CONSIDER HIGHWAY IN LOCAL MASS MEETING

ENGINEER UNFOLDS PLAN

Parkways to Link Washington With Baltimore in Direct Route of Highways

Citizens of Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties, Md., held a mass meeting at the Prince Georges County School Tuesday evening, Feb. 4. Chief Engineer Irving C. Root, of the Maryland-National Capitol Park and Planning Commission, was the chief speaker of the evening.

Mr. Root displayed the master map of the proposed roads which he recently submitted to the planning commission for completion.

The new road will provide one of the shortest and most direct routes from the center of population in Washington, D. C., to Baltimore, Md.

The road will go by way of New Hampshire Avenue to the District (Concluded on page 2)

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION HOLDS MEETING HERE

The Nurses' Alumni Association of the Washington Sanitarium and Hospital met at the home of Dr. A. W. Truman Sunday evening, Feb. 2, at 7:30 o'clock.

Fifty-five persons were present at the meeting. Prof. C. E. Weniger spoke on the fundamental principles of parliamentary law. The speech was requested because many nurses and doctors are often asked to take part in or to take charge of meetings, and have had no training in the field of speech.

Prof. Weniger illustrated methods of procedure and drilled the members by giving various persons a chance at being chairman of the Association. (Concluded on page 2)

SHENANDOAH SCHOOL THREATENED BY FIRE

Students of Shenandoah Valley Academy are calm once more after a fire scare caused by a blaze which threatened to demolish the girls' school home.

About a week ago a gust of smoke was seen coming from the academy storeroom. The Misses Rachel Christman and Grace Lee, both former W. M. C. students, were first to arrive at the burning room. They quickly went to work with a fire extinguisher and were soon re-enforced by academy boys with all available fire-fighting apparatus.

Miss Beatrice Holquist, also a College alumna, herded the girls into the chapel room to prevent the excited students from starting a panic.

After 30 minutes of fighting the flame which partially destroyed a wall of the storeroom, the fire was finally extinguished. Had it not been checked at that time, the building would have been lost, for there are no facilities outdoors for hose attachment.

CLUB INSPECTS NEWLY FOUND BIBLE EXHIBIT

GIVES BIBLICAL PROGRAM

A collection of 100 exhibits of natural products mentioned in the Bible was displayed for the first time at Washington Missionary College last Saturday evening during the course of the English Club meeting. The collection, which is now in the hands of Prof. C. E. Weniger, was found recently in the Biology laboratory in College Hall.

Examine Collection

About 30 minutes of the program was devoted to examination of the rare collection. Samples of the locust John the Baptist had for food, of the thorns of which Christ's crown was made, of the wood that went into the ark of the covenant, and of the cedar of Lebanon were all on exhibition.

Clifford Tempest gave an introduction. (Concluded on page 3)

UNION LEADERS IMPROVE AFTER OPERATIONS

Elders F. H. Robbins and J. S. Washburn underwent operations Thursday morning, Jan. 30, at the Washington Sanitarium by Dr. A. W. Truman, medical director, and Dr. D. E. Davenport, his assistant.

Elder Robbins has been president of the Columbia Union Conference for the past ten years, and is chairman of the Washington Missionary College Board. The prayer, offered by the physicians before the operation was performed, deeply impressed him.

"I am truly thankful for our Christian institutions, and I have great confidence in our Christian doctors and nurses," he said. He is improving rapidly.

Elder Washburn is associated with the Columbia Union Conference as a traveling evangelist. He pioneered in gospel work in Washington, D. C., beginning in 1890.

Through the guidance of Mrs. Ellen G. White he raised enough money to build the College and Sanitarium in its original form. The physicians have promised Elder Washburn that he may leave within two weeks to continue his work.

MUSIC ORGANIZATIONS PLAN FOR PROGRAMS

The combined musical talent of Washington Missionary College is strenuously preparing for a long series of spring concerts. Under the direction of Mrs. R. L. Walin, Mrs. Ethel Knight-Casey, and Profs. H. A. Miller and V. Johnson, the Music Department has a record enrollment.

The Students' Association Glee Club, under the direction of Prof. Johnson, is rehearsing for a series of short trips on which its members will sing for the interest of the College. The glee club is composed of eighteen members. Not willing to be outdone, (Concluded on page 2)

FACULTY MEMBERS ARE GIVEN RECEPTION

On Thursday evening, January 30, the Home Economics Department gave a reception to the College faculty in the Home Economics rooms.

Almost 50 faculty members were present. The entertainment began with the serving of sandwiches, punch, salad, cake, candy and marshmallow dessert.

A group of songs was sung by Mrs. R. L. Walin, and readings were given by Prof. C. E. Weniger, Dean G. E. Jones and Miss Rozetta Thurston.

The remainder of the musical part of the program was given by Prof. V. Johnson who played a violin solo, and by a string quartet composed of Miss Grace Nicola, Miss Mildred McClary, Edwin Harkins and Prof. Johnson. Toward the close of the program the members of the faculty gave toasts to the Home Economics Department.

ELDER WILL SPEAK ON LAST GENERATION

"The Last Generation" will be the subject of Elder W. R. French's sermon to the Sligo church, Sabbath, Feb. 8.

There has been a time limit for everything which God has done in the past, and as God is unchangeable, there must be a time limit for the last generation. Elder French will give Biblical proof for his belief that the world is now living in the last generation.

SAN RECORDERS JOIN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION

Organization Raises Standards of Clinical Chronologies

Perlie de F. Henderson, statistician of the Washington Sanitarium and Hospital, and Miss Deena Ingels, secretary to Dr. A. W. Truman, both record librarians of the Sanitarium, have joined the Association of Record Librarians of North America.

The Association was organized to promote and elevate the standards of clinical records in medical institutions, to serve as a means of intercommunication among record librarians, and to encourage the training of record librarians so that they may render intelligent service and assist in the promotion of efficiency in medical institutions.

Mr. Henderson and Miss Ingels are the first in the Seventh-day Adventist denomination to join the association.

Any sanitarium, hospital or dispensary desiring to have its librarians join the organization must be approved (Concluded on page 2)

MINISTERIAL SEMINAR ATTRACTS BIG CROWD

"Devil Worship" was the theme of the Theological Seminar held Friday evening in Columbia Hall. More than 100 students crowded into the Bible classroom to hear three speakers: a former missionary, an ex-marine, and a former spiritualist.

Dr. B. G. Wilkinson, former missionary to Haiti, told how the worshippers give their lives into the control of their "personal devils," who exercise (Concluded on page 2)

Joy Bird Scatters Sunshine Happiness By J. L.

It was a dirty morning. A cold uncomfortable drizzle ushered it in. The sun had forgotten to rise. So had the janitor.

That wouldn't have mattered so much—about the janitor I mean. But I had two lessons to get, and an alarm set for five doesn't bring steam into a radiator, or anything else.

Up on the third floor is a fellow with a canary—name of Joy, I think—the songster.

"I learned something this morning, J. L.," he said. "Feeling perfectly disgruntled, I was. There wasn't a speck of sun on my day's horizon.

"Well, I take the cover from Joy's cage at six each morning. Each time without fail he peals forth with song. Today, he sang sweeter and more lustily than ever.

"Do you know, J. L., it's the sun outside shining in that makes us as we look, but it's the sun inside shining out that shows folks what we are."

I wonder. That does sound straight, doesn't it?

STUDENT ASSOCIATION TO GIVE NOVEL PROGRAM AND HAVE MARCH

PLANS READ IN MEETING

Nominating Committee Chosen by Association and Staff Officers Presented

By Ollie Mae Robertson

Washington Missionary College will have the year's first social evening "of the students, by the students and for the students" next Saturday evening, Feb. 8, at 8 o'clock in Columbia Hall.

The Students' Association, which will sponsor the program, has provided for 45 minutes of musical entertainment to include several unusual features. Miss Florence Carlson will play selections on her xylophone, and Horton McLennan, of radio fame, will produce melody on his musical saw.

The College male quartet, consisting of Winston Adams, Melvin Davis, Horton McLennan and Millard Bradley, promises some old favorites, as well as new songs. Maynard Bourdeau, chairman of the evening, predicts that the impromptu speeches which will be called for during the program will prove to be a great success, at least from the viewpoint of the audience.

After the congregational singing, to be led by the Association chorister, the student body will go to the College gymnasium for a spirited march led by Paul Applegate. The music for the march will be provided by the College Band. The program committee did not reveal the evening's closing feature, but its members announce that it will not consist of intellectual "food."

This report was made by Maynard Bourdeau, social secretary, in the Association meeting yesterday morning. During the course of the meeting the (Concluded on page 3)

MEN'S COOKING CLASS STARTS ITS ROUTINE

The first men's cooking class ever organized at W. M. C. met Jan. 26 for the first class session.

Miss Anna Roedel, the instructor and head of the Home Economics Department, started the class in making biscuits, cakes and rolls.

The class meets every Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock for the discussion of the theory of the cooking art.

Last Sunday the class made apple pies. After all the cooking was over, the members enjoyed partaking of the foods they had prepared. The only hard part, according to them, is washing the dishes.

Miss Roedel has suggested that the class organize a men's cooking club. She says she is well pleased with the co-operation which the class gives her. Miss Roedel aims to make this a model cooking class for the denomination.

The class members are: Sterrie Wellman, Ferdinand Welebir, Harry Fish, Milton Prout, Carl Laubach, Serick Livsey and Edward Blythin.

PRINTERS WANTED

More individuals have been brought to a knowledge of truth through reading than by any other way. Thus, students who line themselves up to take the courses offered in printing, not only gain a knowledge of the printing trade, but they prepare for an active part in the best means of spreading the best truths that have ever been revealed to man.

The need for capable workers in foreign fields in denominational publishing houses is very great. Consequently an opportunity is not a rarity. Just this year an alumnus of W. M. C. was sent to occupy a place of responsibility in the mission publishing house at Cape Town, South Africa.

W. M. C. offers four courses in printing which include a study of all the printing industry departments. Why not plan now to enter one of these courses next year?

TAKE COURAGE

"Speak louder!" There are people in this world who may do well to heed the injunction. They have ideas—good ones, possibly, and then again, maybe not so good. But they so veil their real beliefs that their friends must plead with them to speak loud enough so that they can have the benefit of their views. We should rather have them disagree with us than give such an uncertain, unsatisfactory impression.

Of such a type is the committee member who refuses to take a definite stand on the subject under consideration until he sees how his influential associates vote. Such is the person who, when asked a question, fires an answering query as to your attitude. Such also is the man who holds his seat firmly when an important vote is being taken, fearful that by expressing himself in either way he may be found on the losing side.

This world needs men who will stand up for their convictions kindly and tactfully, but definitely. It looks for "men who possess opinions and a will"—men who, like Henry Clay, "would rather be right than be president"—men who need not the suggestion, "Speak louder, please!"

A PRESENT HELP

We were thinking, the other day, of the man who had the courage and seeming boldness to stand up and say to the sun: "Sun, stand thou still, . . . and thou, moon, do likewise." We wondered about it. Where did the man get the power to say anything like that to a body as powerful as the sun? And the wonder of it all was that it obeyed him. It actually stood still. So we investigated and found out that it was this same man who had lain for hours prostrate on the earth in prayer in his camp at Gilgal.

"The men of prayer are the men of power," power to master science, to sway audiences, to do all things that are honorable.

God does not restrict His blessings to our spiritual welfare. A word from us, and angels step in to help us through every difficulty. If the lesson in Greek is hard, the Master Teacher is by your side ready to impart wisdom. History tedious? He who "removeth kings, and setteth up kings" is there to give you understanding.

And so it is with all our studies, all our activities—all heaven is interested in our education and is eager to help. But we must remember that God is courteous. "He will not break through the hospitality of any man's soul."

THE TOURIST

One of the unusual places that Mr. and Mrs. Tourist are apt to overlook is the Fish Commission which occupies the old antebellum arsenal in Armory Square at Sixth and B streets.

On the ground floor is that part of the building which will prove to be of the greatest interest to the tourist. In the center of the floor is a large pool containing practically every kind of fish that swims in American waters and many others.

Leading from the central portion of the building are several corridors and anterooms. In the walls of several of these hallways are aquariums filled with growing plants and inhabited by rare and common fish, and many other colorful swimming and creeping creatures which ordinarily dwell in the rivers and seas. In other corridors and anterooms are paintings of many kinds of fish, and others depicting the processes involved in the fishing industry. In other rooms various forms of apparatus used in incubation can be examined.

If, perchance, one of the railway cars in which the young fish are carried about the country to be planted in inland waters, should be standing in the yard, it would be well worth while to inspect its arrangements.

The upper floor of the building contains the offices of the fish commissioner and his assistants. Here the details for propagation and distribution of useful food fish—the salmon fisheries, Alaskan fur-seal industries and the like—are supervised.

The building is open from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. Any car marked "Wharves" on Seventh street or Fourth street goes directly to the Fish Commission.

Mr. Henderson was called by the Washington Sanitarium a few years ago to build up the record library to its present degree of efficiency. It is through his work that the library can be recognized as that of an approved institution of health.

Besides having current records in his two-room office, Mr. Henderson has two basement rooms filled with files containing records which date back to the founding of the institution. Mr. Henderson is an alumnus of Washington Missionary College.

The College women have also formed a glee club with the same number of singers. The men's glee club will assist in the Association benefit program.

Prof. H. A. Miller has now 41 private students in pianoforte. He is planning a group of student recitals in the near future. Mrs. E. K. Casey, his assistant, has 33 students under her instruction. She is using a clever device to encourage them in practicing. Girls receive a plain bead for each rehearsal and a pearl bead for five plain beads. Boys receive marbles and later agates.

Many children show remarkable talent under the careful eye of Prof. Victor Johnson, the violin instructor. In addition to teaching, he conducts the two College orchestras and the College Band.

The Voice Department under the direction of Mrs. R. L. Walin is also very prosperous this year. There are more advanced students in singing than ever before.

The new road along New Hampshire Avenue provides for parking space on both sides, with a 50-foot runway in the center. The road along the Sligo Branch will be laid out on both sides of the stream. Playgrounds will be added to the proposed park. The assessments were collected from the abutting property owners ten years ago, and therefore this project will not require additional payments by Takoma Park taxpayers.

Mrs. I. M. Evans presided over the meeting. Mayor Ben G. Davis, of Takoma Park, and other representatives of local civic associations explained all action taken by their organizations on the proposed construction program.

Miss Reba Williams discontinued her nursing at the Sanitarium to go to Philadelphia, where she is aiding Elder M. R. Coon's effort by giving health talks preceding his Sunday night lectures. Her work will be to cultivate an interest in good health principles in Philadelphia. Elder Coon is a brother to L. Orville Coon.

COSMIC RAY

The Cosmic Ray met last Saturday evening in College Hall at 7:30 o'clock.

New officers for the second semester were elected. They are: president, Charles Coggin; vice-president, Helen Marschner; secretary, Carl Jones; treasurer, Wesley Herbert.

Prof. E. C. Blue spoke on hydrogen ion concentration and control which is given the chemical symbol Hp. Hydrogen ion control is a process for measuring the acidity of fluids. The secretions and the excretions of the body have a certain amount of acid. The only way to get accurate measurement of its amount is to use the hydrogen ion control method.

Patients entering a hospital can easily be tested for acid reactions. In this way the physician can often quickly locate the patient's trouble. Prof. Blue explained the testing process.

Andrew Hanson told of his connection with devil worshipers when he was sent to the West Indies with other United States marines to restore order among the natives. He stressed the fact that darkest heathenism existed only a few miles from civilized homes.

In one story he told how men act when they become insane. One of these natives, after being instructed by his devil, secretly took the lives of fifteen children to satisfy his spirit.

James Stanley related his personal experiences in spiritualistic seances. He said that he had watched spirits take shape from within three feet of the place in which he was sitting at the time of the performance.

MRS. MILLER SPEAKS TO SAN VOLUNTEERS

"China is looking to nurses for help in healing its diseases," was the personal appeal made in the Sanitarium Missionary Volunteer Society last Friday evening by Mrs. H. W. Miller, wife of Dr. Miller, former director of the Washington Sanitarium and Hospital.

Mrs. Miller arrived in the United States in August, 1929, after a five-year stay in China as medical missionary. She told the interesting experiences which she and her husband had in pioneering the medical work in Shanghai. A large building was bought in an influential section of the city, and Dr. and Mrs. Miller set about to equip it as a sanitarium.

Several days before the opening, 200 invitations to attend the ceremony were sent out to prominent people in the city. The workers did all they could to make the sanitarium attractive, and stayed up all night before the opening day to put on the finishing touches.

As a result, several thousand dollars were contributed by well-to-do Chinese citizens and Americans who are living there. The Sanitarium has grown rapidly and now the annual profit amounts to $60,000. Plans are under way to erect another in the near future. Sun Yat Sen, the late president of China, and his wife have both been patients at the Shanghai Sanitarium.

ELDER MAC NEIL OPENS CITY LECTURE SERIES

Elder J. W. MacNeil, pastor of the Capital-Memorial church, opened a series of lectures on Bible prophecy in the Capital-Memorial church, Fifth and F streets, last Sunday evening. The topic of the lecture last Sunday was, "How to Make Washington a Better City."

The series of lectures will continue throughout the winter months. Elder MacNeil intends to discuss present-day problems in the light of the prophecies.

He conducted a similar series of lectures at North Capital and D streets a year ago.

A scene based on the latter part of the sixteenth chapter of I Samuel was presented to the club. Miss Vera La Michia played soothing music on the harp such as David probably played before Saul in Bible times.

Paul before King Agrippa and Festus, as recorded in the 26th chapter of Acts, was portrayed by three other members of the club. Horace Shaw represented King Agrippa, Walter Crandall, Festus, and John Osborn, the apostle Paul.

The South Hall girls were carried many leagues from W. M. C. last Wednesday night, through a verbal picture painted by Miss Helen Subers, when she described some of the scenes she had the privilege of viewing last summer while she was attending a librarians' convention in Rome.

She started at Rome, with its seven hills, its holy shrines, and monuments to art, and then spent a short time in romantic Naples with its labyrinths of lakes and rugged mountains. From there she returned to ancient Florence with all its medieval culture, not failing to visit the ruins of Pompeii, where a cultured and civilized people were completely obliterated by the eruption of Vesuvius.

Miss Subers spends most of her time visiting school libraries, and gives her services to making them more scientific and efficient. At present she is recataloguing the W. M. C. library.

PRESIDENT ADDRESSES PRE-MEDIC STUDENTS

"A century ago it was only the doctor, the lawyer and the clergyman who were educated, while today most of the American people are of the educated class," stated President H. H. Hamilton in an address delivered to the Medical Seminar Friday evening.

In explaining his statement, the speaker said that at that time the physician could speak a few words in Latin, and the patient would ask no questions. But now the doctor treats an educated class and people wish to understand disease. Hence he must be able to make careful explanations to them.

President Hamilton admonished students to shun the medical profession if they were seeking for fortune. He made a call for self-sacrificing service for humanity. He showed the physician's influence on his patients by telling a series of personal experiences.

CHRISTIAN HAPPINESS EXTOLLED BY M. V.'S

Four students spoke in a symposium on contentment, communion, comfort and satisfaction at the Missionary Volunteer Society's meeting last Friday evening, Jan. 31.

Miss Bertha Walton pointed out that contentment comes to one who is at peace with God and his fellow men. To be able to be content in whatever condition one finds himself is a great blessing. "Jesus' life was one of service, and He was content," she stated.

Paul Laurence spoke on communion with God, declaring that man should put a higher premium on prayer. He showed the stress reformers placed on prayer and the advantage of beginning each day by communion with God.

The importance and value of the spring of comfort in a Christian's life was emphasized by Miss Lucerne Collins.

Donald Stonier spoke on the satisfaction that comes from living a consistent Christian life and the false satisfaction which one experiences who lives a life of his own choosing.

Special music was supplied by the College male quartet. Its members are Millard Bradley, Horton McLennan, Melvin Davis and Vinston Adams.

FAMOUS FIFTY

The chaplain of the Famous Fifty, Dallas Youngs, conducted the worship service at North Hall last Thursday evening, Jan. 30.

The club was called to order by President Montgomery. The men of North Hall favored the motion of installing a new electric motor in their parlor Victrola. The rules committee was vested with power to purchase this equipment, providing the cost will not exceed $15.

The club's name was considered after a report made by James Trefz, chairman of the new name committee.

Girls Are Quizzed

A denominational quiz was a feature at a recent worship hour in South Hall. The girls of the north side and the girls of the south side of the room were alternately plied with questions on the names of conference presidents, outstanding department heads, and leaders of schools in the Seventh-day Adventist denomination. The highest number of correct answers was given by the south side.

SUNSHINE BAND VISITS DIXON HOME INMATES

The hearty way in which the inmates of the John Dixon Home joined in the singing of "There Is Sunlight in My Soul" was ample proof that the visit of the Sunshine Band was appreciated.

Following the opening song, James Ziegler read a Scripture selection and offered prayer. The program also included several vocal solos by Charles Dupee, a duet by the Misses Catherine Halstead and Iva Fairchild, and a saw solo played by Horton McLennan. A mixed quartet gave the closing number.
