

A variety of evangelistic magazines are published, some especially suited to certain cultural or language groups.

Consider the Magazine

by Kenneth J. Holland

Thirty-five years ago, a bank custodian named Jim began noticing that a lawyer at the bank always discarded a certain magazine without reading it. Jim began to look forward to being able to retrieve the magazine from the trash as he emptied the wastebaskets week by week.

Jim read each issue of the Signs of the Times as he rescued it from the trash, and he was so thrilled by its contents he went to a nearby five-and-dime store to buy a Bible. Jim, his wife, and two daughters all became members of the Seventh-day Adventist Church after attending evangelistic meetings where they heard the same message they read in the Signs.

More recently, Jim was overjoyed when a sister to whom he had been sending the Signs for many years called to say she had just been baptized into the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

And all this from a bank's wastebasket.

Our evangelistic magazines—These times, Signs, Message, and El Centinela—provide us with a remarkably easy, but power-laden, opportunity to witness for Christ.

The day of the magazine is far from past in spite of the inroads of television. Consider, for example, that a magazine, which can be read at leisure and at one's own pace, doesn't put a time limit on creativity.

A magazine gives you the freedom to tell your story the way it needs to be told—with one picture or a thousand words.

You can startle without the fear of being too loud.

You can educate without having to speak at a high speed.

You can whisper without the fear of not being heard.

Because the only limit is your taste, your insight, your imagination.

A magazine such as Signs, Message, El Centinela, or These Times can touch the whole of life with sophistication and warmth. It can deal with modern man's real problems, with his everyday concerns, and provide solutions from a biblical perspective.

Because Christianity is relevant to all of life, a Christian magazine can delve into the realms of art, ethics, history, science, economics, psychology, sociology, urbanization, secularization, and so forth.

On the other hand, the simplest article pointing out that Jesus cares may be enough to win a heart. Down

The Glenn Jambor family decided to become Seventh-day Adventists after reading copies of These Times which Sue (right) picked up on frequent visits to the Seventh-day Adventist-operated Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital, Hinsdale, Illinois, for nutrition classes. Later they were invited by the hospital's Bible instructor to attend evangelistic meetings where they were baptized.

deep we all are pretty much the same—vulnerable, lonely, fearful. We need the comforting word, the assurance that we have a gracious Saviour who loves us, helps us, exalts us, and frees us from guilt. Forgiveness—as God grants it—is the only basis for inner contentment and peace of mind!

Consider the evangelistic magazine as a pulpit in every home, the friendly messenger with a distinctive message, a prophetic, warning message, a grand, wholistic lifestyle for hurting people. A magazine gives opportunity to proclaim our message as the good news it really is. It gives opportunity to "make appeals that will arouse the careless, and bring foolish, wandering minds back to God" (Testimonies, Vol. 7, pp. 150-158).

Consider a magazine that brings responses like these: "What a fantastic publication! I thank you. I pray for your work and faith in Jesus, and again I thank you for bringing His ministry to me."

"I honestly feel that your magazine is the best religious publication available. The articles are relevant, timely, and informational. I belong to a non-denominational church (the Church of God), and I would like to challenge anyone of any denomination to read one issue of your magazine. The souls they save may be their own."

"I want to thank you and your staff for the excellent work you are doing with These Times. The magazine played a part in my conversion to the church, and I will ever be grateful for that."

"Almost a year ago I was baptized into the Seventh-day Adventist faith. My dear aunt and uncle are Seventh-day Adventists and signed me up for a gift subscription to your publication. Your article on who Seventh-day Adventists are and what they believe is the one that did it! What a glorious influence your magazine is. Praise God for These Times!"

Consider the magazine. Our evangelistic magazines offer articles like "How to Deal With Affliction," "The Spiritual Aspects of Weight Control," "The Sabbath—a Day to Remember," "The Four Secrets of Lending a Helping Hand," "I Adopted a Leper Family," "Put Joy Into Your Life," "Crisis in Europe," "The Truth About Immortality of the Soul," "What Church Shall I Join?"

John Lammerding, pictured here with his family before his death, met Alberta, who became his wife, while distributing Signs of the Times in Sacramento, California. After Alberta was baptized, they were married and had a large family, as can be seen from this several-years-old family photograph.

Veronica Small, (second left), placed copies of Signs of the Times in the lobby of the hospital where she works as a psychiatric nurse. Greg Keenan (second right) took a copy home to show his wife, Ingrid. She shared his enthusiasm for its message and together they sent in the coupon for free Bible studies. A local pastor invited them to evangelistic meetings and they were baptized.

Consider the magazine—then consider your responsibility to use it to win souls. As a Seventh-day Adventist Christian you are involved. You cannot avoid it. You are a participant in the redemptive mission of God through the church. You are involved in the world, its business, its culture, its hunger, its politics and governments, its travail, its tears, its sin. You cannot be a spectator! Jesus said, "I pray not that thou shouldst take them out of the world . . . as thou has sent me into the world, even so have I also sent them into the world" (John 17:15, 18).

You, the layman, are sent into the world, as Jesus Christ was sent, as an agent of redemption, conforming to the command of our Lord, who said, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel" (Mark 16:15). He meant it not only geographically but also vocationally. Go ye to Africa, Korea, India, yes. But also—go ye into the world of business, mechanics, art, music, agriculture, education, law, government, and politics. Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel. Preach it by your life and by using our evangelistic journals.

MIDDLE TENNESSEE-KENTUCKY YOUTH FEDERATION: “Starting All Over Again”

by Delores Grant
Photography by Lyman Reagon

The theme was “Starting All Over Again” and excitement filled the air. Although the theme had a tremendous spiritual message related to God’s mercy and His forgiveness, there was also a subtle appropriate message signaling the beginning of a new and vibrant spirit in this federation, held at the Hillcrest church, Nashville, Tennessee.

Unlike most federations in the conference, Middle Tennessee-Kentucky prefers a two-day program that commences on Friday night. The Nashville area church members responded by opening their homes to out-of-town guests and providing delicious dishes and desserts for the Sabbath noon meal.

Friday night’s program featured Sonlight, a new choral group directed by Brian Jones, and the dynamic preaching of Hillcrest’s new pastor, Joseph Jones.

The Sabbath program was filled with many good things. Russell Benson, from Nashville’s Riverside church, shouldered the superintendent’s responsibility of the Sabbath school program, which was highlighted by musical numbers by youth choirs from the Magazine Street church in Louisville, Kentucky, the Hillcrest church in Nashville, and a tremendous lesson taught by George I. Pearson, South Central’s Adventist Book Center manager. Morris Patterson, new pastor of the Nashville New Life congregation, delivered the message during the eleven o’clock hour.

After the noon meal, the Junior and Senior Bible Bowl Federation championship and the temperance oratorical contest were held. Magazine Street’s junior team and Riverside’s senior team earned the privilege of representing their federation in the conference-wide finals held at the Youth Congress in Memphis in April. The temperance finalists were Tracy Taylor, from Louisville, who will represent the federation in Memphis; Eddie Hodge, from Hillcrest, and Michele Chester, of the Riverside church. Their very enlightening speeches were on the dangers of obesity.

The federation concluded with a Saturday evening concert which involved all of the musical groups and soloists participating in the weekend program. Many felt the Middle Tennessee-Kentucky Youth Federation was truly “Starting All Over Again.”

Southern College: Free Sample

by Linda Dick

Give Southern College a try, free, with no obligations."

"Can you be serious? College credit for free?"

Southern College of Seventh-day Adventists (the new name of Southern Missionary College beginning July 1) is opening its doors wide to new and transfer students with a special offer of free, fully credited college classwork and free dormitory quarters.

During the four-week summer session of classes beginning July 26, 1982, students new to Southern College may take up to four credit hours of classwork with no tuition charges. Dormitory rent will also be waived. Participants are responsible for cafeteria and book fees, and personal expenses only. These students may also attend any of the three earlier Southern College summer sessions—paying reduced tuition charges of only $120 per hour—and still be eligible to take part in the program.

As a result of government cutbacks, those wishing to receive any social security educational benefits for college had to be enrolled as full-time college students before May 1, 1982. To accommodate these students, Southern pushed ahead the starting time of the first session of summer school, which began April 30, 1982. A full-time class load for the summer is nine hours. However, these hours may be spread over several sessions. Students working around the social security rules must register for the first session, but may elect to finish their classwork during the special free session.

In addition to financial advantages offered, Southern College—located in Collegedale, Tennessee—is only two hours from the site of the 1982 World's Fair. A school-sponsored trip to the Fair is one of several weekend activities scheduled during the special session. Other plans include a float trip down the Hiwassee or Ocoee Rivers.

No obligation to register for further classwork exists with the program. Southern wishes to give students a chance to familiarize themselves with the quality of the school's offerings—spiritual and social as well as academic. The college is confidently hopeful that this experience will lead to a decision for future study at Southern College of Seventh-day Adventists.

For further information regarding the free summer session or regular application, write: Office of Admission, Southern College, Collegedale, TN 37315. Or, if you prefer, call: (615) 396-4008.

The Board of Trustees of Southern Missionary College hereby announces the change of the college name as of the date of July 1, 1982, to

Southern College

of Seventh-day Adventists

This will be the official name of our college. As in the case of many colleges and universities with lengthy names, a shortened name such as "Southern College" or simply "Southern" may be popularized.

The word "Southern" has been associated with the College since its beginning—Southern Industrial School, Southern Training School, Southern Junior College, Southern Missionary College, and now Southern College.

The Board sincerely desires the continued loyal support of its alumni and constituency.

More than 80 showed up for an early afternoon "Fun Run" with Dr. Sheehan—and the first 50 won a free T-shirt with Florida Hospital's slogan "Florida Hospital wants you to have the BestLife."

Reaching Thousands Through Education About the "BestLife"

by Melinda Howes,
Photography by Jeff Filliberto

The auditorium was filled with hundreds of arms waving overhead—leaning first to the right, then to the left—then hugging the stranger seated in front of them!

The next sound? The sound of hundreds of laughing people—exercising, having fun doing it, and making new friends in the process.

It was all part of a unique month-long "fitness" series, sponsored as part of Florida Hospital's community education program. And, through the month of March, thousands of Orlando residents came to hear, see, and experience, an exciting program about fitness and good health.

Marathon runner George Sheehan, M.D., noted cardiologist and author of five books on fitness; Hulda Crooks, the inspiring Adventist mountain climber who's 86 and has scaled 81 mountains since she turned 81;

Audience exercises at one of the programs included exercising with the stranger seated in front of you—and the audience loved it!

Bonnie Prudden, nationally known fitness expert who was the founder of the President's Council on Fitness; a prominent local television sportscaster, and local sports and fitness personalities—all were part of this exciting series.

And, the community responded. There was standing room only for several of the programs, more than two full hours of radio time, nearly an hour of television time, almost 100 inches of coverage in the local newspaper, and tremendous good will and enthusiasm from those who attended the various activities.

These types of programs, says Kathy Hinson, the hospital's health education director, are "part and parcel" of the hospital's mission for its community: "Through programs such as these, we reach people with a message they need, but also in a way that they enjoy the learning. The programs are fun for us as staff to put on, and the response makes the work very worthwhile."

The month-long series, held in March and October each year, is only one part of Florida Hospital's health-education outreach.

"As an Adventist hospital, we feel this is an important part of our mission," says Mardian Blair, hospital president and one of those who donned hospital T-shirts to join in the Fun Run with Dr. Sheehan!

Recent studies done by the hospital revealed specific areas of the community's interest and also provided some surprising results. The studies' top three "most wanted" programs were: (1) stress management, (2) family and marital counseling, (3) smoking cessation. Heart disease and cancer education were in fourth and fifth place.

The study, done by professional consultants, will be used to help the hospital fine-tune its approach, to ensure that the programs it offers are those the community itself has said it needs.

More Than 41,000 Participants Last Year

With a small staff of four full-time educators, plus additional part-time help, the hospital's Health Education Department last year held 145 separate programs, which totaled more than 1,000 separate class sessions, or an average of three class sessions meeting each work-day!

Total participation in these various programs was more than 37,000 from the community, plus some 4,000 hospital patients who received individual instruction. The 1982 schedule calls for expanding the programs to offer more than 150 separate programs, and early figures from this year show participation at an even higher pace than last year.

Types of Programs Offered

A number of the programs are geared specifically to deal with heart disease: BestLife cooking, a "Heartbeat" evaluation class, aerobic exercise programs, and the L.I.F.E. program (Lifestyle Improvement for Everyone).

A popular "Stress Management" program has a waiting list each time it is offered.

Monthly stop-smoking programs, with more than 5,000 participants in the past six years, continue to be popular classes.

Parent education is another major block of programs, including the new and popular "grandparents" program, and a "sibling" class, to help brothers and sisters of the new baby learn how to adjust.

This active parenting program also includes training of more than 5,500 parents-to-be last year alone, using prepared childbirth techniques, along with a special class in Caesarean birth, and a "mother's support group" for the new mother, to provide ongoing support.

Participants don cap and apron as part of a "Breadmake" class.

Twice each week, the hospital does free computerized health testing in the lobby.

The hospital also offers a class called "Understanding Children," which helps parents learn to cope with "the terrible 2s" through adolescence and the teen and college years.

Other classes include weight control, exercise, diabetes management, among others. An active Speaker's Bureau provides lectures for businesses, civic clubs, schools, and churches—and, "in our spare time," Kathy Hinson and her staff sponsor and participate in health fairs, twice-weekly free health screenings in the hospital's lobby, and in other health programs throughout the year.

Bible Studies, Baptisms Result

And, the results say, it works. "This is one of the most rewarding parts of what we do," Kathy says. "To see our class members become awakened to their spiritual needs, to see them start taking Bible studies, then become baptized—this is the real reward of what we do."

One man who attended the diabetes class, and who is now taking Bible studies, became interested because of a feeling that "these people cared about me."

Another man wanted to become an Adventist but couldn't stop smoking until he joined the hospital's Five-Day Plan. The program was successful, and he was recently baptized.

"Our Christian beliefs are part of every program we do," Kathy Hinson says. "In nearly every class, opportunities arise to answer questions about Seventh-day Adventists."

"Many of those who attend one class return for other classes and keep coming back, month after month. Many of them have become true friends of the Adventists, and this kind of witness is what our programs are all about."

Melinda Howes is vice-president for public relations and development at Florida Hospital.

Oakwood College Adopts a New Logo

The visual impact of printed matter often sells an idea or product. Oakwood recognizes this and at a recent board meeting adopted an official logo. This logo, when seen on various printed materials, will immediately bring to mind Oakwood College. It will be used in a wide variety of applications.

Elfred Lee, the director of the new art program, is responsible for the design. Many months of hard work went into completion of the logo.

The "O" and "C" of Oakwood College have been put together in a strong, meaningful way. The initials form a chain—a broken chain. This represents past bondage and present freedom of the Negro race. The open link also represents open mindedness and freedom of education, inquiry, and expression. Many times the logo will appear on an oak wood background, to tie in with a long-standing symbol of the college.

Look for the new symbol on most everything coming from the campus. It is another step in a continuous effort to keep Oakwood before its constituency and in a way that it will be easily recognizable and make an indelible impression.

NCATE Accreditation Team Visits Oakwood

An accreditation team from the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE) visited the Oakwood College campus in March. The NCATE team gave Oakwood a favorable rating on 100 percent of the 27 standards which, according to the accreditation team chairman, was unusual for an initial site review.

According to the education department chairman, Dr.

Paul Brantley, the college was lauded on the unique campus atmosphere, student characteristics, faculty and administrative support of teacher education, and quality of the Institutional Report.

NCATE's acceptance in June will represent the second major accreditation to be achieved recently, with Oakwood having received its 10-year regional accreditation by Southern Association of Colleges and Schools in December, 1981.

Oakwood College Hosts AIA Convention

Student leaders from Adventist colleges and universities in the North American Division, members of the Adventist Intercollegiate Association, came together at Oakwood College to plan, learn from each other, and to fellowship. This convention, held April 1-7, is an annual affair and rotates its meetings from one college campus to another. This was Oakwood's third opportunity to host this group of Christian college young people.

The scores of tents under the pines give the Alabama-Mississippi Camp Meeting an old-fashioned feeling, but the topics of discussion will be very up-to-date.

Revival Plus

by Shirley Goodridge

An old-fashioned camp meeting with a very modern and timely appeal is scheduled for May 21-29 in the Alabama-Mississippi Conference. Convocations of this type have long been regarded as a time of revival—a time to renew old friendships, recall past experiences, review church happenings, and revive the spirit of dedication which leads to a closer walk with God.

Directors of the Alabama-Mississippi Conference and planners of the 1982 camp meeting see this as more than a time of revival. It is designed to be more than a review of the past and an infusion of new life. It is designed to provide members with the knowledge, materials, and motivation to share that new life with members of their communities when they return to their various home churches.

All efforts are being bent to ensure a successful "1,000 Days of Reaping." Believing that every member is a minister, speakers will be teaching, training, and equipping individuals for lay witnessing.

Emilio Knechtle and George Vandeman will present the weekend services, designed to enhance understanding and beliefs in basic doctrines. Each will be on the camp ground to discuss issues with individuals and groups.

After providing for the feeding and enriching of one's own soul, the needs of the family will be addressed by Kay Kuzma (via videotape) and Paul Eldridge during afternoon seminars.

How to assist the total church program through personal giving and personal witnessing will be addressed by Don Crane and Rex Edwards, both from the General Conference. Everyone attending these sessions will come away with soul winning permeating their thinking, conversations, and actions. Soul winning will be the basis for their daily living. The excitement of sharing the Good News and seeing others accept Jesus Christ as their Saviour will inspire members as all work together toward the reaping time and longed-for reward of God's great kingdom.

Rain was unable to dampen the spirits of 2,500 Pathfinders, directors, and guests who attended the Southern Union Pathfinder Camporee, April 1-4, at Georgia Veterans Memorial State Park, Cordele, Georgia.

Hundreds of tents housed members of 108 clubs, representing every conference in the Southern Union, for four days. Tons of "always-tastes-better-when-cooked-outdoors" food were prepared and eaten.

The schedule was full, with campfires every night, a variety of field events all day Friday, Sabbath services crowded into the afternoon to avoid the morning's rain, ending with an awards ceremony and "peanut drop" on Sunday, when thousands of peanuts were dropped from

It Is Written Holds Seminars In The Carolinas

by Don Kenyon

George Vandeman, speaker for the It Is Written telecast speaks to a seminar audience. A total of approximately 1,050 attended the three seminars.

Roland Lenhoff, associate speaker for It Is Written, addresses the more than 500 gathered for the Asheville seminar.

Following a number of months of airing the It Is Written telecast in the Carolina Conference, George Vandeman and his associate speaker, Roland Lenhoff, conducted three seminars for their listening audience.

On March 9 Greenville, South Carolina, enjoyed an evening seminar, with nearly 200 in attendance. The seminar was held in the new Hyatt Regency Hotel under the auspices of Oral Calloway and the Greenville church. On March 13 Herb Crawley and the Spartanburg, South Carolina, church sponsored an all-day seminar at the Sheraton International Hotel. Some 250 were in attendance. March 14 was It Is Written Seminar Day in Asheville, North Carolina. The response was overwhelming. By the 9:30 starting time at Asheville's Inn On The Plaza more than 600 were settled in, ready for a day of fellowship and instruction. All seminars included a vegetarian meal and a panel discussion on health, in addition to the Bible doctrine subjects presented.

During the all-day seminar people of all faiths were confronted and challenged by a clear, "Thus saith the Lord." Under the direction of Vandeman and Lenhoff, minister-instructors aided participants as they traveled through their beautiful new Bibles, underlining important passages and chain referencing for future study. Among the topics discussed were "The Sabbath" and "Man In Death." Hundreds who were acquainted with Seventh-day Adventists and their beliefs were treated to a warm, friendly, logical, point-by-point examination of the Scriptures with the ever-present challenge to further, continuing, in-depth study.

The noon meal was a delight, with a touch of vegetarian health food, which left the people wanting to know more. Following lunch the panel discussion included George and Nellie Vandeman, Roland and Janice Lenhoff, and a doctor from each local area. Healthful living as it relates to the original diet and today's ideal diet were explored.

The day concluded with messages by Vandeman and Lenhoff and the introduction of area ministers who would be conducting continuing seminars in their respective cities. At the present time 20 continuing seminars are in progress in the following cities. In North Carolina: Asheville, Waynesville, Flat Rock (Upward), Franklin, Dillsboro, Bryson City, Morganton, Hendersonville, Fletcher, Arden, Hickory, Albemarle, Salisbury, Rockwell, Tryon and Rutherfordton. In South Carolina: Clinton, Union, Spartanburg, and Greenville.

Members living in the western Carolinas are now looking forward to the spring of 1983. During the month of March they hope to be part of a nationwide It Is Written Teleseminar program involving as many as 100 cities from coast to coast.

ALABAMA MISSISSIPPI

M. R. Lombardo, pastor, reports a variety of ACTIVITIES in the Natchez, Mississippi, district. A church rummage sale to raise funds for a new church building was held in McComb on April 8. Some members of the church also gathered in front of Rose's Department Store on April 15 to conduct a heart check and blood pressure screening. All-day health seminars were held in Natchez on April 24 and in Brookhaven on May 1. A very special Friday evening communion service was conducted March 12 in Brookhaven and March 19 in Natchez, depicting the crucifixion of Christ.

A REVELATION SEMINAR in Vicksburg, Mississippi, concluded on March 27 with the addition of three new members to the church.

The SERIES OF MEETINGS held by Richard Hallock in Clanton, Alabama, ended on March 27 with 11 persons joining the church through baptism and one by profession of faith.

The Bearfork Road "Bears" Pathfinder club has DISTRIBUTED about 400 pieces of literature during the last two months.

Ron Neall, pastor of the Panama City, Florida, church, was ELECTED PRESIDENT of the Bay County Chaplains' Association at their March meeting. The Panama City church participated in a health fair at the Panama City Mall March 26-27. The theme of their booth was "Vegetarianism—a Better Way." The church also conducted a Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking at the Sands Inn on Panama City Beach with lay member Pam Hale and Ron Neall, pastor, leading out. Of the 66 persons attending, 66 percent were successful in kicking the habit. Students at the Panama City church school have been enjoying educational field trips during the past month. Seventh- and eighth-graders took a trip to the conference office in Montgomery, touring the office and visiting with directors and assistants in the various departments. The day included a trip to the zoo and observatory. On March 4 the students went on a tour of Bay Memorial Hospital where they saw the ambulance, CATScan, pressure chamber, and other related services provided by the hospital.

Janice Galambos, wife of Shoals, Alabama, pastor, Bradley Galambos, conducted her first BREADMAKE SEMINAR following the pattern learned at the Healthyourselves seminar. In addition to the delicious bread she reports some wonderful contacts with community people and many interests in future additions to the total health program.

A FOSTER GRANDPARENT PROGRAM involved 14 children from the Montgomery, Alabama, church and 14 residents of the Perry Hill Nursing Home, according to director Agnes Long. The children are members of the Pre-Pathers and visit the home once a month to sing, read, play games, and talk with their adopted grandparents.

A very busy and successful first effort was reported by director Jeannine Carr as the Montgomery Community Services personnel held a BLOOD PRESSURE SCREENING at the Montgomery Mall. More than 1,000 blood pressures were taken, scores of leaflets were given out, and hours of counseling provided regarding the meaning of blood pressure readings, how to control stress, and other health-related subjects. There were no charges for any of these services, but $218 were donated by grateful shoppers.

T. C. Carmichael, pastor in Ft. Walton Beach, Florida, reports that a DANIEL SEMINAR is being conducted in the Choctawhatchee High School and will continue to May 20. Twenty-five nonmembers attended on the opening Tuesday and Thursday. Several Bible study requests are being followed up as the result of the recent mass mailing of "Something Wonderful" leaflets.

CAROLINA

NEW CARPET was recently installed in the boys' dormitory and the cafeteria at Mount Pisgah Academy. Funds were made available from the Carolina Harvest program. This development program is funded by two percent income of the 10 + 10+ project. The response by the students has been most positive. The overall appearance of the school has been greatly enhanced.

Personal Ministries Director R. G. Beck reports SPRING FEDERATION MEETINGS were held in Columbia, South Carolina, and Arden and Durham, North Carolina, on March 30, 31, and April 1. Guest speakers for the meetings were Perry F. Pederson, from the General Conference Personal Ministries Department, and W. M. Abbott, Jr., director of the Southern Union Personal Ministries Department. The meetings were well attended and the workers are anxious to become more involved in personal witnessing programs.

Fletcher Academy hosted the Southern Union Conference academy TEMPERANCE WEEKEND, February 19, 20. Conference youth directors and delegates from the academies attended the two-day event. Richard Neil, M.D., from the Loma Linda University School of Health, and Irma Vyhmeister, Ph.D., from the General Conference Health-Temperance Department, were among the speakers for the programs. Students were given awards and trophies for their work in making posters and participating in temperance outreach activities.

Richard H. Shepard, director of the Personal Ministries Department, reports that 18 Florida laymen attended the LAY EVANGELISTS' TRAINING SEMINAR at Nosoca Pines Ranch in Liberty Hill, South Carolina, January 29 through February 6. S. F. Monier, of the General Conference Personal Ministries Department, was guest speaker. To uplift the spiritual life, unite in action family members, strengthen ties between pastors and laymen, renew a witnessing spirit, and help members become engaged in a well-balanced evangelistic program was the goal of the Seminar.

Stanley Dombrosky, community services director, reports that Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Mitchell have just celebrated their 66TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY on March 16. Mitchell was the central federation president for ten years. He successfully operated three community service vans in the central part of the state as well as taking care of the state warehouse. He is now retiring because of an eye problem and will be greatly missed. He has been known to many store managers as "Mr. Blood Pressure."

Elizabeth Hudak, superintendent of education, reports that the Leesburg-Eustis Elementary School held their GROUND BREAKING ceremonies on April 1. Henry Carubba, president, commended those present for the foresight and dedication in preparing a two-teacher and eight-grade school as a tool to evangelize God's children of the flock for a place in the work here and life hereafter. J. P. Rogers, treasurer; Roy Ulmer, secretary; Duane Barnett and Gene Haas, associate superintendents, were all present and participated in the program.

C. L. Conroy, public relations assistant director of Hialeah Hospital, reports that they have instituted a STOP SMOKING CLINIC using a team of professionals, group dynamics, and a lifetime support system called the Smoker's Anonymous Club. "These classes enable members to obtain the ongoing support and mutual reinforcement of fellow smokers and trained specialists until they are certain that their lifestyle change is permanent," says Jan Hamel, director of the health promotion department at Hialeah Hospital and developer of the program. The faculty consists of respiratory therapists, health educators, physicians, nutritionists, occupational therapists, and social workers.

Louis Torres, pastor of the Jacksonville church, has completed a series of EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS in Marathon Key, Florida, where Eugene Torres, his brother, is pastor. At the conclusion on February 27, seven precious souls were united through baptism to the Marathon church.

Joy Duke, a certified home nutrition instructor and wife of the pastor of the Jupiter-Tequesta church, led out in a VEGETARIAN SMORGASBORD as a community service on March 7 in the Jupiter-Tequesta church. This was to inaugurate the vegetarian workshop "O Taste and See," to be held from March 8-11. The evening programs consisted of lectures, quizzes, demonstrations with audience participation, films or slides on the subject of the evening, door prizes, sampling, and health literature. As a result of these health lectures one family has started Bible studies.

GEORGIA-CUMBERLAND

Fourteen couples participated in a LEADERSHIP TRAINING WORKSHOP for Adventist Marriage Enrichment (AME) on the campus of Southern Missionary College, February 25 through March 1. Couples from Florida, Michigan, New York, North Carolina, West Virginia, and Tennessee shared the experience. This workshop was the first step towards certification by the General Conference Home and Family Service. Couples fulfilling the requirements of the workshop received provisional certification, giving them authorization from the General Conference to conduct marriage enrichment events representing Adventist Marriage Enrichment.

Collegedale, Tennessee, Church Communication Secretary Frances Andrews and Pastor Gordon Bietz presented COMMUNITY SERVICE AWARDS to Don Self, manager of radio station WSMC-FM, Richard E. Greene, religion editor of the Chattanooga News-Free Press, and Ruth Robinson, religion editor of the Chattanooga Times. The plaques were presented during Media Recognition Day at the Collegedale church to honor those in the local Chattanooga press who had done the most to foster good community relations.

Evangelism Director Don Aalborg REPORTS: an average of 1,600 individuals attending nightly at the "Dimensions of Prophecy" crusade with Ken Cox in Chattanooga; 11 baptized with more scheduled at Atlanta-Cascade with Les Speer; Rudy Skoretz at Douglasville, Georgia, baptized more than 15; at Atlanta-Southside Pat Patse! baptized six with more expected.

Sabbath School Director Bill Henson conducted a VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL WORKSHOP at the Cohutta Springs Adventist Center, March 5, 6, for 150 VBS leaders. New ideas were discussed and various ways to make each VBS unique were examined. Fernon Retzer, Sabbath school director for the Southern Union, was guest speaker for the weekend. As personal ministries director, Henson also reports that a recent Lay Witness Weekend was well attended in the Thomaston, Georgia, church, with good participation and excellent positive response. The weekend consisted of class instruction and practical application. A new program to involve children and youth in the rewarding area of lay witness was begun at Thomaston. Youngsters from cradle roll through youth became involved in outreach activities. Lay witness team members are anxious to see how this added emphasis develops through the many scheduled Lay Witness Weekends ahead.

KENTUCKY-TENNESSEE

Several adults from the Nashville, Tennessee, First church VISITED THE TENNESSEE STATE PENITENTIARY. Chaplain Dave Philipp and inmates discussed prison ministry. December 26, 1981, the Daughter of Zion church of Delray Beach, Florida, celebrated its FIRST ANNIVERSARY in its new home. The guest speaker was O. H. Paul a former pastor. During the Adventist Youth Hour, the young people presented "Fashions of Love" for all married couples and those considering marriage. To bring the day to a close the Daughter of Zion's Concert Choir conducted by Victor Ghent, presented portions of Handel's "Messiah." In the 750-seat church, there was standing room only.

ADVENTIST HEALTH SYSTEM/SUNBELT

The Madison Hospital blood bank has been awarded to TWO-YEAR ACCREDITATION by the American Association of Blood Banks (AABB), according to Brenda Welch, chief technologist. Accreditation follows an intensive on-site inspection by specially trained representatives of the Association and establishes that the level of medical, technical, and administrative performance within the facility meets or exceeds the rigorous standards set by the AABB. Welch explains that "the AABB's inspection and accreditation procedures are voluntary. It is not legally necessary for a blood bank or transfusion service to be accredited, but, like many others, our facility has sought to be accredited because it represents a level of professional and medical expertise that meets and exceeds government regulations." The Madison Hospital blood bank has received AABB accreditation for 13 consecutive years.

William C. Hinton, chaplain at Takoma Adventist Hospital, Greeneville, Tennessee, was recently certified as a PROFESSIONAL CHAPLAIN by the College of Chaplains at its 36th Annual Convention in Louisville, Kentucky, March 14-17. Certification by the College of Chaplains is granted only to those clergypersons who meet high professional standards. The qualifications include college and theological seminary degrees, one year of experience as a chaplain, and a minimum of one year of special clinical pastoral education under supervision. Approval as a certified chaplain means that Hinton has been admitted as a Fellow in the College of Chaplains. The 1,600-member organization of professional chaplains admitted 63 new Fellows during the annual convention.

Bob Scott, regional vice president of Adventist Health System/Sunbelt, and former administrator/president of Florida Hospital, was INSTALLED as Chairman of the Board of Trustees of American Protestant Hospital Association March 15 during the opening of its sixty-second Annual Convention in Louisville, Kentucky. The American Protestant Hospital Association represents 300 church-related hospitals, homes for the aging, and health-related agencies as well as 1,500 chaplains who compose membership of the Association's widely acclaimed College of Chaplains. As an active member of American Protestant Hospital Association, Scott has served on the Board of Trustees for five years, been treasurer for two years, and a Member-at-Large of the Executive Committee for one year. Further, he was a member of the Special Task Force which did an in-depth study of the Association and also a member of APHA's Task Force on Consumer Choice Health Plan.

Three Mount Pisgah Academy students have reached the finalist category in the National Merit Scholarship Program this year. Recently a call came from the Asheville Times inviting James Slade (left), Michael Waller and Heather Blomeley to come down to be photographed for the story to appear in the Times. On February 18 the story was in the paper, picturing the three Mount Pisgah Academy students with the 16 other finalists from Buncombe County, North Carolina. James and Michael are four-year seniors at Mount Pisgah Academy, while Heather is completing her academy education in three years. All three will receive scholarships from Southern College.

Violet S. Jones, RN, MPH (left), and Kathleen Cooper, RN, with the help and support of the entire Sarasota, Florida, church, presented five sessions of nutrition information and vegetarian cooking demonstrations in the church January 25-February 8. Each session hosted 100-120 who were eager to learn about "Better Breakfasts," "Tasty Vegetables," "Vegetarian Entrees," "Whole Grain Breads," and "Low Sugar and Low Fat Desserts." Each evening reports of the health benefits of the recommended SDA life style were given, along with recipes and information.

Roy L. and Agnes Chamberlain celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary February 5. The Chamberlains are members of the Boulevard church in Madison, Tennessee. Chamberlain began work as a literature evangelist in 1934, serving during the next 31 years as publishing director in several conferences, including Georgia-Cumberland and Kentucky-Tennessee. For 10 years prior to his retirement he served as associate publishing director of the Southern Union.

As part of a renewed emphasis on community service and community preparedness, the Meridian, Mississippi, First church held a cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) class, taught by the Red Cross, February 9 and 10. The 11 individuals who took the class practiced on dummies which were equipped with simulated lungs and ribs. The Meridian church is trying to update its total community services program into a real action unit that will be ready to help people where they are hurting.

More than 72,000 cars per day travel by this billboard located along the main Interstate in Orlando, according to the advertising company which erected the billboard. The billboard has had good response and many favorable comments. It will be rotated to six sites throughout the area during the coming year, so that it will reach commuters coming from various neighborhoods.

Charlotte Hughes, postmistress at White House, Tennessee, is given a community service award by Dale Hoover, White House church pastor, March 24, at the White House Post Office. Also in attendance were David Huggins, section center manager at the Nashville Post Office, and Anne Richardson, personnel manager.

Calvin Preston (left), pastor of Gethsemane church in Raleigh, North Carolina, and Dr. C. B. Rock, president of Oakwood College and expert on family relations and counseling, are shown here answering questions. Rock joined Preston at the new Gethsemane church, February 19, 20, in a seminar on courtship, marriage, and the family. The emphasis was on the rising problems that our young people are having with courtship, marriage, and divorce within the church. They devoted a great deal of the time answering questions from the young people.

12 Academies Attend Annual Music Festival

Southern Union — Nearly three hundred music students from 12 Southern Union academies performed a series of concerts at the 24th annual Academy Music Festival March 19 and 20 at Southern Missionary College.

In addition to 20 keyboard students attending clinics by J. Bruce Ashton (piano) and Judy Glass (organ), students attended clinics for choir, band, and string orchestra. Don Runyan directed the 122-voice Music Festival Choir, Robert Anderson conducted the 100-piece Music Festival Band, and a 53-piece string orchestra was under the direction of Orlo Gilbert. All the clinicians are on the faculty of SMC.

Capacity crowds filled the Collegedale church Friday night and Sabbath morning as the choir and orchestra performed primarily 18th-century sacred music by such well-known masters as Bach, Handel, and Vivaldi. The latter's cantata, entitled "Gloria," performed on Friday night, appeared to be the most ambitious undertaking of the festival.

A sacred concert Sabbath afternoon added performances by the band to further appearances by the choir and orchestra.

Saturday night's secular concert featured a wide variety of music by the three organizations with Gerald Colvin, chairman of SMC's division of education and human sciences, serving as master of ceremonies.

SDA School Notes 110th Arbor Day

Alabama-Mississippi — Mobile Junior Academy, Mobile, Alabama, planned a special day marking "One Hundred Years of Arbor Day in Schools." Gordon Blackwell, director of planning and development, City of Mobile, presented an official proclamation to Charles Flach, principal, proclaiming Monday, March 8, Arbor Day in the City of Mobile.

Neil Letson, urban forester, Alabama Forestry Service, challenged the students to become more aware of trees and their importance. Letson also presented the "Tree City USA" award and the "Tree City" flag to Blackwell and the City of Mobile. Mobile, known as "the city under the trees," has been selected "Tree City USA" for the third consecutive year by the National Arbor Day Foundation.

the program. Nine new trees were planted on the campus. Each class of the nine-grade school adopted a tree, burying a time capsule with a list of the students in the sponsoring class.

Hurricane Frederic, which devastated much of Mobile in 1979, caused great damage to the city's trees, making the residents more conscious of the benefits they provide.

VBS Directors Attend Seminar

Carolina — A Vacation Bible School Seminar was conducted at Nosoca Pines Ranch the weekend of March 12-14. Conference Sabbath School Director R. G. Beck welcomed the group and gave the opening message on Friday night.

Sabbath morning Fernon D. Retzer, Sabbath school director for the Southern Union Conference, taught the Sabbath school lesson and shared other helpful information with those attending. The morning sermon was given by Norman Doss, conference secretary and ministerial director.

Others who participated in the program were Florence Doss, who told a mission story from her experience in Africa; D. E. Kenyon, who spoke about advertising vacation Bible schools; Ginger Kenyon, who demonstrated how to tell a continued story during the Bible school, and Alice Robertson and Janie Leonhardt, who demonstrated games and crafts for the group. Materials available for use in vacation Bible schools were demonstrated by Wanda Beck and Marilyn Ford.

The 40 who attended went back to their churches much better prepared to lead their Bible schools this summer.

Ft. Myers Shores Offers Computerized Longevity Program

Florida — The Community Service workers and the Pathfinders of the Fort Myers Shores church of Ft. Myers, Florida, sponsored a booth at the Lee County Fair January 29-February 7, at which they operated the Computerized Longevity Program.

Doug Jacobs, pastor, reports that 571 persons were screened and evaluated, and 403 requested the follow-up classes provided by the church—Nutrition and Weight Control, Physical Fitness, Five-Day Stop Smoking Clinics, Heart and Cancer Prevention, Stress Control, and Bible classes.

Chattanooga Health Fair Draws Large Crowd

Georgia-Cumberland — Approximately 400 volunteers participated in the annual Better Living Fair at the Eastgate Mall in Chattanooga, Tennessee, February 15-17. Under the direction of Pam Tuttle of the Standifer Gap, Tennessee, church, and Lois Moore of the Collegedale, Tennessee, church, this year's fair has been termed the most successful ever.

Various health-related tests were conducted, with 878 individuals having their blood pressure checked, along with 600 blood anemia tests, 422 blood sugar tests, 782 height and weight measurements, and 197 glaucoma tests. Forty-four people expressed an interest in a Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking, while 113 wanted to learn about controlling cholesterol. Fifty-eight people received information about the vegetarian diet, and 141 individuals were concerned about weight control. Forty-one people desired Bible study guides.

Many other tests and surveys were performed relating to exercise, temperament, longevity, and family life.

Jane Sines, a former director of the Eastgate Health Fair, served as an advisor for the 1982 fair and says that the extensive media coverage the health fair received prior to and during the three-day event was a big factor in attracting so many people. Thirty-second public service announcements were aired often over radio and television stations in the Chattanooga area. Also, a 25-minute talk show on one of the local TV stations featured Sines discussing the activities that took place and an explanation of the SDA health philosophy as given by E. G. White.

Plans are already being made for next year's health fair.

Takoma Conducts Heart/Lung Check

Takoma Adventist Hospital — February 12 was a busy day for the dozen Greeneville, Tennessee, hospital employees and volunteers who conducted Takoma Adventist Hospital's first Heart/Lung Check.

Ninety-eight people waited their turn at the screening stations to receive a blood pressure measurement, height, weight, pulmonary function tests, and individual health counseling. Individual counseling sessions lasted from 20 to 40 minutes each.

The Heart/Lung Check was conducted near Valentine's Day to capture the theme of hearts. Many participants expressed gratitude for the opportunity to receive free medical advice.

Local radio stations, which provided free public service announcements, and word-of-mouth advertising made the day a success.

Seventy-five Receive Nutrition Certificates

South Central — Participants in the Oakwood College Campus church course in "Health, Nutrition, and Food Preparation" were delighted with samples of food brought by fellow-members of the class. It was graduation day for them on a recent Sunday afternoon. Grace D. McLeod, instructor, had requested each one to prepare a sample of one of the class recipes, as a sort of "final examination." ### Northside Church Breaks Ground

Southeastern — Northside church, Miami, Florida, is experiencing unprecedented growth. The education building is no longer able to supply the needs of its young people.

Under the leadership of its pastor, R. R. Brown, and the church's building committee, H. A. Mills, committee chairman, plans have been laid for the erection of six classrooms and a pastor's study. The estimated cost is $110,000. Construction is set to begin in May or June.

Special guests present at the December 13 groundbreaking ceremony were Dr. Irvin Elligan, pastor, New Covenant Presbyterian church; Dr. Roy Phillips, vice-president, Miami-Dade Community College, North Campus; and L. H. Fletcher, education director, Inter-American Division.

The Southeastern Conference will have opportunity to approve the plans, drawn by Architect James Merrifield, and the financial arrangements.

Adventists Operate Booth at World's Fair

Georgia-Cumberland — Seventh-day Adventists were represented when the 1982 World's Fair opened in Knoxville, Tennessee, May 1, according to the executive director of the project, Jane Sines, of Collegedale, Tennessee.

A need for representation of the Seventh-day Adventist Church at the '82 World's Fair, which runs from May 1 to the end of October, prompted Sines, wife of Collegedale-area dentist John A. Sines, to contact individuals who might be able to support the project financially. Within a short time enough money was raised to purchase a choice display area and provide an operating budget. The eight natural remedies as set forth by E. G. White are emphasized in the booth, designed by Knoxville Adventist Harold Duckett, with the focus on the human body—our most important natural resource. At least 312 volunteers will man the booth.

A special issue of the Adventist Review has been published for the World's Fair and will be available for those visiting the booth. Also, the book, How You Can Live Six Extra Years, by Lewis and Jo Ellen Walton and John A. Scharffenberg, will be available. A mini-theater will feature an eight-minute film on the SDA life style.

Thirty Couples Renew Marriage Vows

South Atlantic — Thirty couples under the leadership of their pastor, V. L. Mendinghall, renewed their marriage vows at West Broad Street church in Savannah, Georgia, February 13. This service ended a week-long Marriage Enrichment Workshop which was held at the church for the entire membership. The pastor and his wife Ruth participated in the ceremony along with the other 29 couples.

From the demonstration and comments which came from the couples at the reception which followed in the F. W. Parker Fellowship Hall, it was quite evident that these couples had caught a new sense of the importance of maintaining a fresh and determined devotion to each other as it relates to their marriage vows.

Schedule Changed For SDA Paramedic

Florida — Nathan Hudson, a deacon of the Daytona Beach, Florida, church was required to attend the Daytona Beach Community College for further instruction to continue as an Emergency Medical Technologist. Midway through the spring semester, Hudson was told that an eight-hour class would be held on Saturday, April 3. The class was a mandatory exercise in extrication (removal of victims trapped in vehicles), with mock accidents.

Hudson explained to the teacher that the Sabbath was his holy day, and requested that he be able to do it on another day. The instructor was sympathetic and kind, but was not able to change the schedule because of the coordination of equipment and the specially trained personnel.

Hudson brought the matter to the attention of several church members and Larry D. Groger, pastor, who joined him in prayer that God would work out a solution. Several weeks and many prayers later, Hudson sat in the classroom as the instructor explained to the students that the class scheduled for April 3, would be held instead from 1 to 6 p.m., Sunday, April 4. The change was due to unexpected difficulties in arranging equipment and personnel for the demonstration.

Hudson says he was thankful but not surprised. "I gave it to Him at the very beginning so I knew He would take care of it."

Camp Alamisco on March 30 and 31.

Crane explained the background, needs, and implementation guidelines for the Personal Giving Plan. The Personal Giving program is designed to encourage systematic benevolence and to help organize and simplify certain financial gifts to support God's cause for a finished work in all the world.

The Alabama-Mississippi Conference Executive Committee has voted to go on the Personal Giving Plan. To date four churches have voted to accept the Plan, and 18 other congregations are preparing and studying ways to put the Personal Giving Plan into effect.

A new and very promising method of evangelism was also presented at the ministers' meeting by Harry Robinson, ministerial secretary of the Texas Conference and author of the lessons used in the seminar.

Similar in many respects to the It Is Written seminars held in recent years, the program consists of 24 meetings, three meetings per week for eight weeks, followed by visitation and/or an advanced seminar.

The meetings consist of a classroom type setting, with the participants seated at tables. Anyone can ask a question at any time, and free discussion is encouraged.

Highland Church Conducts Musical Weekend

Kentucky-Tennessee — Sounds of Heaven was the theme for services at the Highland church in Portland, Tennessee, on March 12 and 13. The ministers of music,

Catherine Mock and Suzanne Fuller, selected talent from among the church membership at the Nashville First church, the Riverside church, and the Highland church.

A sacred concert given by Roy Drusky, with Gene and Marie Jennings at piano and organ, opened the musical weekend on Friday evening. For Sabbath school, the lesson came first and then the special feature—"Sonlight," a group of singers from the Riverside church. During the eleven o'clock hour, the story of redemption was proclaimed in instrument, song, and praise, opening with the song

ASI Convention Draws 100

Southern Union — The fourth annual meeting of the Southern Union chapter of Adventist Laymen's Services and Industries (ASI) was conducted April 2 and 3 at Panama City, Florida. More than 100 laymen engaged in businesses and services were in attendance. The meeting featured seminars on business, spiritual services, and election of officers in a business session.

April 2, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., James R. Williams, Ph.D., conducted a seminar entitled "Motivation: 101 Ways to Run a Better Business." Later that evening, Kenneth Livesay, executive secretary of ASI for the General Conference, delivered the keynote address. Other speakers included J. R. Spangler, ministerial director of the General Conference; Warren Johns, legal counsel for the General Conference; Gary Dunlap, a Georgia truck driver who uses his vocation as a vehicle for witnessing; and Harold Metcalf, Southern Union ministerial director.

The weekend program ended Saturday night with a business session in which officers were elected for the coming year, followed by a secular music concert by Jimmy and Pam Rhodes of Cleveland, Tennessee.

The President's Pulpit

He came as the personification of God. (John 10:30)

Throughout His earthly ministry Christ effectively revealed God's personal interest in and love for people. Though each recorded account of Christ's life barely skimmed across the three and one-half years of His ministry, the golden threads of His compassionate love for people were interwoven beautifully throughout.

The gentle thread of His love for people appeared when His attention moved repeatedly from masses and crowds to individuals, such as the palsied man (Mark 2:1-12), the blind man of Bethesda (Mark 8:22-25), or the mother-in-law of Peter (Luke 4:38, 39).

An unheralded, easily overlooked thread of Christ's love was His willingness to listen and then respond to people. To appreciate this, notice the hundreds of almost identical introductory phrases to Christ's comments found from Matthew to John—"He answered and said unto them . . .," or "He answered them. . . ."

One encouraging thread of Christ's supportive love was His positive outlook of people. From His viewpoint of perfection He worked patiently with bigoted, self-centered people, yet lovingly still saw good in them. He longed to improve them through encouragement.

Golden threads of Christ's commitment to people seen that crucifixion Friday beautifully epitomized His altruism. The first three of His last seven comments were addressed to a cross-section of people near the cross.

While being nailed to the cross Christ prayed for His tormentors, "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do." Soon after the cross bearing Christ had been erected, he looked down, saw His grieving mother, and lovingly cared for her future. Later, in response to His neighbor's "death bed" request for salvation, Christ reassuringly said, "Verily I say unto you today, thou shalt be with me in paradise."

Christ exemplified the golden threads of God's love which showed the best and most effective attitudes toward people—the attitudes of God.

A Cemetery in Every Home

I stood by the graveside of a friend recently and watched as the coffin was lowered into the rich black earth. Here, buried some six feet deep, his earthly remains would be well sheltered from all earthly predators until the Life Giver calls. It was a sad time, even for Christians with hope of a soon coming resurrection. I am glad every day doesn't bring another funeral, separation from someone I love, and another trip to the cemetery.

But the Lord's messenger says that every home should have a cemetery of its own! Listen: "The heart of his wife should be the grave for the faults of the husband, and the heart of the husband the grave for his wife's faults," Adventist Home, p. 177.

You see, God knows that predators stalk the land of the living in greater numbers than they haunt the land of the dead. Whenever we live intimately, as we do in the family, weaknesses soon become evident. And just outside the family circle lurk the predators, ready always to gather tidbits about the weaknesses and failures of our loved ones, eager to parade them for all to see.

But Christian love requires daily funerals, deep burials, permanent gravesites for the faults of our loved ones. These, however, are not sad occasions! At this cemetery scene, our loved ones find out what real love is like and are given courage to grow.

If you've ever thought about what it would be like to live in a wildlife sanctuary—or your children dream about it—your whole family will bask in the Sam Campbell style.

You'll want to hop into the canoe with Sam and his wife, Giny, and paddle to The Sanctuary, their island home. There you'll meet Inky, Salt and Pepper, the renowned porcupines. And Calamity Jane, the wise old raccoon. The orphaned fawns, Fiddlesticks and Freckles. You'll visit moose country, discover what a "magic night—with monkeyshines" is like, and who is known as "an odor with a stripe down its back."

You'll chuckle (and think seriously too) as forest life really comes to life for you in these well-written stories.

ASI In Southern Union

These thoughts are being penned while attending the Southern Union Chapter meeting of Adventist Laymen's Services and Industries, an organization of laymen who are engaged in business or render a service to the public. The meeting is being held in Panama City, Florida, and is the fourth annual meeting of the group.

More than 100 people have convened from every part of the Southern Union for fellowship and to share with one another ideas and methods for making their business a vital part of the mission of the church.

Philip Winsted, owner of two nursing homes in Kernersville, North Carolina, is president of the Southern Union chapter. He states: "I believe that ASI is the sleeping giant of the church. The potential for spreading the gospel is practically limitless as Adventist business people fully dedicate their efforts and means to a positive witness for Christ."

Highlight of this session was the firsthand soul-winning experiences of Gary Dunlap, a long-distance truck driver from Atlanta. His resolve to witness to someone every day has resulted in incredible openings for sharing his faith, and during the past year he has seen at least six baptized as a result.

ASI got its start in 1904 right here in the Southern Union when E. A. Sutherland and P. T. Magan came to Madison, Tennessee, and established the Nashville Agricultural and Normal Institute. Madison Hospital and Madison Academy are an outgrowth of that early vision. Schools and medical institutions sprang up all across the Southern Union and many still serve a very vital role today.

In recent years, however, ASI has been broadened to include business and professional people in various pursuits who wish to dedicate those efforts to the Lord. Members here in the South now number in excess of 100. For information on how you can become a member, please write Elder Maurice Abbott, P.O. Box 849, Decatur, Georgia 30031.

World's Fair Project

Realizing the potential for reaching a projected 11 million people with a positive witness, a group of laymen in the Collegedale, Tennessee, area have secured space at the World's Fair in Knoxville, Tennessee, in which our church will be featured.

Heading the project is Jane Sines, who was instrumental in inspiring other laymen and embarking on an endeavor that is budgeted for $300,000. Capitalizing on the energy theme of the fair, the church's booth will feature "People Helping People Around The World." The booth is being prepared by Interior Associates, a design firm in Knoxville owned by another Adventist, Harold Duckett.

How thrilling it is to see laymen give leadership and support to such important projects.
