STUDENTS' ASS'N HOLDS PICNIC NEAR POTOMAC

BAND PLAYS ON VOYAGE

Historical Sights Are Pointed Out as Ship Steams Down the Broad River

Skies that promised rain failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the 200 W. M. C. students who departed from the campus in four large busses at 9 o'clock last Monday morning on the first leg of their school outing held at Marshall Hall, Md.

At the dock in Washington, the Charles MacAllister awaited the crowd to take them on the 17-mile run down the Potomac River to Mt. Vernon. Promptly at 10 o'clock the boat left port, and the voyagers amused themselves gazing at the points of interest along the way and watching the foam made by the boat's paddlewheels.

Band Plays

Prof. Johnson's Mushroom Band (formed overnight) played a few numbers on shipboard.

As the boat pulled into Mt. Vernon, the band played "The Star Spangled Banner," and then as it docked at Marshall Hall on the opposite side at 11:30 o'clock, the air rang with "Maryland, My Maryland."

For one half hour after landing the picnickers roamed about exploring the grounds. When the cry of "Dinner" was broadcast, stragglers flocked in from all sides to answer the summons.

Two indoor baseball games were inaugurated after dinner. A lively game of dodge ball attracted a large group, while many others spent the afternoon on the shore of the river. For a few (See page 4, column 1)

W. M. C. WINS THREE NEW WRITING AWARDS

Washington Missionary College students have again demonstrated their literary ability by taking three of the nine awards in the sixth annual Watchman Magazine Article Writing Endeavor. Prof. C. E. Weniger presented the awards in chapel yesterday.

All manuscripts were classified under the heads of poems, stories and mission appeals and three similar awards were given in each group. Jean H. Wingate received the second award for her story, "The Prince." Irma I. Foote obtained the third award for her story, "A Modern Miracle." Mary Ninaj received the second award for mission appeals by an article, "The Lure of Service," and Ruth Conard was given honorable mention in the same class for a contribution entitled, "They Call."

Those winning the second award received a copy of "Messages to Young People" and their choice of one of the following: "The Great Controversy," "Daniel and the Revelation," "Patriarchs and Prophets" and "Our Times and Their Meaning." The first two are in full leather and the last two in keratol. The third award is a bound volume of the Watchman Magazine for 1929 and the current year's subscription.

INDIAN GIVES ADDRESS ON AMERICAN NATIVES

Chinquilla Appears in Tribal Costume to Tell Story

Dressed in her native garb, Chinquilla, a pure-blooded American Indian, dramatically portrayed the life of the Indian last Tuesday night in Columbia Hall. Her lecture brought to a close the Lyceum course for this year.

Standing before her teepee pitched on the platform, Chinquilla began her lecture by singing an Indian prayer. She then proceeded to tell the life of an Indian boy from the time before his birth until he had won his first feather as a brave.

Chinquilla, a princess of the Southern Cheyenne nation, humorously conveyed an impression of the vanishing American as nearly correct as possible. She corrected many popular erroneous beliefs and told many facts not commonly known.

Chinquilla made a water tom-tom before the audience and sang a song of an Indian singer, ending on "high C."

N. S. P. A. TENDERS HONORS TO SLIGONIAN

Results of the tenth All-American Critical Service conducted by the National Scholastic Press Association with headquarters at the University of Minnesota have just been sent to The Sligonian.

Four numbers of The Sligonian published by the former staff of the college paper were submitted for criticism to the Association.

There are five different ratings. They are: (1) All-American Honor Rating, (2) First-Class Honor Rating, (3) Second-Class Honor Rating, (4) Third-Class Honor Rating, and (5) Fourth-Class, no honors. Every paper entered in the contest received a rating.

The Sligonian received the Second-Class Honor Rating. The papers submitted were edited by the former staff.

Even Senators Ride on a One-Track Car

By J. L.

It is not generally known that probably the world's shortest subway runs between the United States Capitol Building and the Senate Office Building. A tiny car makes the trip, carrying Senators from their offices to the Capitol Building, where an elevator lifts them to the Senate floor. It runs on a single rail.

But there is more to the system than a car and a rail. Reaching overhead, a steel arm makes contact with a tiny runner rail. This connects the car with its source of power. And though the car is small, and works out of sight, and runs a single-track route, it serves great men because it is hitched to a higher source of power.

After all is said and done, a man doesn't succeed because of the breadth of his activities, or the universality of his fame. He succeeds by doing one thing well, with an overhead connection to give him power.

Don't be afraid to lead a one-track life!

"THE REDEMPTION" IS RENDERED BY CHORUS

PROF. H. MILLER DIRECTS

Seventy members composing the College Chorus sang "The Redemption," Gounod's majestic oratorio, last Sunday night in Columbia Hall under the direction of Prof. H. A. Miller.

The story of "The Redemption" is based on the passion and death of the Saviour, and describes His resurrection and glorious ascension. In the prologue is revealed man's fall from his sinless state, and the promise of the Redeemer.

Present Gifts

At the close of the oratorio Max Shoup presented Prof. Miller with an envelope containing a ten-dollar bill as a gift from the chorus signifying their appreciation for his earnest efforts to make the organization a success. Mrs. Ethel-Knight Casey, the accompanist, was given a bouquet of carnations for her faithful efforts in "exerting tons of pressure on the keyboard."

The College Orchestra assisted the chorus by playing several preludes. A painting depicting the angels at the empty tomb, drawn by Russel Quackenbush, was hung on the wall above the College Chorus.

FAMOUS FIFTY INSTALLS NEW FIRE-FIGHTING EQUIPMENT

For the first time in its history, Washington Missionary College will have a complete fire protection system including fire escapes, bells, alarm boxes and hose lines in each hall of every building. The Famous Fifty, the men's club of North Hall, is the chief contributor for the apparatus which has just been installed.

The alarm system is composed of four fire alarm boxes and five high-powered bells which ring simultaneously when set off by pulling a small lever at any one of the boxes.

The signals will be tested every Friday evening one hour before sundown, when they will be rung six times in succession. Ringing the bells at this time will check the condition of the system and also give the signal for the soon-coming Sabbath. Each building will have a certain ring to locate a blaze.

RALPH CHRISTMAN AND GLEE CLUB ENTERTAIN

Crowd of 500 Hears New York Pianist in Ass'n Recital

Five hundred students and community citizens were present to hear Ralph D. Christman, piano virtuoso of New York City, and the Glee Club on Saturday night at 8 o'clock in Columbia Hall in the first program of a music festival presented by The Students' Association of W. M. C.

Each number played by Mr. Christman, whose first teacher was Prof. H. A. Miller, was loudly applauded. He played such selections as "Staccato Etude," "Silver Spring," and "Rush Hour in Hong Kong." To conclude the program the former teacher, Prof. Miller, and his one-time student, Mr. Christman, played the "Concerto, Opus 15," by Beethoven, side by side on two pianos.

Glee Club Sings

The Students' Association Glee Club with Prof. Victor Johnson directing, assisted by singing "Annie Laurie," "Nature's Praise of God" and "The Blind Ploughman." A vocal combat between the tenors and basses was a special feature of their presentation.

The Glee Club reproduced a short act which was given at their recent booster trip to Mt. Vernon, Ohio, where they sang, "Come Down to Washington." The words were written (See page 2, column 2)

MUSIC TEACHER TELLS OF UNIVERSAL LANGUAGE

In keeping with the coming music week, Prof. H. A. Miller, instructor in pianoforte at W. M. C., spoke on "Music, the Universal Language" in the Sligo church service on Sabbath, April 26. He was assisted by the community choir with Prof. Victor Johnson leading, Mrs. La Vergne Fairchild, vocal soloist, and a quartet of college men.

"Music is not in an instrument, neither is it in a musician, but it is in a combination of the two," declared Prof. Miller. He likened music to a person—rhythm as the body, harmony as the clothing, and melody as the thought.

"If music can charm a snake, let us set at bay the deadly serpent, Satan," was Prof. Miller's closing statement.

SENIOR NURSES TO FINISH THREE YEAR COURSE SUNDAY EVENING

CHOOSE MOTTO AND AIM

Elder Meyers and Elder Froom Will Address Graduates in Coming Week

By Ferdinand Welebir

Twenty-three senior nurses of the Washington Sanitarium and Hospital will receive their diplomas for completing the three year nurses' course next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock in Columbia Hall.

The activities of the Sanitarium graduation week will begin with the class night program tonight in Columbia Hall when the life of the famous founder of the nursing profession, Florence Nightingale, will be given in five scenes. Four members of the class will play on two pianos as a special number of the entertainment.

Elders to Speak

On Friday evening at 8 o'clock, Elder C. K. Meyers, secretary of the Foreign Missions Department of the General Conference, will address the graduating class at the consecration program. Elder L. E. Froom, associate secretary of the Ministerial Association of Seventh-day Adventists, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon on Sabbath morning of May 3. Dr. A. W. Truman, director of the Sanitarium, is scheduled to deliver the commencement address on Sunday evening, May 6.

Choose Motto

The motto chosen by the class is, "I dressed his wounds . . . God healed him," their aim, "To follow in His steps," flower, lilac, and colors, blue and white. The class officers are: Lois Kelly, president, Wilma Wilkes, vice-president, Dorothy Bramble, secretary, and Bertha Nordstrom, treasurer.

HOME NURSING GIRLS ARE GIVEN DIPLOMAS

Thirteen graduates of the Home Nursing class under Miss Florence Oliver, W. M. C. school nurse, received diplomas from Miss Kathryn L. Jensen, secretary of the Nursing Division of the General Conference, after a program in chapel Friday in which they demonstrated the value of first aid training.

In three scenes the class showed the helplessness of a trouble-ridden wife who had not studied the principles of nursing. After each calamity that befell her, a kindly neighbor who was enrolled in a typical rural home nursing class gave timely aid.

After her children had been afflicted with sore eyes, bruised limbs and stomach pains, and she had seen a neighbor's child brought back to consciousness after being struck by an auto, the helpless housewife decided to enroll in a nursing class at her first opportunity.

Miss Juanita Graham recited a poem on killing by cookery.

A LESSON

The nation shuddered. Three hundred and eighteen men had been baked to death in the Ohio Penitentiary at Columbus. In this great catastrophe there is a grave lesson for us all.

One man had gone to the jail less than an hour before he was cremated alive. His crime was robbery. Had he reformed, he would have been alive and free today. But he waited until the law started him back on the long, hard climb to freedom which death cut short.

God has no penitentiary in which to reform criminals, but a terrible end awaits those who cannot reform themselves.

OUR NEIGHBOR

W.M.C. is very fortunate in having a great institution directly across the campus which daily alleviates suffering and cures the diseased. It is recognized as one of the outstanding landmarks of Takoma Park.

Not only does Washington Sanitarium and Hospital afford work for self-supporting W.M.C. students and provide efficient medical aid for our afflicted, but it also furnishes timber for Bachelor of Science courses.

Next Sunday night the Sanitarium will graduate another class of Christian nurses. We invite them to continue their training at this College.

THANKS!

Its career for this year is over. But by no means will the influence of the self-sacrificing work of The Students' Association Glee Club cease.

We are greatly indebted to these nineteen men. Above, all, we appreciate the service which Prof. Victor Johnson, director, and Prof. H. A. Miller, accompanist, have given for W.M.C.

It is one thing to praise our College in word. But it is another thing to demonstrate its products. We believe that this year's booster trips have been a success. How can an academy graduate, realizing the spirit in which the men of the Glee Club made their tours, sincerely choose any other school but the school which these men esteem so highly?

We thank them for the time which might otherwise have been spent by them in remunerative labor.

FLAG OF FREEDOM
By P. F. Applegate
Flag of freedom and devotion
Floating gently on the breezes,
Riding kingly on the storm winds,
Grant that we may look on slavery
As a menace to our country,
To ourselves, and to our children.
Help us see that all creation
Tries to tell us stiff-necked people—

Slavery to a thought or habit,
Slavery to a style or custom—
Is oppression, just as truly
As the slavery of a nation.
When we fear a new suggestion,
When we cringe before derision,
When we yield to harmful habits,
Help us see that in these actions
We bow down to worship slavery.

Flag of freedom and devotion,
Give our eyes a broader vision,
Give our hearts a greater freedom.
Teach us that a man or woman,
To receive the adoration
Of the people of his home town,
Of the leaders of the nation,
Of the workers, and the laymen,
Of the boys and girls who know him,

Cannot be a selfish person
Who thinks only of his riches;
Who heeds not the cries about him.
For a helping hand to lift one
From despair, and degradation.
Teach us that our greatest freedom
Is a gift, direct from heaven,
Bringing to our minds a vision
Broader than the sky above us.

ROUNDEL
By Mary Ninaj

The earth is wed to spring; the way
To secret nooks and glades I tread
To see her, and feel and spy,
"The earth is wed."

My garden knows—she gave a red,
Red rose to spring, and asked the gay
And laughing wind to wake the dead.

The grasses stirred; a seed that lay
Beneath, began to lift its head
To see her, and to feel and say,
"The earth is wed."

THE TOURIST

Fifteen miles above the city of Washington, D. C., the historic Potomac River, a mile in width, rushes over great rocks in a cataract 35 feet in height. Tons of water drop in a continual roar and are whipped into swirling and foaming currents.

The place is called the Great Falls of the Potomac. In the cooling spray of its mighty waters, W. M. C. students spend many of their picnic days.

The site may be approached from either the Virginia or the Maryland side of the River. On the Maryland side a toll of 5 cents is levied for every individual who crosses the swaying bridge spanning a branch of the Potomac.

On the Virginia banks the ruins of a foundry, once owned by George Washington, first President of the United States, may be viewed. To visit the Great Falls take a car to Rosslyn and change to the Washington Old Dominion Railway.

ALUMNI

The following is a portion of a letter received from Jessie Bragan, '28: Calcutta, India.

When in one of the recent Reviews I studied the faces of those in this year's list of delegates to the Autumn Council, I had a rather queer sensation inside. A year ago I was among those present, and was planning for my work in India.

Yes, I do like India more and more. I do not wonder that people are drawn back to this land, regardless of how strong the home ties may be. The fakirs, beggars, lepers, Hindus, Parsees, Moslems, Anglo-Indians,—such a conglomerate mass of humanity all offering something of interest—or pathos.

There is a need of Jesus out here, and not only amongst the so called heathen. The European folk seem to have lost all faith in such a person as Christ, belief in God, in Jesus, in anything that would be a benefit to them.

One thing above all others makes me very sad. Of course the problem is found in every land of the Orient; and that is the worshipping of idols. What can they think of this so called Christian class of Europeans since of course, each white person is a Christian, regardless of belief. No wonder the problem of winning souls is made difficult, when the Indian is faced with so many Christian churches, all with various beliefs and creeds. But Christ is "mighty to save."

We have such nice people in Calcutta, especially among the church members. I feel I am very fortunate to be here. There are three American families and one single girl, Miss Meister. She and I have become fast friends since we have no families to care for. Greetings to the class of '28.

Sincerely

Jessie Bragan.

Sadie Oickle writes:

Since January I have been doing group nursing in the White Memorial Hospital. The hospital is a very busy place. There is scarcely an empty bed for 24 hours. Perhaps you have heard of the new Coffey-Humber cancer serum. Many of our patients are being treated with the serum. One came from Oklahoma to take it. Being in the experimental stage, it is very interesting to watch the results of the treatment.

I enjoy the weekly visits of The Sligonian. Although I was at the College only one year, there is a warm spot in my heart for it.

Yours in haste,

Sadie Oickle.

GLEE CLUB MEN VISIT SCENE OF PRISON FIRE

Gaining admittance under unusual circumstances, four members of the men's Glee Club visited the Ohio Penitentiary at Columbus the morning after the fire which took the lives of more than 300 convicts.

The men, Prof. Victor Johnson, Clifford Tempest, Marion Bourdeau and Russell Quackenbush, penetrated circle after circle of soldiers, who were on guard duty about the prison walls.

Hundreds of people lined the streets near the building which caught the convicts in a death trap. United States Marines aided in keeping the crowds under control.

The men arrived at the prison executive offices just in time to hear a two-hour grilling of the warden by the state's attorneys under the direction of the governor of Ohio. Only state officials and press men were present. Photos taken during the course of the investigation appeared in leading Chicago, New York, Pittsburgh and Columbus papers.

Obtaining a special pass from prison officials, the men next made a tour of the overcrowded prison, including the building in which the 318 convicts perished. They also viewed the bodies of the dead convicts as they were being embalmed in the giant flower-exhibition room at the State Fair Grounds, which was used as a morgue.

STUDENTS ATTEND PICNIC

(Concluded from page 1) minutes the group was privileged to view the partial eclipse of the sun.

At four o'clock the crowd assembled at the pier; at 6:15 the students piled into the waiting busses and at 7 they were back on the campus.

CAMPUS NEWS

The College Mill has purchased a W. S. Hawker doweling machine from the Hawker Manufacturing Co., in Dayton, Ohio. Two new machines have been installed in the North Hall basement division. They are a Preck-Stowe Drill and a Preck-Stowe Cutter. The machines will be used for manufacturing stepladders.

A new bulletin announcing the college courses for graduate nurses in W. M. C. for 1930-1931 was published this week. The eleven-page calendar outlines subjects which will be taught in the one year Teacher-Training course and the five year Bachelor of Science in Nursing course. A copy can be obtained from the Registrar.

The Junior-Senior picnic will be held this afternoon. It is rumored that the location is at Great Falls on the Potomac River.

Prepare Concert

On Saturday night, May 3, the children under the tutorship of Mrs. Ethel-Knight Casey will give a recital in Columbia Hall. Numbers by an unusual rhythm orchestra in which cymbals, triangles and bells are used will be a special feature of the program.

Marion Bourdeau and his mother, Mrs. Alice Bourdeau, visited relatives in Baltimore last Sabbath.

The Registrar announces that the final examinations will begin May 6, and will end May 9.

Maynard Bourdeau, a student of W. M. C., arrived in San Diego, Cal., with Mrs. D. E. Davenport after a seven-day transcontinental auto trip. Mr. Bourdeau will attend the session of the General Conference, and will return in the summer.

Elder Speaks

"If you want to miss the kingdom of heaven, all you have to do is to remain content with your situation in life," declared Elder H. L. Shoup at the Mt. Pleasant church last Sabbath. He showed that conversion is a complete change of mind, heart, will, affections, inclinations and desires. In closing he said that God has given us the power of choice, and a life of victory over appetite and lust is possible to all.

The erection of the new College Press Building which the College Board planned to begin during April will be postponed. The plans for the new construction did not meet the requirements of the Maryland building laws. The revision will require an additional sum of money.

Study Bookbinding

Library Science students are learning to rebind old books. They are studying the Toronto Method as advocated by the Gaylord brothers. Books requiring new stitching are being set aside by the library to be sent away for rebinding during the summer.

"The Beloved Physician," by R. MacNair Wilson, is a new book just accessioned by the College library. It is a biography of Sir James Mackenzie, who with untiring labor ministered to the sick.

Ten W. M. C. students assisted the Silver Spring and Takoma Park Volunteer fire squads in fighting a forest fire adjoining the home of Prof. A. W. Spalding.

Speak in Chapel

The entire chapel period yesterday morning was devoted to the delivery of the major speeches of Pastoral Training I students under the direction of Dr. B. G. Wilkinson. The speeches were each twelve minutes in length.

The Famous Fifty has planned an outing for tonight. It will be held along the banks of the Sligo. The men will elect officers of the club for the next semester.

Jesse Everett, of Burlington, N. J., has arrived at W. M. C. He expects to work here during the summer and enter school in the fall.

TWENTY STUDY WATER TREATMENTS IN CLASS

The men's hydrotherapy class under the direction of Olin Bray has about 20 students, who are receiving practical instruction to aid them in the ministerial and medical course. The class meets every Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock for demonstrations given by the instructor. Two-hour laboratory periods are conducted on Sunday afternoon and on Wednesday evening with the theory class following the Wednesday laboratory class.

The Washington Sanitarium and Hospital has been exceedingly kind in loaning to this class the treatment rooms in the Annex and the equipment which is in them, such as sheets, blankets, towels, pails and tubs.

Fomentations, compresses, ice or blanket packs, cold mitten frictions, and salt glows are some of the beneficial and interesting treatments which are taught and worked out in the laboratory period.

The textbook used was written by Dr. G. K. Abbott, a former doctor of the Washington Sanitarium.

Those taking this class are, Messrs. Clarke, Coon, Davis, Evans, Krick, Laubach, Lupo, Mook, Montgomery, McLennan, Osborne, Peden, Robbins, Rudolph, Risten, Stone, Shaw, Stanley, Shanko, Walleker and Zeigler.
