FINANCIAL STATEMENT IS GIVEN ASSOCIATION

AMENDMENT PROPOSED

Methods Are Discussed for Increasing Advertising

The first financial statement of The Students' Association for the school year was submitted by Arthur Henrichsen at a meeting of that body in chapel yesterday.

Following Mr. Henrichsen's presentation of the debit facing the Association, Frank Vansickle and Howard Metcalfe discussed the reasons why the existing encumbrances were left from preceding years.

Business Manager Howard Metcalfe of The Sligonian pointed out a method by which the advertising department might function properly, and a nominating committee brought in the names of George Petrie and Gerald Dolan to be voted upon for the vacancy left by the assistant advertising manager of The Sligonian.

VETERAN ENCOURAGES STUDENT THEOLOGIAN

"A young man who cannot make a place for himself is out of his place in the ministry," declared Elder M. N. Campbell of the General Conference, and head of the work in the division of Pioneer Methods and Bible Work in the United States, in speaking to the theological students, Friday evening, Nov. 1.

Elder Campbell and Dr. B. G. Wilkinson began as pioneers in teaching the gospel 35 years ago. They conducted meetings together, and met with a large degree of success.

In continuing, Elder Campbell said, "Do not stand up before a group of people to preach before you have turned your own heart inside out. God cannot bless a man with a proud spirit."

"Hope for the best, but prepare for the worst," is the slogan to be used by those preparing for mission-

ELDER SHOUP SPEAKS ON ADVENT OF CHRIST

"The Great Expectation" is coming, stated Elder H. L. Shoup in a chapel address Monday, Nov. 4, in the third lecture of a series of sermons on cardinal S. D. A. doctrines.

The expectation of believers in Christ ever since His crucifixion has been to see Him coming again according to His promises. This is a fulfillment found 300 times in the New Testament.

Elder Shoup conclusively proved that the second coming will be a literal appearing, that every eye shall see Him, and that it will not be a secret or spiritual method.

In closing, the speaker made an urgent appeal that every one be stationed for God, as the day and hour are uncertain, but prophecy shows that it is nearing fulfillment.

The Pan American Union Building is here overlooking the President's Park on the east and Potomac Park on the south. The building is the home of the International Organization, maintained by twenty-one Latin American Republics.

SUB RECORD IS MADE BY RESIDENT STUDENT

From 16 states and four foreign countries 67 subscriptions for The Sligonian were secured in the subscription campaign by Maynard Bourdeau. In reply to his 33 letters, 21 answers with subscriptions were received.

The subscription list includes three missionaries, six college presidents, four business managers of sanitariums, three medical superintendents, and others of various professions including several prominent business men of Washington. One blind lady is included in the list, and two dead people, both having died within a week after the subscriptions were secured.

Of the 67 subscriptions Mr. Bourdeau secured 20 from strangers who knew nothing about Washington Missionary College.

FAREWELL RECEPTION IS GIVEN IN HONOR OF 1929 ALUMNA

Friends of Miss Cleo Woodall's college days gathered at the Conard home Monday evening to bid her farewell. Miss Woodall, a W. M. C. alumna, left Nov. 6, for Keene, Texas, preparatory to going to Balboa, Canal Zone, to work in the union offices.

Crisp waffles, maple syrup and hot chocolate were served while Miss Maybelle Vandermark drew the silhouettes of every guest, on each of which was written a note to Miss Woodall to be read while on her voyage.

Life in the open of Texas was depicted when Miss Mary Ninaj recited the Texan "Alasca." Winston Adams, who served as the president of The Students' Association at the same time Miss Woodall was secretary, recalled her spirit and willingness to work.

A week-end case, containing the notes, silhouettes and scraps of

FRESHMEN HOLD MANY PROMINENT POSITIONS

HONOR POSITIONS HELD

That the upper-classmen have faith in the ability of the Freshmen, and that they are fast becoming initiated into the routine of college life, is indicated by the number of prominent positions held by them in the various school activities.

Raymond Stockil is holding office as religious secretary of The Students' Association. He comes from South Africa, and is enrolled in the Theological Department in preparation for the ministry. Paul Laurence represents the class as a member of the nominating committee of the Association.

Miss Edna Parsons holds the purse-strings of the Halcyon Club, and every member will testify as to her efficiency in collecting dues.

The number of Freshman reporters on The Sligonian staff gives evidence of the journalistic talent in this class. Included among the weekly contribu-

SUNSHINE PROGRAM IS HELD AT DICKSON HOME

The second section of the Sunshine Band visited the John Dickson Home of retired influential business men on Sabbath afternoon, Nov. 2. The group was made up of 75 students and friends.

The happiness and sunshine of the band imparted smiles to the faces of those who had been visited. The party received a hearty welcome, and in turn gave an interesting program. Close attention was given by the elderly gentlemen friends. The introduction and greeting were given by the leader, Miss Margaret Ellwanger. A male quartet, consisting of Robert Eldridge, Earl Hackman, Charles Eldridge and Dale Hamilton sang four selections. Horton McLennan entertained with a saw solo, and the stringed trio, consisting of Prof. Johnson, Mildred McClary and Edwin Harkins contributed a number.

Intercollegiate Association Convenes in Baltimore

Representing W. M. C. at the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association Convention held at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Maryland, were: Profs. C. E. Weniger, E. C. Blue, Dean Eric Jones and Walter Crandall. The convention was held November 2-3.

The purpose of the gathering was to discuss the diverse opinions concerning prohibition as to what is in the students' mind, and to work out a program to meet the needs of the college campus, and then to find the individual and social responsibility to be employed in stamping out the use of alcoholic beverages.

Sixteen colleges scattered throughout Delaware, Maryland and the District of Columbia were invited by the council of Christian Associations of

W. M. C. UNDERTAKES BIG PLUMBING REPAIRS

Many commendable jobs have been finished by the plumbing crew consisting of Andrew Lessner and Walter Meissner, and they are not without prospects of a busy future. South Hall is to be completely overhauled, and the third floor of North Hall is to receive a new lavatory, while those on the other floors will undergo several major changes.

The section of the water heating system in the men's dormitory which has been standing idle for several months, will soon be repaired.

LANDSCAPING PROJECT IS WELL UNDER WAY

There is now under way an improvement which will mean much to the appearance of the College buildings and campus. Many of the trees are being cut down to carry out the new landscape plans. In their place many small cedars and other evergreen trees are being planted.

Recently there has been a new stone retaining wall built around the south end of the tennis court, this being covered with a new hedge which extends the full length of the driveway, from dormitory to street.

The driveway is to be made four feet wider, with curbing on both sides. A parking space at Columbia Hall will be scientifically laid out, with regulation cement curbing and markings. There will be a fish pond installed near the parkway.

A set of concrete steps is to be added to the campus at the corner of Carroll and Flower avenues. Leading from here to Columbia Hall there will be a flagstone footpath. A rock garden is also to be added to this section.

COLLEGE OF MUSIC WILL GIVE FALL PROGRAM SATURDAY NIGHT

COMMUNITY IS INVITED

Original Piano Compositions of W. M. C. Instructor Will Feature Program

By Carl Laubach

The music faculty of Washington Missionary College will give their annual program in Columbia Hall Saturday evening, Nov. 9.

Mrs. R. L. Walin, mezzo-soprano, graduate of the Whitman College Conservatory of Music, will render the vocal numbers of the program. Mrs. Walin was an instructor of voice for more than ten years and originally director of the Department of Music at Walla Walla College before taking charge of voice instruction at W. M. C.

Violin Numbers Scheduled

Prof. Victor Johnson, who is now a member of the W. M. C. School of Music, in charge of the wind and string instruments, has for seven years been a member of the music faculty at Walla Walla. Prof. Johnson will present his audience with several well-known violin numbers. He will be accompanied at the piano by Prof. H. A. Miller.

Composer to Play

Prof. H. A. Miller was added to the faculty this year as instructor in piano and theory. His training in music began under his father who taught piano for half a century and studied abroad with Leschetizky. Prof. Miller is also a composer of note. The numbers he will give in the program are his own compositions. He has upwards of 200 works from his pen in his portfolio.

During the evening entertainment, every one present will be introduced to the world's most famous composers and leaders in music. It will not be a verbal introduction but the works and techniques of Mendelssohn, Tosti, Lamperti and Dudley

OLD ATTIC GIVES WAY TO MODERN ART ROOM

Twenty-two years ago the first Art class of Washington Missionary College met over the carpenter shop in an unfinished attic, with Miss E. M. Spicer as its instructor. Since then it has come to occupy a more appropriate position, and is now located in Columbia Hall with Miss Spicer still its instructor.

The purpose of this class was that of training young men and women for active work in the mission field. Their work was of the same nature as that done in the Normal Art class at the present time. It consisted of drawing with pencil and crayon, and painting with water colors. The Normal Art Course today prepares the church school teacher for that phase of teaching, and is equally beneficial for those who plan to become foreign missionaries.

The Sligonian Platform to Keep Washington Missionary College First

AIM HIGH, FRESHMEN!

"For eager teachers seized my youth,
Pruned my faith and trimmed my fire,
Showed me the high white star of truth,
There bade me gaze and there aspire."

We, the Freshmen of W. M. C., are directed to right principles. High standards are set before us, to which we may aspire; but it is for us to choose our ideals. We have the liberty to fall as well as to rise. We may either win distinction through compelling ourselves to accomplish difficult tasks, or, if we choose, we may stumble along in the path of least resistance.

Let us aspire to lofty ideals and not choose to tread the primrose path of ease. Let us look above and beyond to the white star of truth, and walk in the straight and narrow path that leads to it.

This is our aim, our forward stride and our future.

ARE YOU A CHRISTIAN?

History is divided into ages, marked specifically by some special movement outstanding in its nature and its results. Perhaps the most distinctive element or movement at the present time is that calculated to bring the nations of the earth into the most harmonious and fruitful relations with Christianity.

It is much easier to develop the spirit of war than the spirit of peace. We have had the military spirit bred into us by past warlike generations. Today, we need to replace that spirit with a Christian spirit, with friendship and justice. If this is done, it must be through the young people of the world. It is difficult to reform an adult generation or get it to change its disposition and its viewpoint. Youth is unprejudiced and can be taught. If instruction in our College applies the Golden Rule, we can make definite progress toward that goal.

Teachers must be leaders in the great Advent message. They mold the attitudes of their students, and students must be plastic to learn and to follow their guides.

Get into the progressive party. Undertake some definitely calculated advancement in Christian living, and common destiny will bring all together under the bond of human brotherhood.

WE DON'T NEED RECIPES

While glancing through a certain college paper the other day we ran across a formula on how to make a Freshman understand something. The general formula represented fourteen vital points of telling the Freshman how to do that something. Judging by the type of college that offers such a recipe, we can see logic in it. But a difference in material necessarily changes the formula.

An alumnus returns to his alma mater to witness another commencement. More than a generation of students has passed from the scene since his graduation. The attraction of friendships acquired during his college days is lacking. What, then, is the magnetic force that draws him back? Is it not the ideals that influenced him to go in pursuit of a higher education?

"Education is the art of making living itself an art," says Everett Dean Martin in "The Meaning of a Liberal Education." "It is a way of life, just as truly as the religious life is a way of life."

This is the ideal of Washington Missionary College, for it prepares us for the business of living. If after being told fourteen times of this ideal, the Freshmen of W. M. C. had still been ignorant of the value of an education such as our school offers, they would not be here.

THE TOURIST

Trickle, trickle, trickle, splashes the water into a beautifully sculptured fountain, as you enter the lofty arched vestibule of the Pan American Building through three sturdy portals into a typical Latin American patio, or courtyard.

The building was contributed by Mr. Andrew Carnegie, and ranks as one of the most beautiful public buildings in the world.

The eastern approach is characterized with two sunken gardens, and the huge bronze lanterns of heroic size are reminiscent of early Aztec periods.

Did you ever see a coffee, coconut or banana tree, or hear the call of a Brazilian parrot? The richness of this tropical setting gives an atmosphere and suggestion of Latin America.

At the rear of the patio a wide corridor exhibits the products of the foreign countries, and a reading room with a reference library of the Unions is still farther back.

Suspended from the ceiling are flags of the 21 Latin American Republics, and placed along the sides of the second floor are statues of men of constructive days from each of the countries represented.

"The Hall of the Americas," the most beautiful room of that nature in the United States, is the reception room of the ambassadors from the Unions to America. Looking west from its drape-covered windows, the visitor comes upon a beautiful setting, which is called the Aztec Garden. There the precious relics of the Aztecs watch over the lily pond.

The Pan American Union Building may be reached by the Fourteenth street car line to New York avenue and a transfer to a Rosslyn street car, leaving an eight-minute walk south to C street.

those states, to send delegates who were open minded, courageous and socially useful.

Mr. Crandall with seven other members representing the colleges, formed the student committee which discussed the purpose and procedure of the meetings.

J. M. Doran, United States Commissioner of Prohibition, Harry Warner, an observer of students in conjunction with prohibition, J. Olpiniki, from Warsaw, Poland, world wide authority on prohibition, Robert Carnes, E. B. Dunford, a member of the Supreme Court bar, comprised the authorities who spoke at the Saturday afternoon sessions. Dr. E. Meyer of Johns Hopkins lectured in the evening.

FRESHMAN SPIRIT

Hail to the class of Freshmen,
A group all full of pep,
With Soph'mores, Juniors, Seniors
We now are keeping step.
Beats done, news won,
And copy, line on line.
Heads scratched, dummies patched,
A little of craft and design.
But we're signing off, we have no more.

To you our gift we bring,
Now, what do you think of our paper,
Isn't it just the thing?

—Elfrieda Kuntz.

FRESHMAN STUDENTS DISPLAY CAPABILITIES

The Freshman Class of W. M. C. is not without talented students. Many of its members hold distinguished occupations. Indeed, what would be done without a chef? If it were not for Dale Wilson, the students might still be hungry even after eating, for without his master hand to guide, the food might not be so appetizing as it now is.

In the bakery are Andrew Saphiloff and B. Paul Kang. They bake delicious cookies, cakes and other good things. Not every one is skilled in the art of baking, as many ladies have found out when they baked their first cake.

There are the noted electricians, Daniel Fisher and Charles Boyts. They are efficient in the art of wiring, and many of the students have needed their assistance when making some electrical additions. No one except the official electricians are given authority to do this work.

In the business office, Laurence Senseman, Elfrieda Kuntz and Mae Reichard represent the Freshman Class. These three play an important part in the business life of W. M. C.

Student painters, printers and salesmen are to be found in the class as well as the musicians who are connected with the band, orchestra and choral society of the College.

installed, was purchased in New York a month ago. It is ten feet long and four feet in diameter with a capacity of 600 gallons. North Hall was recently connected to the Central Hall tank, and South Hall will soon have its share of hot water.

The water passes through tile-covered, asbestos-insulated pipe, which was placed from Central to both North and South Halls by the plumbing crew, assisted by Merle Peden and Dean Marchus.

The Quantitative Analysis class is without doubt benefited by the work of Mr. Lessner and Mr. Meissner, as it was through their efforts that the bacteria breeding oven was changed from the Biology to the Chemistry laboratory.

A new plumbing shop is soon to be installed in the basement of Central Hall.

Elder J. C. Thompson of the General Conference is leaving for South Dakota this week. Elder Thompson will hold a Sabbath school convention there.

INQUIRING REPORTER

What do you like most about W. M. C.?

Everything about W. M. C. appeals to me. The campus is wonderfully planned, and in the same sense of the word, so are the courses of study. The sincere cordiality of faculty members and students also makes work and lessons a constant pleasure.—Helen Lamond.

—I love my home, I love my friends, And to W. M. C. my love extends.

It is here I have found the golden part of a true education and association.—Edith Crain.

Personally I like W. M. C.'s beautiful situation. I believe it to be one of our best located educational institutions in all respects.—Walter Meissner.

Music Talent Is Appreciated

The thing that impressed me most in W. M. C. is the large percentage of musical talent that the students have.—Dorothy Bullock.

What do I like best about W. M. C.? The Sligo of course,—it is so nice to study by.—James French.

Do you want to know why I like W. M. C.? Because of our pleasant associations and home-like life with its opportunities.—Nellie Hubbard.

I especially like the privilege one has of learning to mingle with others. It gives one the opportunity to cultivate friendships and to consider other people's rights.—Edna Parsons.

I like W. M. C. because of its friendly atmosphere, its great possibilities for spiritual and cultural development and the opportunity it affords to obtain a thorough preparation for life.—Howard Johnson.

One of the most outstanding features of W. M. C. is its location. Besides the multitude of opportunities offered in an educational line, it is the center of our world-wide work—Lucerne Collins.

Association Is Feature

Bettering one's personality and sense of responsibility through association with other students is one of the biggest features of W. M. C.—Gertrude Stevens.

I like W. M. C. for the personal interest the instructors have for each student. The opportunity for work at W. M. C. is also a big asset to the institution.—Laurence Senseman.

In my opinion, the highly educational advantages, made pleasant by the friendly spirit of teachers and students of W. M. C., are the chief assets of this school.—Mildred McClary.

The various educational clubs are a great asset to W. M. C., and I consider them a strong motive in promoting college spirit.—Beverly-June Pruette.

To me one of the best features about W. M. C. is the splendid educational advantages accessible in Washington, D. C.—Dorothy Sampson.

The thing that impressed me most here at W. M. C. is its location. I believe that it is one of the most advantageously situated schools in our denomination.—Helena Kirkland.

With educational advantages, and a spiritual atmosphere, I believe W. M. C. excels other colleges throughout the country.—John Stevens.

"MAN REAPS WHAT HE SOWS," SAYS SPEAKER

Basing his subject on the Bible truth that a man reaps what he sows, Elder C. S. Longacre, Religious Liberty secretary of the General Conference, addressed the College Young People's Meeting Friday evening, Nov. 1.

Elder Longacre stressed the fact that youth is the sowing time and that the kind of seed sown now will determine the harvest in declining years. Adam and Eve sowed one little sin, 6,000 years ago, and mankind is reaping the results today.

One can never reap less than he has sown. He must always reap more. Plant one watermelon seed this year, and the harvest of the fourth year will fill 1,600,000,000 freight cars.

In concluding, Elder Longacre stated, "Our lives are largely what we make them. Let us, therefore, sow an abundance of good seed so that we may have a good and abundant harvest. For whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

Miss Eunice Graham gave request numbers on the piano, and Miss Rozetta Thurston read the story of two bad boys' juvenile pranks.

With a rousing verse of the school song, every one bade Miss Woodall good night and wished her success in her work.

COSMIC RAY

Prof. C. L. Woods, head of the Mathematics Department, gave an instructive discourse on "Photography of the Sun" at the meeting held by the Cosmic Ray Club, Saturday evening in the Science room of College Hall.

The first observation of sun spots is said to have been made by the Chinese. These periodic disturbances were noted by Galileo in the seventeenth century, and our modern knowledge of them dates from his time.

Further plans were made by the club for the completion of the College telescope. Last year the club raised over $150 toward the project. To this the school management has promised to add a substantial sum. The club hopes to complete the telescope this year.

EXCHANGE

According to The Collegian of Walla Walla College, 200 music lovers attended the inaugural pipe-organ recital that was given in the College Place Seventh-day Adventist church, Oct. 19. Mr. Bramford of Oregon, a well-known organ critic, was present and spoke on the history of the pipe organ. He thought it a great asset to the school.

The Campus Chronicle of Pacific Union College reports that ten college classes are now being offered by the Bible Department, while eleven churches are being assisted through their efforts. The largest Bible class, Daniel and Revelation, has an enrollment of 67. At the beginning of the year a college Bible inventory test composed of 25 practical questions, was given to this class. Grades ranged from 22 to 99 per cent, while the average grade was 64.

The Student Movement, of E. M. C., reports that the glee clubs are formed and are now entering into the year's work with enthusiasm. Students and teachers have closed a successful week of prayer which was brought to a climax with a touching lesson on consecration by Elder Meade MacGuire.

The Review and Herald has undergone several minor constructional changes. The periodical and binding departments have been moved to different sections of the building.

BREAD MIXER IS BOUGHT FOR W. M. C. BAKERY

Do you know that the business of the College bakery is increasing by leaps and bounds? Recently an order for 75 loaves of bread daily had to be turned down due to insufficient help and equipment.

Recognizing this need, Mr. R. L. Walin, business manager of the College, purchased a new mixer for the bakery. The Century made mixer, valued at $800, has a capacity of 80 quarts. It is equipped with a steam-jacket kettle which keeps the ingredients hot during the process of mixing.

Mr. Edward Mooy has been succeeded as manager by Mr. Wallaker, from St. Louis, Illinois. Mr. Mooy found it necessary to discontinue his work due to curricular requirements.

HEALTH MILL SHOWS TRANSFORMING POWER

With a health program featuring the chapel hour last Friday, Health Week at W. M. C. was given added interest. Miss Florence Oliver, the school nurse, and Miss Mary Slate of the Sanitarium, assisted by twenty students taken from all departments of the College, gave the program.

Miss Oliver in introducing the event said, "As young people you are strong and healthy. Do not squander that health." With the closing of her remarks there was introduced a verse recital of timely advice on good health by pupils of the Sligo church school.

The "Health Mill," a pantomime, offered a cure for all ills on entrance to the mill.

INFORMAL DINNER GIVEN

Thursday afternoon, Oct. 31, the cooking class of the Home Economics Department entertained Miss Bernice Brown at an informal dinner in the Home Economics Department, with Mary Kane acting as hostess.

Dinners are planned every two weeks, and will afford the members of the class opportunities to display their skill in a practical way.

NURSES' GUILD

The Kate Lindsay Guild met in Central Hall and elected Miss Alberta Hilckman to the president's desk, and Miss Florence Oliver as her assistant. Miss Doris Thompson was elected secretary, and Miss Pauline Pyle will take the duties of the treasurer's ledger.

The evening was spent in selecting advertisement pictures to be used in poster making. These pictures will be sent to a Danish school teacher, who, while she was in America, learned of the possibilities of the poster as a means of bringing before the people suggestions of right ways of living. These pictures cannot be secured from the papers and magazines of the country to which they are being sent.

TENNESSEE MINISTER BRINGS NEW STUDENT

Elder W. P. McLennan, pastor of the Memphis, Tennessee, church, visited his son Horton McLennan Wednesday, Oct. 30. With him were Mr. and Mrs. R. Case who plan to prepare for service in the Master's work.

Mr. Case was the proprietor of a large drug store when he heard of the Advent truth. He and his wife were converted and baptized by Elder McLennan, and they immediately saw their way clear to prepare for Christian activities. He sold his drug store, and with his wife came to Washington.

Mrs. Case was at one time a government stenographer, and in literal language makes a typewriter talk, having a speed of 97 words a minute. During the period of time her husband will study at W. M. C., Mrs. Case will have steady employment at the Review and Herald.

S. J. C. Student Is Guest

Richard Hollis, a theological student of Southern Junior College, and Raymond Weaver of Columbus, Ohio, are guests at the College this week. Mr. Hollis is visiting his mother at the Sanitarium as well as friends at the College.

A pneumatic door stopper, a device to prevent the door from slamming, has been placed at the entrance of North Hall.

Two Famous Fiftians, Albert Dalton and Raphael Senseman, had tonsillectomies last Friday at the Sanitarium.

Miss Margaret Thomas spent the week end at her home in Rock Hall, Md.

Lab Adds Equipment

The Physics Department, under the direction of Prof. G. E. Jones, has recently added to its laboratory $300 worth of new apparatus.

The many friends of Miss Anna Kemmerer were glad to have her visit the campus last week.

Miss Eleanor Hansen, a member of the Professional Class of '29, visited the College Sunday. She was accompanied by Miss Verle St. John of Newark, N. J.

Amick Higgins left Monday morning for Connesville, Pa., to accept a position in a baking establishment.

New Tables in Central Hall

Several new tables have been added to the dining room at Central Hall to accommodate the increasing number of students and visitors.

Miss Annabelle Wilson entertained her mother, Mrs. Q. M. MacMillan, her sisters, Lillian and Ethel Wilson, and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Corson of Philadelphia, over the week end.

Mrs. Peter Nielson of Danville, Pa., recently visited her daughter, Miss Esther Nielson.

A site for a new evangelistic effort was the goal of a recent trip to Woodlawn, Va., by Curtis Quackenbush, Russel Krick and Wilson Beall.

Steam Cooker Installed

A $500 steam cooker has been installed in the kitchen. It is a low pressure cooker, and is heated by gas.

Guests of Miss Margaret Thomas in the past few days were her brother John Thomas and Ernest Bostleman, students of Shenandoah Valley Academy.

Mrs. L. C. Gibson from New London, Ohio, arrived here Thursday evening for a week end visit with her daughter Mildred Gibson. She also visited Pearl Schoonard of 500 Flower avenue.

Theologians Secure Hall

Progress is being made in the theological organization of the student efforts. Dr. B. G. Wilkinson and L. O. Coon have secured the use of the Odd Fellows hall at Alexandria, Va. Mr. Coon will begin his effort the latter part of November.

Model dinners were put on display in the dining room at Central Hall last week. These meals were balanced according to the amount of work in which a student participates.

To create an interest in the work being done by the Arcadia church, 12 of the students of the Theological Department are distributing tracts in the homes near the Arcadia each week.

These tracts prepare the way for Bible studies, and help to keep the people interested in the weekly meetings of the Arcadia.

"GUARD YOUR HEALTH," SAYS DOCTOR TRUMAN

"Sickness insurance costs the people of the United States more than they pay for education," according to a statement made by Dr. A. W. Truman, medical superintendent of the Sanitarium, in the Sabbath service, Nov. 2.

Dr. Truman stressed the importance of healthful living, and stated that anything that influences one's health and happiness is no small thing.

BENEFIT SALE PLANNED

The home of Mrs. D. E. Davenport was transformed into a busy workhouse by the workers of the Sligo church school, Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 30. The purpose of the meeting was to make articles of apparel to be sold for the benefit of the children in the church school.

The Mothers' Club plans to make articles which will find immediate sale and to make acceptable Christmas gifts.

VESTAL CLUB MEETS

The Vestal Club held in the Home Economics Department Saturday evening, Nov. 2, proved to be a pleasant time of pulling taffy.
