Adventism is rooted in evangelism. Public lectures on the great biblical themes, especially those dealing with prophecy, have characterized Adventist preaching from the beginning.

Some Pastors Avoid Public Evangelism

But evangelism has fallen on lean times in some quarters. During 1979 fewer than one-third of the pastors in the Southern Union Conference personally conducted public crusades. The combined percentage for South Atlantic and South Central was 70, leaving the frequency for the five remaining conferences at 22 percent, with one conference registering only nine percent.

"There is a tendency for the pastor to hold fewer public meetings, preferring to wait for the full-time evangelist to come to his church," states H. E. Metcalf, ministerial secretary of the Southern Union Conference. Paul's charge to Timothy to "do the work of an evangelist" (2 Timothy 4:5) is seen as evidence that pastors are not only to nurture those already in the faith, but to engage in active soul winning.

Kentucky-Tennessee Launches Drive

Nowhere has this challenge been more aggressively addressed in 1980 than in the Kentucky-Tennessee Conference. "Thirteen of our pastors launched evangelistic crusades March 1, and another three will begin before the month is out," reports H. V. Leggett, conference secretary.

Many of these pastors have never held public crusades.

New 30-Lesson System Spurs Evangelism

This evangelistic thrust was sparked by the revision of the Twentieth Century Bible Study system. In late 1979 and early 1980 the Southern Union Conference Special Services Department, at the urging of the local conferences, updated the visuals and text slides of the Twentieth Century 30-lesson series.

The new system contains 1,327 35 mm color slides, many taken from original artwork drawn specifically for this purpose. These visuals will also be placed on filmstrips for use on LaBelle and Dukane projectors. Vivid color and easily readable type, enhanced by special photographic effects, make the Bible come alive.

Pastors Given Sets to Hold Meetings

The Kentucky-Tennessee Conference offered to provide these materials to any pastor who would agree to hold at least four five-week crusades within the next four years. "With most of our evangelists using the multimedia approach, some of our pastors felt handicapped by not having suitable illustrative resources," states Leggett. "Some have been building a film library, but have found it very expensive, time-consuming, and sometimes unsatisfactory. These professionally produced full-message programs have been enthusiastically received."

Other Conferences Adopt System

As of March 10, orders amounted to 175 sets. Conferences placing orders included:

SOUTHERN UNION		CENTRAL UNION
Alabama-Mississippi	15	Central States	1
Carolina	25	Colorado	15
Florida	25	Kansas	10
Georgia-Cumberland	6	Missouri	15
Kentucky-Tennessee	30	Nebraska	15
South Atlantic	15

School of Evangelism Trains Pastors

Kentucky-Tennessee pastors were brought to conference headquarters February 3-6 for a school of evangelism. With his colleagues as his audience, each participating pastor conducted an "evening service"; making the announcements, presenting the attendance incentives, calling for the offering, and preaching the sermon. Following each presentation constructive criticism was given by Leggett and the other pastors.

"As more and more pastors accept the challenge and experience the thrill of evangelism, many more souls will be led to a knowledge of the truth," states Metcalf. "We envision the time when nearly every pastor in the Southern Union will conduct a public crusade every year—with some holding two or three. The impact this will have on the growth of our church and the spiritual insight of our members can only be phenomenal."

Weeks of 16-20 hour days spent in arranging artwork, setting type, photographing more than 1,300 separate slides, and duplicating, mounting, labeling, and packaging 131,500 slides in order to meet the March evangelism deadline were recognized March 12 when the Kentucky-Tennessee Conference presented a plaque to Jerry L. Heinrich, president of Photo Sound, International. Pictured are H. V. Leggett (left), secretary, Heinrich, A. C. McClure, president, and R. A. Lopez, treasurer.

ADVENTIST HEALTH SYSTEM / SUNBELI

A Challenger of Number

by Tamara Russell

he patient in room 112 had her call-light on for the fifth time in an hour. But when the nurse appeared, instead of voicing her usual request for water or a blanket, the patient asked, "Do you believe in God? Can you pray for me? I'm so afraid."

The nurse took the patient's hand, spoke softly of God's love and offered a prayer for His blessing and care. Twenty-five minutes later, the patient in room 112 was dead – her final words an echo of the nurse's prayer.

Last year 1,400 nurses cared for nearly 138,600 patients in hospitals in the Adventist Health System/Sunbelt. For many of them, it was their first, and possibly only, contact with Adventists.

"The primary concept which makes our Adventist hospitals unique, different from those run by other organizations or other churches, is the Adventist nursing care we offer," says Alice E. Smith, R.N., associate director of the General Conference Department of Health. "We have a duty to see that our patients receive this kind of care."

But do they? Do our Adventist hospitals have enough Adventist nurses to make it possible?

Sadly, in many of our hospitals, the answer is "No." In the majority of SDA hospitals, less than half of the nursing staff are Adventists. In only a few does the number of Adventist nurses reach 70 percent.

Two out of every three nurses directly involved with patients in SDA hospitals are non-SDA nurses. While many of them are committed Christians, they have little knowledge of the SDA health-care philosophy. Is it any wonder then that we have difficulty getting across our unique health message?

The Adventist health system was, of course, founded because of this uniqueness. From the beginning, its goals have been not simply to cure disease, but to teach a better way of life and offer preventive health care, along with spiritual and emotional care.

Because they believe in the importance of this Adventist health message, the leaders of AHS/Sunbelt are working to acquire hospitals in areas of the Southern Union which do not, as yet, have any organized church work. For this plan to be successful, however, Adventist nurses must be willing to commit themselves to work in these new hospitals as missionaries in the truest sense of the word.

"The nurse is the single most important person to the patient—even in some cases, more important than the patient's physician," says Miss Smith. "I do not mean to say that the physician is unimportant. To the contrary, it is his implicit faith in the nursing staff—in their ability to carry out a program of medical care—which creates the same element of faith in the patients. Nurses are those who spend more time with patients than any other single group. They have the greatest opportunity to reach the patient's needs most effectively."

If we wish our hospitals to continue to play an important role as the "right arm" of the health message, we must make our Seventh-day Adventist hospitals Seventh-day Adventist. Without additional numbers of Adventist nurses, we will fall short of our goal.

If you are an Adventist nurse, former nurse, or nursing student, and are interested in being part of the Adventist health-care system, please contact the Personnel Office of the SDA hospital nearest you, or write: Joan Salmons, R. N., Director of Nurse Recruiting, Adventist Health System/Sunbelt, 2400 Bedford Road, Orlando, Florida 32803.

DECATUR, GEORGIA -- --

Baptisms and professions of faith for the first two month of 1980 showed a 53 percent gain over the same period of 1979. The total was 687, an increase of 237 over the first two months of 1979. The Florida Conference was first, with 230, followed by Georgia-Cumberland, 121, South Atlantic, 101, Alabama-Mississippi, 76, Carolina, 72, Kentucky-Tennessee, 68, and South Central, 19.

DECATUR, GEORGIA — — —

Southern Union church members gave $179,868 in outright gifts during 1979 through the Trust Services Department, reports Director C. G. Cross. Other gifts included $873,679 in wills, trusts, and gift annuities which matured, bringing the total to $1,053,547. The funds were earmarked primarily for evangelism.

DALLAS, TEXAS - - -

Church leaders have recently expressed concern that the number of visitors reported to be planning to attend the General Conference session in Dallas, Texas, April 17-26, for some services will exceed the number of seats available. Because the General Conference session convenes primarily for conducting the world business of the church, the Dallas Convention Center Arena, which is adequate in size for the business sessions, was engaged. However, the arena contains only about 4,000 seats for nondelegates—fewer seats than there are Seventh-day Adventists in the immediate Dallas area. This lack of seating space for nondelegates is causing concern especially for the first weekend, April 18 and 19, and possibly also for the evening services until Friday, April 25. Seating accommodations for the last weekend, April 25 and 26, when the meetings will be held in the Convention Center Grand Hall (seating capacity 20,000), will be greater. "It is expected that hundreds-perhaps thousands-of nondelegate visitors will be converging in Dallas from other continents and countries at the time of the session," according to James E. Chase, General Conference communication director. "Some of these will be coming long distances and at considerable expense. It is believed that the great Seventh-day Adventist family of the North American Division will welcome these fellow church members from abroad, and apply the admonition of Romans 12:10: 'Be kindly affectioned one to another with brotherly love; in honour preferring one another." "

WASHINGTON, D.C. — — —

Final reports for the 1979-80 Ingathering crusade in North America show the highest amount ever reached—a total of $8,743,482. This represents a gain of $126,253 over the previous year, and a per capita of $15.29. Seven unions and 40 conferences exceeded last year's total, with 10 conferences surpassing the Silver Vanguard figure of $25 per member. "It is estimated that more than 25,000 Bible course enrollments have come in as a result of the offer presented in the Ingathering brochure and the personalized cards used by many conferences," reports Don Christman, associate lay activities director of the General Conference.

Adventist Education Attracts People

by S. E. Gooden

After retiring from 33 years as principal in the Florida public schools, Aldonia Joyner, at age 70, gets the chance which she long wanted. It is a chance to show the world that Adventist education has the values which are needed now. She, therefore, accepted the position as administrative coordinator, a phrase she coined for the Adventist circle. She did not want to be labeled "principal" at her Ephesus church school, Jacksonville, Florida.

Her years in the public schools have been fraught with success, but

Aldonia Joyner, who delights in stealing straps from her teachers' desk drawers, has the motto, "Appeal to their pride, not to their hide." (© Florida Times-Union, Florida Publishing Company) her successes were the result of hard work. Just visualize a female principal in a black school in the segregated schools of the 40s, 50s, and 60s who risked losing her job by accepting a 12-year-old unwed mother into her school. See her

Lower division children at Mt. Olivet school in Ft. Lauderdale have learned the use of the listening station from their teacher, Esther Property finding a family of 17 living together in a little three-room house, sleeping all over the floor. She taught the children to build their own dressing tables and beds. Visualize her teaching her students to cultivate a garden and canning the produce, Florence, South Carolina, had a church school some years ago, but it was closed because of finances. Under the pastorate of N. B. Smith, they started to lay money aside for the reopening of the school. With such dynamic local leadership of such dedicated men as Jack Hanna, Tim Gittens, and others, nothing could stand in the way of the school when Fred Nealy arrived to take up the pastorate in 1979.

Crystal Torain (left) and her mother, Bronna Torain, are fitting examples of the fact that the evangelistic program of the church school is still intact.

Robert Johnson, a chemical engineer, with his wife, Willett, and family moved to Gastonia. Having no church school, and his wife a certified teacher, they decided that, rather than sending the children to the public school, she would open a home school—the first and only in South Atlantic Conference.

Eliza Ray is a native of Lillington, North Carolina, and a certified teacher who taught in Northeastern and then in California public schools. She retired and returned home, but could not be happy seeing the children of the church in the public school. So, her husband, Arthur, head elder, with the aid of William Ore and others, prepared a room and opened a school for the church.

When you have grasped a mental picture of such a person, you will understand why her professor at Columbia University graduate school had her teach his class with the explanation that, "While he was talking about Black history, she was making it." Also, you will see why the county officials used her school as the showplace to take visitors to.

Yet the Adventist school, because of its philosophy, could attract her and a large number of her followers, to support it. It has more to offer than reading, writing, and ciphering. Members of the church and nonmembers alike are discovering it is the only dependable education which will build character for eternal life. This philosophy inspired three small congregations and one home to start their own schools in August, 1979. They are: Florence, South Carolina, Gastonia, Lillington, and New Bern, North Carolina.

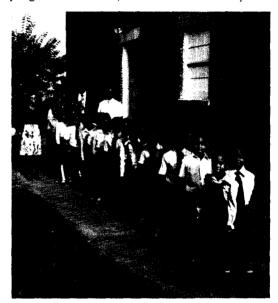

Adventist education is a winner. Take Crystal Torain, a ninth-grader who spent five years at East Market Street school in Greensboro, North Carolina. In scanning the scores of the achievement tests, which are administered yearly by the state of North Carolina, I was attracted to a test result with all pluses. So I checked a little further with Principal Herbert Davis. I saw that Crystal's percentile was in the 80s on the national average.

Mrs. Bronna Torain, Crystal's mother, told me that she was utterly dissatisfied with the progress of her child in the public school. She called the Baptist school and tried to get admittance, but was told they did not accept Black children. While in utter despair, she stated a voice said to her, "Call the Adventist school." Shortly after her admittance, Crystal started to tell her mother about the things they were doing at home which were wrong. Then she refused to eat this, and to drink that. Later she asked if she could be baptized. Mrs. Torain did not answer. Finally, Crystal came home one day and said, "Mama, I am going to be baptized." Crystal was baptized in April, 1979, and five months later her mother was baptized by Pastor Dennis Ross. "These have been the happiest months of my life," says Mrs. Torain, "and I owe it all to Crystal."

New Bern church is a part of the constituency of the Kinston district school but, because of the distance of travel, decided to open a school at its church. On the arrival of the new pastor, Melvin Preston, momentum was given to the project. Dr. John Littman of the community offered them a two-story building to use for the school. At the ribbon-cutting peremony for the school opening: Rosa Wilson, second teacher; Ron Reed, head eacher; Margie Tyson, chairperson of the school board; Melvin Preston, the local pastor; S. E. Gooden, superintendent of schools; Honorable Lee Morgan, mayor of the pity of New Bern; (he informed the audience that this is the only Black church school in the entire county). John Littman; and Jessie Best, whose untiring efforts aided in getting he school and the facilities in which they are housed.

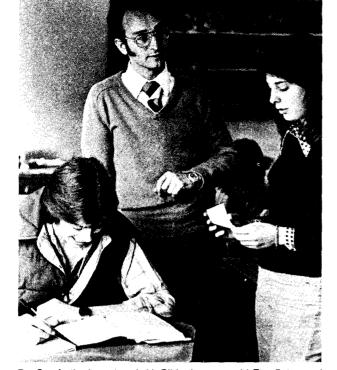

Fred Pullins, principal of the Mt. Calvary school in Tampa, Florida, consulting with Delores Davis, the newest addition to the professional staff.

Ray Cornforth, shown here in his Bible classroom with Troy Patton and Cheryl Beasley, explains his Bible programs, and then adds, "It's exciting. I'm seeing real spiritual growth as these kids make daily devotions a part of their lives."

"Oh, I enjoyed talking to those kids!" says Roy Caughron, ministerial secretary. "We had some good contacts, and I appreciated their attentiveness. I was really impressed."

Where Shall They Go To School?

by Maryan B. Wilkinson

A year ago this spring, 115 vital decisions were pending in Georgia-Cumberland Conference. The figures would vary, but every conference could say the same. Young people were graduating from grade schools in areas with no academies, and families were facing the question, "Where shall they go to school next year?"

By fall every decision was made. Forty-eight students were sent to public high schools. Nine or ten signed up for correspondence lessons. Eleven went to other Adventist academies. And 32 of those 115 students arrived at Georgia-Cumberland Academy.

It's time to evaluate that choice. Boarding schools cost money. But the fact is that for students who work the maximum, the cost to parents can be less than the average grade school's tuition!

The other side of the ledger is here on these pages. This year at GCA:

The temperance club carried out the most active offcampus ministry in the Southern Union.

Principal Wayne McNutt has guided a student body of 196 and a staff of 22 through a year marked with many activities. And his plans for next year include a science trip to Oak Ridge, "Club Sundays" for ham radio and model plane fans, and another year of growing together in Christ for every student and teacher.

A sunny interlude between Sabbath school and church finds students gathered in the central court where a low brick wall invites informal conversation.

Math Teacher Ed Connel has personally invested in a computer, and the school has supplied another, so students can be offered a practical course in computer programming. Interest runs high.

Two college-level classes have been offered—general psychology and speech. Seniors can get six hours of college credit at much lower cost, and one year early!

Bible Teacher Ray Cornforth has developed an innovative approach to Bible classes, offering a choice of academic religion or a "lab course." Those who chose the lab have put their emphasis on devotional reading, witnessing, and service. The seminar group has conducted worship services at several churches and has cleaned, painted, and worked in other ways to help others.

Twelve students met at the home of Roy Caughron, conference ministerial director, to help plan the spring week of prayer. Caughron was impressed with their enthusiasm for spiritual things as they worked out details for the Friday night dinner/program and initiated their own prayer bands.

Health-Emphasis Day involved each student in health testing, with blood pressure and pulse taken before and after vigorous activity. Creative presentations included a male quartet, skits, and speeches.

The ski club spent a long weekend in Colorado, including three days on the slopes with Bill Chunestudy. Also under Chunestudy, the wind ensemble toured, along with the Camarata Singers, and the band produced a recording.

The history group toured with Jesse Landess through the Williamsburg, Virginia, area, and the senior class trip took them to Washington, D.C.

And now it's nearly time again for grade school graduations. Time to answer, for each student, the searching question, "Where does the heavenly Father want this young person to go to school next year?"

Maryan B. Wilkinson is editorial assistant in the Georgia-Cumberland Conference Communication Department.

Afternoons find Shari Bergman stitching lawn furniture cushions at Little Lake Industries. By paying higher wages than the school can pay, the industry helps many students earn a substantial share of their school costs. As the business manager says, "It's never been easier for a student to work his way through academy."

Senior Class President Yung Lau of Marietta comments that of the three years he has been at GCA, this year has been the one with the best spiritual tone. The students have been more interested in the most important things.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Tillman discuss with Pathfinders from Apopka plans for an upcoming Voice of Junior Youth series. Each participant is given a sermon/script which is studied and then presented at the meetings.

by Pat M. Batto

ven though He was a mere lad of 12, He spoke with certain and deep conviction and theological clarity about the profound teachings of Scripture.

The scriptural record says, "A little child shall lead them," not with a voice garbled by screaming music, stupefying drugs, and rebellion, but by a voice ringing clear with the freedom of eternal life.

Today children are indeed leading others to a knowledge of Jesus Christ through the "Voice of Junior Youth" ministry, which is a series of evangelistic meetings that is conducted entirely by young people ranging in age from 10-15. The message presented is one of conviction for youth and adults who have been baptized after attending many VOJY meetings.

Tallahassee is one of a number of churches which has been blessed by the witness of junior youth. On January 16 of this year, under the planning and supervision of Lillian Nobrega, Pathfinder director, 12 Club members, ranging in age from 10-13, launched a VOJY evangelistic series. Each youngster presented a sermon during eight meetings which were held over a four-week period.

According to Pastor Clarence Pillsbury, "Attendance was surprising." Each night 50 to 95 adults and youngsters listened attentively as junior youth prayed, preached, and sang. And at the close of the meetings, seven people responded to an invitation to be baptized.

"It took a great deal of faith and courage for these children to speak before those in attendance," states Mrs. Nobrega, "but they were truly sad when the meetings were over. As Pathfinder leaders, we feel that the time to begin training our children for service in God's work is when they are very young."

Through the years countless numbers of youngsters and adults have committed their lives to Christ because of the "Voice of Junior Youth" ministry. Two of those individuals were Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Tillman. In 1958 this couple was invited to attend a VOJY meeting in Apopka. Bennie said, "We attended the meetings after receiving a brochure left at our door by one of the teens from the Apopka SDA church." Since their baptism, Bennie and his wife have been involved with many such meetings. As assistant and then leader of the Apopka Pathfinder club for the past 21 years, he has seen seven former Pathfinders and VOJY participants go on to become Seventh-day Adventist ministers. As he reflects on the past, Tillman also believes that training for Christian service should begin during youth.

The need for our youth to finish God's work now is more important than at any time in the history of the church. If the message is to be given to the masses, the church must harness the energies of its youth for Christian service.

Through the VOJY, much can be accomplished to harness this energy. In the Adventist church an army of youthful volunteers stands ready to be trained for Christian service. The challenge is to "train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it." Proverbs 22:6.

onathan Roache, our full-time recruiter, has designed a program to attract the entire college family. Faculty and administrators who travel throughout the country during the school year are encouraged to take applications and other pertinent information for distribution to prospective students.

Students Earn Recruitment Scholarships

The Oakwood student also participates in the recruitment program, especially during the winter, spring, and summer breaks. Many of these students have earned scholarships through this method.

'College Days' Aids Enrollment

A major factor of this recruitment program is the annual visit of senior high and academy youth to the campus. Some four hundred seniors across the United States attend the annual College Days Conference, which will be held May 12, 13 this year. More than 75 percent of our visiting seniors return the following year for their venture in Christian higher education.

Homecoming Weekend Provides Contact

Through the alumni chapters and the homecoming weekend events, which bring to the campus more than 8,000 visitors from all parts of the country, some students make their decision to attend Oakwood.

College Enrollment Holds Steady

For the past two years our enrollment has hovered around 1,300. In spite of inflation and the decrease in the value of the dollar, we have closed the second quarter with nearly 1,290 students.

"Without Me," Christ says, "ye can do nothing." We look forward to greater gains in our enrollment through the aid of the Holy Spirit and the continued efforts of our dedicated workers.

With three teams of seasoned workshop leaders, Sabbath School Director J. L. Price is providing instruction for local teachers and superintendents, at all age levels each quarter. Through workshops scheduled in five locations around the conference, methods of presenting the lessons for the next quarter are studied. Felt-board materials were demonstrated. Mrs. Joe Wilson of the Adventist Book Center at Collegedale was present with all needed supplies.

In their authentic log cabin clubhouse, the Pathfinders of Duluth, Georgia, recently experienced an overnight adventure in pioneer living. They cooked their meals in the fireplace with iron utensils, lit up the coal-oil lamps for illumination, and learned about the tools and way of life of the 1840s. If somebody blistered a finger on a hot soup kettle, never mind. These Pathfinders had also completed a first aid honor.

Academies Hold Temperance Weekend At Forest Lake

Southern Union — The Southern Union Academy Temperance weekend met new challenges and made more records under the theme "Quest for the Best."

Fourteen academies with their temperance sponsors, officers, and finalists converged on the Forest Lake Academy campus for the annual event.

Friday evening, chapter reports were punctuated with music and climaxed by an "afterglow."

The host academy, under the leadership of Chaplain Wayne Thurber, directed the Sabbath school which featured a premiere showing of "Angel Dust," music by The Last Generation, and a unique approach to teaching the Sabbath school lesson by Clayton R. Farwell, temperance director of the Southern Union.

The highlight of the weekend involvement by the students was during the worship hour. Each academy's staff and students went to an area church to conduct the Better Living service. Every academy's poster, jingle, essay, cartoon and oration winner was to be incorporated in the service followed by an appeal to Adventists to improve their lifestyle and to practice what we preach.

The featured guests for the twoday convention were Dr. Winton Beaven and Pastor Harry Williams.

Beaven produced the film, "One in 20,000," and served in the General Conference Temperance Department. In addition to this, he has been Columbia Union College president and first academic dean of the Graduate School of Andrews University. Dr. Beaven is presently the dean of Kettering College of Medical Arts.

Harry Williams is exhibit "A" of the lost and found. As a teen-ager he was one of the biggest dope pushers on the East Coast. He was confronted with Christ via a north Philadelphia prison ministry. Since graduating from Oakwood College, he has been assigned as director of the Better Living Center in Atlanta. He was pushing dope, but now is pushing hope.

"The Search," a musical drama in three acts was presented under the direction of Thurber.

The conference temperance directors conducted a Better Living Resources Workshop. "It was literally a 'show and tell' of temperance books, films and slides, pamphlets, periodicals, posters, and teaching aids," reports Ralph Peay, associate director of temperance for the Southern Union, and coordinator of the weekend activities.

The awards this year reflected determined effort and the pursuit of excellence.

Gold awards were claimed by the following academies: Bass Memorial, Forest Lake, Georgia-Cumberland, Mt. Pisgah, West Coast Junior, Oakwood, Harbert Hills, and Greater Miami.

Bronze awards were received by Fletcher and Miami Union Academies.

Academies which came as observers this year included Collegedale, Highland, Madison, and Atlanta Berean.

The school which earned the highest number of points was Mt. Pisgah, with 1,502,575. Ninety-eight percent of these points were from off-campus activities.

Georgia-Cumberland Academy earned the Community Services Award with 98.44 percent of its activities in non-Adventist community outreach thrusts.

"Temperance and better living seem to be taking on a revitalized dimension," says Peay. "The continued support and involvement of our academies will see a heightened level of health awareness on the part of the individual, the church, and the community. We accept this challenge for the decade of the 80s."

Mt. Pisgah Academy took the trophy for being the most active academy temperance chapter in the Southern Union.

cities and campuses from conferences within the Southern Union were in attendance, representing over 20 major non-SDA state university campuses, as well as over 30 community colleges, technical schools, and other campuses.

The purpose of this seminar was to study programs and philosophies for reaching students for Christ on campus. Keynote speaker was Dr. Ben Wygal, president of Florida Junior College. An SDA educator, he spoke on present trends within the youth culture. Other subjects and speakers were: Dr. Lester Harris, Jr., well-known professor of biology, who spoke on "Science and Religion on the Secular Campus." Joe Jerus, presently in full-time secular campus ministries in southern California, spoke on "Ministering to the Atheist and Agnostic" and "The Occult Ministry." "Health Evangelism on Campus" was presented by Dr. Arthur Weaver of Wayne State University. Samuel Jacobson from Chattanooga held a workshop in "Reaching the Jewish Student on Campus." Richard Barron, associate youth director of the General Conference, and Bernie Molnar, a graduate student from the University of Florida, also made presentations.

"There is a growing awareness of the evangelistic potential on the secular campuses of our land, states Southern Union Youth Director C. R. Farwell. "The Southern Union is a pace-setter in developing this ministry. We are thrilled with the exciting news we hear coming from campuses throughout our union. These are real mission fields which cannot be ignored. Seminars such as we have had help us to learn methods and strategy for reaching them."

Macon Holds 5DP in Prison

Georgia-Cumberland — When Georgia State government officials ordered that every prisoner must be given a chance to participate in a Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking, Pastor Robert Kimball of Macon accepted the challenge. In mid-January he presented an introductory film to more than 200 inmates of the Macon Correctional Institution. Of that number, 25 chose to register for the first Five-Day Plan.

The prison chapel provided the setting for the series, begun on February 4 by Kimball, assisted by Jack Gerrard of the Macon church. Interrupted by a prison-break during the week when tightened security made it impossible to enter the prison, the plan actually was spread over six days ending with five of the prisoners conquering the tobacco habit.

Florida Organizes 11th Spanish Church

Florida — The 107th church of the Florida Conference was organized in Miami, Florida, on February 23, according to R. J. Ulmer, conference secretary. The new Westchester Spanish church, which is the 11th Spanish-speaking congregation in the conference, registered 73 people as charter members, two of which were Wilfredo and Mary Corredera, who formed the nucleus of the group.

During a special service on the Sabbath prior to the organization, each Sabbath school and church departmental leader from the Miami church donated materials essential for operating a church to counterpart leaders of the newly formed congregation.

Sergio Torres, pastor of the Homestead Spanish church, will also shepherd the Westchester Spanish church.

Smyrna Towers Holds Open House

Georgia-Cumberland — Smyrna Towers, providing an independent lifestyle for 175 senior citizens, opened its doors on February 17. Mayor Frank B. Johnson of Smyrna, Georgia, was featured speaker, welcoming the much-needed facility to the area.

Smyrna Towers contains 150 apartments, a library, crafts room, beauty shop, and social room

The ribbon was cut by Desmond Cummings, president of the Georgia-Cumberland Conference. In his remarks he stressed the happiness that he hoped each resident would find in the comfortable apartments.

Administrator Dorothy Abbott welcomed the many guests, residents, and hopeful future residents to a tour of the 10-story building. Nine of the 150 apartments are designed with special conveniences for the handicapped, and nine for semi-handicapped.

Included in the facility is a library, a crafts room, beauty shop, and social room. A noon meal is served each day in the social room and craft classes are carried on. Many of the craft items were on sale at the time of the February opening.

Morning worship is conducted daily by pastors from the various churches in the area.

Fitzgerald Opens New Sanctuary

South Atlantic — Fitzgerald is a small south Georgia town which does not pretend to possess a great deal of sophistication and affluence. It was here, however, on March 1 that a 50-member congregation opened a modern, 300-seat sanctuary.

The old church was a small, frame structure built in 1938 after a tent meeting held by C. A. Lynes, at which 40 persons were baptized.

During the opening-day exercises, R. J. Wright, present pastor, who will be leaving shortly for mis-

Homestead Dedicates Church

Florida — The Homestead church, located some 30 miles south of Miami, was dedicated on February 9.

In 1949 the Adventist work began when a branch Sabbath school was organized. On that first Sabbath 11 people were in attendance. On May 16, 1953, the company of believers was officially organized into a church

The present church facility, which is now paid for, was completed in 1967, and since then membership has continued to grow, presently numbering about 110.

In addition to an active church program, 30 students are attending the adjoining church school.

sion service in Africa, baptized four candidates. Also in attendance was an entire row of one family who grew up in the Fitzgerald church, visiting for the church opening from Buffalo, New York.

Conference Secretary R. B. Hairston, guest speaker, stated that recent pastors, including himself, realized Fitzgerald needed a new church, but thought it couldn't be done. But Wright and the membership proved otherwise.

Greenville Brings Gold, Silver to Modernize Church

South Atlantic — As the ancient Israelites brought their gold and silver to Moses to build the temple, so Antioch church members are bringing their gold, silver, and monies to upgrade the Greenville, North Carolina, church. Men, women, and children of the church have rallied to bring in gold, sterling silver, old watches, and coins which are being sold to local gold and silver exchanges. Those who do not have precious metals are contributing money. Funds realized will be used to enlarge, modernize, and decorate the restrooms, repair a porch ceiling, and add an inner stairwell. The church board members pledged over $1,000 when they initially voted the church-improvement plans.

Pastor O. S. White and Head Elder Harold Griffin have contracted the Davis and Davis Construction Firm to complete the improvements.

Who and Where

Table Rock 'Raises Cane' For Investment

Carolina — The old-fashioned art of making molasses is far removed from urban communities, but not so in Table Rock, North Carolina. Marie Acuff and Mrs. V. Breen, as Investment leaders, have been "raising cane" and producing molasses for the Sabbath school Investment program. Their efforts brought the church a profit of $235.

Twice each year the call goes out to the 84 members for help. On these occasions the cane is planted, then upon maturity the cane is harvested and reduced into syrup. Every able-bodied member of the Table Rock church gives his support to the program.

Many other imaginative programs to advance God's work have been introduced. One member pledged $1 per truck load of lumber that he sold from his small sawmill. Whereas once it was difficult to sell his lumber, now he has a booming business. Last year, because of his pledge, more than $600 was available for investment.

Mrs. Breen ordered fruitcakes and launched a well-organized program to sell the holiday cakes. Over $1,000 resulted from this project.

Other projects involving individual members were launched: saving coins, photographic endeavors, sale of mountain honey, cutting hair, raising plants from greenhouse cuttings, the proceeds from the sale of a calf, crocheting, etc. Under the blessing of God and inspired hard work, Table Rock church, the "cane raisers" in the valley, had a grand total for 1979 investment of $4,437.58.

West Palm Beach Reports Community Services

South Atlantic — At the October 22 Community Relations Day, the mayors of West Palm Beach and Riviera Beach, Florida, were invited guests of West Palm Beach Ephesus church. They listened to the report of the community service center under the direction of Alfreda Henriquez and discovered 2,465 persons were helped, and 3,671 articles of clothing and more than $3,360 in food were given away in the previous 10 months.

They also listened to objectives and plans for 1980, which included the purchase of a screening van for high blood pressure and sickle cell anemia, a welcome sign on Interstate 95, and the airing of the Breath of Life TV program.

The honoree for the day was Eva Mack, R.N., one of the first Black commissioners of West Palm Beach. She has been a community leader for more than 20 years, which includes 10 years as administrator of the Health Department for the Palm Beach County School system. Mrs. Mack expressed her fond impression of the morning service where Pastor Richard Long of Florida City was the speaker, and the message in song sung by T. H. Fraser, church pastor.

Lima Drive Honors Lexington Councilmen

South Central — Lexington, Kentucky's, Lima Drive church, held a Community Relations Day program January 26 at which Councilmen Edgar A. Wallace and John T. Wigginton were honored for selfless service to the citizens of Lexington's first and second districts. Other honored guests were P. G. Peeples, Ron Berry, J. K. Hobbs, and Charles Little. Pastor Bill Monk, former movie actor and detective from New York City, indicated this program was the initial thrust of the church to be more active in helping overcome health, economic, spiritual, and social problems in the community.

The guest speaker for the worship hour was Oakwood College Director of Missions, Dr. E. E. Cleveland. The all-day activities encompassed a fellowship dinner for guests and visitors, a baptismal service, and an afternoon concert by the Magazine Street church choir of Louisville. One of the highlights of the service was when Councilman Wallace sang one of his favorite songs.

The awards presentation was coordinated by Marsha Clayton, Gayle Thomas, and Paulelle Clay.

Putting Good Taste Into Good Nutrition

"Dear Friends:

"At our age we esence afford to take risks.

"We have worked band. We have saved some money. For many years we have tried to support the Church. The Lord has been very good to us. We are reasonably healthy, and we live guite comfortably.

"But as Adventists, we can read the meaning of deepening shadows. There are more and more said problems around the world, and even in our own nation. Things certainly are not like they used to be. We believe that the Lord may suon return to earth for His people.

"Donald and I realise that everything we own really belongs to God. So we want to be careful with it and not waste it or lose it.

We learned that our Gonference could be helpful to us — and take away our worries about our savings. Donald has always said that when we have put our savings in banks and savings institutions, they have given us a fair interest; but we were so surprised to learn that our own Conference could handle our savings in a choice of ways, and would pay us about the same interest and in some cases, even more. Not only that, but they could help us save a lot of taxes. And we are always anxious to save taxes!

"We chose to put some of our savings in a Revocable Trust. It pays us a high interest rate, and we can change the Trust anytime we may feel the need to Then we put some in two Gift Annuities, one for each of us, since I had some of my own money. This saves us a lot of taxes each year. We also got large income tax charitable deductions. When we die, whatever is in the accounts will go into the Lord's work. And we are so happy about it." — From Lucy.

Just phone or write to Trust Services at your Conference office and tell them that you would him to do what Lucy and Donald did, or that you would appreciate a confidential visit.

Revised 20th Century Bible Course

Back in the years 1945-55, one of the most effective tools for soul winning was the 20th Century Bible Course, together with the filmstrip projector and the lessons on film to be used in homes and small meeting halls. With the passing of time, this tool faded out of use, largely because the lessons and filmstrips needed to be updated. No one undertook this task until recently when the Southern Union Conference Communication Department, working with the local conference Ministerial Association secretaries, did it. The results of this undertaking are phenomenal! The visuals (pictures) are new and beautiful. The lesson scripts have been revised and updated in such a way as to make them more attractive and useful. The conferences of the Southern Union are ordering many of these for the use of their pastors and lay leaders in their evangelistic endeavors. Furthermore, when news got out that we had revised and updated the old 20th Century Bible Course and films, orders began coming in from conferences all across North America. In this issue of the SOUTHERN TIDINGS, this new tool is being featured. We invite further inquiry from our ministers and people concerning the "new" 20th Century

Publishing House Merger Proposals

Recently a special study committee chosen by PREXAD of the General Conference met to discuss how a merger of the Southern Publishing Association and the Review and Herald Publishing Association could be effected. As the result of the study, an arrangement was agreed upon which would make the publishing houses in each of the two locations viable and effective publishing institutions. The arrangement which will be presented to both constituencies is as follows:
