Christian Record Braille Foundation

Dear Fellow Believers,

You, no doubt are familiar with the fact that for the Lord's work to succeed, there must be a cooperative effort of the laymen, church officers and the ministry.

I must share with you a program that we have inaugurated in our Union under the direction of our Ministerial Director, Jim Cress and his wife, Sharon, who spend two weeks in an intensive training and study program with a limited group of pastors and their spouses.

The program progresses something like this—prior to attending the soulwinning workshop, each of the pastoral couples have committed to conduct a series of evangelistic meetings in their own districts within the next year. During the two-week intensive workshop, special emphasis is placed on the techniques of evangelistic preaching, working for decision, visiting in homes, and developing a comprehensive plan for stabilization of the new members.

Only eight couples are permitted to attend a workshop so that individualized instruction can be made available. Long hours are spent in practice and "role-modeling" typical situations. Each attending couple is also fully equipped with visual aids and a guide for daily activities that takes them step by step throughout the planning for the series, the conducting of the evangelistic meetings and the follow-up program. The visual aids allow each pastor to present a professionally illustrated slide program for each sermon. Pastoral wives are taught the techniques of presenting features in healthful living, coordinating the various support activities for the evangelistic meetings, visitation and counseling skills and how to share in the burden of training the laity for service.

Throughout the soulwinning workshops, special importance is placed on involving the lay members of the church in every aspect of planning, implementation and follow-through for a successful outreach. Thus the objectives of the series are "owned" by the entire congregation, not just the pastor and his spouse.

Is it working? Just ask some who have participated in one of the workshops. Almost immediately after a recent soulwinning workshop, one pastor, his wife and church launched the program and have just finished their first series which was conducted entirely in their own church building. As a result, more than twenty new members have been added to the church and the lay members are asking the pastor, "When can we start another series?"

Workshops have already been conducted in Minnesota, Rocky Mountain, Iowa-Missouri and the Dakota Conferences. Pastors throughout these conferences are now laying plans with their congregations to begin the sequence leading up to meetings. Other workshops are being scheduled for each of our conferences with the possibility of conducting a workshop exclusively for lay member couples who wish to lead out in lay evangelism. One such lay couple who attended a workshop that Jim and Sharon conducted in another union held a series of meetings in a dark county that produced a new church of some thirty members.

I just believe that, with this kind of activity with the laymen and ministers cooperating in soul winning activities, we are going to see great things happening for God here in our union. Let's pray for this specialized type of work that is now going on in our area.

Yours in the Master's service,

Joel O. Tompkins

Christian Record: 85 Years Of Ministering To Blind And Deaf

By John Treolo

In 1874, John Nevins Andrews, pioneer Adventist missionary, sailed en route to Switzerland armed with the Gospel Message. Some 25 years later, in 1899, the Adventist Church extended its missionary outreach to still another class of overlooked citizens desiring to hear the Good News found in Jesus Christ: the blind.

Thus began the ministry of Christian Record Braille Foundation. Owned and operated by the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, Christian Record celebrates 85 years of ministering to the blind, and now the deaf also, during 1984. July 14 has been designated Christian Record annual offering Sabbath to help advance this unique outreach. Members on the World Budget are encouraged to support the Personal Giving Program.

Isaiah 29:18 identifies the dual mission of Christian Record better than any other text found in Scriptures: "And in that day shall the deaf hear the words of the book, and the eyes of the blind shall see out of obscurity and out of darkness."

Today, statistics from Christian Record reveal during 1983 over 75,000 sight- and hearing-impaired persons were served in 89 countries worldwide, the majority of whom are non-Adventists. Assistance rendered included braille, recorded and large-print books and magazines, Bible Correspondence courses, personal visitation, National Camps for Blind Children, lending-library services and full-vision books for blind parents with sighted children. In addition, glaucoma-screening clinics were held throughout North America to help save sight.

Introducing Jesus Christ to the blind and deaf has always been at the forefront of the free services provided by Christian Record. For Charles L. Emmeking, deaf since birth, it was God's Way Bible Lessons, supplied by Christian Record's Department of Services for the Deaf, that introduced him to the Remnant Church. He was baptized in January.

Charles is the first convert baptized as a result of God's Way Bible Lessons since Christian Record began distributing these in 1982.

Before telling about Charles' baptism, a brief background on his wife, Elaine, is essential. A registered nurse at Kettering Medical Center, Elaine, who has normal hearing, became interested in sign language through several channels. She finally enrolled in a three-month sign-language class offered at Kettering. Before completing the course, fearful that she would forget what she had learned unless she had someone with whom to practice, she was introduced to Charles.

Not only was Elaine able to improve her sign-language skills, but her marital search improved as well. Charles and Elaine were married in October, 1983.

Prior to marriage, the subject of religion was discussed thoroughly. Elaine, at 39, had been an Adventist since 21; Charles, 33, reared Catholic, had joined the Baptist Church because they supplied an interpreter for the deaf during services.

Charles sensed something special was happening with Elaine. Out of fondness for her, he agreed to study God's Way Bible Lessons. Elaine received a set of lessons also to study with him.

"The lessons were easy to read and comprehend," Charles signs as Elaine speaks for him. "I'm now thankful to be a part of the Adventist Church."

"Because of Charles' lack of the adult vocabulary, I wish the entire Conflict of the Ages Series were written in a simplified language similar to God's Way lessons," Elaine says. "And, above all, I encourage more hearing members to learn sign language."

Your prayers and support of Christian Record's annual offering July 14 can help make Elaine's wish a reality. Unlike Elaine, we can't promise every single person who learns sign language will meet Mr. or Mrs. Right, but you never know!

Charles L. and Elaine Emmeking converse with Thompson Kay, Christian Record's coordinator of services for the deaf.

Services from Christian Record are sent to some 89 countries worldwide introducing Jesus Christ to the blind and deaf.

One Result Of Revelation Seminar

By Roger Baker

Among the 14 baptisms resulting from the Revelation Seminar conducted by Burton Maxwell in the Piedmont Park church was Jo Ann Tuglemsmo.

Jo Ann began her Christian walk during a difficult period of her life. She felt all alone and began taking tranquilizers to keep calm and to get to sleep. She knew there must be a better way of life. A relative suggested that she turn to God, but she felt God hadn't been answering her prayers. That evening, she watched a television show called "Don't Ask Me, Ask God" which closed with prayer. She prayed that God would give her special guidance in her life. After that, she felt relieved and hasn't taken a tranquilizer since.

Shortly after that, God started sending Adventists into her life. She wondered, why Adventists and not some other church? She asked God for one more sign to be sure it was His leading, and a few days later, she received an invitation to attend the Revelation Seminar. The church arranged for George and Delores Hornung to provide transportation to and from the meetings.

Recently, Jo Ann made her decision to be baptized into the Piedmont Park church.

Iola Church Dedication

By Teddric Mohr

Exterior and interior views of the new Iola church.

Under the leadership of their pastor, Lyndon McDowell, March 31 was a high day for the members of the Iola church, when their new building was dedicated free from debt. The treasurer, Elwin Dick reports, "With sacrificial giving on the part of members, plus gifts from friends all across the country, along with an appropriation from the Kansas-Nebraska Conference and the proceeds from the old church building, we have never been in debt at any time during construction. Actually, right now we have about $2,000 still available in the building fund."

Elsworth Reille, Adventist Health Services, preached the dedication sermon, and the Act of Dedication was conducted by conference president, L. S. Gifford. Dr. E. N. Dick presented a history of the church.

The church body was organized about 1893, and the original building on South Street was used continuously until July 1, 1983. The first church school was held in back rooms of the church beginning in 1917-18, and continued there until it moved into a new building on the church property in 1973. It is a portable building, a gift from the public school system when it became surplus, and was placed on a permanent foundation.

Ground breaking for the new building took place on July 7, 1983. About 28 members of Maranatha Flights, International, came September 6, and the first services were held in the completed sanctuary on September 24, 1983. They were assisted by church members, approximately 47 non-Maranatha people from far and near, and 24 Enterprise Academy students who helped with the roofing. "Praise God from Whom all blessings flow."

News From Scottsbluff

Patsy Brown had begun attending a Revelation Seminar while in Denver before coming to Scottsbluff to resume her college education. She contacted Pastor Bob Ochoa, who continued the studies with her. Patsy was eager to complete the lessons and requested two studies per week, then three, and finally six lessons per week. She did this while maintaining an A average in all her classes. Church members Kris Dittmar, Barb Dittmar, and Denise Benton were helpful to Patsy in her rapid growth of knowledge. Patsy was baptized into the Scottsbluff church by Pastor Bob Ochoa.

E. A. Alumni Reunion

By Teddric Mohr

The recent Enterprise Academy Alumni Reunion was attended by a large and enthusiastic group from far and near, from California on the west, and New England on the East, and many states between.

Under the capable leadership of Alumni President Herman Guy, the weekend began with the Friday evening vespers and concluded with the Saturday night business session. At the Session, Pastor Robert Potter of Hastings, Nebraska, was installed as the new president.

One feature of the program included a tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Powell, owners and operators of Midco Plastic, Inc., a campus industry. As the Powells came to the dais suddenly from every corner of the auditorium, they came, filling the platform and over-flowing on the floor in front,—present students and former students, pouring out their hearts in appreciation for the contribution, friendship, and encouragement provided to students during the past twenty years.

Enterprise Academy needs more folk like the Powells!

Eight Baptized At Hutchinson

by Pauline Long

A series of seminars has just ended in Hutchinson, Kansas. They included a Five-Day Plan, Weight Control, Stress Seminar, Revelation Seminar, and cooking school. Many lives have been changed and are changing.

To date, eight precious souls have been baptized and others are studying. People are thrilled to be able to understand the Book of Revelation, and while many have not yet seen their way clear to make all the needed changes in their lives, they believe that what they have studied is truth. Without question we have only seen the beginning of the results of truth planted in the hearts of men and women.

Since these seminars, people have been calling and asking for help in stopping smoking, in healthful cooking, in weight loss, and are wanting more Bible study. How thankful we are that God has favored us by giving us so much knowledge in the mental, physical, and spiritual aspects of life.

IOWA-MISSOURI

Lay Evangelism

By Bill Stokes

Determined to present the message to the area's 2,400,000 people, the laity of the St. Louis Central Church conducted their second evangelistic series. The speakers were Trevor Dandy, Emil Kahler, Earl Kirchberg, Gene Schermerhorn, Bill Stokes, Dan Taylor and Marie Thomas. The program included a variety of music by other church members. Seven non-members were in attendance. Shown below are some of the speakers.

Bible Booth

By Betty Fuhrmeister

Many Bible pictures and charts with the theme, "Christ Our Righteousness" were displayed at a booth on the University of Iowa campus in Iowa City. There were posters about the Sabbath and other Adventist beliefs.

Curious students were especially interested in the brochures on the Stop Smoking Plan, and vegetarianism as it appeared in Life and Health magazine. Other pamphlets on health and Amazing Facts Bible guides were also offered. There was a drawing for a family Bible.

Patricia Veach is planning more such displays in the near future. Tom Shaffer and Sue Brude are shown manning the booth.

Hillcrest School Performs Sacred Concerts

By Bill Stokes

The band and choir of the Hillcrest Elementary School have presented concerts at four nearby churches. Besides the band and choir, the program included trios, solos and a brass ensemble.

The music was interspersed with short sermonettes by some of the sixth grade students on such topics as "Faith", "Train up a Child" and "Greed".

LPN Receives Award

By Mike Pethel

Grace Killian, a licensed practical nurse, was awarded the "Lillian Kuster Award" for her courage and dedication to the high ideals and standards of the practical nursing profession. Grace endured reprimand and harassment when she reported serious patient abuse at the hospital where she worked. Later, when another nurse also reported patient abuse, the news media heard their stories and steps were taken to correct the problem. The award was given by the National Federation of Licensed Practical Nursing.

Revelation Seminar

By Jean Pollard

The members of the Branch Memorial Church were eager to have a Revelation Seminar for the people of the Branch community. They contributed generously, and then supported the seminar with their attendance, and invited their friends. Pastor Kenneth Berry is shown baptizing Douglas Moyer, and several others are continuing to study in preparation for baptism in the near future.

Music Festival

By Bill Stokes

The elementary church schools and junior academies of the conference presented a music festival at Sunnydale Academy in April. It was thrilling to hear the different bands and choirs, the solos, duets and other small group performances. But the most thrilling of all was when the bands combined their 75 instruments, and the choirs blended their 300 voices.

Elder John Thurber, Mid-America Youth Director, presented the Sabbath message. Ron Jensen, music director of Sunnydale Academy, was in charge of the program.

Bill Stokes is the communication secretary for the St. Louis Central Church.

Introducing The Executive Committee

The Executive Committee of the Iowa Conference is given the responsibility of planning and executing the various programs and operations of the conference. The welfare of the churches and the success and prosperity of the conference is greatly affected by the decisions of this group. We would like to introduce the members of the Iowa-Missouri Conference Executive Committee to you, and briefly outline the functions of this group.

At the April 15th Conference Session an Executive Committee of 23 individuals was chosen to direct the business of the Iowa-Missouri Conference for the next three years. The makeup of the committee is as follows: three conference officers, one conference departmental director, the principal of Sunnydale Academy, eight church pastors, and ten laypersons. There is a good distribution throughout the two states in the conference as you can see by the map showing the locations of the various committee members.

In addition to the conference employees the membership of the committee includes two hospital administrators, a nurse, a social worker, a school teacher, a health-food store owner, a telegraph operator and railroad agent, and a telephone company executive. This varied background provides wide experience and knowledge in dealing with the various issues the conference committee faces. The church offices held by this group are impressive. Five are elders, five are Sabbath School teachers, three are Personal Ministries leaders, three are school operating committee chairmen, three are finance committee members, and two are church treasurers. There are three ladies on the committee.

Another interesting and important bit of information about the makeup of this group is the old and the new. Of the twenty-three members, ten are new, having been chosen on April 15th to serve in this capacity, and thirteen were members of the committee previous to the April 15th constituency meeting. This gives continuity which is very important, but also the opportunity for new people to serve with fresh new ideas.

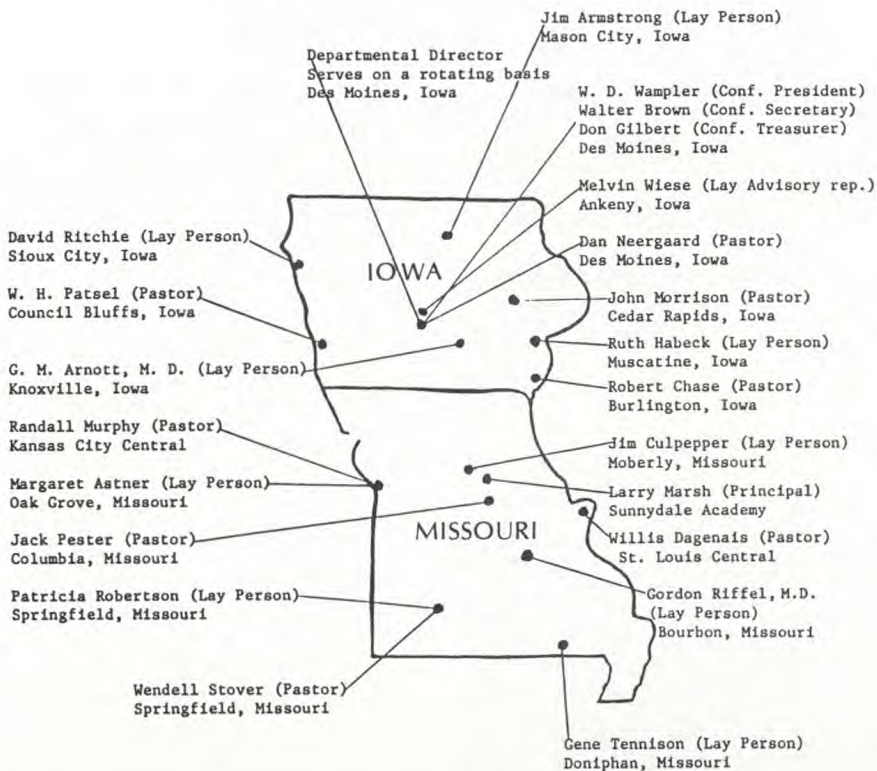

The work of the conference committee has to give general oversight to the work of the church in Iowa and Missouri, and includes the following: the firing and placement of pastors, the appointment of various boards and committees (such as the board of education and the academy board) . . . planning programs and campaigns to advance the work of the church and the conference . . . serving as an employee evaluation board to monitor the effectiveness of conference employees . . . a financial board to adopt and monitor the budget for the conference, and to develop financial policies and plans to fund the various projects carried on by the church and the conference.

The responsibilities and challenges of the Iowa-Missouri Conference Executive Committee are great. Your prayers are enlisted for the Lord's blessing and guidance on this group as they endeavor to plan wisely for the work of God in these two states.

Pictured is the Iowa-Missouri Conference Executive Committee at a recent committee meeting. Missing from the committee that day were Gordon Riffel, M.D. and Melvin Wiese. Also pictured with the group is Joel Tompkins, Mid-America Union president.

Special Baptism Held

By Sidney Reiners

Members of the Grand Rapids and Blackberry churches recently baptized four souls into the body of Christ. Luauna Warner and Lee Turner united with the Blackberry church. Toni Dixon and Peggy Keppler joined the Grand Rapids church; Jeanette Bowers was received into membership on profession of faith.

This joyous occasion was the culmination of two evangelistic outreaches: the Revelation Seminar and Elder Maurice Bascom's series of meetings in connection with the Maranatha Lay Training Institute held this spring. Much prayer and personal effort on the part of church members, however, was the deciding factor in these baptisms.

One especially poignant feature of the service was the presence of Annie Meyers, 101-year-old great-grandmother of Peggy Keppler. Peggy is the first of Annie's descendants to become a Seventh-day Adventist.

Sidney Reiners is the first elder of the Grand Rapids Church.

Pennies For Jesus

David Lister, son of Janet and Chuck Lister, began collecting money from friends and family in his little white iron chest for investment before the age of one.

David is four years old now and has collected about $16.00 of pennies so far. David is the youngest member of the St. Paul First Church to contribute for investment this year.

Hutchinson Member Honored

By Clara Hansen

Mabel Fisher was honored at the Mother's Day program of the Hutchinson Sabbath School as the oldest mother present. She is 94 and has been a member of the Hutchinson Sabbath School for over 60 years. She lives with her daughter and son-in-law, Lucylle and Ben Christensen, and has three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. Mabel still regularly attends weekly services.

Listen . . . And Care

By Clara Hansen

The Hutchinson church was the location of a Lab I training program on two recent weekends. David Bissell, pastor of the Winona church, was the Lab I consultant who directed the class.

Fourteen students, thirteen of them laymen, gathered to learn in-depth listening skills and to develop caring and calling ministries for use in their home churches. Each weekend contained about twenty hours of instruction with the students participating as learning partners, supporting groups, and role playing for use of the listening skills learned.

At the close of the Lab I class each student felt an almost tangible presence of closeness and unity. The challenge was accepted and there was an eagerness to get started in a visiting program. Those attending hope their efforts will keep inactive church members from becoming non-members and active members in love with Jesus.

William Chunestudy conducts Maplewood Academy band.

An educational rally was held at Davies Hall on the campus of Itasca Community College in Grand Rapids. The program opened with dramatic presentations by the Blackberry and Bemidji church schools.

The second part of the program featured the Maplewood Academy chorale, band and Choraliers under the direction of William Chunestudy. Grand Rapids church member David Polensky appeared in all three groups. This very inspiring afternoon was brought to a rousing conclusion with a moving rendition of "Battle Hymn of the Republic" by the academy band.

HOSPITALS

Couples Volunteer

In 1979, Vacil DeNota of Overland Park was admitted to Shawnee Mission Medical Center as a patient. At the same time, another Overland Park man named Julian Funke was also a patient at the hospital.

Although these two "neighbors" did not know one another, each fully recovered and went home with the same idea—both wanted to return with their wives to Shawnee Mission Medical Center as volunteering couples.

"I received such good care and treatment, I thought volunteering would be one way to repay it," Funke says.

Vacil and Elsie DeNota have much in common with the Funkes, and they began volunteering for the same reasons.

"After being a patient I wanted to see the other side of it," DeNota says. "And I think it's great. There's nothing like it."

Today there are eight couples who volunteer. Anyone interested in becoming a volunteer at SMMC should call the volunteer office at 676-2330.

As volunteers, Vacil and Elsie DeNota of Overland Park, Kansas measure and unpack candy in Shawnee Mission Medical Center's gift shop.

60th Wedding Anniversary

More than 400 friends of Melvin and Anna Reynolds crowded into the New York Mills Elementary School on Sunday, April 8, 1984, to celebrate the Reynolds' 60th wedding anniversary.

Family members and friends from eight states converged on New York Mills where the four sons and one daughter of Melvin and Anna Reynolds had planned the special anniversary event. Donald Reynolds, eldest son and president of the Upper Columbia Conference of Seventh-day Adventists in Washington served as Master of Ceremonies.

Sons from California, Marvin, Alger and Daryl Reynolds, electrical contractor, hospital administrator, and medical consultant respectively, assisted in the program and escorted their parents to the place of honor.

The luncheon served at the event included a six-tier anniversary cake more than three feet tall. It was baked and decorated by Melvina Toews, daughter and hospital housekeeping director from Froid, Montana.

Among the tributes was one given to the Reynolds by New York Mills mayor, Dean Simpson, who said, "Melvin and Anna Reynolds have been long-time residents of this community and have benefitted our entire city."

Greetings and congratulations came from across the nation including best wishes from President and Nancy Reagan who said in part, "Your long marriage is a tribute to our nation's greatest strength—the American family. Congratulations and God bless you."

Media Coverage Increases At Porter

The recently reorganized community relations department has reported a sharp rise in the amount of free publicity the hospital has received in the local news media.

Chris Lindsey, associate director of community relations, reports that the effective dollar value for such coverage year-to-date is $119,000.

The Chi Omega Alumni Association recently donated $8,200 to Shawnee Mission Medical Center's Infant Development Center which helps handicapped children aged birth to five.

The Chi Omegas have contributed to the Infant Development Center since 1975. Over the years they have given a total of $25,246 raised through annual events including arts and crafts fairs, interior decor showings, and tasting luncheons.

BMH Celebrates Hospital Week

National Hospital Week was celebrated at Boulder Memorial Hospital with daily tours featuring a specific floor or group of services unique to Memorial, or services not normally associated with a hospital. Each day free screenings and special displays were featured as part of the tour activities.

Blood pressure/hypertension screenings were by far the most popular. Other screenings offered were blood typing, blood sugar levels, and "quick look electrocardiograms" in the ICU area. Vocational rehab offered a "hands on" activity testing manual dexterity and visualization capabilities. Bio-feedback offered "mood dots"—a small colored dot sensitive to temperature and moisture changes on a person's skin directly related to circulation governed by tension or stress. Occupational Therapy offered a "grip" test and Patient & Family Counseling demonstrated the Lifeline system available to individuals still able to live independently as long as they are monitored daily or have ready access to a "trouble" signal. The warm water therapy pool, cardiac rehab and sports medicine areas always draw much interest. The combination of the digital subtraction angiography with the cardiac catheterization lab state-of-the-art equipment combining high resolution video and cine, is the only one of its kind worldwide at the present time.

Comments were very positive from the visitors and many expressed surprise at the many services offered, the personal attention received, and the attractiveness of the displays and literature available. Remember, something special is happening at Boulder Memorial.

BMH Honors Employees

Annual Awards Luncheon

Miss Carla Gewe and Mrs. Gwen Winterburger

The Annual Award luncheon for the Boulder Memorial Hospital Auxiliary was held at the Seventh-day Adventist Church in Boulder at 12 pm, on May 10, 1984. Volunteer hours for 1983 were 16,155, making a total of 311,590 hours since the volunteers began serving at Boulder Memorial Hospital. Especially honored was Miss Carla Gewe, who retired from volunteering on her 86th birthday. After giving 20 years and 11,188 hours of service Miss Gewe was awarded a plaque by the Auxiliary President, Mrs. Gwen Winterburger. Miss Gewe is a retired school teacher and has served at the hospital's Information desk and also in the Gift Shop.

Boulder Memorial Hospital Auxiliary has the reputation of being a "working" auxiliary versus a "social" one. Most of the individuals perform several jobs in the hospital, and are much more willing to work than attend luncheons honoring them! For these ladies, volunteering is a way of life.

Thirty-five employees of Boulder Memorial Hospital were recently honored at a service awards luncheon held at the Broken Inn in Boulder. Years of service varied from five through 20 years of continuous employment at Boulder Memorial.

Evangelism At Bismarck

By Berniece Lunday

"I ask you to buy into this program," Elder Lowell Rideout said earnestly with his blue eyes gleaming at the Bismarck Church board meeting. He had just presented the plans and proposed budget for the Prophecy Bible Lectures he hoped to conduct March 17 through May 5, 1984. The plan was to have the crusade conducted by the local pastor, Elder Rideout, with the church as his team, a program Jim Cress, Mid-America Union Evangelism Coordinator, highly promotes.

The Rideouts started with a kickoff party at their house, inviting the lecture hostesses and other workers to do some detailed preparation.

As the meetings progressed, Rideout involved the elders in home visitation. They became so involved emotionally that when one couple stopped coming, an elder said, "It hurts me deeply".

The baptistry was kept filled and warm and in use night after night. Baptismal candidates came because of witnessing by the school, families, Sabbath School, medical personnel, literature evangelists, and members giving Bible studies, and the prison ministry.

The pastor conducted a baptismal class at the school. His wife, JoAnn, kept the appointments several times, even doing visitation when the pastor had the flu. (He had to whisper at one of the evening lectures.)

Shayne and Sandy Schiermeister attended after receiving an invitational brochure in the mail. Before being baptized, Shayne gave his resignation as a cook at the Ramada Inn because it required working on the Sabbath. He had faith that God would take care of them. Then the manager told Shayne he had made arrangements for him to have Sabbaths off.

The prison ministry carried on by the pastor and Al Zeeb is yielding a continued harvest during the lectures. Mike Heger was baptized in April and Rod Decker plans to be baptized soon, which will bring the total number of Adventists at the State Penitentiary to five.

Diane Blythe joined the church by profession of faith after studying with Kathy Fischer and Debby Dimond. Others who joined by profession of faith were John Fischer, Jr. and Tim Paasch.

JoAnn Rideout gave nightly five-minute health talks which climaxed with a vegetarian banquet and the showing of the John Hus film.

Nineteen baptisms were realized. The method of the pastor being the evangelist with the church members as his team brought excellent results in Bismarck.

Berniece Lunday is the communication secretary for the Bismarck Church.

Mike Quast and Tom Warner. Tom acknowledged appreciation for his Sabbath School leader, Doug Tekippe, and his parents. Mike attended the baptismal class at school.

Karen Schatz appreciated the kindness and understanding of the Barstad family.

Shayne and Sandy Schiermeister (left, rear) were baptized on their first wedding anniversary. Travis Stuart, Justin Diede, Jamie Stuart and Jessica Isaak were in the pastor's baptismal class at school.

Brian Mertz also attended the baptismal class at school.

Ray Bechtold, another member of the school baptismal class.

Michelle Smock was baptized by her grandfather, Lee Hammond, a field representative of the Christian Record Braille Foundation.

Dawn Wallum purchased books from a literature evangelist, and took correspondence courses from Amazing Facts and Faith For Today. She says the reason she is studying with such haste and intent is so no one can deceive her.

First Triennial Session Reveals Progress

By Marvin G. Lowman

Delegates representing the sixty-nine churches of the Dakota Conference met for the first triennial session to be held by the Dakota Conference since the merger of the North and South Dakota Conferences in 1981. Officers and staff re-elected were: Ben J. Liebelt, President; Errol L. Eder, Secretary/Treasurer; Kevin Swift, ABC Manager; Douglas Brown, Education/Youth/Health Care/NSO; Marvin G. Lowman, Personal Ministries/Sabbath School/Religious Liberty/Communication; Elmer C. Haas, Trust Services and Stewardship. Ron Miller will continue to serve the Dakota Conference as Publishing Director.

Elder J. W. Bothe, Associate Secretary of the General Conference, gave the devotional to open the session. After calling the session to order, President Ben Liebelt gave a report of the progress of the Dakota Conference during the past triennium. "A total of 506 souls were added to the church in the Dakota Conference territory in the years 1981, 1982 and 1983. This shows an increase of seventy when compared to 436 souls added in the same territory in the years 1978, 1979 and 1980." Sixty-two individuals were reclaimed during 1981-1983.

Elder Liebelt pointed out several firsts that have taken place in the conference during the past three years. 1) An annual conference-wide soul winning seminar is conducted each year for laymen and pastors. 2) Approximately 25 Revelation Seminars have been or are being held currently in the Conference. These seminars are relatively inexpensive, souls are making decisions for baptism and laymen have become involved in the program. 3) the P.R.E.A.C.H. Seminars have attracted several hundred non-Adventist pastors, associate pastors, priests, chaplains and nuns. 4) The first ministerial training course, held by James and Sharon Cress of the Mid-America Union, for pastors and their wives has provided some of the pastors with the training and inspiration to conduct their own evangelistic crusades. Some have started with promising success. 5) A Health-Care Seminar was conducted for the health-care professionals of the Dakota Conference.

Two churches were dedicated during the past triennium—Jamestown and Bowdon. A number of other churches were built during the last three years and await dedication, and several churches had major additions or improvements.

Errol Eder, Conference Treasurer pointed out that "a positive trend graces the start of a new chapter of the Lord's work here in the Dakota territory." It is interesting to note that while the Dakota Conference contains only 3.1% of the Mid-America Union's population, the conference accommodates nearly 10% of the Union's church membership. This explains the relatively high member to non-member ratio, 1 in 252 to that of the Mid-America Union average of 1 in 745. "Probably the most impressive statistic is that while comprising only 9.7% of the Seventh-day Adventist population of the Union, the Dakota Conference is responsible for nearly 12% of the tithe. This illustrates the faithful stewardship of our constituents," Eder said.

Sabbath School/Personal Ministries Director, Marvin Lowman, pointed to the steady increase in Sabbath School giving over the past triennium. "Although our nation's economy has sagged and inflation has caused diminishing of purchasing power, our members have increased their gifts year-by-year." During the reporting period, nearly $700,000 has been given to missions by Dakota members. We rejoice also in the fact that 216 Sabbath School members were baptized during the triennium. Bible studies given lay persons numbered 4,688 in the past three years and our members have been instrumental in 235 baptisms during the same period.

The Voice of Prophecy, It is Written, Faith for Today, Quiet Hour, and Amazing Facts programs are being aired throughout the Dakota Conference. The gospel message is being proclaimed by radio and TV in virtually every area of our conference.

Doug Brown, Director of Education/Youth, pointed to a growing work through the Pathfinder program and youth camps. "The commitment of our conference to the educational and spiritual development of our young people is evidenced by the fact that in 1983 17% of the conference budget went to elementary and 11% to secondary education." Brown reported.

During the past triennium the Adventist Book Center was moved from Jamestown to Dakota Adventist Academy near Bismarck, North Dakota. A small ABC branch continues to function at the conference headquarters in Pierre, South Dakota. The bookmobile will serve the churches of the conference on a regular basis.

Ron Miller, Publishing Director, reported $407,284.17 in sales by literature evangelists during the recent triennium. Nearly 60,000 pieces of free literature were given away.

More than 3,000 persons were enrolled in Bible courses with the result that 33 precious souls were baptized as a result of the publishing ministry.

Elder L. E. McClain is retiring from denominational service. Elder Bob LeBard who has been named principal for the coming school year was introduced to the constituents and spoke regarding plans for the future of the school.

There is still room for growth. There are challenges to face. "Under God let us move forward in unity to blend all lines of God's work into a good balance of caring and saving activity during this time of reaping emphasis. In His strength, let us pledge ourselves to foster every phase of the Lord's work with urgency so it may soon be finished," challenged Elder Ben Liebelt.

Another Prisoner Baptized

Elder Lowell Rideout is conducting a continual reaping and study program at the North Dakota State Penitentiary. The Penitentiary inmates have seen the fourth Seventh-day Adventist baptism in the past four months, with Mike Heger being that fourth inmate requesting baptism. Mike was baptized in April at the bi-weekly church service Rideout conducts at the penitentiary.

Rideout states Mike has a simple, very strong faith in God. He has a deep concern for men who are ashamed of their relationship with the Lord and he never wants to fall into that category.

Mike joined the Monday night Bible class Al Zeeb and Pastor Rideout conduct and has attended since December, plus having special studies with the Pastor for several months. Willie Giffin, the first inmate baptized at the penitentiary, invited Mike to the classes and acted as his coach.

Rideout states another baptism is scheduled at the penitentiary for May 12.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN

Revelation Seminar

By Opal Joseph

Fifty-two non-Adventist persons have registered for Revelation Seminar classes at Greeley, Colorado. Lay members take turns teaching the classes supported by Pastor Ron Wham. Many church members are also enjoying a refresher course in the message of this great Book and all are receiving special blessings.

The Greeley congregation is glad to be worshipping in its church again following the installation of a six-inch styrofoam ceiling to enhance the acoustics and aid in insulation. An entrance ramp has also been completed for the handicapped and a wheelchair is available. A new Kawai grand piano was purchased with the aid of memorial funds. With these improvements all fully paid for, the members feel that God has abundantly blessed them.

The Greeley Pathfinder Club held a Fun Run Sunday in mid-April to raise funds to attend the 1985 North American Camporee. Twenty-seven Pathfinders, six pre-Pathfinders and nine adults participated. The goal was to run as many quarter miles as possible in 15 minutes. Everyone ran at least one mile and a few ran almost two miles. Each runner was required to be sponsored and an estimated $500 was raised. Field events followed the Fun Run. The drill team also performed under the direction of Robert Workman.

Opal Joseph is the communication secretary for the Greeley Church.

Federation Meeting

More than 300 persons attended the Dorcas Federation meetings conducted in the Rocky Mountain Conference. George Timpson, associate secretary of the Mid-America Union, was guest speaker. He emphasized health and health education as a tool for use through the community services program. Pictured are: Emily Naranjo, George Timpson, Jerry Page and Dottie Spann at the Pueblo Federation meeting.

New Community Service Center

By Geri Morris

The doors have only been open about three months and already the new Community Service Center at Second and Dodge in Delta, Colorado has given out nearly 12,000 articles of clothing. The new center is housed in the former Seventh-day Adventist church built in 1894. The building has been used by many other denominations as a church, a nursery school, a ballet studio and a rescue mission. We are so pleased it is now owned once again by Seventh-day Adventists. Many hands and a number of trucks helped make the transition from the basement closets of the Adventist church on Meeker Street to the new facility.

More than 669 hours of work were given by members and friends of the church in moving, sorting, cleaning, processing and distributing the clothing and other materials in the past three months.

Mrs. Bernice Porter, the director of the center, with her volunteer helpers works closely with the public schools in providing new clothing for school-age children. The center is open every Tuesday from 10:00 a.m. until 5:30 p.m.

Geri Morris is the communication secretary for the Delta Church.

Fifteen Baptized At Aurora

By Dollie Barbour

Dale Brusett's colorful Revelation fliers and multi-image messages attracted nightly attendance at the Aurora, Colorado church in April and resulted in 15 baptisms.

Karen Halstrom, Tom Merrell and Lucy Muller came by themselves. Tina Hidalgo absorbed truth in the foyer while holding her little ones. Lloyd Roti's Adventist children brought him from Arvada. Ossie Solomon's fellow teacher and Adventists friend, Evelyn Brown, met her at the door. All five of Melody Eartherton's family were baptized—she had persuaded her husband, Philip, her two children, Kristen and Tracy, and even her mother, Josephine Woolf, to attend while she was in Chicago. Judy Gesvalli's sister had urged her and her husband, Domanick, to join the fastest-growing church in Aurora, but also gave them a flier to the Brusett meetings. Their intense interest led to baptism.

For over half a century Anna McDonald had been experiencing good Adventist influences: her grade school teacher; Mrs. Bate's Sabbath School in Webster Park, Colorado; Adventist neighbors, Mrs. Collett and Mrs. Burchett; Signs of the Times, It is Written; Brusett meetings at the Denver Trade Mart in the 1970's; and more recently, Literature Evangelist Jim Barbour's contacts from door-to-door canvassing. It was Jim's joyful privilege to take Anna and her daughter, LeAnn, to the Brusett meetings at the Aurora church and to witness their baptism.

It is the hope of the Aurora church members and their pastor, Sid English, that God will help them build a school with a hall for future evangelistic outreach.

Dollie Barbour is a member of the Aurora Church.

Mother Baptized, Son Dedicated

Cheri Martin, standing with Pastor and Mrs. David Rose, was recently baptized into the membership of the Sterling, Colorado church. She made her decision to join the church as a result of evangelistic meetings conducted by Conference Evangelist Henry Barron. Cheri's son Ricky was dedicated at the special service. Cheri had requested a gift Bible from an Ingathering brochure. The request came to the church and was not immediately taken for followup. The pastor's wife Dorothy is a tenacious soul-winner and took the name and made a diligent search for Cheri. She had been giving Cheri Bible studies for a year prior to the evangelistic meetings.

Activities At Cedaredge

By Hazel O. Austin

The Cedaredge community, on the Western Slope of Colorado, is a quiet area for retirement, but the Adventist church is a busy, active, going concern. The church members have a choice of several activities each week besides the Sabbath services and the interesting prayer meeting held each Tuesday night.

A prayer band meets each Wednesday afternoon at the home of Berniece Carney. A Spanish Bible study class is conducted by Elder W. A. Lusk, a retired teacher, and meets each Monday evening with an attendance of about 25 people. Most are not church members. The physical fitness exercise classes are held on Sunday morning by Liz Welch, and Wednesday evening by Sally Wells.

The Dorcas ladies have become more active and their room is more attractive, with neatly arranged boxes of clothing. Two families in the community have been given aid and one family is attending church services.

Recently a man contacted one of the local elders, Floyd Rutan, and asked for food for his family until they could get food stamps. Brother Rutan provided them with about a week's supply of food. A week or so later a lady from Cedaredge came to the Community Services with four large shopping bags full of groceries. As a rule no groceries are kept at the Dorcas room so none were on hand. A few minutes later the same persons came and said their food stamps had not yet arrived and they needed just a little more food. The ladies thought of the verse "Before they call, I will answer".

Boxes of clothing are often left on the porch of the Community Services Building and they are given out when needed. They have also tied quilts to give when there is a need.

Grandfather's Privilege

A solicitous grandfather wipes the water from the face of his first granddaughter after her baptism. Elder Wm. C. Hatch, president of the Rocky Mountain Conference, was blessed with the privilege of baptising Christina Schwab, daughter of Judy and Barry Schwab, of Sioux City, Iowa.

New Programs At Denver First

By Greg Rumsey

Two new series of programs—"1st Concerts" and the "Best of Life" seminars—have been initiated at Denver First church. Both are adding new dimensions to the church's ministry to its own members and to the community.

The "1st Concerts" series features a variety of guest artists, as well as musical talent from within the congregation. Among the names on the schedule for the remainder of the year are soloist Merrill Womach, the Chuck Fulmore Trio and Dino.

Recent concerts included a program by guitarist Rick Foster, from Oregon, noted for his classical arrangements of hymns and other religious tunes. On April 21, the church choir and orchestra presented a cantata on the resurrection of Jesus in a special program entitled, "Music of the Cross." Meryl Morgan, Adventist recording artist, was featured.

According to Mark Becker, minister of music at Denver First, the series has been designed to offer a variety of styles of high caliber sacred music which can be appreciated by Christians of all faiths.

The "Best of Life" seminar series was also developed to enhance the church's service to its members and the surrounding community, explains Stuart Harrison, senior pastor at Denver First. The series included educational programs on a variety of practical aspects of daily living.

Since the first of the year, seminar speakers have presented helpful information on time management, vegetarian cooking and parent-teenager relationships. In early May a 5-night series was presented on fitness, color analysis and exercise entitled, "Feeling Good About Yourself". Still coming on the schedule in early June is a Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking. All programs in the Best of Life series are offered free of charge.

Coming dates in the "1st Concerts" series include the following programs. All concerts are on Sabbath afternoon or Saturday evening.

- July 14, 7:30 p.m.

New Member At La Veta

Bill Wakeley, right, of Walsenburg, was recently baptized into the La Veta, Colorado church in a ceremony performed by Pastor Don Sales. Wakeley received studies from Ernest Reynolds, left, a layman who was responsible for five new members in 1983. Wakeley, who is a graphics artist for a magazine publisher in Walsenburg, is already witnessing to other friends and relatives.

Teresa Sales is the communication secretary for the La Veta Church.

La Junta, Douglas Receive New Members

Evangelist Henry Barron and Pastor Bob Furst present a Certificate of Membership to Earnest Mead, of La Junta, Colorado during a recent series of evangelistic meetings.

Six members were added to the Douglas, Wyoming church at the close of another evangelistic series by Pastor Barron.

Time Management specialist Marie Jennings, from Nashville, speaks to more than 150 participants at a seminar in the Best of Life series.

Update From Bethel

By Mazie Mitchell

Week of Prayer

Elder Nathaniel Miller, Adventist Youth director for the Central States Conference and an elder at Bethel Church in Kansas City, Kansas, was guest speaker for Spring Week of Prayer.

Services were spirit filled and inspiring each night as Elder Miller challenged the enthusiastic members and friends to set their sights on things above, and to make sure each day of living a devout Christian life. The theme song for each service was "Learning to Lean on Jesus". Sister Shirley Platt led the song and the enthusiastic group joined in.

The Sabbath service was truly a climax to the meeting as Elder Miller preached on "The Power of God". We knew that God had been with us, and we realized the need to depend on Him.

Two new members were added to the membership and several expressed the desire to be re-baptized.

Guest Day

Community Guest Day for Bethel Sabbath School was also a climax for the Week of Prayer. Sister Melba Reece, superintendent, had as special guest Mayor Jack Reardon of Kansas City, Kansas. Mayor Reardon congratulated the superintendent for a lovely Sabbath School and gave words of wisdom and encouragement. Sister Reece had a lovely trophy and presented it to Mayor Reardon for his interest and help in our community.

We say "hats off" to Sister Melba Reece and to Elder Miller for jobs well done.

Mazie Mitchell is the communication secretary for the Bethel Church.

Week Of Prayer In Pueblo

By Jan Taylor

The week of April 15-21 was indeed a blessed one for the Claremont Church in Pueblo, Colorado. The Week of Prayer was brought to us by Elder G. H. Taylor of the Denver Park Hill Church. Night after night proved to be interesting, challenging, awakening, and a blessing to all who attended. Each night provided the opportunity for re-dedication and consecration to the Lord's great work.

Sabbath, April 21 was the final topping off of the entire week. Friday night's meeting was thwarted because of bad weather, but Elder Taylor brought the message for Friday night on Sabbath during the eleven o'clock hour and the eleven o'clock message during the Adventist Youth Hour. The wrap-up was a musical extravaganza featuring talent from the Palace of Peach Church (Colorado Springs) and the Claremont Church. The Taylor family featuring the "Four K's" brought several inspiring numbers during the musical.

The Lord really blessed us all, and it will be carried over into our lives for a good while to come. May God bless us all to be ready to meet Him at that Great Day.

Jan Taylor is the communication secretary for the Pueblo Church.

News From Park Avenue

By Clydie Johnson

Park Avenue Seventh-day Adventist Church in St. Louis, Missouri hosted it's Annual Youth Day Program during the month of May. Adventist youth from all the area churches were represented. Park Avenue was proud to have invited it's own Pastor Jay Winston to be it's Youth Day speaker.

Jay spent his early childhood years at Park Avenue, serving as a dedicated member. He graduated with honor from Union College, Lincoln, Nebraska where he met and later married Crystal Bodie, also a Union College graduate. Crystal and Jay were joined in holy matrimony on November 28, 1983. Pastor B. T. Rice of Northside SDA Church officiated. The happily married couple are presently living in Springfield, Missouri where Pastor Winston is the pastor for Independence/Coffeyville/Springfield District churches.

Coming In The Adventist Review

As Adventists, we attach great importance to the doctrine of creation. But what does it mean to be creative? How can a deeper appreciation of literature, music, and art enhance our worship of God? The Adventist Review discusses these questions in its July 5 issue, along with others, such as: What was the attitude of the church's founders and early members toward art? What are some of the church's contemporary artists saying to the world about their faith? How does one of the world's leading orchestra conductors—a Seventh-day Adventist—harmonize his profession and his religious beliefs? An added bonus will be a cover painted especially for this issue by Vernon Nye, loved and respected Adventist illustrator and watercolor artist.

Next Month In Signs

Growing numbers of concerned Christians are convinced that a legislated morality is the only way to restore traditional religious values to America and rescue society from a rising tide of seemingly unsolvable moral problems.

It isn't a new idea, says Roland Hegstad in the July Signs cover article, "When Church Is State." In fact, Nebuchadnezzar reached for the same solution some 2,600 years ago—with disastrous results both for himself and for the nation of Babylon. Others who have tried through centuries to give the church a political voice, have fared no better, something we ought to consider carefully today. Writes Hegstad, "Some would have us believe separation (of church and state) is a dirty word. But it was not separation from which our forefathers fled when first they came to these shores. It was "togetherness", as in church-state alliance."

Can a Christian do nothing, then, to inject his religious values into society? Of course. "There is a difference between religious influence and religious control."

You'll want to read the entire article in the the July Signs. While you're at it, don't overlook:

"The Unforgettable James Simpson". The unusual story of the father of modern anesthesiology, who was also a theologian and ardent follower of Christ.

"Thirty Minutes Can Change Your Life!"

"Can We Save the Family in an Individualistic Age?"

And all the other reading in the July Signs!

Book News From PPPA

Have you been intimidated by the imposing length of Patriarchs and Prophets and the Desire of Ages? Have you been afraid to give them away because of their size? Have you felt they were too expensive to give away? If your answer to any one of these questions is yes, cheer up.

Pacific Press has just released new condensed versions of the Desire of Ages and Patriarchs and Prophets. These new volumes continue the project begun in 1982 with the introduction of the condensed version of the Great Controversy, From Here to Forever. These volumes are condensations not paraphrases or abridgements. The project should be completed by the end of 1984.

From Eternity Past is the new condensed version of the long-time favorite, Patriarchs and Prophets. Mrs. White's style and heaven inspired messages come through clearly. No theological or prophetic concepts have been deleted.

Ellen White's all time classic book on the life of Christ, the Desire of Ages, has also been condensed. It is called From Heaven With Love. Widely read and accepted, the Desire of Ages has brought the message of a loving Saviour to millions. This new edition will do the same.

Both From Eternity Past and From Heaven With Love are available at your Adventist Book Center for just $1.25

Dawn feels she can't win no matter how hard she tries, so why talk about it? And without communication, their dreams of real intimacy have gone out the window. The truth is, no marriage can long survive as a happy union in a milieu of belittlement. Love and respect vanish in such an atmosphere. No one likes being put down. New LIFE SERIES Textbooks

Teachers in the Mid-America Union are being introduced to the latest releases in the new Life Series textbooks at inservice meetings throughout the union this summer.

Levels 13 and 14 of the 15-level series, designed for use in the upper elementary grades, will be appearing in Adventist schools this fall. They are the latest releases in the 72-component series, which is being developed by the General Conference Department of Education and printed by the Review and Herald Publishing Association.

The Life Series textbooks offer a comprehensive developmental reading program of diagnostics, instruction, testing and enrichment. The stories have been carefully chosen to instill strong Christian values and teach church heritage. The skills development program emphasizes comprehension, vocabulary, study and life skills, creativity, language and literature.

Local conference inservice meetings are focusing on both the Christian emphasis and the developmental reading skills in the new books, while providing valuable instruction in the administration and use of the new program.

Go On Building Up One Another

They appeared to be an ideal couple, Dawn and Ken. She, a beautiful, soft-spoken young woman; he, an outgoing, good-natured surgery resident. Our first dinner in their home presented an idyllic picture almost. An attractive, thriftily decorated home, two lively, but very well-behaved children; a delicious meal; friendly, stimulating conversation.

But over time, subsequent visits revealed quite another atmosphere. Ken, though pleasant and amiable outside the home, frequently assumes an overbearing, superior stance when he comes through the front door. "I can't believe you could be so stupid!" "Clumsy, why don't you watch where you're going?" "I've shown you a million times! Can't you learn anything?" "You expect me to accept this?"

New Pitcairn Stamps Available

Two new sets of Pitcairn Island stamps are available from the Voice of Prophecy, according to Roland Rhynus, coordinator of the broadcast's Stamp Project.

The first stamps issued by Pitcairn this year were 13 definitives, picturing fish from the waters near the island. This set is $8.00 postpaid. It replaces a set of definitives issued in 1977 that showed the culture and activities of the south Pacific island.

The latest set of Pitcairn stamps is entitled "Night Skies," and features constellations visible in the Southern Hemisphere. These include the Southern Cross (Crux Australis), the Southern Fish (Piscis Australis), the Lesser Dog (Canis Minor), and the Virgin (Virgo). The set of four stamps is $3.00 postpaid.

Both sets of stamps, or any of the other stamps ever issued by Pitcairn Island, are available from: Voice of Prophecy Stamp Project, Box 55, Los Angeles, CA 90053.

Radio Spots

"In Praise of Age" is the theme for a set of Seventh-day Adventist public service announcements now being aired on radio stations in the United States and Canada. The spots feature children and older persons considering the possibility of love across the age barrier.

Every AM and FM station received the spots on a record disc, according to John Robertson, researcher-producer at the Voice of Prophecy. Besides six 30-second spots, this project includes an original song, "Just a Little Love," composed by Jeff Wood especially for this series.

The song is just over two minutes in length and features the "His Kids" children's choir of the Camarillo (Calif.) Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Each spot is tagged at the end, "Presented by this station and the Seventh-day Adventist Church."

Volunteers Needed In Indonesia

The Adventist English Language Schools have a fine reputation throughout Indonesia. They have proven time and again to be real evangelism nets. Volunteers who can meet the following requirements are needed:

1. Have a B.A. in Education or in teaching English as a second language (TESL), or have two years of teaching experience. Persons with an M.A. in Education or TESL need no teaching experience.
2. Be willing to be a volunteer teacher for two years in the East Indonesia Union Mission in one of the Following cities: Manado, Ujung Pandang and Palu.
3. Housing and GC medical insurance coverage will be provided; however, you are required to pay the round trip fare. Once at your place of labor you will be paid a livable salary. Married couples may also apply, if both husband and wife meet the educational requirements.

All interested persons should write to the Adventist Youth Volunteer Service Corps office located at the General Conference, 6840 Eastern Ave. NW, Washington, DC 20012.

Home Cooking Schools Innovative Outreach Approach

Susan looked up, startled. Who would tap on her car window while she waited for a red light? When she saw who it was, she excitedly cranked her window down, "Hi Nancy! Just a minute while I park my car!"

Several months had passed since Susan had seen Nancy Pisarek, and the two women greeted each other with a hug.

Nancy is the wife of Auburn, California Mayor, Bud Pisarek. Susan is a student at Weimar College. Their friendship began when Susan conducted a home cooking school in the Pisarek's living room. The relaxed, informal atmosphere of the cooking school allowed for spontaneous questions and individualized instruction, but most importantly, it allowed personalities to be bonded together into lasting friendships.

Building friendships is an integral part of any outreach endeavor. "If one half of the sermonizing were done, and double the amount of personal labor given to souls in their homes and in the congregations, a result would be seen that would be surprising." Evangelism, page 430.

Those results are certainly being seen. Jeannie Carr, an instructor from Tennessee says, "A home cooking school is a very effective outreach tool. I found I could insert spiritual material or not depending on the openness of the people in the class, but we always had spiritual discussions." Susan Claridge conducted a fourteen-week class in nearby Rocklin. Her class members, like Jeannie's, regularly involved themselves in discussing religious themes. When an invitation was given at the close of the cooking school to begin a group Bible study, the enthusiastic response was overwhelming.

The home cooking school idea began two years ago with two college girls, Janice Brousson and Dorothea (Wade) Sarli, who were intrigued by the suggestion, "Some should labor from house to house giving instruction in the art of cooking wholesome food." Evangelism, page 527. They took it as a personal challenge and determined to try it.

An opportunity arose sooner than they expected. Within several weeks they found themselves in the home of a lady in their community who had an allergy to wheat. The plan was to teach her to make wheat-free bread. To the girls' great consternation, the bread refused to rise properly, but to their surprise and delight, she remained their friend! Subsequent visits encouraged the relationship, and now Mary regularly receives the missionary journal in the mail.

The goal of Janice and Dorothea was to not only give home cooking schools but also to eventually see the church at large use the idea as an outreach tool. Through the efforts of Earl and Dottie Allen, this dream was realized, and an industry was begun at Weimar Institute to package home cooking school kits. Now Seventh-day Adventists across the nation are using the home cooking school concept to reach their neighbors and friends for Christ.

Nixon Heads G.C. Communication Department

Robert W. Nixon

served as an associate in the Office of General Counsel of the General Con-

The Spring Council of the General Conference elected Robert W. Nixon director of the Department of Communication of the General Conference.

Until his election to the communication post, Nixon ference. He replaces Elder James Chase, who has assumed responsibilities as an assistant for special projects to President Neal C. Wilson.

Nixon's communication background includes degrees in English from Columbia Union College (1961), journalism from Boston University (1964), and law from American University (1974). He is a member of the bars of the State of Maryland and the District of Columbia.

He has worked as a newspaper reporter for a small, Massachusetts daily, teacher of journalism at Atlantic Union College and Columbia Union College, assistant in the former Public Relations Bureau of the General Conference, assistant editor of These Times magazine, book editor at Southern Publishing Association, and associate editor of Liberty magazine. He is currently the executive editor of J.D., a yearly publication for Adventist lawyers and law students.

Most of his published articles have been aimed at audiences outside of the church. He has had printed numerous articles in Liberty, These Times, and J.D., as well as in such diverse publications as Conscience et Liberte, Adventist Education and Primary Treasure. His most recent scholarly articles include "Church and State," co-authored with Professor Albert P. Blaustein of the Rutgers University Law School and printed in Guide to American Law, and "Religious Accommodation: An Often Delicate Task," co-authored with Attorney Lee Boothby of Berrien Springs, Michigan, in the Notre Dame Lawyer.

He is married to the former Ellen Crofoot. They have two children. Brian is an engineer in California and Lynn is a college student living at home.

CRBF Honors Ware

Richard Ware, district representative for Christian Record Braille Foundation in northeastern Kansas, was honored recently for his ministry on behalf of the blind.

Ware, serving Christian Record since 1982, was honored for personally visiting 548 blind Kansas residents during 1983, extending some 4,044 free reading and camping services and offering 1,789 Bible Correspondence services. Christian Record is serving over 23 percent of reported blind in the Sunflower State.

New PPPA Facility

Artist's concept of new facility.

Pacific Press President Eugene Stiles has announced that some of Pacific Press's departments will soon be moving into temporary quarters in Idaho.

Beginning in early June Pacific Press will begin moving the Shipping/Warehousing area into the Kamloop warehouse in West Boise. This warehouse office complex has been leased to house all prepress operations until the new facility in Nampa is ready to be occupied.

It is expected that the staged move will be less disruptive to the overall operations, will help to ease the relocation of families with school age children, avoid a long-distance move in the middle of winter and free up part of the Mountain View property early to the developer. This would provide Pacific Press with some of the sale price sooner, thus making interim financing easier.

If all goes according to schedule, the factory operation should be moved in and operating by year's end, and all of Pacific Press's operations will be combined at the new site by February, 1985.

Harvest Celebration

Despite recent rumors to the contrary, Harvest Celebration is alive and well and living in Lincoln, Nebraska. On the verge of disbanding a year ago as members of the singing group dispersed to follow other pursuits, and budgetary needs surpassed available funds, the troupe has been reactivated under the managerial leadership of Dr. Harry C. Reile, with Ken Smith, only remaining member of the original team, as music director.

Eight members—five men and three women—present an inspirational mix of solo, acappella and taped/instrumental-accompaniment music.

Harvest Celebration singers include director Ken Smith, first tenor; Wendy Waterhouse, second soprano; Steve Newton, second tenor; Lewis Short, bass; Janice Fullwood, first soprano; Lisa Arnold, alto; Bob Duncan, baritone; Mark Matthews, baritone. Mark and Bob also accompany some of the numbers on their guitars.

The testimony in music provided by Harvest Celebration has been a great blessing to the cause of God in the past. We pray His blessing as they continue their ministry for Him.

LLU Sponsors Astronaut Visit To Colorado Springs

Highlighting a special weekend at the Colorado Springs Seventh-day Adventist Church, July 12 through 14, will be Colonel John B. Irwin, former NASA astronaut. The weekend is sponsored by the Loma Linda University Councillors, a select group of individuals who serve as advisors to the president. Colonel Irwin, who served as lunar module pilot on the Apollo 15 mission, will speak on his voyage to and from the moon, his walk on the moon, and his search for Noah's Ark, on Thursday, July 12, at 7:30 p.m.

On Sabbath morning, July 14, Dr. V. Norskov Olsen, retiring president of Loma Linda University, will speak for the 11 o'clock service at the Colorado Springs Church.

Sabbath evening at 7 p.m., Dr. Olsen and the Councillors will be guests at the Denver First Seventh-day Adventist Church for a special report about the University.

Church members, Loma Linda University alumni in the area, and friends in the community are invited to all the meetings.

The Colorado Springs Seventh-day Adventist Church is located at 1305 N. Union Boulevard, Colorado Springs. The Denver First Seventh-day Adventist Church is located at 6200 W. Hampden Avenue, Denver.

Native Camp Meeting Schedule

All native believers and those interested in native ministry are encouraged to attend one or more of these evangelistically oriented camp meetings. Please contact the designated individuals as soon as possible regarding accommodations. Since these meetings are relatively small, it is important to our planning that we have some idea of the number attending.

Fagals Honored on FFT Anniversary

Pastor & Mrs. William A. Fagal were honored with a special reception at the Adventist Media Center on May 21st. The occasion was the 34th anniversary of Faith For Today.

In April of 1950, the pastor of the Brooklyn Avenue Church in New York City was commissioned by the General Conference to begin a television outreach for the church. The Fagals, with no previous experience, had only six weeks to create and produce the program which began live on Sunday evening, May 21, 1950.

Elder and Mrs. William Fagal

The first telecast elicited 66 mail-in responses, the number later grew to 10,000 responses to a single telecast.

Today the program is the oldest continuously broadcast religious program on television. Almost 30,000 people credit Faith For Today with leading them to the church.
