minister brought in young people from his district.

▶ Elder G. D. Gunter has been conducting evangelistic services in a rented hall at Andalusia, Alabama. It is hoped that the small congregation in this city can be strengthened as a result of these meetings.

▶ Elder W. H. Patsel reports six baptisms as the result of meetings conducted in the Meridian Seventh-day Adventist Church. An additional baptismal service is planned in a few weeks.

▶ Elder Raymond Roberts is conducting evangelistic services in the Pine Hill, Alabama, church. He has also been conducting services at Argo, Alabama, in an area where once, many years ago, there was a Seventh-day Adventist congregation.

▶ L. A. Ward, pastor of the Floral Crest church on Sand Mountain in north Alabama, reports that the new sanctuary under construction for a second church in the area, is proceeding very nicely. The church will be completed in a few weeks, and a new congregation will be organized.

▶ Elder D. B. Martin, pastor of the Pensacola, Florida, church, reports construction on their new church facility is moving along nicely. A new church school with gymnasium was recently completed and dedicated, and now a sanctuary and Sabbath school classrooms are under construction. The plan includes facilities adequate for this growing congregation.

▶ Elder George Green and conference officers met with the Decatur, Alabama, building committee recently to discuss plans for a new sanctuary. This congregation has met in a private home for eight years and, before that, in various rented buildings. They now look forward to the building of a new church home.

▶ The Gilbertown, Alabama, church is looking forward to the building of a new sanctuary. They have plans to purchase a lot and hope to begin construction in the near future.

CAROLINA

Carolina Conference Reporting

Transformation! That is the word! The transformation on Mount Pisgah Academy campus is of such nature that it almost seems a miracle has been performed. The little old quonset building that served as auditorium, gymnasium and church has disappeared, and in its place is a fine large auditorium that comfortably seats 2,500 people. A ceiling with acoustical qualities, and a sound system that may be clearly heard in any part of the room, make it an ideal place for conference-wide gatherings.

No longer does the auditorium serve as the house of worship for students and faculty and other church members. On the corner of the campus is a beautiful new church. Complete in every detail, its first service will be consecration for the 1967 academy graduates.

The little valley that lay behind the boys' dormitory has been transformed into a large athletic field over 300 feet square. A paved entrance and exit road makes it easy for one to get to the field. A nearby field is being graded and paved to serve as parking space for over 200 cars. This parking lot is across from the entrance to the academy campus. Adequate bathroom facilities are being built adjoining the elementary school. A lovely area has been set aside for those who wish to use their *camp trailers.

Why all of this transformation? For the first time in its history, the Carolina Conference will have its camp meeting on its own ground. Friday night, June 23, Elder R. H. Pierson, president of the General Conference, will bring the first message of the camp meeting. He will also be with us on the Sabbath and again on Sunday.

Elder J. R. Spangler, associate secretary of the General Conference ministerial association, will bring an old-time message with an old-time ring each night. They will be the kind of messages that made us the people that we are. The Voice of Prophecy quartet, with their musical messages of hope and faith, will be with us.

Not only will June 23-July 1 be the time of the annual camp meeting, it will, in a larger way, be the consecrating of a school and of a people.

Did I say that it almost seems that a miracle has been performed? Indeed, one has been performed! The new auditorium has been built; the athletic field where the tents will be located has been prepared; the large parking lot has been developed; the bath facilities have been built; and there is no debt on any of them. God has been good in providing the means. He has promised to be with us at the camp meeting.

Willard B. Johnson, President

*Camp trailers cannot exceed 20 feet in length.

Dormitory rooms or tents will be available for a nominal charge.

New auditorium-gymnasium on the campus of Mt. Pisgah Academy.

Construction is being completed on the new academy church.

RELEASE: ATLANTA, JUNE 1, 1968

The new fabulous $15-million convention complex in Atlanta, Georgia, has been secured for the 1968 Southern Union Youth Congress Spectacular! The congress is scheduled for April 11-13, 1968, and will feature the theme Commitment, '68.

GEORGIA CUMBERLAND

Georgia-Cumberland Conference Evangelism Offering Nets $95,886.65

A thrilling climax to the May 20, $50,000, "1967 Impact Evangelism" offering was report day at the Georgia Cumberland Academy chapel, May 21.

Elder H. H. Schmidt, president of the Southern Union, led out in a devotional period, and Elder J. H. Whitehead, the union secretary-treasurer, presented the men and God's work before the throne of grace.

Now the air became electrified as the conference president, Elder Desmond Cummings, called for the report of the offering taken on Sabbath, May 20. Beginning with the Albany, Georgia, district, each pastor, with his elder standing by his side, gave a ringing testimony of the sacrifice of his people and their willingness to see the work of God go forward in the conference. "Overflow" became the theme of the meeting as district after district reported not only their goal but an abundant overflow as well. Elder C. W. Skantz, secretary-treasurer of the conference, kept a running adding machine total as the reports were given. The meeting became charged with excitement as the report of the Douglasville district was given, and the total passed the $50,000 mark. While the rest of the districts reported, everyone watched with interest as the overflow mounted to the grand total of $95,886.65.

A deep sense of gratitude to God and to the faithful laymen of the Georgia-Cumberland Conference filled every heart as those present sang the Doxology.

Two laymen spontaneously rose to give their testimony. O. D. McKee, of the Chattanooga church, said, "I am thrilled with the aggressive program of evangelism carried on in the Georgia-Cumberland Conference. My wife and I are delighted to have a part in this ever-expanding program of soul winning." Dr. V. R. Bottomly of Greeneville, Tennessee, said, "God has certainly blessed the Georgia-Cumberland Conference, and the laymen believe in the program carried forth. I feel this is the time for sacrifice, for soon our worldly goods will be of no avail. It's just a real joy to have a part in this offering."

The advance of God's last warning message has been assured by the liberal gifts of His people in the Georgia-Cumberland Conference.

As the grand total for the 1967 evangelism offering was announced, Elders Desmond Cummings, left, and C. W. Skantz rejoice in the tremendous response from the constituency of the Georgia-Cumberland Conference.

Smoking Clinic Reports Success

The Columbus, Georgia, Seventh-day Adventist First Church sponsored a Stop Smoking Clinic April 30 through May 4 at the Muscogee County health department auditorium. Dr. Agatha Thrash, medical instructor for the course, reports that 60-70 percent of the total participants in the course have stopped smoking.

Coverage by local news media was outstanding.

Columbus, Ga., Has Unique First-Aid Course

Lt. Walter Screws of the Columbus, Georgia, fire department, was the instructor for a five-day, first-aid course, May 14-18 at the Columbus Seventh-day Adventist First Church.

On the final night of the course, Lt. Screws staged a simulated accident in which he pretended he was hit by a car. A "squirting artery" covered him with "blood," as police cars, an ambulance, and TV cameras, knowing of the ruse, converged at the church.

Georgia Cumberland Academy Evangelism

Another first has gone down in the young history of the Georgia Cumberland Academy as the students conducted a Voice of Youth evangelistic series in Calhoun, Georgia, April 10-19. Gerald Anderson, Student Association pastor, was assisted by Elder Vernon Harris, Bible instructor, in organizing the students for the series which was conducted in the conference auditorium.

"The Voice of Youth Speaks for Christ" crusade was the highlight of the "share your faith" activities for the school year. The evangelistic meetings were held in conjunction with the Georgia-Cumberland Conference Family Bible Plan, which has been carried on by the students and members of the Calhoun church.

A unique feature was the chalk drawing done by Synnove Tilgren each evening. A meditation time was observed during the service as the drawing was being completed. Special lighting effects not only illuminated the picture, but emphasized the devotional theme of the picture.

The entire crusade was conducted by GCA students. Those who participated as speakers were Janet Davis, Burton Hall, David Clayton, Mary Ellen Martin, Jean Rolls, Barbara Cummings, Harry Tolhurst, Kathy Ippisch, Dana Price, Jan Rolls, Barbara Lee, Naomi Newlon, Jeanne Harold, Lester Littell, Ricky Shadix, Brenda Murray, Bob Coolidge, Linda Skantz, Terry Phillips, David Meyer, Rodney Grant, Reggie Tryon and Gerald Anderson.

Excellent music added to the blessing of the meetings. In addition to the enthusiastic song services, there were special numbers from the academy chorale, girls sextet, the freshman-sophomore quartet, and instrumental music along with many solos and duets.

The Voice of Youth meetings were very effective in acquainting the community with the beliefs of Seventh-day Adventists and the purpose of the Georgia Cumberland Academy. A fine interest was developed and is now being followed up by the pastor, students and faculty.

Gerald Anderson, Student Association pastor, and Elder Vernon Harris, both seated, review the Voice of Youth assignments with the students who participated in the evangelistic crusade.

Synnove Tilgren provided a beautiful chalk drawing each evening for the Voice of Youth meetings conducted by the students of the Georgia Cumberland Academy.

FLORIDA

Eustis Ministerial Association

Compatible relationship with other churches of a community is a "must" if a church is going to operate effectively. The Eustis, Florida, church believes this 100 percent. They have cooperated in various community activities, such as a county-wide census and Thanksgiving welfare programs.

The Ministerial Association of the city recently showed their appreciation for the community-mindedness of the Adventists by electing the Adventist minister, Vern Carner, to the position of secretary-treasurer of the Association.

There does not need to be a compromise of principle to build good community relations but a willingness to cooperate within the circle of common principles held by all.

Newly-elected Ministerial Association officers in Eustis, Florida, include Vern Carner, left, pastor of the Seventh-day Adventist Church as secretary-treasurer; Ken Bain of the Christian Church, retiring president; and Tomming Ellington of the Baptist Church as the new president, right.

Winter Garden Hears Coe

The Winter Garden church was especially privileged during the week of April 23-29. Early in the year, Pastor C. W. Beach requested Elder W. O. Coe, Florida Conference president, to hold a one-week series of evangelistic decision meetings in the new church building immediately following its completion. Elder Coe graciously accepted the invitation in spite of his busy schedule.

In Florida, evangelism is the watchword. Everyone is interested in this most important phase of the work, especially the conference president. But what can be done in just one week's time? Can a meeting of this nature be successful? Ask the Winter Garden congregation!

Not only was this series of seven evangelistic meetings a success, but it was a rewarding experience to see three precious souls baptized into the truth at the conclusion on Sabbath, April 29.

Elder Coe is not only an administrator, he is an evangelist with a passion for souls and the ability to persuade men and women through preaching.

Elder W. D. Coe, conference president, was the first evangelist to hold a series of meetings in the new Winter Garden church.

Fly-In Camp

The first Fly-In Camp of Adventist history took place at Florida's Camp Kulaqua, May 12-14. Fourteen planes and eighty flying enthusiasts came from the southern states to participate in this historic occasion.

Mr. Adrian Anderson, state director of the Florida Aviation Division, presented Elder H. F. Roll, secretary of the Florida Conference, with the official license to operate the Camp Kulaqua airport.

Elder H. H. Schmidt, president of the Southern Union Conference, challenged the pilots to "Fly High" in their witnessing for Christ. Elder Robert Seamount, the flying missionary in Peru, told interesting stories of how the airplane is being used to reach and baptize hundreds who never before had the opportunity to hear of Christ. Elder E. E. Cumbo, a nose-gunner on a B-24 during World War II, told his conversion experience, as he found himself hanging in mid-air by his feet. His testimony was called, "A Miracle in Mid-Air."

Mr. George Vandenberghe, president of the newly-organized Florida Flying Club, challenged his fellow fliers to "Fly Right." Vice-president H. F. Roll, and the secretary-treasurer, David Groves, invite all who have an interest in joining the club to make contact through the Flying Club, P. O. Box 1313, Orlando, Florida.

Groveland

1967 has been a year of "firsts" for Groveland Academy. For nine years the group met on Sabbaths with the Leesburg church, but as the school grew a need developed for an academy church. Plans were laid, and in January, 1967, the church was organized with 21 charter members. That same evening a newly-completed school chapel was dedicated.

Two of the students expressed their desire for baptism, and, thus, in April another "first" took place when Sharon Allred and Bill Rangenberger were baptized in one of the small lakes on the school grounds. Bill is the grandson of Mr. Sheffield, the founder of the school.

Plans are developing to hold evangelistic meetings in the town of Groveland this fall, another "first."

Campout

Twelve members of the Pathfinder Club of the Fort Lauderdale Seventh-day Adventist Church left Sabbath, May 13, at 4:00 p.m. for a hike and overnight campout at a wooded campsite about ten miles from Fort Lauderdale.

Beamed for the 10-15 age group, the campout provided not only a retreat in the out-of-doors for the boys and girls, but also instruction in Christian living, nature lore, cooking, cleaning, setting up tents and building lean-tos.

The campout was directed by Ruthle and Sam Carson assisted by three unit counselors and instructors.

Sabbath evening closed with supper, a story hour, a marshmallow toasting and prayer around a campfire. Sunday's program consisted of a morning devotional, breakfast and long hikes.

Two five-mile hikes were scheduled. The boys and girls were very anxious to complete these for their "hike honors." To be invested, a Pathfinder must make three five-mile hikes in one week. There are also further honors for ten and fifteen-mile hikes. To qualify for these longer hikes, the participant must map and describe the hike.

The group, tanned, tired, but happy, returned to Fort Lauderdale at approximately noon on Sunday, May 14, after a very enjoyable, healthful, and instructive weekend, thanks to dedicated leaders and counselors.

Organ Dedication

The Eustis, Florida, church has again shown their appreciation of music as a means of worship. Nine years ago Mr. Harley Lester and Mrs. Rex Fogerty decided that the Sabbath morning worship service was lacking something without organ music. So a used Baldwin, model 45, was purchased. Mrs. Fogerty has driven from Orlando each Sabbath for the past nine years to provide music for the Sabbath services.

As all things do, the old Baldwin reached the place that it needed replacing. So, the church board authorized the pastor to raise the money for a new one. Within a week the money was in hand, and a new Conn church organ was purchased with chimes and pre-set pistons. This instrument was dedicated Sabbath evening, May 13, with a recital of sacred music presented by Mrs. Sylvia Moyer, instructor in organ at Forest Lake Academy.

Detamore Goes to Okeechobee

The World Wide Bible Lectures with Fordyce Detamore as speaker opened a series of meetings in Okeechobee, Florida, on Sunday, April 23. Attendance the first night was encouraging as more than 150 people came to hear Elder Detamore's dynamic presentation of last-day events. The attendance was consistently good throughout the entire series.

Okeechobee is a small town with a population of only 2,947. However, it was felt that some of the smaller churches should be strengthened so Elder Detamore and his team was scheduled.

The meetings were a tremendous success and a real blessing to the Okeechobee church. More than twenty individuals have already taken their stand for the truth in baptism. Others are interested and will undoubtedly find their way into the Advent movement as a result of the seed sown by Elder Detamore and his workers during this meeting.

Madison College Alumni Association Homecoming

"The spirit of Madison College still lives," one alumnus said to another as they entered the assembly hall where the Madison College Alumni Association was about to begin its annual homecoming celebration April 28 and 29.

Principle speaker for both days was Dr. Ralph F. Waddell, medical missionary to the Far East since 1946, now medical secretary, General Conference.

The class of 1942, as the honored class this year, was well represented. A plaque was presented to Elder and Mrs. Robert Stewart, class of '58, to honor them as the "Alumni of the Year" for their long-time service to church and community.

A moment of silent sadness held the assembled guests Friday evening as a white carnation was pinned on a cross for each alumnus who had gone to rest.

Among those who serve God and country was Mr. Stanley Hall, Los Altos, California, member of the U. S. Satellite Study Commission, who stopped to greet old classmates enroute to fulfill an assignment to Puerto Rico and Greece.

Madison College Alumni Association lists among its alumni, ministers, doctors, nurses, teachers and other Christian workers now serving in the Southland and many other parts of the world. The spirit of Madison College is the spirit of service to God and fellowmen, and this was evidenced at homecoming in the lives of those who once studied in its classrooms.

"You Need the Sabbath School"

You need the Sabbath school! That's right. You need the Sabbath school! Why? There are many reasons. One important reason is the Sabbath school affords to parents and children a precious opportunity for the study of God's word. Don't forget, "None but those who have fortified the mind with the truths of the Bible will stand through the last great conflict." Great Controversy, page 593.

We have time for watching TV, listening to the radio, reading the daily newspaper, but what about the daily study of God's word? The Christian's goal is to be like Jesus, 1 John 3:1-3. We want to see Him as He is and be ready at His appearing. It is well to consider, "No man, woman, or youth can attain to Christian perfection and neglect the study of the word of God." Counsels on Sabbath School Work, page 17.

The Sabbath school plays an important part in helping "to make ready a people prepared for the Lord." We need to be following the daily lesson study plan. We need the Christian fellowship that comes from faithful Sabbath school attendance. We need all the many blessings of the Sabbath school—prayers, special music, special programs, class discussion of the lesson and mission appeals.

Yes, we all need the Sabbath school! The Sabbath school will help us greatly in the perfection of character and preparation for heaven. Are you attending faithfully every Sabbath? If so, keep it up. If not, then won't you come this Sabbath.

Happy Sabbath school class of Miss Mary Hunter Moore at the Bordeaux church in Nashville, Tennessee! They wouldn't miss Sabbath school and the blessings that come from it. With open Bibles and quarterlies in hand, each week they study together. There are few missing members in this class.

Pathfinders Meet Governor

Mr. Buford Ellington, charming and gracious governor of Tennessee, recently received the Woodbury, Tennessee, Pathfinders in the state capitol building in Nashville. The busy chief executive spent fully twenty minutes with the boys and girls, each of whom was "sharp as a tack" in full uniform, with honor sash and tokens, and other Pathfinder regalia. After the visit with the governor, the group was given a personally-escorted tour of the entire capitol building, seeing the senate and house chambers, learning more of the workings of the state government, and becoming better acquainted, through pictures and stories, with heroes of Tennessee's past.

Accompanying the group were Mrs. Vesta Bryant, club director, Mrs. R. B. Moore, counselor, and Pastor and Mrs. Clarence Southard.

Let There Be Music

Kentucky-Tennessee's sixth annual elementary-intermediate music festival, a highlight of the school year for approximately 250 young people who participated, was held in the new conference auditorium at Highland Academy on the weekend of May 12-13.

Choral and band music, some of it quite difficult, was presented by a massed choir of 180 and a festival band of 135. The choir presented all the numbers from memory. In addition to the large group performances, many of the individual schools presented smaller ensembles or individual numbers to complete the program for the weekend. Altogether, fifty-four musical selections were prepared and given by the young people.

Guest choral conductor for the occasion was Professor Marvin Robertson, head of the music department at Southern Missionary College. Under his expert guidance, the large choir performed with unusual skill, poise and preciseness.

Approximately 1,500 parents and friends were in attendance from every section of the conference.

The music festival, an annual event sponsored by the conference department of education, was directed by Elder George Yost, superintendent of education.

Feature attraction at the music festival was the combined male quartets from Louisville, Nashville, Memphis and Highland elementary schools.

Lexington Completes Building Program

The beautiful new Lexington, Kentucky, Seventh-day Adventist Church is located at Lane Allen and Alexandria Drive.

The sanctuary of the buff-brick, air-conditioned building seats 300 people. It is fully carpeted, and has multi-colored windows and laminated arches, which contribute to a spirit of worship and reverence.

The baptistry and tiered choir section are behind the pulpit in the chancel. A glass-front mother's room for those with young children is at the rear of the nave.

A hallway in the church foyer leads into four Sabbath school classrooms. The parking lot will accommodate 115 cars.

Just completed and occupied on the five-acre lot is a two-room elementary school. A gymnasium-auditorium is planned between the church building and the school, with the partial foundation already completed.

In conjunction with the opening of the new church, the Dick Barron evangelistic team from Texas conducted a three-week series of meetings.

Merle B. Landis is the builder and pastor of these beautiful and functional buildings, thus saving the church membership a substantial sum. Construction would have been extremely costly if a contractor had been employed to perform this building service.

Throughout the entire planning and erection of these buildings the elders and deacons, along with the pastor, served as the building committee.

A beautiful pendant rose-glass lamp enhances the niche above the baptistry. This was presented by Ruth Raines in memory of her husband, Dewey. The foyer furnishings, a table and registry stand, were presented by Mrs. W. Ross Stromberg in memory of Doctor Stromberg.

Cost of the land was $49,000. The total cost of the church building, including air-conditioning, an elaborate public address system incorporating the speakers within the light fixtures to produce even sound without playback and dead areas, cushioned and upholstered pews, wall-to-wall carpeting and landscaping amounted to $91,000. Because of the extreme sacrifice and dedication on the part of the pastor and membership, supported by fervent prayer and faith in God, this indebtedness will be liquidated within the next two and one-half years.

The regular offerings during the entire building program have met the goals set for this church, and God has richly blessed those who have contributed to this undertaking.

Columbia, S. C., Church Dedicates New Pews

Sabbath, May 6, 1967, was a joyful day for the members of the Ephesus S. D. A. Church of Columbia, South Carolina. The congregation dedicated new pews that cost $4,000.00 to the service of God. These pews are beautiful, and the installation did much to enhance the beauty of the church.

The church building was constructed under Elder F. W. Parker's pastorate. Elder W. L. Lewis, who followed, helped raise funds for the pews, and B. Cummings, the present pastor, finished the job.

F. L. Jones, treasurer of the South Atlantic Conference, gave the 11:00 o'clock address. His message was entitled "If Ye Have Faith." The conference committee voted to assist the church on further improvements, and during the service Elder Jones presented Pastor Cummings a check for $2,000. The church plans to add carpet runners for the aisles, a new paved parking area and three sidewalks to the main entrance.

Columbia Ephesus is going forward in faith to finish a beautiful house for worship. Plans are under way to start a fall evangelistic series.

Ordination Service

Hermon Vanderberg, pastor of the Charleston, South Carolina, district, was ordained to the gospel ministry Sabbath afternoon, May 20, 1967, at the Atlanta Berean church.

Elder C. D. Henri, pastor of Berean, offered the invocation, and special music was rendered by Samuel Hagan. W. S. Banfield, president of the conference, delivered the ordination sermon. F. L. Jones, treasurer of the conference, presented the candidate for ordination, and E. E. Rogers of Oakwood College offered the ordination prayer. Other guests included Dr. F. W. Hale, president of Oakwood College, and Dr. W. A. Howe of the General Conference was present.

Elder Vanderberg is a native of Detroit, Michigan. He received his degree from Oakwood College and then completed his seminary training at Andrews University. He began his ministry in 1963 as associate to H. M. Barker in Jacksonville, Florida. Later, he became pastor of the Charleston district. Many improvements have been made in all the churches in his district including a new church home at Bonneau, South Carolina. Two evangelistic efforts have been conducted in the district, and sixty new members have been added. He has also served as state leader for South Carolina.

Will — Way

Mrs. Garrell Bass of High Point, North Carolina, has been confined to the bed for the last ten years, however, this has not prevented her hearing and accepting the truth.

During the church effort conducted by J. M. Phipps in 1963, her husband attended the meetings each night and then went home to tell her what was preached. Through his relating the truth to her, she accepted the message and was baptized. Because of her physical condition, she had to be carried to the pool in a wheel chair. Since her baptism, she has been busy on the telephone. During the Ingathering season, she solicits donations and has raised a minute-man goal each year. She also uses the telephone to give Bible studies. Where there is a will, there will be a way.

Berean Junior Academy Celebrates 62nd Year

Berean Junior Academy of Atlanta, Georgia, celebrated its 62nd year of service to the community May 19-21, 1967. The school is located at 230 Westview Place in southwest Atlanta. Presently, 352 students are enrolled in the ten grades. H. F. Barbour is the principal directing a dedicated staff of twelve full-time teachers. The recent addition of a new building provided four large classrooms, a principal's office, a teachers' lounge, and a large cafeteria-auditorium that will seat 300 persons for worship or 150 for meals.

Friday night, May 19, Dr. E. E. Rogers, head of the Biblical Language Department of Oakwood College, gave the graduation consecration message.

Dr. W. A. Howe, associate secretary of the Educational Department of the General Conference, gave the baccalaureate address Sabbath morning at 11:00 a.m. His message, "Launch Out into the Deep," was inspiring. Dr. Howe's visit to the school, his message Sabbath, and his participation in a panel discussion at the MV hour was most helpful.

Dr. F. W. Hale, president of Oakwood College, was the commencement speaker Sunday, May 21. His message, "To Be or Not to Be, That is the Question," was a fitting capstone to a thrilling weekend for the graduates, parents, friends and members of the church. Dr. Hale urged the graduates, and those who have already finished high school, to go on to college—"The future belongs to the prepared. To fail to prepare is to prepare to fail."

Twenty young people graduated from the eighth grade. Mrs. Doris Gully, sponsor, presented the class to the principal, Mr. Barbour. S. E. Gooden, the new educational secretary for the South Atlantic Conference, congratulated each graduate as the diploma was received. Twelve students finished the tenth grade. All plan to continue their education.

News From Knoxville, Tennessee

Rally day services at the University Avenue Seventh-day Adventist Church in Knoxville, Tennessee, were a success. A special Sabbath school program was given.

The lay activities committee of the church planned a successful evangelistic day. The congregation, including a group from the Chattanooga church and Elder B. J. Liebelt from the Union Conference, went to designated areas in the city making house-to-house visits. They offered prayer in the homes, left religious tracts, and extended an invitation to the people to visit the Adventist Church.

Among those visited was an elderly couple who desired prayer. A brief worship service was held in the home. Later, several baskets of fruit and other food were sent to the couple. Recently, a series of weekly Bible studies was begun.

Senior Citizens' Day

Sabbath, April 15, was a special day for senior citizens of the Dothan, Alabama, church. All the services of the day were dedicated to them. During the morning worship service, a special tribute was paid to them by the guest speaker, Elder C. E. Dudley, conference president. As these senior members sat on the front pew, a beautiful ribbon was pinned on each of them.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lee are the oldest members in the church. He is 85, and she is 84.

Old and New Careers

After attending a Christian Writer's Conference and visiting relatives and friends in the Lake Region section, Mrs. Sadie W. Burwell has returned to Selma, Alabama.

An account of her trip was related in young people's meeting at the Selma Temple Gate church where she serves as youth leader. Beautiful souvenir religious tracts were given to those present. Mrs. Burwell was writing weekly features for the Selma Times-Journal at one time and has written several inspirational tracts which have been distributed in prisons, hospitals and other places. Within the last few months, she has rendered services as guest speaker at East-end elementary school PTA, Dallas County Rural Teachers' Association and the Baptist Music Association.

In May, 1966, Mrs. Burwell retired from the professional field after serving for thirty-three years in the public school system of Alabama. At the time of retirement, she was first-grade teacher at Brantley Elementary School, in charge of music for the primary department, and was the recipient of two major courtesies—a reception given by the Dallas County Teachers' Association and a shower given by the first-grade teachers of the county. A letter of thanks for a task well done was written by the superintendent of education, Frank Ernest.

Mrs. Burwell received her high school training at St. Mark's Academy in Birmingham, Alabama. Her higher training was at Alabama State Teachers' College and Columbia University, New York City. She has a B.S. and M.A. degree in elementary education.

This former teacher is a member of the local, state, and national Retired Teachers' Association and a life member of the National Education Association. As a member of the Temple Gate church, she serves in several capacities. She states: "My new career is not altogether new, for I am still working with youth. I am grateful for the energy that I yet have to work for others. My old career was part time in the religious work, but now it is full time. In addition to writing, I shall conduct more classes in the Sabbath school teacher's training course, everyday nutrition series, Bible Story hour, and Vacation Bible School."

Southern Missionary College

New Academic Dean Joins SMC

Dr. Frank Knittel, vice-president for student affairs at Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Michigan, has been elected academic dean of Southern Missionary College.

Dr. Knittel will join the staff in June to replace Dr. J. W. Cassell, Jr., SMC's present academic dean and acting president, who accepted the post of academic dean at Pacific Union College.

Dr. Frank Knittel, newly-elected academic dean of SMC.

Dr. Knittel joined the staff of Andrews University in 1959 to teach in the English Department. Four years later he was elected vice-president for student affairs.

After leaving Southwestern Junior College, Keene, Texas, where he was graduated from the academy and took his first two years of college, Knittel taught church school in Louisiana one year before completing his undergraduate study at Union College, Lincoln, Nebraska. During his two years at Union, he edited the college paper, the Clock Tower, one year, and the yearbook, the Golden Cords, the next. Following graduation in 1947, he held positions as dean of boys at Enterprise and Campion academies in Kansas and Colorado. Between these two positions, he spent three years in the army.

In 1955 he joined the staff of the University of Colorado where he subsequently earned his master's and doctorate degrees. He remained there as an assistant dean of men until he joined the staff at Andrews University in 1959.

Student Scholarships

Ten students at Southern Missionary College have been awarded $100 scholarships, presented jointly by the Pioneer Foundation of Chattanooga and Mr. and Mrs. O. D. McKee of Collegedale.

As announced earlier this year by George M. Clark, chairman of the board of Pioneer Bank, and O. D. McKee, president of the McKee Baking Company, a yearly fund of $1,000 is available to sophomores, juniors or seniors of SMC who have good characters, are above average in scholarship, and are part-time employees at McKee Baking Company.

The ten recipients recently selected by SMC's scholarship committee include Eddie Avant, Don Brunner, Benjamin Holt, Rodney Hyde, Vilma Jara, Patricia Marsh, Ronald Newell, Gerald Rickaby, Donald Shaw and Gayle Thornton.

Madison Hospital

Madison Hospital Open House

Madison Hospital and Southern Missionary College featured two new facilities at an Open House Sunday afternoon, May 7.

Activities began at 2 p.m. with a concert. Guest speakers were Dr. Joseph Bistowish, director of health, Metropolitan Nashville and Davidson County, and Miss Lee Gilmer, professor of nursing, Vanderbilt University, and chairman of the committee on education, Tennessee Nurses Association. Charles Fleming, Jr., business manager at SMC, was the master of ceremonies.

Open to the public were the hospital's new physical medicine and rehabilitation department and the two-building educational complex which makes up SMC's Madison campus.

The physical medicine and rehabilitation department covers the entire ground floor and a major section of the first floor of the hospital's new east wing. The ground floor space is occupied by a 2,000 sq. ft. gymnasium, which makes up the corrective therapy department; a hydrotherapy department; a physical therapy department, which features a Finnish steam bath; offices; and examination rooms. The upper floor includes an occupational therapy department and 22 patient beds for long term rehabilitation cases.

Dr. Howard C. Seely, formerly on the staff of the Fort Meade, South Dakota Veteran's Hospital, is the director of the PM & R department. He is a graduate of Loma Linda University School of Medicine.

The complex, currently serving SMC's two-year associate of science degree nursing program, includes a student-housing unit for 50, and a classroom and office building. The first class of sophomore nursing students came to the Madison campus in September of 1966 and will graduate this month. SMC also offers a B.S. degree in nursing in co-operation with the Florida Sanitarium and Hospital.

Dr. Howard C. Seeley, left, physiatrist directing the physical medicine and rehabilitation department at Madison Hospital, explains the use of the Hubbard Tank in physical therapy to a group of guests at open house.

Paula Thum, nursing student, and Miss Lee Gilmer, professor of nursing, Vanderbilt University, and chairman of the committee on education, Tennessee Nurses Association, examine a painting showing the SMC campus in detail. The picture hangs in the hall of the Madison Hospital educational building.

Parents and Friends of Servicemen

The National Service Organization (NSO) of the General Conference is most anxious to see to it that every Adventist on active duty with the U.S. military forces receive the periodicals of the church. The fund for paying for this is generously provided by the church members at the time of the Servicemen's Offering received every two years. The last offering in May of 1966 amounted to $90,000 and indicates the warm interest of the church for its youth in military service.

For that reason the NSO obtains names and addresses from every source possible. A master list of these names is kept as up-to-date as possible and each man is sent the periodicals of his choice as well as Sabbath School Lesson Quarterly, devotional book of the year, missionary book of the year, and other material.

The accuracy of this master list is a matter of great concern. There are many men in the military forces, and their mailing addresses change often. Thus periodicals often never reach the man to whom they are addressed. Another problem is that military addresses are quite specific and a mistake in a number or word will render the item undeliverable. For that reason every name received is first carefully checked against the master list to be certain that it is not already on the list. If it is a new name, it is immediately added to the mailing lists for the Youth's Instructor and Listen, and a letter is sent by first-class mail to the serviceman stating that he has been placed on the Instructor mailing list and also asking that he fill out and return the enclosed self-addressed postage-paid reply card. This reply card verifies the accuracy of the address and gives the serviceman an opportunity to choose which periodicals of the church he wishes to receive. The details of a number of other services that the NSO has available for servicemen is also listed in this letter.

Should the serviceman not return this postage-paid reply card, a second and then a third letter with reply cards is sent. If in three months he has not replied, the reluctant conclusion is reached that either the man is not receiving the mail addressed to him or that he has no desire to receive it. In such cases his name is put in the file of those on whom new information is needed before sending more periodicals.

It takes five to six weeks from the time a name is placed on the mailing list until the periodicals actually start arriving in the mail. And a similar length of time for them to stop after a change of address is sent to the publisher. Therefore, those men in basic training are not placed on the mailing list until they receive an address that is more permanent.

There are presently almost 2,500 servicemen on the active mailing list of the NSO. Each name on the lists indicates a cost of approximately $25.00 per year. These men are very grateful for the regular visits by mail of the church periodicals.

If your serviceman is not receiving this material, please get your church servicemen's secretary or your local conference MV secretary to send his name to the NSO as soon as possible. Also write the serviceman and encourage him to return the reply card promptly. The NSO is your organization. Keep it informed.

Labels for Investment

Those who have been saving Loma Linda labels as part of their Sabbath School Investment project will be gratified to know that the total paid to the various conference Sabbath School Departments has now much surpassed the $200,000 mark.

Thousands of dollars accrue to the Sabbath school Investment fund each year due to this Investment project sponsored by the denominationally-owned Loma Linda Foods.

We encourage Sabbath school members everywhere to engage in this label-saving project. It is estimated that many labels are still being destroyed that could be saved.

Be sure your church gets its share of these Investment funds by saving Loma Linda labels—an easy way to increase your Investment offering.

BOOKS FOR BROWNS

It's a grand time of year for singing, isn't it? And with that thought in mind, Southern Publishing Association has a brand new little book especially for you. Entitled "Sing Unto the Lord," by Donald F. Haynes, this is a great new collection of songs never before published. There are selections designed for solo, quartet, and choir purposes, and church members everywhere will appreciate the quality of excellence which Pastor Haynes has put into his music. Although he says that music is his hobby, it looks to us like a major facet of his life. During the past thirty years he has written about one hundred original compositions and arranged over two hundred more. "Sing Unto the Lord" is the cream of a very fine crop.

For those who crave a real reading challenge, we recommend you pick up a copy of JOB AND THE MYSTERIES OF WISDOM, by Paul T. Gibbs. For hundreds of years the story of Job has been a challenge to Bible scholars. Dr. Gibbs, himself a literary scholar of considerable scope and experience, has drawn a significant parallel between the trials of Job and the trials we face today. These essays, though intellectually challenging, are simply and clearly written. They will be of great comfort to every modern pilgrim who finds himself ascending the same ladder of faith which Job had to climb. The problems of despair and meaninglessness which so many of us face will be more easily understood and solved as we relate to Job's experience.

Pacific Press has recently published a new handbook for the General Conference Sabbath School Department which will be of interest to those who work with children. TEACHING TINY TOTS, by Kathleen Louise Meyer, is especially geared to meet the needs of leaders in the cradle roll and kindergarten divisions. Practicality is the keynote of this excellent book, and any reader can see that it was born from years of successful personal experience in working with little ones.

Chapel Records Offers New Approach to Bible Study

Chapel Records has introduced a refreshing new approach to learning the stories of the Bible—a series of 40 long-play records which portray the stories rather than just telling them. Twenty-six records are now available with an additional 14 to be produced shortly.

The series, titled The Bible in Living Sound, is particularly valuable as a teaching aid for children. But, because of its professional approach, adults enjoy listening as well.

Each record creates an "on-the-scene" atmosphere, with different voices portraying each Bible character, complete with music and sound effects. Now Noah's great faith, Joseph's adventures in Egypt and Queen Esther's bravery in behalf of her people are relived. The non-sectarian scripts are based on careful Bible research, accurate in every detail.

The records include the stories of creation week, Adam and Eve, Noah and the Flood, Abraham and Isaac, Jacob and Esau, Joseph, Moses, the Exodus, the conquest of Canaan, the Judges of Israel, Samson, Ruth, Samuel, Saul, David, Jonah, Job and Queen Esther.

Parents use them for family worship, to occupy Sabbath hours, or as a means to keep children busy during the week, offsetting much of the violence they see on television and in newspapers and magazines.

School teachers find the records a valuable asset for morning worship periods and as a means to make Bible classes more meaningful.

Sabbath school teachers find that their classes acquire new appeal when scheduled periods are arranged each week for a story from The Bible in Living Sound. Special story hours can also be built around the series.

With these records, your children can become evangelists by inviting friends home to hear their favorite stories. The children develop keen interest in such group activity, and opportunities open for neighborhood Bible studies.

YOU MAY STILL GET YOUR

12-inch LP Story Record of Noah and the Flood for $1.00

Since we have received thousands of requests for this fascinating record, one of the forty dramatized Bible stories in the Bible in Living Sound series, we are extending this special introductory offer.

Eight-foot high red letters adorned the college gymnasium for the WSMC-FM inauguration on March 21.

The Adventist Air Voice of the South

Recently the non-commercial radio station, WSMC-FM, operated on the campus of Southern Missionary College by the Communications Department, went on the air with 80,000 watts of power. This station, with its increased power, is now considered the highest-powered educational radio station in the South. Its music, messages and news can be heard over a wide area of the country. Not only is it the means of providing specialized training for students who are interested in communications, but it also serves in a remarkable way the community in which the college is located.

The citizens of the city of Chattanooga and many other cities and towns of the southern states have written letters expressing appreciation for the high quality of service being rendered by the station. On Tuesday, March 21, WSMC-FM celebrated its increased power potential and increased listening coverage in a special ceremony held in the college auditorium at which time U. S. Representative Bill Brock was the featured speaker.

I was present at this meeting and, like others in attendance, was tremendously impressed with the way the station has grown and the new up-to-date methods and techniques now being used. The student body is proud of this way in which their college is being so favorably represented.

Dr. Gordon Hyde, head of the Communications Department, and those who have worked with him over the past several years to develop this fine facility are to be commended for their far-sighted planning. Also, we express appreciation to the individuals who willingly provide funds to make possible the expansion of WSMC-FM. May God in a marked manner continue to use this facility to His glory.

"A Good Partner"

By C. H. Turner, assistant administrator,
Watkins Memorial Hospital

"My business is serving the Lord, and I cobble shoes to pay expenses."

These words, spoken many years ago by William Carey, are in harmony with the admonition of Christ—"Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you." Matthew 6:33.

As Seventh-day Adventists we are well aware that the Lord does provide for his own in a marvelous way.

Four years ago when Carl Malcolm joined the Atlanta Cascade Road church, he took God as his partner and has tested His promises through the years that have followed.

During these years he has been a salesman for "Snap-on Tools," and his business has provided well for his family. As the Malcolms have continued in the church, they have become more and more active, spending much time in missionary activities. Each week they make a trip to the market where they not only buy food for their own needs but also for others whom they feel can use help.

Mrs. Malcolm takes four children to and from the Cascade Road church school each school day. She does all the church secretarial work without pay, and works four hours a day, four days each week for a doctor.

Two years ago their son, Lew, accepted a dollar from Dr. H. T. Haugen to be invested for the Sabbath school Investment project. When he took the dollar home, it became a family problem to invest it wisely in order to gain the greatest increase for the Lord.

To make it a bigger project, Brother and Sister Malcolm each added a dollar, making a total of three dollars. This was invested in peanuts which were parched in the oven of their kitchen range and then placed in paper bags and loaded on to Brother Malcolm's truck to be sold for ten cents each or three bags for twenty-five cents.

In 1965 they had one hundred eighty-three dollars for Investment. In 1966 they had four hundred-eighty dollars, and at the end of the first quarter of 1967, they had already accumulated nearly two hundred dollars. This indicates that they could have between eight hundred and a thousand dollars for this year. They are thrilled about what they have been able to accomplish for the Lord in this way.

Every evening, the first one who arrives home turns the oven on to 325° and puts in a pan of peanuts which are stirred at ten-minute intervals, and when done are bagged for sale.

Sales are higher each succeeding day of the week. On Friday, Brother Malcolm takes the largest number of bags, 125 to 140. When it appears that there will be a large number left over at the end of the day, Brother Malcolm bows his head and says, "Lord, we have to get rid of these peanuts. Let's see what we can do." Never has he had more than eight or ten bags left at the end of the day.

He also has a section of his truck reserved for literature. One drawer in a tool chest contains white Bibles and study guides for the "Family Bible Plan," and many have been enrolled.

During this time, Brother Malcolm's business with "Snap-on Tools" has increased by seventy-five percent. At the end of 1966, he was given an engraved plaque for being among the top twenty-five dealers in the nation. He was in eighth position.

When he was asked how he felt about his success, he replied, "The Lord has done it. We've just asked Him to show us how to work with Him. We do, however, have one problem. We need to buy a peanut parcher and haven't been able to find one, new or used. When we started this project more than two years ago, our range was just about burned out. If we weren't using it for the Lord, I doubt if it would bake even one more loaf of bread."

God is a good partner. One who approaches Him needs only to "believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him." Hebrews 11:6.

Five nights a week, peanuts are parched in the Malcolm home for Investment.

Peanuts are bagged every evening, Sunday through Thursday.

The Investment business involves the whole Malcolm family. Peanuts are being loaded into the truck for the day's run.

This tool chest in Brother Carl Malcolm's truck is reserved for the Lord. Some drawers are filled with peanuts, others with literature. This one has white Bibles and study guides for the Family Bible Plan.
