A Resumé

A little more than ninety years ago a small group of men, in the New England States, filled with a belief in a message they believed due to the world, began to proclaim the same by voice and pen. Their facilities were very meager, and it was not until 1852, eight years later, that they were able to purchase a small hand printing press and equipment of their own. Development gradually manifested itself, but for many years their efforts were confined to this country.

In 1863 the General Conference was organized, with six local conferences, comprising 125 churches, with about 3,500 members, and thirty general laborers,—all laboring in one language, and in this country. Success attended their efforts, and gradually the work was enlarged. Eleven years later, in 1874, the first foreign missionary was sent out from this country. Other countries were entered, a membership raised up, and institutions established. Twenty years later, in 1894, missionaries were first sent out to a heathen country, Matabeleland, now Southern Rhodesia, in Africa. The work has constantly spread to other lands, until today this cause is proclaimed in 325 countries and islands.

Extent of Work

Beginning with a membership of 3,500 in 1863, constant growth has been realized, until today there are practically 500,000 connected with the movement throughout the world. At first, work was begun in only one language, and in this country, but gradually as the workers have entered other language areas, additional languages have been employed, until today there are 539 languages and dialects employed, with new languages added at the rate of one every ten days during the past eight years.

Membership Gains

The membership of the 7,818 churches now stands at 404,509, with Sabbath school members registering 491,067. This is a gain of 119,216 in church members during the past six years, the greatest gain ever made in any similar period of our history.

Educational Work

Beginning in 1874 the denomination established a school, where its young men and women could be trained and developed as workers, to go out as missionaries to other lands as calls have come. The number of these schools has greatly increased, and there has been a system of schools established, requiring sixteen years to complete, covering the entire requirement for educational work, not only along literary lines, but in medical as well as in nursing. There are today 2,130 primary schools, with 214 advanced schools, a total of 2,344 schools of all kinds, employing 5,355 teachers, and having an enrolment of 97,742, or one student for every 4.14 church members. During 1934 there was graduated from all the schools throughout the world, 2,392 students, and 1,113 students entered some line of denominational work. So there is every prospect for additional growth in laborers in various departments of this cause.

Lay Workers

Some may have occasion to wonder at the rapid gains made by this cause in various lands. Just an illustration or two that will partly explain the reason.

Three years ago our work entered the island of Mussau, of the St. Matthias Group. These islanders were then absolutely raw heathen, untouched by former mission work.

They were carried the gospel, and a transformation resulted; and today some of these islanders have been taken on as workers, and transferred to other islands of the Pacific, to labor for the natives of those islands. Now consider that these were raw heathen three years ago, and yet transformed in this short space of time as workers for others, carried across seas, there to engage as workers for other people!

Another illustration, again from heathen lands: In Ruanda and Urundi, in Central Africa, about 3,000 native believers, with such training as they receive in church groups, have gone out into companies of ten or twelve, as lay workers, with daily meetings at central points, to arouse large populous sections of those countries.

So when the returns show 23,753 laborers connected with this movement, no account is taken of the many thousands of lay workers engaged in lay efforts in the spread of this cause in many lands and in many languages.

Churches and Institutions

The value of the 3,456 church buildings owned by the denomination is $10,634,282.41, and the seating capacity is given as 540,518. There are now 443 denominational institutions carrying on work, including 69 publishing houses, 69 sanitariums and hospitals, 62 treatment rooms, 214 schools, and 29 food companies, besides many others which are self-supporting, and which, like the lay workers referred to above, are doing excellent service for the denomination.

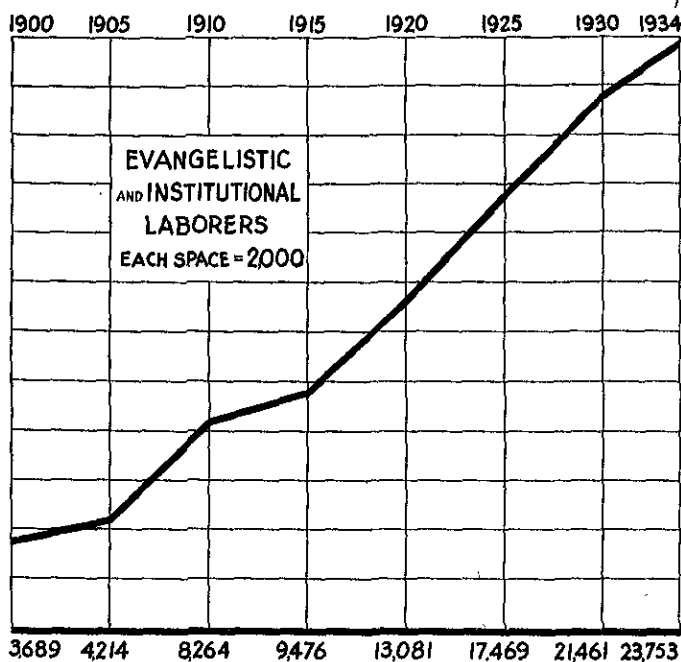

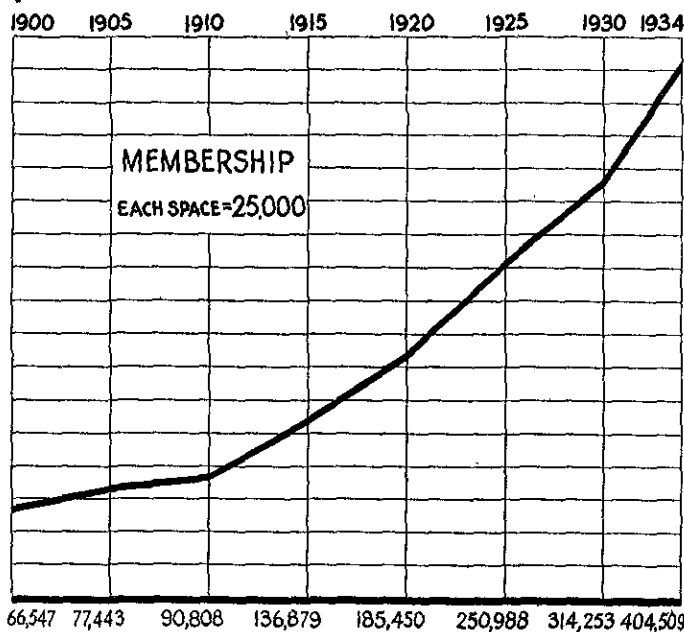

Sanitarium Work

The care and treatment of the sick has been an important part of denominational work for many years. Beginning in 1866 they established a sanitarium where the sick could be cared for, and have added to the number, until today there are throughout the world 69 sanitariums and hospitals, 62 treatment rooms, besides many private institutions doing similar work. The assets of these institutions is $8,459,711.05, with 4,163 nurses and other employees, 903 physicians, treating during the year 1934, 451,549 sick persons, and giving charity to the extent of about $400,000. All classes of cases are cared for. There are a number of places where lepers are housed and treated. In one place—Malamulo Mission, Nyasaland—there are today 242 lepers, each kept in a sanitary brick hut, the interior and roof of which are burned when the patient is discharged or dies. Forty-nine arrested cases have been discharged at that place.

Denominational Literature

On page 3 there is shown, year by year, the value of one copy of each denominational publication, including papers, books, and tracts. Beginning in 1846, an entire set of denominational literature could have been purchased for 93 cents. Nineteen years later, in 1865, the value was $8.33; twenty years later, in 1885, the value was increased to $96.60. In 1900 we were publishing literature of all kinds in 39 languages, having a value of $267.84; in 1930, we had increased to 146 languages, with a value of $1,814.73. At the close of 1934, we were issuing literature in 169 languages, one copy of each publication costing $2,087.50. This literature is in the form of 250 periodicals, 1,773 bound books, 1,009 pamphlets, and 4,150 tracts, a total of 7,182 publications, containing 529,636 pages.

Denominational Assets

This movement began in great poverty. Facilities for carrying on this work were very meager for many years. In 1906, when the first report was compiled showing assets of all organizations connected with the movement, the total assets were then a little under $5,000,000. Today the 6,271 institutions and conferences organizations connected with this cause have total assets (for 1933—the year when the latest returns are available) of $53,979,143.72.

Total Contributions

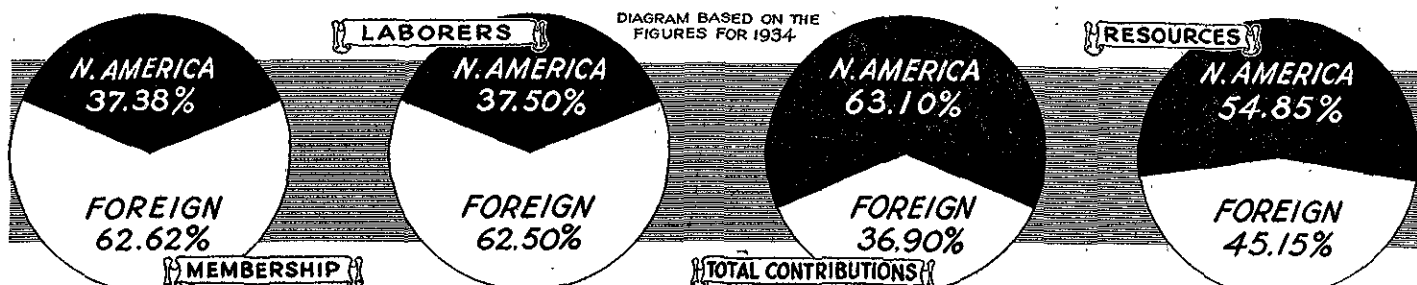

The total tithes and offerings contributed to this cause since its organization in 1863, are $218,372,706.06, of which amount $64,157,293.28 was for foreign missions. The first year when the tithe exceeded $100,000 was in 1884, 21 years after the General Conference had been organized; an excess of $200,000 in tithe was reached in 1889; and the year when an excess of $1,000,000 was reached was in 1907; in 1916 an excess of $2,000,000 was reached. Soon the figures mounted up to four, five, and six million dollars annually.
