Outlook

Dear Friends,

The "Thousand Days of Reaping", under the umbrella of "FAITH - ACTION - ADVANCE", is such an exciting concept, I just had to write to you again on the subject. In order for the plan to produce the needed results, we, as members of God's remnant, are going to have to look at things differently than we have in the past. Everything must be measured in souls won for the kingdom. There is no doubt that we are living in the greatest hour for the church—and the church has the answer.

One of our past General Conference presidents, Elder Spicer, said, "The greatest work we can do is winning souls. The rest is just wear, tear and trouble." We must be a growing church until Jesus comes. What concerns me is that some people will not be ready because of a change in commitment. Too many people are like a rocking chair—always on the move, but not going anywhere. We can't think crooked and expect to live straight. The greatest menace to the church today is reduced zeal for evangelism.

I think we all recognize that the work will not be finished anywhere until it is finished everywhere. This is the reason why we should look at the task differently than we ever have before. When you subtract the number of people who die from the number that are born, you have a net increase to the world's population of 141 people per minute. This translates to more than 203,000 people every day and some 74 million each year.

The word ought to go out that we in Mid-America are serious about finishing the work. In order for this to happen we must follow the example of the early church as recorded in the book of Acts. The Bible says they "added to the church daily . . ." (Acts 2:47) The reason was that "they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and they spake the word of God with boldness." (Acts 4:31)

An old Chinese proverb states: "The longest journey is begun with the first step." Some people just need to get started. There are those who need to hitch their wagon to a "start". I'm a firm believer in the fact that "stepping up the stairs will get you farther than staring up the stairs."

What a wonderful time in which to live and work! Let me again invite you to join me in working and praying for a thousand souls a day to be a reality and that Mid-America will do its share—and more. Remember, unless Christ is Lord of all, He is not Lord at all!

Cordially,

Ellsworth S. Reile, President

Children's TV Program Slated for '82

By Jane Allen

Faith For Today is planning a children's television program to be released later this year, according to Dan Matthews, director. The program is part of a total children's ministry concept which also includes a kids' health magazine and Bible courses and games.

The aim of Faith For Today's children's ministry is to "Give Kids a Chance to Meet Jesus," which is the theme of their current annual offering campaign.

A children's program is not a new idea for Faith For Today. A few years ago they developed a children's series, but ran into some difficult problems with it, so it was shelved. The proposed program ideas, which Faith For Today is not yet ready to release, are entirely new. Matthews says the kids' program will reflect a philosophy of positive lifestyle.

"When you realize that most people who ever become Christians actually accept Christ before they're 12 years old, then it becomes important that we minister specifically to children," says Matthews.

"Television makes it possible for us to meet them right where they spend a lot of time." And he adds, "Too much of what they see on tv isn't all that beneficial."

As a step to get the children's ministry started, last October sample copies of Bodywise, a health magazine for children, were mailed to all of Faith For Today's donors. Adults were asked to sponsor the magazine for the children they know. During the current annual offering campaign that offer was extended to every Seventh-day Adventist who receives a union paper.

Another part of Faith For Today's new children's ministry is a set of three Bible games called Project: ORION Kit. These were first made available through selected Vacation Bible Schools last summer. To date more than 2,000 children have received ORION kits from Faith For Today.

"We're getting into children's television because we see a need for quality kids' shows, programs that teach something about lifestyle and values as well as entertain," says Matthews. "A lot of parents are concerned about their children's health and well-being. It's our aim to provide kids with a program that will help them grow up healthy in mind and body."

When all the parts of the children's ministry work together, they provide opportunities to children that many of them might not otherwise have, opportunities to meet Jesus. Faith For Today asks you to remember this ministry with a special offering on Sabbath, February 13. You can help give kids a chance to meet Jesus.

Marriage Seminar

The Compleat Marriage Seminar is coming to the Kansas City area! This Adventist seminar, endorsed by the Home and Family Department of the General Conference, is based on the COMPLEAT MARRIAGE book by Nancy Van Pelt and will be conducted Thursday through Sunday, March 4-7 at Midland Adventist School in Shawnee, Kansas. This weekend experience is designed for those who wish to attain the very best from their marriage relationship.

Harry and Nancy Van Pelt, founders and instructors of the COMPLEAT MARRIAGE seminar.

The twelve-hour seminar will make an indepth study of six major areas of married life: love and appreciation; the need for acceptance as we are; practical methods for improving communication and developing intimacy; how to understand the opposite sex; suggestions for smoothly operating husband-wife roles; and specifics in achieving sexual satisfaction.

Couples of all ages are encouraged to attend together; however, one partner should attend even if the other cannot. The class is also helpful for single and divorced persons.

Registration will be Thursday night, March 4, 7:00 p.m., followed by the first class session. A registration fee of $25.00 will be collected. Further information may be obtained by calling (913) 764-6534.

Mortgage Burning

By Marcedene Wood

During a recent Sabbath worship hour in the Hutchinson, Kansas Church, Jerry Beasley, Home and School Association leader, directed a mortgage burning service for Grove SDA School, which is located six miles north of Hutchinson.

The ten Grove School children sang an invitation song titled, "Oh, Come to the Church School, My Children."

Grace Tewksbury, who was one of the more influential members in the purchase of the school, gave a brief report on the details leading to its acquisition and the financial sacrifice made by a few dedicated members.

Jerry Beasley talked briefly on the privilege the Hutchinson Church enjoys in having a church school where its elementary youth can receive a Christian education. Parents of two students, Mrs. Pat Newburn and Mrs. Janice Sexson, testified why they believe church school is important for our children.

Grove SDA Elementary School, Hutchinson, Kansas.

Of all the trustees whose names are listed on the mortgage, only one was still living in the area, Mr. Clifford Ash. He was therefore asked to have the honor of burning the mortgage document.

Clifford Ash burning the mortgage paper.

As the mortgage paper burned, the congregation stood and sang the Doxology.

Grove School was acquired in 1968, but in 1977 one of the members took over the mortgage. This saved the church the interest on the mortgage for four years. We are grateful to all who had a part in making the school debt free.

Youth Volunteers To LaVida Mission

By John Treolo

Young people from two Lincoln-area Adventist churches learned about mission service the practical experience way recently when a group of 25 spent a week at LaVida Mission in New Mexico.

According to Wayne Beltz, project coordinator, some 17 youth from Piedmont Park and College View Churches, in addition to about eight adults, made the estimated 1,000-mile trip from Lincoln to the Indian mission to share their work skills, spiritual enthusiasm and to learn about a different culture.

"Our main purpose for the experience was to help our youth realize others need their help," Beltz explains, who was assisted on the project by College View Academy Chaplain Jim Brauer. "There is a real need at LaVida. We helped finish work Maranatha started not too long ago."

Lincoln Youth going to LaVida Mission.

Work included construction—block laying, drywalling, ditch digging, maintenance—and repairing a 1939 road grader. The young people also conducted a student week-of-prayer for the 60 Indian students, ages 4-15, who attend the mission.

Not only did the youth work while in Colorado, but many of them worked in Lincoln prior to the trip to defray their expenses to LaVida.

"Eight students worked enough to pay for their trip, while another earned half his fare," Beltz says. "Projects ranged from painting to car washing, yard work to tree cutting and any other miscellaneous errands the young people could procure."

Beltz also praises those who allowed the young people to work their way to LaVida.

"The trip meant a great deal to the youth. Besides learning about a different culture, they also discovered what mission work is all about."

Church Dedication

By Marcia Austin

The Valentine Seventh-day Adventist Church held special dedication services, October 24. Although the present building had been used for several years there never had been an official dedication. The Springview Church members along with many guests and visitors joined the Valentine Church in celebrating this special day.

The guest speaker was Joel Tompkins, president of the Kansas-Nebraska Conference. Ray Daniel, associate pastor of the College View Church, assisted with the services. Elder Daniel had helped in the early stages of the building of the Valentine Church during the time his brother-in-law, the late Mark Dickinson, was pastor. Special music for the service was provided by the Balladaires from Platte Valley Academy.

The church was first organized in Valentine in 1909. In the early 1960's, land for a new building was donated by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Willmore. The present site of the church is located in Northeastern Valentine, near beautiful pine-covered hills. Work on the church building progressed slowly. Some of the work was contracted, but much was done by church members and each of the succeeding pastors in the district.

The Valentine Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Several improvements were made recently as members worked together to prepare the church for dedication. New furniture was purchased for the sanctuary and finishing work was completed in the basement. The grounds around the church were also improved by landscaping with trees and bushes.

The dedication service brought to mind that God has blessed the sacrificial spirit which has been present in this church. Despite limited resources, the members never lost their vision for this church's success. With God's blessings this church will continue to serve as a spiritual center for worship and evangelistic activity until our Lord, Jesus Christ returns.

News From Marceline

By Judy Adkins

BAPTISM

Mrs. Nancy Craig was baptized into the Marceline, Missouri, church by Ron Scott, Director of Youth Ministries for the Iowa-Missouri Conference. A baptism is always a joyful occasion, but for Elder Scott, this one was most special because it is the first he has performed since being ordained this past summer. R. W. Gepford, pastor of the church, assisted at the baptism.

Mrs. Craig first came in contact with the Seventh-day Adventist church when her sister, Mrs. Martha Lile, joined the church and began to witness to her and give her books and literature. When Mrs. Craig moved to Marceline, she began attending church services with Mrs. Lile. Several months later, she made her decision to be baptized, followed by a series of studies conducted by Elder Gepford.

Pastor Gepford and the Marceline members welcomed Nancy into church fellowship.

GUEST SPEAKER

H. H. Voss, Director of Trust Services for the Mid-America Union, was guest speaker at the Marceline, Missouri, church. Elder Voss spoke on prophets of old and modern times.

In the afternoon he narrated a slide presentation of New England and European tours to points of interest relating to church and international history, interspersed with nature scenes.

Community Service Report From Newton

The Community Service program of the Newton, Iowa Church began in January 1981. Since that time the members have helped 130 people, distributed 260 pieces of literature and given hundreds of articles of clothing. The biggest need has been groceries; they have spent $1,397. Church members have donated canned goods.

Members worked 766 hours at the Community Service meetings, and many more hours were worked individually. The group has made $235 by selling quilts and baked goods at a garage sale. $392 has been donated.

The Community Services organization has been able to meet all the requests referred by Social Services, and hope to be able to continue to do as well in the future. There have been many expressions of thanks from the people of the community.

Jonnie Lane is director of Community Services for the Newton Church and LaVerna Cornelison is her assistant.

Community Service Federation

By Yvonne Steffens

Elder O'Fill from Seventh-day Adventist World Service, Inc., General Conference Headquarters, was the speaker at the fall meeting of the Northwest Missouri Community Service Federation at Oak Grove, Missouri. He pointed out the need to re-evaluate our concepts and ideas in Community Services. It must start with our church members showing love toward one another and encouraging each other. Success depends on our priorities and how well we are organized. We should be more concerned about the poverty stricken—every soul is precious in the sight of God. Patience in working with people will show great results. One of our priorities in Community Service should be to help people help themselves.

Elder O'Fill showed slides of Cambodia and other parts of the world where S.A.W.S. work is being done. In one of these countries, in a village, the people were living in shambles for homes. They were given an opportunity to build their own homes in exchange for an amount of clothing. The result was they not only had better homes, but clothing, too. This is helping people help themselves.

IOWA-MISSOURI

Reports from the churches represented at the Federation Meeting were given:

Clinton Church tied 18 quilts, and they have a van to hold blood pressure clinics.

The Grandview Church made arm bands with the Community Service seal. They suggest keeping these in the glove compartment of the car to be ready to enter a disaster area when necessary.

The Gladstone Church is making cap and pajama sets for premature babies at Mercy Hospital. They sent about 450 pieces of clothing to the Niles Children's Home.

Kansas City Central Church has put in about 675 hours. They gave four comforters away, supplied clothing for two boys so they could go to school, and have responded to several other calls for help.

Oak Grove Church is sponsoring the Pathfinder Club to get them started. The baptistry in the church was improved with new curtains and a mural on the back wall. An award is presented annually to a worthy person in the community. They are also planning a Five-day Plan to Stop Smoking.

The St. Joseph Church supplied furniture for two families. They receive calls from people who are in need and supply food for them.

The Lees Summit Church is a new church, and they are sending letters to the businesses in their area to let them know of their intentions in the community.

All of the Community Service organizations have participated in making mattress covers and curtains for Camp Heritage.

Christmas Eve Caroling

By Marieda Blehm

"I'm very proud of my flock tonight," said Pastor LeMert as 14 adults and one child concluded two hours of Ingathering caroling on Christmas Eve. After the plan to carol on Christmas Eve had been accepted, it was decided to include a potluck dinner for the carolers and their families.

The Christmas spirit of giving was evident as the people contributed generously, not only of their dollars, but some shared cookies and candy with the carolers. At one home, a girl in a wheelchair was placed before an open door so she could listen to the music. Prayer was offered for another family who lost a loved one that day, and a copy of Steps to Christ was left with them.

A total of $83.86 was received that evening, and the carolers have agreed to make this an annual tradition for the Davenport Church.

Marieda Blehm is the communication secretary for the Davenport Church.

Philosda To Organize In Iowa

The District Director of Philosda Club, Naomi Skelton of Lenexa, Kansas, will meet with interested persons in the Iowa-Missouri Conference on February 20 for an all day session at the Des Moines Church. The club from Kansas City will conduct the Sabbath School, and Elder Don Gilbert will speak in the afternoon. A national officer from Louisiana will also be present. Please bring a covered dish for a potluck lunch.

Plans are to organize a club in Iowa. The organizational meeting and a get-acquainted social are planned for the evening. The evening meal will be eaten out.

St. Charles Church Dedicated

By Mrs. Rex Sears

Forty-four Seventh-day Adventist members in St. Charles, Missouri were organized as a church December 12, 1972. At first they rented the Faith Methodist Church facilities. The first meeting in their own new building, incomplete but functional after many hours of donated labor, was held in December 1977, but was not dedicated at that time. A church school was started in 1979 and is now in its third year with a total of 14 students.

Mrs. Dorothy McGee reading the history.

Thanks to the present leadership of Pastor Murrell S. Tull and a recent evangelistic meeting by the Van Denburghs, the church membership is now approximately 200.

John Griswell of Garland, Texas was the featured speaker at the dedication service which took place in September, 1981. Other former pastors present were Mike Brown, Dave Olson and Brian Schafer. Mrs. George McGee read the history of the church.

ASDAN Met in Iowa

Sixteen Iowa nurses were treated to an excellent presentation on "Making Ethical Decisions" by Dr. Marguerite Pike and Barbara Gerardin, RN, MS, from Andrews University. New insights were given in making ethical decisions using a step-by-step process, and using the Bible as the basic guide in clarifying values. There were also group discussions on many topics ranging from abortion to labor unions.

Election of officers for the Iowa Chapter of the Association of Seventh-day Adventist Nurses was held. Elected were: Della Cothorn, of Osceola, president; Lou Blanchfield of Churdan, president-elect; and Joan Arnott, Knoxville, secretary-treasurer. Nancy Klasing of Nevada and Dr. Jan Denehy of Iowa City were elected to the board of directors.

Christmas Spirit Alive In Dodge Center

By Betty Knudson

"Is this all that's coming? Maybe we should call and cancel out?"

"I'm not calling to cancel, you call."

"Oh, maybe we won't have to cancel. Here comes another car, and sure enough, with these we can go caroling."

The Dodge Center members who gathered for caroling were not disappointed as they visited the local nursing home. The smiles and greetings of the residents warmed their hearts and made them glad they could spread some joy into the lives of others. Dave Christenson accompanied the carolers with his trumpet.

Following the caroling, they all went back to the church where they were joined by others of the church family for an evening of refreshments and festivities. Becky Pierce brought many smiles and lots of laughter with her presentation of "I Ain't Gettin' Notten' for Christmas." Games, music and readings continued through the evening. Pastor Tim Pierce brought the evening to a close with the reading of the Christmas story. All headed home with hearts warmed by the true Christmas spirit, the birth of Christ.

A Unique Sabbath School

By Kanchana Ballowe

What is so unusual about the primary Sabbath School at the Minneapolis First Seventh-day Adventist Church? Besides being international in nature, about 50 percent of the class is from non-Christian homes.

Primary Sabbath School members of the Minneapolis First Church.

The children are from several ethnic and cultural backgrounds, predominantly Korean, Laotian and Hmong. Interspersed among them are those of Philippino, black and white heritage. They love to sing and are eager to learn about Jesus and His teachings. Several have language barriers to overcome, but they are progressing very rapidly.

The Laotian children had fun distributing literature the evening of Halloween. Class members and their mothers gathered at the church before Christmas and made cookies which they distributed to many of the senior shut-in members of the church. Carols, cookies, cards, and warm smiles showed that the children do care.

Hearts Made Glad

By Betty Knudson

"Get the saw, the tree is too tall." "There are the lights. Where does this go?" were comments coming from the Dodge Center Legion Hall as the many folks from the Dodge Center Church began preparations for the Community Service Christmas party.

Vivian Naylor and Camille McNeilus ready to give out the gifts.

At 7 p.m. about 95 children and their parents were found in their places with excitement running high as Pastor Tim Pierce welcomed everyone.

Diane Greene and her friend Conchitta talking about Jesus' birthday.

"What's that red screen doing up there? Wonder what's behind it?" To the kids' (parents' too) delight, they found out very soon as Diane Greene, ventriloquist from the local Seventh-day Baptist Church, and her friends helped everyone understand what Christmas really is—Christ's Birthday Celebration.

The Pathfinder Club under the direction of Donna McNeilus brought more Christmas spirit to the guests with singing and special piano selections of favorite Christmas carols.

Children and their parents at the party.

Then that special moment arrived, when gifts for all the children were given out. What did Pastor Tim say? boys get to go first? What a break! There was much rustling of paper and excited squeals as they opened their gifts which had been provided by organizations and individuals in the county. Everyone bowed for a moment of prayer as Pastor Pierce brought their thoughts back to Jesus our Savior and all that He means to us, and asked that everyone would enjoy a blessed Christmas.

Receiving Christmas gifts.

Goodies were given to the children as the families left, and each family received a gift of a Bible story book.

The Dodge Center Church gives tribute to Camille McNeilus, Community Services director, for the fantastic job she has done throughout the year and for the many hours spent planning the Christmas party.

The Dodge Center Legion Club furnished the building free of charge for the party and Millers Used Merchandise of Kasson furnished gift wrap for the numerous presents.

New Administrator At Eden Valley Health Conditioning Center

Linda Gail Tatum has returned to the position of Administrator of Eden Valley Health Conditioning Center after spending a year directing the health education and community relations program there. Linda replaces Joseph E. Fields, who has accepted a position with the Amazing Facts Radio Broadcast in Maryland.

Linda Tatum

Formerly of Trenton, Georgia, Linda and her husband Joe Lee, have been members of the staff at Eden Valley for ten years, she as treasurer and Joe as purchasing agent. Linda is Personal Ministries Leader of the Eden Valley Seventh-day Adventist Church and is involved in many community projects. She was site coordinator for the "9 Health Fair" at Eden Valley last year, and is a member of the Loveland Lioness Club. She also teaches the community health education classes from Eden Valley, such as cooking schools, Five-day Plans and Weight Control.

Eden Valley Health Conditioning Center is located west of Loveland in the foothills and has live-in health conditioning programs, such as cardiac retreats, stress control, stop smoking, weight control, and general reconditioning of the body. Loella E. Clark, M.D. is the Medical Director.

Cancer Prevention Seminar

By Elaine Dodd

Three physicians from Big Horn Family Medicine, all members of the Powell, Wyoming Church, recently conducted their first Cancer Prevention Seminar for the community. Using slides, films and overhead projections, Drs. Dave Lounsberry, Dan Engeborg and Duane Dodd lectured on common types of cancer, the symptoms, treatment and major risk factors involved with each type, and the preventive measures that should be taken.

Of the 21 people registered for the two-night session, only one was a church member. For a follow-up article for the local newspaper, several registrants were interviewed, and all were enthusiastic about the program. Some commented on their surprise to learn that smoking was a major risk in other types of cancer besides lung, and some expressed interest in learning more about nutrition.

"For a long time I've wanted to see our community more involved in health education," one man said. "This was time and money well spent and has made me determined to take better care of myself and my family." Those interviewed thought the seminar was "excellent" and said they would recommend it to others.

Big Horn Family Medicine has previously conducted cardiac risk programs and stop-smoking clinics in Powell and plans more community health education that will include nutrition, exercise and stress management.

Elaine Dodd is the communication secretary for the Powell Church.

New Church In RM Conference

There is a new church in the great Rocky Mountain Conference! On Sabbath afternoon, December 19, 1981, Elder Wm. C. Hatch, conference president, organized the 98th church, the Denver Korean Church. In the worship services of this congregation the Korean language is used exclusively.

Dr. Cha, treasurer, George Hahn, first elder, and Pastor David Oh sign the register to become the nucleus of the Denver Korean Church.

The Korean church is the largest group of believers ever officially organized in the conference. The charter membership is 58. The present Korean population in the Denver area is about 9,000 and shows a continuous increase of 500 per year. The large and constant growth of the Korean population has created a strong interest among Korean Adventists to form a church in the Denver area.

Wm. C. Hatch, president of the Rocky Mountain Conference, welcomes the members of the new Denver Korean Church to the status of a full-fledged organized church through translator Pastor David Oh.

In June of 1979, a group of about 12 Korean members, under the leadership of the late Dr. Fred Pang, and later joined by Elder David Oh, started having their own services at the youth chapel of the Denver South Church. Pastor A. G. Ratcliffe and the leadership of Denver South gave strong support and encouraged the establishment of the church. By the end of 1979 the Korean group membership had doubled in size to 24. In 1980 the membership continued to grow and reached 40. The conference executive committee approved the formation of the Korean Company and this was accomplished March 28, 1981. Since the time of the Korean Company formation, the membership increased from 43 to 58.

During the last two and one-half years, 16 persons have been baptized and two persons joined the church by profession of faith. In addition to 58 baptized members, there are 15 Sabbath School members who are studying and looking forward to church membership.

Miracle in Longmont

By Lonnie Liebelt

The Longmont Church had a problem. A real problem. As the church board met on October 19, it surfaced. Time had run out on the church school's auditorium loan. Last May a drive to pay off the $26,000.00 debt had begun. But now approximately $15,000.00 remained and was due in just 2½ weeks, or the process of refinancing with high interest rates was to begin. There was a general agreement among the church board that if the loan was refinanced, all that interest would just be a big waste of the Lord's money. But what to do? The church budget was already dragging. The debt was a drain, and to put it simply, it looked like a mountain.

One board member ventured fasting and prayer by the board members for one day and the entire church for another day. The Bible verse, Matthew 17:20, 21 seemed very meaningful—". . . if you have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible unto you. Howbeit this kind goeth not out but by prayer and fasting."

A victory dinner was planned for the Sabbath before the extended due date of Monday, November 9. With a faith that God hears and answers prayers and still performs miracles, the flame was lit! The Spirit of self-sacrifice, earnest prayer and unity began to move on human hearts. The Lord manifested His power and the miracles happened. Not only were the members motivated to give, but even a non-Adventist businessman in town called and asked if he could help with a donation of $1,000.00!

Bob Dellapina, church treasurer, and Pastor Lonnie Liebelt burned the mortgage.

The ladies were busy planning a Thanksgiving atmosphere for the victory banquet and praise service, confident the Lord would move the mountain. Sabbath morning the total still due was $6,014.46. An offering was taken, the pledges were turned in, and as the treasurer gave the final tally, the hearts of all were bursting with praise. The debt was paid, with $947.59 overflow!

After a lovely dinner and program of inspirational films, testimonies, special music and burning of the mortgage, Gary Eager of the Brighton Church singing group, summed the whole marvelous experience up by singing: "To God Be the Glory, Great Things He Hath Done."

We in Longmont know God can move mountains!

A New Approach To Health Conditioning

Eden Valley Health Conditioning Center, near Loveland, Colorado, is offering a new approach to its health conditioning program. In addition to the live-in programs being offered, it is now possible for those who cannot be away from home or work for an extended time, or who cannot afford a three-week program, to gain the principles of good health through a weekend health conditioning seminar. These seminars are scheduled as follows:

Weight Control—February 18 through February 21

Cardiac Retreat—April 1 through April 4

Preventive Medicine—May 13 through May 16

Registration will begin on Thursday at 5:00 p.m., with the opening session beginning at 6:30 p.m., and continuing through lunch on Sunday. The cost is $200.00 per weekend. Charges include room, meals, lectures, conditioning exercises and hikes, cooking demonstrations, hydrotherapy treatment and handouts. The entire program is under the direction of our physician and professional staff. Make your reservations now, as space is limited. Call: 303-667-6911 and ask for Linda Tatum.

These seminars are designed to motivate the individual to change his old unhealthy habits for new healthy ones.

Home Nutrition Instructors' Course

Forty intensely interested ladies took a week out of their busy lives to attend the Home Nutrition Instructors' Course the first week of November. The course was taught at Glacier View Ranch by Rose Stoia and Norene Martin from Kettering Memorial Hospital in Kettering, Ohio.

"This is the best and most practical course we have ever attended," seems to be a standard comment that we have heard and received in correspondence. The beautiful facilities at Glacier View Ranch were helpful in providing quiet surroundings for an intense learning experience.

These ladies are now ready and willing to conduct cooking and nutrition classes for their home churches and for groups in their home towns. Friends and neighbors are interested more than ever before in nutrition and food. Let's capitalize on this interest and demonstrate that Seventh-day Adventists can help in living better lives here and in preparation for a life in the hereafter.

Effie Brackett Celebrates "Centennial" With Party

By Linda Tatum

Effie Brackett recently celebrated her 100th birthday at the Eden Valley Health Conditioning Center in Loveland, Colorado. Several relatives from Denver and friends at Eden Valley attended the celebration.

Effie Lenora Fite was born September 15, 1881, in Throckmorton County, Texas. Her mother's health caused the family to move to New Mexico in 1886. Effie's mother died in 1893, leaving a week-old brother Lewis to 12-year-old Effie's care. She lived with Methodist relatives through adolescence and eventually attended a Baptist College in New Mexico. On September 15, 1903 she married Fred Theodore Brackett, whom she had met at the college. When considering the religion of their home, Fred suggested he become a Methodist, although he believed the Adventist faith. He felt Effie's life to be so fine a witness that he too could be a good Christian as a Methodist. Effie would hear none of that plan and determined to find out what was right about the seventh-day Sabbath. She read the Bible through and found no indication that the Lord meant Sunday to be kept holy, but only the seventh day. She concluded, "That's the day for me!"

Effie and Fred moved to Eden Valley, west of Loveland, in February, 1976. Prior to that they lived in the Denver area for more than 60 years. Fred passed away in November, 1979, but Effie is still an inspiration to those around her and enjoys having her friends and relatives visit her.

Church School at Dickinson

By Mary Gresham

The Dickinson Church now has a church school with ten pupils—seven girls and three boys. The teacher is Mrs. Delores Tarasenko who comes from Hinckley, Minnesota with 19 years of teaching experience, four years in public school and 15 years in church school.

We are thankful to the Lord for giving us a church school for our children to attend.

Denver Roberts Becomes Associate Director Of Publishing

By Ben J. Liebelt

Denver Roberts grew up in the state of Oregon, and met Shirley Binder while serving in the United States Navy at San Diego, California. Shirley had grown up in North Dakota, and attended Sheyene River Academy. She was taking nurses training in San Diego. Shirley and Denver were married and, after Denver's release from the Navy, they moved to Cathay, North Dakota. Denver entered the colporteur ministry in 1966. A fire destroyed their home and they moved to Fargo, then to Bismarck.

Denver and Shirley Roberts

Denver is now serving as associate director in the Publishing Department of the Dakota Conference. Shirley graduated from Moorhead State University with a degree in nursing, and is now working in the Bismarck area. Shirley and Denver have two children, Mrs. Art (Yvonne) Bernal, and a son, Daniel. They are the proud grandparents of two children.

We are thankful for the work that Denver and Shirley have done and wish them God's richest blessings as they continue to carry on their important responsibility in the Dakota Conference.

Hospital Series Shown At Rapid City

Faith For Today's Westbrook Hospital series is now reaching Rapid City on Sabbath at 1:30 p.m. This originates from the broadcast of KELO in Sioux Falls. It can be seen in Rapid City and the surrounding area over Channel 15. Through this broadcast, the program is carried on the cable system in Belle Fourche, Lead and Deadwood, Spearfish, Sturgis, Custer, Hot Springs and Edgemont.

Faith For Today can also be seen in Rapid City, Lead and surrounding area on Channel 7 at Sunday at 9:00 a.m.

Watertown Church Hosts Regional Meeting

By Elmer C. Haas

The small Watertown Seventh-day Adventist Church with the beautiful, colorful windows was full. After the well organized Sabbath school program, Ben Liebelt, president of the Dakota Conference, preached a soul-stirring message during which a number of people came to the altar to seek forgiveness of sins and help from above.

In the afternoon, George Liscombe, conference secretary, spoke of the "Faith, Action, Advance" program. Errol Eder, treasurer, gave an encouraging financial report. Tithe is about 15 percent more than it was a year ago at this time. The departmental directors spoke of their work and concerns. Throughout the day we heard several beautiful musical presentations.

We drove home with many positive thoughts, and much thankfulness for the wonderful people and for the goodness of God.

Regional Meeting

By Elmer C. Haas

The day was beautiful and the church was filled to overflowing as the Bowdle Church hosted a Regional Meeting. Church members came from Aberdeen, Leola, Mobridge, Pierre, Murdo, Bison and Lemmon.

Conference Secretary George Lis-combe taught the Sabbath school lesson. Ben Liebelt, Conference president, preached the sermon for the divine worship service. In the afternoon the departmental directors reported the work in the departments they oversee.

During the evening vesper service, Ben Liebelt told of the gospel work in Russia. After that Bruce Hayward opened the Bookmobile for the sale of items from the Adventist Book Center, and the ladies opened the kitchen and served a good evening meal.

All through the day we enjoyed beautiful singing by the congregation and by those especially asked to present musical numbers. Pictured is Jim Patzer from the Pierre Church, singing "O Glorious Love" while our Conference president looks on approvingly.

"Fearfully and Wonderfully Made"

By Lorene Bissenden

"Lucy" has become a welcome and unique visitor at the Rapid City Seventh-day Adventist Church School on Fridays! Pictured here is Leon Brodie, DDS, a member of the Rapid City Church, teaching the children about the anatomy of the body, using the unique skeleton of a 70-year-old person, who incidentally had no evidence of tooth cavities!

Dr. Leon Brodie and Jeff Bloom examine the inside of the skull.

Dr. Brodie let the children examine the suture lines in the skull. He explained the arterial and venous systems in the brain, and talked about the sinuses and how they equalize the pressures in the head. He also gave an important health message on the adverse effects that drinking coffee and smoking cigarettes have on the brain. Besides the health principles learned, the children are learning that "We are fearfully and wonderfully made" by our Creator.

HOSPITALS

Hospital Receives State Approval for Third Floor

A Predevelopment Certificate of Public Necessity for Financing was approved for Brighton Community Hospital on January 7. The governing organization, the Colorado Department of Health Facilities Review Council, made the approval to permit BCH to proceed with obtaining financing to construct a partial third floor on the new hospital.

The 9,510 square foot addition to the hospital now under construction will provide 15 more beds than the 43 already approved, bringing the total to 58, at a cost of $2,465,000. Financing is to be arranged through tax exempt bonds issued by the City of Brighton and backed by Porter Memorial Hospital, a sister hospital in the Adventist Health System.

In the staff's recommendation, travel distance to metro Denver hospitals was cited, where the nearest metro hospital is 30 minutes away. Few Brighton physicians regularly practice at other hospitals, making referrals to other physicians practicing in the overbedded hospitals necessary.

The third floor is expected to be ready for occupancy by late 1982.

BCH Launches New Year Of Wellness Programs

Brighton Community Hospital has released its schedule for wellness programs for the first part of 1982. Programs free of charge or at a nominal fee for the community include stop smoking plan, weight management and prenatal classes.

A Five-day Plan to Stop Smoking was held at Fort Lupton in January, and additional Five-day Plan seminars will be held in Brighton February 8-12 and March 8-12.

The Wa-Rite weight management programs are currently being held at the Brighton Seventh-day Adventist Church. The afternoon series began January 20, and the evening series began January 21. Both series are continuing for 12 consecutive weekly sessions. With the optional exercise program, each session lasts two hours.

Wa-Rite program director Betty Brinkmann, R.D., emphasizes a plan of regular diet and exercise, giving special attention to maintenance of the weight loss. Based on sound principles of nutrition, Mrs. Brinkmann's plan can be used for life in achieving and maintaining the desired weight. With her guidance, each participant designs their own eating plan to avoid the feelings of deprivation that often accompany crash dieting.

Four weekly Prenatal Classes were also held in January for expectant mothers and their families. The classes featured discussions, films, lectures and exercise sessions designed to prepare expectant mothers for normal and Caesarean deliveries, prenatal and postnatal care of mother and infant, and information on the expenses of childbirth. First-time parents find this four-week session especially helpful.

A seminar on Stress Management will begin March 4, 7:00 p.m. and continue through April 8 in the hospital dining room.

For preregistration or additional information on any of these programs provided by Brighton Community Hospital for your health, call Pat Barger at 659-1531, extension 201.

UNION COLLEGE

Union Music Prof Selected To Tour Africa

Anthony Pasquale, assistant professor of music at Union College, is one of five Nebraskans recently selected by the Lincoln chapter of Rotary International to tour the Republic of South Africa for six weeks in the spring of '82. Candidates are chosen among young business and professional men for exemplary personal conduct, enthusiasm and the ability to achieve maximum educational value from the exchange. Other members of the 5-man team include a high school teacher, a bank president and a business manager.

Rotary International's Group Study Exchange was created to provide travel grants for the exchange of teams between countries, paying all costs except personal and incidental expenses. In exchange, team members visit farms, factories, schools and governmental institutions, keeping a diary of their experiences and upon return, reporting findings to Rotary clubs and other organizations.

Pasquale cited a "desire to broaden my horizons of international understanding" as well as the wish to promote interpersonal Christian outreach as motivation for seeking a travel grant.

College Class to Investigate Theological Issues

Because of questions in the minds of many Adventists regarding the current theological ferment in the church, Dr. Beatrice Neall of the Union College religion faculty will be addressing pertinent issues in a second-semester class. "Seminar in Contemporary Issues," scheduled to meet twice each week throughout second semester, will be devoted to a study of current discussion regarding doctrines of the sanctuary and the judgment.

"I believe the questions raised by Ford, Brinsmead, and others will not go away," Neall says. "If the student is not confronted with them now, he will face them in the future. What better place is there to grapple with issues than in an Adventist college? Furthermore, I believe that truth bears investigation. If we earnestly seek guidance, the Holy Spirit will lead us into all truth." Most of the students enrolled to "grapple with issues" are theology majors, but at least one is not.

To accomplish her main objectives of helping students gain understanding and research various aspects of the controversial doctrines, Dr. Neall plans to present topics for discussion and study, directing class members to relative library books. The class will also be considering manuscripts and papers presented to the Glacier View Sanctuary Review Committee. Students will be expected to produce short reports and present their research to the class.

Mid-America Chapter, Adventist-Laymen's Services and Industries

By Halle G. Crowson

Adventist-Laymen's Services and Industries is a growing organization comprised of business and professional people in services, industries, privately owned institutions, farming and ranching operations. Its members are Seventh-day Adventist laymen who are strongly dedicated to helping the organized church finish the gospel commission. They believe that witnessing should be done every day in their professions and businesses.

The administration of the Mid-America Union Conference is anxious to provide the organized vehicle for the ASI organization in the nine-state territory. Plans have been set in motion for the first meeting of this group of people. The facilities of the Airport Holiday Inn in Sioux Falls, South Dakota have been secured and a block of rooms has been reserved. Registration at the meeting site will begin at 4 p.m. on April 15, 1982. The keynote address will be given Thursday evening in the Collegiate Room.

The organization of the new chapter of ASI will be conducted on Friday morning following the devotional service. Other meetings that are of special interest to Adventist business and professional people will continue throughout the convention.

The ASI Association aims to provide a means by which members can become more effective in their work through the exchange of information, coordination of objectives and effort, and the inspiration of Christian fellowship.

A person does not have to be a member of ASI to attend this organizational meeting. All Seventh-day Adventist business and professional people are urged to make plans to attend. Contact your conference or union ASI secretary. See the ad on page 14.

Halle G. Crowson is the ASI secretary for the Mid-America Union.

11-Year-Old Finishes 17 Bible Courses

Are kids interested in the Bible? Young Pam Arnold of Butte, Montana, certainly is. She spends her spare time studying Bible courses through the church's radio and television ministries. In fact, before she was 12 years old, she had completed nine Faith For Today courses, seven from the Voice of Prophecy, and one from the Quiet Hour, making a total of 17 courses. Virginia Fagal, director of the Faith For Today Bible School, says she's sure Pam has set a new record with this accomplishment.

Andrews University Sponsors Housing for Elderly and Handicapped

University Retirement Centers, Incorporated, with Andrews University as its sponsoring organization, has begun construction of an 83-unit apartment complex for persons aged 62 and older. The apartments will also be available for handicapped persons aged 18 and older.

The apartments are being built on 10 acres of agricultural land near the campus which was made available by the university. According to Vernon Siver, vice president for financial administration at Andrews, the apartments are scheduled to open in the fall of 1982. The complex is expected to cost about $2.75 million, according to Siver. The housing is open to anyone who meets the age or handicap requirements. Rental charges are based on the occupant's ability to pay.

1982 World's Fair May-October, Knoxville, Tennessee

If you plan to visit this historic, once-in-a-lifetime event, let Southern Missionary College be your host. Rooms will be available at a moderate cost. Buses will be operating daily to the fair and returning at night.

Southern Missionary College is located near Chattanooga, a city rich in Civil War history with places like Chickamauga Battlefield, Missionary Ridge, Point Park and other high interest areas. Side trips can be arranged to these places as well as to such well known attractions as the Incline Railway up Lookout Mountain, Rock City, Confederama, Ruby Falls, and many others.

Schools and other organizations planning group trips should get their reservations in early.

DID YOU KNOW . . .

In the great majority of cases, disease is brought on by an unhealthy lifestyle?

Change your lifestyle! Get away from the stress, worry, tension, over-indulged appetite, lack of exercise, smoking, drinking! Learn to manage your habits instead of your habits managing you!

Eden Valley Health Conditioning Center has scheduled weekend health conditioning seminars to help motivate those individuals who wish to change their old, unhealthy habits for new healthy ones.

Seminars currently scheduled are as follows:

Weight Control - February 18 through February 21

Cardiac Retreat - April 1 through April 4

Preventive Medicine - May 13 through May 16

Each seminar will begin with registration at 5:00 p.m. with the opening session at 6:30 p.m., and will continue through lunch on Sunday. The cost is $200.00 per weekend and includes rooms, meals, lectures, handouts, conditioning exercises and hydrotherapy treatment. The program is under the direction of our medical director and professional staff. Make your reservations now, as space is limited. Call: Linda Tatum, (303) 667-6911.

Hancock Receives Doctoral Degree

J. Wayne Hancock, superintendent of schools and director of communication for the Arkansas-Louisiana Conference, received his Ed. D. degree in Secondary and Higher Curriculum and Instruction from Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, during summer graduation exercises. The purpose of Dr. Hancock's dissertation was to determine what Seventh-day Adventist parents and their high school-age youth indicated should be included in the spiritual life curriculum of a Seventh-day Adventist boarding academy.

Before coming to Arkansas-Louisiana Hancock spent three and one-half years in North Dakota as director of youth activities and communication as well as superintendent of education for the North Dakota Conference.

Some of Hancock's more noted achievements have been in the field of rural religious education. In four years, under his leadership, both the North Dakota and the Arkansas-Louisiana conferences doubled the number of church schools and student enrollments. He has provided many opportunities for students to display both talents and projects through such programs as the Outdoor School and reading and math programs for the exceptional child have stimulated increased interest in Christian education. Today his fondest hope is to see the computer introduced in the one-room school curriculum as a reinforcer of learning in such areas as math, spelling and English.

Mrs. Hancock, the former Dianne Glovatsky, is a native of North Dakota.

New Book for Writers

BERRIEN SPRINGS—The Andrews University communication department has published a book entitled "Adventist Writer's Market," according to Dr. Kermit L. Netteburg, assistant professor of journalism at Andrews and co-editor of the book.

The book contains a listing of Seventh-day Adventist book publishers, periodicals and institutional publications. "Frank Donald Yost's book, Writing For Adventist Magazines, included a modest directory of Adventist publications, but we have long felt the need for an updated and expanded listing," says Netteburg.

Vickie Van Allen, senior journalism major at Andrews, commented, "I was not aware of all the potential publications and the writing market available within the Seventh-day Adventist denomination." Netteburg believes that many other writers, including non-Adventists, will find the book helpful.

The book will be distributed by Adventist Book Centers throughout the United States and is also available through the Andrews communication department. According to Netteburg, 150 copies were sold before the book was published.

Adventist Writer's Market, printed by Patterson Printing Company of Benton Harbor, contains four articles to assist the writer in the quest for professional quality. The helps include manuscript preparation, finding time to write, helpful books to own and suggestions on overcoming writer's block.

The book may be revised every five years, but will not be an annual publication.

New Evangelistic Thrust For Hispanic People

A new evangelistic thrust for Hispanic people is the radio service being developed and titled "Perspective," according to Dr. Humberto Rasi, editor-in-chief of International Publications at Pacific Press. This service is primarily for non-Adventists. Although the programs are nonsectarian, each one deals with a great theme in the Bible. The five-minute tapes, for weekly airing, will help to develop a wider distribution of the missionary journal, El Centinela, for Spanish speaking people. Each tape is professionally recorded, and contains an editorial comment and a discussion of current events in the light of Bible perspective.

Nine tapes have been completed for use during the months of November and December. At the close of each tape an invitation is given the listener to write for a free copy of El Centinela. Pastors may request the tapes and supply them to the radio station in his area. The tapes are free. Simply make your requests to:

Stained Glass Windows Donated to AU

Dr. Derryl Ogden, a dentist in Lincoln, Nebraska, donated three stained glass windows to the College of Arts and Sciences at Andrews University, according to Dr. Merlene A. Ogden, dean of the College.

The windows, valued at approximately $2,000, took nearly two months for the dentist to complete. He works with stained glass as a hobby.

One window has the seal of Andrews University. Another illustrates the insignia of the Andrews Scholars, the university's honors organization. A unique seal etched by Derryl Ogden symbolizing the areas of study in the College of Arts and Sciences in a collage forming the initials "AU" is displayed on the third window.

Battle Creek Sanitarium Adopts New Name

On December 10, 1981, the Board of Directors of Battle Creek Sanitarium Hospital, Battle Creek, Michigan, voted to change the institution's name to Battle Creek Adventist Hospital.

The vote was the culmination of nearly a year's investigation into the need for a change of name for the hospital. Continued use of the sanitarium designation for the 155-bed acute care facility has resulted in misunderstanding among service area residents about the hospital's programs and role in the community.

Dr. John Harvey Kellogg, who went to Battle Creek a few years after its founding as the Western Health Reform Institute, changed the institution's name to Battle Creek Medical and Surgical Sanitarium. The word "sanitarium" was meant to connote a place where individuals suffering illness might come both to be cured, and to learn to care for their bodies in order to prevent illness. The sanitarium at Battle Creek, one of more than 400 Seventh-day Adventist health care facilities around the world, was the first to be called by that name.

Review & Herald Publishing Association Awards Contract

"Do you think we will ever move?" quipped an employee of the Review and Herald Publishing Association a few days ago. His question was answered positively on November 10 when, in the presence of the entire working force, media, and dignitaries from Hagerstown, Maryland, Elder H. F. Otis, Jr., general manager, signed a contract with a construction company to begin construction of the new facilities in about two weeks.

Nine contractors placed bids for constructing the multi-million dollar plant. A Hagerstown company, Perini Construction Company was low bidder. Dominick Perini, owner of the company said, "We'll try to have the plant ready for production by Labor Day, 1982."

The new plant will be located on a 129-acre farm outside the city limits of Hagerstown. It will cover approximately six acres. The building will be of concrete block with a brick exterior. The proposed office building will be built at a later date.
