

THE MID-AMERICA ADVENTIST

Outlook

Vol. 2 No. 6 Lincoln, Nebraska March 19, 1981

Dear Friends,

The churches of the nine-state territory that make up the Mid-America Union Conference support 142 elementary schools and eight secondary schools with 447 dedicated teachers. This makes up a rather large educational system.

Our Union Educational Program is under the leadership of Randall H. Fox, who serves as Director of Education, and Melvin E. Northrup, Associate Director of Education and Curriculum Director.

Randall was born in Montgomery, Alabama, where he spent his early years. He graduated from Collegedale Academy and took his college work at Southern Missionary College. His college work was interrupted for two years of military service during which time he served in the first group of "white coats" in Washington, D.C.

After graduating from SMC, Randall began his work with the Florida Conference as an elementary teacher. Then he was called to be principal of Mile High Academy in Denver to serve for five years. Florida called him back to be principal of Forest Lake Academy for two years and then to the office of Educational Superintendent for the Florida Conference. Three and a half years ago, Randall joined us here in the Union as Director of Education.

Randall married his high school sweetheart, Gwen Gardner. Many will remember Gwen's mother who served as Registrar of SMC for many years. The Foxes have two daughters, Robin, 19, and Cherrie.

Randall is a qualified pilot and uses his flying skill to carry him around to meet his many appointments.

Randall H. Fox

Melvin E. Northrup

Mel Northrup serves in the very technical area of curriculum supervision. He was born in Fort Lupton, Colorado, graduated from Campion Academy and Walla Walla College with a religion major. He later earned his Master's degree at WWC in Education Administration.

Mel began teaching in Portland, Oregon, in 1958, then went as a missionary to Brazil, where he spent eight years serving as Mission Education Superintendent, Union Education Superintendent, and Mission President. Following mission service Mel and his family continued their work in the Carolina Conference for six years as Education Superintendent. Then, to sharpen his skills, he returned to teaching in California for four years. Two and a half years ago, the Northrups joined us here in Lincoln.

Mel's wife, Norma, an R.N., operates an infant care center in Lincoln. They have two children: Cindy lives in Carson City, Nevada, and their son, Melvin, is serving his country in the United States Army at Fort Benning, Georgia.

Mel is a most avid ham radio operator. He is secretary of the Adventist Amateur Radio Association, a world-wide fraternity of Adventist hams, and participates in the nightly Ham Radio Bible Study Net. He is a member of the Lincoln Amateur Radio Club and a member of the American Red Cross Disaster Relief Team.

Mel is the author of the book, Toby's Gift, one of the Books I Can Read series that was written to provide Sabbath reading at grade level for second graders.

So, you see we have some very talented leadership in our Union Educational Program. I am most happy to be able to introduce these fine gentlemen to the readers of the OUTLOOK.

Cordially,

“You Can Make It Happen”

By William E. Peeke

People today are communicating messages in all kinds of ways. One popular way is bumper stickers on automobiles. No doubt every day you read one or more messages from bumper stickers. Perhaps you have seen the one, “You Can Make It Happen.” Think about this message. It is true of many things in life. Whether something happens or not so often depends on you.

Sabbath School members should be people who make things happen. Every year there are members making something happen on Community Guest Days. They are inviting relatives, friends and neighbors to be their guests at Sabbath School. The purpose of these guest days is to introduce community guests to other Adventist Christians to whom Jesus is so precious, and to acquaint them with the truth of God and the work of the church. Many persons every year accept Christ as a result of the invitation of a friend to attend Sabbath School.

Community Guest Days are scheduled in the first and fourth quarters of each year and are listed in the church calendar. Programs on these days are planned especially for the non-church member. There are thousands of people who would be willing to visit our Sabbath Schools if contacted in a friendly and appropriate manner. These special days also provide a special opportunity to reach church members who do not regularly attend Sabbath School. As stated in The Sabbath School Manual, page 80, “This day is conceived to be a major evangelistic thrust and all activities are planned to influence men, women, boys and girls for Christ and salvation.”

In addition to the regular Community Guest Days this year Sabbath Schools and churches in the Mid-America Union are asked to plan a Homecoming Day on June 27. This day is to be the climax of weeks and months of effort to reclaim former and inactive members. It is to be a day highlighted with baptisms, record attendance and outstanding programs — a day to be long remembered by every member and guest. It could well be the biggest day in the history of your church.

By God’s Holy Spirit and through His grace, YOU CAN MAKE IT HAPPEN!

William E. Peeke is director of the Sabbath School Department for the Mid-America Union.

Page Directs Personal Ministries and Sabbath School Departments

By Wm. C. Hatch

The new director of the Personal Ministries Department (formerly Lay Activities) and the Sabbath School Department, is Jerry N. Page. This action was taken at the first meeting of the executive committee of the new Rocky Mountain Conference.

Jerry and LaFronne Page

For the past three years Pastor and Mrs. Page have been serving the Cortez and Dove Creek Churches in Colorado. Jerry is the son of Art and Alice Page, the former director of the Publishing Department in Colorado. He grew up in the Denver area, attended Mile High Academy, Metropolitan State College, Union College and Andrews University. He earned the Master of Divinity Degree from Andrews.

LaFronne (nee Penley) is a local Colorado girl, having grown up in Montrose. She earned a secretarial degree and has been working as a dental assistant.

The Pages served in two districts of the Illinois Conference before coming to Colorado.

We welcome the Pages to the office family of the great Rocky Mountain Conference and request your support and prayers as this fine young couple ministers to our churches.

Louisville Holds Second Anniversary

By Toby Holderbaum

The Louisville Church will observe its second anniversary on March 21, 1981. This church of 53 members was begun by families transferring from the Boulder and Chapel Haven Churches and other places. In 1980, the Boulder Church bought a five and one half-acre property in Louisville and donated it to the Louisville Church. Preliminary building plans have been prepared and approved and a church fund-raising drive will be started shortly. It is hoped that the Louisville sanctuary will be finished in a year or so.

Currently, the church is meeting in the St. Ambrose Episcopal church located on South Boulder Road, about two miles west of Louisville. Services are Sabbath morning worship at 9:30, with Sabbath School following. Prayer meetings are Tuesday evenings at 7:30. Pastors who have previously served Louisville are: Dale Forrester, Peter Hardy, and Jim Hoen. The present pastor is Carroll V. Brauer. Bill Wilcox was the first elder. Current elders are Gary Wilkinson, first elder; Bill Butler, Dave Duner and Bob Kropp.

All members, former members and friends are invited to the anniversary services. There will be a fellowship dinner. Seventh-day Adventists living in the church's immediate vicinity of

On March 21 the Louisville church will celebrate its second anniversary of organization. Plans are ready for a new church building.

Broomfield, Lafayette and Louisville are invited to join with the members of the Louisville church and help us finish the work in this area of the Lord's vineyard.

Community Guest Day On Channel 11 News

Community Guest Day, sponsored by the Sabbath School Department of the Colorado Springs Church and organized by Dottie Spann and Lloyd Babb (with the added assistance of nearly 50 members) was part of Channel 11's evening and late news program on January 18—just hours after the event took place!

After focusing on Pastor English, who explained the purpose of the church holding a Community Guest Day, the camera then panned the Fellowship Hall, revealing the on-going activities. These included booths depicting various facets of the church's active outreach program.

Also included in the day's activities were guided tours of the Sabbath School Departments, the Community Service Center and other church facilities.

Vegetarian foods, punch and desserts were served to the guests and a drawing was held for three spiritually-oriented books.

Successful Ingathering

By Mrs. James Lunday

"Sit down and tell me about Adventists," the manager of Dan's Super Value said to Ruby Wetzel and June Pfaff of Bismarck, ND. They solicited him for Ingathering. "Why do they keep Saturday? Why are so many people joining the Seventh-day Adventist church? Some of my employees have joined."

If June and Ruby hadn't been Ingathering year after year they probably would never have had this opportunity to share with this seeking Christian. June was able to tell him that we keep Saturday because the Bible says to keep the seventh day of the week. She was able to tell him people are joining this church because of the Bible message it teaches as well as the health message. Super Value raised its contribution from $50 to $150 last year. Jim's Ready Mix raised from $50 to $175 last year and this year they said, "Even though it is a bad year, we won't cut our offering. Next year if it's a good year we'll raise our offering." First Federal Bank gives $300 a year to the church school.

Each of the past six years Ruby and June have solicited about $1,000 a year. A team of about 10 church members did business Ingathering in Bismarck this year besides the house to house Ingathering.

Baby Dedicated At Christmas

By Mrs. James Lunday

After a Christmas cantata in the Bismarck church exulting Christ as the greatest gift the world has known, Carolee Isaak brought her child to the altar to dedicate her as a gift to the Lord. Leonard Devnich performed the dedication service for Sarah Isaak.

The cantata was under the direction of Bismarck choir director, Allan Stuart, with narration by Pastor Len Devnich.

H. L. Thompson Visits Denver Park Hill

By Margaret Hayes

H. L. Thompson's recent visit to Denver brought back "good memories" to the Park Hill congregation. It was not quite a year ago that he and his evangelistic team conducted a campaign for the Denver area.

H. L. Thompson

Thompson, a Mid-America Union evangelist, is very active in evangelism throughout the Union territory.

W. D. Felder, church pastor, introduced Thompson as a "tough evangelist", one who does not hide from the responsibility of public evangelism.

He challenged the entire church to engage in personal evangelism. "This," he said, "would help keep the church alive and spiritual." He emphasized the need for church members to exercise love one to another. He concluded by stating that "the devil tells us we can sleep past the golden opportunity of evangelizing, and past the opportunity of prayer."

The members of Park Hill are very grateful for his service to God and to the Central States Conference.

Margaret Hayes is communication secretary for the Denver Park Hill Church.

Special Baptism At Bethel

The new year holds special significance for S. Haywood Cox, Wm. R. Wright and James White. Just after Sabbath Services at the Bethel Church in Kansas City, Missouri, Sherman Cox II, 12 years old and Brian Wright, 10 years old were baptized into the Adventist Church.

S. Haywood Cox, Sherman II, James White, Brian, J. A. Simons.

James White's daughter Jamel was to have been baptized at the same time but she became very ill with influenza. Jamel was baptized by her father, the Bethel Church pastor, several weeks later.

S. Haywood Cox, conference president, had the privilege of baptizing Sherman, the first of his three sons.

Jamel, James White, Clarence Small assisting.

William R. Wright's son, Brian, was baptized by J. A. Simons, former conference treasurer and Brian's grandfather. This baptism was special in that J. A. Simons has baptized four of his seven grandchildren to date.

It was a day of happiness and joy as these young ones were baptized in God's name.

Literature Evangelists Attend Family, Health And Education Rally

By Daniel Stewart

Literature Evangelists from all over North America met in Orlando, Florida, recently as a part of promotional activities for the Family, Health and Education Services. Central States LE's were able to attend the rally as a result of outstanding sales for 1980, according to Emmanuel Bullock, publishing director.

Even with changes in leadership during 1980, Central States LE's amassed $132,175.00 in sales. Lervie Simon topped all LE's for the conference with $16,292 in sales from the St. Louis area. Others, ranking in order, were Percy Wellington with $15,024 also from St. Louis, and Glenn Conners from Denver with $11,812.55 in sales. Twelve baptisms were reported as a direct result of LE's.

When the literature evangelists returned from Florida, Emmanuel Bullock immediately held an area rally in Colorado Springs, Colorado, to recruit new LE's. This rally was sponsored by Glenn Conners, Denver District leader. Thirty-two individuals attended the sales clinic held Sunday morning.

Bullock has set a goal of $250,000 in sales and 100 baptized in 1981 for his department.

IOWA-MISSOURI

Successful Five-day Plans Conducted

IN DES MOINES

By Leslie Schmalzried

January 5 through 9 was the week for the first Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking to be held in Des Moines this year. Gerrie Adams was responsible for arranging the event, and for conducting the daily sessions. The scene was the Iowa Realty Corporate Office in Des Moines where Gerrie is a realtor. The plan was held from 7:45 a.m. to 9:00 a.m. to allow for the office business.

There were 16 people enrolled. Twelve of these individuals quit smoking that week. Gerrie learned that some of the participants had been smoking for at least eight years, and one had smoked for 50 years. They averaged from 10 to 40 cigarettes a day.

Paul Kramer, Drake University Professor of Pharmacy, Florence Campos, Personal ministries Department leader, and Gerrie, all members of the Des Moines Church, conducted the sessions. They used training films and a feature film from the Temperance Department of the Conference. The program also included some ex-smokers from previous plans giving their personal testimonies.

However, Gerrie attributes the real success of her plan to calling each person every night to give them a personal touch of encouragement and help. Participants commented that this kept them coming and striving for their goal of "I Choose Not To Smoke." There is a lot of enthusiasm around the Iowa Realty Offices for another plan to be held very soon.

Leslie Schmalzried is communication secretary for the Des Moines Church.

IN KNOXVILLE

By Gladys Masat

A very successful Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking was conducted in Knoxville by Pastor Norman Rasmussen and G. M. Arnott, M.D. The church members were anxious to increase the attendance over the previous plans they had conducted.

Dr. Arnott designed a colorful display card and an informative leaflet which was passed out door to door by the church members.

They had the use of a room in the high school, and what a thrill it was to see the room so full they had to open into another room. Printed materials were given to 46 persons, and the majority of those who completed the course had quit smoking by the end of the session.

Members of the Knoxville Church feel that covering the town with the leaflet and posting the new signs helped increase the attendance.

Gladys Masat is communication secretary for the Knoxville Church.

IN LEE'S SUMMIT

By Janet Breer

A Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking was conducted by Wayne Williamson, M.D., and Ray Breer in Lee's Summit, Missouri. Roger La Plante, a member of the Chamber of Commerce, had smoked three packs of cigarettes a day for 27 years. He and his wife attended the plan, and both stopped smoking. They also attended the follow-up Revelation Seminar conducted entirely by laymen with Ray Breer as the speaker.

Janet Breer is the personal ministries leader of the Lee's Summit Church.

Lewis W. Davies Celebrates 105th Birthday

By Carol Roeske and David Smith

Lewis W. Davies, oldest member of Lincoln's College View Church, celebrated his 105th birthday on January 23. His daughter, Mrs. William (Mauveth) Kuehl, hosted a party in his honor at Tabitha Home, where he resides.

Five-year-old Jay Kuehl poses with great-grandfather Lewis W. Davies on the latter's 105th birthday, January 23.

Dr. Jack Bohannon and Elmer Hagen, pastors of Mr. Davies' church, presented him with a special birthday card on behalf of the congregation. Created by artist Victor Issa, it measured two feet by three feet and was signed by hundreds of the College View Church members.

Among others sending greetings to Mr. Davies were Lincoln Mayor Helen Boosalis, Nebraska Governor Charles Thone, Pennsylvania Governor Richard Thornburgh, President Ronald Reagan, Congressman Douglas Bereuter, Senator J. J. Exon, and former pastors of the College View Church.

Mr. Davies was born in Philadelphia in 1876, the year of the United States centennial. It was also the year the telephone was invented. He jokes that it was invented to spread the news of his birth.

When the family moved West, Mr. Davies and his older sister, Tillie (who later married Henry Copeland), became the first white children in Kearny County, Kansas. Here, when he was three years old, a severe hip injury resulting from a fall left him dependent on crutches and, later, on a cane. But this did not keep him from having a full, exciting, and fruitful life. As a young man he went on buffalo hunts in a small cart pulled by a fast horse. In the summers he helped his stepfather catch wild horses in Lakin, Kansas. More than once he had to clear the streets to avoid a shootout.

In his early years Mr. Davies taught school in Kearny County, Kansas. Later he built the Davies Hotel in Lamar, Colorado, and operated it for 18 years.

Eventually he sold it and bought farmland in Walla Walla, Washington. Upon moving to Lincoln in the early 1920's, he traded the farmland for College View business property, where he operated a grocery and had rental property.

Dr. Jack Bohannon (rear left) and Elder Elmer Hagen, College View Church pastors, presented a special birthday card from the congregation to Lewis W. Davies on his 105th birthday.

In 1906 Lewis Davies married Lilly Heiner, and they had two daughters, Mrs. William (Mauveth) Kuehl of Lincoln, Nebraska, and Mrs. Donald (Sylvesta) Madison of Boulder, Colorado. Mrs. Davies died in 1963.

Mr. Davies was not a churchgoer in his early years. Once, when asked what church he belonged to, he replied, "The biggest church in the world — no church at all!" About 1910, however, he, his wife, sister, and mother became Seventh-day Adventists. His favorite activity then became reading the Scriptures and helping others to understand them. In the flyleaf of his Bible is a mark for each time he has read it — 63 marks for the Old Testament and 110 for the New Testament. He and his sister have been instrumental in leading 60 people to the Lord. Asked if he would like to send a message to his fellow church members, Mr. Davies replied, "Jesus is coming again — and Gabriel."

Carol Roeske and David Smith are communication secretaries of the College View Church.

Special Sabbath

By Betty Woolford

A recent Sabbath was a special day for the New Haven Church in Overland Park, Kansas.

The guest speaker was Dr. William Loveless, the President of Columbia Union College in Takoma Park, Maryland.

Also featured was singer Sunny Liu, a well-known Adventist soloist, who is now the pastor of the Beaverton, Oregon, church. He presented a concert for Sabbath afternoon vespers.

Elder Loveless and Sunny Liu started their ministry together as interns in the Pacific Northwest. For eight bachelor years they canvassed and held evangelistic meetings together in dark counties. Sunny Liu's presence for the weekend at New Haven Church was not revealed to Elder Loveless beforehand, as a special surprise to him. It was the first time in many years (too many) that they had been together as a speaking-singing team and they enjoyed the weekend immensely as did the church members. They were guests of the first joint pastors' meeting for the newly merged Kansas-Nebraska Conference held in Overland Park.

Betty Woolford is communication secretary of the New Haven Church.

Arkansas Boy Joins College View Staff

Raymond F. Daniel has recently moved to Lincoln to assume his new duties as associate pastor of the College View Church. His particular areas of responsibility will be administration and finance.

Ray, a graduate of Union College, received his Bachelor of Divinity degree from the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary, Berreïn Springs, Michigan.

He entered the Gospel Ministry in the Arkansas-Louisiana Conference and served that conference as a pastor and musical evangelist. His most recent assignment has been youth and communication director of the Minnesota Conference. Having served two academy churches, Ozark Academy and Maplewood Academy, Ray is well acquainted with the unique problems connected with an institutional church.

Hinckley District Welcomes William Cook

By A. C. Carlson

William A. Cook was deep in his studies when we interviewed him at Andrews. Since he was just a little older than the other students, we asked him about his former life. He told us that he had been in the insurance business for six years, and ten years in the electrical and electronic field—three of which were spent as a ground radio technician in the United States Marine Corps.

Then we asked him, "Why have you chosen the ministry? Why make such a change in your life?" And this is what he began to tell us. "As a boy, I wanted to be a priest." In fact, he had his altar in his basement and "played" priest, he told us. Later on in high school he asked to be trained as a priest, but as this never materialized, his desire waned.

Following his marriage to a Seventh-day Adventist, little by little he began to become acquainted with our beliefs. Later he was baptized, as he said, "because your beliefs could be proved right from the Bible."

From the time of his baptism, the desire for the ministry became more pronounced. He prayed. One day his pastor saw him come from the church after he had been in prayer and said, "Bill, how is everything going? Have you ever thought of being a minister." He told him "Yes, but I don't know if God wants me to be or not." This uncertainty was fully answered when the pastor took Bill to Andrews University. In half a day he was registered, accepted, found a place to live, and so all he really had to do was get to school.

Bill and Nancy Cook with Steve, Mark and Thomas.

Pastor Cook began his ministry in the Hinckley district in January. His wife, Nancy, grew up in Michigan. They have three boys: Steve (10), Mark (5), and Thomas (1). Pastor Cook began his ministry by going door to door introducing himself as the pastor of the church. He tells me that he is getting a good reception. His aim is to find anyone who wants the gospel to have a chance to accept it.

A. C. Carlson is director of the Ministerial Association of the Minnesota Conference.

LaMountains Return To Upper Midwest

By Beverly Dickinson

Minnesota welcomes Norman and Hazel LaMountain and their three children. Norman is the pastor of the St. Cloud/Maple Plain district.

Norman LaMountain grew up in a mining town in the Adirondack Mountains of upper New York State. A life-long Seventh-day Adventist, he received his education in the Atlantic and Canadian Unions. Norman and his wife, Hazel, were married in 1952 and have two sons and one daughter.

The Norman LaMountain Family.

After serving several churches in New York State, they accepted an invitation to work in Oshawa, Ontario, Canada, where Norman assisted as a member for visitation on several evangelistic teams. In 1977 he accepted an invitation to pastor churches in South Dakota, and in 1978 he went to Texas as pastor of the Beaumont and Warren churches. We are happy they have chosen the upper midwest again as their place to serve the Lord.

Beverly Dickinson is secretary in the Communication Department of the Minnesota Conference.

New Brighton Hospital Plans for Equipment

With construction on the $4.3 million Brighton Community Hospital well underway, the hospital administration and Brighton Community Hospital Association must look toward equipping the new facility. In reply to the Colorado Health Facilities Review Council, the BCH Board of Directors has planned a $400,000 equipment fund drive. The community's participation in the fund drive would make it possible to purchase the needed equipment and show their support of the new hospital.

Appointed by the hospital's Board of Directors to be general chairperson of the equipment fund drive, Jeanne O'Dell is now ready to launch the campaign full scale. Hospital leaders believe that her excellent reputation and widespread involvement in civic and community affairs, in addition to high-level dedication to the needs of the hospital will ensure the campaign's success.

Campaign activities will include the entire Brighton Community Hospital service area, which involves Keenesburg, Ft. Lupton, Hudson, Roggen, Platteville, Henderson, Lochbuie and the Tri-Town Area, besides Brighton.

Space for the fund drive headquarters, at 651 Bridge Street, Brighton, is being supplied by Platte Valley Industrial Bank. Individuals seeking more information about the BCH fund drive may call Jeanne O'Dell at 659-1472.

Health Education Classes Expanded

During the past several years Boulder Memorial Hospital has conducted a variety of health education classes, among which are the Weight Management and Stress Control programs. These programs were held two to three times a year and consisted of approximately eight sessions each. Then in early 1979 the health education department considered the scheduling and content pattern of Denver's Porter Memorial Hospital Health Education Department. Consequently, in July, 1979, a new weight management course was born which was expanded from eight to sixteen sessions, and which permitted 12 entry points per year instead of the three shorter classes which served as entry points before. Although the increased number of sessions necessitated an increase in class fees, the new system has enabled interested persons to enter the class immediately instead of waiting several months for the next regularly scheduled class.

Because the program was so well received by weight management participants, in August of 1980 a similar arrangement was begun with stress management classes and has permitted a larger number of people to benefit from the course. Yearly attendance at both courses is from three to four times the attendance registered in the year preceding the introduction of the new system.

We at Boulder Memorial anticipate that this new method of scheduling classes on an ongoing basis will continue to reach out to more and more members of Boulder County as they seek to improve their physical and psychological lifestyles.

UNION COLLEGE

Theology Majors Do More Than Study

By Doug Stuva

Union College's senior theology majors are receiving much more than theories their final year, according to Sieg Roeske, professor of religion at Union.

The 13 seniors involved in public evangelism class, says Elder Roeske, did most of the planning and made most of the arrangements for a Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking, February 15-19 at the Capitol View Church in Lincoln.

As many as 32 people were in attendance, and at least 90 percent of them had quit by the fifth night.

In addition the seniors are planning an evangelistic crusade March 6-April 5, also at the Capitol View Church. Interests received from an area-wide survey taken in November will be invited, as well as people now receiving personal Bible studies from the class members.

March 18, 25, and April 5 are set for a cooking school also scheduled by the seniors. Twenty community people registered during the Five-Day Plan, and over 40 people expressed an interest in a cooking school during the November survey.

The class also has a weekly prison ministry, health screening clinics, and an eight-week series of Bible studies for the community on the life of Christ.

During the 1979-80 school term the Public Evangelism class was instrumental in 14 baptisms and 10 more the following summer. This year's faith objective is 25 baptisms.

Doug Stuva is a theology major at Union College.

Half-Marathon To Run At Union

Union College's fourth annual Half-Marathon through the city of Lincoln will be run Sunday, April 12, beginning at 8 a.m.

The 13.2-mile route will start at the college and move to the Nebraska State Capitol building via residential streets and bike routes. A "Fun-Run" is also scheduled for anyone wishing to run a three-mile course.

A $5 entry fee will be charged before April 6, and an $8 fee the day of the race. Anyone may enter, and a copy of the painting, "The Runner," will be given to each entrant.

Accommodations can be arranged on campus for those wishing to stay overnight, according to Wayne Fleming, coordinator of the event.

General Conference Regents Evaluate Union College

Representatives of the General Conference Board of Regents have completed an on-site visit to Union College, March 1-4. Chaired by Dr. Robert Williams, dean of graduate studies at Andrews University, the committee of six evaluated all aspects of educational life at the college. They will make their report to education officials at the General Conference for renewal of General Conference accreditation.

Union College received a maximum 10-year accreditation from the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools last year.

HIGHLIGHTS

Master of Public Health Degree Available Through Loma Linda University

The Off-campus Master of Public Health degree (interdepartmental major) is geared to the needs of ministers, physicians, dentists, nurses and other professionals desiring to become qualified to organize health programs and to engage in health evangelism and other public health work in his/her own profession.

Typically, one class yielding three units of credit is taught each quarter. The course content and instructor are identical to classwork given on campus. The number of contact hours in each course is the same as for on-campus courses. Four classes per year are given.

For an M.P.H. with an interdepartmental major, the student is required to complete general core courses plus one department seminar. Forty-eight units of credit are required for the degree, with a GPA of 3.0.

No on-campus residency is required for students taking the M.P.H.

Two types of registration are possible, regular and audit. Regular registration provides academic credit and audit registration does not. The completion of registration involves both academic and financial clearance.

Tuition for students taking classes off campus is similar but slightly lower than the regular tuition rate. The present rate for off-campus work is $100 per unit. Tuition must be paid in full at the time of registration. Required texts and syllabi are made available either directly from the class coordinator at the time of the class, through local or LLU bookstores, or the book publishers.

For further information regarding academic matters, telephone or write the office of Extended Programs, School of Health, Loma Linda University, Loma Linda, CA 92350. (714) 796-7311, ext. 3778.

'Mountain Tops' Available Through Pyramid Films

"Faith For Today's new half-hour documentary about a paraplegic who climbs a mountain will be available through Pyramid Films by mid-March," says Dan Matthews, FFT director.

As part of a contractual agreement with Lee Stanley, film maker, and Morning Star Films, "Mountain Tops" is being released through Pyramid Films of Santa Monica, California.

Rehabilitation and physical therapy personnel at Loma Linda University Medical Center responded enthusiastically to the film during a preview showing a few days ago. Matthew says many hospitals and schools will want to rent "Mountain Tops" or purchase it for repeated showings.

Inquiries should be sent directly to Pyramid Films, Box 1048, Santa Monica, California 90406. Or telephone (213) 828-7577.

College Dean Returns to Classroom

Andrews University President Joseph G. Smoot has announced that Dwain L. Ford, currently dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at the university, will be leaving the deanship in June of this year to return to teaching. Ford, who was made dean of the college in 1971, will once again instruct in the chemistry department.

Many developments have occurred during Ford's administration. The university has developed the College of Technology, and more recently, the School of Business. The Departments of Information Science and Communicative Disorders were also initiated.

The nursing, dietetic, social work, and home economics programs, and the chemistry department have recorded professional recognition since Ford became dean.

Ford says, "Teaching is my first love. I look forward to returning to the classroom, to be more closely associated with students."
