Our Camp Meeting

Inquiries have been received from various portions of the field regarding the annual camp meetings in the Northern Union. It is an inspiration to realize that so many are already laying definite plans to attend these annual convocations. We are anticipating good meetings. The Lord has always been good to His people, and we trust that this year the camp meetings shall be a real spiritual feast to all who attend them. Let all lay plans to spend at least some time with God's people at camp meeting.

The North Dakota and South Dakota camp meetings will convene June 10 to 18, and the Minnesota camp meeting June 16 to 26. We are assured of good help from the General Conference. Elders M. N. Campbell and N. P. Neilsen will visit all the camp meetings. Elder A. W. Peterson, secretary of the Missionary Volunteer Department, will also visit the three camp meetings. The German brethren will be favored with the services of Elder G. W. Schubert, Elder W. K. Ising, and Elder Daniel Isaac. Elder Louis Halswick will also attend the camp meetings in the two Dakotas, while Brother H. O. Olson will visit the Minnesota camp meeting.

This is not too early to begin to lay plans, and pray earnestly that God may in a special way add His blessing to the efforts of the annual meetings. We trust that many shall be privileged to spend at least some time seeking the Lord with those of like precious faith.

Statements from Heaven's Accountant

Should heaven's accountant send out letters and statements to all members delinquent in tithe paying, I wonder just what He would say. If you should receive such a communication, would it read something like the following?

Dear Church Member:

Perhaps you know from experience how hard it is to get ahead as long as a person has outstanding debts.

The best way to handle such things is to make regular systematic payments. Your tithe and offering account amounting to $..... is now very much overdue, and, although your pastor has made mention of this several times, you have failed to respond.

Do you realize that by neglecting this account you are being unfair to yourself, to your wife, and to your family? Heaven has shown you every courtesy, and extended to you many blessings; but to continue this program means that heaven's protection and blessings will have to be withheld.

Trusting that the next monthly report from your church treasurer will show a favorable response on your part, for it would be most difficult for me to believe that you would willingly permit this matter of neglect in tithe paying to separate you from these blessings, I am

Most hopefully yours,
Chief Accountant

Union College Library

Union College needs a new library, and needs it badly. In the first place, the study-room capacity of the present one is inadequate to accommodate the entire student body; consequently, the freshmen are doomed to study in their rooms during the evening study period without library accommodations.

So far as the capacity for books is concerned, the library is still more crowded. The number of books has increased on the average of about two thousand volumes per year, and at present the accession number is well past twenty-three thousand. The major portion of these is housed in the two stack rooms on second floor, a few are kept in the reading room, and some in the reference room. However, these provisions still supply insufficient space for all the books.

Valuable reference books are scattered over five floors in the main building, necessitating the student's losing a great deal of time, or doing without his desired book entirely. The majority of the bound periodicals and sets of books containing several volumes, is kept in what is termed the storage room on fourth floor. Here heavy volumes are stacked on shelves which reach to the ceiling all around the walls, with several stacks in the middle of the room. Therefore, there is danger that the unusual weight may cause a break through the floor. On fifth floor are kept the government documents, and in the vault in the basement are the bound Seventh-day Adventist periodicals and other valuable denominational books, which are available only during the office hours of the business office.

From the point of view of the library attendants, the situation presents still more inconvenience, for "all that goes up must come down," and in library language the opposite is also true. These far-away books are used quite frequently, and, since there is no book elevator, they must be lugged up and down stairs by the attendants. The strain of this heavy lifting is often too great, for many of the library workers are girls.

The library work-room, too, is very crowded. Supplies run out because there is not room to keep them on hand. At times it seems that all the attendants wish to use the same desk or typewriter at the same time, and, consequently, there is a general muddle. This lack of efficiency and waste of time due to crowded conditions and scattered facilities adds to the expense of school operation.

Furthermore, the environment inside the library is not conducive to study, for to study effectively one must be in pleasant surroundings. Such an atmosphere is not possible in the present library. Marred tables give a feeling of depression, rough chairs snag hose, and squeaking floors register and magnify the sound of footsteps. Moreover, because of the position of the library, all the noise which naturally attends the passing of classes, floats into the reading room and grates on nerves already somewhat shattered. Besides this noise, from the workroom may be heard the low rumble of voices of the library workers carrying on their necessary routine duties.

Another hazard is the danger of fire. At present someone is paid to stay in the library during all services held in the chapel, in order to open doors and windows leading to the south fire-escape which must be used in case of fire. This, too, is an additional expense. But if fire should actually break out, it would spread very rapidly in a frame building with plenty of books for fuel. Thousands of dollars would be needed to replace such an extensive collection of books and many of the rare books could never be replaced.

The new library now in process of construction will provide a remedy for all the defects of the old one. It will be a modern, fire-proof building. Its floors will put an end to unnecessary noise. It will be isolated from the hustle and bustle of passing classes. The antiquated chairs and tables will in time be replaced by new ones, and there will be no more lugging of books up and down stairs from the far corners of the building to the library and back again. But best of all, there will be room enough to breathe and study without undue crowding.

Important Notice

Please remember that only our visiting ministers will be served meals in the Minnesota camp meeting cafeteria on Sabbath this year. This will make it possible for all our cafeteria helpers to attend the Sabbath services and will not necessitate the selling of meals during the sacred hours of the Sabbath.

Those who are camping on the grounds will plan during the preparation day so that they can care for their own meals in their tents. Those who drive in on Sabbath morning are invited to bring their lunches with them.

We are sure that all of our people in Minnesota will greatly appreciate this step toward more careful observance of the Sabbath hours and will cooperate fully. V. E. Peugh.

Editor Praises Adventists

A very high tribute to Seventh-day Adventist missionary work was given in the AUSTIN DAILY HERALD of March 3, 1938. Those that have been faithful in the support of the Harvest Ingathering work and mission work in general should be happy for this high compliment paid to our mission work. The following article was written from Belem, Para, Brazil, January 27, 1938, by Mrs. John Skinner, associate editor of the AUSTIN DAILY HERALD, and a leading figure in the Austin community. Mr. and Mrs. Skinner are on a tour of South America, and the reports of their tour are printed in the AUSTIN HERALD of which Mr. and Mrs. Skinner are editors. Quoting from the article:

"We met a Seventh-day Adventist missionary and his wife today. She was a good looking American girl who had married a Brazilian. I would have liked a visit with them but we were ready for some jaunt and the party kept calling for me to hurry. Here as elsewhere their work is mentioned with respect. They heal the body as well as save the soul, and we find no place in the world where they do not work and accomplish something for the people they serve. We recalled Dolly and Paul Williams in far-away Hong Kong; and here on the Amazon were two young people trained for service and going out from all the comforts of what we term civilization, leaving loved ones and home to find the sick and heal them and lift burdens from those heavy-laden. Be assured every cent you contribute to the Harvest Ingathering is money well spent. Our faith in Seventh-day Adventist missions has never been shaken, however we may feel toward some others."

Mr. and Mrs. Skinner have traveled extensively all over the world for many years, and have first hand information concerning our missionary work in many foreign lands. Another very interesting item was mentioned to Brother Charles Rosenthal, missionary leader of our Austin church. The experience was related by the same Mrs. Skinner after their tour to South America last spring. A South American gentleman was lecturing to a group on the ocean liner. Speaking of the reaction of people in South America to the North Americans, he stated that the people of South America did not care for the organizations that were fostering work in their country. He stated that they did not care for North Americans' manner of living, their habits, their dress or anything they did. After talking at length he stated, "But there is one group or organization in South America that we South Americans like, and they have been a great help to us, but I just don't recall their name." Mrs. Skinner, who was in that group on the liner rose to her feet and said, "I think, Mr. Speaker, I can tell you who those people are. We have met them in all countries of the world in our travels. You refer to the work of Seventh-day Adventists, do you not?" The speaker's fist came down with a bang on the table and he said, "Yes, that's the people."

Certainly these tributes should be an inspiration to us.

A. L. Bietz

(I would suggest clipping the above article and preserving it until Harvest Ingathering time, as I believe many will find it helpful then.—Editor.)

That Broken-down Automobile

A short time ago one of our church members at Mankato, Minnesota, had an automobile breakdown. This brother lives about five miles in the country, on a truck farm, where he grows watermelons and muskmelons.

One day as he was going home from town, his auto stopped. He was unable to locate the trouble, and while he was perplexed to know what he should do, a packing house truck driver from Albert Lea came along the highway. The kind driver stopped to lend assistance, and finally offered to push our brother's car all the way home, which necessitated his going more than a mile off the main highway.

When the kind deed was completed, our brother offered to pay him, but the driver declined any remuneration. So our brother said, "We raise quite a lot of watermelons, but they are not yet ripe. If you will stop when they are ripe, you shall have all the melons you want."

Later on the truck driver came back. It happened to be on a Sabbath afternoon, but the man knew nothing about Sabbath-keeping. However, he found our brother dressed in his best clothes, and everything around had, to the truck driver, the appearance of Sunday. So he asked, "Is there a funeral anywhere, or are you just going to visit some place? I must not intrude, but will stop some other time." In answer, our brother informed him that it was the Sabbath day, and that they were Seventh-day Adventists. He said, "I have never heard of such a church and people." So the brother told him of the message for this generation, of the glorious hope of the soon-coming of our Lord, and that he who has this hope must purify himself even as He is pure, that this preparation for His coming includes the keeping of the ten commandments, and therefore the observance of the seventh-day Sabbath according to the commandment.

We were then conducting a series of meetings in Albert Lea, about which our brother told the truck driver and urged him to attend. So he and his wife came. Arrangements were made for special Bible studies, which were also attended by another family who were their friends. Then we were called away from Albert Lea and were not able to continue the studies; however, our Mankato brother sent this man the Signs of the Times, and he became a constant reader of it.

Less than a year passed by, and another company of workers was sent to Albert Lea. Then these two families began to attend the services. More Bible studies were given, and both families were baptized. They are now active in the church, and the one brother has become Sabbath school superintendent.

Doubtless the Lord had a purpose in the broken-down automobile, for it gave the brother an opportunity to send the Signs of the Times, which had much to do with winning these honest souls to the truth.

Greetings from California

It is always enjoyable to hear from the children after they have been gone from home for some time, and I am sure you will consider Elder and Mrs. Johns as a part of your great family.

It was my privilege a few evenings ago to participate with a group of former Minnesota friends in a surprise birthday gathering on Mrs. Johns at the home of Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Leggit in Glendale, California. Elder Johns and family are looking very well, and in spite of his heavy work as dean of Bible at the College of Medical Evangelists and pastor of the college church, he seemed to enjoy the evening of laughter and games, also the dainty refreshments which were served.

Mrs. Leggit is a sister of Elder Johns, and the following guests, most of whom were former Minnesota friends, were present: Elder Johns' mother; Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Stewart; Mr. and Mrs. Leland Stewart; Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Provencher; Mrs. Granbois and daughter, Mildred; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wagner; Mrs. Flora Pearson; Mrs. A. C. Schaefer; Mr. Loyd V. Clark, manager of the Glendale Sanitarium; and Mrs. Clark, who is a cousin of Mrs. Johns. I am sure that Elder Johns would forward his regards and best wishes to all his former associates in Minnesota were he aware of the fact that this message is being sent to you.

Rochester

The believers in district No. 6 were pleased to have Elder and Mrs. E. H. Oswald spend the week-end, April 29-May 1, in our section. They came to Dodge Center on Friday for an evening service, also remained there for the Sabbath school and morning service; then came on to Rochester for the afternoon service and evening community hour. We were glad to see a number from Red Wing, Dodge Center, and Winona at the Rochester service. The congregation was large and the time was very profitable to us all.

Following the Sabbath school Elder Oswald lead out in the ordination of Dr. G. A. Koelsche as elder of the Rochester church. Doctor Koelsche, with his kindly and deeply spiritual companion, have been of unmeasured help to the advent cause in this city. They have the fullest confidence of the membership and we know God will abundantly bless our brother's ministry in this church for a larger and stronger work.

The sermon by Elder Oswald, on the responsibility of the church as the instrumentality through which the Lord reveals Himself, and by which He carries on His work of salvation, was greatly appreciated. To each was given a clearer vision of what it means to live as a disciple of our Lord Jesus. The practical application of Christian principles in everyday life stirred all hearts. We sincerely hope these dear followers of Christ may be permitted to come again soon to worship with us. They remained over night as our guests so we had time for much appreciated counsel concerning our work. Returning to Minneapolis they stopped for a service at Red Wing.

Missions Extension

Watching the early returns from the Missions Extension offering from the churches is to me more exciting and interesting than early reports from the polls on election day. I have before me the record of what each church gave last year (complete returns at the end of 1937) and I compare the amounts in the April remittances with 1937 totals. Would you like to know what these comparisons reveal? Look them over, but don't forget that in almost every case there are pledges and also money from books that will come in later.

Important Announcement

Because of unfavorable weather the dedication of the Bowdon Village church could not be held last November as had been planned, and it was postponed indefinitely. Arrangements have now been made to have this dedication on Sabbath, May 21. A meeting will be held on Friday evening, May 20, at 7:30. The Sabbath school will begin at ten o'clock on Sabbath morning and the dedicatory service will begin at eleven.

Elder E. H. Oswald has been invited to preach the dedicatory sermon. Elder J. H. Roth, president of the South Dakota Conference, has kindly accepted an invitation to attend and he will speak in the afternoon. There will also be a meeting in the evening at 7:30. A cordial invitation is hereby extended to all who may be able to attend these services.

There are two other churches that are to be dedicated during the summer, one in Napoleon, the other in Grand Forks. Further announcement will be made later.

Investiture Services

On April 20 it was the writer's privilege to conduct an investiture service at Beach. A fine program was given by four Juniors. All parts of the Friends class requirements were woven into the program. The Beach church members were proud of what the Juniors had accomplished and the work that the church school teacher, Gideon Hochstetter, had done.

On April 28 Elder Gant and the writer stopped at Bowdon for an evening meeting. Just before the regular meeting eleven Juniors were invested. That church was also proud of the work that Sister Remboldt had done with the Junior progressive class. Yes, these courses are doing a great deal for our Juniors.

On May 7 the writer invested a class of sixteen in the Pleasant Valley schoolhouse where several families meet each Sabbath. This class had been instructed by Elmer Krueger who is teaching public school nearby. We appreciate what Brother Krueger has done for the young people in that part of the State.

Reports are coming in that many more will be ready to be invested soon. Our prayer is that God may bless our leaders who do their work so faithfully. We hope that all those who desire to be invested at camp meeting will soon write in to the conference and let us know of their plans.

Camp Meeting Information

The time of our camp meeting is approaching very rapidly. It is, as you no doubt know by this time, from June 10 to 18. The camp meeting will be held in Jamestown, in the City Park, as in former years.

The prices of accommodations were fixed by our committee a short time ago, and they are as follows:

New 12x14 tent	$4.50
Old 12x14 tent	2.50
Tent Fly	1.00
Double Springs	.75
Single Springs	.40

Other miscellaneous items that help to make you more comfortable, may be obtained when you arrive on the grounds.

The dining room will be operated on the cafeteria plan. A grocery store will also be operated, and the prices will be in keeping with the general food prices.

We are planning a large display of our denominational books. A number of new books have come from the press since last camp meeting and these will all be on display. A fine line of Bibles will be displayed. Begin to lay by even now so you will have a little ready cash to take with you some of these splendid books for your own library, and you will also want to take some home for missionary purposes. The usual camp meeting discount will be allowed.

We are looking forward to seeing a great gathering of God's people from the entire State. Make plans to attend the entire time.

Wedding

The evening of May 1 it was the writer's privilege to join in marriage Laurine Schield and Dave Wiebe. The wedding took place in the Harvey church. Music was furnished by one of the students from Scheyenne River Academy. The wedding supper was served at the home of Brother and Sister Schield.

We wish God's blessing to attend this couple as they make their home at Walla Walla, Washington.

Are You a Reader of the Review?

The above is a pointed question and you have often heard it said that the REVIEW AND HERALD should be coming to every Seventh-day Adventist home. It seems that taking the Seventh-day Adventist home on a percentage basis, there are less people today that are readers of the REVIEW AND HERALD, than there were in the past.

After giving the matter consideration, we find that some of the homes that are established by our young people are not subscribers to the REVIEW. Some feel that the important message the REVIEW brings is not necessary in the home. It would be a good plan that when our married young people set up a home for themselves, they should remember the REVIEW AND HERALD as a part of their expense budget as they would in planning their household comforts.

It might be well that we take a brief survey of the REVIEW. Taking the frontispiece first, we have some very pointed and interesting statements that are uplifting and inspirational. Then comes the "Heart to Heart Talks" by the editors, on various spiritual topics. Next comes a series of articles that deal with the events of the day from the historical standpoint, good sermons, and general articles on doctrinal points such as "Righteousness by Faith," "Sanctuary Question," and other kindred topics. In another section are the reports and information from mission lands. How glad we are to get this information that deals with the progress of the word in all the world. Then come a few pages that deal with the family circle; that is always an interesting section of the REVIEW and should be read by our young people who are looking forward to setting up their home and assuming the responsibilities of a family. Also there are reports from our educational, publishing, and medical institutions in different parts of the world; counsel and information that warn us against heresies, and errors that seek to creep in from different sources.

All of these things are food for the spiritual life, healing balm for the discouraged and disheartened. Surely there is no other paper published by the denomination that should fortify us in the advent faith as does the REVIEW.

Again we say, the REVIEW should be in every Adventist home. The regular price is $2.75 but from May 7 to June 4, the publishers are offering the REVIEW at a reduced price of $2.25. Come, place your subscription with our Book and Bible House now.

Camp Meeting

The annual convocation of the people of God in the State of South Dakota is drawing on apace. In most sections of the field our people are making preparations to attend. The following workers from the General Conference will be in attendance:

M. N. Campbell, President of the North American Division.

N. P. Neilsen, President of the South American Division.

G. W. Schubert and W. K. Ising will speak to the German congregations. Then aside from these brethren, the union conference and local conference workers will be present.

Come, brethren, bring your children and neighbors to this camp meeting; and pray that the Lord may meet His people in these most important times.

News Items

Elder Roth visited Spearfish and other points in the Black Hills district over the last week-end. On his way back he stopped at Chamberlain Sunday night to visit the effort being conducted by the Laudas and Sister Stewart. A goodly interest is being manifest in the truth presented at Chamberlain, although the attendance is not large. The workers there are hopeful of good results.

John Bitzer is holding a lay effort in Seneca. A good interest is shown in the Bible studies and illustrated talks he gives in the homes of the people.

Elder Bresee reports some interest at Box Elder.

It is somewhat early to report the amounts received on the special offering for our Indian work taken Sabbath, May 7. However good reports are coming in. Some of our isolated people are sending in $10.00, some more, some less. One sister sent in a ring which was sold and brought nearly $10. Perhaps there are others who wish to follow this good example.

Elder Gant visited a number of churches in the South Dakota Conference recently, and his ministry was appreciated.

Elder P. D. Gerrard recently visited Sioux Falls and Colman. Much good has resulted from his visit.

Commencement at Plainview Academy

Since it was not practicable to have musical tours this spring, here at Plainview Academy, we have been putting forth an extra effort to have our school in nice shape for commencement week-end, May 20-22.

We want to extend an invitation to all the patrons in South Dakota who live close enough, to drive in and spend the Sabbath with us. Elder R. F. Bresee will speak on Friday evening at the consecration service. Elder C. M. Babcock will speak at the baccalaureate service Sabbath morning at eleven o'clock. On Sabbath afternoon the music department is putting on a musical program, and on Saturday night the senior class will give their class night program. Elder K. L. Gant will deliver the commencement address at 10 o'clock on Sunday morning. The seniors are working hard on their class program and it will be well worth your while to come in for these exercises. All who have children for Plainview Academy are invited to come. Our facilities for sleeping are not as ample as we wish, but we will try and arrange for you. It would be nice for those who are close enough, to come for the Sabbath services. You will be guests of the academy while here. An offering will be taken to help defray the extra dining room expenses.

Sioux City School and Investiture Service

A large number of parents and friends gathered in the church auditorium at Sioux City for the closing church school program and investiture service. It was the first time many of those present had witnessed an investiture service and judging from the comments made, the service was very impressive. Elder Tucker was with us for the occasion.

Eleven students were invested as Friends, three as Companions, and three as Comrads. In addition to these, five young people joined us from Onawa under the leadership of Sister Ross, the church school teacher there. These were invested with Companion honors. We trust that the high ideals for which these insignia stand, will continue to inspire these students to be leaders in the great work of finishing the gospel message.

Sabbath School Diamond Jubilee

We would like to mention again that the General Conference Sabbath School Department is now conducting a world-wide Diamond Jubilee, the object of which is to find all the members who belong to the church, but are missing from the Sabbath school. There are one thousand of these in the Iowa Conference. As you read this, dear reader, will you please check up on the following points?

1. Am I enrolled in the Sabbath school in the church of which I am a member? If not, I am a missing member. If my membership is in one church and my Sabbath school membership in another, the church to which I belong has a missing member.

2. Do I belong to the conference church? If I do, I am duty-bound to send my Sabbath school report to the conference office. If I do not do this every quarter, I am a missing member.

3. Do I live out of the State? Then it is my duty to have my membership changed to the State in which I reside or the church to which I am giving my offerings. If I do not send my report and offerings back to the church to which I belong, I am a missing member and some one else has to make up my quota of offerings as all goals are based on church membership and not Sabbath school membership.

4. Am I a loyal Seventh-day Adventist? Then it is my duty to cooperate with the General Conference Sabbath School Department and see that I will no longer be a missing member, if I am one now.

5. Is it necessary to report even if I do not give an offering? It certainly is. If not, I am a missing member.

Iowa Sanitarium News Items

Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Reek of Sioux City were recently at the sanitarium for a week-end and had their tonsils removed.

Dr. A. E. Gilbert paid a visit to A. P. Hansen of Exira on Tuesday. Brother Hansen is making an excellent recovery.

A. R. Trickett, of Knoxville; Bertha Brehmer, of Atlantic; also Katherine French and her father of Greenwood, are among our recent arrivals.

Joyce Coleman of Des Moines was recently here for an examination; also Mr. and Mrs. Will Clark of Lincoln, Nebraska, stopped with us for a day while passing through.

The sanitarium has obtained one of the latest anesthetic machines with which to administer such anesthetics as cyclopropane, ethylene, nitrous-oxide and other gases. This now enables us to give the same service of that kind as hospitals in larger communities.
