Has the day of frontier evangelism passed?

It's a logical question in this day of moon flights, mass communication, and multi-million-dollar housing projects. But the fact is that today is still the day for pioneer evangelism.

The advantages of the twentieth century make missions more viable than ever. Airplanes, for instance, make it possible to enter thousands of mission frontier areas. But the mere possession of an aircraft or even the ability to pilot one is no more efficient than a team of oxen and a covered wagon if there is no safe place to land the craft.

Not all unentered territories are accessible by airplane or even by boat, jeep, or motorcycle. To reach such people as the tree dwellers of the Central Celebes, East Indonesia, for instance, takes days of hiking and riding horseback.

Indeed, the day of frontier evangelism is still with us. That's why the Far Eastern Division has selected several pioneer ventures to receive the third quarter thirteenth Sabbath offering overflow.

The first project is new jungle airstrips. It's impossible for anyone living in a modern setting with access to today's means of transportation and communication to understand the impact made on an isolated jungle area when an airstrip is built and small planes from "another world" fly in. This is one of the most fascinating features of carrying the gospel to the frontiers of the Far East, and here's how it happens.

Someone from a primitive tribe probably visits an Adventist village, returns to his own community, and tells his friends and relatives what he saw. He reports that the people in the Adventist village worship the great God of creation, that they have a school for their children, and that a plane comes out of the sky with medicine for the sick.

"We want Adventists to come to our village too," the people agree.

They are told that the Adventist missionaries cannot come unless the villagers build an airstrip for the plane to land. So they set to work clearing the jungle, digging tree stumps, leveling the ground, and when it's completed, the pilot makes a surface journey for inspection. If the strip meets safety requirements, he lands, and usually within a few weeks a company of believers is established.

The second project to benefit from the thirteenth Sabbath offering is tagged "new work," which includes "planting" new churches—whether in the green jungles of Sarawak, the asphalt jungles of Singapore, or the brown hills of Korea—and opening work among primitive tribes in Indonesia and the Philippines.

In particular, two tribes in Indonesia and the Philippines will receive funds to help open new work, namely the tree dwellers of the Central Celebes, and a Manobo tribe in the South Philippines. Work is also going to be re-established on the island of Lombok in East Java, Indonesia. Although the church had work there at one time, it died out and has been neglected for many years. The thirteenth Sabbath offering overflow will help build a sturdy church and a pastor's home.

Work among the tree people, so named because of their practice of constructing their homes many feet above the land surface, began in 1974. W. V. Clements, Sabbath school director of the Far Eastern Division, and Lucas, a literature evangelist, visited the remote region and surveyed the possibilities of establishing mission work among the tree people.

When Lucas returned a year later, the villagers had constructed a home for him. They were confident he would return. Within five months 22 were prepared for baptism, including the village chief, Sintanwa.

After his baptism, Chief Sintanwa told Lucas of a vision he had received several years before. He had been shown that a man with a true religion would visit his village and ask them to give up their pork and betel nut. He would tell them of the soon coming of a Saviour. He would teach them to worship on the day between the "Moslem Friday" and the "Christian Sunday."

From that beginning the work spread rapidly to other villages. On April 3, 1976, 209 of the tree dwellers were baptized.

An emergency situation at Mountain View College in the Philippines has also created an urgent need for overflow funds. A burgeoning enrollment has caused a serious housing problem. Bunk beds are stacked three high in every dormitory room, and rooms that should house only four students have eight and nine packed into them. Two or three faculty homes are being utilized as extension dormitories for the girls, and boys who cannot fit into the boys' dorm are being housed in sheds, in one case a former chicken coop. The dormitory worship rooms are filled with bunk beds in barrack style. Between 300 and 400 students are inadequately housed at the present time.

Mountain View College is the most active soul-winning college in the Far East. In the past two years more than 2,000 people joined the Adventist church as a direct result of evangelistic meetings and branch Sabbath schools held by students and faculty. When the school was established there was only one church in the area, but today 93 churches are scattered throughout the villages around the school, and many of these are shepherded by MVC student pastors.

Indeed, the day of frontier evangelism is not past. Reports continually come to division headquarters of new towns, unentered villages, unexpected opportunities, unconverted hearts—each a frontier for the gospel of Jesus.

DECATUR, GEORGIA — — —

Membership in the Southern Union Conference stood at 79,959 as of June 30. This was 41 short of the anticipated 80,000 mark. However, the total reflects a net increase of 483 persons for the second quarter and 1,234 for the first half of the year. The slower growth in the second quarter is attributed to the seven camp meetings, two conference sessions, and the union session, all of which were necessary, but potential disruptions of evangelistic meeting schedules. Another factor was the turnover of evangelists in four conferences. Six of the seven conferences registered gains, both for the quarter and the year, to date. Present membership totals are: Florida, 17,169; South Atlantic, 15,824; Georgia-Cumberland, 14,729; South Central, 10,055; Carolina, 8,736; Kentucky-Tennessee, 7,923; Alabama-Mississippi, 5,523.

ADDIS ABABA, ETHIOPIA — — —

The government of Ethiopia has nationalized the 135-bed Empress Zauditu Memorial Hospital in Addis Ababa. Confirmation of the takeover was received July 10 from the Afro-Mideast Division headquarters. The hospital staff was made up largely of nationals assisted by approximately 20 staff members from other countries. Church leaders hope to relocate most of the missionary staff in other areas in East Africa.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINNESOTA — — —

Marian Balkins refused to rent an apartment to an unmarried couple last September. Now the Minneapolis mother of six, who says she was following "God's laws" in refusing the couple, has been served with a complaint by the Minnesota Department of Human Rights. Alan Everding, one of the couple who was turned down, claims he was discriminated against on the basis of his marital status.

FORT WORTH, TEXAS — — —

A would-be bandit broke into tears and traded his bullets for a Bible when confronted with a victim who wasn't afraid to die. John Heird, a night auditor at the Fort Worth, Texas, Days Inn, closed his eyes and prayed aloud in front of a robber who held a cocked pistol to his head. "It shocked him so much," Heird recalled later, "that he just lowered the gun and said, 'What am I going to do?'" The robber asked Heird, "Aren't you afraid of dying?" and Heird, who is a student at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, told him his religious convictions accepted death. The robber tied him up in a restroom, then took the Bible and left his bullets on the auditor's desk.

RALEIGH, NORTH CAROLINA — — —

Seven evangelists of Christ is the Answer, Incorporated, have been arrested on trespassing charges at a shopping center in Raleigh, North Carolina. They were released after spending three days in jail. District Attorney Burley Mitchell said charges were dropped because the three days they spent in jail were longer than any sentence upon conviction would likely have been. None of the evangelists were distributing tracts or soliciting funds, but passers-by objected to their activities.

COLUMBUS, OHIO — — —

The Ohio Supreme Court has limited the authority of the state board of education to set standards for religious schools. In a reversal of a lower decision, the court said religious freedom is compromised when state standards erase the "distinction between public and non-public education." The case involved 12 parents whose children, attending an unaccredited school, were technically considered truants by the state.

What You Should Know

If You Have a Child in School

An interview with George V. Yost

George V. Yost, superintendent of education in the Kentucky-Tennessee Conference.

Q: Can you give me some reasons why I should choose a Christian school in place of a public school?

A: The first reason could be summed up in the word "philosophy." You see, the philosophy of public education and the philosophy of Christian education are at opposite ends of the pole.

Q: How does the educational philosophy of the public system differ from the philosophy of Christian education?

A: Modern education has been deeply influenced by men like Rousseau, who denied the sin nature, and Froebel, who said that the goodness of God could be brought out in a child through self-expression and free development. But Christian educators need not look to worldly philosophers and educators for the basis of their educational system. Our philosophy is found in and based on the Bible. It teaches us that before a man can be truly educated, he must first be born again. It gives us authority and discipline. It teaches that all truth is from God, and that every discipline (subject) of life is to be taught in relationship to Christ and His claim upon our lives.

Q: Why is it important for the educational system to be Bible-based?

A: Man has always been asking the question, "What is truth?" Due to this continual search for truth, two basic approaches to it have developed. One approach states that truth is changing and is in a state of fluctuation. The other philosophy is that truth will never fluctuate or change because it is based on the word of God. Christ said, "I am the way, the truth, and the life."

Q: What is the purpose of a Christian education?

A: Having a purpose in any activity determines the methods, means, and goals of that activity. In Ephesians 4:7, it says that everyone was given a measure of the gift of Christ. Then in verse 11, it lists the gifts, ending with teachers. Verse 12 gives the purpose that God designed the gift of teaching to accomplish, and notice that this purpose is composed of three parts: "For the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ," which is the church.

Q: Are Christian education goals different from secular ones? And are goals necessary?

A: There are many goals or objectives that a Christian school should have. May I suggest some of the major ones. 1) To win every student enrolled to the Lord. 2) To do all to the glory of God. 3) To save our children from an ungodly society. 4) To allow parents to control their children, not the state. 5) To complement home training. 6) To build Christian character. 7) To prepare the student to serve God. 8) To provide leadership training. 9) To teach self-discipline. 10) To teach that all of life is sacred. Yes, one must aim at something or everything will be missed.

Q: I understand that the Kentucky-Tennessee Conference spend over $1,000 per child or over $90 million annually to educate our children, and they claim they have the curriculum that is more relevant and better in audio-visual aids, spacious buildings, smaller educational groupings. They've discovered the ultimate in socialization and they've consolidated to offer better opportunities for the children. How can we compete with that?

A: I realize that the public school system can and does spend more money per pupil than a Christian school system. However, it might be interesting to note that in our conference last year, taking an educated guess as to the amount each church paid for teachers' salaries plus the amount the conference put into education, it cost us about $650 per pupil in our elementary schools. You see, money is not the answer to quality education. In national testing results, our children rate higher than the national average in our area of the country. In both math and reading, in which the modern educators are decrying the results of public teaching, we are superior, by far.

Q: Is there any difference between parent/teacher relationships in the two school systems?

A: Many times the child looks at school as a contest to see who will run the classroom. It is the natural thing for the child to rebel against authority and discipline. What is not natural is for the parents to take the same attitude. There must be a constant front of authority from both parents and teachers if the child is to grow up with love and respect for authority and discipline. There is much closer cooperation between parent and teacher in a Christian school than in a public school.

Q: Do you have any suggestions for parents who ask, "What can we do to help our school?"

A: There are many ways, but let me make a few positive suggestions. 1) Support your school with your prayers. 2) Attend all activities of your school. 3) Stand behind your principal/teacher and the total school program. 4) Take part in extra school projects. 5) Help your school with love offerings; it takes more than tuition to run the school. 6) Tell other parents about the school, especially those whose children do not attend. 7) Simply thinking will bring to your mind other ways you can help.

A House Of Help And Hope

Isaac Brown, Jr., a member of the Shepherd Drive Adventist church in Columbus, Georgia, is the director of the Halfway House. Other members of the Shepherd Drive church working at the Halfway House are Bessie Dorsett, Bernice Jones, Rubye Paulino, and Myranda Ramsey.

The major thrust is narcotics education and prevention. The wall behind the receptionist's desk is covered with the names of individuals, churches, businesses, and other agencies to which clients are referred.

Isaac Brown, Jr., a member of the Shepherd Drive church in Columbus, Georgia, keeps himself busy with the operation of the Columbus Halfway House, which directs 75 per cent of its effort towards prevention and 25 per cent towards individuals addicted to drugs. The services of the Halfway House and its staff are also extended to individuals having problems other than those relating to drugs and alcohol.

Approximately 38 churches from many denominations provide financial and volunteer support to the program.

Temporary housing is provided for persons who have been evicted or for some other reason have no place to stay. In addition to temporary housing, emergency food and clothing are provided for those needing such services. The staff is kept informed of all emergencies by way of a 24-hour answering service.

Halfway House works in cooperation with the state and local communities in the prevention and rehabilitation of drug addiction. Information and orientation is made available to public schools, local churches, and other community groups in an effort to make the individual aware of the problems of drug abuse.

More than 475 persons have been helped by Halfway House since 1971, according to Brown. He further states that the program receives no federal, state, or local government funds.

Our hats go off to Isaac Brown for the dedication he has demonstrated in this very vital work.

The Halfway House provides temporary housing for persons who have been evicted or are homeless for other reasons.

Since it receives no government funds, equipment and furnishings at the Halfway House are less than luxurious. But the understanding, warm meals, rest, and sound counsel available there have helped hundreds of troubled men and women toward a better life.

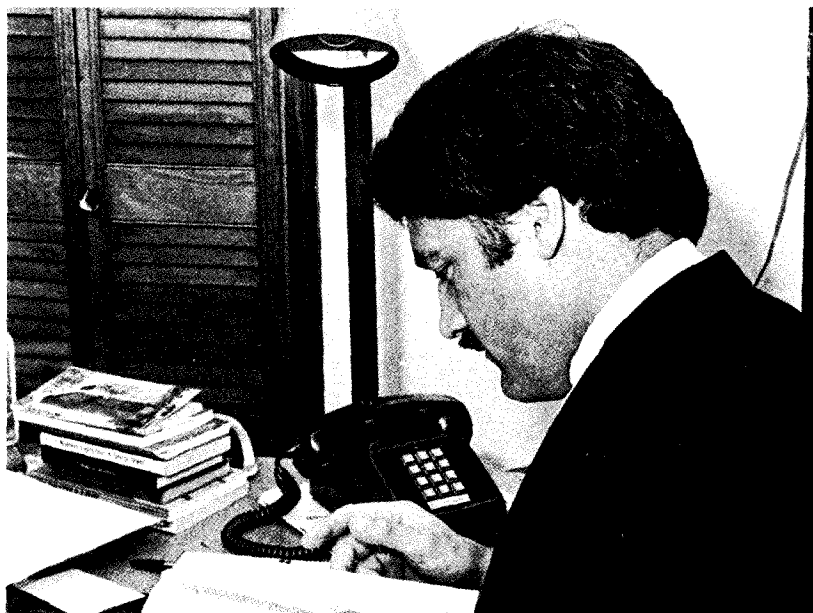

Harold Turner, conference evangelist, has the privilege of baptizing Sue Houser who had seen his face in a dream and been shown some of the doctrines he would present during evangelistic meetings in Lincolnton, North Carolina.

Precious Dreams and Multiplying Evangelism

by Michael Hanson

On July 4, 1976, while America was celebrating her independence, Mrs. Sue Houser of Lincolnton, North Carolina, was celebrating another kind of freedom as Harold Turner, conference evangelist, raised her from the baptismal waters. While the baptism itself was not uncommon, the events leading to Mrs. Houser's baptism gave unmistakable evidence of the leading of God's Spirit. God had revealed Turner's face to Mrs. Houser in a dream and had further instructed her that she was to attend the meeting because the Turners were presenting truth.

Herb Crawley was baptized by Harold Turner in 1972 after a crusade in Fayetteville, North Carolina. Today, as pastor of the Salisbury and Albemarle, North Carolina, churches, Crawley enjoys his study time, but puts real emphasis on visitation and membership involvement.

Sue, who runs the local license plate office and the telegraph office in Lincolnton, praises God for His leading. "I'm just so grateful to the Lord, and I want to learn all that I can about His Word," beams Sue. When asked about her dream, Sue indicated that she had been hesitant to say anything about it to either Turner or to Foster Medford, the Lincolnton pastor, because she hadn't understood what she had seen at first.

"Pastor Turner is such a wonderful man, but when I saw his face in the dream it was kind of evil-looking. I didn't understand it until I came to the first meeting. And when the spotlight reflected off his glasses I saw the same face I had seen in the dream. The face wasn't really evil. The Lord was just showing me what I'd see when I came to the meeting." In a letter to Pastor Medford, she said that she had been instructed in matters relating to the "beasts" of Revelation, and that Turner would make clear the "second" beast of Revelation, and that she was to take her stand along with God's people and to proclaim His second coming. The letter accurately described Turner's Fourth of July message on America in Bible prophecy prior to its presentation. Mrs. Houser met with Turner and Medford and expressed her desire to go all the way with Jesus into baptism and new life.

She is so excited about this message that she can hardly wait to share what she is learning with her friends.

Another one of Turner's thrilling experiences took place in 1972 when Herb and Linda Crawley were baptized during his series in Fayetteville, North Carolina. Now Herb is pastoring the Salisbury-Albemarle, North Carolina, district, and under his leadership 18 precious souls have been added to his district since February of this year.

As he tells his experience, Herb recalls that his mother had been baptized during some meetings in Amelia, Ohio, in 1948. "After that we were raised as Adventists, but I became bitter during my teen years and left the church," he explains. "I just put it completely out of my mind, and went on about my life. Of course seeing kids going to church every now and then would bring back old memories, but I would generally put them out of my thinking without much trouble." He didn't know it at the time, but children (his own) were going to play an important role in bringing him back to church.

After Herb met and married Linda, they moved to Fayetteville where Herb took a job as program director for WFNC radio station, but in the back of his mind was a desire to go back to medical school. The Lord had another plan in mind, though, and Herb's work at the radio station would benefit him later in public speaking.

The first turning point in Herb and Linda's religious life came when their three children were getting older and Linda was concerned about their religious training. Herb's mother had given the children a set of Bible Story books with the understanding that Herb and Linda would read them to the children. "She was really using good psychology," laughs Herb, thinking back on the experience.

One day Linda came to Herb and told him that the children needed to be going to church, and asked if he wanted them to go to his church (which they had never attended) or to hers. "I think she learned her psychology from my mother," chuckles Herb, "because she didn't ask whether or not we ought to take them to church, just which church, yours or mine. Well, I didn't want the children attending the church she was raised in so we looked up the Adventist church and started taking the kids to church."

Later, during Turner's series, Herb and Linda both felt they needed to make a full commitment, so they made their decision and were baptized.

The second crucial point in their religious experience came when Pastor Jay Gallimore put Herb to work as a Sabbath school teacher. Herb's speaking ability was noticed and it wasn't long before he was Sabbath school superintendent and an occasional guest speaker for the worship service. One Sabbath when Herb was scheduled to speak for church he noticed two visitors in his class and asked them to introduce themselves. The men introduced themselves as Elders Reile and Leggett, but he was unaware that he was teaching the lesson to the conference president and secretary. After the Sabbath school and church services, Gallimore told Herb who the men were. "Actually, I had heard their names before, but it just hadn't sunk in," Herb recalls, "but I was just as glad I hadn't remembered or I would have really been nervous."

Reile visited with Herb for a short while asking if he had considered the ministry. Herb, his mind filled with thoughts of medical school, was shocked. He certainly hadn't thought of it. Reile encouraged him to continue his course but if the Lord pointed him a different way, to give him a call at the office.

Soon Herb's medical school applications began coming back. Every school was turning him down, not because of his scholastics, but because of his age. Herb was 33 and the cut-off age at most schools is 27. After months of frustration and depression it finally dawned on Herb that God was pointing him in another direction. He called Elder Reile. The Conference Committee met, and soon Herb Crawley became an intern for the Carolina Conference.

Since he has returned from his graduate work at Andrews University, Herb has been pastoring the Salisbury and Albemarle churches. One of his first activities was to invite Elder and Mrs. Turner in for a series of meetings. Herb knows full well the advantages of an active evangelistic program. "That and putting the new members to work," he adds, "is the key to a successful program."

Under the blessings of God through the 10+ 10+ program, Carolina employs three full-time evangelists, each of whom could share thrilling experiences like these. Praise God for effective, soul-stirring, soul-winning evangelists, and for His faithful Carolina family.

Sixteen-year-old John Whitted's previously stated wishes were honored when, following a fatal accident, his kidneys were placed in two individuals who were dependent on kidney dialysis machines.

Sixteen-year-old John R. Whitted, Jr.'s, life ended prematurely on a recent Sunday morning. However, young John's death sparked the possibility of life for at least Peter Gallon, Jr., and perhaps another person.

John died from head injuries received when his bicycle collided with a car about 12:10 a.m. the preceding day.

One of John's kidneys went to the 51-year-old Gallon at Florida Hospital. Gallon had undergone weekly dialysis treatments for 11 months. The other was implanted in a patient at the University of Florida's Shands Hospital in Gainesville.

Long before the accident John had discussed organ transplants with his father. "John and I had a chance to discuss that thing and he was very much in favor of it," reveals John R. Whitted, Sr. "He just couldn't understand why there wasn't more of it."

The decision to donate the kidneys was made early Sunday when doctors knew there was very little chance of John's living and plans were started for a possible transplant. By the time John died Sunday, Gallon was in Florida Hospital.

The senior Whitted said he spoke with doctors who explained the desperate need for kidney donations. "They assured me it was very difficult to locate donors and there were many people who were waiting for kidney donations. I knew John would want something good in someone else's life to come from his."

Mrs. Rebecca Gallon says she and her husband were called about 3:00 a.m. Sunday and told a kidney might be available. "He answered the phone, and he was real excited and I remember he told them, 'I live in Winter Park and can be at the hospital in 15 minutes.'"

Gallon lost both his kidneys about 11 months before and had been on a dialysis machine since. "The doctors said his kidneys had been deteriorating for 20 years," states Mrs. Gallon.

But now Gallon has a new kidney. He is at home and, for the first time in 11 months, is free from depending on a kidney dialysis machine to keep him alive.

"I feel kind of funny," the 51-year-old former furniture upholsterer confides. "You can't really tell a person how it feels . . . it feels like there is something . . . something extra inside you."

"The first thing I did when I came home was kiss my wife," he recalls. Then the two talked of the donation, the operation, and the new life.

"It's a relief to know that he doesn't have to be on that machine any more," says Mrs. Gallon.

Gallon says he's feeling "fine, real good." Little pain followed the operation, a condition that amazed the doctors, he remarks.

Of young John Whitted, Gallon says, "He can rest in peace for giving a normal life to another human being."

John's father states that his son was active in his church and was interested in music. "John was a very deeply involved Christian. His personality was such that he cared for people. I know a lot of good is going to come from this—not only the donation, but from the people whose lives he touched."

John was the eldest of three sons and two daughters, and the other children in the family looked to him as their idol, recalls the senior Whitted.

The day John died, his deeply religious family gathered with friends and neighbors to talk, not about John's death, but about his life. "I just want his life to be worth something," his father mused, "and I think this [the kidney donation] might be part of it."

Peter Gallon couldn't agree more.

Foley is joined by the elders of the church in visiting church families as they encourage every member to enter into a faithful steward relationship with the Lord. Each month a written progress report is given to each member. The result of this careful planning and organization is that the Ellijay church is 3½ months ahead in its contributions for conference evangelism, showing $1,774.93 as of the end of June as compared with only $1,134.79 a year ago at this time. General Conference offerings almost doubled in one month from $236.95 in May to $440.72 in June, and the church budget has $4,000 in reserve! Members of the Ellijay church are praising God for His blessing on their faithful stewardship!

Conference Treasurer H. R. Trout reports a TITHE GAIN for the first half of 1976 of $287,559.54. This is a gain of 14.1 per cent over the same period last year! "Bring Ye All the Tithes into the storehouse, . . . and prove Me . . . saith the Lord . . . If I will not open you the windows of Heaven . . ."

The newly organized Peachtree City, Georgia, church held a two-week VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL during July with the assistance of Tina Croswell and Patricia Holland. Of the 65 children who attended, 42 were from non-SDA homes. Sponsored by the Sabbath School Department, Tina and Patricia have traveled throughout Georgia-Cumberland this summer, assisting local churches with their vacation Bible schools, reports Sabbath School Director, Jack Price. "This is one of the most effective methods of child evangelism we have used," says Price.

KENTUCKY-TENNESSEE

Kenneth Cox opened an EVANGELISTIC CRUSADE in Memphis, Tennessee, with nearly 800 in attendance. His crusade will close August 28.

TWELVE WERE ADDED TO THE CHURCH by baptism and profession of faith in a series of meetings in Louisville, Kentucky, conducted by Evangelist Grant Gunter and Pastor Don Howe.

Evangelist Jerry Willis has just concluded a SERIES OF MEETINGS with Pastor Frank Walker in Frankfort, Kentucky. Nine individuals were baptized into the church and there is a good interest, with the possibility of several more baptisms.

The MEMBERSHIP of the Kentucky-Tennessee Conference at the close of the second quarter was 7,923. This is a gain of 128 for the first six months of this year.

For 17 years Robert Blanton, a member of the Fourth Street church in Louisville, Kentucky, has been conducting a PRAYER MEETING for the patients at King's Daughters and Sons Home, an institution for the incurables, the first Tuesday of each month. Eighty-year-old Magdalene Tanner plays the piano for the song service that is led by Jim Stevens. For Blanton, who is nearing retirement, one of the questions uppermost in his mind is, "What kind of a life have I lived for these people?"

SOUTH ATLANTIC

The VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL staff of the Ephesus church in Wilmington, North Carolina, is rejoicing over the results of its recently conducted session. The VBS ran from July 19 through 23. There were 88 boys and girls in attendance. On Sabbath, July 24, the closing exercises were held, at which time the boys and girls demonstrated to their parents, teachers, relatives, and friends the skills they had acquired. The staff consisted of Mrs. Joyce L. Dyson, director; Janice Hughes, junior class teacher; Fannie Watson, Mildred Mosley, and Geneva Pearsall, primary teachers; Gloria Jordan, kindergarten teacher; Virginia Lewis, nursery school teacher; Brenda Bonaparte and Helen Pollock, arts and craft instructors; and Theresa Jordan, Rosa Kelly, and Cynthia Bryan served as aides. This is the beginning of what is believed to be a very fruitful missionary endeavor in the Wilmington church. The pastor, E. J. Lewis is indeed proud of the work his faithful members are doing.

TWENTY EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS are being conducted in the South Atlantic Conference this summer. Several others were scheduled, but, because of district changes, they will be deferred until later in the year. For the first time in many years, five meetings are being held in the state of South Carolina. It is possible that a sixth meeting will commence in that state before the summer is over. We are thrilled about this, because the conference is making a desperate effort to build up the membership in South Carolina where we have our smallest number of Adventists. Reports are coming in from all over the conference that the meetings are going well. The attendance is high, and the evangelists are expecting a good harvest.

The Atlanta Berean Church set Sabbath, July 31, as SENIOR CITIZENS' DAY. Mrs. Irene Bowden, one of the Sabbath school superintendents, steered this program for the senior citizens. Beautiful carnations were pinned on each senior citizen during the Sabbath school program and appreciations were expressed for these dear ones who have done so much for their church. The pastor, F. W. Parker, carried the same theme into the 11 o'clock service when he gave the message for the morning entitled "God's Care for Senior Members of His Church." The day's activity was inspiring to all in attendance and will be long remembered by our senior citizens that they are loved and wanted.

F. W. Parker, new pastor of the Atlanta-Berean church, used his second major sermon to lay out his position on ADVENTIST EDUCATION to his members in no uncertain tone. S. E. Gooden, the superintendent of education, made remarks prior to the sermon by the pastor. He pointed out some of the things that the school should be doing and the prospects for the ensuing school year. The new principal, William Brown, had not yet arrived, so the school board chairperson, Mrs. Irene Bowden, announced that she and other board members would be in the fellowship hall to talk with persons who wanted to sign up their children for school this year. To their great surprise, more than 50 new ones signed up, plus a goodly number who had no children but signed up to assist some needy child. Others came to find out what they may do to help the school. This is going to put a tremendous strain on the present facilities of the school and may necessitate the acquiring of one or two mobile classrooms and the hiring of more teachers.

EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS are being conducted this year in the following cities: Alabama: Bessemer, Gadsden; Florida: Pensacola; Kentucky: Louisville; Mississippi: Hazelhurst, Rollingfork, Westpoint; Tennessee: Memphis, Chattanooga, Springfield. The evangelists are requesting prayer for success.

Sidney E. Parker recently received a plaque for 20 years of CHURCH LEADERSHIP from E. E. Cleveland who baptized Parker in 1954. Parker was such a dedicated member and good Bible student that the church asked him to serve as local elder about two years after baptism. Parker served as lay activities leader, usher board coordinator, first elder of the Atmore, Alabama, church, conference committee member, and stewardship secretary among other offices.

The deacons of the Emmanuel church in Mobile, Alabama, recently presented a 40-PASSENGER BUS to the church. The debt-free bus is used on Sabbath mornings to transport members who otherwise might not be able to attend worship. The choirs and other groups of the church use the bus in their ministries in the city and surrounding counties. Marion Yates is chairman of the board of deacons.

The BLACK ADVENTIST MEDICAL-DENTAL ASSOCIATION met in Nashville, Tennessee, August 6-8. In attendance were some 25 doctors from 10 states. Officers elected included J. Mark Cox, M.D., of Orlando, Florida, president; W. E. Coopwood, M.D., of Nashville, secretary; J. A. Rhyne, M.D., of Huntsville, Alabama, editor of national publication.

Grant Finances WSMC-FM Repairs

Southern Missionary College — North American Royalties, Inc., of Chattanooga, recently awarded WSMC-FM a $500 grant to assist in the replacement of a damaged transmission line. The 140-foot copper line short-circuited in May of this year, and reduced the station's power from 100,000 watts stereo to 50 watts monaural. In appreciation, Acting Manager John Beckett presented the company with a commemorative plaque and stated, "This company has long been a faithful supporter of WSMC-FM's fine arts programming. When this serious problem arose, NAR once again proved to be a friend indeed. This grant not only made up a large part of the repair bill, but also sparked the interest of other contributors. The repairs were quickly made and the station returned to its full power of 100,000 watts stereo."

In accepting the plaque, Karl L. Landgrebe, Vice-President and General Manager of Wheland Foundry Division of North American Royalties, Inc., said, "North American Royalties, Inc., is happy to be one of the sponsors of the fine music program of radio station WSMC, and to have been of assistance in the recent emergency. Station WSMC-FM is a significant cultural asset of the Chattanooga-Tri-State area, and it is important that its signal stay strong and clear."

Florida Pastor Leads Anti-Liquor Drive

Florida — Community involvement comes in many forms to our churches, and often with it comes notoriety.

Marc Beaven, pastor of the St. Cloud-Kissimmee district, was recently selected to head up the St. Cloud Committee on Alcoholism. He immediately entered into a vigorous campaign to persuade the St. Cloud voters to defeat a proposal for extending liquor sales to Sundays.

Untiringly, he wrote newspaper ads, letters to the editor, and made speeches before the city council. He armed himself with information on alcoholism and its effect on the community and was actually the most informed member of the local ministerial association, which supported him in the campaign.

Beaven reports that as a result of the campaign, the voters turned out and by a 60 to 40 per cent margin defeated liquor sales on Sunday. Beaven feels that community involvement is not only a privilege, but also a sacred responsibility.

Progress

Jackson, Brownsville Break Ground for New Church Buildings

South Central — On July 25 the members and friends of the Lane Avenue church in Jackson, Mississippi, rejoiced with President C. E. Dudley and Pastor R. L. James in breaking ground for the new church building on the recently acquired "God-given" site on Royal Street.

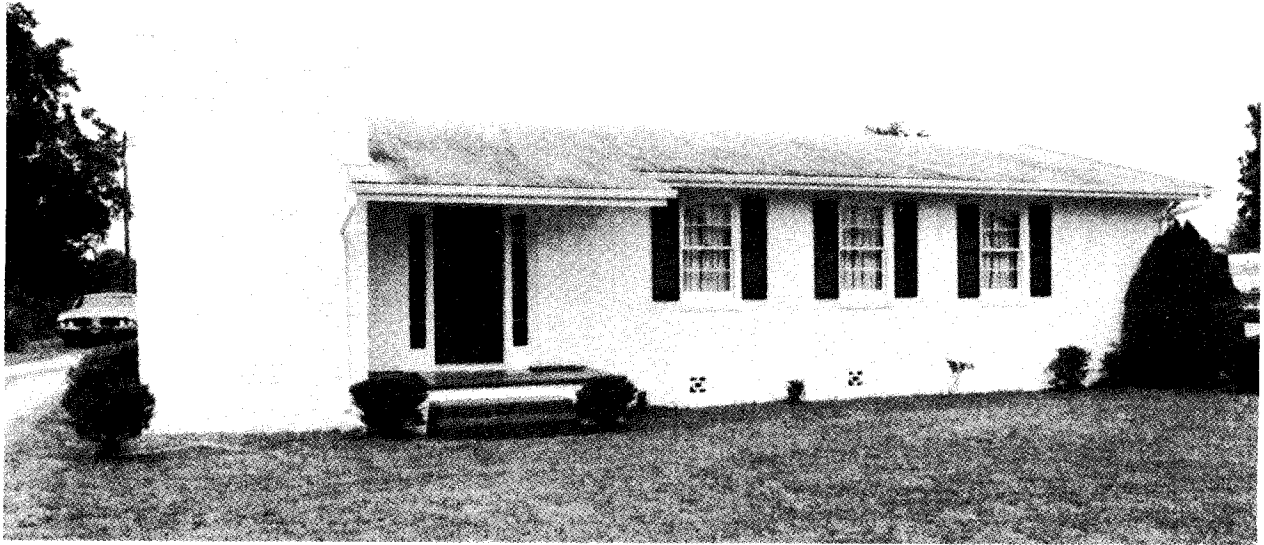

The church building on Lane Avenue was destroyed last year by a tornado, leaving the congregation to meet in borrowed and rented churches while trying to secure a new building site. After much prayer, when all seemed hopeless, (land inside the city of Jackson is scarce) the block-long site facing Royal, a main street, became available. James thinks that the lot would be appraised for some $34,000 but cost the church only $8,000.

Two hours later, the chairs, speaker's stand and all had been transferred to Brownsville by William Freeman, the conference construction consultant, and another groundbreaking service was witnessed.

Velma Thompson, church clerk, gave the church history in Jackson; J. A. Ashworth, local elder, read the history in Brownsville.

Orangeburg Dedicates Church

South Atlantic — 255 Maxcy Street, Orangeburg, South Carolina, had literally become an SDA Mecca because that little congregation worshiped at that one spot for 58 years. Then for the next four years, they were forced to wander around from house to house on Sabbaths and Wednesday nights until they procured this present facility at 1709 Rowesville Road in 1974.

Dr. R. L. Woodfork, the conference president, delivered the 11 o'clock sermon July 31 and Dr. R. C. Conner, pastor of the Charlotte-Berean church, who is himself a native of Orangeburg, delivered the dedication message that afternoon at 4:00.

E. O. Pendarvis, the mayor of Orangeburg for the past 11 years and Fred Mac, newly elected county commissioner, were present for the dedication service on Sabbath morning.

Woodfork's message to the 100 persons present on Sabbath morning was based upon God's command to Moses in Exodus 14:15. . . "Speak on to the children of Israel that they go forward."

Conner, who preached at his church in Charlotte on Sabbath morning, preached on the majority versus the minority report of the 12 spies. In his message, he pointed out what a small congregation can do with God on its side. "God has not called us to be keepers of aquarium," he said, "but to be fishers of men." Conner baptized 200 in 1975.

The act of dedication was conducted by Willie Taylor, a previous shepherd of that flock, and the consecration prayer was offered by S. E. Gooden, conference education director.

The list of ministers who pastored this 35-member church since its organization on June 26, 1912, consists of 27, including Matthew Green, the present pastor. N. B. Smith pastored there three times. Only two of the surviving pastors were able to be present, however. They were Taylor and Green.

Oneida Church Breaks Ground at New Manchester Site

Kentucky-Tennessee — "This day, June 29, is a day which the Oneida church family has long been looking forward to," spoke Pastor Vernon Chase. These words marked the beginning of the special occasion of groundbreaking for the Manchester, Kentucky, church.

mately 20 miles from where the new church will be built and is on the same grounds as the former Oneida Mountain Hospital. This hospital was taken over by the Kentucky-Tennessee Conference Association of Seventh-day Adventists in 1955 and in 1971 was moved to Manchester in Clay County. For the past two years, church members have donated their time taking usable material from the Oneida Mountain Hospital and hauling it to Manchester to be used in constructing portions of the new church.

The new Manchester church will seat a congregation of 200-250, whereas the Oneida church building seats a crowded 100. Membership at the present is 107 and growing.

New Murfreesboro Church Dedicated

Kentucky-Tennessee — Sabbath afternoon, June 26, the Elam Road church in Murfreesboro, Tennessee, was dedicated. K. D. Johnson, conference president, delivered the dedication sermon.

Construction of this new sanctuary was begun in the fall of 1972 and was completed to the point of being ready for occupancy by late August, 1973. The congregation has been holding services in the building since that date. Only 43 months after construction was begun, the final mortgage payment was made on April 27, 1976. The building was constructed at a cost of approximately $110,000 according to Mrs. Lillian Johnson, the church treasurer.

In addition to housing the church sanctuary, the building also contains the classroom wing of the church school. At present this is a two-teacher school.

One of the highlights of the dedication service was the presentation of the history of the church by Mrs. Ethel J. Child. Mrs. Child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel F. Brown, were charter members of the first SDA church in Murfreesboro, organized in 1896. When this church was organized, three of the Browns' young children attended services in this first church. They were Miss Lucy Brown, Tom H. Brown, and Walter Brown. All of these members of the Brown family were present for the dedication service.

The church which was organized in 1896 was the result of meetings conducted by George Starr. Starr walked a distance of 32 miles from Nashville to hold meetings with this first group of believers in Murfreesboro. Other members of the first group were Eill Harris, Mrs. Drew Craddock, and a Mrs. Linebaugh, who organized the first public library in Murfreesboro. The city library today is called The Linebaugh Library in her honor.

Jacksonville Beaches Becomes 94th Florida Church

Florida — A new church was organized July 17 in the northeast corner of the Florida Conference. The 23 charter members chose the official church name of Jacksonville Beaches Seventh-day Adventist church. Pastoring the new flock is Ralph LaFave. The organization service was conducted by the officers of the Florida Conference, H. J. Carubba, R. J. Ulmer, and J. P. Rogers.

For the present, the "Beaches church" meets in a rented Nazarene church building on Highway A1A. This new church now gives the Florida Conference a total of 94 churches.

Peachtree City, Mountain City Occupy New Facilities

Georgia-Cumberland — Two new churches were opened in July in the Georgia-Cumberland Conference. On July 24, Conference President Desmond Cummings spoke at the official opening of the Peachtree City, Georgia, church. Last October this new congregation began meeting in a warehouse. Construction of their new sanctuary began in January of 1976, and on March 6 they were officially organized as a church by Everett E. Cumbo, conference secretary. The 39-member congregation is justly proud of their new church home, the value of which is placed at over $100,000, but actual cost will be under $80,000 because of the large amount of donated labor by church members.

Participating in this special service were E. E. Cumbo, conference secretary, and H. R. Trout, treasurer. Johnson County was a dark county before January of 1975, when eight people began meeting in a home in Mountain City. April of that year they moved to the Methodist church for Sabbath services, and began a search for suitable property for their own church. September of 1975 the Hiner-Boling Evangelistic Team held a crusade in an air tent erected on the site of the future church. Construction began in February of 1976.

Future plans include construction of a sanctuary and additional rooms to supplement the youth chapel now being used for church services.

Both of these new churches have been made possible by the assistance of the Professional and Business Association of Georgia-Cumberland. This makes a total of 24 churches that have been financed by this group of laymen since its inception in 1967.

Who and Where

Hospitality, Bible Studies Net Tuscaloosa Baptisms

Alabama-Mississippi — Michael and Sylvia Brown moved to Tuscaloosa, Alabama, a few years ago from Texas. They have two sons aged ten and eight. In all their years of married life they only attended church about three times. But they did study the Bible.

Personal study convinced them that Saturday was the Bible Sabbath. They wanted to learn more. On Sabbath, June 26, Sylvia drove by the Tuscaloosa Adventist church and pulled into the parking lot. She was curious but really didn't plan to go into the church. As she sat there in her car, she felt compelled to go in anyhow.

Conference President W. D. Wampler happened to be preaching that Sabbath in the absence of the pastor who had been injured in an accident. The cordial welcome prompted her to explain her desire for greater knowledge of the Scriptures. Her story brought a response from Tom and Hazel Fowler who arranged Bible studies. As in Bible times, the Lord led His servants to instruct those who were studying but didn't fully understand—like Phillip and the Ethiopian.

When Sylvia and Michael studied with the help of the Fowlers, they soon understood, and, like the Ethiopian, asked, "What hinders us from being baptized?" Nothing. So on July 31 the Browns became Seventh-day Adventists in a special baptism held by conference departmental leader Gerald Kovalski.

South Carolina District Holds Officer Inauguration

Carolina — Members of the Orangeburg and Aiken, South Carolina, churches, and the North Augusta company met together at the Woodsmen of the World Lodge in Orangeburg for a special buffet dinner and a church officer installation and dedication program.

Herbert Weise, district pastor, led out in the program which included the buffet meal, which was provided by the church members, and a lovely musical program utilizing local church talent. E. S. Reile, conference president, challenged the new officers to dedicate themselves to the finishing of the work. M. D. Gordon, conference secretary, led the group in a dedicatory responsive reading which was followed by the prayer of dedication.

Weise, assisted by O. D. Fowler, and Kenneth R. Lorenz, headelders of the Aiken and Orangeburg churches, presented "credentials" to each newly elected church officer.

Camp Meeting Features Evangelism, Conference Session

South Atlantic — The Triennial Session of the South Atlantic Conference was held this year in conjunction with the annual camp meeting. The following officers and departmental men were returned to office: R. L. Woodfork, president; R. B. Hairston, secretary; Robert Patterson, treasurer. For the departments, there were: Artie Davis, assistant treasurer; S. E. Gooden, education and religious liberty; Joe Hinson, conference evangelist and lay activities; T. R. Smith, publishing; G. W. Timpson, youth activities and temperance; G. H. Taylor, Sabbath school and associate stewardship. Associate publishing are: L. Fowler, H. Gaskins, and W. Sutton; L. S. Follette, M.D., health secretary.

The theme of the camp meeting was, "Now Is the Time." Woodfork set the stage on Thursday night, June 10, with a sermon entitled, "Making Man Whole." His thesis was that just as Jesus made the man whole at the pool of Bethesda, so the mission of the church is to make modern man whole in body, soul, and spirit. The speakers which followed him for the next 10 days maintained the crescendo so that when the meeting ended on June 19, everybody felt like Peter, James, and John on the mount of transfiguration—nobody wanted to leave.

It was purported that the time utilized in taking the evangelism offering was the shortest in the history of the offering and also the largest amount ever collected to date—$66,000. There are several tent efforts scheduled for this summer, and this is only a substantial fraction of the evangelism budget.

The conference reported tremendous progress and growth during the past triennium. Four new churches and three companies were organized. These included a Korean church in Atlanta and a French company in Miami. Two million eighty thousand dollars were collected in tithe during 1975 and the Education Promotion Committee assisted dozens of families with their children to get a Christian education to the tune of over $70,000. Every department showed substantial gain and progress.

E. E. Richards, D.D.S., and his family, missionaries on furlough from East Africa, added much inspiration to both youth and adults for the 10 days. D. S. Williams from the General Conference Communication Department, and Ted Jones of Message magazine were other returned missionaries at the camp meeting. The Breath of Life Quartet was present the final weekend of the encampment.

Florida Couple Honored for Volunteer Work

Florida — Mr. and Mrs. Lester C. Gaul, members of the Forest Lake church, Forest City, Florida, have been selected by the Florida Conference as recipients of the Layman of the Year Award in recognition of their outstanding contribution to the community services program of the church in the state.

gram sponsored by the Adventist Community Services Center. With other volunteers, the Gauls, both registered nurses, have processed over 5,000 people for screening tests, including diabetes, glaucoma, hemoglobin, and blood pressure. About 4,800 copies of Life and Health magazine and Beliefs of Seventh-day Adventists were given to those being tested, and around 200 of these signed up for Bible studies.

The couple came to Florida to retire in 1969. What a retirement!

Hermitage Hosts 'Bible Sabbath Association' Meeting

Kentucky-Tennessee — Members of the small Hermitage, Tennessee, church demonstrated to the Bible Sabbath Association board of directors during the weekend of May 29 that old-fashioned Seventh-day Adventist hospitality is still very much in style.

Twenty-one visitors from six states, representing such varied denominational backgrounds as Seventh-day Adventist, Seventh Day Baptist, Church of God (Seventh Day), and Church of God, Jerusalem Acres—all Sabbathkeeping groups—and some independent Sabbathkeepers, were included among the guests.

The Bible Sabbath Association is a transdenominational group formed during the 1940's as the result of correspondence among a few Seventh Day Baptists, Church of God (Seventh Day) members, and Seventh-day Adventists who felt that an organization should be formed to further fellowship and understanding among Sabbathkeepers without compromising their distinctive points of doctrine. The group, headquartered at Fairview, Oklahoma, publishes the monthly Sabbath Sentinel, the Directory of Sabbath-Observing Groups, and various tracts promoting the Sabbath. First vice-president, and editor of The Sabbath Sentinel since 1960, is a Seventh-day Adventist who now lives at Old Hickory, Tennessee.

Two new pairs of shoes were given to each of the 33 boys at Boys Home of the South in Belton, South Carolina. The shoes, delivered by Community Services Director Bob Ammons, were provided under the Carolina Conference's "shoes for children" program.

Meeting a raccoon was just one of the many camp activities enjoyed by 75 blind campers at Atoka Springs Camp July 18-25. This was the first year that Atoka Springs has hosted the camp, sponsored by the Christian Record Braille Foundation. Swimming, scuba diving, canoeing, crafts, hiking, and horseback riding, were some of the other activities.

As part of the bicentennial "Four C's for Century Three" sponsored by the Youth Department, young people at Camp Alamisco planted several hundred shrubs in an extensive landscaping project.

Sixty-three Dade County, Georgia, children ages five and six were bussed to the Wildwood Sanitarium and Hospital for a two-day testing program July 7, 8, which included urinalysis, blood test, weight, height, blood pressure, ears, nose, and throat exam. Musculo-skeletal development was checked and hearing, heart, lungs, and abdomen examined. Also included was an individual counseling session for each child and a film depicting the effect of sugar on the body. Upon leaving, each child received a health gift, apple, toothbrush, and a copy of Our Little Friend. The Dade County Headstart Organization sponsored the program to determine the children's readiness for Headstart activities.

Three Atlanta Churches Launch Pilot Program

Three Atlanta-area churches have launched a pilot lay evangelism program using the BASIC BIBLE audio visual programs. The key ingredient is organization—a plan that involves every member. Churches participating are Belvedere, with 512 members; Beverly Road, with 360 members; and Southside, numbering 160 members.

Pastors Noel Shanko of Belvedere and J. S. Damazo of Beverly Road report that each of their churches is organized into 35 teams. Pastor Dan Appel has the Southside church organized into five teams. Each team leader encourages his group to join in the weekly home Bible study program and to invite friends and neighbors to join them. Seven groups meet each night on five nights of the week. (One group nightly for five nights in the case of Southside.) Detailed organizational charts at the church provide for reporting of the studies given by each group each week. Weekly gatherings of the various groups on the different organizational levels provide enthusiasm, encouragement, and motivation for expansion of the program.

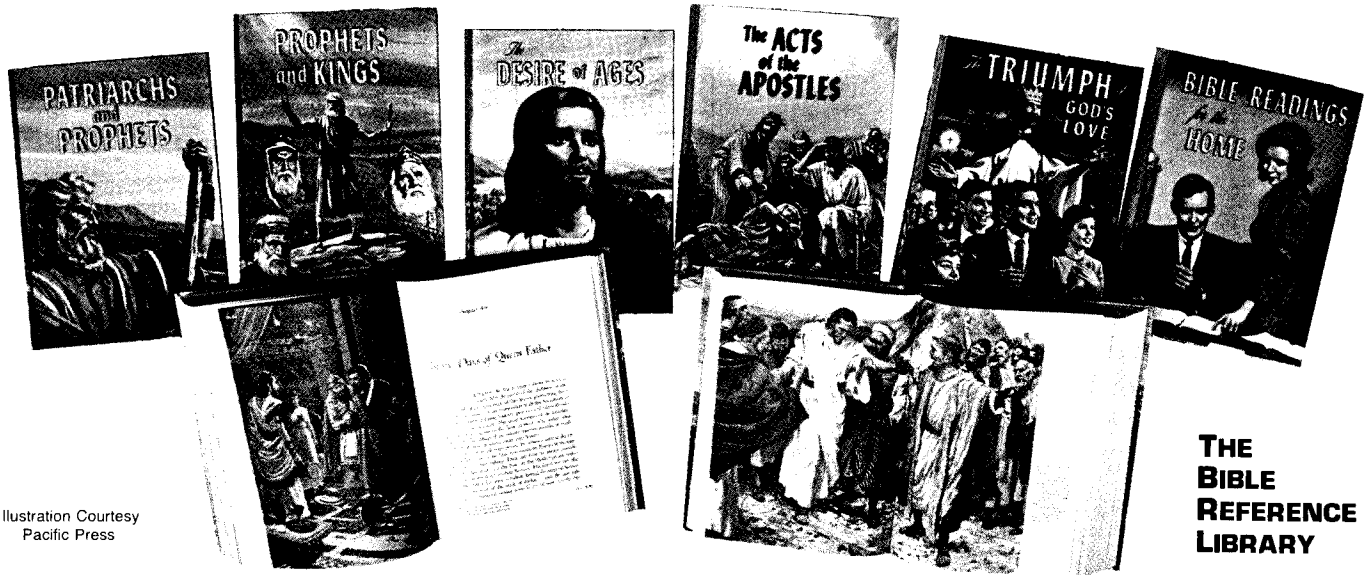

As the groups meet, the team leader goes over the subject to be presented as given in the BASIC BIBLE Study Guide literature. The film is then shown, a copy of the literature is passed out, and the questions given in the Study Guide are reviewed. Any further questions can be answered by reference to the specified section in the back of the Bible designed specially for the BASIC BIBLE study series. The study closes with prayer and arrangement for a meeting the following week.

After nine weeks of home Bible studies by the church members, weekend meetings are planned in each of the three churches for a period of three weeks.

The plan, as organized and being piloted by the three Atlanta churches, can be used in any size church—large or small.

A Dream, Lost Keys, and a Sale

by Terri Prins

Deborah Goodwin started to toss and turn in her sleep. She was dreaming. Her dream appeared so vivid—and so unusual—that she woke up at 5:00 a.m.

Mrs. Goodwin dreamed that a stranger came to her home. He was carrying some large books. These books were bright and colorful and one book had a picture of Jesus on it, another showed Moses standing on a mountain, and one even depicted a peaceful family scene.

In her dream she read and studied the books faithfully; discovering truths she had never known. She felt happy—happier than she had ever before been. These books changed her life! She felt new. Christ's love came bubbling out of her and she felt compelled to witness to her husband, her mother, her pastor, and even strangers on the street how much more Christ meant to her.

When she woke from her sleep, every detail of her dream was still fresh in her mind and she immediately related her dream to her husband.

It was a glorious Monday morning—the sun was shooting bright bursts of light in every direction, birds were chirping loudly from every tree and everything was going just right for Wanda Amick, a literature evangelist.

But in another home a few blocks down the street, the day was beginning on a sour note. Deborah Goodwin could not find her keys. She had searched every nook and cranny in her house but, still, no keys! Without the keys she couldn't get to work, but the case of their mysterious disappearance was obviously not to be solved.

Wanda drove up and down the street—one, two, three times—but still could not locate that address. On the verge of giving up she was strongly impressed to try just one more time.

She finally found the house. The occupant, Deborah Goodwin, was just preparing to leave for work, having finally discovered those illusive keys.

After viewing the film on the visual canvass projector, Deborah was very impressed. She was bewildered, though, at the fact that Mrs. Amick came that particular day—and that she had the adult books, the BIBLE REFERENCE LIBRARY, to show when Deborah had sent in a card inquiring about THE BIBLE STORY books for her children.

When Deborah was prompted to explain why she felt this way, she eagerly related the events in her so recent dream. Most important of all was the fact that the books the literature evangelist had displayed, the BIBLE REFERENCE LIBRARY, were the exact books of her dream.

Mrs. Goodwin immediately bought her "dream books" and began to study them enthusiastically.

God gave her the dream. God arranged for her to be home so she could be shown the BIBLE REFERENCE LIBRARY. God impressed her to buy the complete set. God works in many mysterious ways to spread His message through his literature evangelists.

Wanda Amick expressed the feelings of literature evangelists everywhere when she said, "I pray that I will be privileged to remain in God's work, and have many more wonderful experiences like this."

Christian Education

A significant meeting involving higher education in the North American Division has just closed. This convention was held on the campus of Andrews University and included university and college administrators, board chairmen, college teachers from all disciplines, and personnel from the Department of Education of the General Conference and union conferences.

This meeting was the first of its kind since 1968 and was attended by about 900 delegates. Many significant general sessions and sectional meetings were held in which the problems, possibilities and future plans which related to higher education in the Seventh-day Adventist Church were discussed. The sessions, particularly the early morning hour, were deeply spiritual. The entire convention was built around the theme "God—the Source, the Center, the Way" in Adventist higher education. I personally was impressed with the quality and training of those who labor in Christian education in the church. This was quite evident in what was expressed by them and in the Christian and academic leadership and influence they manifested in the convention, as well as on their respective campuses.

Speaking of Christian education, let me remind our churches and people by means of this column that we are now launching a new school year. In the Southern Union Conference we have nearly 200 elementary and 14 secondary schools and two colleges—Southern Missionary College and Oakwood College. These are here to serve the youth of our church. Every SDA child and young person ought to be enrolled in one of these schools this fall. Christian education for our youth in these troublous days is essential. We trust that parents and children will think about, plan for, and act on the opportunities that are still available to them for receiving training for this world and a place in the world to come.
